Mr. William Rae, of Davidson, Sask., was in the city yesterday, the guest of Mr. Thomas Lee, former market clerk. Mr. Rae has half a section four miles from Davidson, which is a flourishing town of 600, located about 70 miles southeast of Saskatoon. The latter has about 7,000 inhabitants. Mr. Rae has been four years in the west, and has a half section. He had 135 acres under cultivation during the past year. He is an old Mariposa boy. He left Davidson on December 15th, and since then has been visiting in Mariposa, Lindsay, Brock, Toronto and other places. When he left there was no snow, and the weather was fine. Mr. Rae will return to the west next month.

"Yes, I am well pleased with the country," he remarked. "There are chances there for a poor man that there are not here. I know a number of Peterborough people in our district who are doing well. Mr. Ed. [illegible], formerly of your city, has the largest hardware store in Davidson, and others from Peterborough county have no reason to feel discouraged, despite the partial failure of the wheat crop last year. However, if this crop is not so good there are other compensations. The winter is not nearly so cold as in 1907, and there is not the suffering there created by the scarcity of fuel. The need of the latter was so great in Davidson last year that one hotel had to burn straw."

He had been ill for about eight weeks. Deceased was of a very quiet disposition, and thoroughly upright in all his dealings. He was a Liberal in politics, and in religion a Roman Catholic. He lived in Harvey 38 years. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and eight children — four boys and four girls. They are Mrs. Johnston, town; Mrs. Alex. Simpson, of Harvey; Mrs. James Simpson, of Winton, Minn., and Mrs. Richard Taylor of Whiterton. The sons are James, Michael and Fred, of Harvey, and Harry, of Minn. Has Received an Important Appointment

Peterboro' Boy is Assistant Electrical Inspector of Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association

The many friends and relatives of Mr. J. Arthur Hall, son of the late Frederic Hall, Deputy of Peterborough, and nephew of the present Sheriff, James A. Hall, will be pleased to hear that he has been appointed as Assistant Electrical Inspector to the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association in connection with the Toronto on head office of the Western division. Mr Hall was appointed solely on his own merit, having passed through the various stages of electrical construction work during the past eight years. Mr. Hall left Peterborough about twelve years ago, and was brought to Toronto by his brother-in-law, Mr. H. F. Strickland, who was at that time in the electrical business in Toronto, and having served three years with this firm, went away to the United States and has worked in most of the principal cities there. About four years ago Mr. Hall was married and returned to Toronto, where he has always held positions in connection with important electrical construction work, with several of the largest electrical firms doing business, and has now been appointed to the position referred to.

The Electrical Department of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association is under the management of Mr H. F. Strickland, also a Peterborough boy.

HAND AND ARM ENDANGERED

Zam-Buk Arrests Blood Poison

Neglect a cut or a scratch and it may turn to blood poisoning. Mr. Joseph Lalberti of 34 Artillerie St., Quebec, might have lost his hand and arm but for the timely use of Zam-Buk. He says "I cut one of my fingers on a rusty piece of tin and had no idea it would become so serious, but in two days blood poison had set in and my fingers became terribly discolored, and my hand and arm swollen. I was alarmed and began using one ointment after another, but none relieved me. I was about to consult a doctor when a friend advised me to try Zam-Buk. This I did. Zam-Buk began by drawing out the inflammation and in one week the wound was nicely healed. Since then I have had no healing balm in the house but Zam-Buk. I feel so grateful for my speedy cure that I unhesitatingly give my testimonial to the merits of Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk cures Cuts, Burns, Chapped Hands, Chafings, Cold Sores, Itch, Chilblains, Eczema, Running Sores, Sore Throat, Bad Chest, Ringworm, Piles (blind or bleeding), Bad Legs, Inflamed Patches, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Abscesses and all diseased, injured and irritated conditions of the skin. Of all druggists and stores, 50c., or post paid upon receipt of price, from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. a box, 6 boxes $2.50

Epworth League Meetings Held

There was a splendid Epworth League meeting held last night at George Street Methodist church. Rev. H. M. Manning gave an address on Missions. Mr. Albert Gray sang a solo, which was much appreciated. A business meeting was also held, at which each of the committee conveners presented a report.

MARK STREET.

The Mark Street Epworth League meeting was well attended last night. Rev. D. H. Coon gave a fine discourse on "Songs of the Heart," or How God Speaks to Men." There was a business meeting and reports of the different committees were read.

Wife is Again on Stand; Crowds in the Court Room

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw Again Tells Her Dramatic Story.

Justice Dowling Ruled That Testimony Must Be Given In Open Court—Witness and Jerome Have Several Sharp Exchanges — The Story Punctuated by Objections From the Lawyers.

New York, Jan. 21.—Mrs. Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw told her story yesterday for the second time. The repetition lacked the vitality of the first recital, but the great crowd in the courtroom where her husband, Harry K. Thaw, is on trial for the killing of Stanford White, listened intently to every word. Justice Dowling had ruled that he found no warrant in the law for closing the doors against the public, and there was a great clamor for admittance from a throng which hung about the building all day long. District Attorney Jerome, failing in his move to exclude spectators, took occasion when it came his turn to cross-examine the witness to bring out all the details of the first trial, which Mr. Littleton of the defence had omitted on his direct enquiry of the witness. Mr. Jerome also sought to block Mrs. Thaw's testimony, in its entirety on the ground that a conversation which occured three years before the tragedy could not have any bearing on Thaw's mental condition the night of the homicide. Justice Dowling over-ruled the objection. Mrs. Thaw was on the stand all day long, and Mr. Jerome announced, when adjournment for the day was taken, that his cross-examination would occupy a greater part of to-day's sessions.

Mrs. Thaw's story was broken into by constantly rejected objections from the prosecutor, who sought to exclude all details on the ground of immateriality. The frequent objections led Justice Dowling to request Mr. Littleton to cut his examination as short as possible. Mr. Littleton took this course, only to find that on cross-examination Mr. Jerome insisted upon reading from last year's record nearly every word the witness then had uttered. He did this under the privilege of framing new questions.

Did Not Disguise Contempt.

Mr. Littleton objected to it, declaring that the district attorney by reading the former testimony in a disagreeable manner was trying to discredit the witness in the eyes of the jury when he could not discredit her in any way by a direct question. Mr. Jerome made no attempt to disguise a tone of complete contempt in reading the testimony.

Contempt also characterized most of the questions he put to the witness, whom he attacked in the loudest voice he has yet used at the trial. Mr. Jerome plunged at once into the more intimate details of the testimony, and made no delicate choice of words in framing his interrogations.

Mr. Littleton's objections on the ground of offensiveness and impropriety frequently were sustained by the court.

Mrs. Thaw matched witnesses against District Attorney Jerome and his assistant, Mr. Garvan, who was ever at his chief's elbow with new suggestions. She fenced with them as skillfully as she did a year ago, and at times reflected the mood of the district attorney by answering him in a voice pitched in as loud a key as his own. The prosecutor's pitiless and aggressive questions often struck fire, and once when Mr. Jerome demanded to know if the young woman had told Thaw certain things, she replied hotly: "Yes, I told him, but I didn't use the language you are using."

"Don't argue with me, madame," shouted Jerome, who then had the reply stricken from the record.

But one new feature appeared in the testimony of the witness. This was when she told about Thaw swallowing the contents of a bottle of laudanum at Monte Carlo in 1904, in an attempt to end his life. Previous to this, at the Grand Hotel in New York, Thaw had talked of suicide, his wife declared, and had suggested that she also should take poison, as both their lives had been ruined. Mrs. Thaw said she humored Thaw at the time and diverted his mind. She was out of the room when he finally took the poison in Europe.

"Why didn't you tell us about this at the first trial?" demanded Mr. Jerome.

"Because Mr. Delmas said it might make Harry out too crazy," the witness retorted before the district attorney could stop her.

Proposition to Change the System of Street Lighting

Enclosed arc Lamps May Replace Those Now in Use—Mr. Larmonth Appears Before City Council.

All the members of the City Council, except Ald. Neill, were present at last night's meeting. Mayor Rush was in the chair, and several rather important matters were dealt with. In complaiance to the request, Mr. J. H. Larmonth, manager of the Peterborough Light & Power Company, appeared before the council and gave some interesting information regarding the proposed change in the system of street lighting.

Mr. Larmonth said he did not know why the streets were not properly lighted, unless the lights were not what they should be. Two years ago the Light & Power Company had requested the city council to grant permission to change their system of street lighting. A deputation was appointed to visit several other places when the system had been changed. The Fire, Water and Light committee had recommended three times that permission to change the system but each time the matter had been referred back to the committee for further consideration. The only reason why the change had not been made was that some members of the council had stated that the company was going to make some money on the deal, and thought that the city should get a share of what was going to be made. Mr. Larmonth stated that it would cost less to operate the new lights, but he did not see why the city should benefit thereby if they were given a better lighting service. He knew that the Fire, Water and Light Committee, which had taken up the matter before, were satisfied that the new light was superior to the old lamp, the one in use at present.

Ald. Elliott asked if the system was changed, would the company place the lamps in the middle of the streets.

Mr. Larmonth stated that the company would put the lamps out toward the centre of the street where the trees were thick at the sides and hid the lights in summer.

Ald Morgan said the company had a contract with the city and they should live up to it.

Ald Turner said that it was reasonable to suppose that there had been improvements in electrical lighting apparatus, and it was not unlikely that the enclosed arc lamp was superior to the old style now in use.

On motion of Ald. Phelan and Morrow the question was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee, to be reported on at the next meeting of the Council.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

The chairman of the Board, Mr. Richard Hall, presented the following report:—

Trustees Nicholls Hospital Trust;

Gentlemen,—The secretary-treasurer's report, which is now presented to you will give all necessary details as to the receipts and expenditures of the hospital for the year 1907.

You are well aware that the increased cost of provisions of all kinds must increase considerably the cost per day for maintenance of patients, but it has been our endeavor to give the best possible food to those entrusted to our care, and we have therefore not spared expense in catering to the needs of the patients.

The interior of the hospital has within a short time been thoroughly painted, giving the various wards a bright, cheery appearance.

The question of house furnishings has been carefully considered and a liberal supply of linen, etc., has been procured, which is very essential to the comfort of our patients.

The medical staff and nursing staff have been most faithful in their various duties, and the kindly consideration of the medical staff, who give their services gratuitously to the indigent patients, is worthy of the highest commendation.

Miss De La Mater continues to perform her duties as Lady Superintendent in a very efficient manner. The hospital under her guidance is deservedly popular.

During the year Miss Helen Coleman, who was a very acceptable head nurse in the hospital for some years, resigned to accept a position in the West. Her successor has not yet been appointed, the matter having been left in the hands of the Lady Superintendent to recommend a successor.

It is with feelings of great gratification that I note in the balance sheet such figures as will lead me to suppose our hospital will be self-sustaining in the future through the action of the trustees of the Estate of the late Mrs. Nicholls in giving the residue of the estate to the Hospital. I feel that the city has just cause to be grateful and to revere her memory.

The good work of the Hospital, I trust, will go on with increased success and ever be a monument to her who in her life time was such a staunch friend both in spirit and substance to the institution bearing her name.

Mr. Mahoney and Engineer Differ in Their Figures

Regarding Amount of Matterial Used in Filling up the River Front—Measurements Will be Taken Again.

A meeting of the Board of Works was held last night, when a large amount of business was put through. Ald. Phelan, chairman, was in the chair, and the others present were Mayor Rush, Ald. Tovey, Buller, Elliott, Morgan, McIntyre and Bradburn.

A report was read from Commissioner Evans, regarding the machinery and tools owned by the city. He recommended that there be purchased a knife for the grader, a watering cart and teeth for the scraper.

It was moved by Ald. Morgan, seconded by Ald. Buller, that the chairman be authorized to dispose of the old waggons, and purchase a new waggon, and to procure knives for the grader and teeth for the scraper.—Carried.

Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the chairman inquire into the matter of procuring a new watering cart—Carried.

Ald. Elliott and Tovey moved that the chairman be authorized to have the water waggons painted and prepared for work.—Carrried.

Ald. Morgan and Bradburn moved that no street be graded with broken stone until the water mains and sewers have been laid.—Carried.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn and Tovey, it was decided to ask the city solicitor to advise the board as to the power of the Peterborough Light and Power Co. to open streets without first coming to the city council to get permission.

Ald. Tovey and McIntyre moved that the chairman, city engineer and street commissioner be authorized to purchase 800 cords of stone from ratepayers, at a price not exceeding $3.00 per cord, and that they be paid on certificate of the city engineer.—Carried.

Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Buller, that James McCullough, who was injured while working for the city, be paid at the rate of half his wages for seven weeks if he is unable to return to work for that time.

A communication was received from Mr. E. Hickey, asking that the snow plow be run in front of his house on Bethune street.

On motion of Ald. Morgan and Bradburn, it was decided to let Mr. Hickey have the use of a snow plow and let him clean the portion of the street requested.

Mr. D. Mahoney waited on the Board of Works in regard to a misunderstanding between himself and City Engineer Hay regarding the amount of clay placed by Mr. Mahoney in filling up the river front. The engineer estimates the amount at about 14,000 yards, while Mr. Mahoney claims that the amount should be 19,514 yards.

Mr. Hay stated that his measurements had been taken most accurately, and he had given Mr. Mahoney credit for every bit of material that had been placed.

Mr. Mahoney said that the figures he gave were secured from the engineer at the dredge, who was prepared to swear to their accuracy.

Ald. Morgan said it might be well to have the measurements taken over again in order to satisfy Mr. Mahoney. He was sure Mr. Mahoney and Mr. Hay both wanted to do what was fair.

Ald. Buller said that if Mr. Mahoney would get an engineer of his own, and have him measure the clay again, and if he could prove to the city's engineer that he was wrong, that the city pay for Mr. Mahoney's engineer; if Mr. Mahoney was found to be wrong, he should pay his own engineer.

It was decided that Mr. Mahoney secure an engineer of his own to go over the work with Mr. Hay, and endeavor to come to an agreement. Mr. Mahoney will pay his own engineer.

Many Members of Public Library Favor a Carnegie Institution

Annual Meeting of Peterborough Library Held Last Evening—Encouraging Reports Read—Several Expressed Their Views on Proposed New Building.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Public Library was held last night when a large number of the members were present. Reports were read and the chief feature of the gathering was the lively discussion on the proposed Carnegie library for this city. The president, Dr. Burnham, was in the chair and opened the meeting with the reading of the 39th annual report of the Board of management:

Your Board of Management beg to present for the consideration of the members their 39th annual report of the affairs of the Public Library.

There were not many changes in the library during the year 1907, but there were plenty of rumors of changes to take place. Mr. Richard Hall, trustee of the Nicholls estate, made an offer to the City Council of the building situated on Simcoe street, and formerly occupied by Richard Hall & Son, as a departmental store, for use as a Nicholls' free library to be fitted up and adapted to the purpose at the expense of the city. For some reason the offer was not accepted, and a new one was later made by which the building, a very fine one and centrally located, but not exactly suitable for library purposes, was deeded to the city with permission either to use for the purpose, or if preferred to sell it, and apply the proceeds for the library. Another proposition brought before the City Council was to apply to Mr. Andrew Carnegie, for a sufficient sum to erect a suitable building, and to use the proceeds of the Hall building for endowment purposes. No definite action has as yet been come to on the subject.

While we greatly appreciate the liberal gift of the trustees of the Nicholls estate, we find that the rumors have had a tendency to diminish our membership, as many when their tickets expired declined to renew them, as they expected before long to get the books without money and without price.

For a number of years there has been a gradual but steady increase in the number of members, but for reasons given, there has been, we are sorry to say, a decrease for the last year, and the number of books issued has also been less than usual.

Your Board however, has not failed to keep up the supply of good and interesting reading matter both in the library and in the reading rooms.

The large number of 72 magazines and periodicals besides 15 daily and weekly newspapers, have been placed on the tables or fyles in the reading rooms, and 192 new books added to the library. Among the latter are new and complete sets of the standard authors, Scott, the Bronte Sisters, Victor Hugo and Geo. Meredith.

Owing to the death of Mr. Wm. Pringle, and the removal from the city of Mr. D. Walker, the Board has lost two much respected and highly esteemed members since our last annual meeting.

The following lists show the number of volumes purchased last year, the number in the library and also the numbers issued:—

The following gentlemen were appointed directors for the ensuing year: Dr. Burnham, chairman, Messrs. John Corkery, secretary-treas., T. A. S. Hay, J. S. Knapman, Jas. English, W. H. Hill, T. C. Elliott, L. M. Hayes, H. A. Yenney.

Following the business of the evening a discussion in which nearly every one present expressed his opinions, took place. It was along the lines as to whether Peterborough should ask Carnegie for a grant to build a free library. Mr. John Butcher was the first to express his views. He favored the proposal to have a Carnegie library and thought that it would be the wise thing for this city to accept $30,000 for the building for a free library. Mr. T. C. Elliott in giving his opinion was quite the reverse to Mr. Butcher. He strongly opposed taking money from Carnegie. It would be unmanly, as Canadians, to accept a library from him. He had no objection to local people giving grants to such a purpose. Mr. Aldridge expressed himself as favorable to a Carnegie library.

Canon Davidson was asked to state his views in the matter. "Certainly my instincts are against a Carnegie library," said Mr. Davidson. He did not uphold the principle that "money is money." Considering where the money comes from in this case he personally could not endorse such a move on the part of the city. However, if the citizens were agreeable to having a Carnegie library then they should have it. However, he believed that a library conducted the way it is at present, each paying a small fee, was the best. When it becomes free people will not appreciate it nearly as much.

Mr. J. S. Knapman said that he had during the past year visited four or five Carnegie libraries. They were very fine institutions and had a large number of readers. He was not so much in favor of a Carnegie library if one could be built without this grant. He could see no harm in taking $30,000 from Carnegie.

Mr. Wm. English was the next to make a few remarks. He was utterly opposed to receiving Carnegie's money. He wouldn't advise it. He was of the opinion that it would bring bad luck to the city if Peterborough accepted this "gambled" money.

Mr. W. H. Hill thought that this city should have a free library and he favored asking Carnegie for a grant. If Peterborough wanted a free library they would have to issue debentures for $30,000, and it would cost from three to five thousand dollars a year to maintain it. A great many people found fault with Carnegie, but he had amassed his wealth just the same as any other millionaire. He came to the United States from Scotland. England, Canada and Ontario had all receive a portion of his wealth. He did not think Peterborough would in any way be humbled in accepting a grant from Carnegie.

Mr. Prettie thought that the moral example of Rockefeller and Carnegie was not worthy of following. The wretched railways they have built were discreditable and disgraceful.

Mr. John Nugent was also favorable to a Carnegie library being built in the city. Mr. Carnegie was a British subject, being a Scotchman by birth. He thought that poor people would be benefitted by a free library.

The meeting then adjourned.

Will be a Contestant in Big Six Day Walking Event Commencing on Feb. 24th.

Mr. David Hartley has accepted the invitation to be one of the competitors in the six day walking contest which commences at Kansas City on February 24th, under the auspices of the Missouri Athletic Club. He will at once start to get into shape for the event, and no doubt will be well up towards the front when the gruelling grind is finished. The contest lasts for six days of twelve hours per day. Mr. Hartley has received the following letter from the secretary of the Missouri Club.

D. Hartley, Peterborough, Canada;

Your letter received; hope you will enter; this is going to be a big thing, and the winner will get a big chunk of money.

Respectfully,
W. D. SCOVILLE.

Local Curlers Go to Orillia

Peterborough curlers will be represented at the Orillia bonspiel by four rinks. They had a practice in the rink here this morning before leaving, and although they have been hindered by the late fire they are in fairly good shape. The rinks which went out this morning should bring credit to this city. They were as follows:

Wm. J. Thompson.
R. Davidson—Skip.
H. Lovekin.
J. E. A. Fitzgerald

Whitby Defeated Strathconas by 8-1

Whitby, Jan. 20.—(Special)—An O. H. A. match was played here tonight between Peterborough and Whitby, the home team coming off victorious by a score of 8 to 3. The ice was soft, preventing fast play, although some good hockey was handed out by both teams.

The game was rough, both sides being penalized very much. In the first half Moore sprained his ankle, and Paquette went off the ice to even up. In the second half Watson was hit on the head, and the game was finished with five men a side. Referee Noxon was entirely impartial, and gave good satisfaction.

The teams were;

Whitby.		Peterborough
	Goal.
Huntley		Derocher
	Point.
Smith		Meyers
	Cover point.
Gould		Moore
	Rover.
A. Blanchard		Parnell
	Center.
Paquette		McWilliams
	R. Wing.
Watson		McMillan
	L. Wing.
C. Blanchard		Weatherstone

This puts the Straths out of the running.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES TO-MORROW NIGHT AT BROCK ST. RINK

One of the best local games of the season should be the contest to-morrow night when High Lifes and Lakefield clash at Brock Street rink. Both teams are playing first-class hockey, and it's taking a long chance to pick a winner. The bunch from Lakefield are showing excellent form, and much depends on the result of the game. Norwood and Bridgenorth are the sevens that will furnish the second game. While to everyone who follows city league hockey, Norwood looks good to win, at the same time the septette from the northern hamlet may be looked to give the wearers of the green and red a good argument.

Band to-night at Street Railway Rink.

HOCKEY

SHOULD BE GREAT GAME.

A game between Renfrew and Pembroke Friday evening was witnessed by a crowd of 2000 spectators. This is about the size of the gathering Lindsay intermediates should have next Friday evening, when they play Peterborough Strathconas on Lindsay Street rink.—Lindsay Post.

Good skating and large band at Brock Street Rink to-night.

Sporting Comment

The wings of the Lindsay Post's rooster need trimming. Not content with crowing over everything in the district over the big Midgets, the Lindsay bird is desirous of getting into higher company, and comes out with the following:

"Evidently the old fever has broken out between the hockey experts of the two leading Peterborough papers, the Review and Examiner. Go it, gentlemen! When you get thoroughly expert the Post's team will take the conceit out of you, as they did last year."

The Review is busy just at the present time with the bunch who live and have their being in a New Ontario shack on George street. When we are through with them we may turn our eyes towards the Land of Mud—if there are enough of us left.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux Tells About Mission to Japan

Japan Undertakes to Prohibit Contract Laborers Landing.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux Reports to Parliament on the Result of His Oriental Tour—Japanese Students and Tourists to Have Open Sesame—Baron Hayashi's Official Letter Read in the House.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General and Minister of Labor, announced in the House yesterday morning the result of his mission to Tokio to confer with the Japanese Government with regard to the immigration of laborers from that country to Canada. He read a letter from Baron Hayashi, Japanese Foreign Minister, giving assurance of the Mikado's Government that Japan will prohibit the emigration of contract laborers (artisans included) to Canada, but students, merchants and tourists will be permitted to come in.

"In this letter," observed Mr. Lemieux, "the Minister of Foreign Affairs gives Canada the official assurance that the Imperial Government have decided to take efficient means to restrict emigration from Japan. It will be asked at once, 'What are these efficient means and where is the guarantee of that restriction?' My answer is that during the course of our conference a series of most stringent regulations accompanied by instructions addressed to the local governors and to the consuls in Canada were adopted. I can assure the House that the British ambassador and myself are satisfied that these regulations are sufficient for our purpose, and that they will be honestly enforced by the Foreign Office at Tokio.

Contract Laborers Excluded.

"There is, however, one feature of these regulations which I am authorized to make public. As a result of the negotiations all emigration of contract laborers (artisans included) is now prohibited, unless they come at the request of the Dominion Government. This means that hereafter such companies as the Nippon Supply Co. of Vancouver will be unable to cooperate with the emigration companies of Japan in sending labor under contract to this country. Of course, bonafide students, merchants and tourists from Japan will, as before, continue to enjoy the freedom of entrance into the Dominion.

Stops Hawaiian Emigration.

"As regards emigration from the Hawaiian Islands, the question is settled. The Japanese Government have control over immigration coming from Honolulu to Canada. Our Alien Labor Act provides against the importation of contract labor from the United States; Hawaii is an American possession, and, therefore, our act applies. If its provisions are not found sufficient to meet all requirements they can be amended accordingly.

"It may not be necessary to amend our Alien Labor Act, in view of a recent order-in-council prohibiting immigrants from landing or coming into Canada unless they come from the country of their birth or citizenship by a continuous journey and on through tickets, purchased before leaving the country of their birth or citizenship. This regulation applies to the Atlantic and Pacific ports, and applies indiscriminately to all countries. It will exclude the Hindoos.

Avenues Closed or Guarded.

"With the avenue from Japan carefully guarded," said Mr. Lemieux, "and the avenue from Hawaii completely closed, I can announce to the country that we have eliminated from this issue any features that could give rise to apprehension of any future trouble in regard to Oriental immigration.

"The emigration companies that are responsible for the influx into British Columbia," continued Mr. Lemieux, "had been practically suppressed by the new regulation requiring an increased deposit with the Government. Many of the essential details of the arrangement," he said, "was for reasons of state, prevented from being unfolded.

But Two Alternatives.

"After all, there were but two alternatives—Canada must accept this arrangement or abrogate the treaty. The latter course would involve the delay of giving six months' notice. Besides, it would mean to Canada the loss of important commercial advantages with a market of 50,000,000 people. To impose a poll-tax of $500 on Japanese was contrary to Canada's policy towards Japan, and would rightly be resented by that country, which had risen to a high level of civilization and had become a great world power, besides involving a serious breach in a treaty of alliance between the Mother Country and Japan.

"The dignified assurance given by Count Hayashi on behalf of his Government," said the Minister, "is a solemn engagement which Canada is bound to accept in good faith. The fact that it is given of her own free will will make it the more binding on Japan."

Was a Delicate Task.

Mr. Lemieux reminded the House that his was a delicate task, and the issue was not of a party but a national issue. An ill word that might elicit commendation on this side of the ocean would have perhaps a contrary effect in Japan, where public opinion is as sensitive as in Canada. Nothing should be said, therefore, to unduly embarrass a friendly Government.

The Night Session.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier last night accepted an amendment of R. L. Borden's to the motion to go into supply, admitting the right of representatives of the people to demand the production of original documents.

Mr. Borden said it was the practice in England for Parliament to refuse supply until the fullest information asked for was given. He quoted authorities on Parliamentary procedure to show that the Government could not properly refuse to produce documents, with a few exceptions, such as secret papers of state.

Sir Wilfrid said it was laid down in the rules that when papers are moved for the mover must give reasons that the House may judge of the expedience of granting the motion. If Mr. Ames had given his reasons the request would have been granted.

Mr. Foster quoted from Mr. Ames' speech, where in that hon. member said that as to nine pages of the document of 450 pages, he would like to clear up doubts, to have the privilege of seeing the originals. Yet the reply of the Government was, "make your charge and swear to it and we will take it into consideration whether we will let you have the original document or not."

Mr. Ames, not having access to the originals, could not say the copies differed from them. "You won't give him access to the originals. You would force him to get them by lying."

Mr. Oliver, in support of his contention that the original documents were liable to be lost if brought down to the House, said that two years ago documents produced on the order of Mr. Foster had never been returned to the Department.

Mr. Foster facetiously replied that he certainly had not stolen them.

Duncan Ross, Dr. Chisholm, W. B. Northrup, Edmund Bristol and A. C. Boyce also spoke.

When the ayes and nays were counted, Government members vocally negatived the proposition, but Sir Wilfrid asked the Speaker to declare the ayes had it and a division was not taken.

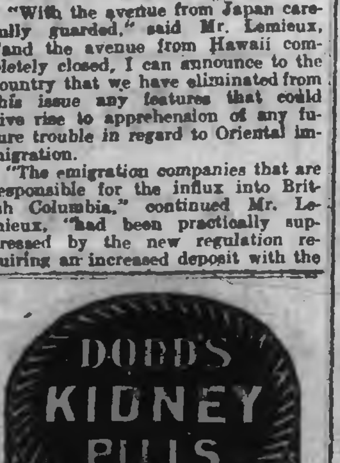
Winnipeg Union Terminal.

Montreal, Jan. 22.—Messrs. William Mackenzie and D. D. Mann of the Canadian Northern, and Charles M. Hays, and F. W. Morse of the Grand Trunk Pacific were in conference all day yesterday over the union terminals at Winnipeg. The report was made late last evening that the details had been about arranged, and that operations would be started in the spring upon the terminals, which are said to be the most extensive and complete on the continent.

The Canadian Northern magnates returned to Toronto last evening.

$1,000 Fire In Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 22.—Fire of unknown origin broke out in the rear of the basement of the building occupied by the Dominion School Supply Co., 20 Temperance street, at 9.30 o'clock last night. The building was damaged to the extent of $1,000. This is fully covered by insurance. C. W. Bengough is the owner.



POLICE FOUGHT MEN

Attacked 2,000 Unemployed With Their Sabres.

Men Entrenched Themselves Behind Piles of Tiles and Threw Missiles at Officers of the Law—Wild Scene Follows Explosion—Many Arrests Made, and Citizens Scattered to Side Streets.

Berlin, Jan. 22—There was a serious collision late yesterday between the police of this city and a number of unemployed, who, earlier in the day, had attended one of the mass meetings organized and addressed by the Socialists. The police used their sabres when the crowd hurled missiles at them, and before order was restored many men were wounded.

The demonstrants, when they encountered the police, were marching down the Schiffbauerdamm, near the Lustgarten. The authorities tried to disperse them. The men at once took up a position around several piles of tiles before a new theatre building, and began hurling the tiles at the police. The policemen were at once reinforced by a mounted detachment, which charged the crowd with drawn sabres. The men scattered and fled, but not before many had been injured.

At the height of the encounter there was heard a detonation, which undoubtedly was some sort of a firecracker set off by a boy. The police, however, came to the conclusion that a revolver had been fired, and on foot they drove the manifestants, numbering 2,000, mostly young men and boys, into the mounted squad, and the latter made most vicious use of their weapons.

A number of men were arrested, and the remainder scattered to the side streets in the vicinity.

WILL BE FIREWORKS.

Former Manager of Sovereign Bank Will Not Be Made Scapegoat.

Montreal, Jan. 22.—When Mr. Stewart was told that the blame of the Sovereign Bank trouble was being placed upon his shoulders, he intimated that the lid was on, in so far as he was concerned, for the present, but later—well, Dominion Day fireworks would perhaps not be a circumstance. He suggested that whenever anything unexpected and nasty happened a scapegoat was the first thing looked for after the smoke cleared away. In this instance, however, the scapegoat had no desire to bring himself into any unnecessary prominence by flaring up with vituperations, attacks and personal insults against the person who had sought to drive home the blow which had been aimed to knock him out completely and for all time.

Suicide In Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 22.—John Beagman, 46 years, committed suicide by taking two ounces of carbolic acid at 9.30 o'clock last night. He was found by Detective N. Guthrie on a doorstep at Princess and Front streets in a dying condition. He was taken to St. Michael's Hospital in the police ambulance, but died before reaching the hospital.

Beagman was employed in the poultry department of M. P. Mallon's meat store at the market. He lived with his sister at 4 Ontario place. He had been drinking for several days.

Says He Saw Lost Steamer.

Seattle, Jan. 22.—A deserting sailor from the Norwegian steamship Tyrea, Bellingham to Australia, reports that the Tyrea sighted the missing British ship Hartfield Wednesday last, 40 miles inside the straits, east of Cape Flattery. She was on her beam ends, and her forward ensign inverted as a distress signal. She seemed uncontrollable. Seven hours after she was sighted the wind changed to northeast and the vessel was blown out to sea.

Favors the Canteen.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Major-Gen. Bell, chief of staff, after an exhaustive investigation, reports in favor of re-establishing the army canteen.

He also reports a complete plan for the reorganization of the army so as to enable the President to be able to mobolize 66,000 men without denuding every military station and absolutely breaking up the United States peace system of organization and administration.

Points to Murder?

Chatham, Jan. 21.—A new feature has developed in the Bloomfield mystery, in the discovery that there are no blood stains in the room of the shanty in which the unknown dead man was found one week ago yesterday. The theory now advanced is that the man must have been murdered and afterwards dragged or carried into the room in which he was found.

Conductor's Death.

Port Huron, Mich., Jan. 22.—J. B. Jones, former Grand Trunk conductor of this city, who has been acting division superintendent for the Canadian Pacific Railroad, died suddenly of heart failure while on a train coming to Port Huron. He had been sick in Calgary for some time.

Trampled by Heifer.

Peterboro, Jan. 22.—Jas. Jackson, an employe of H. P. Kennedy, butcher, is lying at the point of death as the result of being trampled upon by a heifer, into whose stall he entered to take her to a slaughter house. His face is badly injured and serious abdominal injuries are feared.

Scaffold Fell; Two Injured.

Galt, Jan. 22.—By the collapsing of a scaffold at the Goldie & McCulloch works yesterday, Charles Price and John Walton fell 20 feet and were badly injured.

NO CHINESE CHILDREN.

Vancouver School Board Refuses to Accept Them as Pupils.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—A complaint has been made to the comptroller of Chinese Benevolent Society of Vancouver in regard to the refusal of the public school board of that city to allow twenty young Chinese boys to attend the public school at that city.

The lads are between five and twelve years of age, and came to Canada between May and August of last year, paying the head tax of $500 each. Provided they attend a public school for twelve consecutive months the head tax is returned, according to law, but the refusal of the school board has complicated matters, and the lads have had to be sent to a private school.

The Chinese Benevolent Society wants to know whether the time spent at a private school, pending the decision of the courts as to whether the lads may attend the public school, will count in the statutory time within which the remission of the head tax may be earned.

BLACK HAND BUSY.

Three Bombs Exploded In New York With Sinister Designs.

New York, Jan. 22.—The explosion of three bombs yesterday attested to the activity of the so-called Black Hand gangs which extort money from the Italians in this city.

One bomb was exploded evidently by mistake in front of the home garden settlement at 116th street and First avenue. It blew in the doors and windows and smashed every window in several tenement blocks across the street, but injured no one.

Another bomb was exploded in the hallway of a tenement in East 13th street, the owner of which had received letters demanding $5,000. The building was damaged, but the tenants were uninjured.

A milk wagon ran over a third bomb which was lying in East 149th street. It exploded and partially demolished the wagon. The driver was unhurt.

SEVEN-YEAR SENTENCE.

Forger Claims to Have Wealthy Relatives In the United States.

Hamilton, Jan. 22.—Judge Snider yesterday morning sentenced H. T. Wesson, who was arrested here recently in the Merchants' Bank while in the act of cashing a forged check for $450 on the Dineen Co. of Toronto, to seven years in Kingston Penitentiary. The prisoner pleaded guilty to seven separate charges of forgery, three of which had the uttering of forged checks tacked on them.

Wesson said he had wealthy and respected relatives in Jackson City, Tenn. Last September he went to Toronto, and took over the publication of The White Lyre. Wesson swore that another man, whom he named, superintended the issuing of the forged checks and received half the profits. He took the sentence coolly.

No Call For Artisans.

London, Jan. 22.—(C.A.P.)—W. R. Trotter addressed fraternal greeting on behalf of Canada to the Labor Congress at Hull. He emphasized the entire absence of demand for skilled artisans in the Dominion and pointed out that emigration agencies who were carrying on a propaganda were unauthorised by the Dominion Government. In every city in Canada there were unemployed. The Salvation Army ought to come into the open as emigration touts. Mr. Trotter believed the solution of the unemployed question in Great Britain was not to be found in emigration.

Prison For Forming Trust.

Columbus, O., Jan. 22.—The Supreme Court yesterday passed upon the case of the three ice dealers of Toledo, R. C. Lemon, R. O. Beard and J. A. Miller, who were sent to the workhouse as punishment for forming an ice trust.

The Supreme Court interferes with the sentences only so far as to hold that they should have been sentenced to jail instead of the workhouse, and they are ordered to be re-sentenced.

They were given a year's sentence by Judge Kincade of the lower court and a fine of $5,000.

Bottle Dashed From Lips.

Stratford, Jan. 22.—An unknown young woman boarder at the Cabinet Hotel attempted suicide yesterday by swallowing a quantity of carbolic acid. She was caught with a bottle at her lips and the poison dashed from her grasp. With the use of antidotes she was partially restored and will likely recover. Mental aberration is assigned as the cause.

Berlin Socialists Meet.

Berlin, Jan. 22.—Five mass meetings of the unemployed, organized by the Socialists, were held yesterday. Fully 15,000 men were in attendance. Strong detachments of police, armed with sabres and revolvers, were stationed in the vicinity. The meetings passed off in a most orderly manner.

Tramps Make a Haul.

Lancaster, Jan. 22.—Yesterday morning about 3 o'clock, two tramps, who had been all Monday evening loitering about town and begging for help to get to Toronto, found entrance to the G. T. R. ticket office here and annexed the contents of the till to the extent of about $30.

St. Andrew's Mission Ends To-night Meetings Have Been Well Attended

The Addresses Have all Been of a Very Impressive and Inspiring Character—Farewell Meeting in the Church To-night—Mr. Allan Will Continue His Tour Through the Colonies.

In face of the weather conditions a very large congregation greeted the Rev. Mr. Allan last night in St. Andrew's church. The song service was exceedingly bright. Mr. G. W. Mulligan's solo, "The Cross of Calvary," was most appropriate to the address of the evening and was greatly appreciated by all present.

Mr. Allan's address was based upon Luke xxii., 31, 32: "Simon, Simon, behold Satan hath desired to have you that he might sift you as wheat, but I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not."

Mr. Allan dealt with Peter's mistake, Peter's fall and Peter's restoration. Peter was very ready to promise what he would do for his Lord, but he had not taken into account the hostile forces that were playing all around him. He was possessed of a sort of hypnotic deception—a self delusion. Christ saw in Peter his misconception of his own weakness, and a miscalculation of the temporary forces about him. These hostile forces Christ sums up in the person of Satan. Mr. Allan was convinced that every failure was due to an underestimating of the forces of the enemy. This was the greatest blunder in the South African war. The word devil in the Greek was diabolus and referred to a wily, tricky, deceiving character, and it was therefore necessary to watch the tricks of the evil one, if we would escape total defeat.

Three things caused his fall: 1, his fear of the taunts of a servant lassie; 2: his own pride and impulsiveness; 3, his ignorance of the contending forces and his yielding to his moral stupor.

Three things saved and restored him, 1, the look of Jesus in the judgment hall—a look of disappointment; 2, the retirement of Gethsemane, when during that night Christ had agonized for them; 3, the prayer of Jesus.

Mr. Allan appealed to his hearers that they, too, should always live in the strength of that threefold victory gaining force—the look, the blood and the prayer of Jesus.

Mr. Allan closes his mission to-night. There will be a song service at 7.45 and everybody is invited to hear the evangelist's farewell words. The meetings have all been of a most uplifting and instructive character, and have been attended by a large number of the most intelligent Christian people in Peterborough. Mr. Allan's addresses and afternoon Bible studies have all been of a very high order, and his visit will result in a deepening of spiritual life, a deep reverence for the means of grace, a greater love for the scriptures, and a more intense zeal for the carrying out of the policy and purpose of the founder and inspirer of the Christian Church.

The thank offering for the Rev. Mr. Allan will be given at tonight's service.

Fined for Giving Liquor to Minor

At the county police court before County Police Magistrate Edmison this morning William Curtin was fined $10 and costs, amounting to a fraction over $17 for giving liquor to a minor.

The case was enlarged from a week ago to-day when a young fellow by the name of Trude, gave evidence saying that Curtain had given him liquor.

Mr. O. A. Langley, of Lakefield, who appeared for the defence, admitted the offense, but said it was not committed with any knowledge that an infraction of the law was being made. He had asked young Trude to stay all night and he had taken the liquor from the bottle himself.

"I think you were well advised in taking the stand you have," said the Court.

The point that he boy had been given beer by his father, was brought up, but it was contended that the father only gave it to him for medicinal purposes. The magistrate was, however, inclined to take a lenient view of the case and imposed the minimum fine of $10 and costs.

END NOW IN SIGHT

Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw Concluded the Telling of Her Story.

Thaw's Fate Will Be In the Hands of the Jury Next Week—Defence Submit Letters Which Strengthen Plea of Insanity — Jerome Was Much Quieter and Verbal Battle With Witness Took Place.

New York, Jan. 22.—District Attorney Jerome's long and severe cross-examination of Mrs. Evelyn Thaw at the trial of her husband came to an end late yesterday.

The attorneys for the defence then succeeded in placing in evidence a letter written by the defendant in the fall of 1903, which completely corroborated the claim that the girl, who was to become his wife, did tell him the story of her relations with Stanford White, much as she has related it upon the stand at this and the former trial.

This letter was one of a dozen which were read to the jury as tending to corroborate young Mrs. Thaw's testimony and as further tending to show the effects her story had on the defendant's mind. Most of these letters were read to the jury in the former trial, and were considered as one of the strongest bits of evidence in the hands of the defence. Mr. Jerome objected to their introduction in the record, but was overruled by Justice Dowling after Thaw himself had made a waiver of the confidential relation of counsel and client, when Frederick W. Longfellow, his former attorney, appeared on the stand to identify the letters.

Mr. Jerome was much quieter in his handling of young Mrs. Thaw on the stand yesterday and his voice lacked the high, hard pitch which filled te court room the day before. The cross-examination resolved itself for a time into a verbal battle between prosecutor and witness, and there were several lively tilts which ended only when Justice Dowling took a hand.

The defence hopes to close its case by Friday night. A week later Thaw's fate should be in the hands of the jury.

ALDERMEN HOT.

Demand Retraction of Caustic Comment by Kingston Teacher.

Kingston, Jan. 22.—Members of the City Council are hot over remarks made by Principal W. G. Ellis of the Collegiate Institute in an address on "Honest Clean Citizenship." He is reported to have said men got into council to manage thousands of dollars who could not manage a $500 grocery.

The poor men in council prevented good men going into the arena. Men were also put on the school board to manage thousands of children who could not run their own families.

A resolution was solemnly passed in council calling on the council's representatives on the board of education to demand an explanation and public retraction.

Estate 100 Years In Trust.

Freeport, Ill., Jan. 22.—The will of Daniel C. Stover, manufacturer of windmills, who died last Friday, leaving an estate of $1,000,000, was filed last evening. It provides that the estate be held in trust during the lives of Mrs. Stover's two children, Porter S. Speeches were delivered by Mr. McIntyre, M.P. for South Perth; Thomas Ballantyne, ex-Speaker of the Legislature, and the candidate.

Is She Wife or Widow?

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 22.—Last October an unknown man was killed by a train in a Detroit suburb. While lying in a morgue in that city the body was identified by Mrs. Lawrence McMullen of Windsor as that of her husband. McMullen's parents, however, denied that it was that of their son. Mrs. McMullen is now in a quandary. She had not seen her husband for several months prior to his alleged death, and wishes to begin divorce proceedings for desertion. If the body was her husband's she is a widow and no further procedure is necessary.

It is said here that a man called at the Detroit undertakers two days after Mrs. McMullen's visit and asserted that he was Lawrence McMullen.

THE WINTER MEET

Gypsy Girl's Big Surprise; Won 2.18 Class When Harry Direct Looked Sure Winner

Horses in Bikes Provided Good Sport at Opening Day of Turf Club's Winter Meet—City Queen Captures Honors in 2.35 Class Winning Three Straight Heats—Track Was Soft and Slushy—The 2.18 Class Called for Six Heats and Afforded Splendid Race for Spectators.

The weather man seems dead set against anything held at the Driving Park. Last year the last day of the Peterborough Turf Club's winter fair was a dismal failure, on account of an incessant downpour of rain, yesterday the opening day of the meet, it started the rain shortly before two o'clock, and continued for practically all the afternoon. The air was raw and penetrating, and taken altogether the weather conditions were about as unfavorable as they could have been. A fairly large crowd of enthusiasts were present, however, and enjoyed a good afternoon's sport.

THE TRACK.

The track was not by any means fast, on account of the rainfall, and when the first heat in the 2.35 class was run off, the horses in this class being the first to get away to Starter Connors' word, they found the going pretty sloppy. It was impossible for the drivers to use their sleighs, so the bikes were substituted instead. Towards the end of the day the track was in a pretty sloppy condition, and the horses found it hard pulling. The last heat run was the 2.18 class, and although the first in class was made in 2.30 the sixth and final one was done in 2.45, showing the wearing effect the bad track had on the starters.

2.35 PACE OR TROT

In this class there were six entries: City Queen, Tobe, Jim K. Godfrey's Pride, Lulu Chimes and Honest Billy. The first heat saw the fastest time made during the afternoon, 2.28 1-4. The different horses stepped along remarkably well, and there were some exciting finishes. City Queen, the property of Mr. L. Bennett, Port Hope, and driven by Gerald Dunsford, formerly of Peterborough, but now with Mr. Bennett, won all three heats in handy fashion. Dunsford handled the reins well, and the fast little mare always finished strong. He showed splendid judgment in regulating her speed, and deserved the victory. City Queen's race was a pretty one and she came under the wire strong in all of the heats.

Jim K. and Honest Billy had a great tussle for second honors, and each had obtained a second and a third when the field started for the final heat. Honest Billy managed to win out, however, Jim K. was a good third.

Tobe, Lulu Chimes and Godfrey's Pride finished fourth, fifth and sixth respectively in all of the heats.

The 2.18 class furnished great excitement. Harry Direct looked like a sure winner. He obtained the two first heats, but was beaten by Maud Wilkes in the third. Gypsy Girl then came to the front and copped the next three straight, getting first money. Harry Direct secured second place and Maud Wilkes third. The race was one of the most sensational ever seen here, and when Harry Direct was beaten out in the third heat it was a big surprise to the spectators, who watched the next two heats with breathless interest.

The summary;

2.35 PACE OR TROT.

City Queen, L. Bennett, Port Hope	1	1	1
Honest Billy, Gilks, Barrie	2	3	2
Jim K., L. Ketcheson, Belleville	3	2	3

Mr. J. Montgomery, the well known Toronto horseman, who drove Harry Direct in the last heat in the 2.18 class at the Driving park yesterday, will enter Smut, .24 1-2, and Roger .24 1-2 in the $1000 stake race at Montreal. Mr. Montgomery is here with Harry D for the free-for-all - this afternoon. Besides the above horses he has also Jim B, a good green one under way at Dufferin park.

Yesterday afternoon a collision took place between Lulu Chimes, driven by Wm. Elmhirst, and Queen's Baron with "Gillie" Kearns on the bike. A shaft of each sulky was snapped, but no further damage was done.

Caught in Machine, Young Lady Has Narrow Escape From Death

Miss S. Murray, Mark St. East City, Had Close Call From Fatal Accident at the Cordage Works—Engaged in Spinning Room—Received Painful Injuries.

What narrowly escaped being a fatal accident occurred at the Canadian Cordage Co. Works on Monday night, when Miss S. Murray, who resides at 217 Mart street, East City, had a very close call from meeting a most horrible death. Miss Murray was engaged on a spinning wheel. It was just ten minutes to six when the affair happened, and the employees were about to suspend operations for the day. Miss Murray was walking along when she slipped to the floor and was pulled into the fast revolving machine.

Mr. Jas McCurdy, the foreman of the spinning room, noticed the precarious position of the young girl and hurriedly shut off the power, thus stopping the machinery. When Miss Murray was taken from the dangerous predicament she was in a semi conscious condition. Her clothes were torn from her body and part of them ripped into shreds.

Dr. McCullough was called, and, upon examination, found that in addition to several bruises her spine was injured. She was afterwards removed to her home on Mark street, where she is now progressing as favorably as can be expected.

Wood in Oven Became Ignited And House Had Narrow Escape

A serious fire was narrowly averted this morning on Aylmer street, between Lake and Westcott streets. A white brick house, just recently built, and occupied by two English families, came very nearly losing burnt to the ground. One of the male occupants of the house had got up and gone to work, leaving a lot of wood in the oven of the stove. Being quite dry, it quickly became ignited, and in a few minutes a big blaze was raging. A chair at the oven door, on which hung a pair of trousers was burned, and had it not have been for the timely call of a Dominion Express driver who had business there, the conflagration would have gained considerable headway before the family would have been aware of it. However, it was subdued without any serious loss.

Quaker Oats are apparently all right. Last night at the Brock street rink the Quaker Oats septette trimmed the C.P.R. telegraph seven by a score of 7—1. The half time tally was 2—1. The game was ahead of the average. For the winners Sturdee and Pratt were all to the good, while Turnbull, Thornton and McGregor were the most effective for the ticker men. Mr. Len. Burn May Run in Boston Marathon

Art Burn, the Calgary long distance runner, announces that in order to make sure of a place upon the Canadian Olympic team, he has decided to run in the Boston Marathon race, which is a good four months away. Burn is considered to be a mile distance runner, but he has done the longer distances, and holds a Marathon record as far as twenty three miles, when he sprained an ankle. The Boston Marathon is over what is considered the hardest long-distance course in America. It is a distance of twenty-five miles, with bad hills. Longboat won the race last year, but will not compete this year, as he is being pointed for the English Marathon by the Irish-Canadian A. C. of Toronto.

Sporting Comment

It would seem a good plan to have the Bell Telephone-C.P.R. broom ball game on the same night as the Examiner-Review match. This last mentioned comic opera without music is always well patronized and with the addition of the broom ball game, the spectators would be assured of one solid night of clear burlesque. Outside of the comedy that will be furnished during the double header, moving picture show, there is a worthy cause to which the funds will be donated, this should be a strong incentive to a great big house. All the gate receipts could be given to that splendid chartable organization, the Children's Aid Society.

There will be a meeting of those interested in the work of the St. Andrew Brotherhood in St. John's church on Friday next at 8 p.m. This is one of the most important organizations of the Anglican church, and it behooves everyone interested in the Society to be present at the meeting. Mr. Thomas, the general secretary of the St. Andrew Brotherhood in Canada, will address the meeting.

There was an item in the Review a few days ago stating that a robin had been seen last week in a Peterborough citizen's garden. We can beat that in Lakefield. A robin was seen perched on an apple tree on Mr. De la Fosse's lawn on the 26th December. The same bird has been seen in the garden several times since. This knocks the Globe robin's record all to tatters.

Mr. H. B. Lefevre returned to Lakefield on Saturday last after a short visit to friends in Toronto.

HOCKEY.

Two hockey matches were played in the rink on Monday evening last between the Bridgenorth and Lakefield seven, and teams from the Bankers and Firemen of the village. The scores were as follows:

Lakefield—17.
Bridgenorth—7.
Bankers—6.
Firemen—5.

Hockey is in full swing at the Grove. Two matches between senior and junior teams of the Grove and the Public school took place on Saturday afternoon. The senior Grove team succeeded after a hard tussle in defeating the Public school by the score of 6-1. In the second match of the afternoon the result was a draw, 2 all.

BOYS' SHARP TRICK.

Two young lads from Peterborough played a sharp trick on Lakefield residents last week. Masquerading as Grove school boys they went to many merchants and others soliciting subscriptions towards the Grove hockey club. To add likelihood to their story they placed Mr. Mackenzie's name on the list as an ostensible subscriber for $2. They like Caesar before them, came, saw and conquered. Almost everyone they met gave them something as the Grove boys are favorites in the community. Men who would have been hard as nails in a horse deal, fell an easy prey to the youngsters. The second chapter in the advetnure is not finished yet and when it is there will possibly be grief and consternation in certain young hearts in Peterborough.

Miss Florence Simpson has just received notice that she is the winner of the Diocesan gold medal granted for proficiency in the S.S. teachers' examinations lately held throughout the Toronto Diocese. Miss Simpson is to be congratulated most heartily on her grand success.

Mr. G. B. Pratt left on Monday last for a few days' visit to friends in Port Hope.

Chairman of Committee Entertains the Firemen

Ald. Johnston "At Home" to the Members of Fire Brigade Last Night—Mayor Rush and Aldermen in Attendance—Matters of Mutual Interest Discussed.

The fire hall was the scene of a somewhat unusual event last night: an event which marked a new epoch in connection with the fire brigade in Peterborough. The members of the fire brigade and the Fire, Water and Light Committee were entertained to a well prepared banquet by Ald. Johnston, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. Notices had been sent out, asking the members of the brigade to be at the fire hall at eight o'clock to meet the Fire, Water and Light Committee to discuss some matters that required adjustment but no intimation was given that a banquet was on the program. Consequently everybody was agreeably surprised when they found awaiting them a table in the assembly hall loaded down with good things prepared by Messrs. Hooper and Welch, whose catering was the theme of many favorable comments.

The gathering was graced by the presence of His Worship Mayor Rush, who had a seat of honor at one end of the table while Ald. Johnston did the honors at the other.

About twenty were in attendance, including the members of the fire brigade and the fire hall staff. It was stated in the course of the evening's speeches that the gathering of the firemen and the members of the committee around the festive board would be an annual event. The assembly was called primarily for the purpose of discussing some matters upon which everyone did not appear to be seeing eye to eye and the result was highly gratifying. There is no doubt but that in future everything in connection with the fire brigade will go ahead smoothly and that nothing more will be heard of friction between certain departments.

Chief Rutherford was chairman last evening and after the oysters and other palatable things had been done justice to and the cigars were lighted, opened the second part of the proceedings. He expressed pleasure at the large number in attendance and alluded briefly to the purpose for which the gathering was held. He proposed the toast to "Our Guests," the reference being to the mayor, Ald. Johnston, and the other members of the Fire, Water & Light committee present, Aldermen Buller and Turner. The toast was heartily honored and "For they are Jolly Good Fellows," was heartily sung.

Ald. Johnston was then called upon and said the meeting had been called in order that the members of the committee and the brigade might get together and have a good, old-time chat. He was glad to be present to meet the firemen and believed it was a wise idea for the members of the two bodies to meet together as they were doing and discussing matters that would be to their mutual interests. He wanted to say that his feelings towards the firemen were of the kindest nature. He wanted to see everything in connection with the fire department running smoothly and was going to do everything in his power to bring about these conditions. All were ratepayers of the city and as such it was to their best interests to work in harmony.

Ald. Johnston referred to the excellence of the Peterborough fire department. The fire hall and its equipment were a credit to the city and the fire brigade itself was as good, if not a little better than that of other towns and cities. He did not want to take credit for what had been accomplished during the past two or three years but he had seen that improvements were necessary and had "kept plugging away to get them." The Fire, Water and Light Committee intended doing what was right for the firemen and to achieve the greatest success it was necessary that all should work together.

"I trust this will be the banner year in connection with the Peterborough fire department," said Ald. Johnston in closing. "The past is gone and we have the present to deal with. Let us make the most of it and see how much can be accomplished by all working in harmony."

Mayor Rush, who was greeted with cheers, said Ald. Johnston had met him in the morning and asked him to attend a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. "If this is the kind of meetings you always have, I am sure I'll be pleased to come often," he said. He hoped all the firemen would pull together with the committee and make 1908 the banner year, as Ald. Johnston had suggested. He was glad that Ald. Johnston had gathered them all together to discuss matters of general interest. Nothing but good could result.

Ald. McIntyre was next called on. He said he had the greatest respect for the members of the fire brigade. He had watched them ever since he had come to Peterborough, and had always found them up to the mark. As a member of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, he intended doing all he could for the advancement of the fire department. He spoke highly of the brigade's work at the curling rink fire.

Ald. Buller said he was a fireman first and a member of the Fire, Water and Light Committee afterwards. He was glad to be present and in such company. It would be an inspiration for him to work hard on the committee. Peterborough was noted for having one of the best fire brigades in Canada and the high standard should be maintained.

Ald. Turner referred to the pleasure it gave him to be present, and particularly as it gave him an opportunity to learn some things. He was a new man at the game and had been induced to enter the municipal field because he felt he might do something for the municipality. He considered it the height of a man's duty to fight for his country and serve the municipality in which he resided.

Mr. J. Gibbs, the assistant chief, said he was going to do his best to attend to the duties of his position, and help the brigade along.

Mr. Adamson, the financier of the brigade, said the finances were not an awfully hard thing to handle. He would not mind if the task were a heavier one. He also expressed his pleasure at being on hand.

Mr. "Kit" Rutherford said he had been a member of the brigade for many years. The chairman had alluded some friction that had existed. The trouble was that in the past the Fire, Water and Light Committee had given only little attention to the brigade. He had joined the brigade in 1880. At that time there were 70 men on the hose and 30 on the hook and ladder. He recounted the difficulties of maintaining the brigade in those early days. It was organized and went to the wall several times. But at last it was put on a better basis by hard work on the part of some of the members, a number of whom were still connected with it.

Mr. Johnston, said Mr. Rutherford, should have the thanks of the brigade for what he had done for it since becoming chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. He had effected many improvements. When the swinging harness had been put in first the members of the brigade had to order them themselves and had a hard job making the city pay for them. But it was different now.

Mr. Jos. Metheral, late assistant chief, was next called upon and referred to the work the brigade had done; while not wanting to toot his own horn, he believed the brigade had done good work with the apparatus they had at their disposal. There were some things that were still needed. He thought the firemen should be better paid and that they should be given uniforms. These were matters for the committee to consider.

CAUSE OF FRICTION.

Mr. Pakenham, foreman of the fire hall, brought up the question of friction which had been referred to. The only friction, he said, was due to the Board of Works making use of the fire hall as a place for storing sand, tools, etc., and of taking the teams and drivers to work on the streets when he considered they should be at the hall. It was no use having expensive equipment and having the drivers and teams out on the streets with the snow plows or watering carts when an alarm came in. The reason why such good work was done at the curling rink fire was because the drivers and teams were all available at once and had been "Johnny on the spot." Mr. Pakenham cited some other matters that were causing friction, and some discussion followed.

Ald. Buller said a joint meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and the Board of Works would be held to discuss these matters, and Ald. Johnston confirmed this. The latter said that everything was going to be put right this year.

The gathering broke up with cheers for the King, the Mayor, the Fire Brigade, the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and Ald. Johnston.

THE EYE EXCLUSIVELY

We do not profess to know all about the eye; Who does? but we have devoted about fifteen years exclusively to the study, inspection and teaching of eye examinations for eye glasses' and the filling of Artificia Eyes.

We believe we can, and do, make this experience valuable to all who consult us, and while we appreciate the liberal patronage of Peterborough, we shall ever aim to increasingly merit the confidence of our citizens.

Some Side Lights on a Great Man

Rev. Robert Pogue Gave Stirring Address on Mr. Wanamaker and Bethany Church

At the regular monthly meeting of St. Paul's Church Young Men's Guild held last night, there was an unusually large attendance. The gathering was a most interesting and profitable one, and the address delivered by Rev. Robert Pogue on Hon. John Wanamaker, Bethany church and the famous Bible class and Sunday school of Mr. Wanamaker, was a decided treat.

Mr. G. B. Van Blaricom, president of the guild, occupied the chair. Vocal solos were given by Miss Lillian Moore and Miss Helen Davies, which were much appreciated, and received with hearty plaudits.

Previous to coming to Peterborough, Rev. Mr. Pogue was associate pastor of Bethany church, Philadelphia, for four years, and came closely in contact with Hon. Mr. Wanamaker and his great work.

In beginning his remarks, the speaker said that he intended to give only a rambling talk, and at some future time he would deal more extensively with different phases of Mr. Wanamaker's career as a business man, a statesman, a church worker, Sunday school superintendent, etc. Mr. Wanamaker was the son of a brick maker, and was born in the suburbs of Philadelphia. He received very little schooling, but was an exceptionally well read man. He had many books in his large library, costing some thousands of dollars, which were later destroyed by fire. He formed a habit, early in his life, of saving his money, most of which he spent on reading matter. His aims in life were high, and his ambition was to be a merchant, which he afterwards was. He was a great organizer, and his early efforts were in organizing a church and Y. M. C. A. work, which had widespread influence on the different churches, throughout the United States. He began early in life to take an interest in his fellow man. He would invite many young men to go with him to church, and some of these same young men developed great careers. Throughout Philadelphia he built many fine edifices, one of which was dedicated to the memory of John Chambers, under whom he was converted. He was a great Y. M. C. A. worker, and did much to forward that movement, and through the influence of his organizing plans, the work has spread throughout the world.

HIS FIRST S. S. CLASS

Mr. Wanamaker began his Sunday school work in the suburbs of Philadelphia. The first Sunday he and a boy friend of his, whom he had interested in the work, walked through a blinding snow storm, and commenced a class with a few members. This class was broken up by a band of hoodlums. He returned the next Sunday, and held a meeting in a rented room, with about twenty members. At this same place grew up the now famous Bethlehem Sunday School. Much time and labor were spent in subscribing money and material for its construction.

A brotherhood association was formed, with Mr. Wanamaker as persident, which had many good rules laid down to him, and high ideals were set. The forming of this association showed his great organizing ability, which has effected so many people. The association was made up of active and associate members, which increased to the large number of over nine hundred members. Many clubs were formed within this organization, such as reading clubs, literary clubs, visiting clubs, etc., all of which were under the direct supervision of Mr. Wanamaker. One of the secrets of his success was the careful insight into the little affairs of business. He practically knew all the members of his large Sunday school class, which numbered upwards of one thousand members.

THE CHURCH

Bethany church, which he founded, had an immense auditorium, and after the early morning session of the Brotherhood, the men would march into the gallery and occupy one section. A similar number of young boys would occupy another section and a number of girls would occupy another section. He also had a trained choir of boys. This immense gathering of men he would lead in singing, and deliver short addresses.

THE SCHOOL.

The Sunday school of Bethany church was also carried out under his guidance. The most interesting character of the meeting was the opening exercises, to which no one can gain admittance after they have once commenced. The principal feature was several heartily sung hymns, which he leads himself, directing his singers when he hears any faults. At this meeting Mr. Wanamaker also delivered addresses, and taught the Bible class. Besides all this work for mankind, Mr. Wanamaker ran an extensive departmental store. He was a great advertiser, and his business demanded much of his time and energy. He certainly led a most strenuous and godly life.

After the address, Mr. A. Mowat moved a hearty vote of thanks, on behalf of those present, to Mr. Pogue. This was seconded by Mr. John Carnegie, and heartily endorsed by all the gathering, which was well repaid by the able, instructive and elevating address of Mr. Pogue.

Jones, Noble Graham, Wm. Stevens. Bros. Wm. Vass and Albert Finney both spoke on behalf of the ladies, and during the evening there was a musical programme given by Brothers Tranter, and Messrs. Mrs. Conners, an aged woman in Montreal, upset a lamp, and she was so seriously burned that she may die.

The Daily Review

BANKING AND THE PEOPLE

The Sovereign Bank has gone into liquidation, and various causes led up to this move in deciding to close the doors of the institution.

In June last there was a reorganization, which it was thought things were placed on a sound basis. But owing to the stringency of the money market of late, the fact deposits fell off, and the refusal of Mr. J. P. Morgan to advance the bank half a million dollars more, which, it is said, would have carried it through, it was decided by the directors to go out of business. Some of them are now blaming Mr. D. M. Stewart, former general manager for creating conditions which have caused the present unhappy circumstances. It was said by a director the other day that Stewart was too reckless, that he made loans without sufficient security and that they were totally unknown to the directors. It is reported that Mr. Stewart had no regard for the ethics of banking, etc. This is all very plausible. Mr. Stewart may have been reckless; he may have been overconfident; he may have gone the revolutionizing pace too rapidly. There is no doubt but that his work has left its impress on the banking system generally.

Many men have come perilously near reaching the top round of the ladder who have, through some weakness, failed at the last moment. Mr. Thomas B. Reed, former Speaker in the House of Representatives, at Washington, Mr. Jas. G. Blain and others came dangerously close to being great men in the fullest and widest acceptance of the term, but they failed at the crucial moment. In Canada, Hon. George E. Foster, Sir Richard Cartwright and others might be similarly classed.

In banking circles, Mr. Stewart may be perhaps said to have come within an ace of being a renowned financier. Of course, none of his rivals will acknowledge this. They will not admit that Mr. Stewart instituted any reforms or changed the whole banking system and relationship so far as the public is concerned. Yet such is the case.

Stewart was nothing, if not aggressive. The Sovereign Bank opened its doors in 1903, and established branches in many towns and villages where previously there had been no agencies. The Sovereign Bank recognized the virtue and efficacy of printers' ink, and inaugurated a great advertising campaign, inducing people, who never before thought of saving a dollar, to place their spare money in the savings department. By catchy, attractive, well-worded advertising, he pointed out how rapidly such an account would accumulate, how advantageous it was to have a few dollars laid by for the proverbial rainy day, and how simply and easily a savings account could be started. The people read these announcements and were convinced. The result was that the savings in the Sovereign increased by leaps and bounds. Other banks seeing the splendid example set, followed suit, and soon made contracts with the publishers for a regular space in their columns and the majority of such institutions have kept up the plan of appropriating so much for publicity purposes.

Previous to the advent of the Sovereign Bank, it was a most unusual thing for a bank to advertise. It was regarded by the older heads as unprofessional and undignified, but Mr Stewart, by his bold, energetic plans, rapidly altered this view, and proved once again that "imitation is the sincerest form of flattery." Will the other banks give Stewart credit for this change? Not a bit of it.

Again, Mr. Stewart allowed depositors in the savings department to enjoy all the benefits and privileges of the customer with the current account. That is—savings depositors could draw a reasonable number of cheques against their accounts each month, and still receive interest on their savings. This was a great convenience to householders, who like to follow the plan of paying the butcher, the baker, the grocer, and others by cheque at the end of every month, and to systematize their household financing. In the Sovereign Bank money bore interest in the savings department from the very day it was placed in the bank until it was withdrawn. There was no nonsense about giving notice of withdrawal or money not earning interest unless it was withdrawn on the first of the month or deposited on that date. Then interest was paid on deposits four times a eyar and added to the principal, or paid to the customer as desired. Many other banks now allow and credit interest on savings four times a year. Again have they followed the lead of the Sovereign Bank, but will rivals give Stewart credit for instituting the reform, or for breaking new new ground. Not a bit of it. Then why have they adopted the principle of paying interest four times a year. Other banks will say that it is all a hollow mockery; that the system gives the depositor only a few cents a year extra, while the amount of book keeping and clerical work has been greatly increased. Perhaps, but they followed suit nevertheless.

When the Sovereign Bank entered the field, local managers of other chartered institutions had frequently a sort of stand-offish, dignified, better-than-thou air. Their private offices were located at the rear of the institution, and the customer seeking accommodation, had too often to remove his hat, speak in modest, obsequious tones and act as if he were obtaining a great favor in securing a loan. The Sovereign Bank managers, on the other hand, were men who were of the people, doing business for the people. They were not shut-in, inaccessible financiers, but had their private offices generally near the entrance. The door was open and a man could walk in without kow-towing or making an effusive salaam. The manager was right on the spot all the time, assisting ladies showing the inexperienced how to open an account, advising, counselling and acting the part of a true and tried friend.

The Sovereign also devoted special attention to ladies opening up private departments for them. The bank demonstrated that it wanted business and was glad to get it. The local manager did not give the visitor the impression that he dwelt on a higher plane than the ordinary being who wished to negotiate a loan or discount a note. As soon as the Sovereign entered the field private banks largely disappeared because the new institution pointed the way to simplicity, politeness and directness. All red tapeism was abolished. Banking was brought down to the level of the common people and thousands, who never deposited money in the savings department, were found making regular visits. Thus habits of thrift and economy were encouraged and the credit for all this is due to Mr. Stewart and the Sovereign bank. It matters not so much what happened of later years. Mr. Stewart's early success may have turned his head, have caused him to grow somewhat dare devil in methods and outrage, as one of the directors has said, common sense principles, but the fact remains that Canadians owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Stewart who brought banking down to the point where it was a pleasure for the laborer, the mechanic, the farmer, and the private citizen to do business with a bank; where a man felt that if he wanted accommodation, so long as he could offer suitable security, he did not have to go in sack cloth and ashes. In the Sovereign he found all that freedom, simplicity, patience, courtesy and attention which characterized private bank management. All this and more did Mr. Stewart bring out and, while his contemporaries and associates may not, for various culpable reasons be disposed to accord him any credit, still the average man of today—the small depositor—will ever have cause to remember with thankfulness and praise the simplified, progressive, accommodating and modern methods of which Mr. Stewart was undoubtedly the author.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

At the annual meeting of the Public Library on Monday night some discussion arose relative to asking Andrew Carnegie for $30,000 for public library purposes. Opinion on the proposition differed. Some vigorous speeches were made against the move and no definite action was taken. Peterborough, progressive and wealthy as it is, should be above soliciting the multi-millionaire for a grant. The matter was debated at a public meeting and voted down, and it was hoped that the last had been heard of the affair one year ago.

Mr. Carnegie, during his whole career, has never had one favorable word to say of Canada, Great Britain, our present beloved Sovereign, King Edward, or or late lamented Queen, Victoria the Good. Those who are inclined to view with approval a donation from the wealthy iron monger, should read "The Triumph of Democracy," written by him, and they would perhaps speedily alter their sentiments.

The late Mrs. Nicholls gave the Public Library an endowment of $10,000, and the trustees of the estate have handed over to the corporation a most centrally located building for library purposes, valued at $30,000. What more do certain citizens desire? They go hat in hand to Carnegie and seek for more. Surely Peterborough, having been so generously helped on the way by a lady whose memory we all revere, and whose benevolence will ever shine, does not need to go to a would-be foreign potentate and seek further favors? The sturdy, independent, liberty-loving principles of the citizens of Peterborough will rebel against any such a move.

In Belleville a handsome public library was presented this week to the city by Mr. Harry Corby, ex-M. P., who has been a tried and true friend to his native city. He has given it a splendid park, an attractive fountain and many other things to which its residents point with pride, and to cap all, he has just donated a building luxuriously fitted up by himself at a cost of $30,000. All honor to the good work of Mr. Corby. Belleville appreciates his liberality, and there was none of this talk heard about going to Carnegie for an additional grant. Bellevillians would not so stultify themselves. Then, after Peterborough has received $10,000 from Mrs. Nicholls for library endowment, and a building worth $30,000 from her estate, there are still some who apparently think that enough has not been done, and are talking of obtaining money from Carnegie.

The sooner such chatter dies out the better. It is hoped that the last has been heard of the move.

PEN POINTS

Peterborough has now a fine array of K. C.'s.

After all, work on the city stone pile during this present fine weather is not so bad. If you doubt it, just give it a trial.

The increase in the number of cases tried in the city police court during the past year was large, being 100 over the preceding twelve months. The justice mill will soon have to run night and day if business keeps up.

There should be a rousing meeting of Young Conservatives at the club rooms on Saturday night next, when the club will select delegates for forthcoming convention on Wednesday, January 29th. The attendance should be representative in every respect. Young and old are invited to be present.

There were 555 cases that came before Magistrate Dumble last year. This is too many in a peace-loving, law-abiding and moral community like Peterborough. A large proportion of the offences were committed by juveniles, and it is pleasing to record that the vandalism and looting propensities of several boys seem to have been checked—for a while, at any rate.

A Toronto man told the News that he was among the unemployed, and yet he neither drank nor smoked. This has brought forth an answer from a Castleton resident, offering the fellow a good job for the year around. Moral:—It does not pay to drink or smoke if you are out of work because you may not be allowed to remain idle.

The proposition made by the A. R. Williams' Machinery Co., of Toronto, to take over the William Hamilton company's works and operate them employing 150 hands for at least nine months in the year on condition that the city loan them fifty thousand dollars without interest, is a pretty big proposition from a civic standpoint. It will invite most serious consideration at the hands of the manufacturer's committee and others. Fifty thousand dollars is a large sum to pay for the resuscitation of any industry, especially when the security offered is covered only by mortgage on the land and buildings, the plant, fixtures and equipment not being included. Of course further details will have to be worked out and the matter pronounced upon by the people. In the meantime it is not wise, perhaps to hastily condemn or cordially endorse the offer until more is learned of the proposition which was presented to the council on Monday night in the shape of a communication from the Williams Company.

TUMORS CONQUERED
SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED
Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so sly that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by profuse monthly periods, accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacement, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice if you will write her about yourself. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

"Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After trying five bottles as directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more, and I am entirely well."—Fannie D. INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

Knights of Pythias' Regular Meeting To-night

The regular meeting of Marathon Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will be held tonight in their hall, Hunter street. The installation of officers for the ensuing year will take place, and every member is urgently requested to be present. The chief feature of the meeting is that there will be visitors present from Montreal, Toronto and Port Hope, who will give short addresses. An interesting time is assured for all who attend.

Diamond Lodge Held Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of Diamond Lodge, No. 80, L.O.L., was held last night. After the slate had been cleared of business, Rev. A. H. Brace reported upon the visit of the deputation to Lakefield district, and followed with an address. Bro. Barclay reported on the Peterborough district meeting at Nassau, and Bro. Jones, of Alberta, addressed the brethren. A special finance committee was appointed to assist treasurer, to wind up the year in good shape.

FEW KNOW THIS

Should Drink Plenty Water and Avoid Stimulating Liquors.

Recent insurance reports show a tremendous increase in the number of deaths resulting from some form of Kidney disease. While there are many cures here, yet few have resulted seriously than this, states a well known local authority. Kidney troubles are the most dangerous because the disease is generally far advanced before anything wrong is suspected by the sufferer.

Pain in the back, sides and above the groins; foul, discolored urine, which shows brickdust sediment after settling; frequent desire to pass it, irritation and weakness of bladder, are but symptoms, the cause of which can generally be traced to feeble, inactive kidneys, which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, causing such symptoms as rheumatism, blood disorders general debility and weakness.

Such persons should drink plenty of good pure water and refrain from the use of all stimulating or spiritous liquors.

Patent medicines containing large portions of alcohol should be avoided.

A good, safe and almost certain regulator and healing and cleansing tonic to the entire kidney and urinary tract is made up of the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime. Any druggist here can supply the ingredients, which are entirely harmless and inexpensive.

It would be well to save the prescription, and at the first sign of these dangerous troubles mix some and give it a trial, as there is no better remedy known, nor anything more simple and easily prepared.

Power Deputation Waits Upon Member for East Peterboro'

A deputation in the interests of the Northumberland-Durham Power Co. interviewed Mr. John Finlay, M. P., last week at Norwood, says the Norwood Register, and secured his promise to give his strong co-operation in supporting this company's request at Ottawa for the intervening portion of the Upper Healey rapids.

The deputation complained of the continued delays by the Department officials of the canal surveys at Healey Falls section, and asked the Dominion Government to complete these surveys by February 1st, as the Ontario Government wishes the company to know whether they intend developing the whole rapids or only the lower 87 feet head, controlled by the Ontario lease.

Mr. Finlay has since written Managing Director J. A. Culverwell, that Hon. George P. Graham will meet the deputation the latter part of January. So that evidently the long delayed surveys are at last to be completed.

The deputation, which met Mr. Finlay at Norwood, were, Reeve Breault, of Norwood; Mr. Wm. Mathison, J.P.; Councillors-elect Jos. Knox and Geo. Phillips, and C. R. R. Conductor James Mark, of town, together with Managing Director Culverwell, of Port Hope.

Horticultural Society Will Have Improvement Committee

To Suggest Beautification of the City—Annual Meeting Held Last Evening—Encouraging Reports Read—Mr. H, C. Rogers, President for Ensuing Year.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Horticultural Society was held in the Council Chamber last evening, when the following members were present;—Messrs. D. W. Dumble, T. A. S. Hay, H. Beal, H. C. Rogers, W. Stocker, T. Tucker, Jas. English, Sam Jordan, Ben. Cooney and F. Wise.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and confirmed.

The president, Mr. D. W. Dumble, was in the chair and opened with his annual report.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

Gentlemen,—The past has been one of the Society's best years. The membership has crept up to 153. We have given to each member a year's subscription to the Canadian Horticulturist, and we distributed amongst them 350 roots of perennial phlox, 1,000 No. 1 hyacinths and 2,000 daffodils. We think this method of conducting the Society has produced better and more satisfactory results than the old method of holding Horticultural Shows, which were poorly attended, and which involved much labor and pecuniary loss. We find it easier to keep up our membership when we are able to give each member much more for his dollar than he could procure with that dollar, and, besides, we secure a wide distribution of bulbs and plants, which beautify the town, and at the same time cultivate the taste for flowers.

Our system of giving prizes to those who have made their premises neat and tasty and a pleasure and a benefit to themselves and others, has worked most happy results, and people are beginning to realize that there is hardly a spot, be it ever so rough, that cannot with a little labor and a few plants be made a joy instead of a sore spot. About $35 was expended last year in prizes for best results in grounds and lawns.

We recommend a large expenditure this year, but submit that the prizes be limited to those people who offer their places for competition during the month of August.

During the coming season much will be required to be done in the Central Park to make the foreground of the new armory and Collegiate Institute worthy of such fine buildings. The soil is so shallow that in order to secure a good sward much earth must be drawn on, and this society should ask the Council to permit large quantities of street scrapings to be drawn there.

With our fine new schools and our pretty parks, natural attractions and splendid shops, Peterborough has become a show place, and an attraction for many excursions. We cannot afford to let our pretty little Victoria and Central Parks get shabby, for, treated simply as an investment, it will pay us to keep them up to their highest capabilities. We will ask you to provide so as to obtain this year the highest results, especially in the Central Park.

In conclusion we cannot but refer to the untimely death of Mr. Pringle, a member of this Board, whom we held in highest esteem for his fine qualities as a man and for the great interest he took in everything that tended to please and improve his fellow citizens, and who was a most useful member of this Society.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, who has been president of the society for the past three years, asked to be relieved of the office. This decision on his part was met with regret. Mr. Dumble has served the Society faithfully. However it is pleasing to know that he will continue as an active member.

Col. H. C. Rogers was unanimously chosen president. He thanked the members for the honor done him, and stated that he would do all in his power in the interest of horticulture. He referred in eulogistic terms to the work of Mr. Dumble. He had done a great deal for the Society and brought it out of almost nothing to a flourishing organization.

The other officers are;—

1st Vice-President—Mr. T. A. S. Hay

2nd Vice-President—Mr. D. W. Dumble.

Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. H. L. Beall

Directors—Messrs. J. R. Stratton, president, Jas. English, W. H. Moore, James Stevenson, B. Cooney, S. Jordan, H. Nesbitt, T. A. S. Hay, P. Campbell, Adam Hall, Walter Stocker, Dr. Burnham, Thos. Tucker and F. Wise.

Park Committee—Messrs. Walter Stocker, H. Nesbitt, F. Wise, S. Jordan and Dr. Burnham.

Messrs. T. A. S. Hay and A. Stevenson were appointed auditors.

The president and secretary-treasurer and Mr. D. W. Dumble were appointed a delegation to interview the County Council for a grant for the Society.

The county should help keep Victoria Park in the way it should be kept. The Society has had no grant for two years from the County Council. They have a twenty-five year lease of the park and the committee were instructed to procure the papers connected with it.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENT COMMITTEE.

After the business of the evening had been transacted, Mr. Dumble said that in many places in the United States there were improvement committees, or rather, committees to suggest improvements along lines of decorating their towns and cities. In many places there are things such as billboards and such like that are eye sores and foul spots to the public. If there was a committee formed they could make suggestions along alterations and improvements. In this beautiful city, where there are so many pleasant driveways, Mr. Dumble would suggest that the roadbeds be kept in good repair and that shade trees be planted where there are none. Mr. Dumble moved that Col. H. C. Rogers, Mr. T. A. S. Hay and himself be a committee to suggest local improvements along horticultural lines, and that this committee have power to add to its membership.

Mr. T. A. S. Hay seconded this motion, and thought that every member of the Society should be on it. Much effective work could no doubt be done in this way. The motion was unanimously carried, and several members expressed their views on the subject. Mr. F. Wise was of the opinion that much could be done by the city in seeing that the weeds on city property are cleared away.

Mr. Walter Stocker made a few remarks regarding the billboards in the city. Referring to numerous places where these posters are situated Mr. Stocker said that they served the purpose of hiding up vacant lots and other undesirable spots around town.

The meeting then adjourned.

Several Municipal Officers are Appointed for Year

Havelock, Jan. 18.

The new council met in the town hall on Monday at 11 a.m., when Reeve Thompson and Councillors Knox, Philips, Campney and Woods took their declaration of office and adjourned, to meet again on January 10th.

All the members met in the Council Chamber on Jan. 16th, at 7.30.

Bylaw to appoint municipal officers was read, signed and sealed.

J. W. Bryans was appointed Clerk and Treasurer at a salary of $110.00; Ward Patterson and F. C. Master, auditors at a salary of $7.50 each; Mr. Sherry, solicitor; Jas. Scott, assessor, at salary of $50.00; Mr. Jas. Brill was appointed constable at a salary of $35 per month. Dr. Crawford was appointed Medical Health Officer and S. S. Joyce a member of the Board of Health for three years.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid;—Jas. Brill, constable, $55; R. Philips, D.R.O., $6; H T Andrews, $7.50; John Richards, $2; electric lights, $63.33; Jas. Thompson, $2; Jas. Brill, meals for prisoners, 75. A motion was carried that Clerk Bryans be a member of the deputation of the council to go to Ottawa in behalf of the Northumberland Durham Power Co.

The clerk was instructed to have the solicitor amend the old Transient Trade bylaw or draw up a new one.

Lancaster & Dineen were given a rebate of $5 on rent of town hall for "Perils of a Great City." Mr. Alex Innis was given a rebate of $10 on rent of hall for ball to clear expenses of baseball team.

It was agreed to have a special meeting of the council on Friday, January 24th, at 7.30 p.m.

HAD HAND BADLY CUT BY BIG SAW

While engaged on a circular saw in the Peterborough Canoe factory yesterday afternoon, Mr. Wesley Hinds, of 169 Harvey street, was the victim of a painful accident. Mr. Hinds was taking some lumber from the saw when owing to not drawing away quickly enough his right hand came in contact with it, resulting in his thumb being badly lacerated. Fortunately it was not severed. Dr. Amys attended the injury. Mr. Hinds will be able to return to work in a few days.

Charles Burke Was Remanded

Chas. Burke, charged with the robbery of the Buckhorn post office, was arraigned before County Police Magistrate Edmison this morning. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the defence and Mr. R. E. Wood for the prosecution. As the Crown was not ready to go on with the case it was enlarged until January 30th, at 10 a.m.

TONGOLAS TO PLAY LOCALS

Interesting Basketball Match Arranged for February 1st.

Peterborough lovers of basketball will have an opprotunity of seeing a fast game on Saturday evening, February 1st, when the Tongolas, of the Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto, will meet the local Y.M.C.A team on the Peterborough floor. The Tongolas are one of the fastest teams in Toronto and expect to defeat the Peterborough five. The locals will have a strong team and should be able to give the visitors a hard run.

New Bowling Alleys for City

It is learned that a new six alley bowling establishment will be opened in Peterborough in the near future. Messrs. A. O. Fletcher and J. B, Hay, of Toronto, were in the city yesterday and looked over several places which would be suitable for the purpose required.

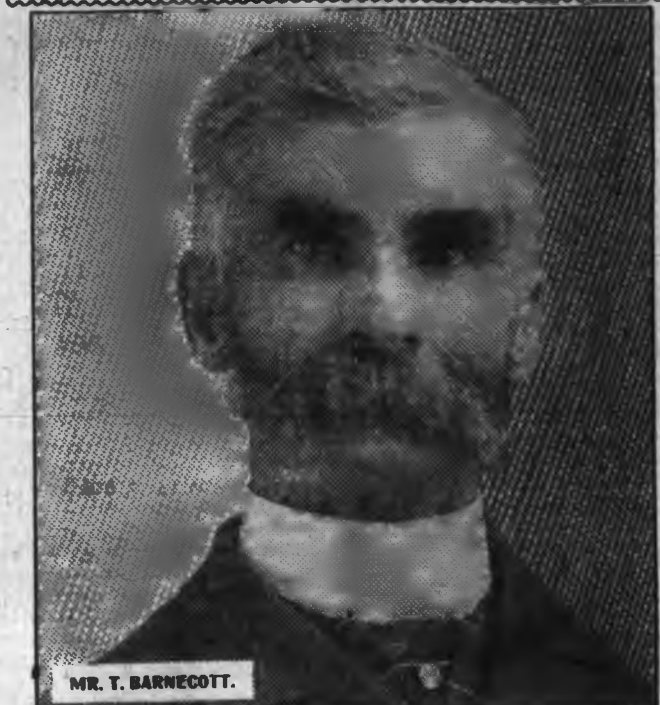
It is understood that they were representing the Brunswick Bowling alleys of Toronto, and after looking over the situation in Peterborough concluded that there was a good opening for bowling alleys there. They were much impressed with the old opera house as a location for the alleys and have commenced negotiations with the owner of the building with a view to securing the premises.

Judging from the interest taken in bowling here, the new alleys should prove successful. The Toronto gentlemen were assured that the alleys would be well patronized. Mr. Hay is sporting editor of the Toronto News.

Hans Lorsen, employed at the Tretheway mine, Cobalt, was fined $100 for pulling a revolver.

Pe-ru-na Promptly Relieves Severe Cold and La Grippe.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:
"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time and at little expense. Every time I take a cold, I take some Peruna, which makes me well again.
"I also advised it for my daughter who was so ill with prostration that she could not follow her trade of dressmaking. A bottle of Peruna made such a change in her that she has been able to follow her business ever since.
"I also induced a young lady, who was all rundown and confined to the house, to take Peruna, and after taking Peruna for three months she is able to follow her trade of tailoring.
"I can recommend Peruna for all such who are ill and require a tonic."



MR. T. BARNECOTT.

EVERY year, during the inclement weather of winter, there is an epidemic of catarrh. The disease is really catarrhal in nature, but from the form it assumes, has been commonly termed the 'grip.'
Splendid Remedy For La Grippe.
Mr. Frank H. Fielder, 218 Pleasant Ave., Montgomery, Ala., formerly principal of Haynesville High School, writes:
"I can truthfully say that Peruna is a splendid remedy for la grippe and a good tonic for building up the system."
La grippe is very tenacious when it once gets a firm hold upon the system, and in addition to a thorough, systemic catarrh remedy, a great deal of patience and persistence in the treatment are required to eradicate the disease.
Peruna, an internal catarrh remedy, is one of the best medicines ever devised to meet the exigencies of these cases. The large number of commendatory letters received by Dr. Hartman, the inventor of Peruna, in behalf of his remedy is proof sufficient of its value as a reliable medicine for the 'grip.'
Prompt Relief.
Mr. Frank Bauer, Minneiska, Minn., writes: "I suffered with la grippe. I took Peruna and in four days I was able to go out."

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 22.—Replying to the accusation of J. A. Macdonald, leader of the Opposition, stating that the Government was responsible for Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir withholding his assent to the Natal Act passed unanimously last session. Premier McBride said yesterday in the House that, in withholding his assent, his honor had acted as the official of the Dominion Government, and that the case was not one in which the local Government could be held responsible.

Sank Greek Steamer.

Flushing, Netherlands, Jan. 22.—The Red Star liner Finland, from New York to Antwerp, ran down and sank the Greek steamer Epirus Monday in a dense fog off Ternuseen. All on board the Epirus were saved. The Finland apparently was not damaged and proceeded, arriving at Antwerp yesterday afternoon.

Toronto, Jan. 22.—"Wilful murder by some person or persons unknown" was the verdict returned by the coroner's jury at the City Hall last night. The inquest was held on the body of a male infant found Jan. 10 by civic employes while cleaning a culvert at Queen street and O'Hara avenue.

Conservative Member Makes Move for Clean Elections

Mr. Alcorn Introduces Bill to Prevent Corrupt Practices.

Would Prohibit Campaign Contributions From Corporations—Checks on Indirect Bribery — Proposed Standing Committee on Fisheries—Death Penalty For Offences Against Children—Carrying of Weapons.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The introduction of a bill by Mr. Alcorn (Con., Prince Edward Island) to provide more effective means to prevent electoral corruption, and the discussion of a resolution of Mr. Sinclair (Lib., Guysboro, N. S.), declaring that "in the opinion of the House it is advisable to appoint a standing committee on fisheries," occupied nearly the whole of the afternoon in the Commons yesterday. The fisheries resolution was favored by both sides without an exception, but 6 o'clock was called with the question still in the air. To-day the House will take up the insurance bill and the estimates of the Public Works Department.

E. N. Lewis (Con., Huron) introduced a bill to amend the provisions of the criminal code respecting offensive weapons. The bill adds "razors" to the list of concealed weapons, the carrying of which is illegal. It also increases the penalty for carrying offensive weapons with intent, and prohibits exposure for sale of revolvers in pawn shops and second-hand stores, as well as making provision against the carrying of stilettoes. Mr. Lewis urged special attention to his bill as a necessity. It was read a first time. Another bill introduced by Mr. Lewis provided for increasing penalties for offences against women. The bill was read a first time. One of the provisions is the imposition of the death penalty for rape on a girl under 14 years of age.

Campaign Contribution.

The most important section of Mr. Alcorn's bill deals with campaign contributions by the corporations. It is provided that no corporation shall, by itself or by any officer or agency, be in any way concerned with the accumulation or distribution of campaign funds, or with the contribution or expenditure thereof. This will shut out railways, Government contractors or any corporations from being concerned in elections by way of funds. The penalty on a corporation is $5,000 and on every officer or shareholder who consents to a violation of this section forfeits $1,000 and is liable to imprisonment. To prevent corporations from contributing to private persons who would afterwards be indemnified by a corporation, a penalty of $1,000 and one year's imprisonment is imposed. Government officials and Government contractors are absolutely prohibited from being concerned with election funds, either as contributors or custodians or distributors, under penalty of imprisonment or fine. Government officials and persons not ordinarily resident in Canada are absolutely prohibited from acting in any capacity in elections.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Mr. Alcorn explained that although for two years the Government had promised to bring in a bill to deal with this subject, nothing had come of it, so it was incumbent upon a private member to take up the matter. The member for Prince Edward, in explaining his bill, showed that it made more reasonable provision as to legal personal expenses of candidates. It provides not only against hiring of rigs, and furnishing free railway or steamboat for the conveyance of voters to the polls, but imposes a penalty of $100 on the owner of the means of transportation so used. Writs are to be issued to sheriffs or registrars in Ontario and officers of equivalent rank in other provinces, and the appointment of outside deputy returning officers is also provided against.

But One Polling Day.

The bill makes provision for such publicity being given of the poll to the Dominion and provincial oaths as will do away with the difficulty so often experienced at present in having the deputy put the bribery oath to the voter. Instructions and forms of oath, and all orders-in-council passed in relation to them, must be published in The Canada Gazette. An important feature of the bill is that it does away with the present system of holding the elections in five distant constituencies at a date later than the general elections. There would be the one polling day for the whole Dominion.

In regard to the printing of ballots, it is provided the printer shall make affidavit as to the number he prints and distributes, this affidavit to form part of the return to the clerk of the crown in chancery. To prevent a recurrence of the Lott-Shibley trick ballot box fraud, the deputy returning officer is to examine the box to see that it contains no device to strictly receive or store ballots.

A clause is introduced to allow a witness to state for whom he wishes to vote. A penalty is provided for a person, other than the D. R. O., handing a ballot to a voter, also in the case of a person importing bogus ballot boxes.

It had frequently been said that corporations owned the Government, and Mr. Alcorn had introduced a clause to prevent the contributions of corporations to the campaign funds.

"What about the corporations who own the Opposition?" asked Mr. Talbot of Bellechasse. "My hon. friend will, no doubt, introduce a bill with regard to that," said Mr. Alcorn.

Check Public Works Bribes.

The offer of the expenditure of money on public works in a constituency during an election campaign is declared to be a violation of the law and those guilty of the offence will be liable to a fine. In a case of a member being returned for two or more electoral districts the elected candidate shall within 30 days declare for which constituency he elects to sit.

Mr. Bergeron called attention to the absence from the act of a clause to show the qualifications of voters. There was a form applying to Saskatchewan and Alberta, which contained these qualifications and in the Franchise Act there was such a clause, but the deputy returning officer in some cases relied wholly upon the forms supplied.

Fishing Industry.

Mr. Sinclair, in moving for a standing committee on fisheries, spoke of the importance of fishing industry to Canada, and claimed that we had a practical monopoly of lobster industry of the world, our output realizing about $3,500,000 a year. As to the whole output of fish there was realized last year over $26,000,000, there being a considerable increase in the value of the business.

W. F. Maclean (South York) asked if there had not been administration of the quantity of fish taken, and Mr. Sinclair said this was the case, but the value had increased.

In Nova Scotia 26,000 were employed in the fishing industry, while the number in all Canada was 67,646, and with the lobster industry, 83,421. There were 1,420 vessels employing 8,456 sailors in the deep sea fisheries, while the capital invested was nearly $20,000,000. The average earnings of fishermen in United States was $519, and in Canada $388. "From the fishermen we must draw for our future Canadian navy," said Mr. Sinclair, and it was important that we must hold our grip on the sea. He showed that the Scotch fishing board had done much to encourage the industry in that country. The equipment of the Scotch industry was valued at $627 per man, while that of the Canadian industry was but $191 per man.

The efforts of present administration to stimulate industry had produced good results. For instance, the assistance given to cold storage, the propagation of lobsters, the improvement of transportation facilities and subsidies given to coasting steamers employed to collect fresh fish had been appreciated by the fishermen.

Mr. Sinclair also suggested that the proposed committee include matters pertaining to marine.

R. L. Borden spoke of the need of encouragement to the fishing industry in Nova Scotia. He said the appointment of fishery officers was not satisfactory. Representation had come to him from the south shore of Nova Scotia that the administration of these officers was largely on political lines, the law being strictly enforced in respect to Conservative fishermen, while Liberals were not so harshly dealt with. Mr. Borden also dealt with fisheries of Pacific coast and inland fisheries. With respect to the latter it had been shown that large areas had been handed over to men specially engaged in the industry for a mere nominal sum. He asked for a declaration of the Government's policy with regard to this. The leader of the Opposition regarded the question of the conservation of the timber areas of the country as linked with preservation of the water supply, and he asked that the motion be amended to include forests and mines. With that exception he was heartily in accord with the resolution.

Mr. Roche (Lib., Halifax) followed, commending the suggestion, while Dr. Daniel (Con., St. John, N. B.) discussed the political aspect of the question. The Marine Board of Trade had taken the position that the fisheries should be put under the control of a non-political board, claiming that industry at present was not free from political influences.

Need Experts on the Spot.

Mr. Kennedy (Lib., B. C.) asserted that the return from the fisheries of the Pacific province was greater than that from all the other provinces combined. The difficulty, in his opinion, was that they were too far removed from the seat of Government, and there ought to be experts on the spot to deal with questions arising out of the industry.

Mr Lefurgey (Con., P. E. I.) declared that there was considerable complaint of administration of fisheries, and he favored a select committee to bring the needs of the fishermen to the attention of the Government.

SOUTH HURON ELECTION.

Liberals Win Seat Vacant by Death of Mr. B. B. Gunn.

Seaforth, Jan. 23.—The election in South Huron for the seat in the Commons, rendered vacant by the death of B. B. Gunn (Conservative), took place and resulted in the return of M. Y. Maclean (Liberal) by a majority of 134 over the Conservative candidate, Mr. Henry Horton.

Stanstead Again Liberal.

Stanstead, Que., Jan. 23.—The bye-election which took place yesterday to fill the seat for the Commons for Stanstead County, rendered vacant by the death of the late member, Henry Lovell, resulted in the return of the Liberal candidate, Charles Lovell, son of the deceased, by 220 majority over his opponent, A. H. Moore, Conservative.

The News at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—Conservatives heard the result of the bye-elections in South Huron and Stanstead with disappointment, but no surprise.

The election of Lovell in Stanstead was attributed to the all-powerful influence of the Laurier name and to the use of money, while South Huron was considered lost from the first owing to the unity in the Liberal ranks, which did not exist when B. B. Gunn was elected.

One of the Conservative campaigners who came in from Stanstead last night expressed the opinion that little headway will be made against the Government in the Province of Quebec while Laurier lives. Many of the voters did not know the name of the the Liberal candidate, but asked only to be told who Laurier's man was, while the efforts of the Liberal speakers were directed principally to arousing enthusiasm by the frequent mention of the chief's name.

Tyne Shipbuilders Strike.

Newcastle-on-Tyne, Jan. 23.—The threatened strike in the shipbuilding industry in the Tyne district became a fact yesterday when some 4,000 men who had refused the proposed reduction in their wages, did not return to work. The employers declare this reduction is necessary owing to the depression in the industry. Some ports on the northeast coast also are affected.

Slot Machines Illegal.

Kingston, Jan. 23.—Two tobacconists, John McGall and Daniel FitzGibbon, yielded up $10 and costs yesterday for running slot machines for gain. They had been using the machines for years, ignorant that it was illegal.

Kingston, Jan. 23.—Late yesterday afternoon Edward Leech, in the employ of Hendry, a manufacturers' agent, fell from the second storey to the floor of the warehouse and was seriously injured.

Prominent Socialist Accuses Police of Creating Fake Disturbances—Conservative Member Twits Leaders With Cowardice—Prince Von Buelow's Warnings Greeted With Derisive Laughter.

Berlin, Jan. 23.—Herr Fischer, Socialist, in the course of a speech in the Reichstag, accused the police of infamously utilizing the services of detectives, who mixed with the demonstrators and led in the cries and singing, thus creating cause for the intervention of their uniformed comrades.

Herr Kreth, Conservative, aroused an uproarious tumult among the Socialist benches when he asserted that the leaders of that party were most prominent by their absence from the streets during the demonstrations, which they had misled others into undertaking, even advising the participants to take their wives and children with them, as protection against the police. When Herr Kreth finished this statement loud cries were heard of "vagabond," "slanderer," "liar," "scoundrel" and "hypocrite."

During the tumult Herr Bebel, the Socialist leader, advanced to the tribune and shrieked at Kerr Kreth: "You miserable rascal," while Herr Stadhagen, Social-Democrat, called him a "vulgar vagabond" and "police spy."

Amid cries of "get down from the tribune," Herr Kreth concluded his remarks by saying:

"I propose an encounter with Herr Stadhagen, at which the police shall not be present."

Prince Von Buelow opened the Reichstag proceedings, subsequently uttering in the severest terms a warning against further manifestations, which he declared, did not affect the Government in the slightest degree. He threatened, amid ironical cheering from the Socialists, that the leaders and organizers of all demonstrations would be dealt with severely.

The chancellor trembled with indignation when he referred to the terrorism which, he declared, had been introduced into the capital. He stigmatized the street demonstrations as dangerous to the country, and he looked directly at the Socialist members when he announced that the organizers would be held responsible. He was compelled to pause for several minutes because of the outbreak of a round of derisive laughter from the Socialist benches.

BIG FIRE AT LAKEFIELD.

Flour Mill and Planing Works Laid In Ruins.

Lakefield, Jan. 23.—A disastrous fire broke out in the Lakefield Milling Co.'s flour mill last evening about six o'clock. There was a strong wind blowing from the west and the flames soon spread to the planing mills of F. J. Moore & Son; both buildings, together with machinery and stock, were totally destroyed. The loss on the flour mill and contents is $25,000; insurance on contents of the flour mill is $1,500 in the Waterloo Mutual, Hand-in-Hand, Economical, Phoenix of London, Anglo-American, Montreal, Canada, and Atlas.

The loss of planing mill machinery and stock is about $10,000. Insurance on contents is $500 in the Gore Mutual and London Mutual. Both buildings were owned by the Dixon Co. of Peterboro. Insurance on buildings is unknown, as is also the origin of the fire.

Killed by Falling Tree.

Lakeview, Jan. 23.—A young Englishman named Hall was so seriously injured while felling timber on Thursday last on the 2nd concession of Malahide that he died on Sunday morning.

He was working with W. Esseltine at the time of the accident, trying to dislodge a tree that had fallen into another one, when he was struck on the head and knocked over by the falling timber. He was able to walk to the house, and it was thought he would recover, but the blow injured the brain so seriously that death ensued.

New Brunswick Election.

Fredericton, Jan. 23.—After a long meeting of the Provincial Government last night, Premier Robinson announced that it had been decided to hold an election before another session of the Legislature. The date has not been definitely settled, but it will be early in March. The announcement came as a great surprise, for it was thought the Government would hold a short session and repeal its famous Highway Act and some other law which met with so much disfavor throughout the Province.

A National Stocktaking.

London, Jan. 23.—The British Board of Trade has just inaugurated a new national stocktaking in the shape of a census of the country's productive power, from a steamship line to a loaf of bread. Everything will be included except agriculture.

The new census will be based on returns furnished by employers throughout the country respecting their output for last year.

Its object is to enable the country to know exactly and scientifically how it stands.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Policemen in Chicago are to be retired in the order of the hardness of their arteries. The arteries of a man of 50 may be harder than those of another of 65. It depends on the way he has lived.

Vaccinating Insane Patients.

Brockville, Jan. 23.—The medical staff of the Eastern Hospital for the Insane has completed the work of vaccinating the patients, a total of 730. On account of the present epidemic of smallpox, the hospital doors are closed to the public.

SWEET REVENGE

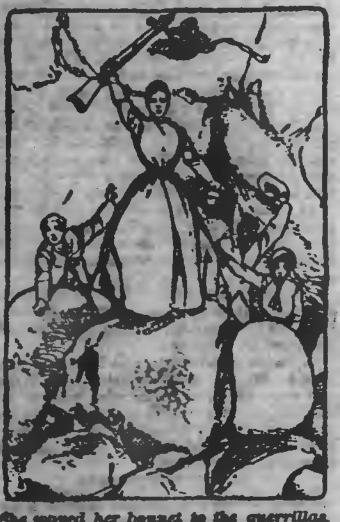
By Captain F. A. MITCHEL,

Author of "Chattanooga," "Chickamauga," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Harper & Brothers.

I paused a moment to watch the expression of their faces. I saw at once that they were all bitterly disappointed.

"I feel bound to state further that the captain has informed me that he cannot surely guarantee your safety, though he would if he could. He tells me that the men are divided, and he does not know himself which party is the stronger. You are not sure of safety, but you have a chance, whereas if we are taken by force the chances are all against you. Before giving my views I wish to get an expression of opinion from each of you separately. Miss Stanforth, shall we accept the proposition or not? Say yes or no."



She waved her bonnet to the guerrillas.

She curled her lip. "I don't care to consider such a proposition."

"Miss Rutland?"

"No!" cried little Jack, with a snap in her eye.

"Buck?"

"Reckon I'd ruther stay whar I am awhile longer, though, by golly, I'm mighty hungry." He spoke the last words ruefully.

"Ginger?"

"I ain't no traitor man, mars', ef I air black. Ginger hain't gwine t' talk 'bout gibbin nobody up t' save hisself."

"My friends," I said, and I could not repress a tremor in my voice, though God knows I tried, "I cannot accept your sacrifice. The guerrillas, having secured me, will doubtless quarrel about you, and the captain and those who are with him may find an opportunity to let you get away under cover of the night."

"No, no!" cried all. "We'll stand together."

"How were you to reply?" asked Helen.

"If the terms were accepted, we were to go down; if rejected, we were to wave."

Helen took off her check bonnet and, tying it to a carbine, stood up on the rocks and waved it to the guerrillas, who were standing below watching for our signal, while our little command gave as lusty a cheer as their exhausted condition would admit.

But the real heroism was yet to come. I had seen evidence that the woman wing of my army was not to be appalled at any proposition, but it was impossible that I could be prepared for what was to follow. I have sometimes wondered if it was not rather an emanation of genius than heroism, but have invariably concluded that it was the genius of heroism.

The first flush of excitement at the rejection of the terms being over, Jack began to show signs of irritation, a condition I attributed to the gnawing pangs of hunger. She shook her fist at the guerrillas, vowing that if she could ever get her papa again he should scour the country till he had captured every one of them, and when captured she would herself take inexpressible pleasure in making targets of them for pistol practice. Then she would call to them for something to eat. They were too far to hear her, and of course her request would not have been granted if they had. "Captain, good captain, dear captain," she cried, "do let us out of this! That's a dear boy!" Then she turned to Miss Stanforth. "Helen, what in the world did we come on such an errand as this fo'? Why didn't we send the soldiers?"

"Jack," said Helen, "I'm sorry you regret it. I don't. I never regret."

"Yo're showin the white feather," said Buck.

Jack's eyes glistened with anger.

"The white feather! What do yo' mean, yo' little pest? White feather! I'm not afraid of all the guerrillas in Christendom. They won't hurt me. I'm going down there to ask 'em fo' something to eat. I'll get yo' all off. White feather! I'll show yo'!"

She sprang upon the rampart, but I caught her and dragged her back.

"Let me go!" she screamed.

"Didn' I tole yo' Missy Jack hab de biggest temper in de souf?" cried Ginger proudly.

"Let her go," said Helen, "and I'll go with her. If those guerrillas who are disposed to protect us can do so, they will succeed as well without you as with you. Indeed, your presence will only tend to irritate them. Come, Jack, we'll try it."

I stood aghast at such a plan. I forbade it. The girls were determined. I begged, ordered, stormed at them, declaring that for every step they took toward that den of hellhounds I would take two. At last Helen laid her hand on my sleeve and looked me calmly in the eye.

"Major Branderstane, I want you to let me have my way in this matter. You owe it to me. When you were wounded, I took you in and succored you. Since we have been in this place I have obeyed your every order. Jack has flashed unknowingly, unintentionally, a stroke of genius. Jack is a genius. She has hit on our only chance. She fascinated the guerrillas once, and she'll do it again. She will split them in halves and set one half against the other. But she will need me. Give me that revolver."

All this was lost on me. I swore they should not go. I planted myself between them and the rampart. Helen stepped to one side of me. Jack darted to the other. Ginger put his hand on my arm.

"Don't stop Missy Jack, mars'. Missy Jack can do eberyt'ing wid men folks." He turned my face to the cliff. "Look dat a-way, an yo' won't see hit."

When I broke from the old man, Helen and Jack were beyond the rampart.

I have seen lifeboat men pull out in a tempestuous sea, breasting a howling wind and madly tossing billows; I have seen men march out to battle with almost a certainty of death or mutilation, but I have never looked upon any sight with the mingled terror and admiration that thrilled me as I beheld these two girls, without other weapon than woman's loveliness, descend the rocky slope toward the guerrilla camp. They moved hand in hand, as I have seen graceful ships sail side by side. Helen was the taller and the more commanding, but both walked erect, Helen buoyed by a native courage, Jaqueline confident in the possession of a gift, a genius for bending men to her will.

They had scarcely left us when the guerrillas caught sight of them and stood looking up in stupid wonder. Ginger, Buck and I were staring down upon them, Ginger's eyes starting out of his head, Buck leaning excitedly over the rampart, I clutching my carbine. On went the girls, between the flanking rocks, out upon a gentle swell, through a slight depression, over stones, weeds, brambles, till at last they came within 50 yards of the guerrilla camp. Then came a cheer from the bandits—I knew not whether of triumph or welcome—and the girls entered the camp.

What they said, what was said to them, I could not hear. I could only see. Captain Ringold raised his hat and stood with it in his hand. He was evidently speaking, for the men gathered around, and all seemed to be intent on him and the girls. Then I saw Helen step a little to the front, and all faces were turned to her. Occasionally she made a gesture, now turning to our little fortress, now pointing the finger of scorn at the guerrillas, as though to shame them or to influence whatever of manliness there might be in them. She was making them a long speech. At least, it seemed so to me, who could see, but not hear. At last there was a cheer. The conference was ended.

Then the little actress, Jaqueline, was evidently using her art. She would whisk up to one of the men, stand before him in a favorite position of hers, bent slightly forward, and shake her finger in his face. All the men stood watching her. Occasionally there came a burst of laughter, a yell of applause, a clapping of hands, and I knew that Jack was carrying her audience.

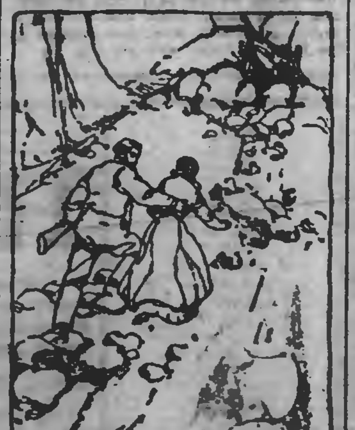
Then I could see the figures below beginning to busy themselves about preparations for supper. Helen and Jack took hold as they had done once before, the men permitting them to do the work.

Buck, beside me, chuckled.

"What is it, Buck?"

"That consarned Jack's goin roun' thar with the skillet in one han' an chawin somep'n she's got in the other. Wish I was thar."

When supper was served, each man vied with the others to provide for their guests. Jack was seated on the ground, her back resting against a tree, a plate in her lap, a tin cup at her side, evidently making a hearty supper, keeping the men running back and forth from the fire, filling her plate or her cup at every trip.



I hurried her up the steep slope.

After supper we could see that the conference was resumed between Helen and the guerrillas. She was evidently arguing with them to effect a purpose. The captain had a good deal to say, but all were taking part in the debate. Then the girls started for our fort. One of the men approached the captain and shook a fist in his face. The captain knocked him down. Another started after the retreating party, but was intercepted. A general fight ensued, some of the men placing themselves between the others and the girls, who were now coming up the hill, quickening their pace at every step. Cocking my carbine, I ran down to join the girls, meeting them midway between the fort and the guerrilla camp. First Jack came dashing past me, wild with terror, her cheeks blanched, her eyes staring. Helen came on more slowly, turning occasionally with hot cheeks and flashing eye. Below, among the guerrillas, was a babel—swearing, howling and shooting—the protecting party being the stronger and keeping the others at bay. I put my arm behind Helen and hurried her up the steep slope. When we got to the fort, Jack was already there, crouching behind the rampart, her head appearing above it, her eyes as big as saucers.

"Goody gracious, what a fool I was to go down there! Wouldn't do it again fo' anything."

Helen gave me a hurried account of the visit. On entering the camp the captain had complimented them upon their bravery, both in the fights that had occurred and in coming out unarmed, assuring them, looking ominously at some of the more cutthroat of his men, that if any man offered them the slightest indignity he would shoot him on the spot. Helen had replied that, whatever they were, she believed they were brave and above injuring a woman. Then she held up to them the magnitude of their crimes and bade them go and enlist in the Confederate army. She succeeded in getting an offer of a free conduct to all save me. This they persistently refused. After much urging the captain agreed that we should be let alone till the next morning, a promise on which I placed no reliance. Helen begged to be permitted to carry me provisions. This was also refused.

"I did all I could," she said ruefully, "but I couldn't move even the captain. They wouldn't give me a morsel for you."

"Oh, Helen," said Jack, "I'm tired of hearing yo' whine!" And, taking off her sunbonnet, out rolled a liberal supply of cornpone and salt pork.

"You little thief!" cried Helen and threw her arms around her cousin.

A second time my life had been saved, at least temporarily, by Jaqueline.

CHAPTER XVI.

A BUGLE CALL.

THE night passed without an attack. I prepared a fire as before, but it was not needed. Day dawned, and we could see that the guerrillas had made themselves more comfortable, having constructed a rude hut of boughs for shelter, showing conclusively that they intended to wait patiently for the starving process to do its work.

During the day the remnant of the provisions Jack had purloined was consumed and the command was supperless. Again we entered upon a long, weary night. All except myself were so worn that they evinced little care for watching. They were getting benumbed, a condition which comes at last over one hunted for his life. As for me, my position was harrowing. My devoted friends who had made the attempt to rescue me were starving, and, to crown all, Helen Stanforth, who had instigated the attempt, had planned it and had led the others into it, was deceived as to my true character. I brooded over the situation till I was well nigh insane. Then I made a resolve—a resolve that might free the others, but would end in my death. I would go down to the guerrillas and give myself up. It was possible that my case having been disposed of, Captain Ringold and his adherents would be able to protect the girls, and, Buck and Ginger being of no moment to the band, all might go in peace.

But there was an obstacle in the way that I knew would not be easily overcome—the opposition of all my friends. It was hard for me to go down to my death. How could I bring myself to do so with all these beloved ones endeavoring to prevent me! There was one way by which I might render them less averse to the plan. By proclaiming the military mission which had taken me to Alabama I might render myself an object of hatred and contempt. Despite the pain this confession would cost me, I resolved to make it.

At the moment I took my resolution I looked up at Helen, who was always my first object of thought before any important move. She was leaning over the battlement looking down upon the guerrillas. In her face was a strength, an honesty such as I had never seen before on that of any woman. My resolve dwindled before that heroic countenance. I could not turn her sublime faith in me to detestation.

However, my purpose to end the struggle by my own surrender was unchanged. Rising, I called out in a tone which at once attracted attention and denoted that I had something of importance to say.

"Dear friends!"

All looked at me inquiringly.

"I am going down there to give myself up. Then you can go free."

Helen's gaze bespoke not only her astonishment, but dismay.

"What yo' going to do that fo'?" asked Jack quickly.

"Because I owe it to you all to do so."

"I'm goin with yo'," said Buck.

"You will do no such thing. You must stand by your sister and cousin."

"What do yo' want to leave us in the lurch fo'?" said Jack impatiently.

This imputed motive brought a fresh addition to my distress. Even with a perfect understanding between me and the others my burden was hard enough to bear. Jack's taunt well nigh turned the scale. Bending to the cliff, I buried my face in my hands. A soft hand was laid on mine. Helen was endeavoring to uncover my face. I turned and met her eyes—strong, tender, sympathetic.

"Your life is not yours to surrender. You must wait till it is forced from you."

"I would be unworthy of your sublime devotion should I accept any further sacrifice, especially since it can be of no avail."

"By giving up now you would turn all our efforts to nothing. We shall have made a failure that will remain an eternal burden."

"It will be light compared with my self condemnation when I see you die with me."

By this time Jack had seized my other hand with both of hers.

"Yo' can't go. Yo' mustn't think of it. What would we do without yo'?"

"Cease trying to make a coward of me," I cried, "or I shall go mad!"

I sprang toward the rampart.

"Stop!" cried Helen imperatively. "I own your life to dispose of as I will—I and Jack. Had it not been for me you would have bled to death when you received your wound. Had it not been for Jack you would have already been murdered by the guerrillas."

"Yes, and I am not so base as to pull my benefactors down with me. Stand aside."

"Hark!"

Jack spoke the word in her quick way, poising her head on one side to listen. She had heard a low whistle. In another moment it was repeated, seeming to come from below, where we had built our bonfire. A figure was advancing through the gloom, holding aloft a white handkerchief. I jumped from the rampart and ran down to meet this "flag," which I soon saw was borne by Captain Ringold.

"What do you want?"

"Don't let your women come into our camp again. Jaycox is back, and he and Halliday have got the upper hand. I'm powerless."

"Will your men let the women go if I give myself up?"

"No; stay with them to the last."

"One word more."

"There's no time. I have stolen away, and if I am missed and it's known where I have been I'll be a dead man."

He was gone before the last word was spoken. I returned to the fortress.

"What is it?" cried Jack expectantly.

"He has lost the power to protect you. He advises me to stay with you to the last."

"Will you?"

"Yes," I replied, with a sigh.

"Thank God!" exclaimed Helen.

SWEET REVENGE

By

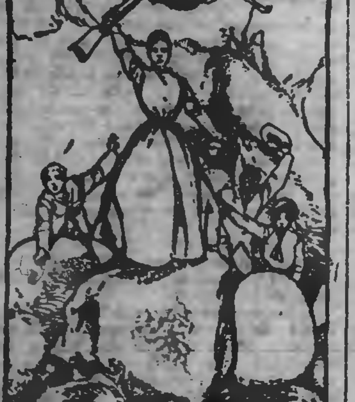
Captain F. A. MITCHEL,

Author of "Chattanooga," "Chickamauga," Etc.

Copyright, 1897, by Harper & Brothers.

I paused a moment to watch the expression of their faces. I saw at once that they were all bitterly disappointed.

"I feel bound to state further that the captain has informed me that he cannot surely guarantee your safety, though he would if he could. He tells me that the men are divided, and he does not know himself which party is the stronger. You are not sure of safety, but you have a chance, whereas if we are taken by force the chances are all against you. Before giving my views I wish to get an expression of opinion from each of you separately. Miss Stanforth, shall we accept the proposition or not? Say yes or no."



She waved her bonnet to the guerrillas.

She curled her lip. "I don't care to consider such a proposition."

"Miss Rutland?"

"No!" cried little Jack, with a snap in her eye.

"Buck?"

"Reckon I'd ruther stay whar I am awhile longer, though, by golly, I'm mighty hungry." He spoke the last words ruefully.

"Ginger?"

"I ain't no traitor man, mars', ef I air black. Ginger hain't gwine t' talk 'bout gibbin nobody up t' save hisself."

"My friends," I said, and I could not repress a tremor in my voice, though God knows I tried, "I cannot accept your sacrifice. The guerrillas, having secured me, will doubtless quarrel about you, and the captain and those who are with him may find an opportunity to let you get away under cover of the night."

"No, no!" cried all. "We'll stand together."

"How were you to reply?" asked Helen.

"If the terms were accepted, we were to go down; if rejected, we were to wave."

Helen took off her check bonnet and, tying it to a carbine, stood up on the rocks and waved it to the guerrillas, who were standing below watching for our signal, while our little command gave as lusty a cheer as their exhausted condition would admit.

But the real heroism was yet to come. I had seen evidence that the woman wing of my army was not to be appalled at any proposition, but it was impossible that I could be prepared for what was to follow. I have sometimes wondered if it was not rather an emanation of genius than heroism, but have invariably concluded that it was the genius of heroism.

The first flush of excitement at the rejection of the terms being over, Jack began to show signs of irritation, a condition I attributed to the gnawing pangs of hunger. She shook her fist at the guerrillas, vowing that if she could ever get her papa again he should scour the country till he had captured every one of them, and when captured she would herself take inexpressible pleasure in making targets of them for pistol practice. Then she would call to them for something to eat. They were too far to hear her, and of course her request would not have been granted if they had. "Captain, good captain, dear captain," she cried, "do let us out of this! That's a dear boy!" Then she turned to Miss Stanforth. "Helen, what in the world did we come on such an errand as this fo'? Why didn't we send the soldiers?"

"Jack," said Helen, "I'm sorry you regret it. I don't. I never regret."

"Yo're showin the white feather," said Buck.

Jack's eyes glistened with anger.

"The white feather! What do yo' mean, yo' little pest? White feather! I'm not afraid of all the guerrillas in Christendom. They won't hurt me. I'm going down there to ask 'em fo' something to eat. I'll get yo' all off. White feather! I'll show yo'!"

She sprang upon the rampart, but I caught her and dragged her back.

"Let me go!" she screamed.

"Didn' I tole yo' Missy Jack hab de biggest temper in de souf?" cried Ginger proudly.

"Let her go," said Helen, "and I'll go with her. If those guerrillas who are disposed to protect us can do so, they will succeed as well without you as with you. Indeed, your presence will only tend to irritate them. Come, Jack, we'll try it."

I stood aghast at such a plan. I forbade it. The girls were determined. I begged, ordered, stormed at them, declaring that for every step they took toward that den of hellhounds I would take two. At last Helen laid her hand on my sleeve and looked me calmly in the eye.

"Major Branderstane, I want you to let me have my way in this matter. You owe it to me. When you were wounded, I took you in and succored you. Since we have been in this place I have obeyed your every order. Jack has flashed unknowingly, unintentionally, a stroke of genius. Jack is a genius. She has hit on our only chance. She fascinated the guerrillas once, and she'll do it again. She will split them in halves and set one half against the other. But she will need me. Give me that revolver."

All this was lost on me. I swore they should not go. I planted myself between them and the rampart. Helen stepped to one side of me. Jack darted to the other. Ginger put his hand on my arm.

"Don't stop Missy Jack, mars'. Missy Jack can do eberyt'ing wid men folks." He turned my face to the cliff. "Look dat a-way, an yo' won't see hit."

When I broke from the old man, Helen and Jack were beyond the rampart.

I have seen lifeboat men pull out in a tempestuous sea, breasting a howling wind and madly tossing billows; I have seen men march out to battle with almost a certainty of death or mutilation, but I have never looked upon any sight with the mingled terror and admiration that thrilled me as I beheld these two girls, without other weapon than woman's loveliness, descend the rocky slope toward the guerrilla camp. They moved hand in hand, as I have seen graceful ships sail side by side. Helen was the taller and the more commanding, but both walked erect, Helen buoyed by a native courage, Jaqueline confident in the possession of a gift, a genius for bending men to her will.

They had scarcely left us when the guerrillas caught sight of them and stood looking up in stupid wonder. Ginger, Buck and I were staring down upon them, Ginger's eyes starting out of his head, Buck leaning excitedly over the rampart, I clutching my carbine. On went the girls, between the flanking rocks, out upon a gentle swell, through a slight depression, over stones, weeds, brambles, till at last they came within 50 yards of the guerrilla camp. Then came a cheer from the bandits—I knew not whether of triumph or welcome—and the girls entered the camp.

What they said, what was said to them, I could not hear. I could only see. Captain Ringold raised his hat and stood with it in his hand. He was evidently speaking, for the men gathered around, and all seemed to be intent on him and the girls. Then I saw Helen step a little to the front, and all faces were turned to her. Occasionally she made a gesture, now turning to our little fortress, now pointing the finger of scorn at the guerrillas, as though to shame them or to influence whatever of manliness there might be in them. She was making them a long speech. At least, it seemed so to me, who could see, but not hear. At last there was a cheer. The conference was ended.

Then the little actress, Jaqueline, was evidently using her art. She would whisk up to one of the men, stand before him in a favorite position of hers, bent slightly forward, and shake her finger in his face. All the men stood watching her. Occasionally there came a burst of laughter, a yell of applause, a clapping of hands, and I knew that Jack was carrying her audience.

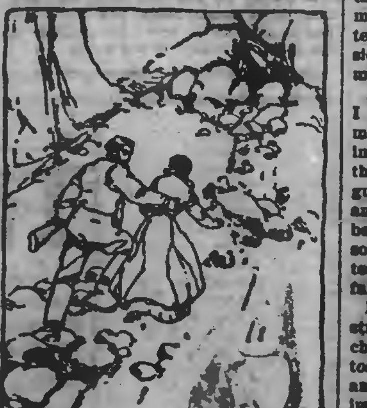
Then I could see the figures below beginning to busy themselves about preparations for supper. Helen and Jack took hold as they had done once before, the men permitting them to do the work.

Buck, beside me, chuckled.

"What is it, Buck?"

"That consarned Jack's goin roun' thar with the skillet in one han' an chawin somep'n she's got in the other. Wish I was thar."

When supper was served, each man vied with the others to provide for their guests. Jack was seated on the ground, her back resting against a tree, a plate in her lap, a tin cup at her side, evidently making a hearty supper, keeping the men running back and forth from the fire, filling her plate or her cup at every trip.



I hurried her up the steep slope.

After supper we could see that the conference was resumed between Helen and the guerrillas. She was evidently arguing with them to effect a purpose. The captain had a good deal to say, but all were taking part in the debate. Then the girls started for our fort. One of the men approached the captain and shook a fist in his face. The captain knocked him down. Another started after the retreating party, but was intercepted. A general fight ensued, some of the men placing themselves between the others and the girls, who were now coming up the hill, quickening their pace at every step. Cocking my carbine, I ran down to join the girls, meeting them midway between the fort and the guerrilla camp. First Jack came dashing past me, wild with terror, her cheeks blanched, her eyes staring. Helen came on more slowly, turning occasionally with hot cheeks and flashing eye. Below, among the guerrillas, was a babel—swearing, howling and shooting—the protecting party being the stronger and keeping the others at bay. I put my arm behind Helen and hurried her up the steep slope. When we got to the fort, Jack was already there, crouching behind the rampart, her head appearing above it, her eyes as big as saucers.

"Goody gracious, what a fool I was to go down there! Wouldn't do it again fo' anything."

Helen gave me a hurried account of the visit. On entering the camp the captain had complimented them upon their bravery, both in the fights that had occurred and in coming out unarmed, assuring them, looking ominously at some of the more cutthroat of his men, that if any man offered them the slightest indignity he would shoot him on the spot. Helen had replied that, whatever they were, she believed they were brave and above injuring a woman. Then she held up to them the magnitude of their crimes and bade them go and enlist in the Confederate army. She succeeded in getting an offer of a free conduct to all save me. This they persistently refused. After much urging the captain agreed that we should be let alone till the next morning, a promise on which I placed no reliance. Helen begged to be permitted to carry me provisions. This was also refused.

"I did all I could," she said ruefully, "but I couldn't move even the captain. They wouldn't give me a morsel for you."

"Oh, Helen," said Jack, "I'm tired of hearing yo' whine!" And, taking off her sunbonnet, out rolled a liberal supply of cornpone and salt pork.

"You little thief!" cried Helen and threw her arms around her cousin.

A second time my life had been saved, at least temporarily, by Jaqueline.

CHAPTER XVI.

A BUGLE CALL.

THE night passed without an attack. I prepared a fire as before, but it was not needed. Day dawned, and we could see that the guerrillas had made themselves more comfortable, having constructed a rude hut of boughs for shelter, showing conclusively that they intended to wait patiently for the starving process to do its work.

During the day the remnant of the provisions Jack had purloined was consumed and the command was supperless. Again we entered upon a long, weary night. All except myself were so worn that they evinced little care for watching. They were getting benumbed, a condition which comes at last over one hunted for his life. As for me, my position was harrowing. My devoted friends who had made the attempt to rescue me were starving, and, to crown all, Helen Stanforth, who had instigated the attempt, had planned it and had led the others into it, was deceived as to my true character. I brooded over the situation till I was well nigh insane. Then I made a resolve—a resolve that might free the others, but would end in my death. I would go down to the guerrillas and give myself up. It was possible that my case having been disposed of, Captain Ringold and his adherents would be able to protect the girls, and, Buck and Ginger being of no moment to the band, all might go in peace.

But there was an obstacle in the way that I knew would not be easily overcome—the opposition of all my friends. It was hard for me to go down to my death. How could I bring myself to do so with all these beloved ones endeavoring to prevent me! There was one way by which I might render them less averse to the plan. By proclaiming the military mission which had taken me to Alabama I might render myself an object of hatred and contempt. Despite the pain this confession would cost me, I resolved to make it.

At the moment I took my resolution I looked up at Helen, who was always my first object of thought before any important move. She was leaning over the battlement looking down upon the guerrillas. In her face was a strength, an honesty such as I had never seen before on that of any woman. My resolve dwindled before that heroic countenance. I could not turn her sublime faith in me to detestation.

However, my purpose to end the struggle by my own surrender was unchanged. Rising, I called out in a tone which at once attracted attention and denoted that I had something of importance to say.

"Dear friends!"

All looked at me inquiringly.

"I am going down there to give myself up. Then you can go free."

Helen's gaze bespoke not only her astonishment, but dismay.

"What yo' going to do that fo'?" asked Jack quickly.

"Because I owe it to you all to do so."

"I'm goin with yo'," said Buck.

"You will do no such thing. You must stand by your sister and cousin."

"What do yo' want to leave us in the lurch fo'?" said Jack impatiently.

This imputed motive brought a fresh addition to my distress. Even with a perfect understanding between me and the others my burden was hard enough to bear. Jack's taunt well nigh turned the scale. Bending to the cliff, I buried my face in my hands. A soft hand was laid on mine. Helen was endeavoring to uncover my face. I turned and met her eyes—strong, tender, sympathetic.

"Your life is not yours to surrender. You must wait till it is forced from you."

"I would be unworthy of your sublime devotion should I accept any further sacrifice, especially since it can be of no avail."

"By giving up now you would turn all our efforts to nothing. We shall have made a failure that will remain an eternal burden."

"It will be light compared with my self condemnation when I see you die with me."

By this time Jack had seized my other hand with both of hers.

"Yo' can't go. Yo' mustn't think of it. What would we do without yo'?"

"Cease trying to make a coward of me," I cried, "or I shall go mad!"

I sprang toward the rampart.

"Stop!" cried Helen imperatively. "I own your life to dispose of as I will—I and Jack. Had it not been for me you would have bled to death when you received your wound. Had it not been for Jack you would have already been murdered by the guerrillas."

"Yes, and I am not so base as to pull my benefactors down with me. Stand aside."

"Hark!"

Jack spoke the word in her quick way, poising her head on one side to listen. She had heard a low whistle. In another moment it was repeated, seeming to come from below, where we had built our bonfire. A figure was advancing through the gloom, holding aloft a white handkerchief. I jumped from the rampart and ran down to meet this "flag," which I soon saw was borne by Captain Ringold.

"No; stay with them to the last."

"One word more."

"There's no time. I have stolen away, and if I am missed and it's known where I have been I'll be a dead man."

He was gone before the last word was spoken. I returned to the fortress.

"What is it?" cried Jack expectantly.

"He has lost the power to protect you. He advises me to stay with you to the last."

"Will you?"

"Yes," I replied, with a sigh.

"Thank God!" exclaimed Helen.

Bankrupt Sale Of Wall Paper

The Montreal Standard says of Saturday, January 18th, says:—

One of the largest wall paper firms in the Dominion, Messrs. O. B. Routley & Co., of Toronto and Peterborough, have commenced a retail business in Montreal, having purchased the assigned estate and premises of the W. J. Brown & Co., Limited, wall paper dealers, St. Catharine street, west.

The valuation of the stock of wall paper purchased amounted to over $30,000, but was secured at such a low figure that it justified the new firm in making their Montreal debut with a gigantic sale. This sale will commence at 8 a.m., on the 20th inst., and continue for 30 days only, at prices, it is said, never before known in this city.

The services of Mr. W. G. Browne, the popular head of the late firm, have been secured to act as manager for Messrs. O. B. Routley & Co., so that the old customers will receive the attention they have been used to.

Grist mill of C. W. Cornish destroyed. Loss $18,000. Insurance, $13,500.

Planing mill of F. J. Moore destroyed. Loss $10,000. Insurance $3,500.

Summarized above is the result fo a disastrous conflagration that broke out at Lakefield about six o'clock last night and which for a time threatened to sweep the entire village before it. Two of the lakeside town's thriving industries have been put out of existence, and the blow is one from which it will take some time to recover. Only the splendid, almost heroic work of the Lakefield fire brigade prevented the flames from spreading and adding to the destruction of property and consequent financial loss. For a time it was feared that the woollen mill and the Cavendish Lumber Company's saw-mill would fall a prey to the flames, but, happily, the fire was kept confined to the two buildings indicated above. Had the Lakefield people been unable to cope with the flames they intended asking Peterborough for assistance, but it was not necessary to make the request.

The fire broke out in the grist mill about six o'clock, and what caused it is not definitely known. The flames were first noticed in the third story of the mill and in some quarters it is thought that an overheated shaft was the cause. Others attributed it to defective electric insulation. The grist mill is a three storey wooden building, and was one of the largest in this part of the province. The planing mill was also a frame building, and, although not large, was splendidly equipped, the machinery being of the most modern type. Some of the machinery was got out of the mill, but it is so badly damaged as to be practically useless. Several hundred bushels of grain were destroyed in the grist mill, as well as a large amount of flour, feed, etc

The fire alarm was sounded in Lakefield a few minutes after six o'clock, and in a few minutes a large number had gathered at the scene of the fire, where the flames were rapidly licking up the wooden walls and dry timber in the interior. The fire brigade responded to the alarm quickly with the engine and soon a good stream was being poured on to the flames

It was seen from the first that the grist mill was doomed and that it was going to be impossible to keep the flames from spreading to the planing mill, which was only a few yards from the place where the fire broke out. The firemen and the villagers worked with a will and succeeded in getting some of the machinery out of the planing mill, but were unable to get it far enough away from the burning structure to prevent it being damaged. A $2000 plaining machine was among the machinery badly damaged.

When it was seen that the two mills could not be saved the fire fighters turned their attention to preventing the spread of the flames. Mr. John Brisdon's house, which is located on the old school grounds and only about fifty feet away from the burning structures, was saved with great difficulty. The hose had to be turned on the house several times and considerable damage was, of course, done to the furniture and by the breaking of window glass, etc.

A few hundred feet along the river bank from the grist and planing mills is located the Lakefield woollen mill, and a little further down the Cavendish Lumber Company's plant. Considerable consternation prevailed when the sparks were seen flying from the top of the high grist mill and being carried far by the high wind. Had it been in the summer time fire would likely have broken out in several places, but falling on the snow as they did last night, no damage resulted.

ENGINE BROKE DOWN.

The fire brigade was handicapped in its work by the engine going wrong after it had been working for about half an hour. Thereafter it was of no service and the firemen had to do the best they could with the equipment at their disposal. The brigade was directed by the chief, Mr. Harry Moore, who deserves credit for the splendid judgment shown. The fire fighting equipment of the Lakefield Cement Co. was brought into service to conquer the flames and was of great assistance.

The two mills were completely destroyed by eight o'clock and the danger of the conflagration spreading was over by that time.

Mr. Cornish places his loss at $18,000 with $13,500 insurance. Mr. Moore did not fare so well, having only $3,500 insurance while damage to the extent of $10,000 was done.

A number of farmers in the surrounding country who had grain at the mill will have small losses. Mr. M. Blewett of Young's Point, will be the heaviest loser in this respect. He had 400 or 500 bushels of wheat stored at the mill and it was burned. As the building was burning, the grain poured down from the upper storeys where it was stored.

The two mills destroyed were located on the east side of the Otonabee river, a short distance from the main street. A stiff breeze was blowing while the fire was in progress and carried the sparks towards the main part of the village, but fortunately they did not set fire to anything, owing to the snow on the roofs of the buildings and in other places.

NARROW ESCAPES.

Some of the fire fighters had narrow escapes from injury from the flames and falling walls and timber. One man's clothes took fire, but the hose was quickly turned on him and the garments drenched with water. It is unnecessary to add that the man was not burned.

The power house owned by Mr. S. R. Legott, was in danger for some time, but it was not damaged.

It is not yet known whether Mr. Cornish or Mr. Moore will rebuild. Mr. Moore is reeve of the village.

The two buildings destroyed were owned by the Dickson Company, of Peterborough, whose loss is largely covered by insurance.

The insurance on the contents of the flour mill is as follows:—$15,000 in Waterloo Mutual, Hand-in-Hand, Economical, Phoenix, of London; Anglo-American, Montreal, Canada and Atlas.

The loss on the planing mill machinery and stock is about $10,000, with insurance on contents of $3,300, in the Gore Mutual and London Mutual

BRIGADE WAS READY TO GO TO LAKEFIELD

The reflection of the fire at Lakefield last night was seen quite plainly at Peterborough, and until definite word was received, there was much speculation as to what was burning. The northern sky was a lurid color, and someone sent in an alarm of fire. The members of the fire brigade quickly gathered at the hall and the engine was got in readiness to be taken to Lakefield if required. There was no request for assistance, however, and the firemen dispersed.

C. P. R. Express Was Two Hours Behind Time

Did Not Arrive Here Until 25 Minutes Past One

The C.P.R. express from Toronto that is due here at 11.16, was over two hours late to-day, not arriving here until twenty-five minutes past one. As a result local people were unable to have their Toronto morning dailies until after dinner. The cause of the long delay was partially due to the heavy snowstorm raging between here and Toronto and to the fact that the train from Detroit connecting with the express for the east, was an hour behind scheduled time.

DIDN'T LIKE THE THREAT

"If you don't stop throwing your slurs at me I'll have you put behind the bars."

These words were uttered this morning after the session of the county police court, by the sister of Frank Hamilton, the young man who has pleaded guilty to the charge of raising a cheque in his favor and issued by the Cavendish Lumber Company. These words were directed towards a man whom it is alleged has been trying to make her uncomfortable owing to the fact that her brother is in gaol. They had quite a heated argument over the matter in the gaol corridor downstairs.

Building a Scow for Government

Messrs. Hickey are at Work also Repairing two Others

Boat building is not very brisk in Peterborough this winter. Mr. John Hickey and Mr. Geo. Hickey are building a government scow, costing $1,500 at the McDonald shipyards. It will be a general purpose scow and will have an upper deck. Mr. John Hickey is also repairing two old scows, which have been used in dredging the river this fall. One of them is at present drawn up on land in preparation for repairs, near Riverside park.

KILLED BY A RAT

A singular death befell John, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Falen, Hawley, South Fredericksburg. The child, who was a year and three months old, while asleep was attacked by a rat and his shoulder and hand terribly bitten, the child dying from the shock. It is supposed that the rat attacked the boy's shoulder, and that his hand was bitten repeatedly while attempting to ward the rat off.

Chimney Crashed Through Building

Considerable Damage Done by Yesterday's Heavy Winds

Reports of the great wind storm come from several parts of the city of chimneys which were blown down and of windows which were broken by the blasts of wind.

The tall furnace chimney of the Albion hotel, east city, was blown down yesterday at 11.30 o'clock and fell on the blacksmith shop, which is beside the hotel, carrying with it a large section of the roof and the upstair floor. The chimney was 12 ft. high, and was only built last fall. To-day it is lying in the blacksmith shop a total wreck. Fortunately the smithy had not been occupied for the past week and nobody was in the building at the time of the accident. The furnace of the Albion had to be put out. To-day there is no furnace fire for the hotel. Repairs will be made as soon as the weather will permit.

The chimney arch of Mr. Dan Hennessey's store at 64 Hunter street, east city, was also blown off, but no damage is reported.

A large window in the home of Mr. James Edgar, at the corner of Weller and Park street, was blown in. Mr. Edgar was unable to obtain any glass in Peterborough suitable for the window and had to send out of town for a new one.

Fancy Dress Carnival at Street Railway Rink postponed until Tuesday night next, January 28.

Deseronto Council Endorses Request

Of Northumberland-Durham Power Co.—Will Go as Deputation to Ottawa

At the meeting of Deseronto town council held recently the following resolution was passed endorsing the claim of the Northumberland-Durham Power Co. The whole council decided to form the deputation from Havelock, Norwood and other places which will go to Ottawa in a few days.

Whereas the Northumberland-Durham Power Co., Limited, holds a lease from the Ontario Government of the Main Healey Falls and lower adjoining Rapids and owns the patent of 64 acres of land required for the development works, and the Company also owns two portions of the upper Healey Rapids several deeds of other lands; and the said Company has stopped construction work on official advice of Hastings Council and an inspecting committee of rate payers of that town, pending the decision of the Department of Railways and Canals as to the intervening portion of the upper rapids, which the Dominion Government had purchased some thirty years ago for crib-sliding purposes now no longer used.

Therefore be it resolved that this Council of the Town of Deseronto do go in a body to Ottawa along with other Councils and with the Directors of the company to memorialize the Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, (which they now do) to lease to the said Company, the said intervening portions of the upper Rapids so that the Company can make a full development of the whole stretch of Healey Rapids.

This Council from the explanations of the Managing Director, J. A. Culverwell and other engineers' plans, documents reports believe that it is in the interest of the construction of the Canal to grant the request to the Company to develop the whole stretch of rapids rather than only the lower portion, the two schemes of development being entirely different. It also appears that this intervening portion of rapids will be of no use to any other Company for water power purposes as the Company owns the water power above, below and opposite to the Dominion Government portion; and besides the Company can furnish the lands for locks and canal cuttings and lockage water by way of part consideration to the Dominion Government.

And whereas the said Company has waited over two years since a deputation waited at Ottawa on behalf of the Company claims; and whereas practically the rest of the Trent River Canal surveys are completed and the Healey section is still delayed and the Company's operating thereby hindered and the whole south midland and lake front thereby suffering for lack of cheap power.

And whereas the town of Deseronto, well known as a large manufacturing centre, having a grand natural harbor and other excellent shipping facilities, yet by reason of its want of electric power, is handicapped in its endeavor to obtain new manufacturies, at the present time so particularly needful in Deseronto, on account of the condition of the lumbering in the back country.

Therefore your petitioners do strongly urge the Dominion Government to give the said Company immediate attention and to grant their request—which request is already endorsed by eighteen Municipal Councils, and particularly so, as the Ontario Government through the Honourable Frank Cochrane, has requested the Company to secure this decision — and have also instructed the Company if the Dominion Government Grant is not secured to recommend development, after a reasonable time of of the lower thirty-seven foot head of water controlled by their lease; and your petitioners will ever pray.

Dated at Deseronto this eighteenth day of January, being passed at a meeting of the whole Council.

(Signed) JOHN NEWTON, M. D.,
Mayor.
R. N. IRVINE,
Town Clerk.

FELL DOWN STAIRS WITH CHILD

The following testimonial proves once again the superiority of "Nature's Healing Balm," Zam-Buk. Mrs. L. Spalding of 505 Erie St., Stratford, Ont., says: "Some time back I met with a peculiar accident while descending the stairs with a child in my arms. I slipped, falling heavily on my left arm and elbow, receiving a flesh wound. My arm was inflamed, swollen and very painful. I tried different preparations, but the wound kept discharging and refused to heal. About this time my brother suggested using Zam-Buk. I acted upon his advice. Zam-Buk thoroughly cleaned the wound, stopped all discharging and soothed the pain and in four weeks the wound was nicely healed. I have had perfect use of both elbow and arm ever since and owe this good luck to the wonderful healing balm Zam-Buk and would advise others to use nothing else." Zam-Buk cures cuts, bruises, burns, eczema, festering wounds and all skin diseases—of all druggists and stores—50c. box or postpaid from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. SPORTING NEWS

Only One Race Yesterday; Horse Owners Wouldn't Start

On account of the dangerous condition of the track due to it being cut up yesterday when it was very soft and freezing during the night, it was impossible to get a field for the 2.22 class in the second day of the Peterborough Turf Club's winter meet so the above event had to be called off.

As the officials are not in anyway responsible for the caprices of the weather man, they are not to blame because the 22 class race did not materialize. Tuesday the rain fell and softened the ice to such an extent that the bikes and sharp shod horses chopped it up so badly that yesterday it was regarded by some of the horsemen as too dangerous to start on.

Starter Conners announced that some of the owners would not allow their horses to start, but said as there were so many people present the officials would do what they could in the matter.

After considerable delay it was given out that there would be a free-for-all. The horses that started were Planet, Harry D and William C. who finished the three heats in the order named. Sleighs were used but time was slow owing to the slow track.

A large crowd was in attendance and it is unfortunate that conditions would not permit of the events being pulled as scheduled. Planet set off at a steady clip and was closely followed by Harry D. who went very fast when he went even but broke so often that he spoiled his chances of winning. William C. was never a factor.

Below is the summary:

Planet—J. McDowell, Toronto—1 1 1
Harry D.—J. Montgomery, Parry Sound 2 2 2
William C. J. McDowell, Toronto—3 3 3
Time—2.58, 2.48, 2.45.

Straths Look Good for The City League Honors

Strathconas look good for the City League Championship. Unless Lakefield stops their onward march they practically have the cup cinched. If the Lakesiders managed to trim the Straths the schedule would likely end with Strathconas and High Lifes a tie for first place.

Following is the standing of the teams at the present time:—

	Won.	Lost.	To play
Strathconas	2	0	2
High Lifes	2	1	1
Norwood	1	1	2
Lakefield	1	1	2
Bridgenorth	0	3	1

The Strathconas have yet to meet Lakefield and Bridgenorth, while the High Lifes have only one more game, that with Norwood. Norwood has to hook up with Lakefield, and the High Lifes and Lakefield has yet to clash with Norwood, and the Strathconas. Bridgenorth has yet to play the Strathconas.

High Lifes Have Narrow Squeak With Lakefield

Defeated Them in Spectacular Game by 8-7—Some Brilliant Work by Both Teams—Norwood Shows Fine Form and Piled Up Big Score Against Bridgenorth

High Lifes

The usual City League weekly games were played last night before a large and very enthusiastic crowd. Both contests provided ample room for rooting, and there were many strong voiced supporters of the different teams playing. Mr. George Lynes refereed, and, as usual, gave satisfaction and justice to everybody on the ice, and his decisions were generally approved by the crowd.

BRIDGENORTH — NORWOOD

Although outclassed, Bridgenorth put up the best article of hockey they have this year in their game against Norwood, and at times showed surprisingly good form. The septette from the eastern town, however, played fine hockey and were in much better condition than they were for their game with the Strathconas. Although the line-up they presented was not as strong as the one that played here in the above mentioned game, an all-round improvement was easily noticeable. This was particularly true of their combination play and the way they bored in on the nets. In their game with Strathconas they lost the puck continually around the goal and seemed to find it hard work to do effective work at this critical point, whether checked or not. Of course it must be remembered that Bridgenorth has not a team that is really so strong as the Strathconas, but even this considered, Norwood showed a remarkable improvement. The two man combinations that were worked between Doherty and Kempt were the means of getting many goals. Both of the men mentioned played remarkably good games, their skating and general playing comparing advantageously with that of the majority of the fastest intermediates. Time and time again they shot out together, and often individually for that matter, and their every rush was a danger signal to the opposing aggregation. Pearce and Scott also did good work, the former showing up to much better advantage than he did in the Norwood-Strathcona game, and he followed up and checked back well. Doherty and Huycke, at goal and point, respectively, made excellent defenders of the nets. The latter, who played goal, the last game, brought his stopping tendencies into play and neatly handled many dangerous shots. Doherty did good work in goal.

For Bridgenorth the honors probably go to E. Belleghem, the goal tender for the northern hamlet. He handled pretty nearly everything possible and cleared quickly and intelligently. Jopling and Conway were the pick of the balance of the team. The game was not a rough one and the best of feeling apparently prevailed among the players.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Bridgenorth.		Norwood.
E Belleghem	Goal	Doherty
B Cullen	Point	Huycke
Mann	Cover	Cummings
H Belleghem	Rover	F Doherty
Jopling	Centre	Kempt
W Cullen	Right Wing	Scott
Conway	Left Wing	Pearce
A. Nicholls	Umpire	McKenty
B Brummell	Timer	E J Foster

Penalty Timer—R. Reid.

THE GAME.

Kempt drew first blood for Norwood on a pass from Pearce. 1—0. 3 minutes.

Doherty landed the next on a pass from Kempt. 2—0. 4 minutes.

Conway timbered two minutes later for rough play. Scott was allowed the usual two minutes' rest for cross checking. Kempt sent in a beautiful side shot from the left board and found the ropes. 3—0. 6 minutes.

Mann did the trick for Bridgenorth. 3—1. 4 minutes.

Doherty scored in 1 min. 4—1.

Scott was caught loafing and was handed a rest ticket for two minutes. Conway was penalized for the same time for tripping. No more scoring was done in the first half, which ended Norwood 4, Bridgenorth 1.

SECOND HALF.

Pearce scored the first goal in this half on the best individual rush of the night up to the time. 3 min. 5-1.

Doherty enlivened matters by landing a goal on a magnificent individual rush. 2 min. 6—1.

Jopling did the necessary for Bridgenorth. 1 min. 6-2.

Doherty got away with another of his splendid individual plays and tallied. 1 min. 7-2.

Belleghem scored in 1 min. 7-3.

Cummings was boarded for 2 min. for rough work. Kempt did it again. 3 min. 8-3.

Scott sent in the puck on a push from Kempt. 1 min. 9-3.

Jopling passed the puck to Belleghem, who scored. 1 min. 9-4.

Kempt made a sensational rush passing over to Pearce in front of the nets. The latter sent the rubber through. 1 min. 10-4.

He repeated the trick in 2 min. 11-4.

Cullen scored on a clever rush along the boards and wide shot. 3 min. 11-5.

Doherty rushed and passed to Kempt who re-passed and Doherty shot and tallied. 12-5. 2 min.

Cullen scored. 1 min. 12-6.

Doherty secured the last one leaving the final score—

Norwood—13.
Bridgenorth—6.

SECOND GAME.

Ford, the High Life's point, didn't show up for the commencement of the first half and Crawford was dropped to even up. Play had not been long in progress, however, before Ford came on. The game started with plenty of dash and both teams did great work. Quinn sent in a slow one on Thornton who pushed it aside. On a pass from the side T. Sabatino scored the first goal. 2 min. 1-0.

Moran was the first man side-tracked, being given 2 minutes for slashing. There was a heavy fusilade around the Lakefield goal, but most of the shots went wild. Quinn bodied Rose heavily into the boards and was warned. M. Sabatino became too strenuous and was allowed a 2 minute's respite. T. Sabatino rushed and passed to Quinn, who scored 2-0. 8 min.

Quinn rushed and on a neat shot notched the first one for the High Lifes. 2-1.

Ford and Rose broke away for a spectacular ramble, but a shot went wide. Foley was chased for 1 min. Thornton stopped a corker from Quinn. Rose scored for High Lifes. 2-2. 5 mins.

Rose again did the trick in 30 seconds. 3-2.

Ford was laid off for 2 min. Quinn of Lakefield, swooped down on the rubber and rushed and scored. However, he was loafing offside before receiving the pass and Referee Lynch disallowed the goal. A short time later he did another rush stunt, but was so closely checked that his shot went wild.

The other Quinn secured a point for High Lifes. 4-2. 16 mins.

In four minutes later he again tallied. 5-2.

Ferguson's slashing was responsible for his being given two minutes. Thornton got in the way of a couple of hot ones. Moran sent in a pretty one from the side making the score 5-3. 30 sec.

The tally remained unchanged up to half time.

SECOND HALF.

Foley received an injury in the first half and was unable to play the second period. Crawford was dropped to even up. Ferguson was penalized two minutes. L. Quinn made a brilliant rush and shot from side. 5—4. 3 1-2 minutes.

Crawford blocked cleverly. L. Quinn missed scoring by a hair's-breath. Rose obtained the next for High Lifes. 6—4. 6 min.

Ferguson got away on a superb rush and scored. 1 1-2 min. 7—4.

Crawford was kept busy for a while in looking after some bad looking ones at close range. R. Quinn again scored for High Lifes. 8—4. 4 minutes.

Ferguson slashed L. Quinn when he was making a rush and was given two minutes. L. Quinn was benched 2 minutes for slashing. Murduff scored. 8—5. 3 min.

L Quinn rushed and passed to Sabatino, who found the nets. 3 minutes. 8—6.

Sabatino got the last for Lakefield. 1-2 minutes. 8—7.

The teams:—

Lakefield.		High Lifes.
C Crawford	Goal.	Thornton
M Sabatino	Point.	Ford
Murduff	Cover-point.	Ferguson
L Quinn	Rover.	Rose
T Sabatino	Centre.	R Quinn
Moran	Right Wing.	Pentland
W Crawford	Left Wing.	W Foley
W Hurl	Umpire	L Derocher
W Leonard	Timer	W Stroud

Penalty Timer—R Reid.

The game was the most exciting seen here this winter. The first two went to the High Lifes, making the half time score 5—3. Lakefield then made it 5—4 and their opponents ran up three straights, making the tally 8—4. Then Lakefield banged through the next three, leaving the final score 8—7.

Rose, Ferguson, Thornton, Quinn and Ford were probably the most effective for the winners, while Quinn for Lakefield gave a remarkable exhibition, excelling himself at all stages. Crawford in goal, and the two Sabatinos also played useful games.

Bankers Lose to Keene Team

Defeated Last Night by Score of 6-4—Half Time Tally 4-0.

A team of local bankers drove to Keene last night and were defeated by a score of 6-4 in an interesting and strenuously fought game. The score at half time was 4-0.

Some supporters accompanied the bankers and encouraged the money boys to put it over the Trent Valley outfit. For a while in the second half it looked as though they would succeed in doing so, but the lead of the eastern hamlet in the initial period was too much for them to overcome.

For the losers A. Giroux in goal, played a remarkably good game and Cahill and Kelly also shone. Weir and Quinn were the pick of Keene septette.

Mr. J. B. McIntyre of Keene, was a satisfactory referee.

The teams were:—

Keene		Bankers
Dean	Goal.	A. Giroux
Spears	Point	Kelly
J. Quinn	Cover	Cahill
Dickson	Rover	Hayes
Weir	Centre	Wareham
Walsh	Right Wing	Porter
Newton	Left Wing	G. Giroux

F. J. Pugh, Peterborough, and W. H. Pugh, Keene, acted as timekeepers.

Bell Company In the Lead

Took Measure of Northern Electric Company's Team Last Night

The Bell Telephone hockey team defeated the Northern Electric Company's team at Brock street rink last night by 3 goals to 2. The Electric company's team was composed of Montreal men, but they were not fast enough to outscore the Bell aggregation. The game was played after the city league matches and the teams lined up as follows:—

Bell Co.		Northern Electric
Brammer	Goal.	Skybow
Leitch	Point.	Burridge
Bruce	Cover point.	Johnston
Wade	Rover.	Davidson
Fitzgerald	Center.	Noseworthy
Wilson	Right Wing	McGregor

Norman Gale made a satisfactory referee.

Pleasant Time Spent at the Residence of Mrs. George Curtis

The entertainment and social evening held by the Sunnyside Branch of the Women's Auxiliary in connection with St. Luke's church was a great [success]. Clergyman Was One Week Ahead of Time

Local Minister Makes Amusing Mistake—No "Waiting at the Church"

There was no "waiting at the church" about the conduct of a local minister yesterday. Neither can it be said that he was tardy in being on the spot in time to perform his duty. The story goes, and it is well authenticated, that yesterday afternoon the reverend gentleman and his wife arrayed in their Sunday best, set out for the home of a north end citizen, where he had to officiate at the marriage of a popular young Peterborough lady to a local gentleman. On arriving at the house they were informed that they were a week ahead of time, the wedding not taking place until, Wednesday, January 29th. The clergyman was somewhat embarrassed by the peculiar position in which he was placed by his mistake in the dates, but admitted that the joke was on him, and went home to await the passing of the week.

DOCTORS AND DRUGS FAILED HER

ECZEMA TORTURED HER.

Then She Tried "Fruit-a-tives" and They Cured Her.

Skin disease is always due to impure blood. It is the duty of the skin, bowels and kidneys to rid the system of tissue waste. When there is anything wrong with the kidneys or bowels, the skin tries to do extra work and breaks down under the strain. Sometimes the skin is attacked by germs, which, because of its weakened condition, it is unable to resist. Ointments and lotions, and dusting powders, and medicated soaps are useless in Eczema, because they treat only the outside skin. "Fruit-a-tives" cure, because they go to the root of the trouble, they purify the blood. They act on the liver—regulate the kidneys and bowels—soothe and stimulate the skin—and so purify and enrich the blood that disease germs are thrown off—the itching, bleeding surfaces healed—and the whole system is built up and strengthened.

"I had dreadful Eczema on my face, arms and head. I was advised to take 'Fruit-a-tives' to purify the blood and I am very thankful that I took this medicine. When I had taken two boxes, the rash was entirely gone, the pain in the back left, and my complexion is clearer than it has been for years. Before I used this medicine, I had used many kinds of salves and took quantities of medicines, but these did me no good. But 'Fruit-a-tives' at once did me good—and they entirely took away the fearful rash." Mrs. F. Malliot, 34 Union Street, Ottawa, 50c. At druggists.

SENATE REFORM

In the House of Commons on Monday, there was a lively discussion on Senate reform. Various solutions are offered to bring this about, but all have their weaknesses. As constituted at present the upper chamber is regarded by many as a useless fifth wheel on the administrative chariot, a refuge or haven for the tired out party workers—a plum to dangle before the faithful, and a safe depository for the cantankerous and the troublesome. Three resolutions were before the House; Mr. G. H. MacIntyre to mend. Mr. H. H. Miller to end, and Mr. E. N. Lewis to take a referendum whether to mend or end. And all these gentlemen came from Western Ontario, as, indeed, did nearly all the private members who took part.

In the absence of a move to abolish the senate, to wipe out the "red parlor," root and branch, which would perhaps be too radical, too socialistic, or too democratic for the present, the most feasible and acceptable plan is to make the senate elective. There appears to be great dislike and impatience regarding the senate. It should be a stronger, more active, more useful and representative body than it is at present.

Speaking of this proposal, the Toronto Star, which is a Liberal organ, is thoroughly in accord with reform. It says that direct election by the people is by far the best plan, if we are to have a second chamber at all. If the voice of the people is not the voice of God, it comes nearer to that ideal than anything else in our system of Government. If the people are not infallible, they are honest, and they have no interest in any government, but good government. They are willing to recognize good public service, integrity and capacity. They respond readily to appeals to conscience, to the reason, to the spirit of fair play. The corrupt and corruptible element of the electorate is very small, and could be easily swamped if public men would trust the people more, and would, by their public conduct, show their sincere sympathy with the people.

We admit that the argument for an elective senate, if carried to its logical conclusion, is an argument for the abolition of the senate. There is no reason why Parliament should consist of two bodies elected by the people in different ways. There is no reason why Parliament should be bisected in order to do its work properly. In fact, the attempt to legislate in this way is sure to result in waste of time and waste of effort and [illegible] force. All the members of Parliament should take counsel and give counsel together; all should hear and take part in all the discussions. The elective Senate is not the best plan, but the second best plan, worthy of consideration only in case abolition is found to be impossible.

Should Have Tried Spanking When Thaw Was a Youngster

Thaw's Teacher Tells of Childish Paroxysms of Temper.

Says as a Boy He Had Large Head, Eyes Blank, and Mouth Open—Beat Against Wall With Chair—Moral Crusader Takes Stand—Expert Also Called—Trial Nears Close.

New York, N.Y., Jan. 23.—The end of the second Thaw trial is fast approaching. This fact was indicated late yesterday when Dr. Chas. G. Wagner, the first of the alienists to be called by the defence, took the stand for his preliminary examination. Anthony Comstock, vice-president of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, had been heard as a witness earlier in the day, and Mrs. Wm. Thaw, mother of the defendant, had completed her testimony. The kindergarten teacher, who had charge of Harry Thaw as a lad of six, also testified, and the day marked a long stride toward the conclusion of the celebrated case.

Mr. Comstock's testimony, while new, had been discounted by the known fact of Thaw's appeal to him to assist in closing up the houses where Stanford White was alleged to have maintained elaborate furnished apartments and where young girls were said to have been mistreated. A dozen letters Thaw wrote to Comstock regarding the matter and giving a detailed description of the Twenty-fourth street house were admitted in evidence and read to the jury. District Attorney Jerome seemed as well pleased as the defence with the letters, and later in the day read into the record himself most of Comstock's replies to Thaw. The witness indicated in his testimony that nothing had ever come of the complaints, legal evidence being lacking.

Mrs. Wm. Thaw, still unable to walk unassisted, because of her recent illness, was not long upon the stand. She told of Thaw's early life, of influences before his birth and of the mental unsoundness of two of her brothers. There was no cross-examination, Mr. Jerome contenting himself by reading to the jury the affidavit made by the elder Mrs. Thaw last year when the question of her son's sanity was pending a lunacy commission. In that affidavit she declared that in the direct line of descent there had been no insanity in Harry Thaw's family for four generations. As to the collateral cases, Mrs. Thaw said there were but two, and they were easily accounted for. In her statement to the commission, Mrs. Thaw also resented the insinuations she said she had been compelled to suffer because of the newspaper reports of insanity in the family, and declared there were no family secrets to hide and no skeleton to be bared.

Mr. Littleton may continue with expert testimony to-day, or he may offer as witnesses the doctor's from Rome, Paris and London, who are to tell briefly of attending Thaw in those cities. Another doctor is expected to tell of an outbreak on a train, and that will end all save the expert testimony. Yesterday the codicil to Thaw's will was placed in evidence, but the will itself was temporarily ruled out because of the insufficiency of evidence showing its custody since 1905. Mr. Littleton said he would supply this to-day or Friday.

Mrs. Belle Morehouse Lawrence, the teacher, was called to the stand. It was as Miss Morehouse that she taught Harry Thaw in her kindergarten school at Pittsburg. Mrs. Lawrence now is a resident of California.

"Harry was a delicate child," she said, "with a large head. He was always brooding; he would stand with his mouth wide open and his eyes were blank and peculiar. When he came to me he was 5 years and 11 months old, but his speech was unintelligible. After three weeks, I found he had a language of his own. I had to give him private lessons."

"Did you note all these things at the time—his peculiar appearance, etc?" asked Mr. Littleton.

"Yes, I put it all down in my diary."

"Harry often would be overcome by periods of excitement or paroxysms of temper and when he had nearly reached convulsions it would be necessary to carry him bodily from the room and place cold cloths on his head to cool his blood. These outbreaks occurred twice a day at times. The days when there was no trouble were rare. After the applications of water his face would be more calm and languid."

"Were his outbreaks directed against anybody—against any other child?"

"No, but he sometimes would try to beat against the wall with a chair."

"Did his actions impress you as rational or irrational?"

"Irrational."

"Did you report to his mother the result of your observations?"

"Yes, I told her I was afraid something would happen to his brain from being overstimulated, and that he lacked stamina."

Mr. Jerome, on cross-examination, said: "Did you ever call in a physician for Thaw?"

"No."

"You only gave him cold water for his tantrums?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever try spanking him?"

"No."

"That's all."

Also, since buying the property it has been improved considerably by being stumped and stoned, partly fenced anew, the race track put in better condition and the grounds levelled and leveled down.

Telephone Girls Enjoyed Drive

Were Entertained by Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Marsh at Springville

The young ladies of the Bell Telephone Company enjoyed a sleigh drive to Springville last night. They were entertained at the Presbyterian Manse by Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Marsh, and spent a most enjoyable evening. The ladies had several views of the planets through Dr. Marsh's telescope and afterwards games were played. Refreshments were served and, after several hours' enjoyment, the fair "hello girls" returned home.

Five Candidates For Wardenship

Interesting Contest Going on—The Aspirants

The County Council will hold its inaugural meeting on Tuesday next, January 28th, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon in the county council chamber. It is understood there is an interesting contest for the wardenship. There are seventeen representatives in the county legislature, coming from fifteen municipalities. Of these there are five whose names are freely mentioned in connection with the wardenship. The list is Reeve James Thompson, of Havelock, Reeve R. N. Scott, of Smith, Reeve John Brown, of North Monaghan, Reeve Wm. Hales, of Chandos, and Reeve Charles R. D. Booth, of Burleigh and Anstruther. The race is a keen one and it will take a good prophet to predict the winner.

WEDDING BELLS

ENGLISH—SHAUGHNESSY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. Father Bretherton at the Church of Mount Carmel, Hastings on Tuesday when Miss Margaret Shaughnessy of Hastings became the bride of Mr Michael English of Asphodel. Miss May Hannick was bridesmaid and Mr. Leo. Lynch acted as groomsman. Mr. and Mrs. English will make their home in Hastings.

The Elephants' Performances

The cost, time and enterprise involved in the securing of entertaining moving pictures is not always appreciated by the casual observer. Anyone, however, who sees "Elephants in India," the moving picture to be presented at the Crystal for the next two afternoons and evenings, cannot but be impressed with the rapid strides being made in the science of photographing animated scenes in a strikingly true to life manner. The picture is a rarely good one and covers a wide range of the evolutions of these almost human mammoths.

EXCURSION TO LINDSAY

A big following of rooters is expected to accompany the hockey team to Lindsay for the game there tomorrow. The Straths will take up the strongest team that has represented them this year, and will make a big effort to win the game. The return fare is $1.05 and a G.T.R. special will be run, leaving at 6.45 and returning at 11 o'clock.

To Practice at Seven O'clock

The following are requested to be on hand for practice to-night at 7 o'clock sharp at the Brock street rink: Glover, Parnell, Morgan, Rose, McWilliams, Desty and Graham.

The team to go to Lindsay tomorrow night will be picked after the practice.

HOCKEY

The Lindsay Post says:—Our citizens may with reason look forward to a great game of hockey Friday night, when the Peterborough Strathconas, Lindsay's old-time rivals, run up against the home team on Lindsay street rink. It will be a tussle all the way down the concession line and back again, and the chances are that nothing more strenuous in the line of hockey has been seen since the famous Belleville bunch were trimmed by our stalwarts.

Citizens, a word in your ears. We have a fine team, and if they get proper support there is a championship in sight. The knowledge that they have the town at their back will inspire the boys to make the effort required of them, and Lindsay will move up a peg in the estimation of the hockey lovers of the Province. There should be at least 1400 spectators at the game Friday night—1500 would be better.

The tailors have an idea they would like to meet the barbers. If the barbers have a reciprocal feeling they may reply through the medium of The Review. If the challenge is accepted the rink will be arranged for for the first open date.

Judgment on Tuesday in Healey Brothers' Case

Appeared in County Police Court in Connection With Forgery Charge—Hamilton Who Pleaded Guilty Comes Up for Sentence on Tuesday Next—Evidence of a Contradictory Character.

There was a decided contradiction of evidence at the County Police Court this morning in the charge against Frank and Charley Healey, two youths of 18 and 20 respectively, who are charged with being implicated in the raising of a cheque on the Cavendish Lumber Company. The original cheque was for $1.40 and it was raised to $51.40. Hamilton admitted the offence when he was arraigned on a previous occasion, and at the request of his solicitor judgment was deferred until Tuesday next. The offence was committed on December 30, last.

Charles Armstrong, hotelkeeper of Havelock, said he cashed the cheque and counted out the money in the presence of the Healey brothers. Mr. Tait identified the forged cheque, together with the two given the Healeys by the lumber company. Hamilton also gave evidence and said the Healeys knew all about the forged cheque.

Charles Healey, one of the prisoners, was the first witness for the defence. In December he went to the camp at Cavendish. Frank Healey and Frank Hamilton were with him. Worked in camp for a few days. The three of them got their time from camp. All three went to Havelock. The three were together all the time. He says Hamilton never disclosed the raising of the cheque. Had a drink at McNicholls' hotel, Havelock. The Healey brothers went into the office to change their socks and wearing apparel which were wet. Frank Healey wanted to cash his cheque on a drink. Bartender wouldn't do it. Went into a bank but said they wouldn't cash any of the cheques there. Went into Armstrong's hotel to get them cashed. Hamilton handed him his cheque. Armstrong said there was some pencil marks on the cheque, and Hamilton said if there was they had been put on at the camp. Armstrong went upstairs and handed Hamilton the money. Witness got $1.62 and his brother got $1.65. Witness had never examined Hamilton's cheque, and he couldn't read or write anyway. His brother couldn't either.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wood, witness said he was prepared to contradict both Hamilton and Armstrong in some remarks they had made concerning the cheque. He did not know amount of Hamilton's cheque when he came out of the camp with them. Did not see amount of money handed Hamilton as cash fo cheque. Mr. Wood produced letter in court signed by Jas. Healey. Jas Healey is his father's name, but witness could not swear whether the signature was his father's or not. Witness said he was twenty years of age. Had no knowledge that the cheque was changed until he heard Mr. Cochrane was after him.

His worship in summing up said the evidence of Armstrong, the hotelkeeper, was strong in some points but that he stated that one of the Healey's declared the cheque was all right but couldn't say which one it was, therefore making that point of no value as evidence.

Frank Healey, the brother of the last witness, corroborated the latter's evidence. Hamilton never asked him concerning whether the cheque was right or not; and witness did not tell Armstrong that cheque was right.

"That's the defence, your worship," said Mr. Gordon.

"My personal opinion," said the court, "is that the evidence is strong enough to make a conviction."

Mr. Gordon at the court's instance will produce the Healey brothers on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, when judgment will be given.

The Y. M. C. A. Mock Parliament Formally Opened Last Night

Several Questions Dealt With by Various Members—Government Will Introduce Telephone Bill at Next Sitting—Queries Put to Ministers.

The Y. M. C. A. Mock Parliament was duly opened last night. There was a large attendance of members and visitors. Several questions were ably dealt with by the various members and many warm discussions characterized the proceedings. The following members composed the cabinet:—

Premier—Sir Wilfred Shiner.

Minister of Finance—Hon. N. Greenhalgh.

Minister of Railways and Canals—Hon. B. A. Lillie.

Minister of Labor—Hon. Wm. McLaren.

Minister of Militia and Defence—Hon. W. G. Shiner.

Minister of Interior—Hon. P. Smedmor.

Minister of Customs—Hon. C. E. Coleman.

Minister of Public Works—Hon. B. A. Lillie.

Postmaster General—Hon. G. Martin

Mr. J. E. Hodgson, Critic of the Society, was the Speaker, Mr. F. W. Simpson, Clerk of Session and Mr. G. Carter, Sergeant-at-Arms.

After the House had been formally opened the following questions were asked by the Opposition under the leadership of Mr. N. A. Howard-Moore: "To the Minister of Public Works. "Give estimate cost, actual cost, and cost of repairs of the Lift Lock at Peterborough, Ont."

"To the Minister of Public Works. "Why did the Government give the contract to a foreign firm instead of a Canadian one on the Southern section of the Trent Valley Canal.

"To the Minister of Militia, "When will the Government provide respectable clothing for our militia forces.

"To the Minister of Finance. The Government is asked to show the expenses and give the returns of the expenditures in beautifying the City of Ottawa.

"To the Minister of Customs. "What precautions have been taken to prevent the influx of Criminal Classes from foreign countries into Canada.

To the Prime Minister "What agreement has been made between the Mother Country and this Government for the maintenance of the forts and garrisons at Halifax and Esquimalt?

To the Minister of Labor, "When will the Transcontinental railway be completed and why was a preference shown in engaging American engineers instead of Canadian.

To the Postmaster General. "What benefit does the Government expect to derive from the Japan fiasco visit of her Minister.

The member of the Opposition dealt with these questions in a very forcible manner in addressing them to the Government speakers, and were loudly applauded by their supporters. The Cabinet succeeded however, in explaining them to the opposition.

Many heated discussions arose between the two parties and it was some time before some of the speakers could get a hearing and the house had to be called to order by the Speaker on several occasions.

The Budget Statement for the year 1908 was then read by the Minister of Finance.

The first bill, viz., "The Telephone Bill" which the Government intend to introduce was then given its first reading.

The House then went into a committee of Supply and considered the Budget of proposed expenditures for the year 1908, in detail, Mr. Cox being chairman of the committee.

There were many questions for consideration and each was dealt with in detail some of which were much opposed by the Leader of the Opposition and his colleagues. The Parliament adjourned at a late hour and will meet again on Wednesday, February 5th, when the Government will place the "Telephone bill" before the house and give it second and third readings.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance when this important measure is being discussed. The chief clauses of this bill will be published before the next meeting.

A TRAINED NURSE

After Years of Experience, Advises Women in Regard to Their Health.

Mrs. Martha Pohlman of 55 Chester Avenue, Newark, N. J., who is a graduate Nurse from the Blockley Training School at Philadelphia, and for six years Chief Clinic Nurse at the Philadelphia Hospital, writes the letter printed below. She has the advantage of personal experience, besides her professional education and what she has to say may be absolutely relied upon.

Many other women are afflicted as she was. They can regain health in the same way. It is prudent to heed such advice from such a source.

Mrs. Pohlman writes:

Mrs. Martha Pohlman

"I am firmly persuaded, after eight years of experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that it is the safest and best medicine for any suffering woman to use.

"Immediately after my marriage I found that my health began to fail me. I became weak and pale, with severe bearing-down pains, fearful backaches and frequent dizzy spells. The doctors prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I would bloat after eating and frequently become nauseated. I had pains down through my limbs so I could hardly walk. It was as bad a case of female trouble as I have ever known. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, however, cured me within four months. Since that time I have had occasion to recommend it to a number of patients suffering from all forms of female difficulties, and I find that while it is considered unprofessional to recommend a patent medicine, I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I have found that it cures female ills, where all other medicine fails. It is a grand medicine for sick women."

Money cannot buy such testimony as this—merit alone can produce such results, and the ablest specialists now agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most universally successful remedy for all female diseases known to medicine.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the female organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement.

The needless suffering of women from diseases peculiar to their sex is terrible to see. The money which they pay to doctors who do not help them is an enormous waste. The pain is cured and the money is saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is well for women who are ill to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant for many years before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. In her great experience, which covers many years, she has probably had to deal with dozens of cases just like yours. Her advice is strictly confidential.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds where Others Fail.

Called Political Football; Lively Discussion in House

Question of Oriental Immigration so Described in the House.

Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir's Action Again Discussed—British Columbia Members Exercised Over What Provincial Government May Do—Mr. Ross Presents His Grievance—Scores Natal Act.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—The Oriental immigration question and the action of Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir in refusing to assent to the exclusion bill known as Natal Act, passed by the McBride Government, were discussed in the House yesterday.

Duncan Ross (Yale-Cariboo) on a motion to go into supply, reviewed circumstances connected with the friction between the Lieutenant-Governor and his advisers. He proceeded to say that the agreement between the C. P. R. and Mr. Gotch for the importation of Japanese laborers was drawn up by W. J. Bowser, a member of the McBride Government. Mr. Bowser being solicitor of Gotch's immigration company. Mr. Ross claimed that Bowser had used the agreement in one of the provincial elections to the detriment of the Liberal party.

Mr. Ross said there was a serious defect in the McBride Government exclusion bill, not discovered by the Opposition leader, and the bill would have failed of its purpose to keep out the Orientals. He proceeded to give to the House the substance of communications between Secretary of States Scott and Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir. The Secretary of State had telegraphed to the Lieutenant-Governor asking if he intended to refuse his assent and the reply was "yes."

These being included in the papers the Premier promised Mr. Smith of Nanaimo they would be brought down to-day. Houghton Lennox was moved to ask Ross where he got the papers.

"They were supplied to him in advance," suggested Mr. Lennox.

The Premier denied the allegation. The information of Mr. Ross was made public by the Provincial Government.

Mr. Ross assented. He went on to say that Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir was absolutely stupid in political matters, and if he had honest advisers instead of tricky politicians he would not have got into difficulty. He believed the settlement made by Mr. Lemieux was a good one, and that reintroduction of the Natal Act into the British Columbia Legislature was intended to keep alive the sad feeling existing in the Pacific province.

Dr. Sproule questioned the right of Mr. Ross, under the rules, to bring up the question at this time. This was not a questrion of urgent public importance and could not properly be discussed at this time. He could not understand that Mr. Ross' speech had any point whatever, as the argument he presented showed his grievance was directed against the Provincial Government.

Mr. MacPherson said the Government of British Columbia was preparing to arouse an agitation which was frought with greatest danger to British Columbia. Only members from the province knew how great the danger was. Everybody in British Columbia, the Government included, knew that the Natal Act, which was designed to exclude Orientals, could not be enforced. It had been before disallowed by Federal authorities. But all parties, Liberal and Tory and Labor and Socialist, all alike, had made the question a political football. Premier McBride was, in doing so now, showing that his party were agitators not legislators, traitors not patriots.

After alluding to the allegation that Premier McBride had informed the Secretary of State in Ottawa that the Lieutenant-Governor would veto the Natal Act, Mr. MacPherson declared that if Premier McBride had insisted on dissolution in support of the act he would have swept the province. He said in conclusion that it was the duty of the Liberals in the Provincial Legislature to vote against the re-enactment of the Natal Act, now before that House.

This ended the discussion.

Senate Talks of Reform.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—Senate reform was discussed in the Red Chamber yesterday, when a valuable contribution to the debate was made by Hon. G. W. Ross. Senator McMullen moved that in view of the agitation regarding the service rendered by the Senate as a part of the legislative system, and in view of criticism in Parliament and press respecting appointments, it is desirable that a question of methods of appointments and term for which appointments are made should be considered and the system recast. He said that he believed that the intention of the founders of Confederation was that the best men of the country, regardless of political affiliation, should be appointed to the Senate.

Unfortunately that intention had not been carried out, and appointments to the Senate had been made only from the followers of the party in power.

PRAISE FROM FOSTER

Compliments Mr. Fielding on Business-Like Proposals.

Fraternal Clauses Struck Out of Proposed Insurance Act — Bill Read Second Time Without Debate—New Measure Drawn Up—Demand For Original Documents Again Put Forward In the House.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—It was stated by Mr. Fielding in the House of Commons yesterday that owing to representations made by the Independent Order of Foresters, the Government had decided to withdraw clauses in the insurance bill relating to assessment and fraternal societies, and to deal with this class of insurance in a second bill, if found necessary. Mr. Fielding said the Foresters would hold supreme court a year earlier than usual to take steps to put the organization on a more permanent basis, and he believed other fraternal societies would confer with the Government along similar lines.

In moving the second reading of the insurance bill, Mr. Fielding said it was his intention to adhere to the original suggestion to pass the second reading pro forma, and send it to the committee on bank and commerce, where the views of parties interested would be learned. With respect to the assessment or fraternal insurance feature, Mr. Fielding said representations had been made to the Government by a large and influential deputation of the largest of fraternal societies, the Independent Order of Foresters, and no doubt their views were also shared by other assessment and fraternal societies. Leaders of that society had frankly acknowledged the necessity for reorganization to strengthen its position and make it a permanent institution, and a meeting of the supreme order had been called to meet in June next, a year earlier than usual, to take into consideration measures of reorganization. The representations of the I. O. F. seemed to Mr. Fielding so fair and reasonable that he had pleasure in meeting its suggestions; and he proposed to strike out of the bill all clauses dealing with assessment and fraternal insurance, and deal with this class of insurance in a separate bill.

Hon. G. E. Foster Approves.

Mr. Foster said the action of the Finance Minister was the most business-like course to get at the best results. It was understood, of course, that the second reading was only pro forma.

"Surely," replied Mr. Fielding.

Dr. Sproule feared that the only means of getting a true expression of the opinion of the country was by means of press reports and the press might slight the matter in committee. It would be better to have the House debate the principles of the bill on the second reading.

Mr. Fielding said he had entered into a lengthy explanation of the bill when it was introduced in the House.

Mr. Borden said it was desirable that the bill should be sent to committee, but when it was returned to the House it should not be taken that the questions involved had been determined. It should be considered as having gone to the committee simply to afford the companies an opportunity to express their views.

Mr. Fielding entirely agreed.

The refusal of the Government to bring down the original documents asked for by Mr. Ames of Montreal several days ago, in face of the affirmation of the principle that members of Parliament have the right of access to such documents, a determined fight was put up last night by the Opposition to force the Premier and his supporters from their position.

All evening the Oposition talked, only Mr. Fielding combatting the right of Mr. Ames to the papers, and at midnight Mr. Northrup moved the following amendment:

"That subject to such considerations of public policy as can be validly urged in any case, members of Parliament have the right to have access to all the reports of the Government and all the achives."

Armand Lavergne (Independent Liberal, Montmagny), in a reasonable argument, supported the contention of the Opposition. He failed to understand why Mr. Ames should not be allowed access to the documents. Last year he moved for copies which he secured; these were not sufficient, and he had given reasons for asking for the originals, which the Premier himself had admitted were sufficient. Why then, were the originals not brought down.

At 12.35 E. M. Macdonald moved the adjournment of the debate, but Mr. Borden went on. It was a remarkable doctrine laid down by Mr. Fielding that the minority had no right in this House.

"Except what the majority may grant," remarked Mr. Fielding.

Watertank Emptied.

Galt, Jan. 24.—The big water tank at the C. P. R emptied itself completely last night. The tank contained 40,000 gallons.

A broken seat valve, controlling the flow, was responsible for the occurrence. The 7.18 train pulled up and took water. In withdrawing the feed, the valve broke and the contents of the tank poured out. There was no possibility of repairing the break until the contents were exhausted.

Police and Mob Clash.

Chicago, Jan 24.—A fight occurred yesterday between the police and a column of the "unemployed" at State and Madison streets. Several men were beaten. The police had been massed at the downtown stations in anticipation of trouble.

Canal Bill Stands Over.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—When the bill to give extension of time to the Georgian Bay canal came before the railway committee yesterday Mr. Graham asked that it stand over until Tuesday next until he looked into the whole question.

Cheese — Firm, unchanged; receipts, 2707.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Hogs Are Again Weak at Chicago and Buffalo.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—London cables are steady at 10c to 12c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9¼c to 10c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market since Tuesday, as reported by the railways, were 90 carloads, composed of 1664 cattle, 829 hogs, 950 sheep and 76 calves.

Exporters.

Export steers of good quality would be worth $5 and something extra choice would bring a little more. Export bulls sold at $3.75 to $4.25 per cwt. An odd extra well-finished bull brought $4.40 to $4.50.

Butchers.

All classes were lower, not excepting the choice picked lots, which were quoted around $5 and a little over on Tuesday, but $4.90 was the highest price we heard of being paid for this class to-day, and only two cattle out of 1664 were reported as bringing that price, and one more was quoted at $4.80. Loads of good sold all the way from $4.15 to $4.40; medium, $3.60 to $3.90; common, $3.25 to $3.50; cows, $2.75 to $3.75; canners, $1 to $1.75.

Feeders and Stockers.

Few feeders are being offered. Messrs. H. & W. Murby report having several orders to fill, but thus far they have been unable to get what they required.

A few light steers, 800 to 900 lbs. each, were reported as being sold at prices ranging from $3.25 up to $3.75 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

The class of cows offered to-day, generally speaking, was not good, too many of them being in poor condition. Had not Messrs. Hooper and Daniel of Montreal been on the market, many of the drovers would have lost more money. As it was, some of them were glad to get what they paid in the country for their cows. Good to choice cows sold from $38 to $60; common to medium, $25 to $35 each.

Veal Calves.

Prices for veal calves of the best class ranged from $5 to $6.50 per cwt., with extra choice new milk-fed calves at $7 per cwt. Heavy and common calves, $3 to $4.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Lambs sold at easier prices, from $5.75 to $6.25 for good to choice, and $4.50 to $5.50 for common thin lambs, of which far too many are being marketed and not enough of the better class. Sheep sold at $4 to $4.50.

Hogs.

The run of hogs was not heavy. Mr. Harris quoted selects at $5.50; lights and fats, $5.25; sows, $3 to $3.50; stags, $1 to $2 per cwt., and market weak.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 23.—Cattle—Receipts, 100 head; dull, unchanged.

Veals—Receipts, 250 head; slow and 25c lower; $5 to $8.75.

Calves—Receipts, 64; veals, dull and weak; western calves not wanted; common to prime veals sold at $5 to $9 per 100 pounds; fed calves at $4; barnyard calves, $3.87½.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 3954; sheep, quiet and steady; lambs, slow; sheep sold at $3.50 to $5 per 100 pounds; yearlings at $6; lambs, $6.50 to $7.60.

Hogs—Receipts, 3991; none on sale; feeling nominally weak.

Chicago Live Stock.

Will Burn School Books.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 24.—In order to prevent the spread of scarlet fever, the board of education at a special meeting decided to burn at least 750 text books in use in the Keewood and Douglas schools.

Three Experts on the Stand; Progress in the Thaw Trial

Judge Limits Number of Alienists as Thaw Witnesses.

Doctors Tell of Their Conversations With the Prisoner After the Tragedy—Thaw's First Meeting With Evelyn — Was Told She "Belonged to Stanford White" — Some New Points Brought Out.

New York, Jan. 24.—When an adjournment of the Thaw trial was taken yesterday, in order to enable the attorneys for the defence to prepare their long hypothetical question covering all the evidence in the case, there seemed no longer any doubt that next week will bring the second hearing to a close. Justice Dowling has decided to limit each side to three expert witnesses, and two of the defence's were heard yesterday, as to the facts of the mental and physical examinations they made of Harry Thaw in the Tombs prison following his arrest for the killing of Stanford White.

No experts for the state have yet appeared in the court room, and Mr. Jerome has not indicated the manner in which he will combat the testimony of the alienists in the employ of the defence. All of the doctors who served Mr. Jerome at the first hearing are under subpoena by the defence, not as paid experts, but as possible witnesses in sur-rebuttal of any action the district attorney may take in rebutting the insanity pleas that has been built.

As Mr. Jerome turned the tables upon Mrs. William Thaw by reading to the jury the affidavits she made a year ago to the lunacy commission which was testing her son's condition of mind, so the defence may show a seeming reversal by having the state's alienists admit upon the stand that they made affidavits a year ago in which they expressed the opinion that Harry Thaw was suffering from paranoia, and had been a victim of that mental malady for many years.

Justice Dowling held a conference with all of the attorneys interested in the case before announcing his decision to limit the amount of expert testimony to be placed before the jury. Last year the defence offered six experts to answer the hypothetical question, but these were overwhelmed, numerically at least, by the battery of nine brought forward by the district attorney. The effect of Justice Dowling's decision will be materially to shorten the case. The defence should conclude its evidence to-day, unless Mr. Jerome extends his cross-examinations beyond the limit of his present intention.

Dr. Charles C. Wagner of Binghamton, N.Y., and Dr. Britton Evans of Morris Plains, N.J., both superintendents of state institutions for the insane, were on the stand yesterday. In detailing their conversations with Thaw in the Tombs they brought out more clearly two points which were glossed over last year. The first of these was to the effect that Thaw had told them that in 1900 or 1901 he had been a guest of Stanford White at a dinner party in the Madison Square Garden tower. He had left early and had been accused of breaking up the party. Thaw declared, and the young woman who sat next him declared the food was bad.

Thaw also told the physicians of the first time he saw Evelyn Nesbitt. It was in 1901 in front of a theatre.

"A pure looking girl," he described her. When he asked who she was he was told the name was Nesbitt and that "she belongs to Stanford White." Thaw managed afterward to meet the girl at an after-theatre supper in company with several other chorus people.

The European witnesses who are yet to be heard for the defence will arrive this morning on the steamer Adriatic, which is expected to dock at 9 p. m. The court session begins at 10 o'clock and every effort will be made to have them there at that time, as Mr. Littleton is anxious their evidence shall be in before he puts his hypothetical question. Besides Drs. Wagner and Evans, the question will be answered for the defence by Dr. Smith Ely Joliffe of Columbia University, who also appeared at the last trial.

January Number of the "Echoes" Highly Creditable

The January number of the Collegiate Echoes has just been issued and is replete with with interesting matter. It is indeed a credit to the editors and should have a large sale. Of course much of the matter is intended for the Collegiate students and some of the "Corridor Cullings" which may appear without much point to those on the outside, cause many a smile from the teachers and pupils. Among the articles which are featured in the January number are "The Poetry of Tennyson," by Gladys Crane; "The Evolution of the Japanese Immigration Question"; and "The Debate," by G. H. Ingham. The editorials are well written and deal with live subjects, while the usual space is devoted to "Sports," "Topics of the Hour" and "Corridor Cullings."

The "Echoes" contains an appropriate reference to the death of the late Wm. Pringle and the loss sustained by the community thereby.

The editors of the "Echoes" are to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which they are editing and managing their publication.

Local Man Sells Poultry To the Agricultural College

Mr. J. H. Callander, of this city, has sold to the poultry department of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, his entire stock of pure bred fowls. It consisted of two pens of Columbia Wyandottes, the new breed that is attracting so much attention in the United States at the present time. There were sixteen birds in all. Prof. Graham, who is in charge of the poultry department of the O.A.C. will use the Columbia Wyandottes in experiments at the College. This new breed is attracting much attention from poultry men all over the country and promises to take firm place among the standard breeds.

Mr. Callender shipped a number of birds to a poultry fancier at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Bobcaygeon Man Wants Wife; Will Visit Peterboro' Soon

The Fair Damsels of Lindsay Did Not Suit Him—Many Replies to His Advertisement—Suitor is Sixty Years Old, But Hale and Hearty.

Evidently husbands are just as scarce in leap year as in any other year, if one is to go by the result of Mr. Wm. Freeman's advertisement for a wife in the Bobcaygeon Independent, says the Lindsay Post

Before many days had elapsed Mr Freeman had received twenty charming feminine epistles offering the writers hearts and hands to the would-be groom Each letter was accompanied by the best picture the photographers' art could produce, and, needless to say, the display of feminine beauty and mouth was so entrancing that had he been any other person he would have wanted to marry the whole lot and move his harem out to Utah with the Mormons

However, level-headed Mr Freeman set about the next best thing, and resolved that he would see them all and marry the one he thought most suitable for a life partner He came into the Simpson House the other day and asked the proprietor if he knew the address of a certain town lady who had written him "No," said Mr Simpson, "I'm afraid I do not but, say, how would you like to see two very fine, eligible, young ladies who are upstairs in the parlor now?"

Mr Freeman went up and interviewed two well-known young Lindsay ladies, but found they didn't quite come up to his ideal, and so decided to carry his suit no further.

In the meantime Mr. Simpson found the address he was looking for and Mr. Freeman went to interview the lady, who, he found, was too old, being 39. He is 60, but still hale and hearty. Having finished all his business in connection with the affair here, Mr. Freeman took the train to Haliburton, where another would-be bride awaited him. If he fails again there, he goes to Peterborough, where several anxious ones reside Surely he will be able to find his ideal among so large an assembly of the fair sex.

His friends are looking anxiously to the day when a mistress will be installed to bless his lonely threshold. They will all be there to greet him and wish him prosperity and good luck.

Mr. Culverwell to Dr. Holdcroft

Rather Warm Letter on Result of Havelock Elections

The following letter appears in the Norwood Register:

Editor Register, Norwood;—

Dear Sir,—Referring to letter of Dr. Holdcroft, manager Havelock Electric Light Company, in last week's paper, regarding my statement in your previous issue about Havelock elections, his letter is not only false in part but misleading and evasive. He even distorts my words and then casts doubt as to my veracity after having put words into my mouth. This alone condemns him.

I simply said that in Havelock the supporters of the Northumberland-Durham Power Company were elected all around and its opponents defeated. This is a fact, but manager Dr. Holdcroft does not like the medicine. Despite the underhanded opposition of him and his friends, I secured twenty-six Havelock shareholders, and induced the council to pass resolutions three times, and send a deputation to Ottawa. Rather should he give much cheaper and honest light than endeavor to prevent the people from securing cheap power and light from Healey Falls. Eighteen councils endorse us but none endorse him.

J. A. CULVERWELL.

SOVEREIGN BILLS ARE AS GOOD AS GOLD

But They Will Not be Re-issued Once Inside the Tellers' Wickets

Sovereign Bank notes or bills are good for one hundred cents on the dollar. The fact that the Sovereign has handed over its business to the other banks does not discount the value of bills of the Sovereign variety. People need have no hesitation in accepting the bills as legal tender. Any bank will take them on deposit or change them for others. Once they reach the banks, however, they will not again see the light of regular circulation. As they are gathered in the Sovereign Bank bills will be forwarded to Ottawa, and credited to the Bank's account with the Dominion Government.

AS TO LIQUIDATION.

Not all the shareholders of the Sovereign Bank are satisfied with the action of the directors, and the Bankers' Association, in leaving the business of winding up the bank's affairs to the Sovereign directors and a Board of Trustees of the Association.

"There should be a liquidator appointed who would be able to open up matters, and find out where the shareholders' money has gone to," said a dissatisfied shareholder, who visited the Star office this morning.

Legal action to control the appointment of a liquidator has been stalled by the action taken on Monday by Mr. Bicknell, on behalf of a client who owns five shares of Sovereign Bank stock. Mr. Bicknell is counsel for the Bankers' Association. This action serves the purpose of preventing other shareholders from taking action, without a great deal of trouble, to compel the appointment of a liquidator.

Girls' Guild Had Oyster Supper

Enjoyable Time Spent at St. John's Church Last Night

The Girls' Guild of St. John's church provided a pleasant evening for those present at the concert and oyster supper held last night. A programme, which merits credit, was carried out, and Mayor Rush acted as chairman for the evening. The following was the programme;

Piano duet—Misses English.
Vocal solo—Mr. Hooper.
Violin solo—Miss Choate.
Vocal duet—Masters Cranfield and Allen.
Piano duet—Misses Gladman.
Vocal solo—Mr. Chandler.
Vocal solo—Miss R. Dawson.
Vocal solo—Miss P. Morgan.
Fencing exercise — Masters Gilbert and Gayfield.

After the programme an oyster supper was served by the ladies, and the evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

The inclement weather interfered somewhat with the attendance, but those present enjoyed themselves immensely.

Number of Applications Received is Not Large

None Seems Terrible Anxious to Have Position as Assessor for 1908—Time for Receiving Applications Closes To-morrow.

The time for receiving applications for the position of assessor for the City of Peterborough expires tomorrow, and it is learned that the number of men seeking this position is not large. Two assessors are to be appointed and the council has made it understood quite plainly that the two men must work together. The unsatisfactory assessment for 1908 is attributed largely to the fact that Messrs. McKee and McGrath worked independently of each other, with the result that the wards were not assessed on apparently equal basis. It is hoped to avoid this in making the assessment for 1909.

When the applications are all in they will be considered by the council, and if the opinion prevails that none of the applicants is satisfactory, other means will be taken to secure two assessors. That the council will exercise great caution in selecting the assessors for the present year, is beyond question. The mayor and aldermen for 1907 had a somewhat unhappy existence for several months on account of the assessment as is well known, and the present council has no desire to fall into the same pit.

The number of applications received at the city hall is hardly as large as was expected. But they may come in with a rush tomorrow.

Great Asset in Healey Falls

Havelock, Jan. 24.—Fellow citizens and all others who reside in Midland Ontario, take time, I pray, for you to dwell on the few words which are to follow, and try to figure out, if you cannot find an improvement that will benefit the whole country.

Nestled in between two great pillars of earth that raise their kingly form above the surrounding country, and dancing, gliding over downward, now splashing upward as they run against the frowning form of a slippery rock, and then dashing over a rocky ledge for ten or twelve feet, with the spray, causing a lovely cloud of beautiful vapor that sparkles in the rays of the sun, can be found that part of the majestic River Trent, that is to play an important part in the growth fo our country in years to come.

This beautiful part of the Trent makes such an impression on the one who views it as being one of the wonderful creation in beauty, makes also a deep impression on the mind of the thinking man, who looks at it as being one of the wonders of creation in the good which it could do the country. This beautiful, dashing, splashing stream that makes such an impression on the thinking man is that wonderful fall of water, which will undoubtedly, in the course of a year, become known to the whole country for the enormous electric power which will be developed there. This great creation is Healey Falls, the Niagara of Midland Ontario, and one of the greatest gifts that God has bestowed on the people of this part of the country. It will bring into prominence all the towns in South Midland Ontario, and especially that growing and prosperous place called Havelock, which, through its importance in the development of Healey Falls has already been christened, as it should be, "Power Town."

The savage Indians who chased the deer and other game along the high, rocky banks of the Trent at this point, would come out upon its rocky brow and look down upon the great fall as the water went dashing onward to the sea, and there they would stand in awe and listen to the god of water, as they thought it, giving out a message to them. But though they stood there many a day, and thought of all the wonders of the world, they did not hear the true message of the falls.

But long after, when the deer had ceased to roam in these parts, and the Indian had also ceased to dwell there, there came a man and stood at the very same point as the great Indian chief had done.

But this intelligence was above that of the Indian who had listened, and he translated the message of the falls into his own language, and this man, the instigator of the Northumberland-Durham Power Co., has since given the message to the people of Ontario, in the following words;—"Healey Falls was made for the good of man and the country. Like everything else, upon this wonderful world, electric power can be had by man exerting himself to some degree."

These were the words and therein lies, if wisely followed, the building up of Midland Ontario.

On the shores of the Trent at Healey Falls, is found some excellent grazing grounds, which are kept in excellent condition by the moisture from the river. These grounds, like Healey Falls itself, were given for the use of man. Why have they been used while Healey Falls has not? For the simple reason that the meadows were already for use while the falls were not. Is man such an infant in this great civilized twentieth century that he cannot use anything that it not ready for use? Was it meant that man should always remain as the savage without ability to turn the great wonder of the world to some good? No, it was not. What then is the duty of the people of this part of the country. It is their duty to raise themselves above the savage state to show it by developing Healey Falls.

But, why go on with all this talk when there are men at present using their utmost power for to develope this wonderful fall.

These men are those that compose the Northumberland Durham Power Company, and who are trying to build our country up.

You ask "why the work is not going on?" and you get the reply, "Because of the greedy politicians and grafters who have unfairly opposed the Northumberland-Durham Power Co., in a work which will benefit the whole country. These greedy men will not gain anything by Healey Falls being developed, but are all the municipalities which constitute this party of the country and who are backing the Northumberland-Durham Power Company, going to stand by and be ruled by the few, while, the many are losing much.

The Northumberland-Durham Power Co., at present holding a lease of the big falls and rapids on both sides from the Ontario Government and also a patent of 56 acres of land on the south side of the falls, absolutely necessary for development works. The company also own by deed two portions of the upper Healey rapids and land adjoining. One of these pieces is situated at the bridge on the north side, where there is a fall of eight feet and the other on the south side of the river about half way between the bridge and lower falls, where there is a drop of nine feet.

Altogether from the upper falls to the end of the lower rapids, there is a fall of 73 feet, while from the lower rapids as far up as the Ontario Government lease extends there is a fall of 73 feet. Behind this is a reservoir of 14 miles of river, which varies from 100 yards to 1-4 mile in width. There is enough power at Healey Falls and reservoir to supply 14,000 horse power at the dryest time of the year.

What the company now want in order to complete constructions is a lease of certain parts of upper Healey Falls which are necessary to make a fall of 73 feet.

This lease the Dominion Government must give them or else they will only have a fall of only 37 feet and consequently only half the power.

This portion of the upper Healey Falls which they wish will be of no use to anyone but this company, and if the Dominion Government do not give the company this lease, this 7,000 horse power will be going to waste.

The Dominion Government will likely accede to these requests when Mr. Culverwell, managing director of the company, and 18 municipalities will apply for a lease.

But the thing that is most important that the Dominion Government settle at once as the country is losing much for every time the second hand on a watch makes one one revolution 100,000 feet of water flows over Healey Falls to no good and so it will continue to do until a settlement is made.

But the thing that is most important is that the Dominion Government settle at once as the country is losing much for every time the second hand on a watch makes one revolution. 100,000 cubic feet of water flows over Healey Falls to no good and so it will continue to do until a settlement is made.

It is like wasting money. It is the same as the earth yielding large crops of grain each year and leaving them untouched to fall and rot and do no good to the country whatever. The earth was made for the good of man and what is expected of him. It is his duty to place the power given him by nature in such a circumstance as will be of benefit to him and do some good to the country.

In reference to the Trent Valley canal, the headrace will in no way interfere with its construction. In recompense for the lease the company will give the government land for lock and canal cuttings and also water for lockage.

A number of the most prominent citizens of Havelock and other municipalities interested have taken a financial interest in the company and will see the thing through as it will indeed benefit the country to a great extent.

Society is Unable to Fill The Great Demand for Babes

Toronto, January 24th. — Mr. J. J. Kelso, of the Department of Neglected Children, today made the statement that 67 Children's Aid Societies in Ontario are unable to fill the demand for babies, and hundreds of homes want to adopt a child or children from infancy up.

City Relief Officer Taylor has had to disappoint applicants in the same way.

"Now," said Mr. Kelso. "Toronto institutions have about [illegible] children, and some of these places are building additions. Why don't they give some of their children out for adoption? There are good, comfortable private homes in this city and this province where the children would be welcome."

Yesterday the Infants' Home in Toronto asked for Government aid.

Mr. Kelso says that Ontario societies dealing with English children could place hundreds of little ones with excellent people, if these societies only had the tots.

South Waterloo Liberals at Galt yesterday could persuade no one to accept the nomination for the Legislature.

Tremendous Sacrifice Sale

Public Benefits to be Conferred on the Community

The public of Peterborough city, county and vicinity will be benefit greatly by the tremendous sacrifice sale of the J. T. Stenson big stock of shoes. The entire stock will be placed on sale for 10 days at prices less than actual cost of raw material. This will be a sacrifice sale of shoes, such as the people of Ontario never had before or will ever have again. It will be a sacrifice sale such as the public only have an opportunity to attend about once in a lifetime, and the people of Peterborough and Peterborough county will no doubt take advantage of this great sacrifice sale to secure for themselves shoes at manufacturers' prices.

Twentyfive extra salespeople have been engaged in order to serve the vast crowds who will attend this sale. We bespeak for this sacrifice sale of T. Stinson's shoe stock a most gigantic business, as they have never carried any, except only the most reliable quality of shoes. This great sacrifice sale no doubt will attract thousands of people to Peterborough, as the people know when they are getting big bargains, and the public are always ready to save on their purchases, whenever that opportunity presents itself, and this certainly is the time for our people to secure shoes at almost one-half actual value. Think what this great sacrifice sale of J. T. Stenson's shoe stock means to you, right in the height of the season when you need shoes the most. The entire stock is placed on sale without reserve. The store will be closed Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 27 and 28, getting every article marked down in plain figures, and we propose to sell more than half of this entire stock in ten days time. The store will not be open for business until Wednesday, Jan. 29, the opening day of this tremendous sacrifice sale. Let all who can, come and take advantage of this tremendous ten days' slaughtering of prices and secure their share of the many great bargains that will be offered. At the prices we understand this stock will be sold at, we expect this stock of shoes to melt away quickly like a snowfall before a July sun. Remember the opening day of this big sacrifice sale of J. T. Stenson's shoe stock, opening Wednesday, Jan. 29th, at 9 a.m. It will be a colossal event and we would advise early morning trading, in order so as to facilitate the serving of the immense crowd of people that will attend this great sale. A word to the wise should be sufficient, and we advise you to be on hand early and benefit accordingly. Look for the big sign covering the entire front of J. T. Stenson's store. Act quickly. IF YOU VALUE MONEY! PREPARE ACCORDINGLY.

Sudden Death of W. H. Wrighton Peterboro's Pioneer Merchant

Slept Peacefully Away This Morning at His Residence McDonnel St.—His Long Business Career—A Life Long Resident of Peterboro'.

With shocking suddenness came the death of one of Peterborough's oldest and most widely known business men in the person of William Hall Wrighton, which occurred this morning between eight and nine o'clock, at his late residence, 45 McDonnel street. Although he had been in poor health for several weeks past, he retired, feeling considerably better than he had been for some time. His old friend, Mr. John Kincaid, was with him until 10 last night, and they had enjoyed the evening playing a game. Calling him shortly after 8 o'clock for breakfast, his wife wondered how it was that he did not answer or come downstairs. After waiting a little while, she went to his room, and was greatly shocked to find that her husband had passed away. His death was a peaceful one, never having awakened from his night's sleep.

Born in Peterborough and having spent all his life here, he had watched the city grow from a mere hamlet to a now prosperous business centre. Probably there is no merchant in the city who was so widely known throughout the county. A man of sterling qualities, he won the esteem of all who knew it. His strict business methods and honest dealings were the secrets of his success. In his business career he was most successful, and until the time of his demise devoted his attention to it. His death is a distinct loss to the community, removing, as it has, a most useful and progressive citizen.

The late William Hall Wrighton was seventy-one years of age, and was born in Ashburnham, which then was nothing less than a woods, with a few houses, scattered here and there, a general store and an hotel. Mr. Wrighton had many interesting tales to tell of the pioneer days of Peterborough, or Scott's Plains, as it was then known. He received his early education in the public schools of the village. His father was the clerk of the peace and deputy clerk of the Crown. After leaving school school, the late Mr. Wrighton entered the general store of Nicholls and Hall, where he was employed for several years. He afterwards went into business for himself, and for over forty years he had conducted a general store on George street. In addition to his large grocery trade, he dealt extensively in horses, grain, furs, butter, cheese and eggs. Until about seven years ago, he conducted a grain warehouse at the C. P. R. station. He dealt in furs right up to the time of his death, and for many years was buyer for the late James Walsh. He made many trips throughout the country, and bought and sold every kind of fur. He was a large exporter of cheese, and was a buyer on the cheese board until three years ago. He shipped extensively to Liverpool and to Glasgow. He also bought butter and eggs in large quantities for exportation to the Old Country.

The late Mr. Wrighton always took a deep interest in all affairs relative to the city's welfare, and in many ways assisted materially the growth and advancement of Peterborough. For many years he was a member of the school board, and filled the office of chairman for several terms. He was also a member of the first fire brigade of Peterborough, and in this respect served the municipality faithfully for a number of years.

In his younger days the late Mr. Wrighton took a prominent part in athletics. He was recognized as one of the best cricketers that ever played the game. He was also a great swimmer, and was known for his remarkable feats accomplished in long distance swimming.

The deceased was a staunch Conservative in politics, and manifested a keen interest in political matters. He was a member of George Street Methodist church, where he was a regular attendant. He also was a member of Otonabee lodge, I.O.O.F.

Thirty-five years ago he was married to his now sorrowing wife. Her maiden name was Catharine M. Hunter, of Verulam.

Besides his wife two daughters and two sisters are left to mourn his loss. The daughters are Mrs. R. Ross, of Pembroke, and Mrs. Brooks, of Detroit, Mich. The sisters are Mrs. R. W. Grubbe, McDonnel street, and Miss M. Wrighton, of Toronto.

The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, 45 McDonnel street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

East Peterboro' Conservatives To Hold Convention Feb. 26

At Norwood When Candidates for Both Federal and Provincial Parliaments Will be Nominated—Public Meeting Will Take Place in the Evening

Special to The Review.

Norwood, Jan. 24.—At a meeting of the executive of the East Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association held there yesterday, it was decided to hold a convention in the town hall, Norwood, on Wednesday, February 26th, when candidates will be nominated for both the Federal and Provincial houses of parliament.

The convention will begin at one o'clock, and it is expected there will be a large and representative attendance.

In the evening at eight o'clock a public meeting will be held.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, M.P., former minister of finance, and Mr. Joseph P. Downey, M.P.P., of Guelph, have been invited to address the gathering, further particulars of which will be announced later.

The annual meeting of the East Riding Liberal-Conservative Association will be held on the afternoon of February 26th—the same date as the convention.

Mr. Geo. J. Sherry of Norwood, is president of the association, and Mr. A. McMaster of Havelock, secretary.

Commitee Should Send Deputation to Brantford

To Inspect Street Lighting of That City Where the Enclosed Arc Lamp System is in Use.

Committee should

"If the Fire, Water and Light committee want to secure information on street lighting they should visit Brantford and inspect the system there." This was the statement made to a Review representative today by a local gentleman who resided in the Telephone City a short time ago. Brantford, he said, had adopted the enclosed arc lamps which Mr. Lanmonth is advising the city council to install here. They are placed in the centre of the street, not along the side, as in Peterborough, and are giving every satisfaction. At intersections of streets, the lights are placed well out towards the centre and there is no shading of the illumination by trees, telephone poles, etc.

Brantford is well satisfied with its system of lighting and the Review's informant considers that is greatly superior to that of Peterborough at the present time.

"If they want to see some good street lighting let them send a deputation to Brantford," said the gentleman in concluding.

Coldest Night So Far This Year

Thermometer Registered 14 Degrees Below Last Night

Yes! it is cold, you do not have to be so informed.

The government thermometer in Peterborough registered 14 degrees below last night and the mercury stood at the same mark at daylight this morning.

At noon today the temperature was just zero.

Strange to say last night was the coldest so far this year, and just 12 months ago today was the coldest day day in Peterborough in 1907.

The thermometer registered 20 degrees below zero a year ago. It was six degrees warmer than this last night.

Archibald Graham, of Brockville, is dead, aged 74.

Big Increase in Number Of Division Court Cases

Two Day Sittings Are Now the Rule—Good Thing for the Lawyers

During the past two months there has been a big increase in the number of Division Court cases in Peterborough. No one seems able to account for the large number of non-payment of debts and other cases of this nature that are turning up unless it is the stringency of the money market, which is credited with being responsible for everything good or evil these days.

During the past three or four sittings of the local Division Court the cases have been so numerous that it has been impossible to finish them up in one day. A sitting of the Court is being held today and there are a large number of cases on the docket. Another session will have to be held tomorrow in order to clear the slate. The majority of the cases are suits for small amounts and are not of much public interest.

The lawyers are about the only ones benefited by the increase in the number of cases. Many of them are kept busy with Division Court suits.

New York City Experiences Worst Snow Storm in Years

Special to the Review.

New York, Jan. 24.—New York today experienced one of the worst blizzards in years. Traffic was tied up during the rush hours by a heavy snowfall of five inches. One man was frozen to death and another, blinded by snow, walked off a ferry slip and was drowned.

Many were picked up more dead than alive in the streets, and had to be revived in the hospitals. James Smith, once a prosperous engineer, was found frozen to death beneath a drift several feet deep.

Severe storms raged along the whole Atlantic coast. A large fishing fleet was reported at Atlantic City to be in distress early today.

SPORTING NEWS

Peterboro' Curlers Will Wear Glossy Silk Tiles

Skip Waddell and His Men Won Second Prize in the Consolation Contest in Orillia Bonspiel—Played 66 Ends in 24 Hours—Neill-Sheppard Competition Under Way.

Skip Waddell's men won second place in the consolation contest in the Orillia bonspiel, and each member of the quartette will receive a silk hat.

The victorious rink is composed of J. Montgomery, lead; D. Hall, second stone; H. F. Foote, vice skip, and R. M. Waddell, skip. They are receiving the congratulations of their friends.

All the Peterborough curlers who had been spending three days at Orillia, returned at midnight last night. Skip Waddell and his men played no less than five games—66 ends in all—within 24 hours. This is a strenuous record. Among the rinks they defeated in the consolation were: Skip Jameson, of Orillia; Stephens, of Meaford; and Wilson, of the same town. In the finals they were pitted against Skip Twogood, of Orillia, but their opponents proved too good for them and won by one shot, the tally being 12 to 11 in favor of the Orillia curlers who will each receive a suit case. It was not until the last shot of a twelve end game that Skip Twogood won. The excitement over the finish was intense. However, the Peterborough quartette are well pleased at receiving silk hats.

Skip Wilson, of Meaford, took third prize. His men will each receive a broom.

In the primary competition Skip Allan, of Churchill, won. Skip Rule, of Collingwood, came second, and Skip Webb, of Barrie, third. The winners were given gold medals, and the players of second prize silver medals. The other Peterborough skips taking part in the bonspiel were Messrs. Dickson, Davidson, Robert Hicks and W. M. Lang. The latter's rink, skipped by Mr. W. E. Talbot, won a couple of games in the consolation competition before being down and out. The Peterborough knights of the stane and besom speak highly of the hospitality of the Orillia "brithers."

NEILL—SHEPPARD CONTEST

The four rinks from this city played the first half in the annual competition for the Neill-Sheppard trophy and lost by 22 shots.

The scores were;

Peterborough	Orillia
L. Hall	C. McNall
G. B. Stevenson	J. Curran
W. J. Thompson	H. Holdcroft
D. Davidson	A. R. Harvey
Skip—12	Skip—11
J. Montgomery	R. Wade
D. Hall	Dr. Ardagh
H. F. Foote	Geo Madden
R. M. Waddell	Jno Scott
Skip—6	Skip—22

The other Peterborough rinks, composed of A. H. Webb, W. G. Reid, W. E. Talbot and W. M. Lang, skip, was defeated by Skip T. A. Main's men by one shot, the score standing 14 to 13 in favor of Orillia.

The fourth Peterborough rink, composed of R. H. Lovekin, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, C. E. Frost and Robert Hicks, skip, were vanquished by five shots, their opponents being F. Twogood's men.

Orillia thus leads in the first half of the competition by 22 shots. The remaining half will be played between Orillia and Peterborough in Lindsay about the middle of February.

Will be the Game of Season; Straths in Lindsay To-night

Locals Make a Big Effort to Win From Scugog Team on Their Own Ice—Special Train Leaves G. T. R. Station at 6.45 Returning From Lindsay at 11 O'clock—Straths Have Strongest Line-up of Season

What looks to be the strongest team that has represented the Peterborough Strathconas this season, will be taken to Lindsay tonight to meet the Scugog seven in the intermediate O.H.A. game with that team. The goal tender has not yet been finally decided upon, but the rest of the team will line up as follows;

Point—Glover.
Cover—Pannell.
Rover—Ray.
Centre—Morgan.

It is expected that Hancock, of Toronto, will referee, although no word concerning whom that official will be has yet been received from Lindsay.

This special train will afford ample accommodation for the big crowd that is expected to accompany the team. The game is exciting more interest than has any played in these parts for a long time, and it is understood that there will be lots of money put up on the result.

Lindsay will naturally do everything possible to win on their own ice, but the locals will make a big effort to steal the laurels from them on their own stamping grounds.

The Straths while they will have a stronger aggregation than the one that was beaten there by Lindsay in the last game by a score of 16—4, are up against a hard proposition, when they tackle the wearers of the blue and white on Lindsay ice. Since their game here the Scugogs have had all kinds of practice, and are now in championship form. They have yet to lose a match this season. The Strathconas will endeavor to get away from them, however, and no matter how the game results, it will be worth going a long distance to see.

The special leaves Lindsay for return trip at 11 o'clock.

G.T.R. Were Winners in a Hard Fought Game—Led by 5–2 at Half Time

The G.T.R. septette won from the C.P.R. seven at Brock street rink last night by a score of 7—5. At half time the winners led by 5—2. The game was played between 10 and 11 o'clock, and was strenuously contested. Referee Stanley Wade was kept busy looking after the players who were inclined to chop pretty freely. For the winners, Morphet, Curry and Pickering were the most conspicuous, while Turnbull at rover, played a fine game for the losers.

The teams;

C. P. R.		G. T. R.
Carten	Goal.	Sandersons
Cressier	Point.	Laing
Hamilton	Cover point	Davey
Turnbull	Rover.	Morphet
Davidson	Center.	Curry
O'Shea	Right Wing	Rose
McGregor	Left Wing	Pickering

Whitby defeated Cobourg last night in Whitby by a score of 5 to 3. The half time score was 2-2. Wagborne refereed and kept the teams well in hand.

In a junior O.H.A. match Port Hope doubled the score on Picton last night in Port Hope, winning from the pea canners by 6-3. Roy Thomas, of Barrie, refereed.

Arrangements are being made for a hockey match between the Bell Telephone Co., and B.A.C. teams. Both sevens have some good material and a fast game should be the result of their hooking up.

WASSON AND GRAHAM TO PLAY

The Toronto News of yesterday's date contains the following:— The Peterborough Strathconas with three defeats chalked up against them in their intermediate district, are going to Lindsay tomorrow evening bent upon exacting at least some vengeance. They have called upon all the "old timers," and Ernie Wasson, and Chris Graham will be seen on the line-up, certificates having been issued today. It is said Wasson first learned the game in the Ark.—Toronto News.

BULLETINS OF GAME.

The 57th band will play at Brock street rink this evening and the hockey match at Lindsay will be bulletined. The ice is in good condition and a big crowd should be in attendance.

B.A.C. AT WORK.

The B.A.C. hockey team practiced at Brock street rink last night between five and six o'clock. Ten men were out and the workout was quite gingery. The team will go to Toronto next Monday night to play the Toronto section of the club.

CRESSMAN'S WIN AGAIN.

Cressman's Counter Hoppers defeated a picked team from canoe factories at Brock street rink last night by 5 goals to nil. The winners had much the best of the play and were never in danger. The game was played between five and six o'clock.

WEDDING BELLS

DARLING—KING

The marriage took place at the home of the bride's mother, Rubidge street, on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, of Miss Jane McClelland King, daughter of Mrs. W. R. King, to Mr. John Herbert Darling of Smith township.

Rev. Robert Tague, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony. The bride was attired in a robe of cream silk crepe de chene over mauve silk, and was of a charming appearance. Miss Violet McClelland, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She was dressed in cream silk crepe de chene. Mr. Will Darling was best man. The bride was given away by her brother under an arch of evergreens. She carried a bouquet of carnations.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain, and to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet.

The bride's travelling suit was of invisible plaid lady's cloth and brown hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Darling left on the 4.48 C.P.R. train for western points and on their return will reside in Smith.

Blew Over the Bridge into River

Young Lady Lost Purse Containing Large Sum of Money Last Evening

While Miss Mabel Bettes, who resides at 5 Hunter street east, was returning to her home last evening, she had the misfortune to lose a valuable purse containing a substantial sum of money. She was crossing the Otonabee bridge, when the strap handle became detached from the pocketbook, and before the young lady could realize it, the wind had blown the money bag into the river. The purse was a red one with two small sea shells for clasps. This morning, the water being quite low, it could be plainly seen in the bottom of the river, and the young woman was watching it, wondering how she was going to get it out. An effort was being made to fish it out with a rod and a line, but it seemed useless, and it appeared that, while it was not lost to view, it was materially a heavy loss.

TIDY SUM FOR PIANO FUND OF BRIGADE

Mayor Rush Donates $25 for a Start—Socials to Be Held

His Worship Mayor Rush has donated $25 towards the piano fund of the fire brigade. At the time of the reception at New Year's a piano was placed in the assembly hall at the fire hall. The boys took a fancy to it, and have started a fund to purchase it.

The mayor's contribution will help greatly and it is unnecessary to add that his action is greatly appreciated by the members of the brigade. The following letter accompanied Mr. Rush's cheque;

To the Fire Brigade of the City of Peterborough;—

Gentlemen,—It gives me great pleasure to enclose you my cheque for $25.00 towards your piano fund. I was delighted and surprised to know that you have such musical talent in you midst, and I assure you I appreciate your hospitality and the good will you extended me last night, not forgetting the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Gentlemen, you are doing, and you have done, splendid work and I have not the slightest doubt but that you will continue so to do. Peterborough may well be proud of its fire brigade and I wish you one and all every happiness and prosperity.

Yours, very truly,
H. RUSH.

Jan. 22nd, 1908.

THE BRIGADE'S THANKS.

The brigade wish to thank his Worship the Mayor for his handsome gift towards the piano fund, and can assure him that his kind words of praise for good work done is a great satisfaction to us, and we hope we will continue to merit his Worship's good opinion and that of the public. "Ever Ready" our motto.

WHERE THE SHOE PINCHES

Some men are exceptionally thin-skinned. Every little jolt causes an abrasion; every knock a contusion. To the man who is seeking to do his duty, while a "call down" or reproof not relished, still down deep in his heart he feels that it occasionally does him good. If he was not corrected or "pulled up" now and then he would grow conceited, vain-glorious and imagine himself an indispensable being. The fellow who can stand reproof and profit by it in the proper spirit and does not threaten to resign or "get even" is the one who makes the best public or private servant.

Of all supersensitive individuals, the Kingston City Council and Board of Education carry off the palm. In fact their attitude at present savors of "farce comedy in opera bouffe." Because a man drawing pay from the city has dared to speak his mind, to candidly say what he thinks, some of the civic magnates are now after his head. The circumstance is a most interesting one. Principal Ellis, of the Kingston Collegiate Institute speaking before a young Men's Guild, on "Honest, Clean Citizenship," said some men get into the city council to manage thousands of dollars who could not manage a $500 grocery

The poor men in council prevented good men going into the arena. Men were also put on the school board to manage thousands of children who could not run their own families.

A resolution was solemnly passed in council calling on the council's representatives on the board of education to demand an explanation and public retraction. Great goodness, and all this fuss because Principal Ellis had the courage to speak the truth. If Mr. Ellis is a man and not a mouse, he will stick to his guns and refuse to apologize. This is a country of free speech and civic dictators cannot yet muzzle the press or put a censorship on the utterance of fearless men who have the frankness and honesty to say what they think The incident has aroused Kingston to a high pitch of excitement. Where there is so much smoke there must be a little fire—or, more properly speaking, veracity in what the teacher said.

AN IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY

The good work effected by the Peterborough Horticultural Society is apparent in the beautiful parks and well kept city lawns. The society has had a prosperous year and done much to instill and implant in the mind of the citizens generally a love for the artistic and the aesthetic. Prizes have been offered for the neatest and prettiest lawns, and in this way a healthy rivalry has been engendered. Central Park has also been well looked after, but the county, which owns the property, should do its share in keeping the upper portion in order.

It was decided at the annual meeting of the Horticultural Society on Tuesday night to form a local Improvement Society, with the object of making the city beautiful. This is a step in the right direction. Hamilton, Toronto, and even Keene, have such organizations and they have done work worthy of emulation. The Society may not of itself be able to accomplish much, but it points the way to better things, calls attention to places that require beautifying, and suggests to the City Council where improvements can be made. There is a fine opportunity for effective results from such a Society in Peterborough, and, no doubt, through its influence and efforts, the picturesqueness and natural beauty of Peterborough's streets, lawns and parks will be greatly enhanced. Mr. Dumble, Mr. Hay, Col. H. C. Rogers and others will make excellent guiding spirits. Their efforts are ever in the direction of making ever more attractive and inviting.

HONEST ELECTIONS

If the bill introduced by Mr. Alcorn of Prince Edward County carries in the Commons, it will effectively shut off gifts from corporations or government contractors to party campaign funds. It will put a check to all contributions from such sources, as have been prolific in their expenditure in the past. The penalties have been made very heavy.

Mr. Alcorn explained that although for two years the government had promised to bring in a bill to deal with this subject, nothing had come of it, so it was incumbent upon a private member to take up the matter. The member for Prince Edward, in explaining his bill, showed that it made more reasonable provision as to legal personal expenses of candidates. It provides not only against hiring of rigs and furnishing free railway or steamboat for the conveyance of voters to the polls, but imposes a penalty of $100 on owners of the means of transportation so used. Writs are to be issued to sheriffs or registrars in Ontario and officers of equivalent rank in other provinces, and the appointment of outside deputy returning officers is also provided against.

There are several other admirable features about the measure designed to make it exceedingly difficult to stifle the free voice of the people or thwart their honest expression of opinion at the polls. It will put a stop on public works bribes.

The offer of the expenditure of money on public works in a constituency during an election campaign is declared to be a violation of the law, and those guilty of the offence will be liable to a fine. In a case of a member being elected for two or more electoral districts, the elected candidate shall within 30 days declare for which constituency he elects to sit.

Any bill that will ensure free untrammelled elections, uninfluenced by monetary or other selfish considerations will meet with warm approval from the people of Canada. The death knell of corruption and debauchery cannot be rung too soon.

PEN POINTS

The Winnipeg skating rinks are now open on Sunday and are patronized by thousands. Just to think that a few years ago the Prairie City was the strictest Sabbatarian of them all. O Tempora!; O Mores!!

Messrs. Dumble, Edmison, Poussette, Moore, and Hayes are now all K.C.'s. In the next baseball game which the legalities have with the doctors the barristers can send several "K.C's (Casey's) to the bat."

There should be a large gathering at the Young Conservative Club on Saturday night. Delegates will be selected for the nominating convention, which will be held on Wednesday next, January 29, in Bradburn's opera house. Every member of the party turn out. Reader, this means you, if you are not a Grit.

Mr. D. M. Stewart, late general manager of the Sovereign Bank, promises some startling revelations in the near future, but not just now. He says whenever anything nasty happens a scapegoat is the first thing looked for after the smoke clears away, and certain directors are evidently trying to fasten the stigma upon him. He intimates that he will keep silent for the present, but promise some spectacular disclosures later.

At the annual meeting of the West Hastings Conservative Association in Belleville, Mr. Harry Corby, ex-M.P. delivered a stirring address. He gave some plain pointed advice to lukewarm Conservatives, who, he said, found fault with the Whitney Government, and held their meetings of the party round street corners. Let them get out of the party if they did not like the government's actions. This is straight talk from the shoulder, and has the right ring about it.

Mr. Valentine Stock, of Tavistock, is the Liberal nominee against Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, in South Perth. The former will need a great stock of argument to convince the electors that he comes of better stock than the man who supervises the provincial live stock exhibitions. Mr. Stock at first refused to stalk up against Mr. Monteith, but reluctantly accepted, says a despatch, showing no great overstock of wisdom in the course he has taken. Without any political stock-taking, Mr. Stock, who is a merchant, will, we fear, find that he has some dead stock on hand in the person of a Valentine when the day of battle rolls around. The Minister of Agriculture is a competent judge of live stock, and is in a fair way to award the prize for a forlorn hope to Valentine Stock of Tavistock, which is located twelve miles from Woodstock, but there our stock of prophecy is limited.

There have been many ministers of railways and canals in Canada since confederation. Some have been good, some bad and others indifferent. The present occupant of the portfolio is Hon. George P. Graham of Brockville, a newspaper man of ability. The Review does not agree with his politics, which are a reproach unto him, but in some respects, Mr. Graham deserves mention for his fairness. In the late East Northumberland bye-election he frankly proclaimed that the Trent Canal would be carried forward to speedy completion no matter which party won. The Conservatives captured a splendid victory and then Mr. Mulholland, the Liberal candidate, chagrined at his defeat, in attempting to explain away the cause, offered as a puerile palliation for this reverse the statement that Mr. Graham should not have made such a declaration. The minister of railways and canals, speaking in South Huron this week, again referred to the Trent canal as one of the greatest waterways of the country and an important factor in Canada's transportation and shipping facilities. Since the Liberals came into power Mr. Graham—to his credit be it said—is the first minister to give the canal such public recognition.

Bible Class Have Social Evening

Ald. and Mrs. J. J. Turner Entertained Young People Last Evening

The members of Ald. J. J. Turner's Bible class of St. Luke's church were pleasantly entertained at his home on Water street last evening. A large number were present, and business was combined with pleasure. The first part of the evening was spent in the discussion of the affairs of the class and in the election of officers. The officers elected were:

Hon. Pres.—Rev. Dr. Langfeldt,
President—Ald. J. J. Turner,
Vice Pres.—Mr. Sam Whittaker.
Sec.-Treas.—Miss Clara Michell.
Recording Secretary — Miss Edith Scott.
Organist—Miss K. Calcutt.
Assistant organists — Misses F. Butcher and C. English.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation to Miss K. Calcutt of a handsome book of Byron's poems. In a few well chosen remarks, Mr. Turner referred to Miss Calcutt's efficient services as organist. She was always willing to do what she could in the interests of the class, and her efforts were greatly appreciated. Miss Calcutt made a suitable reply, thanking the class for their kind remembrance.

A few pleasant hours were spent in games and music, and refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Turner made an excellent host and hostess, and the class appreciate their their kindness in entertaining them very much.

What Some Former Pupils are Doing

Interesting Items in Current Number of Collegiate Echoes

The January number of the Collegiate Echoes, which has just been issued, contains the following interesting items regarding the movements of former pupils.

Mr. G. Thornton, of the class of '02, and Mr. S. Yelland, are studying law in Winnipeg.

Mr. H. Daly, who left our school in 1902, is attending Wesley College, Winnipeg. Recently he has won two medals in oratorical contests.

Mr. W. O'Brien, who graduated in 1902, after spending a year at the Normal School, is now principal of the Wattawa Public school.

Mr. J. Laing, who left us in 1899, is now physical director of the local Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Stanley Fife, of the senior class of 1906, who is attending Queen's University, has been chosen to represent that institution in a debate against Ottawa College.

Somewhat Battered But Still in Ring

A Telescope That Has Been Used in Arctic Regions

sea dog, noted traveller and intrepid explorer, left nearly two years ago for the northern waters he took with him a telescope loaned by the Hamilton Astronomical Society. The telescope is now in the possession of Rev. Dr. Marsh, to whom Captain Bernier sent it. It is still in the ring though somewhat battered from its experience in the northern waters and frequent usage. The instrument is however, still serviceable.

Petition for Stage To Roseneath

A petition has been open for some days at McClelland's store asking the Government for a stage to Roseneath. This is something that is really needed by both the citizens of Hastings and Roseneath and should have the support of all concerned, in order that the Post Master General may give us a proper mail service between the two places. The distance is only about ten miles as the road runs, and the way the mail is taken makes a route of over ten times that distance and a day and a half is lost in delivery. A similar petition is being signed at Roseneath.—Hastings Star.

News Notes From Indian River

Indian River, Jan. 18.—We are pleased to learn that Miss M. O'Leary is recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Mr. J. Devlin spent last Sunday in our village with his parents.

Mr. John McKenty has returned home from Pontypool, where he has been engaged on the C.P.R.

We are glad to see Mr. F. Whibbs around again after a severe attack of tonsolitis

Messrs R. A. Scarriot have received a car load of corn which is selling quickly, and is a great benefit to the farmers on account of feed being scarce

We understand Mr. A. Whibbs is making several improvements to his business by adding some machinery, which will be required for the use of a planing mill He may add a certain branch of the milling business Mr. Whibbs intends to have his business in running order in the course of a few weeks, when he will be ready for all kinds of repairing and building material.

We regret to learn of Mr. Welsh's illness. Mr. Welsh is near the "century mark," but we hope to see him recover shortly.

The Messrs. Scarlot have shipped a car of peas to Montreal. They appear to be doing a large business in buying and selling grain. They are keeping their prices in line with the market, and sometimes higher. We understand that last Monday they bought over 3,000 bushels of oats, which is a record for any of the previous years.

The C.P.R. wire men have been adding a new wire along the C.P.R. for the telegraph service. They have now moved to Norwood. With them was Mr. Joseph Devlin, formerly of our village.

For the Kidneys and Bladder

Mix This at Home if You Have Kidney or Bladder Trouble

Recent hospital reports show that the dread disease, rheumatism, is steadily increasing throughout the country. All known means of relief are being suggested to save the great amount of suffering this winter, especially among those who are not in a position to pack up and visit the noted health resorts to be treated. Recent tests prove rheumatism not exactly a disease in itself, but a severe symptom of kidney trouble, a condition caused by clogged up pores of the eliminative tissues in the kidneys which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, permitting these substances to remain in the veins and decompose, usually settling about the joints and muscles, causing the intense pain, swelling and stiffness of rheumatism.

There are numerous remedies known which many persons believe will relieve this suffering—salicylate of soda, colchicum, potash, etc.—but these drugs are terribly hard on the stomach, often ruining this most important organ, and they fail as often as they relieve.

A well-known specialist, who has probably treated more cases of rheumatism than anyone else, and who is also the most successful, gives the following simple treatment, which is harmless and inexpensive, and so simple that anybody can mix it at home.

The ingredients are: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Go to any good prescription pharmacy and get these three vegetable ingredients and mix them by shaking in a bottle, taking as a dose a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is nothing better in the world for backache, kidney and bladder trouble too. Such symptoms as frequent and painful urination, soreness, weakness, general and nervous debility are caused by certain acids and poisonous waste matter, decayed tissue, etc., in the blood, which the kidneys will clear and purify after a few doses of this prescription.

A GOOD SERVANT

The Review Want Ad. column solves the problem of how to recover lost articles, get a tenant for a house, secure a servant or help of any kind, obtain roomers or boarders, sell surplus articles around the home, or find something you want to buy. Try it, the cost is low.

Temperance People of Westwood to Provide Accommodation

Last Friday at a meeting of representative temperance electors of the township of Asphodel held in Norwood it was decided that Messrs. Oakman, Brethen, Brown, Harrison, Warner and Comstock should be a committee to proceed at once to arrange for the entertainment of the travelling public in Westwood. A meeting is to be held in the same place next Saturday afternoon, Jan. 25th, at two o'clock, to receive the report of the committee and to complete all necessary arrangements. The temperance workers of the township are cordially requested to be present.

Celebrated His 79th Birthday

Squire Brackenridge is Still an Active Official

Tuesday, Jan. 21st, was the 79th birthday of Squire Brackenridge of Westwood. Mr. Brackenridge was in the village that day attending the annual meeting of the Agricultural Society, and received the hearty congratulations of his fellow directors as well as the hearty hand-shake and good wishes of many others. The Squire, who is one of the oldest members of the directorate, is also clerk of the township of Asphodel, and a member of the Board of Education of Norwood, and notwithstanding his advanced years is still able quite satisfactorily to attend to all his official duties. We trust that he may still be spared for many years of usefulness. —Norwood Register.

Many Delegates At Convention

Over 200 Attending Epworth League Gathering in Lindsay

Lindsay, Jan. 23.—Over two hundred delegates connected with the Epworth League of the Methodist church, Bay of Quinte Conference are in session in this town, and many distinguished clergymen and lay workers are helping the forward movement. Stirring meetings for the promotion of church work are being held.

The Poultry and Pet Stock Association are also holding an exhibition in the town with great success. The lecture by Mr. L. H. Baldwin of Deer Park, Toronto, in the Council chamber this evening, was interesting and instructive. Mr. A. W. Ruby, of Midland, also spoke on "Proper Method of Poultry Killing."

Four thousand ship workmen on the Tyneside are on strike to refuse a reduction of wages.

Fire at Baltimore Results In Loss of Three Lives

Sixteen Others Injured in Costly Blaze at Baltimore.

Section of Wall Collapsed Burying Fire-Fighters and Destroying Ladder—Five Men Hurt In Collision on Way to Outbreak—Damage Is Estimated at $400,000—Wind Helped the Flames.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 23.—Fire yesterday took heavy tolls of the members of the fire department of this city, three being dead and sixteen others more or less seriously injured, including George Hoston, chief of the fire department, who is in a serious condition. He has a badly lacerated scalp and internal injuries.

The dead are: Lieut. Frederick Harman; William B. Pugh; unidentified man, thought to be Emil Morrin.

The financial damage is estimated at $400,000.

The blaze, which is the worst that has occurred in this city since the calamity of 1904, started on the [illegible] floor of the building on the [illegible] corner of Holliday and Saratoga street, occupied by the J. Regester Sons Co., plumbers' supplies. Other occupants of the building were: the Baltimore Bell & Brass Co., and the William L. Hollingsworth Co., machinists. Upon these three the heaviest losses fall. The fire had apparently been burning some time before it was discovered. A strong wind from the northwest and a very low temperature made the work of fighting the fire more than ordinarily difficult.

In an incredibly short time after the blaze broke out on the Saratoga street side of the Regester Building, and without warning, a large section of the north wall of the building fell. It was this that scattered death and injuries among the firemen, who were working close to the building. The rain of bricks also put out of commission an extension ladder truck upon which some of the men had been working.

For a time it seemed that the fire would sweep diagonally through the block to Gay street, and a number of people living on that thoroughfare moved their effects. Changes in the wind, however, enabled the firemen to confine the damage, in addition to that already mentioned, to the plants of the E. B. Reed & Sons Co., printers, and the Flynn & Furich Co., machinists, located in a five-storey building on Saratoga street in the rear of the Regester Building, the Leonhardt Wagon Co., Saratoga street, opposite the building in which the fire originated, the old City Hall building, and the Zion School building.

While responding to the alarm, a hose carriage and fire engine collided, and five of the men on the engine were injured, one of them seriously.

SOUGHT CABINET POSITION.

Sensation Occurs In Newfoundland House of Assembly.

St. John's, N.B., Jan. 23.—An extraordinary scene occurred in the assembly Thursday night. Finance Minister Jackman endeavored to justify his assertion that M. P. Cashin's opposition to the Bond Government is due to the Premier having refused him an executive position Cashin solicited.

Cashin on Wednesday called upon his colleague, Ellis, supporting Premier Bond, to exonerate him from the imputation. Ellis did so unreservedly. Sir Edward Morris, former minister of justice, confirmed Mr. Ellis.

Yesterday Hon. Mr. Jackman read a letter from Archbishop Howley, stating that Cashin had waited on the archbishop after the election, requesting his influence.

Mr. Cashin stated the letter and the assertion of the archbishop was unqualifiedly untrue, that he had asked nobody to secure the position, which he neither wanted nor would accept. This denial he was prepared to make oath to at any time before any tribunal.

The episode has caused consternation, Cashin being a Catholic in good standing, and devoted to his church. Morris, Ellis and Jackman are also Catholics.

May Prove Him Murderer.

Detroit, Jan. 23.—The police last night broke their silence with regard to Percy Boyne, arrested near Woodville, Ont., and state why they connect him with the murder of Mrs. Welch in this city a few weeks ago.

Boyne admits that he spent the night of Friday, Jan. 3, in Mrs. Welch's house. While her body was not found until Tuesday, Jan. 7, the police are convinced that she was killed the Friday night previous. The following day Boyne was flush with money, though he had previously been penniless and living on free lunches.

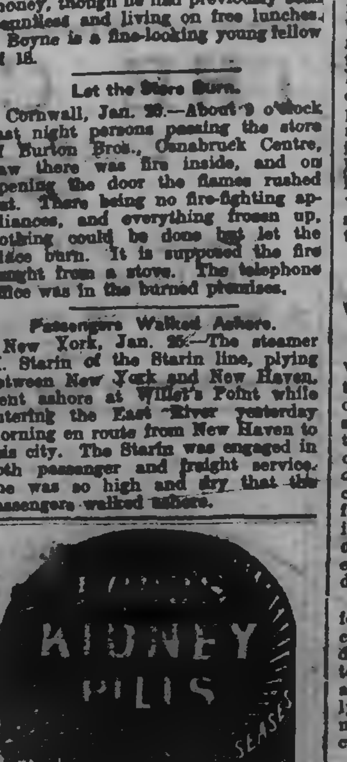
Boyne is a fine-looking young fellow of 18.

Let the Store Burn.

Cornwall, Jan. 23.—About 9 o'clock last night persons passing the store of Burton Bros., Osnabruck Centre, saw there was fire inside, and on opening the door the flames rushed out. There being no fire-fighting appliances, and everything frozen up, nothing could be done but let the place burn. It is supposed the fire caught from a stove. The telephone office was in the burned premises.

Passengers Walked Ashore.

New York, Jan. 23.—The steamer H. Starin of the Starin line, plying between New York and New Haven, went ashore at Willet's Point while entering the East River yesterday morning en route from New Haven to this city. The Starin was engaged in both passenger and freight service. She was so high and dry that the passengers walked ashore.



JURY ACQUITS DETSCH.

Defence Claimed He Shot Man Thinking Him a Burglar

Philadelphia, Jan. 23.—After a trial of three days, Andrew Jackson Detsch, who was charged with murdering Harry Ferre in a boarding house in this city last November, was acquitted yesterday. The jury was out nearly three hours. The announcement of the verdict caused an enthusiastic demonstration in the court room.

The killing of Ferre was sensational, and owing to the peculiar circumstances surrounding it, the case created much interest. Detsch claimed he killed Ferre in mistake for a burglar, and the jury took this view of the case.

Detsch, who is 23 years of age lived with his wife, aged 22, and child, aged 18 months, in an uptown boarding house. On the night of Nov. 5 policemen heard several shots and traced them to the house. In front of the door of the Detsch apartments they found Ferre dead with three bullet wounds in the body. He was in his stocking feet. Ferre was about 50 years of age, and had occupied a room on another floor. Detsch told the policemen that he heard someone trying to get into the room and shot four times through the door with a revolver.

The police in searching the personal effects of Ferre found many letters that had passed between Ferre and Mrs. Detsch and a number of suggestive photographs. The police then charged Detsch with having deliberately killed Ferre.

The theory of the commonwealth was that Detsch caused his wife to lure Ferre to her room on the belief that the husband was absent and that Detsch fired the shots through the door when he heard Ferre place his hand on the door knob.

In an endeavor to show a motive for the shooting the commonwealth made an effort to introduce the letters and photographs, but the court ruled them out, on the ground that the commonwealth must prove that Detsch knew of the alleged intimacy of his wife with Ferre. This left the prosecution without a motive, and it rested its case after proving the killing. Counsel for the defendant, in his argument to the jury, said that he did not appeal to the so-called unwritten law, but that the defence stood on Detsch's statement that he took Ferre for a burglar.

Wanted to Be Thought Dead In Order to Get Insurance.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—William Watson, an English pottery manufacturer, arrested by the police Thursday, charged with defrauding an insurance company out of $6,000, which the company paid upon alleged proof of Watson's death, will not be extradited. It is said that the insurance company, with Watson's alleged confession in its possession, believe that it will be able to recover the amount of its loss from the proceeds of the estate of Watson's beneficiaries, who died recently.

According to Watson's alleged confession to the police, he left a suit of clothes on the beach at North Sunderland, England, in 1906. He went to Paris, then returned to London, and finally went to Quebec, eventually coming to the Pacific coast. Domestic troubles led to Watson's difficulties.

According to the alleged confession, after borrowing considerable money from Mrs. Helen Lampert, Watson had his life insured for $6,000 in her favor, and took out an additional policy of $1,000 for his wife. He then conceived the plan of having his clothing found on the beach.

THAW CASE ADJOURNED.

Storm Delays Arrival of Witnesses From Europe.

New York, Jan. 23.—The blinding snowstorm which swept New York yesterday caused the first serious interruption of the second Thaw trial. It put a stop to practically all shipping in the lower bay, and prevented the big steamer Adriatic from reaching her dock. On board the liner are four physicians and a trained nurse from Europe, who, Mr. Littleton declared in court, are important witnesses for the defence, and whose testimony he desires to place upon the record before propounding his hypothetical questions to the three experts who will swear that when Harry K. Thaw shot Stanford White he was so mentally deficient that he did not know the nature or quality of his act, or that the act was wrong. The request for an adjournment until Monday, made upon the opening of court, was granted by Justice Dowling.

Mr. Littleton promised to have the long hypothetical query ready immediately after his few remaining witnesses of fact have testified on Monday, and unless Mr. Jerome's cross-examination of the experts is unexpectedly long, the defence will rest by Monday night.

The prosecution will proceed on Tuesday with its rebuttal case, and should not occupy more than a day and a half. The sur-rebuttal by the defence will be brief, and in spite of delay the case should end by Friday or Saturday of next week.

The witnesses who are to land from the Adriatic are expected to tell of alleged irrational outbreaks by Thaw in Europe long before Evelyn Nesbitt came into his life. The district attorney tried to secure the names of the witnesses from Mr. Littleton yesterday, and there was a lively exchange of words for a few minutes, ending with the identity of the newcomers as much of a mystery as ever.

NO CHANCE FOR CHIEF.

Magistrate Made Appeal For Officer Without Avail.

St. Catharines, Ont., Jan. 23.—For the first time in months the full board of city police commissioners met yesterday afternoon, when Police Magistrate Comfort made a plea for Chief Parnall to be heard against statements of Judge Carman, made at the last meeting of the commission. So soon as he had finished reading the minutes the magistrate moved that as the judge had refused to allow the chief to speak at the last meeting, the chief be now heard. Mayor Campbell contended the motion was irregular, and on his motion the judge declared the minutes approved, the magistrate opposing.

After a quantity of routine business had been transacted the mayor suggested that the chief be given a chance to explain his position in connection with the arrest of Lillian Hamilton if he thought he had a grievance against the commission. The magistrate continued to read from newspapers and to criticize the judge.

"Will you second my resolution?" said the mayor.

The magistrate made no reply, but again objected to the judge's recent statements, and the mayor moved adjournment, which the judge declared carried.

"Are you not going to give the chief a chance?" asked the magistrate.

"You would not second the resolution," said the mayor.

As the other two commissioners left their seats the magistrate was later convinced that the mayor had moved a resolution and explained that he had been busy with papers and thought he had been talking about something else. The judge in the meantime smilingly left the room.

THIS GOVERNOR A FIGHTER.

Will Explode Bombs Wherever Found by the Police.

Odessa, Jan. 23.—Gen. Tomaltcheff has been made Governor General of Odessa in succession to Gen. Soufal, and he has inaugurated his reign with a determination to fight the revolutionists of Odessa with conspicuous energy.

An example of this determination was given yesterday. The police discovered a bomb, left it where it was and the new governor was notified. He gave orders that the bomb be exploded where it was found. This was done, with the result that the entire house where the tea-room was located was destroyed.

Gen. Tomaltcheff announces that this method of fighting the revolutionists will be continued.

The new governor-general came here from the Caucasus, where he held the post of governor.

Engineer Killed Six.

Baku, Trans-Caucasia, Russia, Jan. 23.—In consequence of the accidental killing of some laborers by a locomotive at a suburban station of the railroad here yesterday, a mob of comrades of the victims surrounded the engine and attempted to lynch the engineer. To escape the fury of the excited workmen the engineer opened the throttle of the locomotive and dashed through the crowd, killing six men and wounding many others.

Dismissed the Appeals.

London, Jan. 23.—The Privy Council has ruled that the consolidated appeals of the Quebec Improvement Company v. Quebec Bridge Railway Company be dismissed, the appellants to pay costs.

These arose from actions by the appellants to recover the amount awarded them by arbitrators for lands taken from them, and by respondents to set aside the award.

Engineer's Convention.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 23.—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will hold its annual convention at San Antonio on Jan. 29, 30 and 31.

WHEN OREGON HAD CAMELS.

In Days of Old, When the State Had a Tropical Climate.

That the whole of interior Oregon was once the bed of the Pacific ocean has been proved beyond question by the investigations of Professor Thomas Condon, Dr. Diller and other noted geologists. That the region was later a tropical country has been equally well established.

Numerous discoveries of the bones of animals and rocks containing the perfect imprint of the plants of the tropics have been made, and it is no longer an occasion for surprise when well diggers or irrigation excavators unearth the fossil remains of a camel or a broad faced ox.

Within recent years many fossil beds of beautiful palm leaves have been found in eastern Oregon.

The Cascade hills, Blue mountains and Owyhees, once islands surrounded by tropical lakes, were covered with luxuriant growth, forests and flowering shrubs, for Knowlton tells us the magnolia and cinnamon and fig trees were there.

Today the soil presents a finely ground mixture of basalt and volcanic ash, containing the elements of most fertile soil, and when properly watered producing enormous crops of vegetables, fruits and grains common to temperate zones.

The climate has been changed, says Professor Condon, by the upfolding of the Cascade range, shutting off from the interior the softening influence of the Japan current and the drift of ocean fogs and clouds.—Sunset Magazine.

Camera Made Bas Reliefs.

Carlos Baese, an Italian civil engineer, has originated a method by which bas-reliefs of the face may be obtained through the camera which look as though they were photographs of sculptures. The basic idea behind the photosculpture is that fact well known to photographers that a plate of gelatin, sensitized with bichromate, will swell in water and that it loses this property in proportion to the amount of light which is permitted to strike it. Signor Baese therefore projects the photograph upon such a film through two other plates, which are necessary to secure the proper illumination of the face. First he throws a powerful light upon the salient parts of the face and procures a negative. Then he casts the light upon the remoter parts of the countenance and obtains a positive. These plates, positive and negative, are placed together, and the light passing through them strikes the sensitized gelatin plate, and the bas-relief is the result.

Magazine For the Deaf.

Although the Albion, a twenty-four page magazine for the deaf, is now on the streets of London, no newsboys are crying its merits. The magazine is owned by deaf men and women, conducted by a deaf mute editor, written by deaf writers, illustrated by deaf artists and sold by deaf canvassers in the interests of the deaf community. Its editor is Evan Yellon, who was a factory hand and who is self educated. "The idea of a new venture," Mr. Yellon said, "is to provide a special magazine for a special public hitherto neglected by the general press, so far as its particular needs go, to bring into touch and fellowship the scattered units of the 120,000 or more deaf men and women in England and Wales, to protect them by means of co-operation against quacks and frauds and to assist them in obtaining suitable employment and remedies for deafness."

The Antique She Bought.

In Cologne a few blocks from the great cathedral there is a little shop where one may buy old books, prints and curios of all kinds. An American tourist and his daughter bought some trinkets there a few months ago and were leaving the place when a little, apparently antique crucifix attracted the attention of the girl. She examined it, found that it was bronze, somewhat corroded, and was told that it was "very old." The emblem was purchased and brought home with other souvenirs of the voyage, and last week the evidences of antiquity were removed when the bronze was polished. The owners were surprised to find on the reverse side, scratched with a sharp point, "B. C." and parts of another indistinguishable letter and under these the words, "New York."—New York Tribune.

Guests Fix the Price.

According to a publication devoted to the interests of hotel keepers, a novel scheme is to be tried by a boniface who, to quote his advertisement, possesses "a house of the first order—modern comforts, central heating, exquisite French cooking, superb view."

The proprietor will fix no prices either for the rooms or meals, and visitors only have to call at the office before their departure and pay "according to their judgment, conscience and sense of equity."

The new scheme will have a year's trial.—London Cable to New York Times.

Hoarding Gold in Egypt.

Lord Cromer in a recent speech in London dealt with the question of the imports of gold into Egypt, some £2,000,000 of which was annually converted into jewelry. He illustrated the practice of hoarding which prevails in Egypt by a curious anecdote of a substantial yeoman who recently bought an estate for £25,000 ($125,000) and half an hour after signing the contract brought a train of donkeys bearing on their backs the entire sum in coin, which had been buried in his garden.

Andrew [illegible], aged 70, living alone near St. Stephen, N.B., was found dead and murder is suspected.

Kingston Council Has Steam Heating Proposition on Hand

Representatives of Company Who Visited Peterboro' at One Time are in the Limestone City—The Situation Explained.

Apparently the promoters of the steam heating system, who were in Peterborough about a year ago, are trying to induce the city council of Kingston, to install the system. A recent issue of the News of that city has the following:

The presence at the council meeting of an expert in heating from a central plant, shows that this movement has reached a point in its development where it is considered practicable.

For many years steam experts have been experimenting upon the idea of forcing steam through pipes laid under ground for long distances, without material losses of heat or force.

It is almost unnecessary to point out the vast superiority of this new method of heating as compared with the old furnace. The householder, instead of having to repair to the cellar to rake out clinkers and supply the furnace with coal, has now nothing to do, but turn on the tap as readily as he does when using gas or electric light for lighting purposes.

It has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that where coal furnaces are used in a house, the small particles of ashes dust continue to float during the entire year, and are inhaled into the lungs by every occupant of the house. Some of the most learned physicians among specialists in pulmonary diseases, say that this is the cause of a very large percentage of lung complications. By using the heat supplied from the central station there is absolutely no dust whatever in the house, even the cellar being quite as free from this plague as any other room in the house.

With the central station system of heating, there is no necessity to use heat when it is not required.

During the months of the fall and the early spring, the weather varies greatly, some days being too warm to have the furnace lighted, other days the coolness of the atmosphere making a fire necessary; with the furnace system one has either to keep the fire going all the time or re-light it at considerable inconvenience as well as expense. With this modern system when the weather is chilly and the house needs a little warm air, you simply turn on your tap, air the house for an hour or so, and turn it off again when not needed; in this way one is only paying for the actual amount of heat necessary to make the building comfortable. By this modern method the heat of a house or building can be maintained at the same temperature, thus saving doctors' bills, for it is a well-known fact that colds are occasioned mainly through living in a house or building where the temperature varies very considerably during the twenty-four hours.

In towns and cities where this system of heat is in general operation, users therefore have obtained a considerable reduction in insurance on account of the fire risk being totally eliminated.

IS AFTER THE WARDENSHIP

Mr. C. R. D. Booth of Burleigh ond Anstruther Townships in the Field

It is learned that Mr. C. R. D. Booth, reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther, will be a candidate for the Wardenship of the county for 1908. Mr. Booth has had a long municipal experience in 1897, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904 1905, 1906, 1907 and 1908.

Twice during these years he was elected by acclamation. Mr. Booth would make an excellent warden, and no doubt will make a strong bid for the position.

OLD, OLD JOKE RESUSCITATED

This is from the Kingston News;

Did you ever notice when the work is piled up the 'phone rings the oftenest? Well, we have. It rang at two today, and a man enquired; "Can you tell me in what country the time goes quickest?"

We hadn't very much time on our hands to waste, so we replied, "Certainly—Italy."

"How do you make that out?"

"Why doesn't a da-(y)-go by every few minutes?" we snappily answered. He hung up the receiver.

ROUGH RIDERS WIN CLOSE GAME

Defeated Collegiate Team by 2-1—Winners Ahead 2-0 at Half Time

The Rough Riders defeated the Collegiate seven last night in a close and interesting game between five and six at the Brock street rink last night by a score of 2-1. The contest was an interesting one, and both teams played good hockey. In the first half, Rough Riders secured two to their opponents' nil, and both teams notched a point in the second period. The game was inclined to be somewhat rough and Referee Ferguson penalized several players.

The teams;

Meeting Will be Interesting One

Municipal Government by Commission Before Board of Trade

There should be a large attendance at the meeting of the Board of Trade on Tuesday night when Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., will read a paper on "Municipal Government by Commission." Mr. Moore is fully qualified to deal with this interesting subject and every ratepayer should endeavor to be on hand.

PLANING MILL TO BE RE-BUILT IMMEDIATELY

Mr. F. J. Moore, head of the firm of F. J. Moore & Sons, at Lakefield, whose planing mill was destroyed by fire Wednesday night, was in the city to-day and notified the Review that he intended rebuilding at once. "We will have our mill in operation again inside of two months," he said, "and everything running as usual." Mr. Moore was interviewing the Dickson Company regarding the securing of power for operating the new mill. It will be built upon the same site as the old one.

It is not known yet whether or not Mr. Cornish will rebuild the grist mill.

NOT GUILTY OF FORGERY

This morning Frank and Charlie Healey were acquitted by County Police Magistrate Edmison on the charge of forgery in connection with the raising of a cheque on the Cavendish Lumber Company from $1.40 to $51.40. His Worship decided that on the evidence no conviction could be made, and after giving the defendants some good advice allowed them to go.

Members Receive Their Handbooks

The members of the Peterborough branch of the Royal Astronomical Society have received a copy of the Canadian Astronomical Handbook for 1908. It is filled with information of much interest to those interested in the study of astronomy.

It also contains a list of the members of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, the officers of the sections at Toronto, Ottawa and Peterborough.

His Trade is Growing Rapidly

Mr. James R. Bell Always Keeps Fresh and Representative Grocery Stock

The progressive grocer attracts business because of his aggressiveness. To trace the reason for this, one need only consider that if the grocer gives his goods prominence and pushes them, he sells quickly, and is always getting new goods. People like to buy fresh groceries, and hence go to the store they know has them.

One of this class of dealers is J. R. Bell, at Hunter street, who keeps his stock advertised regularly in the Review columns, and his thriving trade brings the result of his shelves being constantly replenished with new and fresh stock.

Watch his space for regular offerings.

Purchases Shoe Business in Guelph

Mr. W. J. Thurston Takes Over the Store of W. McLaren & Co.

Mr. W. J. Thurston, formerly of this city, has bought out the boot and shoe business of W. McLaren & Co. of Guelph. Mr. Thurston who was clerk in Mr. Robert Neill's establishment for some years, made many friends during his residence in this city.

The Guelph Herald says in part; A business change is announced today that will remove one of the best known and highly respected of Guelph merchants from active life, in the person of Mr. William McLaren, who has for so long been identified with the boot and shoe business on the corner of Wyndham St. and St. George square. His successor will be Mr. Thurston, a gentleman whom it is confidently recognised will conduct the store on the same sound principles for sound and fair dealing which has ever characterized it under Mr. McLaren's management.

Mr. Thurston is not a stranger in Guelph, having been in the employ of Mr. McLaren for upwards of two years, and being an ambitious young man, will no doubt continue to hold the trade in the old stand.

It will be gratifying news to the friends of Mr. and Mrs. McLaren that is their intention to reside in Guelph, and all will hope that the remaining years may be long and happy ones.

To Make House to House Canvass

The executive of the Sunday School Association met last night in the Y. M.C.A. parlors, when a number of important matters were dealt with, the most important of which was the house to house visitation, which the Ministerial Association, at its last meeting, decided should be conducted in the city. The Sunday School Association will co-operate in the matter. Mr. Thos. Yellowlees, of Toronto, one of the secretaries of the Provincial Association, who has had experience in this work, will superintend the organization, and the execution of the canvass. It was arranged last night that a meeting should be held on the evening of Friday, February 7th, for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements, and explaining fully the objects and benefits of the visitation. All Sunday school workers and all who take an interest in the religious welfare of the city are urged to attend that meeting. Notice of the place of meeting will be given later.

A census of this kind was recently taken in Stratford with excellent results, and Kingston is now being organized for the same purpose. To do the work in this city about 100 volunteer canvassers will be required, and the benefits derived will be in direct proportion to the thoroughness with which the work is undertaken by the different church and Sunday school organizations.

LORD'S DAY ACT IN YUKON.

Mounted Police Ordered Not to Prosecute Offenders.

The question of prosecuting for violations of the Lord's Day Act in the Yukon came before the Department of Justice during the past summer on reference from the Mounted Police authorities, and the correspondence was laid before the House of Commons recently. A number of complaints were sent to Ottawa by the police officers at Dawson with reference to work or business done on Sunday in that city. Mr. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, writing to Col White, said: The Minister does not consider that the police officers are under any larger obligation with regard to the enforcement of the Lord's Day Act than as to any other criminal statute, and in his opinion the duty of those charged with the enforcement of the criminal law in the Yukon Territory will be discharged if adequate attention is paid to any complaint that may be preferred. The procedure under the Lord's Day Act differs from the procedure under the ordinary criminal statutes, inasmuch as it is provided that no action or prosecution for a violation of the Act shall be commenced without the leave of the Attorney-General. Consequently, when any complaint is made of any violation of this Act it may be referred to this Department for consideration, and the complainant should be required to state carefully the particulars of the offence and the ground upon which he seeks leave to institute prosecution. He should also give due notice to the person against whom it is desired to proceed, so that the latter may have an opportunity to present any fact or circumstances which he may desire as showing that it is unjust or inexpedient to authorize a prosecution. Upon receipt of any such complaint and statement with evidence of notice the matter will be duly considered by this Department and the consent of the Attorney-General given or withheld as the circumstances seem to require.

SITE OF QUEBEC BRIDGE.

Scene of Disaster Has Many Historical Associations.

There are few more historic sites in Canada than that of the late ill-fated Quebec bridge. Its abutment on the one side is close to the mouth of the famous Chaudiere, down which descended Arnold's army in its unsuccessful expedition against Quebec in 1775, while that on the other is between the historic settlements of Sillery, M. de Maisonneuve and Mademoiselle Mance spent their first Canadian winter with the colonists intended to found Montreal. At Sillery Cove the Jesuit Fathers were wont to assemble and instruct the Algonquin and Montagnais Indians who were desirous of becoming Christians. It was from that spot that the neophytes carried the faith to the depths of the forest. It was here that the missionaries congregated before starting with the joyous message for the country of the Hurons, for the shores of the Mississippi, or for the frozen regions of Hudson Bay. Thence went Father P. Druillettes, the bearer of words of peace on behalf of the Christians of Sillery to the Abenaquis of Kennebec, and to the Puritans of Boston. Near this same mission of Sillery Friar Liegeois was massacred by the Iroquois, whilst Father Poncet was carried away a captive by these barbarous tribes. It was also at Cap Rouge that Jacques Cartier established his quarters, close to the water's edge, during the second winter he spent in Canada, and was succeeded in the same spot by Roberval, at the head of his ephemeral colony. Near the mouth of the Chandiere, on the opposite shore of the river stood the tents of the Abenaquis, the Etchemins, and the Souriquois Indians, when they came from the shores of New England by way of the Chandiere to smoke the calumet of peace with their French allies.

Passing of the Old Landmarks.

One by one the towering tops and gnarled trunks of the trees which were familiar landmarks to the boys and girls of a past generation have disappeared from side road and concession. The giant elm that was second "hunk" in the ball ground at the corners near the seventh line school trembled a moment in the gale of one stormy autumn, the weakened roots yielded to the strain, and a resounding crash was heard above the roaring gale as the hoary veteran passed into the shadows whence it had come. The beech on the side road, from the limbs of which the children of a thousand yesterday had gathered nuts, and that carried on its trunk the scars left by knives in hands now far away, was shivered by a bolt in one of those fierce electric storms which form such a striking contrast to the usual calm of a Canadian summer. One by one the branches withered and decayed on the towering pine that in years gone by stood out against the sky-line where the road began its descent into the valley of the river on the other side of the hill, and at last the dry trunk yielded to the fire enemy it had defied in its vigorous growth. To-day the grassy sward, with its mantle of white, hides even the site on which these kings of the forest once stood.

Other trees there are now. Long lines of spruce break the force of the north wind, and for mile after mile the road is lined with a double row of maples. These will grow into and become a part of the lives of the young whose journey has but begun; but for those whose shadows are lengthening beneath the setting sun, the landscape has lost in the passing of the old landmarks something which can never be replaced.—Toronto Weekly Sun.

Walrus Whiskers.

Nature has armed the walrus with bushy whiskers of amazing stiffness. These when dried form the most perfect of natural toothpicks, and quite an industry has grown up in their collection and sale. They are expensive, costing, wholesale, a penny apiece.

The regular meeting of the Boys' Club of Knox church, was held last evening. A large number were present, and a pleasant time was spent.

There will be a concert on Thursday night at Chemong town hall, when a lengthy and varied programme will be presented. Owing to the inclement weather the full programme for the last concert could not be given, and it was decided to defer it until a later date. Selections, songs and recitations will be the order of the evening, and Rev. Mr. Mark, pastor of the Chemong Methodist church, and outside singers will assist. Mr. S. B. LOCAL FIRM MAY SECURE LARGE ORDER

J. J. Turner & Sons May Decorate Quebec for Tercentenary Celebration

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons have received a letter from the city clerk of Quebec, asking if they were prepared to consider a proposition to decorate Quebec City for the tercentary celebration to be held during the coming summer, and stating that plans and other information would be forwarded in a few days. The celebration will be one of the biggest events in the history of eastern Canada for years, and thousands will be in attendance. It was no doubt the splendid work of the local firm in decorating Ottawa for the summer carnival last year that attracted the attention of the Quebec people.

You have Not One Reason for Not Using

Zutoo

Some people think that all headache cures are alike— that they all undermine the health, even if not perceived at the time of taking them.

Well, we'll admit that some cures do this, those, for example, which contain opium, morphine, antipyrene or chloral.

But this is no reason why you should not use Zutoo.

Zutoo Tablets do not contain one iota of any of the drugs above mentioned. They do not contain a single ingredient that does not come from Old Mother Earth herself.

One ingredient is soda—just old-fashioned soda that our grandmothers used to take to settle the stomach when they had sick headache.

There is not one ingredient in Zutoo tablets that is not approved by both the British and American Pharmacopoeias. And the world has no higher authority in medicine than these.

Your family physician, even if a personal friend, would approve of and prescribe every ingredient.

There is absolutely no reason why you should not use Zutoo.

If you suffer from headache there is every reason why you should.

Taken in time, two tablets will ward off a headache. Taken later, they will stop it in twenty minutes, and leave you feeling bright and well in both mind and body.

It is Harmless as Soda

Attempted to Hang Herself In Cell at Police Station

Mary Williamson Tried to Strangle Herself With Muffler.

DISCOVERED BY CONSTABLE

Who Cut Improvised Rope and Saved Her From Death

While in a state of intoxication, Mary Williamson, in her cell at the police station, attempted to commit suicide early this morning by hanging herself. Attaching a handkerchief and a large muffler, the crazed woman tied it to the top of the prison door and then put it around her neck, she had intended in this way to end her earthy existence. Fortnnately the night policemen heard the noise, like as if some one was strangling, and, going to the cell, found the prisoner hanging from the door. P.C. Newhall quickly cut the sling and saved the life of the woman by a very narrow margin

Mrs Williamson was arrested last night for being drunk and disorderly on the public streets. She is one of the Williamson gypsy settlement, who lately have become famous in police court circles. She was to have gone to Montreal, but got drinking and was unable to go. During the early part of the evening, she was in a state of hilarity and created considerable amusement by singing Scotch songs, with which she appeared to be exceedingly familiar. At times she became greatly incensed over the action of the police for arresting her, and with a wide vocabulary of uncomplimentary terms, she hailed them at the officers with all the animus and fire of an angered woman. However, coming near morning she grew remorseful, and in this gloomy mood decided to take the rash step of hanging herself.

This morning she appeared before His Worship Magistrate Dumble and was remanded for a week. She had nothing to say.

"Can't we get rid of these Williamsons?" asked His Worship. Hardly a week passes without some of them appearing in court.

Returns Home to Peterboro' After Two Years Absence in China

Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Dixon Arrived in the City Last Night—Mr. Dixon Speaks of Conditions in China, and the West Where He Has Been Spending the Past Four Months.

Mr. Fred H. Dixon, of the Sun Life Assurance Co., who left Peterborough two years ago to enter the company's office in Hong Kong, China, as cashier, has returned to the city along with Mrs. Dixon, to spend a few weeks. Fred's numerous friends are pleased to meet him.

During the past four months he has been visiting his brother-in-law, Mr. Fred Davidson, formerly of this city, who owns a large ranch a few miles out of Maple Creek, Sask. Mr. Dixon's health, during his residence in Hong Kong, was undermined by the excessive humidity of the atmosphere and he found it necessary to leave that city. During his sojourn in the Canadian west Mr. Dixon regained his wonted vigor and he is now looking well and strong.

Speaking to the Review today he said that when he left Maple Creek on Monday last, there was only a few inches of snow. The weather had been mild, there being plenty of sunshine and the temperature ideal. The residents in that section are happy and Mr. Davidson is meeting with great success in the ranching business. He is a brother of Mr. Walter S. Davidson of this city.

Referring to Hong Kong Mr. Dixon says it is a city of about 178,000 people. There are some English and Canadians there. The C.P.R. eastern offices are located in Hong Kong.

"It was just two years on the 13th of this month that I left Peterborough for the Orient," remarked Mr. Dixon, "and in that time I notice a great many changes in Peterborough. The city seems to have gone ahead splendidly."

In Hong Kong the streets are mostly macadam and rickshaws drawn by native Chinese are numerous. You can hire one of these conveyances for ten cents the first hour and 7 1-2 cts. for each subsequent hour. All Chinese, who have business to do with European or Canadian representatives, speak English. "I found the city alright," continued Mr. Dixon. "Everything but the climate and it is excessively hot. The rainy season generally starts in April or May and continues for some weeks. I was glad to get the Daily Review in my absence. It was a welcome visitor to my wife and myself. We read every item in it. There are four daily English papers in Hong Kong. The subscription price is $15 a year, and the journals are small, not containing more than a page and a half of news of the city, and little or no foreign tidings."

Mr. Dixon leaves for Montreal on Monday on business, but will return to Peterborough later in the week. For many years he has been with the Sun Life Assurance Co., and previous to going to China, was with Mr. W. H. Hill, manager for Central Ontario for the Sun Company, entering Mr. Hill's office at an early age.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon are glad to welcome them home.

Client Dissatisfied With Counsel, Defends Herself

A rather amusing incident occurred yesterday afternoon during the progress of Division Court when the client of a well known local lawyer, who had him for her defence, took the case out of his hands and decided that she could get along without an attorney. Seeing that she was going to lose and feeling quite unsatisfied with the way things were being conducted by her lawyer, the lady defendant with all the animus and irony of a woman proceeded to address His Honor Judge Weller, and her counsel was obliged to sit down and listen. His Honor had already intimated that judgment would be given in favor of the plaintiff, but notwithstanding this the defendant persisted in laying before His Honor her side of the story, which was corroborated by her sister, who was equally as emphatic in presenting her evidence. At the conclusion His Honor stated that women capable of presenting their own case in such a masterly way, did not require any attorney.

Local Scotsmen do Honor To Memory of Bobby Burns

The anniversary of the birthday of Bobbie Burns was commemorated by the Scotsmen of Peterborough by a banquet at the Crown hotel last night. The name of the celebrated Scottish poet and bard is revered by every true son of the heather and the speeches at last night's function breathed this spirit of loyalty to the "land of brown heath and shaggy wood." An excellent repast was served by Mine Host Clarke, the bill of fare including "haggis," the chief of Scottish foods. About thirty were in attendance and after the table had been done justice to, a toast list was carried out, interspersed with songs and recitations appropriate for the occasion.

"Immortal Memory" was proposed by Mr. S. Stewart and responded to by Mr. J. Main in speeches that were appropriate for the occasion. Mr. J. Dale sang "Rantin Robin," and Mr. D. McLean recited "Tam O'Shanter." "The lassies" was proposed by Mr. R. Murdock and responded to by Mr. Mithon. Mr. D. Ferguson sang "Of a' the Airts the win' can blaw,' in fine voice. A banjo selection by Mr. Reid was received with enthusiasm. "Twa Countrees" was proposed by Mr. Dickson and responded to by Mr. McPherson. Mr. Dickson sang "Afton Water," and the toast "Prosperity of the city," was proposed by Mr. Aiken and duly honored.

The banquet was a most enjoyable function in every respect and it is likely that the Scotsmen of the city will take some action towards forming a society in Peterborough for the promotion of Scottish ideals and life

SPORTING NEWS

Lindsay Midgets Trim Strathconas

In a Very Fast and Exciting Game They Managed to Defeat Locals by a Score of 11–8—Lindsay Scored Four Goals While Glover Was on the Fence for Three Minutes in the First Half—Rose and Glover Played Splendid Games for Peterborough—Koyl and Newton Rendered Great Service for the Winners—Half Time Score Was 7–3 and Game Was Played Before Capacity House.

And Lindsay did it. Kind of hard to take in a way, seeing it comes from Lindsay, but still the Scugog seven was given a great run for their money. What Lindsay did was to defeat the Strathconas in Lindsay last night, by a score of 11—8. This game, it is safe to say, was one of the best ever seen in the muddy hamlet, and was witnessed by a crowd that packed the rink from the orchestra row to the top gallery, including a big contingent from Peterborough who went up to see the game and encourage the Strathconas. The score was 11 to 8 in favor of Lindsay, but they had no fixed claim to the victory until Referee McCord's bell tinkled for the last time.

It seems an unfortunate circumstance that the winners should be at their best just at the time the Strathconas' stonewall man was on the fence. In the first half, with the score 3—3, Glover was handed a 3-minute penalty. While he was a spectator, the Hughesville septette ran in four tallies, putting the score 7—3 in their favor. The lead was too much for the wearers of the red and white to overcome, and although in the second half they secured four goals to their opponents' three, the lead was too great and the game was Lindsay's.

The exhibition was not a rough one. It is true that it was not of the parlor variety, but nevertheless no serious offences were committed, and while the checking was close it was for the most part legitimate. Tripping was probably the most deliberate unallowable work, for which the players were ruled off. Both teams were out to win, if possible, however, and it was a give and take exhibition all the way through. Quite a number of men from both sides were sent to the penalty bench but the referee was strict and quite properly stowed away the unruly ones. He used good judgment in meting out the penalties, and his work was highly satisfactory. He had a hard row to hoe in looking after last night's game, but performed his duties impartially, and with the exception of letting "Goosie" Taylor, Lindsay's centre forward, step offside too much, did good work.

For a while in the first half, the Strathconas' chances for winning looked exceedingly good. It was first Lindsay then Strathcona, and the supporters of the local aggregation had high hopes of their favorites landing the victory. However, a lapse in the goal getting abilities of the Peterborough seven occurred when Glover was resting for that unlucky three minutes, and the majority became too great. Even with the score against them to such an extent, the Straths dug in with a determination to win out, but the Lindsay bunch managed to hold them down enough to be able to record their fifth consecutive victory this season.

The new men on the Strathcona forward line, Ray and Rose, played phenomenally good games. Rose was undoubtedly the most aggressive forward on the ice, and played a hard and fast game from start to finish. He rushed, checked and shot well and used good judgment in his various plays. He certainly made good in his position of right wing, and played the best game he has since he has been on skates. Although he has done first-class work in city league games this winter, he surpassed himself last night in real fast company. Ray, who played rover in the first half, and centre in the second, exchanging places with Morgan, gave an exhibition of dazzling stick handling, and displayed a readiness and effectiveness that augurs a brilliant future for him in the puck chasing arena.

Harry Morgan, the best centre man Peterborough ever had, did fine service at that position and at rover, in spite of the fact that he got into the game at the last minute with very little practice. His generalship and fine work around the nets accounted to a great extent for Peterborough's splendid showing.

McWilliams did good work at left wing, especially in the last half. He was of great value to his team, and was in the game all the time. In the second period he played around his check, and figured prominently in a large number of plays that counted.

Parnell showed up to good advantage a rover and broke up many rushes. He checked hard, and played a fast and consistent game throughout.

To say that Glover at point played better than usual seems almost enough to be said in reference to the magnificent game he put up. He stopped and started rush after rush and was as steady as a rock all night. No man on the ice was more conspicuous or effective than he was, and only two or three of either team could approach him; in fact, in the matter of brilliant and telling playing. Wasson, the veteran net man, has lost none of his cunning by his absence from the critical position, and last night stopped several that looked impossible for him to handle. He saved the situation on many occasions.

To say so much of the Strathconas would certainly call for praise for the winners. The Lindsay team certainly played clever hockey to a man, and while they won it must be remembered it was in their own rink that they outpointed the Strathconas. Their cleverest players were Koyl at point, Cotey and Stoddard on the forward line, and Newton in goal. Koyl was the best individual man on either team, and his end to end rushes were a feature of the game. When he once got started it was almost impossible to stop him, and his cyclonic rushes were always a danger signal to the locals. Newton in goal also did superb work, and played a grand game. His blocking and general work could hardly have been improved upon. Stoddard was the star of the forward line, with Cotey a close second.

The ice was in splendid condition, and the weather was mild enough to make it comfortable for the big crowd of spectators.

The Sylvester band played several well rendered selections before the game and during half time.

THE GAME.

For the first few minutes a lot of alternate rushing was done by both teams. Parnell carried the puck into Lindsay territory and shot a hot one that just missed the nets. Koyl landed the initial goal on a pass from Stoddard. 1-0.

Taylor sent in a long one which hit the boards with an ominous bang. McWilliams started the penalty procession, being given 2 minutes for tripping.

Wasson was called upon to make a couple of clever stops. Cotey was chased for 2 minutes tripping being the offence. Koyl was hurt and Ray went off to even up. Morgan scored the first goal for Strathconas. 1-1.

A couple of minutes latter Sullivan did the trick for the Midgets. 2-1.

Morgan evened up matters on a pretty shot. 2-2.

Newton stopped a clinker from Ray after the latter had torn off a sensational run. Koyl secured the rubber and on one of the finest rushes of the evening found the Peterborough nets. 3-2.

McWilliams sent in a swift one which was effectively handled by Koyl. Wasson beat out a dangerous shot from Cotey. Glover was strenuous and was given a three minutes breathing spell. He was followed by Taylor who banked 2 minutes for tripping. Rose ripped in a clean side shot which counted 3-3. The play was around Strathconas' goal and Wasson busied himself to great advantage. Taylor was penalized 2 minutes. Glover was boarded 3 minutes for tripping. Cotey tallied Lindsay's next 4-3.

Stoddard got through the defence and had a great chance, but shot wide. Taylor scored. 5-3.

Cotey got the next one. 6-3.

Sullivan broke through on a magnificent rush, and the rubber hit the nets. 7-3.

Ray started things going again on a scoop shot from the side. 7-4.

Morgan was retired for 2 minutes.

Koyl got away on a beautiful rush, but didn't get a chance to shoot. Tayler raked out the puck from behind the nets and poked it through. 8-4.

McWilliams put off 2 minutes for slashing. Morgan sent in a hummer on Newton from the side which the latter blocked nicely. Sullivan was handed a 3 minute penalty. The half ended with Lindsay 8, Strathconas 4.

SECOND HALF.

Koyl made made one of his numerous brilliant rushes. While Wasson was without his stick, having lost it in a scrimmage Stoddard scored. 9-4.

Morgan brightened up things for the Straths by putting the puck past Newton. 9-5.

McWilliams got Peterborough's next shot of the game. 9-6.

Cotey passed to Taylor, who shot and scored. 10-6.

The referee penalized Sullivan for 2 minutes. Stoddard was also given the same sentence. Rose was told to leave for the same length of time. Wasson got in the way of one that was billed for a sure counter. In a scrimmage behind the goal he sat down on the ice and took the puck in his hands. He was given a minute for the offence and Glover defended the nets. No goals were scored while Wasson was on the fence. Sullivan did some more tripping and was sent to the penalty roost for 3 minutes. Koyl rushed from his position at point right to the Strathcona goal, but passed wide. Wasson stopped one at close range that was travelling for the nets. Rose shot on goal and Newton stopped; but Morgan who received the rebound whacked the puck through. 10-7.

HARRY MORGAN

Who Played Star Game at Lindsay Last Night.

Ray scored the next for Strathconas. 10-8.

McWilliams shot one that was dead on, but so was Newton. Koyl took a hand in the proceedings and after a sensational rush passed to Stoddard who tallied. 11-8.

Ray received two minutes for tripping. Taylor tripped Glover and was also benched for the customary two. Koyl and Parnell mixed it up and with a couple of minutes to play were put off for the rest of the game.

The game ended with the score standing:

Little Newsboy Victim of Painful Accident at C.P.R. Depot

Yesterday at noon an English lad, about nine years old, was the victim of a painful accident at the C.P.R. station just as the 11.38 train steamed into the depot. The baggage truck heavily laden with trunks and valises went over the instep of the boy's right foot, badly jamming it. The little fellow was waiting for his Toronto papers, and the baggageman in his hurry to get to the train did not notice him. The boy was removed to his home where the doctor was called and attended the injured limb.

THE INTEREST IS INCREASING

Another Successful Evening by Ladies Literary in T.A.S. Rooms

So popular have become the literary entertainments arranged under the supervision of the Ladies' Literary committee of St. Peter's T.A.S., that the interest in these meetings seems to increase rather than abate as the season advances, thus showing the appreciation the members of the society have for the efforts put forth by the members of the committee in providing such elevating entertainments.

The programme of last evening's meeting was, as usual, a most pleasing one consisting as it did of very able essays on "Dombey and Son," by the Misses McGrath and a bright musical programme by local talent.

Miss Margaret McGrath read in a pleasing manner the first essay of the evening, it being a complete and concise account of the story of Dombey and son. It is the life story of a proud, unbending Englishman, whose one great idea in life was to preserve the old name of "Dombey and Son." Dickens introduces us to both of these characters at the deathbed of Dombey's wife.

The various characters throughout the story whether important or unimportant, were then very deftly pictured by Miss McGrath. Among the characters so ably portrayed were Dombey, Paul, Florence Dombey, old Solomon Gills and his nephew, Walter, Captain Cuttle, Mrs. Chick, Dombey's sister, Miss Fox, Major Bagstock, Carker and others. Continuing the writer stated that he sketch of the story serves to bring to our minds the pen pictures Dickens gives us. His characters are as numerous and varied as Shakespeare's and a resemblance to nature can generally be traced between them and those of every day life.

Dicken's style as illustrated in this particular work was then very ably dealt with. His element of force, —contrasts and similarities—his close observance of nature, his knowledge of human nature, his tendency to make nature harmonize with the moods of his characters, his pathos and humor, were all clearly shown to be characteristic features of his style. To exemplify these various characteristics examples were quoted from "Dombey and Son."

Miss Kate McGrath then followed with an exceedingly interesting account of Paul Dombey, who was a positive joy throughout. From a child he grew to be a pretty little fellow, but there was something wan and wistful in his small face. He had a strange, old fashioned thoughtful way of sitting in his little armchair till he looked and talked like one of those terrible little beings in the fairy tales. This precocious mood would overtake him at all times, but especially when sitting by the fire place after dinner.

The writer then gave in beautiful language, very interesting accounts of Paul's childhood at home, his school days, his conversations with his father at the fireside, his conversation with Mrs. Pipchin and with Floy by seaside, and of his sojourn at Dr. Blimbers. The writer gracefully concluded by giving a most pathetic description of the death of Paul. For his description of Paul's death Dicken's is known the world over and it bears repetition. It is penetrated with the most exquisite sense of pathos and is an example of Dickens' ability along that line.

These excellent essays were intensely interesting throughout, the treatment of the subjects by the talented essayists being most praiseworthy. As the mind wonders over the lengthy list of histories, novels and narratives and returns to the works of Charles Dickens, one recognizes anew the old truth that no great work is ever exhausted. This fact was clearly shown in last evening's essays.

These interesting essays were prefaced by a musical programme, which was rendered in a faultless manner and which demonstrated remarkable ability on the part of the performers. The following was the musical programme introduced by Miss H. Sullivan, who occupied the chair for the evening:—

Instrumental duet—Misses E. and D. Tangney.
Vocal solo—Mr. Crowe.
Vocal solo—Miss L. Kearns.
Instrumental solo—Miss Olive Tangney.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The next meeting of the Society will be held on Friday evening, Feb. 7th, when Rev. Father Galvin will deliver a lecture.

Some Gossip as to the Wardenship

Good Prospects for Reeve Scott of Smith Securing the Honor

"Who will get the Wardenship of the county?" was asked by the Review of a member of the county council today.

"Well," he replied, "there are several aspirants for the honor."

"How many?" he was asked.

"Well, five or six, but so far as I am concerned, I do not mind telling you that I am going to support Mr. R. N. Scott, reeve of Smith. For four years now, the wardenship has been held by representatives from East Peterborough, and it is time that the West had a man in the chair. Messrs. McNally, Johnston, Buck and Peck, the last four wardens, were from municipalities in the East Riding, and now it is the turn for the West to get a look in. I believe Mr. Scott would make an excellent presiding officer. This is his fourth term as reeve of Smith, and he is entitled to the honor. He has had a broad municipal experience and as chairman of the House of Refuge committee has done particularly good work. I think Mr. Scott should be selected, and I am going to give him my warmest support for the wardenship," declared the speaker, as he walked away.

The county council will hold its inaugural meeting on Tuesday next, beginning at two o'clock. The first business will be the election of a warden and striking the committees for the year.

Growing Girls Need Pink Pills

This Tonic is Necessary for Their Proper Development and to Insure Health and Strength

There are throughout Canada thousands and thousands of young girls who are in a condition approaching a decline. The complexion is pale or sallow. Appetite fickle. A short walk, or going upstairs, leaves them breathless, and with a violent palpitating heart. Headaches and dizziness often adds to their misery. Doctors call this anemia, which, in common English, means poor blood. There is just one sure and certain cure for this trouble—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new rich, red blood, strengthen every nerve and bring a glow of health to pale faces. Do not waste time and money experimenting with other medicines. Do not delay treatment until you are in a hopeless decline. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once and see how speedily they will restore your health and strength. Here is the proof. Mrs. Joseph E. Lepage, St. Jerome, Que., says: "My daughter Emilia began to lose her health at the age of thirteen years. She suffered from headaches and dizziness. Her appetite was poor. She was pale and apparently bloodless. She had no strength, and could neither study nor do any work. Doctors' medicine failed to cure her, and I thought she was going into a decline. She was in this condition for several months when a neighbor advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to give them a trial. It was not long until an improvement was noticed and the continued use of the pills for a month or more completely cured her, and she has since enjoyed the best of health. I feel sure that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure any case of this kind."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure all troubles due to poor and watery blood, such as rheumatism, sciatica, indigestion, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance and the ailments that make the lives of so many women miserable. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case as Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up the aged appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental hotel on Jan. 27th.

LEARN DRESSMAKING

We teach you everything from the plainest shirt waist to the most elaborate toilet that can be found in the fashion books. We show you not only the lining but all the outer goods in coats, skirts, waists, wrappers, sleeves, children's dresses, collars, etc. Why spend months at a dressmaking shop where you do nothing but hem, overcast, sew on hooks and eyes? And then, after you have served months there, what do you know about cutting? Absolutely nothing. You will know no more how to cut out a dress at the end of a year, than you did the first day you went there. So, why spend your time there when we can teach you in less than two weeks? You can come and try for a few days and if the course is not what we have advertised it to be you have the privilege to stop. As there is no pay in advance you certainly do not lose anything by trying. If you do not wish to be a professional dressmaker the cost is so small that you can well afford to take it up if only for your own use. We have taught over 7,000 in this way within the past five years.

Charge for full course is only $10, to be paid when through, including one of the most perfect fitting charts in use which we give free. An evening class will also be taught for the benefit of those that can not come during the day. In this class we will teach shirt waists, sleeves and tucks. Terms $4.00. Hours from 7:00 to 9:30. We will teach at Peterborough from January 30 to February 7. Hours for day class form 8:30 to 5:00. For full information we would be pleased to have all those interested call and have the system explained to them at the Oriental Hotel, on Wednesday, January 29, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

READY FOR THE FRAY

When the tocsin of battle is sounded, and the election fight comes on, the Conservatives in East and West Peterborough will be prepared for the fray. They will not be found with their armor off, their swords [illegible] or their weapons hung on the wall.

Whoever the candidates will be in the field in both constituencies for the Federal Parliament and Legislature Assembly. They will be the strongest and most representative men in the party, and, backed by sound organization, united ranks, and a live, energetic body of workers, engaged in a splendid cause, the prospects of victory are very bright.

The Conservatives of the West Riding will meet in Bradburn's opera house on Wednesday next. Delegates have already been chosen from the different polling sub-divisions in the riding, and the primary gatherings have been most enthusiastic in spirit and remarkably well attended. The party was never in better shape nor inspired with more confidence than it is at the present time. The assembly on Wednesday next promises to be the best in every respect held in the political history of the riding.

The Conservatives in East Peterborough also recognize the necessity of lining up and doing, of placing their candidates early in the arena, and in every way being prepared when the campaign comes on. A convention for the East Riding will be held at Norwood, on Wednesday, Feb. 26th. Several eligible names will go before the meeting, and standard bearers will be chosen for both the Dominion and Ontario Parliaments. Thus, [illegible] the grand old party in the Peterboroughs, will have its leaders, and will be ready for action. The most representative, respected and staunchest men will carry the Conservative colors. No stone will be left unturned, no legitimate work [illegible] wanting, to place the East and West Ridings in the Conservative column so far as Federal representation is concerned, while East Peterborough will, in all likelihood be redeemed, and will send to Toronto a supporter of Mr. Whitney and the cause of clean, honest, progressive government.

AN ACTIVE CAREER

In the death of Mr. Wm. H. Wrighton the city of Peterborough loses an estimable business man, and a life crowned by half a century of activity, industry, uprightness and thorough business experience in many lines. Mr. Wrighton found time to serve his native city in several capacities. For years he was a member of the old volunteer fire brigade, being a most enthusiastic fireman. He served several terms on the Board of Education and brought to bear upon the position sound judgment and a sincere desire to advance the educational interests of the city. Mr. Wrighton also did much for the great cheese industry and for years was a heavy purchaser on the local board. He also engaged in other lines, which he carried on with success. He was a quiet, unassuming man. His career of fifty years in business is a unique one. Of late Mr. Wrighton had not been in very robust health, but every day found him at his store on George street. He literally died in harness. Having outlived the Psalmists span of three score and ten years, the end came peacefully and quietly. The transition from life to death was unknown. He crossed the border while in the embrace of sweet, refreshing sleep. He suffered no pain, and the lamp of life went out when the oil had become exhausted. The flame grew less and less bright until the glow died away and all was peace—sweet peace.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS

"Second thoughts are often best," is a maxim. The Canadian Premier evidently thinks so, at any rate. After refusing, he reversed his decision and consented to allow Members of Parliament to examine the originals of public documents. Sir Wilfrid suddenly altered his mind, and concluded that Parliament had the right of access to these records.

This was the principle laid down by Mr. Borden, and the submitted the following resolution to the House:

"That, subject to such considerations of public policy as can be validly urged in any case, it is the undoubted right of the people's representatives of Parliament assembled to be informed of everything necessary to explain the policy and proceedings of the Government, and for that purpose to have an opportunity of seeing and examining all documents connected with the transaction of public business and the denial of such right by the Government justifies the refusal by this House of further supplies to the Crown."

Mr. Ames, of Montreal, had procured copies of certain files respecting a transaction in the custody of the Department of the Interior. Having examined these copies, which were voluminous, he stated that there were certain papers, very few in number, as to which it was necessary for him to see the originals. He offered to examine them at the Interior Department in the presence of any Government official, and asked for permission to do this. This permission was refused, but the Minister of the Interior suggested to him that the papers might be produced if a return was ordered by the House of Commons. Such a return had been ordered, but the Government refused to obey.

Though the Government's backdown from this decision was graciously announced by the Premier, some of his followers showed their inability to rise to their responsibility by evidencing the chagrin felt at their leader's actions. They would rather have persisted in the untenable position of refusing the representatives of the people access to public documents dealing with the title to lands owned by the people of Canada.

That right should be undeniable, and it is to be hoped will be in the future.

Senator Dandurand is right when he accuses our so-called better classes of lack of public spirit. They will, he says, "grumble swear and walk on," but will not interest themselves in public business or the city's betterment. And the worst of it is that these people can do big things easily when they have a mind to.

The Department of Labor at Ottawa has been asked to interfere in the case of the Hamilton Street Railway and an employee whom it discharged. There is a precedent for the action taken at Toronto for such an appeal, and the Ottawa authorities may think it a good one. Anything calculated to disturb an employer or labor and put him to inconvenience is courted [illegible] up there.

The Bank of England rate of discount has again been lowered, this time to 4 per cent., which in England is not counted very high. The step is the result of improving conditions generally in European financial centres. The time should be near at hand when a good man with a good commercial proposition should find it moderately easy to get money to carry it through.

To such an extent has the work of the Crown Lands Department of the Provincial Government grown that a portion of the staff will shortly be installed in new offices. Mr. Thomas Southworth, director of colonization, will occupy offices in the northeast wing, and his present offices to the west of the main entrance will be taken by Prof. Miller, the geologist, and his staff. Alexander Fraser, provincial archivist, will have his new office in the basement, and Professor Mickle, provincial mining inspector, will take the apartments vacated by Mr. Fraser.

BRINGS FAME TO PETERBORO'

Inquiry From China Regarding Canadian Machine Phone Co.

This morning Mr. B. A. Lillie, local manager of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, received a letter from a large business corporation in Hong Kong, China, inquiring about the work of the "wireless system." The letter was to the effect that the enquirers have heard from eminent engineers favorable reports as to the working of the machine phone and they desired full information. Peterborough as the home of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, is being widely advertised and when inquiries come from such a distant point as China, it demonstrates that the name of the city as well as the phone system is spreading.

MAY IRWIN ON FADS.

What This Jolly, Successful Actress Says on the Subject.

My dear old mother, who was something of a philosopher, used to tell me when I was a youngster, "Don't worry."

She quoted that bit of advice, which is apparently so easy to follow, to us children every time we appeared out of sorts and seemed at all rebellious against the daily events which did not altogether meet with our approval.

"Oh, yes, mother," I would say, "it's easy enough for you to tell us not to worry! But we can't help worrying. What do you know about these childish troubles of ours?"

Then my mother would turn away, and presently we'd hear her voice calling.

When we responded it was always to find that the wise and sweet old soul had devised some little duty about the house for us to do. She very skillfully led us into work; got us interested in the particular task we had to perform.

In a way I think my mother used to bunko us girls. Before we were aware of it she'd have us running races to see who could put up the greater number of cans of preserves, and who could practice longer on the piano, and who could endure longer—"get tired first," she called it—when it came to putting the house in order.

To borrow a foolish expression from the melodrama, "I can see it all now."

I have been a very hard worker all my life, and I can truthfully say that I have been a very happy woman.

Work is the one unbeatable foe of unhappiness.

Work, application, concentration!

In these three words you've got the whole thing.

It is only the man who works who can enjoy a vacation.

It is only the man who works and works hard who finds the true happiness contained in our week's one day of rest.

If you want to be happy, get busy.

Force yourself to get interested in something. If you are deeply interested in some occupation, you won't have time to be unhappy.

Every person, man or woman, must acknowledge this fact.

Somehow I feel as I write these articles that I am directing my words more particularly to the women than to the men. I'll take a chance on having more women readers than men, and I'll risk another observation which may sound trivial at first.

Get a fad. Fads are mighty good things.

Fads have saved many a woman in my profession from being unhappy.—New York Journal.

SET OF TOILET BAGS.

The Handiest Things to Have in the Bedroom.

Once a girl acquires an assortment of bags and receptacles for toilet articles she will never be without a bag for everything. They are handy and help her to keep a room orderly; also they may be fashioned in a way to make them decorative.

One of the most satisfactory to have is a comb and brush bag, which may be hung beside the dresser or chiffonier and leave more space in the drawers for one's other belongings. This bag is made deep enough to hold the brush and comb, and it looks like a section of a shoe bag. The foundation is a long, straight piece of the material, on which is sewed a pocket. The pocket and foundation are bound all around with ribbon or colored tape to match the predominating color in the cretonne silk or tapestry. Two little ribbons, one at each corner of the top, will serve to hang it up by. A bedroom may be made to look very dainty by having all the bags made of pink, blue or yellow flowered chintz or cretonne.

A pocket that will find many uses is made of cretonne laid over an oval shaped piece of cardboard and bound on the edge with a small cord. The lower half of the oval, which is used lengthwise, has a pocket of cretonne shirred to it. The upper edge of the pocket is hemmed and an elastic run through the shirring.

A whisk broom case is another receptacle which may be made ornamental, and, besides this, it is a good thing to have a wall pocket with two sections in which to keep one's shoe brushes and shoe cloths.

How to Clean Waxed Floors.

A hardwood floor which has been finished after the French manner, with wax only, is easily cleaned and refinished. In this country such floors instead of being polished with a brush every morning, as is done in good houses in France, are left to themselves for weeks or months. The consequence is that the surface of the wax grows dim and sticky, and dust clings to it, accumulating until it forms blackish streaks or spots, especially under rugs or near windows or in other places exposed to dust. Washing with water or ammonia will not remove these spots and will injure the floor, raising and roughing the grain. Instead of this they should be rubbed with fine sandpaper, No. 1 or No. 0, dipped in turpentine. The turpentine will soften the wax without injuring the floor, and the sandpaper will remove the dust. If the floor is too thickly coated with wax, the sandpaper clogs quickly, and steel wool dipped in turpentine is more convenient, when the fresh dressing of wax may be put on and rubbed in the usual manner. This process can be repeated indefinitely until the floor has been sufficiently cleansed.

Will Build Line to Kinmount

A well attended meeting of the shareholders of the Burnt River Telephone Co., was held at Burnt River on Wednesday afternoon. It was decided to proceed with the construction of the line to Kinmount as early in the spring as possible, also with a branch to Fairbairn and probably one to Baddow if sufficient business offers. A resolution was passed that steps be taken at once to collect several shares still remaining unpaid by the subscribers. Messrs. Wm. Hoskins and Ed. Finley were appointed auditors and the original Board of Directors was re-elected. The affairs of the company are in good shape, and the earning power of the new line is fully up to expectations.

Large Increase of Juvenile Crime in City During Year

Shown by Annual Report of Children's Aid Society—Interesting Address by Mr. J. J. Kelso of Toronto—Society Will Extend Work to Haliburton County—Mr. T. F. Matthews Elected President.

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held last evening when only a fairly large number of persons were present. Reports were read, and the financial statement showed a small balance in the treasury. The chair was taken by Mr. Peter Campbell. The feature of the evening was the address by Mr. J. J. Kelso, Toronto, Superintendent of the Society for Neglected Children for the Province of Ontario.

The proceedings were opened with the reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting and of the special meetings held during the year by the secretary, Mr. E. L. Goodwill. upon motion they were adopted.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

To the President, officers and members of the Children's Aid Society of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have the honor to present the annual report, as Secretary of your Society. Another year's work has been added in the history of the society, and I venture to say that the year 1907 has been one of the most eventful since your incorporation.

Early in the year, by the resignation of Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, K.C, upon his departure for Winnipeg, having filled the office of secretary for six years, and of solicitor for upwards of ten years, you lost the services of your most efficient secretary and solicitor, and one of your most active members. His removal has been a great loss to the city and other organizations, but particularly to the Children's Aid Society. It was with regret he severed his connection with this society to which he devoted so much of his time, and the high stand taken by this society can be attributed largely to his faithful and efficient services.

You have also by removal from the city lost by resignation your president, Mr. Hampden Burnham. Mr. Burnham has for many years taken a great interest in the children's cause, being a chartered member of the society, and his absence from our midst is felt very great indeed. You will be pleased to know, however, that although absent from this city Mr. Burnham continues to take an active interest in our work.

During the past year thirty-seven children were placed in the Shelter, being one of the largest years in the history of the Shelter. Of course, it is only the exceptional case that is placed in the Shelter, and during the past year a great many cases have been investigated, and the children placed direct in foster homes.

This society is fortunate in having the services of Mr. Cochrane as he has in past year rendered valuable aid in the carrying on of the work, investigating and reporting all matters placed in his hands, and discharging his duties in a manner reflecting great credit upon him and the society.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry continue to discharge their duties in the Shelter to the utmost satisfaction. The fact that I found the children all anxious to return, and in one or two cases going so far as to deliberately stir up trouble in the foster home with the express object of being sent back to the Shelter to be with Mr. and Mrs. Henry, which speaks volumes in itself.

The members of the Society have reason to congratulate themselves upon the acquisition of the new Shelter upon such favorable terms, the city having granted us the use of the Hilliard house and part of the grounds for a term of twenty years at a nominal rental, with the undertaking on the part of the society to place in the house certain improvements. With the expenditure of a moderate sum of money, this property will be placed in first class shape for the children. At present we have only possession of the east end of the house, but in the spring we will obtain the remaining part.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry have succeeded in making this new home a very comfortable and attractive spot and they deserve great credit for the manner in which they have renovated the portion of the house now occupied by them.

Many cases have been investigated during the year in the city and county, and warnings have been given to parents whose conduct toward their children, while not sufficiently cruel to justify the society in taking possession of the children was yet of such a nature to call for interference.

It is believed that the influence of the society has proved a powerful factor in the community. In many cases where no direct action has been taken, parents and others now know that there is an organization which can reach them and many are afraid of the disgrace of exposure with the result that there are fewer cases of cruelty reported than formerly.

In all cases reported we have taken prompt and vigorous action in which we have been assisted by the Crown officers. One case in particular may be mentioned, when came under our notice. A widow with a large family of young children placed one, a very pretty young child, in a home in the neighboring county. Information having been received by the mother that the child was not receiving proper treatment, she had a friend call and bring the infant to the city. It was then discovered that the child had been used in a most cruel manner. The mother was advised to consult with the officers of the society. Upon investigation we found the child a pitiful sight. Her face and body had been covered with large bruises and exhibited evidences of having received the most inhuman usage. The Crown officers of the county in which the alleged offender resided were consulted and in a short time he was brought to justice.

People living in the vicinity of a character of this type do not feel inclined to take any steps. Indeed it is with considerable difficulty that evidence can be obtained from them when proceedings are brought by the society. The reason is obvious. A person of this nature in the community in which he lives and more especially if it is a country district terrorizes it to a considerable extent.

The large increase of juvenile crime in this city during the past year has been repeatedly the subject of comment, by the press, the magistrates, clergy and others. The grand jury at the fall assizes at the High Court of Justice, made it the subject of special comment and made certain recommendations which your officers heartily endorsed.

Your officers have been asked many times as to what is the cause of this rapid increase of crime. No doubt there are many things to be taken into consideration to properly arrive at a correct estimate, but we would suggest as a most striking delineation of the cause in this city to be "Lack of parental control."

As solicitor of your society I personally attended at over thirty juvenile trials before the city police magistrate, and also at all cases investigated before the county police magistrate. In over ninety per cent. of the cases tried the offence charged was that of theft. The evidence adduced at these trials clearly indicated that the crime was the natural outgrowth and culmination of waywardness unchecked, self-will and self-indulgence unrestrained, and of long standing parential neglect.

A careful record has been kept of all children placed in foster homes and the report of the Provincial visitor as received from the superintendent, Mr. Kelso, have been examined and where necessary action has been taken. In only a comparatively few cases we considered it necessary to make a change and we are glad to note that our action had been beneficial. We frequently find that a child of a certain disposition will not suit certain foster parents, and we impress upon the parents to first take the child upon trial for a short time and if not suited they may exchange it for another.

One little girl of peculiar disposition has been at five different homes within the last seven months, and returned to the Shelter as unsatisfactory in each case. She has been placed in another home a few weeks ago, and the foster parents asked for adoption papers to be executed as they said they would not like to part with her for anything.

We are glad to find that there seems to be an unlimited demand for bright, healthy children between the ages of two and six years, and this year we have experienced no difficulty whatever in placing in good homes, where they are gladly received, a large number of children. There is also a large demand for older children, but these are sought not for adoption, but for the service they can render

One of the most encouraging and pleasing features of the work is to receive the applications of foster parents for adoption papers. Of the number of children placed on trial during the year, ten have been permanently adopted, and we have in the Shelter at the present time only one child.

It is evident from the many gifts received by the Society during the year, that our work continues to be commended and appreciated. Our thanks and gratitude is extended.

1. To the City Council and Trust Commissioners for the grant on such favorable terms of the Hilliard house and part of the adjacent grounds for use as a Shelter.
2. To the trustees of the Nicholls Estate for their liberal grant, which has made it possible to renovate and place our new Shelter in proper conditions for the work.
3. To the City and County Councils for their annual grants.
4 To the Ontario Government for their grant, which we hope may be an annual one.
5. To the various Churches, Sunday schools, the medical profession, the Ministerial Association and press and others for gifts and money and treats for children.
6. To ex-Mayor Best for the use of his property as a Shelter for so many years on so liberal terms.

To the Police Magistrate and members of the police force and many friends in the city and county who have assisted us so materially by their gifts, help and co-operation in carrying on the work of the children's cause.

The following is a brief reference to a few of the cases which have come under our notice since the last annual meeting. Case 566. This young girl was placed in the Orthopedic Hospital in Toronto and maintained there by the Society for nine weeks, to undergo treatment for her feet, the use of which she was rapidly being deprived of. Through the skill and care of Dr. McKenzie, the superintendent of the hospital, she is now able to walk around almost completely cured.

Case 552. Two small children were deserted in this city by their mother, and came under our care. The only information concerning them was what we could gather from the children and that very indefinite. One, a pretty little girl, has been placed in a good home and shortly after adopted. After considerably difficulty in following up all possible clews, we have succeeded in locating friends of these two infants, and in a few days the other child will be placed in the hands of his grandfather

Case 501. The parents in this case were reported to be neglecting their young children and drinking to excess. The case was investigated, and the parents, finding that they were about to lose their children, made a pitiful appeal to have them restored to them upon undertaking and promising to reform. This case was placed in the hands of the prohibition officers. The children were returned, and we are glad to report conditions are much improved

Case 507. This boy appeared a considerable number of times in the police court, charged with theft. He was finally placed in the Industrial School. The parents subsequently made him over as a ward to the society, and we had him removed from the Industrial School and placed in a good home in the country, where he is reported being very well.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

E. L. GOODWILL,
Secretary.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Mr. J. H. Burnham, expressing regret at being unable to be present and asking to be relieved of the office of President of the Society, as he would be unable to give his attention to the work. He would still remain a member of the Society and would do all he could in the interests of the work.

From Mr. R. M. Dennistoun formerly secretary-treasurer and solicitor of the Society, thanking them for expressions of thanks extended to him and expressing a wish that the Society would continue to flourish in the future as it had in the past.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED.

Rev. Canon Davidson expressed his regret at the severence from the Society of Mr. J. H. Burnham as President of the Society, and Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, and moved that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Burnham and Mr. Dennistoun for their kind and efficient services rendered the Society. This motion was seconded by Rev. A. H. Brace, and carried unanimously.

Mr. A. Mowat, Public School Inspector, said that his experience with the Truancy Act was rather limited, but he thought that he would like to see the power of the Truant Officer enlarged upon. At present the officer has to wait till the teacher informs him of an absence before acting.

Mr. George Cochrane, Truant Officer, thought that it would be better that where there are so many bad boys, the officer should have power to reprimand the truant at sight.

Mr J J Kelso thought that truancy was one of the greatest evils, and he thought the Act should be amended. Mr. A. Mowat seconded by Mrs. Garvin, moved that the Truancy Act be amended to meet the present day requirements, and be made up-to-date in every particular.

This motino was unanimously carried

MR KELSO'S ADDRESS.

Mr Campbell, in introducing the speaker of the evening, referred to the great pleasure it gave him to welcome him on behalf of the Society. He regretted that there was not a larger number of people present, but those who were there were the ones most interested in the work.

Mr. Kelso, on rising to speak, was given an ovation. He said that he always was greatly pleased to address people interested in children's work. He spoke of the local organization as one of the most successful in the province. He attributed this to the fact that the Peterborough Society was always fortunate in securing lawyers for the office of secretary-treasurer. "To reform bad children, it is necessary to get them into good environments," said Mr Kelso. Get them into good homes and Christian living and they will grow up good men and women. In the neighborhood of 5,000 children had been given out into foster homes. Having interviewed a vast majority of these, many of them being from Peterborough, Mr. Kelso said they were all doing well and living respectable, honest lives.

The Society in its rescue work among children follow natural lines. Their plan is to first get after the evils that make children bad. In many cases it is the parents who are to blame. If they were all right, in all probability, their children would be. The speaker referred to one instance where a ward of the Society had informed him that it was his mother who taught him to steal. The Society must study social conditions. It must command public sentiment. The poor classes have a hard, struggling life. It is very rarely a rich man's son is sent to gaol for any crime, while the boy of a poor washerwoman is often sentenced, with no more evidence against him than there was against the rich youth. "We ought to study the boys," said Mr. Kelso. Often they are crowded in unsanitary homes, with no play grounds and nothing to amuse them. The speaker strongly advocated along the lines of making boys' surroundings cheerful, healthy and comfortable. He urged that play grounds should be provided for the more unfortunate ones, who otherwise would not have any. He would advise that some one should be placed in charge to teach boys how to play. Rational play helps to develop character and self-control.

In reference to truancy, Mr. Kelso remarked that there was a surprisingly large number of boys from 12 to 15 years of age in this province, with its splendid system of education, growing up unable to read or write their own names. Out of 250 municipalities in the province only 75 had truant officers. Very little attention has been given to this department of the work. The powers of the Children's Aid Society are very wide, and Mr. Kelso advised that the Society prosecute the parents who do not send their children to school, on a charge of neglect. The parents are largely responsible for juvenile crime.

In the local papers and through other mediums, it has often been reported that officers of justice have suggested that the best way to reprimand the incorrigible boy was to flog him. Mr. Kelso strongly opposed this method of punishment. In his wide experience with youthful criminals he never yet whipped one. Sympathise with them, trust them and encourage them. Let them help one another, and let what influence they have be used one towards another. Mr. Kelso also did not believe in uniforming wards of the Society.

Mr Kelso, in conclusion, drew attention to the great work for the Society to do in Haliburton county. The country is poor back there, and the people's ideals are low. The speaker urged the Society to persevere in their noble works, and he was glad to be present to encourage them.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Goodwill and seconded by Mr. R. J. Todd, to Mr. Kelso for his excellent address.

This motion was unanimously carried

The meeting then adjourned.

What He Thinks of the Lights

Brantford Has System Much Superior to Peterboro' Says Man From Telephone City

A Review representative happened to meet a Brantford man today who saw the article regarding street lighting in last night's issue of this paper and who heartily concurred in the idea that the system of street illumination in the Telephone City was much superior to the one employed here.

"Why some of the streets here," he said, "are wretchedly lighted. A desperado could hold a man up behind one of the poles and nobody ever notice it. It's a matter of light and shade on either side of the pole."

He said that while the lighting system in many towns was the same as the one here, it was nevertheless unquestionable that the Brantford plan of public illumination was easily superior to the one in this city.

Port Hope Woman Gets Verdict for Death of Son by Live Wire

Toronto, Jan. 24.— Mrs. Phoebe Wright, mother of Harry Wright, a boy of eighteen, who was killed last June by a live wire belonging to the Port Hope Light and Power Company, was awarded $2,500 damages by the jury in the Assize Court at 8 o'clock last night. Mrs. Wright sued the Power Company and the C.P.R. Company jointly, the boy having been employed by the latter to string telegraph wires, and having come in contact with one of the live wires strung on the pole by the Power Co. The evidence yesterday was of a technical nature, excepting when several C.P.R. men who work at or near Port Hope, testified that there was never any notice given to the Power Company to turn off the current when the men were going to work on the poles.

According to the verdict rendered, the plaintiff has the right to call upon either of the defendants in the suit to pay the $2,500 but the judge retains the right to say, should the plaintiff call upon the C.P.R. Company to pay, whether that company shall be reimbursed by the Port Hope Company, and on this point His Lordship has reserved judgment.

Death Roll is Terrible One

Many Killed and Injured on Canadian Railroads

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—The annual report of the Controller of Railway Statistics, Mr. J. L. Payne, for the year ended June 30, 1907, was tabled in the commons.

The record of accidents for the year shows 587 killed and 1698 injured. This represents the greatest number of persons, both killed and injured, in the history of Canadian railways. Of the total number killed 79 were passengers and 240 employees. Of the total number injured 352 were passengers, and 1,128 were employees. Last year one passenger was killed for every 459,104 carried as compared with one killed for every 1,749,301 carried in 1906. One passenger in every 91,299 was injured, as compared with one in every 121,168 during the preceding year. In addition to the foregoing, eleven shopmen and other employees not engaged in the actual work of operation were killed, and 454 were injured, bringing the total up to 598 persons killed, and 2,152 injured. With respect to passengers, 26 were killed and 93 injured in collisions, 21 were killed and 127 injured by derailments, and 19 were killed and 38 injured by jumping on or off trains. Forty-six employees were killed and 185 injured by collisions and 12 killed and 56 injured by derailments.

Of trespassers on the railway tracks such as tramps, etc., 185 were killed and 125 injured. Of non-trespassers 70 were killed and 83 injured. This sad sacrifice is in a large measure the story for the year of the deadly level crossings. Of the 70 killed 8 lost their lives at highway intersections, and at similar points 49 were injured. Including both trespassers and non-trespassers, 69 persons were killed at level crossings and 69 injured. In no preceding year has this record been reached.

In connection with the killing of 34 persons during the year in coupling or uncoupling cars, and the injuring of 141 employees from this cause, the report notes that the number of fatalities that year was more than three times the average rate for any ten years before the present system of automatic coupler was introduced.

Sec.-Treas.—F. J. Lillicrap.

A committee was appointed to strike the standing committees for the year and report at the next meeting. The acting secretary, Mr. O. A. Langley, was instructed to communicate with Messrs. J. Kendry, M. P., and R. R. ALL ABOUT THE GENIAL MAYOR

In connection with the cut of Mayor Rush in the Utica Globe, the following particulars are given:

Harry Rush, who has been elected mayor of the progressive City of Peterborough for 1908, by the largest majority ever given a candidate for office in that city, was born in Diss, Norfolk, Eng., April 19, 1848. He came to Canada in 1859, and after three years' residence in Cobourg, Ont., removed to Peterborough, where he has lived for 45 years. He has had a successful business career, and is popular with all classes. For many years he has been cashier for the Peterborough district for the Confederation Life Assurance Company. He is prominent in Masonic circles.

Mr. Rush served four years at the Council Board, and was a most aggressive and wideawake alderman. In 1904 he retired, and this year, in response to a request signed by several hundred ratepayers, he consented to test the mayoralty, and although he never canvassed a vote, he easily defeated his opponent, who was seeking the office for a second term. Mr. Rush's majority was 763, which is a record breaker in that city.

Interesting Story of Conditions in China—Many Changes Taking Place

Mr. George Thomas, proprietor of the Dominion Cafe, gave a very interesting address to the boys of the Y.M.C.A., yesterday afternoon at 4.15 o'clock. He told about the state of affairs, as they were in China at the time when he left there about 15 years ago. He said that things are changing now and that in less than five years we will see a new China. He told about the animals which were found in China, and compared them with the animals found in Canada. He also gave a very graphic description of the Chinese cities, and how he found them when he returned home five years ago. He described Hong Kong very minutely, how the city had the modern street car, electric lamp, telephone and telegraph, post office boxes, etc. Mr. Thomas spoke very highly in praise of the American and Canadian missionaries, and hoped that the good work would continue. He intimated that they had done much to enlighten his people and that they had secured the good-will and help of many people in China, the largest country in the world.

Annual Tea and Concert Was a Pleasing Success

The 41st annual tea and concert in connection with the Methodist church on the Chemong Indian Reserve, was held last night, and notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, proved to be very successful. Had not the stormy weather prevailed throughout the day, there is no doubt that there would have been present many people from a distance. However, the people of the reserve, turned out in full force and listened to a splendid programme. From five until seven o'clock tea was served in the lower portion of the village hall, and the concert commenced at 7.30 o'clock in the hall above.

The chair was occupied by Mr. E. S. Clarry, of Peterborough, who referred to the honor he felt in having the opportunity of presiding at the 41st annual tea and concert of the Chemong Indian Church. He referred to the many changes that must have taken place during the past 41 years, and predicted great changes by the time that another 41 years shall have rolled by. He congratulated the band upon their prosperous condition and upon the excellent class of entertainment they are capable of putting on.

Rev. Mr. Marks, the pastor of the church, gave a very able address on "Man." He traced the traditions of the various races of the universe, and paid a glowing tribute to the Indian for his honesty, and his ability to cope successfully with any other race in the lines of financial and industrial pursuits.

The choir rendered a number of selections that were heartily enjoyed, while Mr. Dan Whetung was very entertaining in his vocal selections. Several dialogues were well put on and equally well received.

Master Jas. Harrington brought forth great applause with his Irish recitation. Mr. Milne Hamilton, of Peterborough, favored the audience with several of Drummond's selections, and was repeatedly encored. The four young ladies who sang a selection entitled "Holly Girls," showed marked ability.

Miss Whetung acted as accompanist very acceptably.

Owing to the very stormy state of the weather which prevented many from a distance being present, the entertainment will be repeated on Thursday evening of next week.

Variations in Cream Tests and Use of the Cream Separator on the Farm

Mr. J. Lewis, proprietor of the Victoria Creamery, Lindsay, writes the Review as follows;—

One of the most common causes for dissatisfaction in supplying cream to the cream gathering creameries is the variations in the test.

This is especially true when each can of cream is tested separately, which is now considered the best method.

It is quite a puzzle to the average farmer who has not had much experience with cream separators to understand why his test varies when the same separator, run by the same man, is used all the time and the cows and feed are not changed.

But the tests do vary and this fact does not indicate that careless testing is being done, as it is practically impossible to run a separator under farm conditions without having the cream vary in quantity. In fact, if the cream test did not vary, but was always the same, it would look more suspicion than when it carries considerably at times.

It is annoying to the operator and managers of creameries as it is to the producers to see how tests do vary. Yet it is the case, and in this article I wish to show the number of causes for variations.

A change in the speed of running a separator at once changes the per cent. of butter fat in the cream. The higher the machine is speeded the greater the amount of skim milk thrown out, and the result is a cream of a richer quality. Low speed gives a larger quantity of thinner cream.

The process of the separation of cream from milk is caused by centrifugal force. Cream being lighter than skim milk, is forced to the centre to the bowl by the speed of the machine revolving, consequently, the greater the speed of the bowl, the greater the quantity of skim milk, with less cream of a richer quality.

Many separator users think they feed the separator at the same rate on account of the float governing the inflow. At times the faucet is not opened quite its full capacity, or at one time the milk tank is full, which makes the inflow come faster than at other times, when the tank is allowed to run low. This varies the quality of cream.

FLUSHING OF THE BOWL.

This is a very common cause of variations in cream. The amount of skim milk or water used in flushing the bowl, and the amount of milk to separate, will carry the test from one to six per cent.

Also the quality of the milk which may vary in butter fat from day to day, caused by the cow or cows being excited in any way, or a sudden change in the weather or lack of good, wholesome water, or a want of salt; all these causes tend to change the quality of milk and consequently change the quality of cream from the separator.

Another cause which is well known to all users of separators is adjusting of the cream screw. But this is by no means the common cause of tests varying.

A great number of farmers imagine the food has a great deal to do with the quality of milk or cream. The quality of milk is not governed so much by the feed as it is by the breed, treatment or individuality of the cow.

Another reason for the variation of cream tests is the condition of cream when sampling. This matter will be taken up in these columns at a later period.

The temperature of milk when separated plays an active part in variations of cream tests. Milk should never be separated at a lower temperature than 90 degrees F. H., or as soon after milking as possible.

Cream coming from a separator at a low temperature will appear rich in quality, but when tested by the Babcock tester will show a much lower test than you imagined and vice versa. This is due to the butter fat in the milk becoming harder as the milk becomes colder.

In conclusion, a few hints on the use of the cream separator on the farm. It should be placed in a clean place free from foul odors. If placed in the stables it should be in a separate room, well ventilated, and sheeted inside with matched lumber; the floor should be of cement, or good close plank.

The machine should be set level on a solid foundation, and the whole machine should be kept perfectly sweet and clean, and washed after every operation.

The filthy habit some separator users have of washing their machine three or four times a week is scandalous.

What would any clean, tidy farm lady think of a person milking in the same pail three or four times in succession without washing it, or probably rinsing the pails in cold water, as some do? Yet it is much more filthy to leave a separator unwashed. Cream running through an unwashed separator cannot possibly be clean in flavor, and good butter cannot be manufactured from such cream.

The cow properly cared for will give clean, wholesome milk. The dairy man clean, in habits will furnish good, clean wholesome cream, and the manufacturer, if he follows the same rule, will produce sweet, clean, wholesome, palatable butter, which will command the highest price.

Druggists up for Selling Liquor

Percentage of Alcohol in Patent Medicines too Great

Toronto, Jan. 24. — The analysis made by the license department of various patent medicines has shown, it is claimed, that the percentage of alcohol which they contain is considerably in excess of that allowed by law. Therefore, on the information of License Inspector Johnson, four city druggists were charged with selling liquor without a license.

James Bright, of the Rossin House drug store; W. J. Mitchell, 390 Wilton avenue; Donald Macdonald, 498 Queen street east, and J. R. Lee, of 256 Queen street east, were the druggists charged in connection with the sale of these medicines.

Mr. J. W. Curry, K.C., appeared for the defence of them all. He pleaded not guilty to each charge of selling liquor, saying that they had had no liquor whatever in the stores. He admitted that the proprietary medicines had no doubt been sold, but claimed that they had the right to sell them. The cases were all adjourned for a week.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W., 62, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother, her home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Groom and Bride's Hard Experience

Former Left Lovey-Dovey's Side to Obtain a Drink—Was Shut Out

Newly married couples usually have some funny experiences, but that of a couple who were married here in town and went to spend their honeymoon in Kirkfield, certainly eclipses most people's.

The couple were to spend the night at one of the Kirkfield hotels, and retired about the usual hour. About one o'clock the husband became very thirsty and got up to get a drink of water.

Hotels back north are not like the Waldorfs we are accustomed to here, in Lindsay, and conveniences are not as near at hand. The pump, the man discovered, was out in the back yard, but thinking he could make a quick dash and get back before he got chilled (for he was only in his night attire) he rushed out and had his drink in half a jiffy, then ran back to the door. What was his disgust and alarm to find that it was equipped with a modern spring lock and in his haste he had omitted to set it so that he could get in. He pounded and kicked on the door in the hope of arousing some one to let him in, but the proprietor and guests, hearing the racket, thought it was a drunken farmer or lumberjack, and were afraid to go down. At four o'clock in the morning every one got sick of the row and rose to see what was the matter.

There wasn't a colder man in the country, and if he has to go through the same thing every time he gets married, he'll have no second wife. —Lindsay Post.

No Wedding Bells for Her--Sad Story of English Woman

St. Catherines, Jan. 24—Two women, who recently immigrated from England to Canada, have had experiences which they will certainly not care to have repeated. The elder of the two, a woman in the thirties, was a school teacher, and her sister, several years younger, was a seamstress. The advertisements inserted in English newspapers of the splendid opportunities Canada had to offer immigrants from the Mother Country, lured the two sisters to Canada. They gave up their comfortable positions and crossing the Atlantic soon found themselves in Calgary. Try as they would however, they were unable to find employment. Soon their money was all gone and no work being in sight, they became dispirited.

The elder of the two early in December last noticed in a Calgary paper an advertisement of an elderly bachelor in St. Catherines who alleged that he was a man of independent means, and owned two farms as well as other valuable properties, but he no longer enjoyed the state of single blessedness. The man, whose name is William Calcott, stated in the advertisement that he wished to enter into correspondence with some lady who would not be adverse to matrimony. This seemed to offer a solution of the very serious problem with which the ex-school teacher had been struggling, and after consulting her sister, she replied to the adver- changed a number of times, with the result that the two women came to St. Catherines, a few days ago at Mr. Calcott's expense. On arrival they went at once to his place of residence on Geneva street, the appearance of the interior of which was so distasteful to the bride-elect that the marriage contract was cancelled at once.

The women were thus alone in a strange city and almost without funds. They appealed to Rev. Robt. Kerr, Rector of St. George's church, showing him a strongly worded letter of recommendation from the Vicar of their home parish. He referred them to the Chief of Police, who found them lodgings at the St. Catherines House, where they remained for a few days. Mr. Calcott's consenting to pay the bill. The proprietor of the hotel and his wife and other people in the city who met with the women speak highly of them, and much sympathy is felt for them. A day or two ago they left on the return trip to Calgary, Mr. Calcott having been prevailed upon to procure them transportation.

WEDDING BELLS

JONES—BROWN

A happy event took place on Wednesday, Jan. 22nd, when Miss Anna Unorma, daughter of Mr. Joseph Brown, of Douro, formerly of Cavan, was united in marriage to Mr. Elmer Jones, of Mariposa. The bride was given away by her father. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. McCulloch, of Omemee at 2 o'clock, in the presence of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride looked handsome in a gown of cream crepe de chene, trimmed with ribbon and lace. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, while Miss Bertha Sargent, cousin of the bride, acted as ring bearer, carrying the golden circle in a white lily. The wedding supper was a most attractive one. The presents were numerous and costly, showing the high esteem in which the bride was held. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch.

The happy couple left on the 5.33 G.T.R. train for their home, amid showers of rice and good wishes of their friends.

Not One Dollar Will Be Voted on Supply — Laurier to Make Statement Regarding Papers—Dunsmuir Correspondence Returned—Refusal to Assent to Natal Act — Banking Amendments Proposed.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday afternoon brought down the correspondence between the Secretary of State and Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir of British Columbia regarding the latter's refusal to give assent to the Natal Act. On April 23 last Mr. Scott telegraphed the Lieutenant-Governor as follows: "Your Premier, Mr. McBride, assured me that the bill entitled 'An Act to Regulate Immigration into British Columbia' will not receive assent, but would be reserved for consideration of the Government. Can I rely on this assurance?"

The answer of the Lieutenant-Governor, dated the following day, reads: "Your telegram received. Bill referred to will not receive my assent." Mr. Dunsmuir followed this up with a letter to Mr. Scott dated April 29, in which he says: "I have the honor to inform you that I prorogued the Legislative Assembly of this province on the 25th inst., at which time I assented to a number of bills, duplicate copies of which I am forwarding to-day by registered mail. I have thought it advisable to reserve for the pleasure of His Excellency, the Governor-General, bill No. 30, an act to regulate immigration into British Columbia. My reasons for doing so are that this bill appears to be but a modified form of others acts dealing with the same subject, which have already been disallowed by His Excellency, and should it become law, might seriously interfere with our international relations and Federal interests."

Banking Regulations.

R. A. Pringle (Cornwall) has given notice that he will move the following resolution:

"This is an opportune time to consider the advisability of amending and revising the Bank Act, and that the following, among other amendments, should receive consideration:

"1. To provide for Government inspection.

"2. To provide more stringent regulations as to circulation.

"3. That all chartered banks shall provide a special reserve fund for security of depositors.

"4. To make provisions as to percentage of capital and reserve that may be loaned to any one borrower.

"5. To make provision for a percentage that a bank may loan to its combined directors.

"6. To limit the amount of interest on discount that banks may contract for.

"7. To define the powers of the Bankers' Association."

West Indian Relations.

Mr. Martin, (P. E. I.) asked the Finance Minister in reference to negotiations for reciprocity or reduced tariffs with the British West Indies.

"Information reached us some time ago," Mr. Fielding replied, "that a conference of delegates representative of the various West India Islands was about to be held in Barbados, and the suggestion was offered that the time was opportune for a representative of the Government of Canada to meet these gentlemen, and that perhaps, out of the discussion something in the way of closer and better trade relations might be brought about. Responding to that suggestion, without any definite plan, which was offered by Sir Daniel Morris, the Imperial commissioner of agriculture for the West Indies, the Government appointed W. G. Parmalee, deputy minister of trade and commerce, and A. E. Jones, a well-known West India merchant of Halifax, to attend the conference. Perhaps at this moment the conference may be over, but we have not been advised yet as to its results."

No Liquor While on Duty.

The bill introduced in the Senate by Hon. Mr. McMullen to amend the Railway Act in respect to furnishing liquor to railway employes on duty provides for the repeal of section 414 of the Railway Act and the substitution of the following: "Every person who sells or gives or barters any spirituous or intoxicating liquor to or with any servant or employe of any company while on duty is liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty not exceeding $500 or to imprisonment with or without hard labor for a period not exceeding one year, or both."

Before the opening of the House yesterday afternoon, the Opposition got together in caucus and then went into the chamber determined to oppose the granting of supply until the Premier retreated from his position, that members of the House were not entitled by right to access to all records of the Departments.

The amendment of Mr. Northrup, offered on Thursday night, was discussed for two and one-half hours, and a division was taken, the amendment being defeated by 95 to 50.

When the vote was announced, the Premier arose. "With regard to the matter that has been under discussion," he said, "when the temper of the House shall have cooled down I will have a statement to make."

Mr. Fielding said that when the motion to go into supply was made Thursday night it was intended to take up the estimates of the Public Works Department. The Minister, however, was not now present, and he proposed to take up the estimates of the Marine Department.

Mr. Foster observed that this contingency was probably unavoidable, but it would have been well if the Opposition had been notified, as they had their committees assigned to various Departments.

Mr. Fielding said that in view of the statement of the leader of the Opposition about the gentleman of "pipe-stem" order, he (Fielding) did not expect to get into supply so early.

Mr. Taylor suggested Mr. Speaker call 6 o'clock. By night the House would have cooled down and the Premier's statement be forthcoming.

"Until we hear from the Premier," he said, "we may not make much progress."

The Premier smiled genially and the committee proceeded to business. To cool off, the committee discussed ice-breakers till 6 o'clock.

The House went into committee last night, but in pursuance of the declared policy of the Opposition, not a dollar was voted, and at 11 o'clock Mr. Fielding proposed adjournment. This was agreed to. The whole evening was taken up by a discussion of the work of the ice-breaker Montcalm.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will, on Monday make a statement respecting the rights ot the members to inspect original documents, and this may, and, again, may not, break the deadlock.

Talked In His Sleep.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 25.—Charging that her husband, Victor P. Thewlis, owner of large interests in Sherbrooke, Quebec., and superintendent of a Sunday school, talked in his sleep that he was in love with his stenographer, Mrs. Mary Lincoln, says when she tackled him, acknowledged one night of his "soul mate" and that he cursed and swore at her for objecting, Mabelle M. Thewlis brought suit for divorce.

She was given the decree yesterday, and also was granted alimony of $150 a month and the custody of the two children. The co-respondent in the case is said to be in Sherbrooke now; Thewlis formerly was at the head of a large concern here. He went to Canada two years ago.

Haytian Revolution.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Jan. 25.—The revolutionists have taken possession of the town of Port de Paix, 35 miles west of Cape Haytian. An English and a French cruiser are expected on the coast shortly. They will give protection to British and French interests.

Charles Miot, the American consular agent at St. Marc, has been removed from office by the American legation, because of his complicity with the rebels. Miot is a Haytian.

Collision, One Killed.

Quebec, Jan. 25.—In a collision at an early hour yesterday morning, between a Great Northern Railway and Quebec and Lake St. John Railway train at Riviere St. Pierre Junction, Edward Gelly, an employe of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway, was killed, while a few others were more or less injured.

POISON IN CHOCOLATES.

Trial of Young Man Charged With a Grave Offence.

St. Catharines, Jan. 24.—The case against James L. Karr, a Beamsville boy, charged with administering poison to George Russell, was opened before Police Magistrate Riggins yesterday afternoon, when evidence was given by Russell, Dr. C. A. D. Fairfield, who sold the poison, and by Albert Wright, Colin Wadeham, Lorne Konkle, James Tufford, Leonard Lintner, Franklin Hitchman, all of whom swore they saw Karr put a powdered substance into chocolates which he gave to Russell. The doctor's evidence was to the effect that he sold a quantity of "spanish fly" to Karr, telling him it was poison. Later he attended Russell, who was ill from poisoning, but, after treatment, recovered.

Karr said on a recent Sunday they went into Tufford's Livery and heard someone mention "spanish fly," and the couple decided to go up and get some. Tufford and the prisoner went, Tufford remaining outside while the prisoner made the purchase. Later the prisoner, Konkle, Tufford and Hitchman bored a hole in a chocolate and put the powder in, the prisoner holding the candy and Tufford putting the poison in. This was in the office of Tufford's stable, and the prisoner went out in the stable, Tufford coming in later and asking for chocolate. The prisoner gave him one and also gave one to Russell, the latter's being drugged. The first intention was to give the doped candy to Hitchman.

The hearing was then adjourned till next Thursday.

Threw Bomb at Bank.

New York, Jan. 24.—An exploding bomb last night wrecked the front of an Italian bank building on Elizabeth street, briefly exposing $40,000 in silver and gold which the bankers, Pasquale, Pati & Son, had piled in the windows as ocular proof of their safety to pay depositors on demand.

The junior partner, Salvatore Pati, who was on guard inside, was badly cut by the glass thatc rashed in upon him, but stuck to his charge and soon had the money stored away in the vaults. The score of clerks had left the place some hours before and the explosion injured none but the younger Pati.

The bomb throwers, who were not seen by the banker, were quickly lost in the crowd of several thousand excited Italians who gathered about the wreck, and their motive is a mystery.

"Lord Devonshire" a Fraud?

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 24.—George J. Woodman, 30 years of age, a cabinet maker of Walkerville, Ont., is held at police headquarters charged with being a suspicious person. The real charge is said to be fraud.

Woodman, who is quite distinguished looking, recently became acquainted with a Detroit young woman, to whom he represented himself as "Lord Devonshire" of the English nobility. They were married on Tuesday last. He dazzled his bride by presenting her with three hundred dollars' worth of fine clothing, secured from a Detroit firm, which, it is said, is still unpaid for. He visited a pawnshop and tried to cash a check for $50, using his wife's bank book as security. It is alleged that the check was a forgery.

Hair Caught In Machine.

Guelph, Jan. 24.—While working at one of the machines in the carpet mills yesterday, Miss Beatrice Thompson, a girl of 19 years of age, met with a painful accident, which might easily have been attended by fatal results. She went around to the back of the machine to adjust a part known as the collar-box, when he hair caught in a set screw on a revolving shaft. The girl's hair wound round the shaft, and in an instant her face was against a fast moving pulley. One of the men working near heard her screams and had the machinery promptly stopped, but not before an ugly cut had been sustained and the gril's ear split open.

Plot Uncovered In Portugal.

Lisbon, Jan. 24.—By courier to Badajoz, Spain.—An abortive attempt to overthrow the monarchy and proclaim Portugal a republic was nipped in the bud Wednesday night by the prompt action of the Government.

The plot was organized by a small group of advanced Republicans. As near as can be ascertained the plan was to assassinate Premier Franco and then depend for success on street risings, supported by secret, Republican and labor organizations, armed with bombs and revolvers.

The conspirators intended to take advantage of various festivities to carry out the coup d'etat.

Cut Chancellor's Salary.

Berlin, Jan. 24.—The Socialists, in retaliation for the stand taken by Prince Von Buelow on the matter of manhood suffrage for Prussia, have decided to aim a blow direct at the Imperial chancellor. When the appropriations for the chancellor's salary comes up for debate in the Reichstag they will introduce a motion that his remuneration be reduced unless he promises a bill providing universal suffrage without distinction of sex for everybody over 20 years of age in every federal state of the empire.

Indians Exempt From Game Laws.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—A new phase regarding the Quebec game laws arose yesterday morning in Hull in connection with the prosecution of the Revellon Co. of Montreal for having 400 beaver skins illegally in its possession.

The defence fight the case on the ground that the Indians from whom the skins were purchased had the right by an old treaty with the Dominion to kill and dispose of beaver, and that the Quebec law is ultra vires as applied to Indians.

King to Meet Roosevelt.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—W. L. Mackenzie King, deputy minister of labor, left last night for Washington to attend the annual banquet of Gridiron Club. He will be the guest of President Roosevelt at luncheon at the White House to-morrow.

Norman Ryan, of Ogdensburg, and Joseph Winters, of Toronto, have been identified as the burglars who robbed the G.T.R. station at Lancaster.

CITY HALL DESTROYED

Portland's Municipal and Police Buildings Burned Down.

Convention Was In Progress—Seven Hundred Lives Endangered—Historic and Other Valuable Documents Prey to Flames—Property Loss $1,000,000—Prisoners Were Liberated—No Lives Were Lost.

Portland, Me., Jan. 25.—A fire, which caused a property damage of $1,000,000 early yesterday, destroyed the city hall and police building and endangered the lives of more than 700 persons. Although known as city hall, the building was divided between city and county offices, while the police building sheltered the supreme, judicial and municipal courts, in addition to the police department.

There were more than 700 members of the Western Maine Knights of Pythias jubilee gathered in the auditorium of the city hall when the flames were discovered. Only a few persons were hurt.

Chief Engineer Melville Eldridge, the only one known to be seriously injured, was able to direct the fight against the flames throughout, being supported by two assistants.

The financial loss is estimated at $1,000,000, but this sum will not cover the loss of the papers and documents in the registry of deeds, where everything was destroyed. Other city departments were swept clear of everything by the flames, with the exception of the city clerk's and the city treasurer's offices. One of the most valuable libraries in the state, the green leaf law collection, was completely destroyed, with a loss estimated at $10,000.

The blaze originated in the city electrician's office and was caused by crossed wires.

When the flames were discovered, William A. Turner, chairman of the meeting of the Pythian body, was met in the hallway by three men, who acquainted him with the condition of affairs. Coolly he entered the auditorium and ascended the stage, interrupting the rites of the investiture, which were going on at the time. He calmly told the assembled members of the existing conditions, saying there was no need for hurrying and himself supervising a system of orderly departure, which proved effective in averting a panic and in bringing out more than 700 persons without an injury.

Chiel Eldridge was injured by the breaking away of a siamese coupling of hose, which hit him in the stomach.

When the flames communicated to the police building, where the city jail is located, the prisoners were liberated. The building, which was a five storey brick structure, was burned.

The city hall survived the great fire of 1866, although it was badly damaged at that time. It was first opened in 1859. The building had a frontage of 150 feet, and was 250 feet long. The property destroyed was insured for $240,000.

SICK OF THE ATLANTIC.

Mount Royal Passengers Overdue on Another Boat.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 25.—The three hundred continental emigrants, men, women and children, who early in December sailed from Antwerp for Canada, are certainly having enough of the North Atlantic to last them for a lifetime. They took passage on the Mount Royal on Dec. 7, and after being driven all over the ocean for 22 days were finally returned to Queenstown.

There, on Jan. 11, they once more embarked on the steamer Montrose on the voyage to St. John. The Montrose should make the trip in ten days, and was due here on Tuesday last, but up to the present there has been no report from her. She is now three days overdue, and while, of course, there is not the slightest anxiety, such delays being the rule rather than the exception at this season, there is general sympathy for the foreigners on board, who are finding such difficulties in their endeavors to reach Canada.

Students Raise Riot.

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—An effort on the part of the sophomores of the University of Pennsylvania to break up the annual class dinner of the freshmen here last night, precipitated an incipient riot in Kugler's fashionable restaurant, in the course of which nearly $500 worth of damage was done by the students. Ninety policemen were hurried out to quell the disturbance. A number of students were beaten by the police and half a dozen were arrested.

No Lockout In Manchester.

Manchester, Jan. 25.—There will be no lockout of the Manchester cotton operatives. Lengthy negotiations between the cotton mill workers and their employers resulted in the capitulation of the workers last evening. The employers insisted upon the acceptance of their terms, and to these the men agreed. This understanding averts the great lockout, which would have been commenced to-day.

Vessel Ashore.

Hull, Mass., Jan. 25.—A vessel, believed to be a three-masted schooner, was discovered ashore in Black Rock Channel, on the Lovell Sound side, and opposite Bug Light, in the lower harbor, yesterday afternoon The weather is very thick and it is not known how long the vessel has been in her present position. A tug has been sent to the vessel's relief from Boston.

Minister Barnes Retires.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 25.—Hon. James Barnes yesterday retired from the Provincial Government as minister without portfolio. He has been appointed agent of the Government's new Bureau of Colonization and Industries.

Frank Cooney, Henry Cooney, Jas. Gunn and Dave Cooney, of Glen Ewen, Sask., drank carbolic stolen from a doctor's office and died.

FRANK BRADY SHOT DEAD.

Killed By Young Woman In New York Restaurant.

New York, Jan. 23.—Frank Brady, the well-known advertising man, was shot five times and instantly killed in the restaurant of Macy's department store by a well-dressed woman yesterday afternoon. She drew a second revolver, put three bullets in her own head and was then taken to the New York Hospital.

She was identified at the hospital as May Roberts Clarke.

When the tragedy occurred the restaurant, which is one of the largest in the city, was crowded with women shoppers and a few men. The shooting caused the wildest excitement, women running shrieking in terror from the place.

It was shortly after noon when Brady entered the restaurant alone and went to a table. He had ordered his luncheon and was waiting for it to be served when the woman entered. She was about 35 years old, very attractive and stylishly dressed in a purple street gown, with a big picture hat. She had a fur muff and a boa.

She went to a table alone, and it was not until after she was seated that she caught sight of Brady, whose back was toward her. She immedately arose and walked up behind him. When within a few paces she drew a revolver from her muff and fired five shots into the man's back. He fell dead without uttering a cry.

Dropping the smoking revolver she drew another fully loaded from her leather handbag and fired three shots at herself, dying in a few minutes. All three inflicted desperate wounds and she fell unconscious to the floor. Half an hour elapsed before the management of the place restored order. No motive for the tragedy is apparent at present.

THREE MEN POISONED.

Drank Wood Alcohol and Doctors Could Not Save Them.

Glenewen, Sask., Jan. 23.—Through an error on their own part Monday, three men from this community met death and a fourth is very ill. In mistake they all drank from a jug of wood alcohol. The poison had got into their systems before medical aid arrived and despite the doctors' every effort, three of them succumbed to its effects. The victims are Dave Cooney, who died last evening; his brother Frank died yesterday morning, both farmers living one mile from town. Harry Cooney, nephew of the above men, a laborer in town, died Monday night and was buried to-day. The fourth man, James Gunn, farmer just out of town, is very ill but seems to be recovering.

WARM IN AUSTRALIA.

Thousands Ill From Heat—Many Bush Fires Raging.

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 23.—The heat wave that has been centering over Victoria for some time past, is ended, but it has left disastrous effects in its trail.

Vast bush fires are raging in many parts, destroying hundreds of homesteads and threatening many townships. The sufferings of horses and cattle have been terrible and the settlers have lost heavily in live stock.

More than 100 deaths from sunstroke have been reported and thousands of persons are seriously ill from the effect of the heat.

Canadian Mariners Benefit.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 23.—Fifty thousand tons of shipping will likely be transferred from the Norwegian to the British flag as one result of the Canadian Government refusing to permit foreign ships to ply in the coastal trade of the Dominion.

This is regarded as the only solution of the dilemma in which the Steel and Coal companies of Cape Breton, which have about 25 of these ships in their charter, are placed.

The ships are all of the most up-to-date type of cargo carriers, many of them being able to take over 7,000 tons on a displacement of 2,500 tons, and their total carrying capacity would be in the vicinity of 125,000 tons. To procure an equal number of similar British ships is an undertaking which the different companies interested do not relish.

Hughes Is Willing.

Albany, Jan. 23.—Governor Hughes has put himself squarely on record as willing to accept the Republican nomination for the Presidency in a letter to James S. Lehmaier, chairman of the Republican Club committee appointed to work for Hughes' delegates.

The governor declares frankly his recognition of "the great honor which the nomination would confer," as well as "the obligations of service which it would impose." "The matter is one for the party to decide," says the governor, "and whatever its decision I shall be content."

British Naval Policy.

London, Jan. 23.—It is understood that the Government's naval program for the coming year will involve only a moderate increase in the naval estimates, mainly for cruisers and destroyers.

Any special scheme of battleship construction beyond that already in hand will be postponed until the following year.

Farmer Fatally Injured.

Brockville, Jan. 23.—Riding a horse across a plowed field on his farm, a farmer named Shaw of Newboro was seriously injured internally by the animal falling upon him. It stumbled and carried Shaw under it in such a manner that he could not release himself. He was found in an unconscious condition and will hardly recover.

Expect Meningitis Cures.

Newport, R. I., Jan. 23.—It was reported in Newport yesterday that the new serum discovered by Dr. Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute, for use in spinal meningitis cases has been used with success in the two latest cases of the disease among the naval apprentices at the training station here.

ALFONSO'S NARROW ESCAPE.

King of Spain Nearly Killed by Wild Boar While Hunting.

Madrid, Jan. 25.—King Alfonso had a narrow escape from death while hunting yesterday. A wild boar unexpected appeared and rushed at the King, who shot the animal. The King then dropped his gun and walked up to the body, supposing that he had killed the boar, but it suddenly bounded up and flew furiously at the King, who was saved only by a prompt shot fired by one of the party into the maddened animal's head. The King was unhurt.

Oyster Schooners Lost.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 25.—Four oyster schooners are believed to have been lost in yesterday's storm off Brown Shoal. The body of a white man supposed to have been from one of these vessels was swept by a Newport News dock in a heavy current. The sea was so high that the body could not be caught.

With the temperature down to 22 degrees, the Virginia and North Carolina coast was swept by a severe storm, accompanied by a blinding snow and increasing northwest winds, which yesterday afternoon had reached a maximum velocity of 60 miles an hour at Cape Henry.

The steamer Jamestown, of the old Dominion Steamship Co., en route from New York for Norfolk, was reported last night by the wireless station at the navy yard, 50 miles off the Virginia Capes, unable to stem the storm, and put her nose in the Capes. The vessel is being slowly driven seaward.

Suppressing the Newspapers.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 25.—The prefect of St. Petersburg yesterday suspended two newspapers of the capital of wide circulation, Tovarish and The Sevodnia, on the ground that they were preaching revolution.

The suspension of The Sevodnia leaves St. Petersburg with but one afternoon newspaper.

Accountant Ends His Life.

St. John, Que., Jan. 25.—Arthur Leger, chief accountant of the Corticelli Silk Co., committed suicide yesterday morning. The deed is supposed to have been committed while in a fit of temporary insanity.

Several hundred pounds of nuggets and native silver were stolen from the King Edward mine at Cobalt, and a reward for its return is offered.

ARRESTED IN SICILY.

Three Men Wanted For Murder Committed Several Years Ago.

Messina, Sicily, Jan. 24.—The holding-up at Portage, Pa., several years ago of Patrick Campbell, paymaster, by a band of Italians, when a driver, Charles May, was killed and Campbell was wounded, found an echo here Wednesday night in the arrest of three men, who are declared to have been accomplices in the crime. The men's names are Carmelo Caralli, Rosario Desrazio and Giuseppe Felormo. Search for these men had been going on for many months.

Wednesday night all three gathered together in a house near here. The police then came down on them, and the house was surrounded by carbinieers. After all precautions had been taken, six policemen forced they way into the room where the men were. There was a desperate fight, but the men were outnumbered and were quickly forced to surrender.

Smothered at a Fire.

North Battleford, Sask., Jan. 24.—Harry Lang, the chief clerk on the C. N. R., here, was smothered in a fire Wednesday night. He formerly lived at Owen Sound.

McLean's Majority 144.

Seaforth, Jan. 24.—Revised returns from a polling place in Tuckersmith Township yesterday morning increase Mr. McLean's majority by 10, making it now 144.

Twenty Arrests Made.

Boyle, County Roscommon, Ireland, Jan. 23.—A force of 200 constabulary visited the Coevagh district yesterday and took into custody 20 men who are charged with unlawful assembly and riot, and with having interfered with the mails.

The landlords of the Keogh and Knox estates, in this district, have refused to sell lands to their tenants, and the latter consequently organized a "no rent" combination against the landowners. The latter then sent out processes for rent to their tenants, and it was the mails bearing these documents that were interfered with by the men gathered in yesterday.

Stole $3,000 Silver Nugget.

Cobalt, Ont., Jan. 23.—Between the hours of 10 and 1 o'clock Tuesday night, when the watchman at the King Edward mine was some distance from the ore house, it was broken into by thieves and a nugget worth $3,000 was stolen. Indications are that the thieves knew their grounds. They were tracked for some distance by footprints in the snow, but have not as yet been captured.

Jap Spies.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 23.—A special from Fort Stevens, Ore., says that two Japanese found loitering near the west battery of Fort Stevens were arrested Tuesday. This place is rarely visited, except by special permission from the district artillery commander.

Shanties Carried to Sea.

Chatham, N. B., Jan. 23.—Fifty light fishing shanties, between Oak Point and Brant Church, were carried out to sea on an iceboat started by the high tide. Several fishermen had narrow escapes. Each shanty and contents were worth from $75 to $100.

Earthquake Causes Panic.

Reggio di Calabria, Jan. 24.—A strong earthquake shook this province yesterday. Up to the present time no report of loss of life has been received. The shocks were particularly severe at the Villages of Bianco, Brancaleone, Bruzzano and Ferruzzano.

Screaming and terrified the people rushed from their houses to the open fields, or took refuge in the nearby subterranean grottoes.

A repetition of the shock is feared at any moment, and the people are calling on the saints for protection.

Hope to Unseat Aldermen.

St. Catharines, Jan. 24.—It is stated that steps are to be taken to unseat Alds. McBride and Laughlin, elected to represent St. Patrick's Ward. The grounds given so far are trivial, and it is said several aldermen, who were not given sufficient prominence on the principal committees, and a defeated candidate, are at the bottom of the movement.

Alligators Eat Honeymooners.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 24.—Two Americans, a young man and a young woman, apparently on their bridal tour, were eaten alive by alligators in the Balsas River, a stream forming the boundary between the States of Michoacan and Guerrerra, in Mexico. Nobody knows anything of their identity.

Concert Hall Girl Murdered.

Canada's total trade for the calendar year of 1907 was $658,599,944; an increase of $94,289,685.

NAME NOT EXCLUSIVE.

Salvation Army of United States Are Refused Injunction.

New York, Jan. 24.—The right of the Salvation Army of the United States, of which Gen. William Booth is the head, to the exclusive use of that or any similar name, was denied yesterday by Justice Newburger in the Supreme Court. Justice Newburger's decision was on an application made by the Salvation Army of the United States for an injunction to restrain the American Salvation Army, headed by James W. Duffin, from using that name.

Counsel for the applicant, in arguing for the injunction, declared that the application was made on the ground that the Duffin organization had brought discredit on the Salvation Army of the United States.

Count Sent to Jail.

Potsdam, Jan. 24.—The military court of honor ordered by Emperor William to try Gen. Count Von Hohenau, formerly an adjutant to the Emperor, and commander of the guard corps, and Major Count Johannes Lynar completed its hearing yesterday. Count Lynar was found guilty of abusing his authority on six counts, four of which related to insults to subordinates, and on five other counts charging moral lapses, and was sentenced to fifteen months in jail. Count Hohenau was acquitted.

Hohenau a short time ago was obliged to resign his position in the army because he was accused of being one of the so-called "court camarilla" exposed by Herr Harden, editor of The Zukunft. The names of both Gen. Von Hohenau and Major Lynar were brought constantly into the testimony during the recent Harden-Von Molkte trial.

Capt. Brown Suicides.

Montreal, Jan. 24.—H. Gordon Brown, prominent in military, business and social affairs, committed suicide at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at the Military Institute, No. 7 Beaver Hall square. Capt. Brown was an officer in the Victoria Rifles, and was connected in business with the insurance firm of E. A. Whitehead & Co. For some time Capt. Brown has been suffering intensely from la grippe, and it is thought that this overturned his mind. He came into the club, which he often frequented, and before the attendants could interfere blew out his brains with a revolver. He was 27 years of age, and was a brother of Fitzjames Brown, a well-known insurance agent in this city.

Played With Dynamite.

Galt, Jan. 24.—A four-year-old member of the family of John McKenzie, moulder, discovered what the youngster termed "a nice toy." It was in the shape of a cylindrical stick, and on examination was found to be dynamite.

There was over a foot of the stick, and the child was about to hammer it on the kitchen stove when the mother interposed and prevented an explosion.

An expert who disclosed the nature of the "toy" said there was enough of the explosive to destroy a brick block. The child said he was given the plaything by some boys passing by the house.

No Word of Missing Boat.

Hook of Holland, Jan. 24.—No news has yet been received of the missing boat from the steamer Amsterdam, one of several that put off from that vessel after the collision Tuesday night with the steamer Axminster. It is believed that this boat has been carried south by the currents and that she will make a landing somewhere on the coast. The heavy fog which still continues has interfered with the search for the missing boat, but all the vessels anchored in the Fairway have been visited and not one had heard of her. The boat carries 28 persons, of whom 21 are passengers. She is said to be well provisioned.

300 Flee From Fire.

New York, N. Y., Jan. 24.—A two-storey brick factory building in Rodney street, Brooklyn, occupied by the International Cork Co., and the Brooklyn Bottle Stopper Co., was burned yesterday. The explosion of a boiler started the fire and 300 employes escaped from the building.

Six women who returned to the building to get their belongings, were brought out just in time to save their lives.

Big Seizure of Beaver Skins.

Stolen Masterpiece Found.

Bruges, Jan. 24.—Vandyke's great masterpiece, "The Erection of the Cross," which was stolen from the Church of Notre Dame at Courtrai last month, was found near here yesterday hidden in a wagon belonging to a band of gypsies.

Chas. Paulon, a Swedish American, now in Winnipeg, says he went to work at Vermillion Bay for the G.T.P. and was so maltreated for resenting improper proposals to his wife that he and she had to leave for safety.

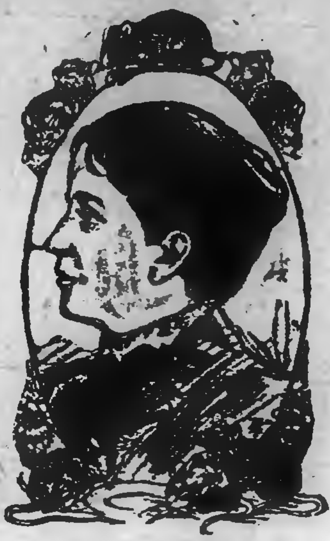
Woman's World

MISS ABBIE LATHROP.

She Runs a Rat and Waltzing Mouse Farm.

The proverbial and traditional horror of women for mice has been dispelled by Miss Abbie Lathrop of Granby, Mass., who has developed a mouse and rat farm to such an extent that she has over 2,000 rodents. In addition to the mice and rats, she has upward of 200 guinea pigs and a large number of ferrets as well as several hundred waltzing mice.

At first her mice went wholly to bird stores and fanciers to be sold again as pets, and this proved a very profitable avenue for her. Particularly was this true because in recent years mice have figured so extensively in window displays and with training developed a capacity for some quite marvelous stunts.



MISS ABBIE LATHROP.

She next opened up a still more promising field of activities, what promises to be her best paying line. The medical colleges of the country in their anxiety to conduct experiments are eager to try their theories on animals and have found mice about as good material as they can work with. How to get them has long been a problem, but now the medical departments of various institutions throughout the country have become regular customers of Miss Lathrop, who ships to them every month specified numbers of mice that are to be used in these medical college experiments.

Nonalcoholic Cocktails.

As an introduction to a course dinner the alcoholic cocktail is under the ban not only of temperance people, but also of those who understand the art of delicate dining. When whisky, rum or other strong alcoholic beverages are used, their pungent flavor destroys the appetizing effect of the hors d'oeuvre and seriously retards the processes of digestion. On this account the clam, the oyster, the various fruit cocktails and even those of appetizing herbs are used, their object being to stimulate but not cloy the appetite. From Germany comes a decoction of herbs put up in bottles for this special purpose. The cost, however, being about $2 a small bottle, makes it almost too expensive for ordinary use. Quite similar in taste and effect is the West Point cocktail, made in this way:

West Point Cocktail.—Fill a glass with shaved ice. Add a scant teaspoonful of lime juice, two or three dashes of orange, angostura or dandelion bitters and sugar or rock candy sirup to sweeten. Shake well, strain into a cocktail glass, put a twist of lemon peel on top and serve.

Mint Cocktail.—Crush a bunch of mint by rubbing each leaf with a wooden masher. Pull in bits, then soak half an hour in the strained juice of two lemons and the carefully grated yellow rind of one. Put a pint each of water and granulated sugar to cook until the sirup spins a fine thread, take from the fire and stir in the juice of a large orange and the lemon and mint. Let stand on the ice until very cool; then serve in small glasses, a spoonful of chipped ice being placed in the bottom of each cup.

Cranberry Cocktail In Lemon Cups.—Cook three pints of cranberries in an equal quantity of water about ten minutes or until the berries are soft. Strain. Add the juice of three oranges, three lemons and three cups of sugar. Freeze to a stiff mush or simply turn in with shaved ice. Serve in lemon cups, the edges of which have been cut in tiny points with scissors, then the skins chilled in the ice or in cold water.

Grape Fruit Cocktail.—For each glass allow four tablespoonfuls of grape fruit juice and a tablespoonful of sugar sirup and grape juice. Pour into a glass of shaved ice, shake thoroughly and then pour into the small glass from which the cocktail is to be served, adding to each a small section of the grape fruit pulp from which every suspicion of white fiber has been removed.

Women the Greatest Dreamers.

The state of dreaming has at all times attracted the attention of physiologists, and the study of this subject has occupied many moralists. All or almost all of us dream, and for that reason all seek a solution of this interesting problem. Dreams resemble reality so strangely that one wishes to find the actual cause of these mysterious reminiscences or fantastic divinations which fatally escape the action of the will.

We cannot even direct our dreams as we wish. They come of themselves without any invitation on our part, and they disappear without any possibility of our retaining them. Happy or somber, joyous or sad, they always preserve their mysterious origin for us.

Dreams are, properly speaking, not only a direct consequence of the memory in repose; they constitute its primordial factor. They are less frequent when the repose results normally from rational fatigue, and therefore adults in good health, for example, dream much less frequently than old men, and their dreams are generally happy ones.

This again accounts for the greater frequency of dreams in women. The statistical side of the question has recently interested a Vienna doctor, who has published the following figures:

Thirteen men out of a hundred as against thirty-three women dream during their sleep.

The number of men who dream frequently is 27 per cent; that of women is 45 per cent. As a general rule, it may be said that the weaker sex has twice as much tendency to dreaming as the opposite sex.

The cerebral phenomenon under consideration is absolutely unknown to 9 per cent, and 14 per cent dream only very rarely.

It seems idle to add that the same doctor noted, what is perfectly well known, that almost all our dreams are suggested more or less directly by the incidents of the material life of every day.

When washing greasy dishes or pots and pans, Lever's Dry Soap (a powder) will remove the grease with the greatest ease.

Daniel Webster's Favorite Pickle.

Chop rather fine one-half peck of green tomatoes, twenty-five cucumbers and fifteen white onions of good size. Slice two large heads of white cabbage. Pack in a large jar with salt between the layers and let stand for twenty-four hours. Drain and pour over the vegetables a scalding hot pickle made from three quarts of the best cider vinegar, three pounds brown sugar, one-half teacupful of turmeric, one-half cupful of black ground pepper, one ounce celery seed, three-quarters of a pound of white mustard seed and three or four ripe red tomatoes or their equivalent in canned. Scald well and pour over the drained vegetables. When cold mix one-quarter of a pound of mustard seed, a cupful of the best olive oil and a dessertspoonful of curry powder and one quart of vinegar and stir well through the pickle. This recipe is taken from the "Famous Old Recipes" contributed by the descendants of old Virginia families.

Dainty Accessories.

Every woman loves dainty accessories, and one of the prettiest of these trifles seen lately is an imported fan that is just the correct thing for a demitoilet.

The sticks are quite plain, of painted wood mounted with coarse black brussels net, on which are painted life size birds. Exquisite swallows, natural looking parrots, dainty love birds and graceful birds of paradise, all in their brilliant colorings, are represented. The sticks are either red or green.

They are much prettier than the description implies, for the net is almost invisible, and the effect is of a charming bird held aloft on a bright trellis.

Good Manners.

Manners are not like clothes. It's a bad thing to have two suits of them, one for best and one for every day. Wear your best manners all the time. They suffer more by being put away than by constant use. If you keep your best manners for company, they will fit you ill, and your visitor will suspect they were put on for him. Wear your second best clothes at home if you will, not your second best manners. To whom, in heaven's name, is it worth while to be courteous if not to the people you love best?—Harper's.

After Dinner Naps.

Complete relaxation after eating, a suspension of mental and physical activity, will favor the processes of natural digestion not only because of its tranquilizing effect upon the nerves, but because the stomach may use the surplus unused energies of the body in the processes of digestion. Happy the man or woman who can take an "after dinner nap." It means health, happiness and long life.—What to Eat.

When Prematurely Gray.

When the hair turns gray prematurely there is nothing to do but to take such excellent care of your thought dome covering that it will cease its process of color transforming. Take scalp treatments, which consist of electric brushing and massage. Use any good tonic, and get an egg shampoo every three weeks. Your glory crown will soon reform.

The Wrong Ticket.

An official of a railway once got leave to get married and was given a pass over the road. On his way back he gave to the ticket collector his marriage certificate instead of his pass. The latter studied it carefully for a few moments and then said, "My man, you have got a ticket for a long, wearisome journey, but not on this railway."—Woman's Life.

A SMART SUIT FOR THE YOUNG GIRL

The new woolens that have come in with the present season offer number of opportunities for modish development, the tailored suit being an especially appropriate model. A piquant suit of this order is shown in the sketch. The semi-fitting double-breasted coat is built on the most up-to-date lines, being specially designed with a view to the requirements of the undeveloped figure. The sleeves are of full length and of the mannish cut now demanded by fashion. The skirt is a seven gored one, the fulness at the hips being effectively disposed in pleats arranged to simulate wide box-pleats, while the side-pleated extensions provide for the required flare at the hem. The model is not of the type to lend itself to much decoration, though braid might be used as garniture if desired. For the 16 year size the amount of material required to develop the suit is 3¾ yards 27 inches wide.

A GRACEFUL MODEL FOR A HOUSE GOWN

A pretty, becoming house gown that may be easily slipped on and yet betray none of the untidiness that so often accompanies the wrapper, is a very desirable acquisition to the woman who likes to look neat and dainty at all times. The morning gown or wrapper shown is one of the best of such designs, and has been specially selected for illustration because it will exactly fill the need expressed by so many women. The back is made in princess style, while the front, which is arranged over a fitted lining, is tucked to yoke depth, and thence hangs free to the hem. The ribbon girdle may be used or not, as desired. A deep gathered flounce ornaments the skirt portion, this giving the gown a modish fullness at the bottom. The gown may be made in round length, as shown, or with a short sweep, and the pattern provides for both full-length and elbow sleeves. To develop the model any preferred material may be used, 9¾ yards 36 inches wide being needed for the medium size.

SWEET REVENGE

By

Captain F. A. MITCHEL,

Author of "Chattanooga," "Chickamauga," Etc.

Copyright, 1897, by Harper & Brothers.

Another night of horror; a rising sun, flooding the face of the rocks and our wan faces with a ruddy glow. A more wretched lot of beings could not be found among castaways at sea. We had not slept during the night, for whatever of rest had come to any of us had been rather stupor than sleep. Our cheeks were sunken; our eyes, deep in their sockets, were turned toward the red orb of day, which to our fevered imaginations seemed to be advancing to strike the final blow.

A great change had come over us during the night. Jack alternated between bursts of passion and a devil may care spirit, sprinkled with humorous sallies between tears and smiles, which served to lighten momentarily the gloom for the others, but only rendered me more wretched; Buck craved food more than all the rest and after a few vain efforts to appear unconcerned took on a ghastly look that cut me to the heart; Ginger spent a great deal of his time in prayer; Helen seemed calm, yet I noticed a strange look in her eye. Up to this terrible morning she had been the mainstay of the party. Under the strain that smoldering fire which burned within her flared ominously. Turning to me, she asked harshly:

"Are you a Confederate or are you a—Yankee?"

"What matters it now?"

"I came to save you, understanding you to be a Confederate."

"Would you abandon me now if you knew me to be a Union man?"

She turned away, and I saw that she was weeping. I put my arm about her and drew her head down on my breast. There she wept long and silently. Whether she was unconscious of what she did or whether her sufferings made her careless I did not know, but as I felt her heart beating against mine I was conscious of the birth of a new love.

As the sun rose higher it beat down upon us with all the enervating heat of an unseasonable day. The water dripping back of us alone sustained and refreshed us. One by one we would go to the cleft and, standing under the cooling drops, receive them in our mouths. We envied the birds the food they bore to their nests and the freedom of those soaring far above in the limitless ocean of air. Why could we not be given wings to fly from our rocky prison? The wrecked are prone to dwell on hallucinations. So to us came sounds denoting the approach of rescuers. One would hear the tramp of armed men. Another would see the white covers of a wagon train. All day we were tortured by these fancies till at last I ceased to pay any attention to them.

"I hear horses' hoofs," said Buck.

"Oh, no, you don't, Buck," I said, laying my hand on his head.

"I tell yo' I do."

"Listen," said Helen.

We all listened, but so far as I was concerned there was no unusual sound.

"I hear them, too," said Jack.

It was singular that these two should agree. I looked anxiously at Helen. My hearing was not especially acute. If Helen had heard, I might have thought there was something to hear. She listened a long while, but no sound came to her.

"It's gone," said Buck.

"So it is," said Jack. "I heard it; I know I did."

I turned away. It was plain to me that they had been tortured by another hallucination. Neither Buck nor Jack heard anything more, and the incident was soon forgotten, at least by Helen and by me, who had heard nothing.

We all relapsed into that dreadful waiting—waiting for the time when the fear of death would be overcome by the pangs of starvation. Helen suddenly looked at me, that dangerous light which I had seen before in her eyes.

"Your enemy?" she asked.

"What enemy?"

"The one you came to Alabama to kill."

"I shall never kill him now."

"Do you mean that you abandon your revenge?" She spoke contemptuously.

"With death staring me, staring you and the others in the face—you who have wrecked yourselves in a vain attempt to save me—my private griefs sink to nothingness."

"You must be revenged." She spoke as if it were she and not I who was to be the avenger.

"I remember. You were to help me."

"I will help you."

"There is no need. We are doomed."

"We shall live, and you will meet him."

"And then?"

"You will kill him."

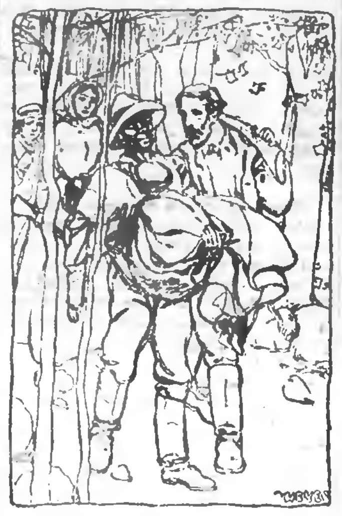
"My poor girl, think no more of that. Let us fix our minds on gentler things; let us hope for some escape from this dreadful fate."

She sat down on the bare rock, I beside her. We both looked out upon the setting sun, tinting the mountains with ominous blood stains, like those I had seen on the evening I reached the guerrilla band. Jack was sitting holding her knees, rocking back and forth; Buck was lying on his back with his eyes shut; Ginger had finished a prayer and was rising from his knees. Suddenly the whole command started up as if touched by a current of vitality. There rang out on the still mountain air the clear tones of a bugle.

There was no hallucination about this sound. Each note cut the air with scimiterlike sharpness. To our ears, whetted as they were for some tidings of relief, it was like trumpet tones from heaven. It echoed and re-echoed through the mountains, each echo fainter than the last, dying softly in the far distance.

Shading my eyes with my hand, peering down toward the road, I saw through a small opening in the trees files of cavalry passing by fours. They were too far for me to distinguish whether they wore the blue or the gray, but it made no difference, either side would be welcome. Seizing a carbine, I pointed it at the sky and fired.

The bugle and my shot produced a magical effect on the guerrillas. Without waiting to gather anything but their arms, every man of them darted away into the woods. They knew well what would be their fate could we open communication with the cavalry.



Ginger gathered her limp body in his arms and carried her on.

"Not a moment is to be lost," I cried to my command. "That bugle call was an order to halt. We must catch the soldiers before they start again."

Gathering the guns and putting half a dozen cartridges that remained in my pocket, we all left the fort that had served us so well and started down the declivity. Without the inspiration of those bugle notes we could scarcely have crawled away. Now we not only walked, but walked rapidly. Once past the flanking rocks we turned to the left, skirted the base of the hill and made straight for the road. I led, and so great was my anxiety to get the others forward that I was constantly getting ahead of them. I saw that Buck was lagging, and I started back to help him when Helen stooped, took him up in her arms and threw him over her shoulder. He kicked so vigorously at this indignity that Helen put him down, and, his fury lending him strength, he at once took the lead beside me. We hurried on, now and again looking back to make sure that we were not followed, climbing over rocks, through ravines, around projecting points, I directing the course toward the spot where I had seen the passing troopers. We had traversed half the distance when there came another bugle call. It was the order "Forward!"

I could not repress an exclamation of chagrin. I knew the guerrillas heard all we heard, and this last bugle order would probably arrest their flight and bring them back after us.

"Come!" I cried. "We are still in peril."

I dashed on for a short distance, then turned and cast a glance behind me. Helen was marching firmly. Jack was staggering. As I looked she pitched forward and fell. Before I could reach her Ginger had picked her up and, gathering her limp body in his arms, her head resting on his shoulder, carried her on. The burden, so precious to the faithful old slave, seemed to give him fresh courage, and he pushed on, though with tottering steps.

"I'll relieve you presently, Ginger," I said. "Hold out as long as you can."

We came to a depression, in the center of which ran a mountain stream. The descent and the ascent on the opposite side were both rocky and covered with a thick growth of low timber and difficult to pass. I glanced hastily to the right and to the left, but, seeing no better passage, plunged down the declivity. Buck was now sticking to me like a leech, Helen was just behind, while a hundred yards back Ginger staggered along with Jack. I waited a moment for him to come up and then led the way into the ravine, intending to take his burden from him when we had passed the stream. Once at the creek, we waded across. In the middle Ginger stumbled and dumped his burden into the water.

The effect on Jack was marvelous. The cold water brought a reaction which, if not pleasing, was at least beneficial. She flew into a towering passion at Ginger for dropping her and when I attempted to take her up, gave me a box on the ear that made it tingle. Dripping, she dashed up the rise in the ground, storming as she went, and gained the summit before the rest.

Pushing through a level wooded space, we soon came to the road. A bugle ahead sounded the order to trot. Scarcely had its echoes died away when from the direction of the outlaws' deserted camp came a shrill whistle.

"The guerrillas!" I cried. "It is now a race between life and death."

CHAPTER XVII.

FLIGHT.

I WAS at a loss to know what had brought a body of cavalry up into the Cumberland mountains. I learned afterward that they had come from Shelbyville and were on their way to attack Bridgeport, where the Memphis and Charleston railroad crosses the Tennessee, with a view to burning the bridge. At Tracy City they had heard of a Confederate force moving on their flank to cut them off and retraced their steps. Buck and Jaqueline had really heard them going southward early in the afternoon. The bugle calls we all heard so distinctly were sounded on their way back.

"Where did you leave your horses?" I asked quickly of Helen as we hurried on.

"In a clump of trees near the road. There it is now." She pointed to a thicket.

Great was my anxiety as I ran to the place designated to know if the horses were still there. I was doomed to disappointment; they were gone. There was no time for repining over the loss. I must think out the problem of our immediate action, and that instantly. Two courses were open to us—we might follow the cavalry northward, or we could strike out toward the south. Each plan had its advantages. If we followed the cavalry, we might succeed in coming up with them, in which event we should be safe, but as they were mounted and we were not there was little hope of our overtaking them. Besides, the guerrillas would expect us to follow that course. If we pushed south, we must abandon all hope of falling in with the troopers, but would doubtless mislead the guerrillas and gain considerable time. We would also be moving toward the homes of the others of the party. I struck out southward.

"What are yo' going that way fo'?" cried Jack.

"Well, go ahead; I'm going after the soldiers."

She turned and started northward. I seized her and, taking her in my arms, carried her along with the rest, she raining a shower of blows from her little fist upon my head. We pressed on without a word, till Jack, either tired of the situation or becoming sensible of the absurdity of her action, promised that if I would put her down she would go with us peaceably. I set her on the ground in a very disgruntled condition.

"I wish Captain Ringold were here," she muttered angrily. "He'd make you pay fo' that."

The road was so winding that I did not fear any one behind could see us from a distance, while, should we leave it, our progress would be very slow. I chose to take the risk of being seen and put as great a distance as possible between us and the outlaws while they supposed they were on our track in the direction of the cavalry, for I felt sure they would expect us to take that course. We had not gone far before we met a lean countryman on horseback. In a few words I told him of our situation and begged him if he met the guerrillas to mislead them. When he learned of our starving condition, he pulled a small black bottle containing whisky out of his saddlebag. I forced every member of the party to drink and, tossing the empty bottle to the countryman, hurried on. I knew that the stimulant would avail us but a little while, then would only make matters worse. Helen walked on, showing no effect whatever from the potation. Jack danced along as if she were at a picnic party, while Buck suddenly became brave as a lion.

"Don't yo' think, Mr. Brandystone," he said, with difficulty getting breath enough to articulate while walking so fast, "we'd better stop an fight 'em?"

"I think you'd better stop talking and save your breath for walking."

"Reckon we better stop," said Ginger, "an thank de Lawd fo' lettin us ont o' dat trap an pray fo' dem g'rillas t' git los' in de wilderness."

"We can do that while we're walking," said Helen, "and not lose any time."

"'Spec' de pra'rs on de knees is mo' efficacerous," replied Ginger, "but mebbe we don't need 'em like we did a spell ago."

Still there was no sound in our rear. Helen asked if I did not think that keeping the road was pretty risky. I told her that I would soon give the word to take to the woods. Coming to a point where there was a turn, leaving a straight piece of road back of us, I told the rest to go on while I waited and watched. I stood casting glances back till my army reached another turn in advance, then, pressing forward, caught up with them. In this way I kept them in the road and maintained a rear watch at the same time for nearly half an hour. Then the strength of the party, which had thus far been supplied by excitement, suddenly began to droop, and I, feeling that I had used all the energy there was in them, led the way off the road into the heart of the forest. We had scarcely got into the woods when we heard a clattering of hoofs on the road. Whether they were made by the guerrillas' horses or not I did not know, but I felt sure they were. We waited till they were out of hearing, then every one sank down on the ground.

"Now, Ginger," I said, "it is a good time to give thanks."

Getting on his knees, Ginger poured out the thanks of the party in words that came as smoothly and plentifully as the waters of a running stream. I, being of that persuasion which has for its motto, "Trust in God, but keep your powder dry," and, seeing that Ginger was disposed to prolong his thanksgiving indefinitely, got up and started to find a convenient place to hide. I soon struck a little pocket formed by the coming together of several declivities and surrounded by thickets. A little runnel passed through it, and, stooping down, I quenched a thirst that was burning me. Returning to the party, I led them to the retreat I had found for them, then left them to go in search of provisions.

It was now quite dark. I walked half a mile, when I saw the lights of Tracy City. Going to the town and selecting a house standing apart from the rest, I marched boldly up to it and knocked at the door. It was opened by a girl, the only occupant of the place, a wild eyed creature in dingy calico, unshod, her square cut locks tucked behind her ears. She appeared to be in a chronic state of fright and evidently thought me one of those men who were going about taking advantage of the absence of restraint induced by war to help themselves to whatever they wanted. I asked her for some food and a few cooking utensils, and when I paid her for them she was struck dumb with amazement. I returned to camp with provisions, matches, a skillet and a coffeepot.

Ginger and Buck had gathered a little wood for the fire. At the inner extremity of the pocket we occupied was a low ledge of overhanging rock. It projected but a few feet and was about the height of little Buck from the ground. I hesitated for some time whether it would not be dangerous to light a fire and thus guide our enemies to where we were, but at last concluded to place the wood under the ledge and cover the front with boughs. Driving three stakes into the ground, I placed the wood under them and lighted it. Then, filling my coffeepot with water from the stream and putting in my coffee, a very pleasant odor soon greeted our nostrils.

But all were too famished to wait for a cooked supper. Seizing upon some corn pone I had brought, the others devoured it eagerly, I restraining my appetite long enough to put some bacon into the skillet. One article of food after another was devoured as it was got ready, and our coffee without milk came in at the end like the last course at a dinner.

SPRING SUITINGS

With almost every day come new arrivals of Spring Dress Fabrics and Suitings—new thoughts from the leading fashion centres, European and American.

Small invincible checks are in evidence in some very stylish and pleasing effects in shades of Tan and Brown combined. Anything that's new is here—if it isn't here it isn't new. We buy direct from the best authorities in the trade. Our range of suit lengths is most comprehensive and not two alike, nor will they be duplicated by us, or in the city, as we control the goods we carry for Peterborough and vicinity.

Aroused From Sleep, Young Man Was Arrested for Theft

Jesse Airess, Wanted in Cobourg on Charge of Theft—Came Home to Visit Parents From Arizona—Will be Taken to Cobourg.

Awakened from his peaceful slumbers early Sunday morning, Jesse Airess was arrested at his home, River road, Auburn, by P. C.'s Newhall and Mebarry, and placed in the lockup. Airess is wanted in Cobourg on a charge of theft, a warrant having been issued for his arrest, some months ago. The offence is said to have been committed last summer and soon after Airess left the place. He informed a reporter this morning that he went from Cobourg to Chicago, and from there to Arizona where he was engaged as a rancher. He came home on the receipt of several letters from his parents, informing him that his father was seriously ill. He only arrived in the city on Saturday, and was at a loss to know what he had been arrested for.

The local police received a telegram some time ago from Chief J. C. Ruse of Cobourg, asking them to arrest Airess on sight, and just as soon as he landed in Peterborough he was taken into custody.

Airess has appeared in court on previous occasions. An officer will arrive from Cobourg this evening and will take the prisoner back to Cobourg on the nine o'clock train.

Autobiography of a Penny That Looks Like Fifty Cents

Has Been Circulating in the City and Causing Some Misunderstandings—People Should Look out for it.

Keep your eye peeled for an English penny that is being circulated in the city as a fifty cent piece, and is causing considerable trouble. There may be more than one of the pennies going around but the Review has only heard of one so far. A little bit of the autobiography of the aforesaid penny may prove interesting. About two weeks ago a lady residing on George St., had a blind man sawing some wood. Fifty cents was the price of his half day's work and in order to pay him the lady had to send out to a neighboring grocer to get a two dollar bill changed. She got a dollar bill and what she thought was two fifty cent pieces for change. She gave the blind man one of the latter and next day he returned and told the lady that the piece of money she had given him was only an English penny. The lady felt rather bad over it, and hustled off to the grocer from whom she had received the penny. He took it back and gave her a genuine fifty cent coin. The lady thought that she had heard the last of the incident but on going into her next door neighbor next day to inform the lady of the house to beware of the penny the neighbor informed her that she had had the penny a few days before and had passed it on, going on the motto that others should be done as we are done by them.

But that was not all. A day or so ago the blind man called at the house again to saw some wood, and informed the lady that a strange thing had happened. He had got the penny back again, his sister having recognized it, she had scratched a cross on it the first time her brother had received it.

The penny is about the size of a Canadian fifty cent piece and is glossed over with some substance that makes it look like silver. People should keep their eyes open for it and escape being "stung."

ITS MERIT IS PROVED

RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

A Prominent Montreal Woman Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Completely Cured Her.

The great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing among the women of America is attracting the attention of many leading scientists, and thinking people generally.

Mrs. M. A. C. Letellier.

The following letter is only one of many thousands which are on file in the Pinkham office, and go to prove beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound must be a remedy of great merit, otherwise it could not produce such marvelous results among sick and ailing women:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Soon after my marriage my health began to decline. My appetite failed me: I was unable to sleep, and I became very nervous and had shooting pains through the abdomen and pelvic organs, with bearing-down pains and constant headaches, causing me much misery. The monthly periods became more and more painful, and I became a burden and expense to my family instead of a help and pleasure. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me within three months. Soon after I began using it I felt a change for the better, and at the time of my next period I noticed a great difference, and the pain gradually diminished until I was well. I am stronger and look better than I did before I was married, and there is great rejoicing in the house over the wonders your medicine worked." Mrs. M. A. C. Letellier, 732 Cadieux St., Montreal, Quebec.

If you have suppressed or painful periods, weakness of the stomach, indigestion, bloating, pelvic catarrh, nervous prostration, dizziness, faintness, "don't-care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, backache or the blues, these are sure indications of female weakness, or some derangement of the organs. In such cases there is one tried and true remedy—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Was This Man Doped?

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—James Callahan, aged about 30, was arrested on Saturday afternoon while under the influence of liquor.

After being at the jail a while, the attendants were alarmed as the man seemed to be in pain. A doctor was called, but the man expired as he entered the buildings.

The deceased is unknown here, and the case will be investigated.

Jack London Safe.

San Francisco, Jan. 27.—Jack London was true to his character as a dramatic novelist when he appeared Saturday among the passengers of the steamship Mariposa the day after the Oakland bank had filed a deed trust on his home in that city having given him up as lost.

For four months London's whereabouts has been unknown. He left Honolulu Oct. 7 to go to Tahiti. Now he returns with his wife on a flying visit and declares he will soon go back and resume his voyage on his ketch, The Snark, which is at Papeite having her gas engines overhauled.

All the time London says he has been busy with writing. He has nearly finished a 140,000 word story called "Success," which will deal with a young Californian who fails in other things but proves a success as a writer. London has also written a number of short stories as well as sketches of his cruise.

Two Mangled Bodies Found.

Middlemiss, Ont., Jan. 27.—Two bodies, so badly mangled that identification seems hopeless, were found last night three miles west of here on the G. T. R. and Wabash tracks. The faces are missing and the pieces of the bodies are scattered along the tracks.

A sweater, overhalls and overcoat of dark goods are among the articles picked up; also a cap, pined in the fold with a safety pin.

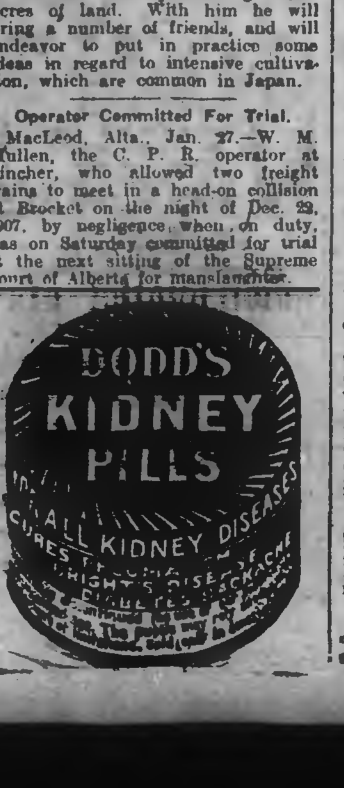
It is rumored that the remains are those of two idiots who lived in this vicinity. One body is large; the other small.

May Buy Land In West.

Winnipeg, Man. Jan. 27.—A letter has been received by the Immigration Department from S. Koryyuma, a Japanese gentleman from the town of Ishtyuka, in the Province of Imi. He writes to find out particulars about the various parts of Western Canada, and announces his intention of coming to Canada and purchasing 10,000 acres of land. With him he will bring a number of friends, and will endeavor to put in practice some ideas in regard to intensive cultivation, which are common in Japan.

Operator Committed For Trial.

MacLeod, Alta., Jan. 27.—W. M. Mullen, the C. P. R. operator at Pincher, who allowed two freight trains to meet in a head-on collision at Brocket on the night of Dec. 22, 1907, by negligence when on duty, was on Saturday committed for trial at the next sitting of the Supreme Court of Alberta for manslaughter.



At Last They Reach Their Destination Safe and Sound

Mount Royal's Passengers Finish Their Voyage at Last.

Fifty Days at Sea—Last Trip Almost as Rough as First—People in the Steerage Make Many Complaints—Were All Greatly Terrified — Say the Supply of Eatables Were Getting Scarce.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 27.—The C.P.R. steamer Montrose, carrying the passengers of the Mount Royal, arrived at Partridge Island with all well at 8 p.m. Saturday, from Antwerp, via Queenstown and docked at St. John at 9.40 o'clock Sunday morning.

The belated passengers, all foreigners, were a sorry looking lot, and thankful to land safely on Canadian soil. Asked about their experience on the Mount Royal, a large group of the newcomers crowded forward, eager to tell about it and air their complaints regarding the treatment received at the hands of some of the ship's officers. After describing "huge walls of water, which for days threatened to engulf the ship," one of the more intelligent said that the meat served to them was rotten and smelt so bad it made them sick.

Some of the stewards made them pay extortionate prices for food, beer and cigarettes, and when a delegation was sent to the captain on the bridge he told them he could do nothing. He warned them not to pay extra, as signs were posted about the ship to that effect. Notwithstanding these signs, the passengers claim they would have got nothing if they hadn't paid. An extortionate rate of discount was charged also, they claim, for changing money.

"For instance," said one man, "it cost me 22c. to get a 5 franc ($1) changed into Canadian money." The Jews particularly complained.

A few of the passengers say the ship's officers should not be blamed too much, for they did their best. The newcomers are mostly for Winnipeg and Chicago.

The Unrest in India Causes Government Good Deal Alarm

War Office Planning to Send Whole Army to Hindostan?

Serious Trouble Is Feared—Auxiliary Forces to Be Ready For Mobilization—Action of Transvaal Government in Deporting Orientals Cause of Much Ill-Feeling—May Embroil Home Authorities.

London, Jan. 27.—(New York Sun Cable.)—It is by roundabout means that Englishmen usually learn of grave crisis within the Empire.

Such a warning comes now in the shape of orders from the War Office to the officers of the auxiliary forces throughout Great Britain asking that they state whether mobilization is immediately possible.

The recipients are instructed to be prepared to join the forces on receipt of telegraphic orders. They must keep their adjutants informed of their movements and must not go beyond the reach of telegrams.

The ground for this extraordinary action is the fact that the Government is seriously alarmed by the growing unrest in India. The War Office has completed a scheme for throwing a large force into Hindostan amounting, if necessary, to the entire regular army. The auxiliary forces will then be used for garrison duty in all parts of the Empire from which regulars may be withdrawn.

The danger of an uprising in India, which has been promoted by the Transvaal's treatment of its Indian residents, has been fully described in these despatches. It has been growing with alarming rapidity, as was inevitable, and the Government is now compelled to prepare for any eventuality.

A sinister turn has been given to the situation by certain home comments. It has been hinted during the past few days that the action of the Boer majority in the Transvaal has been actuated by a desire to embroil the Home Government in India, with what ultimate object is not suggested. This interpretation of the Boer motives in return for British magnanimity in giving home government to the Transvaal is not widely accepted even by the Government's critics.

Many Happy Returns.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—The German Emperor was born Jan. 27, 1859.

EMPEROR WILLIAM.

Half a hundred representatives of Germany's highest nobility are here to take part in the celebration of the Emperor's birthday, among them the sovereigns of Baden Hesse, Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Oldenburg and Schaum-Schwerin, Oldenburg and Schaumburg-Lippe, and the regent of Brunswick, who are among those who have come to congratulate the Emperor.

Bank In Difficulty.

New York, Jan. 27.—President W. F. Havemyer of the National Bank of North America announced in a statement issued last night that the directors of the bank have decided to request the comptroller of the currency to assume charge of the affairs of the institution.

President Havemyer said Saturday night that he believed the bank is entirely solvent, and that with a careful liquidation the stockholders will receive par for their stock.

The National Bank of North America has a capital of $2,000,000, and on Aug. 22 last, at which time a report was made to the comptroller of the currency, showed deposits of $19,787,400. This sum has been largely and gradually decreased by withdrawals.

Germany's Naval Plans.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—German advocates of a powerful navy do not conceal the pleasure they feel in the confident expectation that Germany will rank before long second only to Great Britain as a naval power. They point out that the estimates for 1908 provide for nine new battleships, of which two are of 13,000 tons each, and are practically ready now; four armed cruisers, two of which are practically complete; six small cruisers, twenty-four destroyers, and seven submarine boats.

The remaining seven battleships are now under construction or are to be laid down in 1908. They belong to the Dreadnought type, with a displacement of at least 18,500 tons.

Carl Roy is under arrest in London for attempting to commit suicide. [illegible]

FAMOUS NOVELIST DEAD

Ouida Dies in Dire Poverty at Florence.

Well-Known Authoress Spends Her Last Year Under Most Distressing Privations — Often Compelled to Sleep Out of Doors—Starved Herself to Feed Her Dogs—Was Nearly Blind.

Florence, Italy, Jan. 27.—Ouida (Louise de la Ramee), the novelist, died Saturday at Viareggio, after an illness extending over a long period.

She died in most distressing poverty, her only attendant being an old servant woman, in whose arms she expired. She was completely blind in one eye, and the other eye was badly affected through her having suffered so much from exposure and privation.

During the last few months of her life she was compelled at times to sleep in the open air when unable to pay for a night's lodging.

The immediate cause of death is set down as asthma, complicated by heart disease.

Ouida had a passionate fondness for dogs, and up to the very last was surrounded by many of them, depriving herself of even the necessaries of life in order to feed them.

The Minister of Instruction had sent her on several occasions recently considerable contributions which had been subscribed for her aid.

NATURAL GAS EXPLODES.

Three Persons Seriously Injured and House Wrecked at Blenheim.

Blenheim, Jan. 27.—Three persons were injured and the house badly wrecked by an explosion of natural gas at the home of Mrs. Thos. Coatsworth, two miles east of here at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The injured were: Mrs. Coatsworth, her son, Herb Lott, and a young man named David Hamilton, all of whom were badly burned.

Mr. Lott some time previous to the explosion had disconnected the pipes in order to remove water from them, and in doing so quite a quantity of gas was allowed to escape. When the fire was lighted in the kitchen range it was followed by a terrific explosion, which blew out two of the outside walls of the kitchen and caved in the roof. All three of the injured persons were in the kitchen at the time of the explosion.

REBEL LEADER SHOT.

And Hayti's Government Is Once More Unopposed.

Port au Prince, Jan. 27.—The revolution has been suppressed, Jean Jumeau, the leader of the movement, has been captured at Dessalines, a little hamlet close to Gonaives, and was at once shot to death by the Government troops that made him prisoner.

Gonaives has been occupied by a Government force. The revolutionary movement in Hayti, which has come to an end with the execution of its leading spirit, Jean Jumeau, was of very short duration. It began with the landing on Jan. 15 of an expedition of adventurers on the Haitien coast not far from Gonaives, which was speedily occupied. The Haitien Government at once undertook measures to suppress the movement, and troops were despatched against the invaders.

SWEET REVENGE

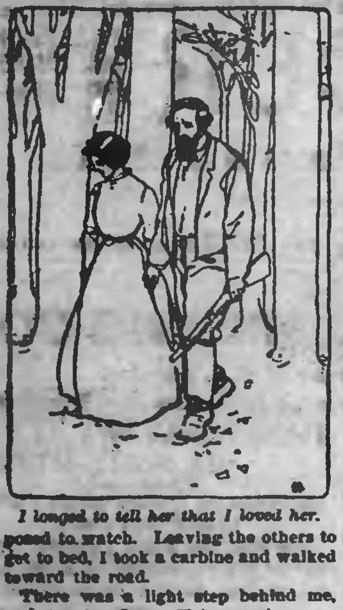
By

Captain F. A. MITCHEL,

Author of "Chattanooga," "Chickamauga," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Harper & Brothers.

As soon as we had finished our supper we put out the fire, laid boughs where it had been and covered them with dry leaves, making a bed for the two girls and Buck. Ginger was to bivouac wherever he liked, while I proposed to watch. Leaving the others to get to bed, I took a carbine and walked toward the road.



I longed to tell her that I loved her.

There was a light step behind me, and, turning, I saw Helen coming.

"Go back," I said, "and take your rest. You need all you can get."

"I wish to take half your watch."

"You shall do no such thing."

"I am strong. The supper has revived me."

"Helen," I said quietly, at the same time taking her hand, "I am in command. As a good soldier it is your duty to obey."

I led her back to the camp. As we passed hand in hand over the dead leaves and crackling twigs my heart was filled even in our peril with a supreme happiness, yet a happiness marred by the gulf between us. I longed to tell her that I loved her—for her bravery, her strength of character, her devotion, for herself—but I could not without confessing myself an enemy to all she held dear.

When we reached the camp, we stood face to face in the moonlight. It seemed as impossible to restrain the words I would utter as it was impossible to utter them. I dropped her hand and walked away to resume my watch.

From an eminence I turned and looked back. She was still standing in the moonlight. I knew that she was disappointed that I had withheld an expression of my love. What could I do? Turning again, I passed in among the trees.

All through that long night I walked with a soft tread, hearkening to the slightest sound, straining my ears whenever a breeze rustled the branches of the trees or starting when I heard some fur coated creature prowling in search of food. Yet during my watch one picture was ever present before me. All night I saw Helen standing in the moonlight, all night I brooded over the barrier that separated us. At dawn I felt that I must get some rest or I would not be able to lead the party farther. Going to the little camp and awakening Ginger, I led him out to where I had been watching and told him to keep moving back and forth a short distance from the road and, in case of danger raise the alarm. Then, returning to camp, I threw myself on the ground and fell asleep.

CHAPTER XVIII.

RETAKEN.

I WAS awakened by the kick of a heavy boot and, opening my eyes, looked into the face of Tom Jaycox. The expression of fiendish joy that shone through anxious caution froze the very marrow of my bones. The muzzle of his revolver was within a few inches of my forehead, and his look told me that a word of alarm or a motion for self defense would be a signal for a bullet to go crashing through my brain.

"Git up," he whispered.

I stood on my feet.

"Move on."

It was the dawn of a beautiful spring morning. The perfume of young verdure, the twitter of birds, an occasional cock crow in the distance, gave me the thought that it is delightful to live. But they threw over me as well a contrasting gloom, for it seemed certain that this fair scene was the last of those pictures drawn by the divinely artistic hand of the Creator that I should ever look upon. My companions were all wrapt in a heavy slumber, induced by a long period of unrest. I bade a mute farewell to each as I passed, breathing a blessing on little Buck, whose arms were clasped about his sister, his young face and figure relaxed; on Jaqueline, her white face resting in a profusion of tumbled black hair; on Helen, her features strong even in sleep. There was a line between the lids of Helen's eyes, but I thought little of that, for it is not unusual for people to show this line when sleeping. I thanked God that my presence would no longer be a menace to these dear ones who had suffered so much for me.

Jaycox marched me out of the camp toward the road, across it and into a wood on the other side, where his horse was picketed to a tree. He was constantly looking about and listening, and I inferred this was for others of the gang, who had doubtless separated in order to cover more ground in their search for us. Finally the brute stood still and, pointing his revolver straight at me, fired two shots in rapid succession, the bullets singing close to my ears. He did not intend to kill me, though he was indifferent whether he did or not. He wished to serve a double purpose of signaling the band and intimidating me. Two similar shots were fired far to the north, and then my captor started off with me in that direction.

Entering the road, we proceeded, Jaycox, some ten yards behind me, amusing himself by firing occasional shots at me, evidently trying to see how near he could come to me without hitting me. One of his bullets grazed my ear, and I felt blood trickling on my collar, good evidence that he had missed his imaginary mark on the wrong side. He was doubtless firing for his double purpose of letting his companions know of his whereabouts and of torturing me. His signals and those of my other enemies were drawing nearer and nearer together. I did not doubt that the guerrillas would prevent any further opportunity for escape by murdering me at once, though they might delay long enough to force me to sign for a ransom which would have no effect in saving me. I lost all care whether Jaycox hit me or whether I was spared for a more horrible death by the gang. At last I was face to face with the inevitable.

I was trudging on mechanically, my eyes bent on the ground, Jaycox close behind swearing and shooting at me, when suddenly a shot rang out from behind us both. I turned and saw Jaycox tumble from the saddle. Running to where he lay, I bent over him and knew at once that I looked into the face of a dying man. He gave me one malignant look, a shiver passed over him, and his eyes were set in death.

I looked up and saw Helen standing in the road a short distance back with a carbine in her hands. There was something in the expression of her face, holding as she did the weapon, a light smoke curling from its muzzle, that brought vividly before me my enemy with his smoking pistol on the night of the massacre. A signal shot came from around the trees so near that we knew the rest of the band would soon be upon us. Quick as thought I sprang into the saddle left vacant by Jaycox and spurred toward Helen, she darting into the wood, I following and, after penetrating far enough, both hiding behind a rock covered with brush.

A horseman came dashing down the road, pulled up beside Jaycox's body, looked around anxiously as though fearing an ambush, then hurried back whence he came.

With one impulse Helen and I sprang into each other's arms. Oh, the rapture of that embrace! I essayed to speak to her, to utter even a word, an exclamation expressive of what I felt. I could only draw her cheek down against mine and mutely hold it there. Then I showered kisses on her lips, her cheeks, her forehead, her eyes. For the moment I forgot all but the reverence, the gratitude, the burning passion, that thrilled me—a passion such as comes but once, if ever, in a lifetime.

Suddenly there came to Helen a remembrance of our danger.

"Mount! Quick! All depends on putting space between you and those who will kill you the moment they get their hands on you again!"

"And leave you? Not I!"

"Oh, my God! Are you going to act that way again?"

"You have killed Jaycox and released me a second time. Do you suppose they will overlook that?"

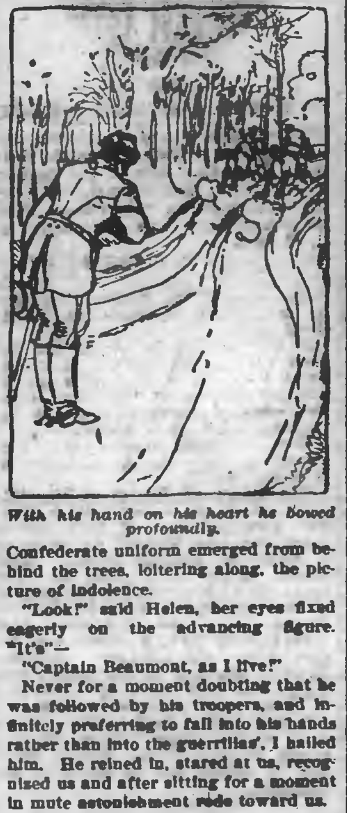
She became frantic at my opposition.

"You fool! You ingrate! To throw away your life when I have twice saved it."

"We will go together. Here, put your foot in my hand. Once in the saddle, you can ride away, while I can go as fast on foot as you."

"Hark!"

There were sounds of horses' hoofs coming leisurely from the south, and in another moment a mounted man in Confederate uniform emerged from behind the trees, loitering along, the picture of indolence.



With his hand on his heart he bowed profoundly.

"Look!" said Helen, her eyes fixed eagerly on the advancing figure. "It's"—

"Captain Beaumont, as I live!"

Never for a moment doubting that he was followed by his troopers, and infinitely preferring to fall into his hands rather than into the guerrillas', I hailed him. He reined in, stared at us, recognized us and after sitting for a moment in mute astonishment rode toward us.

"What in the name of"—

"Your men—where are they?" gasped Helen.

"I have no men. I sent them back yesterday. We have hunted you fo' "—

"Then dismount, captain," I said, "and be quick. There are guerrillas up there. They may murder you as well as us."

"My dear man," he said, dismounting leisurely, "yo' are always in a hurry. By the bye, where is that fascinating little creature"—

"Oh, captain," cried Helen, "a life—both our lives—are at stake!"

"What can I do fo' yo'?" asked the captain, at last impressed with our excited appearance.

By this time the guerrillas had come up to Jaycox's body and stood alternately looking at it and casting glances into the wood on either side of the road. They raised him, felt of his heart, knew that he was dead and dropped him.

"It's Jaycox," I whispered to the captain. "He kidnaped me today a second time. This brave girl followed and shot him. In a few minutes they will scour the wood. We have but one horse. It will never carry us both swiftly enough for escape."

"I relinquish my horse with pleasure, of co'se. May I assist"—

Helen's foot was in my hand and she in the saddle before he could finish. Then I sprang upon the other horse.

"Would you oblige me," the captain called after us as we hurried away, "by informing me where I can find that little beauty"—

"Over there, in a pocket between knolls—half a mile. Tell them we'll join them later."

I can see him now, with his hand on his heart, bowing profoundly, and, notwithstanding a shudder at remembering the danger we were in, cannot repress a smile at the comical situation of this man who a few days before had ordered me out to be shot, then had offered to lend me money and now, giving me his horse to save my life, was about to start off hunting for Jaqueline in the Cumberland mountains.

TO KNOCK GRAIN EXCHANGE.

Virtual Emasculation is Probable Effect of Bill in Legislature.

Winnipeg, Jan. 27.—Virtual emasculation of the functions of the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange is the intent of a bill which has been introduced in the Manitoba Legislature as a Government measure by the Hon. R. P. Roblin, the first minister.

It is stated that the bill has been drafted to suit the members of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, who last year made an abortive attempt to prove the grain men guilty of an illegal combination in restraint of trade. Last spring a conference of grain men and farmers was held under Government auspices to see if some agreement could not be arrived at regarding amendments to the charter of the exchange asked for by the grain growers. The Government gave its pledge to carry out the recommendations of this conference, and farmers being in the great majority, the recommendations of the conference did not meet with the approval of the grain men. These recommendations are now embodied in the bill which Mr. Roblin is introducing.

The salient features of the bill are the abolition of the one-cent commission rule between members; amendment of the expulsion rule giving any expelled member the right to appeal to a King's Bench judge within twenty days of such expulsion, and to retain his seat and make trades till the judge hands down his decision; any person or firm or corporation which is refused membership on the ground of not being reputable has the right of appeal to a judge.

In addition to the above the amendment contains several other objectionable clauses, including one to the effect that the public may overlook the trading-room and see the price of wheat at any time. The exchange regards this as principle, that it is the owner of its own quotations.

The exchange has protested to the agricultural committee of the Legislature, but there is little chance of the protest being entertained, as farmers constitute the majority of the house.

The members are threatening to close the wheat pit and go out of business temporarily if the bill goes through, for the purpose of proving to the farmers that they cannot realize the highest prices for their products without the aid of the grain exchange.

Despairs of Douma.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 27.—The Douma's slowness in discharging its duties as a Legislative body has created a bad impression throughout the country, particularly among the adherents of moderate constitutionalists. The feeling has taken shape in an unusual chastisement of his fellow-members of the Douma by M. Khomyakoff, its president, in an interview in The Vovoe Vremva, in which the president complains in almost despairing tones of his inability to whip the Douma into any semblance of parliamentary efficiency. He denounces the indifferences shown by a large number of the members, many of whom hardly ever cross the portals of Tauride Palace.

Although three months have elapsed since the opening session, he says, the Douma has scarcely begun the consideration of the budget, reform of local courts and land legislation, while eleven minor bills, which have passed, have been held up through the failure of the drafting committee to get together. He states that the disappointment is all the more poignant as he knows the people are viewing the third Douma with a critical eye. Instead of laboring to overcome skepticism, he charges, the Douma is falling into disrepute through mere sloth. In closing, he says: "I am thoroughly pessimistic with reference to the Douma."

Czar's Family Grip-Stricken.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 27.—An epidemic of influenza has attacked the Imperial family.

Grand Duke Alexis Nikolaievitch, the Emperor's only son, and his four sisters, all have been stricken. The condition of the heir apparent is complicated by an inflammation of the ear, and Prof. Simanovsky, a specialist in aural diseases, has been summoned to Tsarskoe-Selo to attend him.

The Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna, daughter of Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch, and fiancee of Prince Wilhelm of Sweden, also is down with the disease.

It is thought the infection was brought to the palace on the occasion of the recent Christmas tree celebration. At this time the children of the Emperor distributed Christmas gifts and mingled freely with the soldiers of the guard.

Had Bombs and Revolvers.

Lisbon, Jan. 27.—The Government issued a statement Saturday night that the conspirators in the recent plot to overthrow the state had procured revolvers, bombs and other weapons and had unsuccessfully tried to win over the officers and soldiers of the army, so that they might bring about a mutiny at the proper moment. Continuing, the statement says the Government has taken all the measures necessary to guarantee order and loyalty in the army.

Advices received here tend to show that all Portugal is calm at present. No further arrests have been made in Lisbon.

Russia Fears China.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 27.—The Minister of War has ordered four brigades of infantry, now stationed at Odessa, to proceed to Trans-Baikalia to strengthen the garrison in the neighborhood of the Russo-Chinese frontier. This constitutes the largest transfer of troops in Russia since the war with Japan, and is a plain intimation of the disquieting character of recent military activity on the part of China with reference to the Chino-Japanese relations.

Stray Horse Drowned.

Belleville, Jan. 27.—A young man skating on the bay here yesterday found a horse drowned in a break in the ice. The horse was still attached to a cutter, which was standing on firm ice.

The regular meeting of the Boys' Club of Knox church, was held last evening. A large number were present, and a pleasant time was spent.

Commissioner Coombs Greeted By Enthusiastic Gatherings

Head of Salvation Army in Canada Warmly Welcomed in Peterborough—A Magnificent Discourse on "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow of the Salvation Army"—Illustrations of Life of Christ at Night Service—Meetings of Unusual Interest.

So great was this demand for admission, that hundreds of people had to be turned away from the meetings held yesterday at the Grand Opera House, under the auspices of the Salvation Army corps.

A vividly interesting address was delivered in the afternoon by Commissioner Coombs on "The Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow of the Salvation Army." He told in a graphically interesting manner of the wonderful growth of the Army, and by giving a large portion of the accepted history of this noble organization, and relating his own personal experiences during his years of membership gave one of the most absorbing and interesting addresses ever listened to by a Peterborough audience. He has a voice of pleasing quality and of good carrying power, and undoubtedly feels every sentence he frames.

His remarks were anything but stereotyped, and commanded the undivided attention of the audience by reason of their freshness and excellence of delivery. The serious portions of them were interspersed with bright and witty anecdotes and sayings.

Prior to this address a hymn was sung with the band accompaniment, under the leadership of Bandmaster J. M. Cowie. Lt.-Col. Pugmire, Major Morris and Staff-Capt. Morris, sang a special hymn, their voices blending with charming harmony. The introductory services were conducted by Brigadier Hargrave. Commissioner Coombs was accompanied by following members of his staff: Lt.-Col. Pugmire, Brig. Hargarve, Major Morris, Staff-Capt. Morris and Adjt. Bloss.

The band, in full strength, occupied the rear of the stage, and with the Commissioner in the centre, were Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mayor Rush, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mr R. R. Hall, M.P., Mr. Joseph Batten, Mr. Roland F. McWilliams, Mr. A. G. Carruthers, and Mr. J. J. Turner, sr. Mr. Hall capably presided as chairman. He introduced Commissioner Coombs, after first expressing his appreciation of the honor which had been conferred upon him.

The Commissioner said that it was with a feeling of great pleasure that he had the opportunity of speaking to such a large assemblage regarding the organization to which he had the honor to belong. It had, he said, a very small beginning, in fact, General Booth had founded it. Its beginning was due to the conditions which the General found in the very poor quarters of London, where the people lived in filth and crime uneducated, and in ignorance of God and His Gospel. Against this flood of corruption and iniquity the General alone set his energies and amongst the very lowest class of people in the great metropolis he labored according to his own ideas, and today the Salvation Army is a grand memorial of the efforts of his early manhood.

His first meeting place, Commissioner Coombs continued, was a frail tent, which the gales blew down and finally destroyed. Afterwards his meetings were held in the smaller theatres on Sunday evenings, the General believing that he could get the people to assemble there after spending the other nights of the week witnessing the cheap shows. These early meetings, the first efforts of the General were remarkable in many respects. The personal magnetism which the General has always possessed, and which has been noticeable throughout his life, won many to his side. His imposing figure and long black hair, and the grand message which he had to convey to his people, the message of the Gospel, made the people understand that he meant them and that he was determined to save them. This, said the Commissioner, was the foundation of the Army, and a difficult and laborious task it was. However, the General and his small band were happy. They expected opposition, but they knew that it was good for their cause, as the people noticed them and were influenced to a certain extent.

The Commissioner said he remembered the persecutions they had to suffer. They were insulted, reviled and even stoned, but they persevered and success gradually crowned their efforts. Today there are eight thousand corps of the Army; forty years ago there was one lone man.

The Commissioner then spoke on the special stand which the Army took in regard to the temperance question, and said that every soldier must be a total abstainer. After vividly portraying the demoralizing effects of intemperance, the Commissioner referred to the sin of impurity and to its awful consequences. Hundreds of ruined women have told him of their shame, and to an Army officer the real conditions are vividly brought to light. He passed on to refer to the social work of the Army and also its efforts in immigration. In regard to the former, he said no man is turned away, but even to the most wretched of human wayfarers are taken and an effort made to give them a fresh start. They are placed at the foot of the ladder again, helped up a little, and then trusted to themselves to regain their standing with the rest of the world.

The Commissioner's reference to the immigration problem is worth a separate article. The Army, he said has brought out honest, Christian men and women with their fortunes in their moral characters and their muscles. They are the worthy poor of England, not the debased element that larger cities are burdened with,

Hereafter it will endeavor to bring only agriculturists, as it is they who are needed in the provinces and the great West. He stated that if all the immigrants had accepted and remained with work in the country there would not be one of them out of work this winter. The Army is now located in fifty-three different countries; the War Cry has one million copies issued each week, and in twenty-four different languages. The Gospel is preached by the Army in twenty-four different tongues.

It will always advance trusting in God, the Commissioner concluded. "It does not depend upon material methods, in its bands, officers, nor even the General, great as he is," the Commissioner said, and closed by wishing the city and its people every blessing.

In moving a vote of thanks to Commissioner Coombs, Mayor Rush spoke of the noble work the Salvation Army was doing for Christ. To-day men do not ask what church one belongs to, but "what are you doing for Christ!" He wished the Army every blessing in the work, and expressed his appreciation of the speaker's stirring lecture.

Hon. J. R. Stratton seconded the motion and stated that he had enjoyed Commissioner Coombs' address because of its interesting nature, and in the fact that he had learned more of the effects and the work of the Army. In Peterborough it had accomplished splendid results, and from Nova Scotia in the East, to the far Pacific coast, every city and town in Canada had its local corps helping the poor and accomplishing the good work, for which the Army as a organization has gained universal praise.

Mr. Hall conveyed the thanks of the audience to Commissioner Coombs, who replied in an appropriate manner, thanking them for the attention he had received, and for the offering which they would see fit to give.

In the evening a series of magnificent moving and instructive pictures of the life of Christ were given, the latter being reproductions of many of the most famous of the old masters. Commissioner Coombs made a fine interlocutor and comprehensively explained the history and significance of the pictures.

Previous to the presentation of the evening's programme the Salvation Army Band played a varied and high class programme in splendid style showing good instrumentation and fine balance of tone.

MANY PAID LAST TOKEN OF RESPECT

Funeral of Late W. H. Wrighton Was Largely Attended

The funeral of the late William Hall Wrighton, who passed away on Friday morning, took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, 45 McDonnel street to the Little Lake cemetery. Many prominent citizens turned out to pay their last token of respect to the memory of the deceased. The high esteem in which the deceased was held was evidenced by the large number of people, who despite the stormy element of the day, joined in the funeral cortege. The services at the grave and at the cemetery were conducted by Rev. E. A. [illegible], of George Street Methodist church, of which the deceased was a faithful member. The pall bearers were Messrs. W. H. Moore, K.C., Jas. [illegible], Robert Fair, Wm. Davidson and Richd. Hall. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, and were a fitting tribute to the worth and usefulness of one of Peterborough's most active citizens.

The bereaved wife and daughters have the sympathy of a host of friends in their sad loss.

THE CHILD WITH GLASSES
Is far more likely to be the adult without glasses, than is the weak eyed little fellow whose eyes are not given timely and proper attention. Protect the naturally defective eye of the youth, and you are repaid with the strong eye in after life. Abuse the immature eye and it will necessiate glasses, not for a few months, but for a life time. ALL OUR WORK IS GUARANTEED.

Peterborough's Isolation Hospital Becoming Famous

Ever hear about Peterborough's isolation hospital? Not many within the confines of the city are familiar with its location and the work it is doing. But isolation hospitals, like prophets, are apparently sometimes without honor in their own country. At any rate the fame of the local isolation hospital, whatever or wherever it is, is evidently spreading.

At today's meeting of the Board of Health, Dr. Bingham, M.H.O., read a letter that he had received from a recently elected town councillor at Owen Sound, asking for information as to the size, cost, number of patients that can be accommodated, and other information of this nature about the Peterborough isolation hospital.

The Board authorized Dr. Bingham to write the Owen Sound man and give him all particulars.

LAST OF THE SEASON

To-night's O.H.A. game between Cobourg and Peterborough will be the last of the season and should be the best on the local ice in years. Game called at Brock Street Rink at 8:15 o'clock sharp. The usual prices. See the Last O.H.A. contest of the year.

Board of Health Elects Dr. Burnham as Chairman

Inauguration Meeting Held This Morning and Considerable Business Transacted.

Dr. Bingham's Yearly Report

Gratifying State of City Regarding Infectious Diseases—Some Interesting Matters

Dr. Burnham was elected chairman for 1908, at the inaugural meeting of the Board of Health this morning. Several rather important matters were dealt with, and the report for 1907 of Dr. Bingham, medical health officer, was received. It contains considerable interesting and useful information. Dr. Burnham's election as chairman was unanimous.

The following were present: Mayor Rush, Dr. Burnham, Dr. McNulty, Jas Murty, James Edgar, Sanitary Inspector Ball and Dr. Bingham, M. H. O.

Dr. Young, one of the new members, was unable to be present, owing to illness.

Dr. Hodgetts, Provincial Health Officer, wrote, commending the action of the local board in the action taken to stamp out the outbreak of smallpox here.

A communication was received from the London Board of Health, asking the Peterborough Board to co-operate in applying for an amend to the Public Health Act, to make it possible to apply the tuberculin test to cows that are supplying milk for city trade. This matter was left over until the next meeting of the board, Dr. McNulty advising this action.

A number of accounts were received and dealt with.

DR. BINGHAM'S REPORT.

Dr. Bingham, Medical Health Officer, submitted the following report.

I have the honor of presenting a brief annual report of the sanitary condition of the city during the year 1907, and it must be highly gratifying to everyone to know that during the year this city had comparative immunity from infectious diseases, which are so much dreaded by the people. Only four cases of diphtheria and six cases of scarlet fever were reported during the year, and one case of smallpox, which was imported in the last week of the year. Six cases of typhoid fever can be traced to the city, which makes it less than one for every 2500 of the population. This immunity from infectious diseases may be accounted for in many ways. It is generally admitted that the house fly is a carrier of disease. With soft, velvety feet it darts over the bodies of delicate children and inoculates them with carrion poison. Now the weather last spring was unusually cold and the house fly was early annihilated, which in some measure would lessen the danger from that source.

Another contributory cause of the good health of the city was the constant and earnest vigilance of the Sanitary Inspector in the discharge of his duties, and in this connection it is gratifying to be able to say that the good people of Peterborough have generally assisted the health officers in the discharge of their important duties.

Citizens are well aware that plenty of sunshine and fresh air in the dwelling house with absolute cleanliness are the best safeguards against sickness. They know that rooms constantly darkened are full of disease germs, and they know that the effects of darkness and bad air is as disastrous upon people as upon plants. People cannot be at their best if they live in a gloomy house, foul with vitiated air. The number of deaths in the city during the past year was 200.

A list of the causes of the deaths was appended. Speaking of tuberculosis, the report describes it as the most widely spread and the most terrible scourge of the human race.

The most serious question among sanitariums today is how to eradicate consumption from the human race. The sanitarium is a feeble attempt in the right direction. The result, however, is limited and temporary. The philanthropist is working on the wrong end of the line. Some good might be done if the State had power to regulate marriages and to subject the contracting parties to a rigid examination similar to that of an applicant for a life insurance policy. But if such a spartan law were in force we can readily conceive that many a snappy old bachelor would be piled on the shelf for good.

It may also be noticed that consumption is brought into this country every year through immigration, and every year well meaning philanthropists import hundreds of unfortunate waifs from the slums of England, with the tainted blood of thieves and drunkards and consumptives coursing through their veins. From this view of the matter we are forced to the conclusion that the elimination of tuberculosis from the human race is yet far away in the future.

J. BINGHAM, M.D.,
M.H.O.

DR. BURNHAM

The New Chairman of the Board of Health

The report was received and will be forwarded to the Provincial Health Department.

It was decided to permit the Auburn Woollen Mills to put their sewerage in the river as they are not in position to connect with the sewer. The sanitary inspector reported in connection with this matter.

The following resolutions were passed in reference to matters before the Board;

The Board of Health of the City of Peterborough, under section 668 of the Municipal Act of 1903, recommend the City Council to construct a sewer on Rubidge street, from Brock street to a point 75 feet north of Kirk street, for the purpose of draining that locality for sanitary purposes as a local improvement.

That after having received a report from the sanitary inspector showing premises in satisfactory condition the city clerk be authorized to issue milk vendors' licenses.

It was decided to have the Board meet on the second Tuesday of each month at 9.30 o'clock. Special meetings of course, can be called by the chairman.

TOO MANY TITLES.

There is a legal gentleman in Toronto Mr. Millar by name who has twice declined the appointment of K. C. In these days of glitter and spangle it is a rarity to find a man averse to tinsel and feathers. CARNEGIE LIBRARY

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—Peterborough was given, by the will of the late Mrs. Nicholls, an endowment of $10,000 for library purposes, also a building valued at $30,000 to be used as a library. Now, some people want to ask Andrew Carnegie for $30,000 to build a library with. It takes all sorts of people to make up the population of Peterborough. No wonder the Review waxes sarcastic at the expense of the ungrateful ones who, belittling the gift of the revered lady who is dead, wants to go begging to the little Britain hater.

BIG FIRES AT CHICAGO, AND PORTLAND, Me.

Half a Million Dollars Damage at Former and $900,000 at Latter Place.

Special to The Review.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 27—More than a score of firemen were injured and one is missing, after thrilling experiences in a fire which destroyed the Mayor building, and the Hotel Florence, Adams street, early today. Losses total half a million dollars.

Portland, Me., Jan. 27—A fire which several times threatened seriously to wipe out the business district of this city, and which caused a damage estimated at over $900,000 before it was finally controlled, was kept confined to the block it started this morning, after almost 10 hours' fighting by firemen, aided by men and apparatus from several outside cities.

The fire burned the block occupied by Milliken, Cousens and Company and P. Fox & Co.

GENEROUS ACTION OF LOCAL MAN

Provided Big Quantity of Beef for Deserving Families in the City

That Peterborough has some citizens whose generosity and charity know no bounds, was brought out at St. John's church yesterday. The rector, in making an appeal for the charity fund of the church, cited the case of a local man who a short time ago had slaughtered five head of cattle which he owned, and distributed the beef among poor and deserving families in the city. The fact that there were persons in the city in needy circumstances was forcibly brought home to the gentleman by a little incident, and he had the cattle killed, and distributed the meat gratuitously without distinction as to denomination. Canon Davidson spoke very highly of the gentleman's action, and cited it as something for others to emulate.

HAVELOCK WANTS THE WARDENSHIP

Ratepayers Anxious That the Honor Should be Brought to That Village

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir.—I observe, according to several paragraphs that have been appearing in your paper there is a lively contest for the wardenship of the county. I am told that there are five or six reeves after the position. Now I would favor Mr. James Thompson, reeve of Havelock. He has had seven years municipal experience and this is his fourth term as reeve. Havelock has never had the honor of having the wardenship and I believe it is time this hustling village was accorded this honor. Mr. Thompson is a successful and enterprising business man, one who has had thorough municipal experience and would, if elected bring to bear upon the office splendid insight into county affairs and good sound common sense. I have no axe to grind in advocating his claims but I maintain that Havelock, which is probably the most progressive municipality in the county, should receive recognition. The village has been incorporated about fifteen years and had, as I have already said, never had the distinction of having the wardenship brought here. I think, sir, the present is the time and we have the man in the person of Mr. Thompson and the ratepayers are with him to a man.

Yours,
OLD HAVELOCK.

"Shaugraun" on March 17

"The Awakening of Mr. Pipp' Will be Given at an Earlier Date

In the announcement of the list of plays to appear at the Grand this year, it was stated that "The Awakening of Mr. Pipp" would hold the boards for March 17. It should have read March 12th, as the opera house is reserved for "Shaugraun" on March 17th, a captivating Irish play to be presented under the auspices of St. Peter's T.A.S. Fuller particulars concerning the play will be given at a later date. The piece is an excellent one, and, needless to remark, will be given a splendid interpretation by the capable actors of the T.A.S. dramatic section.

COMPARED SYSTEMS OF LIFE INSURANCE

French and British Marriage Ideas Contrasted—Statistical Comparisons.

A despatch from Paris says that R. Blanchard, a member of the American Chamber of Commerce, has prepared an interesting comparison of the life insurance systems of America, France and England, to show the national characteristics of of the three people in the matter of insurance. He points out from the figures from three American companies, eleven French and five British, that in America, the percentage (in amount) of "limited" or "life payment" to "endowment" insurance is about 11 to 5, in England 5 to 4, whereas in France the proportion of endowment insurance exceeds life payment by 3 to 2. This striking contrast he attributes to the difference which exists between the Anglo Saxon and French conception of the value of life insurance, a contrast which he says can be traced to the great differences which underlie the social life of the three countries. This difference, he thinks, can best be illustrated in the matter of marriage.

The French marriage is based upon the idea of founding a family for the enjoyment of the ease and culture resulting from the present state of civilization. The Anglo Saxon marriage, on the contrary, is based primarily on the love tie, regardless of material considerations, stimulates independence of action and readiness to embark upon any enterprise involving transfer to any clime that promises success.

The French family with the dowry of the wife, the financial prospects of of the wife, the financial prospects, both present and future of both husband and wife carefully calculated in advance is a domestic insurance society, while the Anglo Saxon especially the American family, is hardly secure without a provident policy in some insurance company. The lack of material provision for the maintenance of a family in the American marriage code therefore compels immediate insurance and as it is taken out as a matter of protection, the majority seek low premiums and a large amount of insurance, trusting in their own propitious star to protect their families during their lifetime. The French policyholder, on the contrary, looking forward to the enjoyment of the proceeds of a maturing policy during his own lifetime, takes out insurance primarily as an investment, considering a policy a good financial transaction if it amounts to a capitalization approximately equal to what the usual French "gilt-edged" security (usually three per cent.) would yield. Hence his preference for endowment policies. As his lift partner is provided for in the marriage settlement each the Frenchman is seldom deeply involved in financial or industrial risks, the American practice of taking out insurance to protect the wife or to provide resources to cover business ventures is seldom practised in France. That is why the law of 1905 compels all companies doing business in France to make the most detailed reports comparing the actual percentage yielded by their investments with the rate of interest assumed as a basis for calculated reserves and premiums and a comparison of the actual death rate of policyholders with the estimated death rate upon which reserves and premiums are calculated.

TO TALK ON "RAMBLE THROUGH LONDON"

Knox Church Young People's Meeting Will be Interesting.

The meeting of the Young People's Society at Knox Presbyterian church tonight promises to be especially interesting. Rev. Dr Langfeldt will give a talk on "A Ramble Through London," illustrated by a large number of stereopticon views, showing many of the leading buildings in the British capital. Several papers descriptive of some of the buildings will also be read.

Government elevators are recommended by the Boards of Trade of Southern Alberta.

Missionary Sermons in Local Methodist Churches

Three Toronto Clergymen Listened to by Large Congregations—The Importance of Missions Strikingly Emphasized.

At the city Methodist churches, yesterday, large congregations listened to forceful and earnest sermons. Three Toronto pastors, one of them a returned missionary from Japan, delivered the discourses which proved not only interesting but very instructive. The great need for workers in the missionary field was strikingly laid before the people. The offerings of the day were devoted to the missionary cause, and a substantial amount was raised.

At George Street Methodist church Rev. W. L. Armstrong, pastor of Avenue Road church, Toronto, preached in the morning, and Rev. Dr E N Baker, pastor of Euclid Avenue Methodist church, Toronto, in the evening.

At Charlotte street church Rev. R. Emberson, a returned missionary from Japan, spoke in the morning, and Rev. Mr. Armstrong of Toronto, at night.

At Mark street church Rev. Dr. Baker was the speaker in the morning, and Rev. R. Emberson, from Japan, in the evening.

GEORGE STREET.

Missionary work should be the first duty of the Christian church, said Rev. Dr. Baker at George Street church last night. All other branches were subsidiary to the great work of evangelizing the world which had been made premier duty of the church by the divine command, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel, and, lo, I am with you alway." The speaker believed that God created man that He might enter into fellowship and communion with him, and, when man fell God had made it his work to raise him again to his original status. It was for this reason that He had established His church upon the earth. God's message was to bring all the world into His Kingdom, and therefore missionary work was the Christian's first duty. Dr. Baker strongly condemned the action of some congregations in spending so much money on their church and their choir, and other matters in connection with church organization, that they had nothing left to give to missions. These congregations were getting away from the divine injunction and were lacking in the true success.

The reverend gentleman said the outlook in the missionary field at the present time was very encouraging. Pessimists pointed out that more persons were dying each year than were being evangelized, but they overlooked the fact that during the last century the Bible had been translated into more than twenty-five hundred different tongues, whereas previous to that time it had only been printed in a few of the principal languages. This was one of the many encouraging signs of the present time that made the outlook brighter than it had been for years. The speaker made an earnest appeal for more active interest in missionary work and greater support in every way. Money was not the only thing needed. Workers were wanted and spiritual support and encouragement.

At the evening service Miss Reesor gave a solo in her usual pleasing manner, and a duet by Miss Reesor and Mr. Johnston added greatly to the musical portion of the service. Charlotte street

AT CHARLOTTE STREET

The religious feature of the Canadian Northwest was the message brought to the members of Charlotte street Methodist church last night by Rev. W. L. Armstrong, of Toronto, who has labored for ten years in the mission fields of the North-West. A large congregation was present and the offerings were given for Home and Foreign Missions. The reverend gentleman chose for his text the 3rd chapter Rev. 8th verse: "I know my works; behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it, for thou hast a little strength and hast kept my word and has not denied my words."

The need and will for more workers in the mission field, both at home and abroad, was the tenor of the speaker's remarks. He stated that most of the people all over the world had been praying for the washing away of the gates which held back the flood of religion from rushing in upon the heathen lands. Fifty years ago Japan had published a proclamation that any person making the smallest pretence of Christian worship would be beheaded. To-day the doors of this country are open wide to the influx of Western civilization, and during the late war sent several of our missionaries to the field of battle as chaplains of regiments of the Emperor's army. No longer does the Chinese Emperor hold out his mighty army against the divine cause and claim himself as the great Almighty. The ancient forms of heathen worship, the passion for opium dens and the glamor of the gambling resorts are gradually losing space in the mind of the modern Chinese, and art, culture and industry are taking their places. This is essentially the outcome of mission work

The eloquent divine pointed out that in sending men to the foreign field they were losing sight of the needs at home. Though he was just as anxious as anyone that the foreign field should not be neglected, yet he impressed the congregation with their responsibility. The Methodist Church in Canada were not sending their quota of young men to the mission field, and the Methodist Board were compelled to send to England for the necessary men. This year England's resources have become exhausted, and 67 men are still required to fill the vacancies in that most expense country. With he way the West was going ahead the outlook, in his opinion, was tremendous, and the cry of the Methodist Church was "more men." In closing his remarks he made a strong appeal for the necessary equipment for the home field, and asked the congregation to be generous in their contributions towards the support of so great a cause.

AT MARK STREET

Missionary Sunday was observed yesterday in Mark street Methodist church. Theer were large congregations in attendance, considerig the stormy weather.

Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker, of Toronto, preached a very interesting and educative sermon in the morning.

Missionary contributions were made. The sum received was 60 per cent. in excess of last year, which was most encouraging. In the evening Rev. R. Emberson, returned missionary from Japan, preached.

The lesson was read from the 42nd chapter of Isaiah. Mr. Emberson chose, as his text the 4th verse of same chapter: "He shall not fail, nor be discouraged till he have set judgment in the earth and the isles shall wait for his law." This verse, he said, outlines the character of the great King, who holds sway in the minds of the people of today throughout the world. The example of the Fiji islands and Terra Del Fuego, gives a splendid example of the power of Christianity, and of missionary work. Fifty years ago the natives of Fiji were cannibals and today a greater per cent. of them are Christians than will be found in the United States.

THE CLIMATE.

The climate of Japan is from arctic to a summer climate and at this time time of the year oranges may be picked. They can grow any fruit or grain which it is possible to grow in our own country. The country is exceedingly mountainous and only one large plain is to be found. The tillable land amounts to only one-sixth of the total area, while the whole population is crowded into this small area. The mountain regions is covered with wild grass and for the most part are uninhabited. The people live on the plain near the public highways, or along the seashore. The country contains more electric railways which have been built withing the last five years, than has Canada. These railways do not climb the mountains, but they tunnel right through and the railways run for a large percent of their lengths through tunnels

AGRICULTURE.

We people in this country have no idea of the conditions of agriculture in Japan. Most of their fields are about 50 feet by 40 feet and each field is surrounded by a clay ridge. Almost the whole country is under the cultivation of rice and the level fields which have the ridges around them are flooded throughout the growth of the rice. This water is lead from the mountains through each little field until it reaches the sea. The whole country is dug over by spade twice a year in some places, and only once in others. Then the big lumps are harrowed down to a fine powder, principally by the girls. When the water is let on to the fields all hands turn out to plant the rice, which is planted throughout the whole country the way we plant our cabbage. The fields are kept stirred up through the growing period. Then at harvest time the rice is cut by hand and carried to the village on the natives back where it is stacked. After harvest they thresh it by hand. They slash the grain over spikes nailed in a large block and then the women fan the grain in the wind. This method of agriculture has been followed for many hundreds of years.

HOME LIFE.

The house is generally built of clapboard and the floor is covered with straw matting. You would fine no furnishing as we have, and only an odd picture is to been seen on the walls. But they are extremely clean and no dirt or dirt can be found in the houses. All classes live in the same economical way, except the higher classes, who are by law supposed to dress in European style so many hours each day.

NATIONAL LIFE.

This side of their character was well exhibited throughout the recent Russo-Japanese war. They are unconquerable, for if the men were all killed, both old and young, the women would step into their places and fight for their country. During the war they captured about 75,000 Russian prisoners, and these prisoners were treated as no other nation in the world has treated her prisoners, not even England was so kind. They were treated as their guests and during their captivity in Japan were given freedom within certain limits of the city. This is a state of affairs which thirty years ago would have been the reverse. They would have killed the enemy. They took example from the western nations and applied what they learned to suit their own purposes. The Red Cross Society was given such a prominence on the battle field, that today it is the most noted organization in the country.

DIRECT AGENCIES.

He claimed that there are other agencies at work in Japan besides the missionaries. He gave as an example a Samaraese, who had worked in San Francisco. The man was converted and when he went home, he carried the religion with him. He organized within his company a mission band to help poor boys under their care and employ. Afterwards a mission house was built which was operated on the same plan as the Fred Victor Mission of Toronto, which Mr. Emberson described to him. Mr. Emberson had a Bible class there when he left and also was delivering regular sermons. Thus when Christian work gets hold of the heart of the people, a great revival will take place and the country will be won for Christ.

REV. DR. BAKER GAVE ADDRESS

One of the best meetings of the winter was held at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker of Toronto, gave an inspiring address, especially to young men, and Miss F. M. Manning sang with good expression, "Does Jesus Care."

Dr. Baker spoke on "The Best Gifts" and pointed out that while money was alright to have and to make, yet if we make it we are to use it right; not to let it rule us. The same could be said of fame or position. Many good positions were vacant in almost every firm at the present time, he said, and what they wanted was a man that had the qualifications to fill these positions. The name of a person does not count. It is what he can do; so we must fit ourselves for the best positions, to make a case in that line.

While these things were alright in their place, yet there were greater gifts. God is truth. We could not honor Him as we do, unless we believed He was perfect truth, so that if we believe God is truth, no lie can be justifiable. Dr. Baker made this very plain, and emphasized the point strongly.

Wisdom was also a great gift. This does not only include knowledge, but brings the mind, heart and being of a man into harmony with; We should covet wisdom.

Patience and humility were also offered to us, among the best gifts. We have to endure hardness, not with thought of gain, but for the sake of the tribulation itself. It costs as much to be a Christian now as it ever did, and these are the gifts a Christian should covet to make him the true Christian.

GAOL SERVICE CONDUCTED YESTERDAY

In Local Gaol by Lt. Col. Pugmire—Grand Work of S. A. Prison Gate Department

Lt.-Col. Pugmire, of the Salvation Army Prison Gate Department, conducted service in the local county gaol yesterday. The prisoners, of whom there were about twenty in attendance, displayed great interest in the service. Several of them expressed conversion at the conclusion. The Prison Gate Department of the Salvation Army is one of the most useful of the organization, and is doing a splendid work among those unfortunates whose misdemeanors place them behind the stone walls. Lt.-Col. Pugmire, in conversation with the Review yesterday, said 13,000 prisoners had been visited by representatives of the Department during the past year and employment had been found for 800, who were met at the prison gate on their release.

LEARN DRESSMAKING

We teach you everything from the plainest shirt waist to the most elaborate toilet that can be found in the fashion books. We show you not only the lining but all the outer goods in coats, skirts, waists, wrappers, sleeves, children's dresses, collars, etc. Why spend months at a dressmaking shop where you do nothing but hem, overcast, sew on hooks and eyes? And then, after you have served months there, what do you know about cutting? Absolutely nothing. You will know no more how to cut out a dress at the end of a year, than you did the first day you went there. So, why spend your time there when we can teach you in less than two weeks? You can come and try for a few days and if the course is not what we have advertised it to be you have the privilege to stop. As there is no pay in advance you certainly do not lose anything by trying. If you do not wish to be a professional dressmaker the cost is so small that you can well afford to take it up if only for your own use. We have taught over 7,000 in this way within the past five years.

Charge for full course is only $10, to be paid when through, including one of the most perfect fitting charts in use which we give free. An evening class will also be taught for the benefit of those that can not come during the day. In this class we will teach shirt waists, sleeves and saques. Terms $4.00. Hours from 7:00 to 9:30. We will teach at Peterborough from January 30 to February 7. Hours for day class from 8:30 to 5:00. For full information we would be pleased to have all those interested call and have the system explained to them at the Oriental Hotel, on Wednesday, January 29, between 9:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

CHILDREN'S AID WORK

The Children's Aid Society of Peterborough, which held its annual meeting on Friday night, is a splendid, well managed organization, doing earnest, faithful work in this city—a work that in some quarters may not be adequately appreciated. Reference has been made so frequently in these columns to the character and value of the labors of the society that it seems a trite proceeding to draw attention to the matter again.

In all cases reported prompt and vigorous action has been taken. The society now has a well equipped shelter of its own, with ample grounds and air surrounding it, while the officials have all been most zealous in the discharge of duty. The society greatly regretted the departure of Mr. Dennistoun and Mr. Burnham, but is fortunate in enlisting in its ranks such active sympathizers and supporters as Mayor Rush, Mr. T. F. Matthews, the new president, and School Inspector Mowat, one of the vice presidents. Superintendent Kelso gave an admirable address. His heart and soul are in the work of saving the young.

Reference was made in Secretary Goodwill's report to the increase of juvenile crime in the city. The same tendency appears to be prevalent in other centres. Where is the hardened criminal class of the Dominion drawn from? From children who are not properly brought up, who are allowed their own way and subjected to little or no correction from their parents. Speaking of parential neglect of children, Hon. T. Mayne Daly, police magistrate of Winnipeg, makes the following remarks which are particularly apropos;

"The problem of the state is the problem of the child. What this country is going to be depends upon the boys or girls. Whether our doctors, lawyers, business men, bankers, etc., are to be honest men, that you can depend upon, rests with the up-bringing of the youth. Too many men regard their homes as merely boarding places. They eat and drink, and then rush off to club meeting or saloon to have a good time. They think when they have kept the house going with supplies and the boys and girls in clothes they have done their duty. The boy copies the father. Father runs away after meals are over; he does the same thing. Father has a good time; why should he not have a good time! One boy, 11 years of age, had been absent from home for a week without his parents having any idea where he was. The father should make a chum of his boy and keep him out of a lot of mischief. The trouble too often begins with truancy from school. This begets idleness and idleness begets mischief. The father does not know half his time whether his boy has been at school or not. A boy should not be afraid to tell his father anything that he has done during the day or intends to do, and the father should be willing and anxious to advise the boy.

"The risk to girls is worse than to boys. Too often the fault lies at the door of the mother who regards her daughter as the apple of her eye, works herself almost to death for her, indulges her, even puts finery on her that she can't afford to pay for. I have seen beautifully furnished homes, with everything that you would think the young girl would like or wanted, but at the age of sixteen she would do just as she cared—stay out late, meet bad companions, till at last she began to think her mother was not up-to-date and knew little about conduct. A sad day is before such a girl. Those over-dressed, gum-chewing girls trying to attract the attention of young men in the street are hideous spectables. There is either bad training or no training at home, and a sad day comes when the poor, broken-hearted mother realizes she has been too indulgent. No girl ought to do anything that she would be ashamed to tell her mother.

"Want of manners is very noticeably in young boys, roughly pushing into street cars without respect to ladies and their seniors, without regard to manners. In my youthful days I was taught to salute every clergyman I met on the streets. Few boys do the kindly act now. What is wanted is the upbuilding of character. Teach children respect to elders, for sacred things, for their King, their country and their flag. Spread the gospel of deference for things which are good. I have no use for goody-goody boys and girls, and expect boys and girls to be full of fun. Parents, make your homes bright and happy. Take pleasure in things that amuse and please your children, then you will win their confidence."

THE GOSPEL OF CHEER

A man often feels as he talks. Sunshine is contagious; cheerfulness begets cheerfulness and vice versa. There is no real stringency in the money market or the country, but one is apt to be created if a few merchants, manufacturers and others persist in talking of the demoralized condition of affairs generally. Happily a small number are talking "blue ruin," or "soup kitchen." On the contrary they are dwelling on the brighter and better side of things and telling the people that there is no cause for alarm and nothing disquieting in the situation.

This is how prosperity may be helped along and a feeling of confidence and hopefulness created. The main thing is to keep up individual, corporate and national courage. The crisis is passing, it it has not already passed. The calamity howlers have been disappointed, and Canada has weathered the squall in splendid style.

A contemporary sizes up the situation in the following pertinent and sensible style:—

Of what earthly use is a soldier who drops his musket and takes to his heels at the first onslaught of the enemy? Where would a nation end with an army of such soldiers? Where a business?

At present this country stands face to face with a most absurd enemy, who came like a bolt from a clear sky and wholly without cause.

That enemy is Fear.

Are you a good fighter or are you a coward? Are you going to lay down arms before this imaginary fictitious apparition, or are you going to "march breast forward" and help break down this fear in the minds of your customers?

There is no reason why merchants or anyone else should be alarmed. The backbone and foundation of this nation is its integrity and natural resources, which are in most superb condition. In fact, the land "flows with milk and honey." The only trouble is the people (some of them) are scared stiff.

And about what? Absolutely nothing. It's just like a cry of fire in an opera house where no fire exists.

Fear is no person, place or thing. It has no actual cause—no real power. In the presence of confidence it becomes absolute nothingness and vanishes as darkness before the light.

When a snag is blown out of a river by dynamite the noise creates excitement, but the snag being removed leaves the river clear. Several snags are being removed from the "financial river," but the explosions should cause no alarm. With the snags removed this country's prosperity will flow on greater and more powerful than ever.

Which side are you fighting on—fear or confidence? Every word you speak, every thought you think, has power for good or evil. Think it over and be optimist.

TO MEND THE SENATE

The Senate cannot be abolished, as it lies at the very base of confederation. Any attempt to reform its constitution would require the assent of the Imperial parliament.

Neither Quebec nor any of the minor provinces would agree to a curtailment of the Senate's power of vetoing a measure in derogation of its rights in the Dominion. That body may be called in fact the linch-pin of the constitutional fabric, which it holds together.

Its reform only is a matter of profitable debate. How to enlarge its usefulness; how to construct it on lines more immediately responsible to the people are practical questions. Should it be continued as, in the words of Sir Richard Cartwright, "a refuge for defeated and decayed politicians," appointed by the head of the ruling party, or be chosen by other and more independent authorities? These are the questions looking for an answer, says the London Free Press.

If it is charged that the Senate lacks industry, it is to be said that this is inevitable so long as the house of Commons is itself a dawdler. Its functions being revisory, it has to wait for measures to emanate from "another place" before it can get on. Its lengthy adjournments are predicated on the sloth of the popular assembly.

Whether it should possess larger powers of initiation, depends upon the expediency of dividing legislative control of monetary measures. It is inadvisable to clash in this direction.

Has senatorial action at any time proven prejudicial to the public? If a measure has been stopped has it not been useful to receive a cooling in the senatorial saucer?

Take the Yukon railway bill as one of the most notable examples of the past ten or eleven years. It sprang up in a night, was rushed through parliament at express speed. It called for the outlay of seventy millions of cash. It was vetoed by the Senate.

Yet not another move was made to pass it in the house of commons. The government of Mr. Sifton dared not put it as an issue before the people.

The Senate was amply justified in its refusal to sanction this extravagant, most improvident, and wholly unnecessary measure as a public enterprise.

If the cost of the Red Chamber is in question, as being out of proportion to its working time, it may also be said that the cost of legislation in general exceeds the results attained. Why keep the house of commons droning along for half the year, when by more readiness and push, its business might be accomplished in three months?

Hansard is filled with redundant eloquence. Thousands of its pages are occupied with speeches which might be compressed into hundreds of pages. Here is where reform would be useful and where a beginning might be made.

PEN POINTS

They were playing baseball in Lethbridge, Alberta, on January 17th, says the Herald. That's nothing. The boys of Peterborough were playing at snowball and hockey on that date.

The meeting of the Young Conservative Club on Saturday night was a most representative one. It was the largest gathering held in months. There was much enthusiasm displayed and the club is in active fighting trim and ready for the battle, come when it may.

All business men and others are requested to attend the meeting of the Board of Trade tomorrow (Tuesday) night. Mr. W. H. Moore, who is an acknowledged authority on municipal problems, will give an address on Government by Commission, which will be well worth hearing.

All the municipalities in the riding have now selected their delegates for the Liberal-Conservative convention on Wednesday night, when candidates for the Federal and Ontario Houses of Parliament will be selected. The convention promises to be the most representative and largely attended ever held in the riding.

If the proposition is raised at the Board of Trade meeting tomorrow night to ask Mr. Andrew Carnegie for a public library grant it should be promptly voted down. The question of going hat in hand to Carnegie for a gift was discussed by the Board on a former occasion and the project defeated by a decisive majority. It was hoped that the last was heard of the question as public feeling in the city is strongly against any such a move.

Qualifications of Mr. C. R. D. Booth for the Wardenship

To the Editor of the Review

Sir,—I was pleased to see your article in Saturday's Review, expressing approval of Mr. C. R. D. Booth's claim to the Warden's chair for the current year. You are right in saying that he would make an excellent Warden, and in support of that opinion you quote the fact that he has had the unusual long municipal experience of nine years, two of which were by acclamation. I might add that for the whole nine years he acted as reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther. Indeed, he might well be considered the rector of the County Council. With ideas broadened by a liberal education and having served successfully in many positions of a quasi legal character, he is eminently fitted for the position. Besides, benefitting by his experience and qualifications, the Council would be making a meritorious appointment by placing Mr. Booth in the Warden's chair.

Yours, etc.,

OBSERVER.

CONVENTION OF INSPECTORS TO BE CALLED

Provincial Secretary Hanna Will Address Them Regarding Liquor Act

Toronto, January 27.—The Ontario Government has under consideration the advisability of calling a general conference of the Liquor License Inspectors with a view to obtaining still more efficent service, uniformity of action and clear interpretation of the clauses of the Act. The conference will probably be held in Toronto during the sittings of the Legislature. The inspectors will be addressed by the Provincial Secretary, Hon. W. J. Hanna who will probably speak as to the intent and desires of the Government regarding the enforcement of the Act, and by Mr. Eudo Saunders, head of the License Department, and other members of the staff upon the various duties assigned them and their performance. Hon. Mr. Hanna has already indicated that there will be no radical changes in the License Act during the coming session.

Mr. Ruddick's Explanation

Statement of Mr. Barr at Dairy Convention Led to Wrong Impression

To the Editor of the Review

Mr. Geo. H. Barr, a member of my staff, who was official referee of butter and cheese at Montreal last season, in speaking of his work at the recent dairy convention held at Picton, Ont., made the statement that "only 2 per cent. of the cheese which he examined were of No. 1 grade." This statement has been widely quoted as showing a serious condition in the Canadian cheese trade. As there is nothing in the statement itself or in the facts of the case to warrant such a conclusion, I ask your permission to make the following explanation;

As Mr. Barr explained in his statement, he examined less than half of 1 per cent., or about one lot out of every 200 lots of cheese received at Montreal during the season, and further, as he was asked to examine only those lots which were suspected of being inferior in quality, or which had been condemned by the purchasers, it is not surprising that only 2 per cent. was first grade. The showing is a remarkably good one rather than a bad one. As a matter of fct, the quality of Canadian cheese never stood as high as it does at the present time. More improvement has been made in the last year or two than for many years previous. The writer has just returned from a lengthy visit to the markets of Great Britain and can speak with confidence of that point.

By giving space to this explanation you will greatly oblige,

J. A. RUDDICK,

Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner.

Annual Meeting St. Paul's Church

Will be Held on Wednesday Night—The Financial Statement

The annual meeting of the congregation of St. Paul's church will be held on Wednesday night. The ladies of the congregation will serve tea from 6 to 8 o'clock, after which the business part of the evening will be proceeded with.

Copies of the financial statement were distributed yesterday. The collections—open contributions and envelopes—for 1907, amounted to $4,527.32. The total receipts for the year were $12,261.42, the different items being;

Open contributions	$ 632.60
Envelope contributions	3894.72
Donations for honorarium to Rev. Dr. Torrance	2227.20
Donated on account of debt fund	430.51
Special collection for poor paid over	26.20
Open collection paid Session fund	50.19
Amount raised by mortgage...	5000.00

The total expenditure was $3,083 for salaries, honorarium for Rev. Dr. Torrance, $2,500 special repairs and renovations $1906.47, and various other smaller items, leaving a balance on hand of $126.28 on January ance on hand of $126.28 on January 1st, 1908.

There is no debt on current account while the mortgage indebtedness of the church is only $5000, which includes all outstanding liabilities.

FELL OFF $10,000

The Anglican Contribution to Missions During 1907.

A deficit of $10,000 for the year ending December 31st, 1907, was shown by the financial report read at a meeting of the executive committee of the Missionary Society of the Church in Canada (Anglican). In Montreal and Halifax there has been a falling off in contributions, but in Quebec Province and Ontario they are well up to the mark. The deficit in Halifax is due to special contributions to the building of a new cathedral, and in Montreal to the Bond Memorial Fund.

Art Paintings in New Readers

Education Department Decides on Change in New School Books

Toronto, Jan. 27—The world's greatest paintings are to be reproduced in the new Ontario Public school readers, now in course of preparation.

The Education Department has decided to make the character of the illustrations a distinctive feature of the new series. For this reason Dr. Goggin, who has been given charge of their preparation, is arranging to secure photographs of many of the world's greatest paintings by artists, which will be reproduced in the readers in two colors.

These pictures will be apportioned through the books with a view to the advancement of the pupils in the various grades. In the junior books the reproductions will be those of paintings of nature and animal life and as the series advances, pictures of maturer character, embracing scenes of geological and human interest will be introduced. The pictures will be printed on pages where they will be appropriate to the subject matter, and will afford the teacher opportunity to develop an artistic appreciation in the minds of the scholars.

LESS RHEUMATISM HERE

How to Prepare Simple Mixture to Over come Dread Disease.

To relieve the worst forms of rheumatism, take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal, and at bedtime.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from any good pharmacy and are easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle.

This prescription, states a well-known authority, forces the clogged-up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful, torturous disease, but dangerous to life, this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here, who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescription regularly, a dose or two daily, or even a few times a week, would never have serious kidney or urinary disorders or rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve, are scarce, indeed, and when you need it you want it badly.

YESTERDAY'S STORM

The storm king had his usual Sunday outburst of vehemence yesterday, and held away with blinding snow and cutting wind. Although the wind was rather heavy, the local results of this storm were not serious. The snow ploughs did good service on the pavements, and the street railway's sweeper cleared the tracks in good style.

The railways were rather badly blocked in some cases, and the traffic consequently interfered with some of the trains running into the local station arriving considerably behind scheduled time.

G. T. R. TRAINS WERE SEVERAL HOURS BEHIND

One From Port Hope Was Not in at 3 O'clock This Afternoon.

The G. T. R. train from Toronto due here at 11.45, was two hours and a half late to-day. The railroads were badly drifted and in a wretched condition. It was about a quarter to two when the train pulled into the local depot, and passengers intending taking it for Port Hope, had a long and tiresome wait. At 3 o'clock the train from Port Hope, due here at 12.20, had not yet arrived. The road between here and Port Hope is terribly blocked.

The Conservative Club Delegates

To the Convention on Wednesday Elected — Rousing Meeting Held

An enthusiastic and well attended meeting of the Young Conservative Club was held in the club rooms on Saturday night. The gathering was the largest held in many months.

Ald William Buller, president, was in the chair.

The object of the meeting was the selection of delegates for the convention, which will be held in Bradburn's Opera House on Wednesday night of this week.

Twenty delegates were elected from the club, the constitution allowing one delegate for every twenty members. The delegates from the different wards had been chosen at previous meetings. The gathering on Saturday night demonstrated that the Club is an industrious and active political organization. There was a splendid representation of young men, several of whom were chosen as delegates.

The convention to nominate candidates for the Federal and Provincial parliaments on Wednesday night next, promises to be composed of the strong, stalwart workers of the Liberal Conservative party from all parts of the riding. The meeting will begin at 7.30 o'clock sharp. All Conservatives are cordially invited to be present.

TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT IN THE CITY

Meeting Held at Charlotte St. Church to Take Preliminary Steps.

A meeting was held Sunday afternoon, in Charlotte Street Methodist church, and was well attended by the congregation. The forward movement of temperance in the city was considered, and a committee was named to adjust work and plans with other church societies. A large number of those present expressed their views on the matter, and it was the opinion of many that it is an opportune time to take action in view of the temperance movement throughout the province. "Banish the Bar" the watchword throughout the province, and the speakers believed that Peterborough would not be behind in the forward movement. It was very strongly expressed that the people of Peterborough assist the societies, and also the local officers in every way possible to enforce the law. The meeting expressed their very hearty commendation of officers and inspectors in enforcing the law throughout the city, and assured them their hearty support. They deplored the recent miscarriage of justice in cases where convicting evidence had been secured, and agreed to make further inquiry into the matter. Committees were formed to send out information to different pastors, and societies to join in a temperance conference regarding united action, at 4.30 p.m. next Sunday. At 4 o'clock a meeting will be held in the Sunday School auditorium, when Rev. J. G. Potter will speak on the progress of local option in Ontario. Mr. H. P. Kennedy will be in the chair. The Charlotte Street church choir will assist in the music. The committee feel assured that union of churches will mean the submitting of a local option bylaw in Peterborough next year.

TRAINS WERE DELAYED BY SNOWSTORM

C.P.R. Noon Express Was an Hour Late—Trains Had Double Headers To-day.

The 11.16 C.P.R. train from the west was an hour late today, the cause of the delay being the stormy weather. The high winds filling the railway cuts made it exceedingly difficult to make very rapid progress. In order to make better time, a double header was run, but even with this it was greatly delayed. The front engine bore a striking resemblance to a huge snow pile, so completely was it covered with ice and snow. The clothing of the engine drivers were frozen on their backs.

Their clothes were so dampened with steam, and then when the biting, frosty atmosphere struck them it caused their garments to freeze, making them feel very uncomfortable.

On the G.T.R. this morning both the Port Hope and Belleville trains had double headers, in order to make their scheduled time. However, the Belleville train was half an hour late, but the other one got into the depot on time.

SPORTING NEWS

Strathconas and Cobourg In Fast District Match

The last intermediate O.H.A. game of the season will be played tonight at the Brock street rink, when the Strathconas meet Cobourg. The ice is in perfect condition and a fast contest is assured. The local have not won a game this year, but will make a big attempt to wrest the laurels from the Lakeside septette tonight. The strongest line-up available will be placed on the ice, and though it is rather late in the season, the Strathconas seem to have struck a steady clip and look good to win the game. The visitors won out by a comfortable score at the game in Cobourg, and no doubt feel confident of landing the victory tonight. A large crowd should be present to witness the match.

HOW LINDSAY EYES SAW THE GREAT GAME

Lindsay Post Finds a Reason for Doing Some Tall Crowing

The Lindsay Post has the following in its account of the Peterborough-Lindsay game;—

The fastest game of the season was played last night between the Peterborough Strathconas and the Lindsay Intermediates at the Lindsay-st. rink, before a crowd of over a thousand enthusiastic spectators. Too much cannot be said of the game put up by the Intermediates, every man playing his best, while the new man, Taylor, seemed to be all over the ice at once all evening; wherever the puck went or was likely to go "Goosie" was sure to be there. He seemed made of iron, and despite the fast and hard game he played, remained quite fresh till the end. Koyle was the centre of all eyes in his spectacular rushes, and the number of hard knocks he took, and attempted tripping he overcame, was wonderful. When the Straths saw him starting on one of his magnificent rushes, the whole team practically dropped their positions and bunched themselves together to stop him. The only thing that could do it, however, was trippings, which he overcame, from McWilliams and others. Randall also put up a good game, remarkable for the fact that even when a Peterborough man took him by the throat and threw him up in the air he kept his head and didn't get ruled off for fighting. He did some good work with the puck, too. In fact every man on the team showed in some way that each was the right man in the right place, and put up the game of their lives.

The Strathconas' line-up was as folows;—Watson, goal; Glover, point; Parnell, cover point; Ray, rover; Morgan, centre; McWilliams, left wing; Rose, right wing. It was a star combination and the hardest that Lindsay has run up against this season. They had practiced hard since the last brush with Lindsay, and had changed almost the entire line-up for faster men—in fact all but two or three of the line-up at the last game had their places taken by men who played senior last year. Peterborough was bound to win, whether or no, but have found that our boys can put it over the best team they could raise in their intermediate or senior hockey. Our Midgets of the Junior League last year, whipped their Strathconas, whose men played senior hockey last year.

Altogether Peterborough brought up the strongest team they could get, and made a good bid for supremacy. They will have to submit to the bitterest memories for another year. Lindsay are certainly on top. It's hard, Peter, but you can have a taste of what we suffered for years.

LAST GAME OF THIS SEASON

For tonight's game between Strathconas and Cobourg, either McCord or Hancock will probably referee. The ice is in fine conditon, and the game should be a very interesting one. As this will be the last intermediate match of the season Whitby having defaulted the game billed for Thursnight, a big crowd is expected to be present.

To Play in the Ontario Tankard

Peterborough Rinks Go to Toronto To-night

Two rinks of Peterborough curlers go to Toronto tonight and tomorrow will play in the Ontario tankard series. Messrs. D. Davidson and J. S. Knapman will likely be the local skips. Peterborough is placed in group five, along with Oshawa, Cobourg, Port Hope, Toronto Caledonians, Queen Citys, Lakeviews, Scarboro and Brampton.

Lindsay has won group No. 1. A Toronto despatch says:

"Lindsay had an easy road on Saturday, curling through group 1 to the primary championship of Prospect Park. The oft-time Tankard winners bowled over Torontos in the morning and then in the afternoon beat Newmarket in this final. Skip Little, with the Veteran Flavelle as vice, only allowed Chopen one shot in 18 ends, this match being a tie. The game was closer in this next sheet, though Vice-Skip Stewart was an absentee owing to illness. There was just one degree of frost at this start in the afternoon. Before this finish the ice was pretty sticky, and as Flavelle remarked, it required quite a push to get the stones up."

CURLING

AN INTERESTING TROPHY.

A handsome curling trophy is on view in the window of Mr. Bottum's hardware store. It is in the form of a curling stone, supported on brooms, and rests upon an ebony stand. It originated with Mr. Stanton, the clever photographer and enthusiastic curler of Fenelon Falls, who offered to give half the expense if anyone in Bobcaygeon, or the Curling club would do the same. The offer was accepted by the local club, and the trophy is to be competed for between the Curling clubs of Fenelon Falls and Bobcaygeon, four rinks on a side, two to go to each village, at the same time, two contests to take place each season. The president of the winning club is to hold the trophy, and it will become the property of the club that succeeds in winning it three times successively. The first round in this year's contest was played Friday. At Fenelon Road was 7 up vs. Cashore, Broad vs. Graham 8 up; at Bobcaygeon it was Logie v Stanton 4 up, Bottum 8 up vs. Hamilton, Bobcaygeon 6 up all round.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Held at Lindsay Were Read at George St. Epworth League

A missionary meeting of George Street Epworth League was held last evening, when a fairly large number were present. In the absence of the president, Mr. McCann, Mr. A. Gray occupied the chair, and opened the meeting. The chief feature of the evening was the reading of reports of the recent convention held at Lindsay by Misses A. Crafts and Evelyn Chasty. Are You Strong?

Do You Eat and Sleep Well? —Or Are You Pale, Weak and Miserable?

Has your nerve given out? Have you lost confidence in yourself? Has work become such an awful burden that you look upon it with horror?

There's just one thing left to do, and that is to take Ferrozone and get your system into good shape again.

It's quite impossible for anyone to be weak or nervous that uses Ferrozone. It contains so many strength-giving properties benefit is bound to result from its use.

Ferrozone possesses the power to kindle new vitality and vigor where almost a dying condition of weakness exists.

It is an extraordinary and magical tonic, containing more actual nourishment and strengthening elements than you can get at in any other way. As a blood purifier, nerve strengthener and appetizing tonic there is simply no equal to Ferrozone. Of this we are positively sure.

It is crowned with the success of splendid cures; will restore anyone to health who uses it. The following letters from people who have actually experienced what Ferrozone can do will clearly show you just how beneficially it acts:—

No Medicine Ever Did So Much Lasting Good as Ferrozone.

"It would be difficult to express my thanks for the benefit I have received from Ferrozone," writes Miss Eva Wight, of Florenceville. "I was so weak and miserable that I could scarcely go around the house. My head ached, there was a dragging weakness in my limbs, and I felt as if every spark of life had left me. Ferrozone improved my appetite, toned up my blood, and soon made me well. Nothing I ever used did me half the good I got from Ferrozone."

The Great Tonic, Ferrozone, Brought Back Life.

"I am anxious to speak a good word for such a magnificent tonic as Ferrozone," says E. P. Garey, of Yorktown. "I was wretchedly worn out. I was apprehensive, and lacked confidence. It was simply due to my very weak state. The only remedy that really did me lasting good was Ferrozone. It rebuilt my strength, has made me as vigorous and happy as a man could be. In the whole range of medicines I never used anything with half the merit I found in Ferrozone."

Though you spend a thousand dollars on doctors, you can't get a more vitalizing, strengthening tonic than Ferrozone. It is the best that money, combined with scientific research, can produce. If anything in this world will make you strong it must be Ferrozone. Others have proved its worth. You can easily do so for yourself. It will send new vital energy and renewed youth singing through your veins. It's nature's own remedy—a true food tonic.

The Premier Climbs Down; Opposition Wins its Point

Produces Original Documents Asked For by Mr. Ames.

Strong Argument In Favor of Georgian Bay Canal—Banks Responsible For Loans to Farmers In the Northwest—A State Secret — Fast Canadian Cruiser For Pacific Service, Properly Armed.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—The Georgian Bay Canal project was discussed in the House yesterday afternoon, on motion of Mr. McCool (Nipissing) asking for papers. Mr. McCool began by giving an interesting history of Upper Ottawa, from the time of Champlain. The routes used by the early voyagers of the Hudson Bay Co. and similar concerns had in most cases turned out to be the ones suitable for commercial purposes. Proceeding, he recited a record of previous surveys of the Georgian Bay Canal route, including the surveys of Smith, McLeod, Coulter, Fraser and Wisner, the latter estimating te cost of a 20-foot waterway at $80,000,000, and strongly urged the commercial possibilities of the undertaking.

In 1904 the Government instituted the survey of a portion of the route, the result of which was that that referring to the French River section had just been laid before the House. Among the eminent men who had given support to the scheme were: Sir William Van Horne, J. J. Hill, Hon. John Haggart, Hon. N. A. Belcourt and Mr. Pripore, ex-M. P.

Mostly Open Navigation.

Mr. McCool gave figures derived from the report already published showing that the canal from Georgian Bay to Montreal, 440 miles, was made up of 357 miles of open navigation, 56 miles of improved channel and 27 miles of canal. As far as saving in time in the Georgian Bay route over the present St. Lawrence, it was calculated that a vessel using the former route could make the round trip from Fort William to Montreal, discharge, reload and return in 12 days. The actual time of the voyage each way would be five days, with one day each for discharging and loading return cargo. Against this the round trip via St. Lawrence takes 21 days, with similar despatch of loading and unloading. The intention was to have a canal 22 feet deep, with locks capable of passing vessels 650 feet long, 60 feet beam and drawing 21 feet. As for safety of route, it was incomparably greater than the present route of navigation from the head of Lake Superior to the head of ocean navigation.

Such was the progress of development in Manitoba and the Northwest that in ten years, notwithstanding the existence of three transcontinental railways and a possible railway from Winnipeg to Hudson Bay, the quantity of grain and other farm products to be carried would overtax the transportation facilities of the country. The Grand Trunk Pacific would open up in Ontario alone, he said, sixteen million acres of excellent wheat lands. The Township of Temiskaming, which at the last census contained 13,600 souls, had a population to-day of 30,000; nor was this altogether due to mining development. Settlement was proceeding apace. The fact that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and Sir William Van Horne advocated the Georgian Bay Canal showed its necessity, to move by rail the cargo offering. Another proof was the establishment by the Canada Atlantic Railway of a line of steamships on the lakes. Under most favorable conditions, the freight by the all-rail route was double the cost by water route.

A Financial Assumption.

Assuming that the export of grain of Canada and the United States was $200,000,000 a year and that $100,000,000 went through the Georgian Bay Canal, it would mean a saving of $3,200,000 annually as compared with the cost of export by present routes. As a factor in reducing rates, by railways through competition the value of waterways was admittedly great and the increase of exports of wheat via Montreal was due to increased carriage by the water route, as carriage by rail was decreasing.

Mr McCool produced statistics showing the large proportion of Canadian foodstuffs going to the seaboard by the United States. The railways were not making anything like adequate provision for the transportation of our increased productions. The question for the last few years has been, not what rates can we get, but what accommodation, and all excessive rates came out of the pockets of the farmers. Cheap transportation was a great factor in development.

Banks Responsible.

Mr. Lake (Saskatchewan) asked for a statement as to what steps the Government proposed to take in regard to advances to farmers of the Northwest by the banks.

Mr. Fielding said as the banks became liable for money advanced by the Government they had to be judges of the persons to whom loans should be made. The transaction between the Government and the banks in this matter was still unfinished, and it had not been deemed expedient to make it public. A measure dealing with the subject would shortly be submitted to the House, and information would then be furnished.

Mr. Pugsley, answering Mr. Sloan's enquiry regarding the service by Yukon telegraph to Prince Rupert, said the line had been wrecked by a gale, and the subject of permanently improving the service was under consideration by the Government.

Mr. Pugsley told Mr. Roche (Marquette) that there was an order-in-council permitting a contractor to deduct 50 cents per month per man from employes on public works. This applied to the eastern division of the national transcontinental railway, but the Government had no knowledge of what deductions are being made on each of the portion of that railway.

Junior Judge For Essex.

To Mr. Clements the Minister of Justice said it was the intention of the Government to appoint a junior judge in Essex, Ont. The question whether there was sufficient work for two judges was one for consideration primarily by provincial authorities, who were responsible for the administration of justice.

Mr. Borden drew attention to the incompleteness of the files respecting the Japanese negotiations. The return referred to another document which was missing.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that the missing document was a despatch from the Colonial Office, which was secret and could not be made public without the consent of the Imperial authorities. He would, however, communicate the contents to the Opposition leader privately.

Mr. Turriff took exception to remarks made about him in the House the other night, adding that he was neither, as insinuated, a pauper when he entered the Government service ten years ago, nor was he now a millionaire, or posing as such. If any hon. member had a charge to make against him it could be made in the usual way and he would meet it.

Fast Canadian Cruiser.

Replying to Mr. Sloan (Comox Atlin), Hon. L. P. Brodeur said it was proposed to build a new 20-knot seagoing cruiser, properly armed and manned, to effectively patrol the deep sea fisheries of the Pacific coast. Plans and specifications were ready, and tenders would be called for very shortly. Mr. Talbot interpellated the Government as to the participation of Sir Alexander Lacoste, ex-chief Justice of Quebec, in politics on behalf of the Conservative party. He wanted to know what Sir Alexander Lacoste was drawing annually from the country, and if the Government considered it proper on the part of state pensioners to meddle in politics.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth replied that the annuity of Sir Alexander Lacoste was $5,333.33. The Government was not in possession of information as to the office held by the ex-chief justice in the Conservative party, and rules of the House precluded the offering of an opinion as to the propriety of his doing so.

To the question: "If the sensibility of these pensioners is not sufficient to prevent them from interfering in political matters, does the Government intend to make up for the deficiency."

Mr. Aylesworth said: "The suggestion seems beyond Governmental power."

Canada's Diplomatic Status.

Mr. Thompson asked: "What is the status of Canada in negotiations of Imperial treaties with foreign nations with reference to subjects not purely Canadian, but which, directly or indirectly, affect Canada? Is Canada consulted during such negotiations? Does Canada have a representative present during such negotiations?"

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied: "In this matter, as in many others under the British constitution, changes have taken place from time to time to meet new conditions as new conditions arise. The rule which has been followed of late years, has been that in all matters, treaties with the foreign countries with reference to subjects not purely Canadian, but which directly or indirectly affected Canada, the Imperiel Government has caused a provision to be invested that the treaty shall not apply to Canada unless and until ratified by the Canadian Parliament.

Original Documents Tabled.

The original documents in respect to the granting of certain timber limits in the Northwest were laid on the table of the House yesterday afternoon.

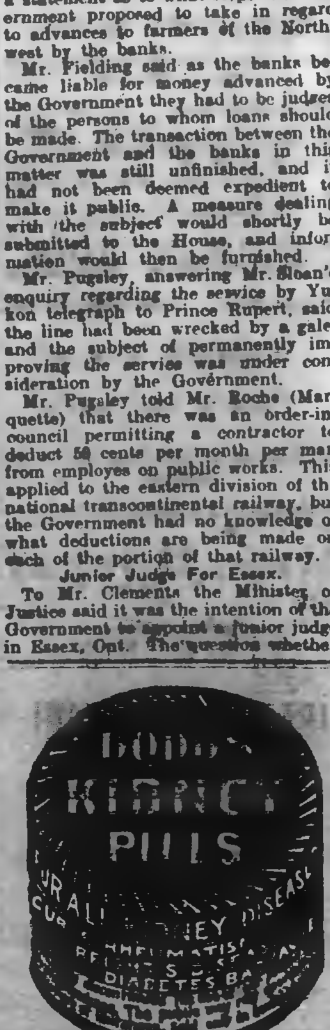
After routine proceedings, Sir Wilfrid rose to make the statement he promised he would give "after the House shall have cooled down." The Prime Minister said:

"I stated the other day that I would make to-day a statement to the House with regard to the question which occupied its attention for some time last week. I have not to go back upon the position which has been taken by the Government with regard to members of the House obtaining original documents.

"The motion of the hon. member for St. Antoine (Mr. Ames) having been disposed of, it has been observed the hon. member could not renew his motion except by unanimous consent of the House. Perhaps the point of order would not have been taken, but I think it is better always to adhere to the rules of the House, and under the circumstances I have asked the Minister of the Interior to place upon the table of the House the originals sought for.

"It has been represented to me that it would be inconvenient to break up the file; therefore, I now lay it on the table of the House for inspection by the hon. member, or other members to be returned by the Clerk of the House to the Department of the Interior as soon as it is disposed of."

The announcement of the Premier was greeted with Opposition applause, and the incident was then closed.



Too Anxious to Marry.

Arcola, Sask., Jan. 28.—A young French-Canadian of Wauchope has been summoned on a charge of perjury, the offence, it is alleged, having been committed in securing a license by means of which he was wedded to his own niece. Both parties to the marriage are 17 years of age.

Police Chief Kills Himself.

Rutherford, N. J., Jan. 28.—Thomas Crowther, chief of police of East Rutherford, shot and instantly killed himself while in police headquarters. For three years he had suffered great torment from a leg which he broke while chasing a burglar, and had been despondent of late.

May Have Been Murdered.

Humbolt, Sask., Jan. 28.—J. Schuster of Perth, Ont., was found dead near Fulda yesterday. The body was frozen, but a gash on the head causes suspicions of murder. The mounted police are investigating. The victim was 50 years old.

Conservatives to Protest.

Montreal, Jan. 28.—The election of Charles Lovell, Liberal, who was last week elected to the Dominion House for Stanstead, will be protested on the ground of irregularities in the voting lists.

Pan Smith, a logger on Valdev, Island, B.C., was killed in his bunk by a falling tree.

TRACK OF FIRE FIEND

Disastrous Conflagrations Chicago and Portland.

Big Block of Wholesale Houses Destroyed—Loss Over $900,000—Chicago Fireman Missing — Score of Others Badly Injured—Walls and Roof of Burning Buildings Collapsed—Other Small Fires.

Portland, Me., Jan. 28.—The second fire in three days, which several times threatened seriously to wipe out the business district of this city, and which caused a damage estimated at $900,000, before it was finally controlled, was kept confined to the block in which it started, yesterday morning, after almost ten hours' fighting by Portland's almost exhausted firemen, aided by men and apparatus from several outside cities. The fire burned in the block occupied by Milliken, Cousens & Co., and A. F. Cox & Son, and a score of firms suffer.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—One fireman was killed, more than a score of others were injured and property valued at half a million dollars was destroyed in a fire which devasted the Mayor Building, a seven-storey brick building, and the Hotel Florence, 163-167 Adams street, early yesterday.

The walls and roofs of both structures collapsed, carrying down with them an entire company of firemen.

Oil Tanks Ablaze.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 28.—A fire, which started in a huge oil tank of the Standard Oil Co. at Canton, Baltimore County, yesterday, communicated to two others. Much of the oil in the tanks was drawn off.

Burns Self and Child.

New York, Jan. 28.—Carmino Remardone, a barber, and his 17-months-old son, Antonio, were burned to death on the top floor of a tenement house in Mulberry street early yesterday. Remardone had been separated from his wife since last Thursday. A brother believes he set fire to the flat with the intention of killing himself and the child. Twenty-five other families rushed to the street.

BOWSER CHALLENGES ROSS.

Will Follow Him and Demand the Right to Speak.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 28.—Attorney-General Bowser has issued a challenge to Duncan Ross to meet him in Vancouver at any time to discuss the charges against Mr. Bowser regarding the Natal Act. Bowser says if Ross does not meet him within reasonable time he (Bowser) will go to Greenwood, Ross' home town, and deliver a speech when Ross runs again in Yale-Cariboo for the Federal House. He says he will go to meetings during the federal campaign and insist on speaking.

There were provisions for many weeks and there could be no famine prices. It is absurd to believe a big shipping line guilty of such petty overcharging."

Was Demented in London; Thaw Trial Proceedings

Thaw's Crazy Demand For Ice in English Hospital.

Dr. Wells Says He Suffered From Acute Mania While There—Danced Wildly About the Room—Suffered From Silly Delusions — Lengthy Hypothetical Question—Hummel to Be Examined.

New York, Jan. 28.—The Thaw defence closed its case yesterday with "manic-depressive" insanity as the explanation of the death of Stanford White, at the hands of the young Pittsburg millionaire. To-day the prosecution will begin its evidence in rebuttal, and the case should go to the jury by Wednesday night or Thursday noon. District Attorney Jerome will apply for the appointment of a commission to take the testimony of Abraham Hummel, the disbarred and convicted lawyer, who is confined in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island, and who is said to be too ill to appear in court. Mr. Littleton, of the defence, said he would oppose any such action, whereupon Justice Dowling announced that if necessary he would go to the island himself in company with the defendant and his counsel, to preside at the taking of Hummel's testimony.

The jury, it was stated, would not be compelled to take the night trip across the river. Thaw seemed delighted at the prospect of the outing—even to the grim shores of New York City's penal colony — and smiled broadly at the court's suggestion.

District Attorney Jerome disappointed a crowded court room when he refrained from his tactics of last year in baiting the expert witnesses for the defence, three of whom—Drs. Wagner, Evans and Jelliffe—declared that Thaw at the time he killed Stanford White was suffering from such a defect of reason as not to know the nature or quality of his act, or that the act was wrong. The prosecutor contented himself with drawing from the alienists the fact that last year they swore it was during a "brain storm" that Thaw committed the homicide. He also read from the affidavit made by Dr. Wagner before the lunacy commission last year, giving conversations he had with Thaw in court, which tended to show that the defendant had a distinct recollection of occurrences on the roof garden immediately preceding the tragedy.

Justice Dowling's Questions.

It was left to Justice Dowling to make a most important enquiry of the alienists. He desired to know the exact nature of "manic-depressive" insanity, and if the attacks were likely to recur. He also asked if a person suffering from this form of insanity would be likely to commit assaults. He learned that it was a recurrent form of mental disorder, the attacks coming suddenly and without warning, a period of insanity being followed by a maniacal outburst, then by a period of complete depression, and then by another lucid interval. It seemed that the presiding judge was securing information upon which to prejudicate judicial action in the event of a verdict of acquittal, on the ground of insanity, or of a straight acquittal. Even in the latter event, it was pointed out, Justice Dowling would have the right to have Thaw committed for examination.

New Term From Over the Water.

An English physician, one of the three foreign men of medicine who testified yesterday, first gave the name of "manic-depressive" or "sub-acute mania" to Thaw's mental condition. Dr. Sydney Russell Wells of London, made the diagnosis during an outbreak by Thaw in London in 1899, when, with a normal temperature, Thaw demanded that the walls of his rooms in a nursing home, be torn down so that he might have air and that 20 tons of ice be put in the apartment to cool it.

Mr. Littleton's question, which was answered by the three experts, was a complete resume of the evidence, with the exception, as District Attorney Jerome pointed out, of the testimony of James Clinch Smith, brother-in-law of Stanford White, who talked with Thaw for 15 minutes just before the shooting on the roof-garden of Madison square. The question contained some 16,000 words.

Judge Raps Jerome.

New York, Jan. 28.—Paul D. Cravath, personal attorney for Thomas F. Ryan, will be compelled to testify before the grand jury which has been investigating alleged irregularities in the sale of the Wall and Cortandt Streets Ferries Railway Co. franchises to the Metropolitan Securities Co. Judge Rosalsky declared that the district attorney was attempting to hold an illegal investigation before a grand jury. The application had been opposed by the National Bar Association, and also by the New York State Bar Association.

Transvaal and Asiatics.

Johannesburg, Jan. 28.—The Transvaal has decided to tone down its attitude towards Asiatics, with a view to finding a less objectionable registration system. It is understood that the judicial investigation of the subject will be instituted, pending which all prosecutions for violation of the present law will drop.

Indian Boy Confessed.

Large Volume of Business Transacted at Joint Meeting

Annual Meeting of St. Paul's Sunday School Teachers Also Attended by Session—Superintendent Presented Report and Election of Officers Took Place.

Much business of importance was transacted last night at the annual meeting of the teachers of St. Paul's Sunday school. There were fifty in attendance, twenty-five teachers, ten officers and fifteen elders, the latter being present to confer with the teachers and officers on measures of mutual interest. Mr. Wm. Madill, the superintendent of the Sunday school, occupied the chair.

Preceding the meeting tea was served by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society from 6.30 to 8 o'clock. The ladies catered to the requirements of their guests in an admirable manner. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to them at the conclusion of the tea for the ample supply of good things they provided.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

The meeting was held in the Guild room of the church, and commenced shortly after eight o'clock. The superintendent, Mr. Madill, presented his annual report which was as follows;—

The work of the Sabbath school during the year 1907, has been carried on without any special features to report. Our teachers and officers have been fairly regular in attendance, a few changes in teachers having taking place during the year. Our work has some marks of encouragement as a goodly number of the older pupils have identified themselves as members of the church, and others are seriously considering the taking of this step.

Total number on roll is 328, with total average attendance of 237.

Average attendance of each department is as follows; — Primary 32, Kindergarten 28, Intermediates 97, Adult Bible class 39, Young Men Bible class 14, teachers and officers 29.

Total contributions for missions $300.

We have to note some important changes during 1907. Rev. Mr. Bright our assistant pastor, who has been with us one year, left us early in April, accepting a call to Ingersoll, he had charge of the Young Men's Bible class and succeeded in gathering around him a goodly number of young men. Rev. Dr. Torrance our pastor, who had been identified with our Sabbath school for thirty-one years and most of that time had charge of the adult Bible class, resigned his pastorate and left on June 30th, 1907.

In the autumn Rev. Dr. Talling, who was with us for some four months took charge of the united Bible classes, and proved a most acceptable teacher.

Early in December Rev. R. Pogue our present pastor, was inducted, and we trust he will be the instrument in God's hands to kindle a new interest in our Sabbath school work. We therefore look for marked improvement in this department of our church work for 1908.

Our school sustained a great loss when Mr. Wm. Pringle, our secretary-treasurer, was suddenly called from our midst by the hand of death, he had filled most acceptably, this position for many years, he was ever faithful in his attendance and diligent in the discharge of his duties, having always the best interest of the Sabbath school at heart, his cheerful and friendly spirit and high type of Christian character was ever an influence for good upon all with whom he came into contact, and his loss leaves a vacancy in our staff which will be exceedingly difficult to fill.

Our orchestra under the leadership of Mr. W. F. Nelson, have contributed much to the interest and success of the school in leading the singing.

Our annual picnic to Idyl Wyld on July 5th, was most enjoyable, many of both teachers and scholars took advantage of the day's outing.

A very successful Christmas entertainment was held this year. Every teacher and scholar of the school gave some useful article of clothing or provision for the poor in the city. These gifts were distributed to the needy thereby bringing comfort and good cheer to many a home.

Our Home Department with Mrs. Church as superintendent, has done better work this year; but for this department we are looking for greater and better things during 1908.

The following scholars attended every Sabbath during the year; — Ethel Goodenough, Mary White, Leighton Anderson, Fred Sharpe, Max Davidson, Nina Clark.

We feel we cannot close this report without again making a strong appeal to all parents for your heartfelt sympathy and co-operation. We ask an interest in your prayers that the year 1908 may be one full of blessing for every boy and girl connected with St. Paul's Sabbath school.

WM. MADILL,
Superintendent.

THE OFFICERS FOR 1908.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—

Superintendent—W. Madill.
Cor. Sec. and Treas.—H. O. Sisk.
Rec. Sec. and Treas.—W. J. Stenor.
Leader of Song.—W. F. Nelson.
Pianist.—Miss Gladys Crane.
Librarians.—Messrs. J. H. Connal, Jas. Carey, Roy Turner, Harry Carey.

The selection of the assistant superintendent was left in the hands of the superintendent.

On suggestion of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Pogue, it was decided to hold at a date to be arranged, a public installation of officers and teachers. The feature is an innovation in Canadian Sunday school methods, but is somewhat in vogue in the United States. Another idea of Mr. Pogue's that of having a printed order of service similar to that used by the Sabbath school of the Bethany Tabernacle, Philadelphia met with the favor of the meeting and was also adopted.

The teachers decided to adopt a plan of thoroughly preparing the lesson for each Sunday and are to hold meetings for that purpose at the close of each regular Wednesday night's prayer meeting.

The Home department work was left in the hands of the present committee of the department. The committee is under the superintendency of Mrs. Church.

At present all collections from the Sunday school are devoted to missions, running expenses being looked after by the Board of Managers. At last night's meeting it was decided to devote part of the collections for expenses in connection with the school.

A question that received serious consideration was that of providing music for the school. The matter was left in the hands of a special music committee, consisting of the superintendent and Messrs. W. F. Nelson G. M. Roger, A. P. MacLean and Misses McGaw and L. Scott. They devise the best way in their opinion for the improvement of the musical portion of the service.

This year as usual, a prize will be given to every pupil who is in attendance for the 52 Sundays of the year. Two prizes will be given in connection with rehearsal of the shorter catechism. One will be awarded to pupils under 12 years of age who correctly repeat half of the catechism at one sitting and the other for pupils over 12 who correctly repeat it all at one sitting.

By the co-operation of the teachers, officers and Session at last night's meeting some valuable modifications and improvements in the work of the Sunday school were made.

They should prove of great practicability and usefulness during the coming year. The attendance at St. Paul's Sabbath school for the past year has been most gratifying and encouraging and the pastor, superintendent, officers and teachers look for even a larger attendance and more prosperous year for 1908.

Board of Works Will Take Horses From Fire Department

One Fire Team Will be Used Exclusively by Board of Works—Joint Meeting of Committees Held Last Evening—New Driver Appointed for Fire Hall—Mr. Matchett Will be Retained by Board of Works

A joint meeting of the Board of Works and Fire, Water and Light committees was held last evening when the following members were present;—His Worship Mayor Rush, Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works; Ald. Johnston, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and Aldermen Buller, Tovey, McIntyre, Elliott, Morgan and Turner. Ald. Phelan presided. The purpose of calling the meeting was for the readjustment of certain rights of the fire hall and employees of the Board of Works. For some time past there has been considerable friction between these two sections of city work. It is now thought that a satisfactory arrangement has been reached and from now on things will go along smoothly and without any cause for grievance on either side.

ADDRESSED COMMITTEE.

Mr. Jas. Kendry of the Auburn Woollen Co., addressed the committee in reference to the recently passed bylaw giving fixed assessment to the Auburn Woollen Mills of $40,000. He understood that this assessment included the whole property and thought it was a very fair amount. The Auburn mills have no improvements, such as sewerage and water system, and on the the strength of these facts, the company asked for the fixed assessment of $40,000. When he read the bylaw he found that it did not include all the land. Another clause of it, states that the fixed assessment does not include the school taxes. He thought it should. He also stated certain pieces of land that should come under the fixed assessment and which were not included in the bylaw. He asked that the matter be taken up, and he was assured that the council would give it their earnest consideration.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was received from Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr asking that on behalf of Miss McMahon, that certain fences, trees, and other things in the way of opening up and extending George street, be removed. Upon motion of Aldermen Elliott and Morgan the request was granted.

SATISFACTORY ARRANGEMENTS.

Considerable discussion took place in an endeavor to solve the difficulty between the Board of Works and the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Ald. Johnston was the first to express his views on the matter. He wanted to have the two departments entirely separate, and then there would be no disagreement. The Board of Works have been using the fire teams on the watering carts and in other branches of their work with the result that considerable inconvenience was caused to both parties. He proposed that the Board of Works take one team and keep it under its control and the other two teams be retained for fire hall purposes. He also thought that the cellar should be divided; one half being for the use of the Board of Works. He suggested that a separate entrance be made and thus all friction could easily be avoided.

Mr. W. Pakenham, foreman of the fire hall, said that there were seven horses at present in the stables. One was a supply in case of any of the others becoming sick. Two teams must always be there, and four drivers, two be on during the day and two at night.

Street Commissioner Evans in giving his views, said that under the present conditions, in the summer, watering carts were not out on the streets before eight o'clock in the morning and the same prevailed in the winter with the snow ploughs. One of the firemen that was off at night was supposed to take the snow plough next morning, if necessary. Then there was no provision made for Sundays, and this past month it has snowed nearly every Sunday and they had a hard time to get someone to go out with the plough. Mr. Evans suggested that Mr. Matchett's team be given over to the Board of Works.

Ald. Morgan thought that there should at all times be two teams and two drivers in the fire hall.

After considerable discussion on the subject it was finally moved by Ald. Buller, and seconded by Ald. Turner that the Board of Works take over the team of horses that is driven by Mr. Jas. Matchett. This motion was carried. It was also moved by Ald. Buller, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, and unanimously carried that the present driver of the team be retained by the Board of Works.

Regarding the division of the fire hall cellar, it was moved by Ald. Buller, and seconded by Ald. Tovey that the north half be set apart for the use of the Board of Works. This motion was carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

NEW DRIVER APPOINTED.

After the joint meeting, the Fire, Water and Light Committee held a short session for the purpose of appointing a driver to succeed Mr. Matchett. Mr. Alf. Parker was the unanimous choice of the committee and will likely commence his duties the first of the month.

Madoc Won From Havelock in Second Game in the Trent Valley League by a Score of 7–2—Latest News From the Railroad Town.

Havelock, Jan. 27.—The second game of the Trent Valley Hockey League took place here tonight between the local seven and Madoc, resulting in a score of 7–2 in favor of Madoc.

Both teams put up an exceptionally good game, but the Havelock bunch had no combination, while the Madoc men worked well together.

During the first half neither team got worked up to a very high pitch, but more from mishaps than good playing Madoc pierced the Havelock net four times, while Foster on a rush scored one for Havelock.

The second half opened up with things a little brighter on both sides and soon things got going fast, and Havelock hammered Madoc's defence but to no avail.

Foster finally scored on a quick rush and a neat shot. The Madoc goal was carefully guarded by Murphy, who played point, and who also made some brilliant rushes. Madoc scored 3 in last half.

Mr. Chas. Pearce refereed the game very satisfactory to both teams.

The following represented Havelock;

Prospects are exceedingly bright for the opening of Blairton iron mines in the spring. Very good ore has been met with so far. A diamond drill has been placed in operation now, and it will soon be found out what the mine really does contain.

A Ramble Through The City of London

Subject of Interesting Talk by Dr. Langfeldt Before Knox Young People

A large number of people, young and old, attended the Young People's meeting last night at Knox church. About 100 were present, and the evening was spent in a most entertaining manner. An informal address had been arranged, on the subject of "A Ramble through London," and Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, Rector of St. Luke's church, was the speaker. Several views of London were thrown on the canvas by means of an electric lantern, that was operated by Mr. Menzies. The President, Mr. McKee, was in the chair. The opening devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. H. J. Keith and Mr. Campbell. The president in introducing Dr. Langfeldt, said that he and the Young People gave him a hearty welcome to Knox church and they hoped it would not be the last visit.

Dr. Langfeldt acknowledged the kind words of welcome, and expressed his pleasure at being present and to see such a large audience. He laid no claim to being a lecturer, and he could not do justice to the subject, for to lecture on London efficiently would require a longer stay in the world's great metropolis than he had the privilege of being there. At any rate since it was only to be "a ramble" he would try to give some of his impression which London gave him and to speak on some of the scenes and places which he had seen and visited. Parts of Dr. Langfeldt's address were illustrated by views. Several members of the society read short papers on "Westminister Abbey." "St. Paul's Cathedral," "The Tower," "London Bridge," "Windsor Castle." "The House of Parliament." A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker of the evening. The gathering then dispersed, after prayer and benediction by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt.

A meeting of Court Peterborough C.O.F., was held last night at which it was decided to celebrate the 29th anniversary of the founding of the court. The date of the "at home" was fixed for Feb. 27th. A strong committee was appointed to make arrangements. Mr. H. Nesbitt was elected chairman, and Mr. Charles Stenson, secretary.

It was also decided to hold the annual carnival at the Brock street rink on St. Valentine's day, February 14th. Mr. D. Hatvie was elected chairman, and Mr. J. H. Smith, secretary of the carnival committee.

Mr. Jas. Thompson, Havelock, Elected Warden of County

At Opening Session of County Council—Was Opposed by Reeve R. N. Scott, of Smith Township—Contest Was Unusually Interesting.

Reeve Jas. Thompson, of Havelock, has been elected warden of Peterborough County for 1908. He was given this honored position at the opening meeting ot the County Council this afternoon. It took two ballots to decide the election. Mr. Thompson's opponent, being Mr. R. N. Scott, reeve of Smith Township. In the election for warden, a candidate must have a majority of the total votes of the council before he is elected. As the Peterborough County Council is composed of seventeen members this year, it takes nine votes to elect the warden. The first ballot stood;

Scott 6.
Thompson 7.

This was declared no election, and on the second ballot Mr. Thompson received nine votes and was declared elected.

The council assembled shortly after two o'clock and the first business taken up was the election of a warden for 1908. This was proceeded with after the roll had been called by County Clerk Elliott.

Councillor Killen moved that Councillor R. N. Scott of Smith Township, be warden. He referred to the fact that a representative from West Peterborough had not held the wardenship for many years, and it was time that the honor was coming to the western half of the county. Reeve Moore of Lakefield, seconded the motion.

Reeve Darling of Dummer, moved that Mr. Jas. Thompson of Havelock, be warden. The nomination was seconded by Reeve Brofwn of North Monaghan.

On the first ballot Mr. Scott got six votes and Mr. Thompson seven. The clerk declared it no election, as the warden must have a majority of the council, in this case, nine votes, as there are seventeen members in the council.

Mr. Darling, seconded by Mr. Brown, again moved that Mr. Thompson be warden, and Mr. Killen and Mr. Moore again moved that Mr. Scott be given the position.

On the second ballot Mr. Thompson secured nine votes and was declared Warden for 1908.

Mr. Thompson then took the Warden's declaration of office, after the council had been adjourned for a few minutes. On going into session again, the council proceeded to strike the committee to strike the standing committees.

All the councillors were present the representatives of the different municipalities being as follows:

Asphodel—Wm. Oakman, Hastings.
Belmont and Methuen—Jas. Russel, Blairton.
Burleigh and Anstruther—C. R. D. Booth, Apsley.
Chandos—Wm. Hales, Apsley.
Douro—D. Maloney, Warsaw.
Dummer—C J. Darling, Warsaw.
Ennismore—S. Killen, Ennismore.
Galway and Cavendish—C. Coben, Kinmount.
Harvey—Jas. Ingram, Bobcaygeon.
North Monaghan—Jno. Brown, Springville.
Otonabee—J. H. Fife, Lang; W. J. Porter, Deputy, Peterborough.
Smith—R. N. Scott, T. H. Graham, Deputy, Peterborough.
Lakefield—F. J. Moore, Lakefield.
Norwood—A. Brault, Norwood.
Havelock—Jas Thompson, Havelock.

The new men are Councillors Oakman, Russell, Maloney, Coben, Ingraham, Graham and Moore.

THE NEW WARDEN

Mr. James Thompson, the Warden for 1908, was born in Lanark County, near Smith's Falls. For the greater part of his life he resided in Leeds county, but came to Havelock nine years ago. He conducts a large general store in the prosperous railroad town, and is also engaged in the lumber business. He is well fitted for the position of Warden, having been reeve of Havelock for four years in succession, previous to which he was a councillor. Mr. Thompson is deservedly popular with a large number of friends, who will heartily congratulate him on his election.

Those on the inside knew at noon today that Mr. Booth, of Burleigh, and Anstruther, who had been spoken of as a candidate, was not going to stand. Mr. Maloney, of Douro, had announced himself as a candidtae but was not nominated, having apparently decided not to enter the field.

Grand Opera in Peterborough; Best Attraction of Season

VanDenBerg Grand Opera Company at the Grand on Saturday Night.

It is not often that Peterborough citizens have an opportunity of hearing grand opera in their own city, and in order to hear it it is necessary to go to Toronto or other cities. The great expense connected with the production of grand opera successfully, the necessity for well trained vocalists and very elaborate scenery, make a grand opera company a very costly one to support. The Van Den Berg Grand Opera Company that are to appear at the grand opera house on Saturday afternoon and evening next have been playing all last week at His Majesty's theatre in Montreal and the papers of that city are loud in the praises of the excellent work done by the different members of the cast. The company is playing at the Russell theatre, Ottawa, this Thursday and Friday, and after playing here on Saturday open a week's engagement at the Princess, Toronto.

The two operas that have been selected by the management here are "The Bohemian Girl," on Saturday afternoon, and "Carmen" in the evening. Both these are familiar to most people, and they will be greatly enjoyed. Programmes containing the English version of the opera will be furnished everyone, so that though "Carmen" may be sung in French, it will be quite an easy matter to follow the story of the opera.

The plan opens on Thursday, and it is likely that, as it is the best attraction of the season there will be a big demand for seats.

Husband Refuses to Support Wife and is Taken in Custody

For neglecting to support his wife and two children, Colborne Losey was arrested this afternoon by P.C. Meharry, at the Commercial hotel. Mrs. Losey claims that her husband has contributed nothing to her support for some weeks. He also kept her in a state of fear on account of threats he made towards her. She further complains that he threw slurs and made unkind remarks to her, regardin her brother, who is in gaol.

On the contrary Losey asserts that he and his family were living in Toronto and one day when he returned to his home for dinner he found that his wife and children had deserted him. He followed them to Peterborough, but she refused to ever again have anything to do with him.

CANADIAN QUESTION IS ABOUT OVER

Special to the Review.

Tokio, Japan, Jan. 28.—In the Lower House of the Diet this evening, Foreign Minister Count Hayashi announced that the Canadian question had been definitely settled. He said the negotiations with America were continued, and he was unable to give any details, but was able to announce that a satisfactory settlement was within sight.

A REAL CASE OF TWO IN ONE

It is a very good testimonial to the efficiency, personnel and members of the 57th Band that last Friday night the aggregation were able to supply two bands, one for the Park rink and the other at the Hockey rink, and to turn out a very capable and efficient corps at each place. Those who heard the programmes rendered say that the selections were so well played that many of the spectators hardly believed that the band had been divided.

ORGANIST WAS REMEMBERED

Miss Clara Armstrong of Salem Was Presented With Sable Last Evening

Last evening a party of young people met at the home of Miss Clara Armstrong, Salem, to show their appreciation of her services as organist in the Methodist church there.

The following address was read by Miss Jean Girven, and a beautiful sable muff was presented to Miss Armstrong by Miss Mabel Johnston;—

Dear Clara,—We the members of Salem church, have gathered here tonight to show you in some measure at least our appreciation of your services among us. For the past four years you have very ably filled the position of organist, and we desire to show you that your labor and faithfulness have not been unnoticed.

During this period very few Sundays, indeed, have we missed you from our midst and we feel that we could not have chosen another who would have filled the place as well. And now as a slight tangible token of our appreciation we would ask you to accept this muff.

We thank you for your past services and hope you may be with us to fill the same position for many years to come.

Signed on behalf of the congregation.

Miss Armstrong although greatly surprised made a suitable reply, thanking those present for their kind remembrance and assuring them that her services to the chair as the office of organist, were given voluntarily and with a great deal of pleasure.

The New Brunswick Legislature was dissolved yesterday, and the elections are on March 3rd.

Smith Was Too Big for Them

A good story is being told about two local young men who started to drive to Chemong one afternoon last week. Somewhere out in Smith township they lost their road and had to call upon a young man who resides in that township to pilot them to the head camp of the reserve. There he left them, and how they found their way back the guide does not know. It is said that the young gentleman told their guide that he could have the pleasure of dancing with their young ladies when Chemong was reached, but the inducement apparently was not sufficient.

Cobourg Couldn't Get Here; Game to be Played Friday

The game scheduled to take place between the Strathconas and Cobourg did not take place last night, owing to the fact that the lakeshore contingent got stuck in the snow at Port Hope and consequently they could not make their destination. The match will be played on Friday night, however, and the game should be an exceedingly interesting one.

The following line-up for the Straths was on hand:

Goal—Derocher.
Point—Meagher.
Cover Point—McWilliams.
Forwards—Parnell, Ross, McMillan, Long.

McGrath Looked on as Dangerous Opponent for Bobby Kerr

Speaking of the Royal Canadian Athletic Club's meet on Monday night next at the Provincial meet, the Globe says:

"The committee in charge are highly pleased with the way in which the entries are coming in, although disappointed over the fact that the Peterborough Harriers will not be represented by Fred. Simpson, Longboat's Indian rival, and Ernie Wilson. The Peterborough boys, with the exception of Freddie McGrath, have have all gone out of training, but McGrath will be on hand for the sprints, returning from Buffalo, where he is running on Saturday, in time to perform at the local meet. McGrath is spoken of as the most dangerous opponent Bobby Kerr will have in the sprint trials for the Olympic team, and if the Peterborough runner is in anything like his old time form he will give the Hamilton boy the battle of his life.

McGrath will have as side partners on the relay team to visit Buffalo McIlmurray, of the Irish-Canadians, Hitchen, of the Garrison A. A., Harry Smith and Jimmy Brydon of the Central Y.M.C.A., and all these men will compete in the R.C.B.C. meet on Monday.

STRATHS. HAD FINE PRACTICE

Two Full Teams Indulged in Splendid Workout—Ice in Great Shape

The Strathconas, who were on hand in full force for the game with Cobourg tonight, had a splendid workout, two teams chosen from the following indulging in a fast practice game: Wilson, Derocher, Meagher, Parker, [illegible], Clarke, McMillan, Parnell, Weatherstone, Long, McWilliams, Dobson and Louid, of the Cobourg line-up, who came from Toronto, where he is attending college in anticipation of the game. Manager [illegible] of the Strathconas, refereed and handled a critical and impartial ball.

The ice was in splendid condition and the skating was fast.

CURLING

PLAYING AT TORONTO.

Two rinks of Peterborough curlers went to Toronto last night to play in the Ontario Tankard games. The locals were drawn to play the Caledonians at Granite rink this morning.

Two rinks of Peterborough curlers went to Lindsay today to compete in the district cup games which are being played in that town.

Sporting Comment

Hockey has taken a great boom in Peterborough this winter and about every office and place of business capable of getting a seven together, have done so. Juvenile teams have chased the puck in every available space and all the between times that could be spared at the rink have been taken up. This enthusiasm doesn't appear to count for much perhaps, but it really means a good deal and augurs well for the hockey future of Peterborough.

COMMERCE HAVE FORMED TEAM

Seven From Local Bank Had Initial Practice Last Night—Will Meet Bank of Toronto Seven

The Bank of Commerce have organized a hockey team and had their first practice last night, from 6 to 7, at Brock Street rink. They played up to good advantage, and should have a formidable seven for their game with the Bank of Toronto septette, which takes place in the near future.

Those in attendance at last night's workout were Cameron, Marlowe, Hampsted, Males, Kingsley, Adams, Fisher, Wood. Cameron, the point man, has been chosen captain.

Tongolas Will Have Strong Team

Next Saturday night the Tongolas of Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto, will play the Senior Basketball team in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium. The Tongolas are a fast bunch, but the locals are in good shape and should be winners.

A preliminary game between two Collegiate Institute teams will also be put on.

Those interested in basketball may depend on seeing good games. First game will be called at 7.45.

Middle Form Were Winners

Collegiate Institute Teams Met at Brock St. Rink Yesterday

Teams from the lower first form and middle first of the Collegiate Institute clashed at the Brock Street rink, between five and six last night. The middlemen won by a score of 15—1, leading at half time by 10—0.

Crane, of the middle form forward line played a brilliant game, and did most of the scoring for the winners.

Norman Geale made a most satisfactory referee.

The teams lined up as follows:

CLOSE SHAVE FOR TORONTO BRANCH B.A.C.

Peterborough Team Gave Them a Hard Run on Varsity Rink

The Peterborough section of the B.A.C. went to Toronto last night and stacked up against the Toronto section in a hockey match at Varsity rink. The homesters won out, 3—1, but one of the goals allowed the winners came through the side of the net, but the umpire didn't see it that way, and it had to stand. After the game the "ump." was taken to an optical shop and had his eyes examined. The half time score was 3—0 but the visitors made a whirlwind finish and scored two goals in the last few minutes of play. The Toronto section had on all the stars of former days, Norman Jolliffe, Sam Moore, Ross Dobbin and Melville J. Hutchinson. The rest of the team was composed of new members, who can play hockey as well as being good fellows.

Mr. Ernest Jolliffe made an efficient and satisfactory referee.

CITY LEAGUE HOCKEY GAMES

In the City Hockey League games tomorrow evening there will be an exhibition match between the Strathconas and the Knockers. This game will be an exhibition one and will begin at 8 o'clock. It takes the place of the scheduled game between the Strathconas and Bridgenorth, the latter septette not being able to come owing to the illness of a couple of their men. At nine o'clock Norwood and Lakefield will play a schedule game. The battle is expected to be a vigorous one, and lovers of godo hockey should be present in large numbers tomorrow night.

THE TURF

STRONG ON KING'S PLATERS.

Toronto, Jan. 21.—President Joseph E. Seagram, of the Ontario Jockey club is in the city from Waterloo. He said last night: "My horses have wintered well, and I hope to have something good to carry my jacket at the coming spring meeting. Our King's Platers have satisfied us, and should race creditably.

Inferno, yes, he is doing well, and if he is fit and right I don't think any horse will beat him at weight for age over the Woodbine course. His dam is dead and there will be no more of the tribe of Bonnie Vic, after you see this young ones race. She was an exceptionally valuable brood mare, but on account of the infirmities of extreme age she had to be chloroformed. I have some thirty mares of English blood at Waterloo, but you know Bonnie Vic was a credit to the old Canadian stock.

The Valley Farm stables of Messrs. Hendrie promises to be very strong on King's Plater this year. Their prospective candidates, Scud and Archie White, will have some company in the additions that have been made by purchase from the Kirkfield stable of Mr. R. J. McKenie. The Platers from which the bearers of the yellow and brown are to come are:

Kirkfield, 4, by Commoner, Oganita.
Scud, 3, by Gold Car—Spanish.
Scud, 3, by Gold Car—Splash.
Archie Whyte, 3, by Derwentwater, Noble.
The Lintie, by Maritimas or Gold Car—Pee Weep.
Shimonese, 3, by Martimas, Lyddite

Kirkfield, The Lintie and Shimonese are the three that were purchased from the Kirkfield stable. As their breeding indicates the last named two were bred at the Valley Farm, and are returning to their old surroundings. The Lintie is from the same dam as Kelpie and Laverock, and the dam of Shimonese was herself the winner of the plate in 1903. Kirkfield was purchased in utero from Mr. W. O. Parmer, of Edenwood Farm, Tennessee, and his dam, Oganita, is a famous producer of winners. The Lintie and Shimonese were sold to the Kirkfield stable at the time the horses of the late Mr. Wm. Hendrie were disposed of.

Their repurchase by the Messrs. Hendrie is taken to indicate that the popular colors of the Kirkfield stable will not be seen at the spring meeting at Woodbine, though they are not retiring from the turf, and eight head, with Tourenne as the star, are now wintering at Washington, in charge of Trainer Ed. Whyte.

THE EYE EXCLUSIVELY

We do not profess to know all about the eye; Who does? but we have devoted about fifteen years exclusively to the study, inspection and teaching of eye examinations for eye glasses and the fitting of Artificial Eyes.

We believe we can, and do, make this experience valuable to all who consult us, and while we appreciate the liberal patronage of Peterborough, we shall ever aim to increasingly merit the confidence of our citizens.

INDIANS WERE FINED $3.60

Alex. Nott and Wesley Irons, two Chemong Indians, pleaded guilty before County Magistrate Edmison to the charge of fighting and acting disorderly on the public highway. As both are poor they were only assessed the costs of the case, $3.60, each and given until February 8th to pay. In default of payment they go to gaol for ten days with hard labor.

Constable Jacobs, who brought them from Chemong this morning, said the roads were in such an impassable condition that they had to come to the city on snowshoes.

WATERWORKS SHOW SURPLUS

of $7,500 for Past Year After all Expenses Have Been Met

The annual statement of the waterworks department has been prepared. It is understood that the surplus of the commissioners for 1907 in $7,500 after meeting all expenses and items the total receipts exceeded $34,000.

The surplus is a most gratifying one, being the best year on record. The number of consumers at the present time is over 2400, an increase of over 200 during the preceding year.

Mr. Thos. Gladman Has Passed Away

Died at the Residence of His Son in Exeter—Highly Respected Citizen

Word was received in the city this afternoon of the death of Mr. Thos. Gladman, an old and highly respected resident of Peterborough, who passed away at the residence of Mr. Fred. Gladman, barrister, Exeter, Ontario, where he had been residing for the past couple of months.

Mr. P. A. Kerr, son-in-law of the deceased, received a message this morning that Mr. Gladman was very low. This was followed by another a few hours later, to the effect that he had expired at 1.30 o'clock.

The late Thomas Gladman was in the 80th year of his age. He was a son of the late George Gladman, who was for several years governor of the Hudson's Bay Territory, and was born on May 28th, 1828, at Moose Factory on Hudson's Bay. The family lived for some years in Port Hope and Mr. Gladman was for a time clerk in the Hudson's Bay Company. He was for several years station agent of the old Midland railway at Lindsay, and was transferred to Peterborough about 35 years ago. He was station agent here for a period of years, but his health failing him he resigned. After regaining his health he entered the service of Mr. Adam Hall, where he was engaged as bookkeeper until about eight years ago when he retired. Since then he has lived in Parry Sound, and in Peterborough with his daughter Mrs. P. A. Kerr. Mr. Gladman is survived by a wife, four sons and two daughters. The are G. G. and Charles Gladman, Peterborough; D. V. Gladman, Niagara Falls, Ont., and F. W. Gladman, of Exeter. The daughters are Mrs. J. A. Morrow, of Parry Sound, and Mrs. P. A. Kerr, 536 Downie street, Peterborough.

The remains will be brought to Peterborough on the noon train on Thursday, and the funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon from residence of Mr. P. A. Kerr, to Little Lake cemetery. The hour has not yet been fixed.

The late Mr. Gladman was a well-known member of the Masonic order. He was of a quiet retiring disposition, and had many warm friends who will learn of his death with deep sorrow.

How Ice Supply is Harvested

The ice operations of the city, although late, are progressing rapidly, and in a few days will be drawing to a close. The ice is of good quality, being about 15 inches in thickness, and is easy to handle. This necessary winter job, has supplied work for a small number of the unemployed, men of all trades working at the ice.

To anyone unacquainted with ice operations it is most interesting to witness the rapidity with which the supply is handled. Mr. T. A. Rehill and the Allin Ice Company are the largest firms in the business who are garnering their supply at present. Mr. Rehill has eight teams drawing ice all the time, and a team on the ice cleaning and cutting, and two single horses on a rope pulling the ice up. The Allin Ice Company being a little nearer, employ five teams drawing ice, and one team on the ice, cutting it into blocks.

FROM THE LAKE TO ICE HOUSE

The ice is cut by a cutting device drawn by horses, after a large area has been marked into blocks. It is then cut by one man with a saw fast enough to supply four or five teams. It is then led down by several men to the loading device, where they break it up into blocks of the proper size. Here several men are employed in loading the ice on to the sleighs. A horse pulls about five blocks at a time, up to a platform, by means of a rope and pully and an ice grab. It takes only about five minutes on an average to load each load. They are then taken to the ice house, where several men unload it. The ice is slid off the sleigh into a slide, which takes it down to the house, or up, as desired. If it is to go up the horse on a grab and rope is used. About ten men are employed in the above house arranging the ice in position. When the storehouse is filled the ice is then packed with sawdust. A similar process is used in Mr. Rehill's operations. By this method about eight to ten thousand blocks are handled per day from Little Lake. It will not be many more days until the large ice houses are filled up. Mr. Scott, of East City, also handles a large supply, and this year an extra lot is being stored in new storehouses, which were built this year. A large number of small houses will be filled for local butchers' and creameries' use after the ice companies have finished their business.

WOMEN AS FARM HANDS

Winnipeg, Man.—Unable to obtain men enough for the harvest fields, Manitoba farmers hired women in their places. They are said to have done just as good work as the former farm hands, and there was much less shirking among them.

That is the way with women. They work too hard—and often overtax their strength. Then the system becomes run down—the liver gets out of order, and constipation and biliousness make life miserable. Mrs. John Cline, of Aylmer, Ont., suffered from these troubles for ten years and found no relief until she tried "Fruit-a-tives." "I want to say a word in regard to Fruit-a-tives,'" writes Mrs. Cline, "I had liver trouble for ten years and tried different remedies, but Fruit-a-tives cured."

"Fruit-a-tives" are made of fruit juices and tonics and never fail to cure Liver, Kidney, Stomach, Skin and Bowel Troubles. 50c a box.

A HANDSOME SURPLUS

Does the public ownership and operation of utilities pay? is a question frequently asked. Well, it all depends largely on the management and the people. In the case of the waterworks system of Peterborough municipalization and government by commission certainly has resulted in a big profit for the citizens. It is learned that the surplus for the past year is about $7,500. This is an excellent showing, and reflects credit on the wisdom, business ability and good judgment of the commissioners, Messrs. Matthews, Hill and Moore. The surplus ($7,500) is the largest on record, being the net sum carried forward after all expenses of operation and maintenance, including sinking fund and interest on the debentures have been met. Since the acquisition of the works some six years ago by the city there has been a surplus each year, while the receipts have steadily grown, the number of consumers largely increased, the mains extended and additional hydrants installed. Today the number of consumers is about 2,400, the gain during the past year being over 200. The total receipts exceeded $34,000. Out of this income the three commissioners have been paid salaries aggregating $500 the last year, while other expenses of an unforeseen nature have been met, yet the surplus is the greatest on record, and is more satisfactory than the most sanguine anticipated. The rates, too, have, under the commission, been reduced by about forty per cent. during the past six years, while the service has been kept fully up to the mark. It is proposed in the near future to further reduce the rates and give the people water at the lowest possible figure. The commissioners are enabled to do this by reason of the fact that the frontage tax bylaw was endorsed by the ratepayers by a large majority and all property fronted by the mains will now contribute a fair share of the cost for the maintenance of the system.

The waterworks commissioners are to be heartily congratulated on the splendid showing made during the past year. Their work leaves no room for criticism, and they have shown an earnest desire to give the people of Peterborough water at as low, if not a lower, rate than any other city in Canada.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION

The Liberal-Conservatives of West Peterborough will meet in convention tomorrow (Wednesday) night, to nominate candidates for this riding for the Dominion and Ontario Parliaments.

It is likely that several names will go before the convention and the strongest and most representative standard bearers selected. It is imperative that every delegate should turn out. He should be in his place at 7.30 o'clock so that there may be no delay in commencing proceedings. The convention promises to be the largest and most representative ever held in the history of the riding. The stalwarts from far and near will be there, and animated by one purpose—to select the best and most eligible men to carry the colors of the grand old party to victory, to support the cause of clean, honest and progressive government at Toronto, and to dethrone graft, corruption and malfeasance of office, which have too long prevailed at Ottawa. With united ranks, a lively fighting spirit and thorough organization, West Peterborough will be redeemed in the next Federal election and send a supporter to uphold Mr. Borden, whose general platform has been received with approval and enthusiasm in all parts of the Dominion.

Let the rally tomorrow night be the largest and most satisfactory on record. The delegates will have only one key note—the best interests and welfare of the party—in making their selections of standard bearers, and the choice of the convention will be cordially endorsed by the rank and file. With a united front, a cohesive spirit, a loyal unanimity and a firm resolve to work, the error of 1904 will not be repeated, when the constituency was lost in the Federal election, largely through over-confidence and the party not having its candidate in the field in ample time. The reverse was not due to popular sentiment but rather to lack of organization. This matter has now been remedied, and with a sound platform, vigorous work and perfect organization the constituency of West Peterborough will at the next Dominion contest—come when it may—line up in the Conservative column by a decisive majority.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Prof. Paul Hanus of Harvard University, in the Atlantic Monthly, makes a strong plea for vocational training for school children of both sexes who are over fourteen years of age. Prof. Hanus briefly describes the industrial school course, which he thinks should parallel the existing high schools. He holds that the work of the public schools has been to "culture," and that but little has planned almost wholly with reference been done "to stimulate a vocational purpose." He points out that the claims of manual training for recognition among the school activities have until recently, been based chiefly upon its value as a means of general education. Elementary Instruction has exhibited an ever present fear of utilitarian aims — a fear not shared in the least by those who direct higher education, the state having, for a very considerable period, educated, or aided in the education of teachers, lawyers, doctors, agriculturists and engineers.

The school of mechanical industries is, therefore, a necessity, and should provide training for boys and girls from fourteen years of age and upwards who evince a desire to learn a trade. It should offer a four-years' course of study and practice, during the first two years of which there would be much shop instruction, "greater in amount, and 'much closer to the grade than the shop instruction of most of the manual training schools now in existence." Along with this there would naturally go definitely related courses in mathematics, drawing, natural science, the history of industries, of commerce and of social and political institutions, and, of course business English. The result of this half of the work would be to direct the attention of boys and girls to a trade, develop them in the social and vocational instinct, and enable them to "explore their several capacities."

In the last two year specialized instruction would follow in the trades appropriate to the locality, and the theoretical foundations of each, and the related branches, as above, would be continued.

Prof. Hanus in his article emphasizes the changed conception of the purpose of school training, which exists today contrasted with that which prevailed years ago. In the past the emphasis was laid on "culture;" in the present age increasing emphasis is laid on the utilitarian. Our schools are expected to equip for citizenship, and to do this greater stress must be laid on industrial training than has yet been done. High schools both for agriculture and for mechanics are now recognized to be a necessity if our children are to be kept at school until their elementary education can be said to have been completed.

PEN POINTS

Carnegie libraries may be all right but Peterborough does not want one.

Remember the Board of Trade meeting this evening. Your presence there is required.

The Review congratulates Dr. Geo. Burnham on his election to the chairmanship of the Board of Health. He will make an excellent presiding officer, and his promotion to the chair is well earned.

The Conservative convention to nominate candidates for the federal and provincial parliaments takes place in Bradburn's opera house to-morrow (Wednesday) evening, at 7.30 o'clock. Every Conservative is cordially invited to attend.

The decision of the Board of Health to hold regular sessions — on the first Tuesday of each month is a move in the right direction. This is preferable to calling a meeting at any old time.

All citizens interested in municipal problems—and who is not — should hear Mr. W. H. Moore speak this evening before the Board of Trade on "Municipal Government by Commission." Every citizen is invited.

Like Barney's Coon, which was up a tree, Sir Wilfrid has come down. The premier yesterday brought down the original documents in the House which Mr. Ames has been pressing for. He did it rather ungracefully it being awfully hard to submit. Score one, however, for Mr. Borden and the opposition.

Mr. Fielding, whose impertinent remark in the Commons that the opposition had no rights except those accorded them by the majority aroused much indignation, probably views the matter in a saner light now, since the government has consented to the production of original documents.

Ernest H. Lawson, magazine specialist, is an opponent of the Canadian post office ruling that American second-class mail matter must have postage at the rate of 1 cent per 4 oz. He figures out that Canadians pay out $1,466,550 per year in postage on that basis. It goes, he notes, not to Canada, but to the United States, for it is spent in buying American stamps.

The United States census figures show that there has been a progressively more rapid increase in insanity than in population in the United States. There were 40,492 inmates of asylums in 1880; 174,028 in 1890, and 105,151 in 1900, says the Philadelphia Record. These figures, however, may only prove that the States is looking better after those afflicted.

There is certainly a peculiar state of affairs in the hustling town of Welland. That place finds itself in a peculiar position regarding its water works commission. On the date of the municipal elections the ratepayers decided in favor of commission management, and on the same date elected three commissioners to act with the Mayor. The new commission lost no time in getting to work. Arrangements were at once taken for overhauling the system and yesterday paid officials completed the taking of a water census. Now it is discovered that the election of the commissioners is invalid for the reason that a recent amendment provides that two of four commissioners must be elected and not three.

It takes time to do things. Many men do not seem to recognize this point sufficiently. They issue an order and set a time for its completion without due regard to the actual time necessary to do the work. They think of every piece of work they have in hand as of paramount importance, and expect their helpers to "drop everything" when a new order comes. It does not occur to them that there is always a great deal of routine work that is going through without specific orders every day.

Preemptory orders without due regard to the other work in hand, or to the length of time the work would naturally take, or without allowing for reasonable contingencies, tend to disorganise the helpers and to upset all effort at systematic work.

A man who was in the habit of working in this way had occasion to go out and follow a certain piece of work through personally. Before he left the office he estimated that it would take him an hour, and so he made an appointment for 4 o'clock. When he got at the work he found that it took a great deal longer than he had estimated. He had to wait for the car, the elevator, the telephone. He had to send for something and wait till it came. At four o'clock he was not half through, and had to telephone in and cancel the appointment. When he came back he remarked: "It always takes longer to do a job than you think it will."

Generous Gifts for City Poor Fund

J. C. Turnbull Co. and R. C. Brand Donate Substantial Sums

City Relief Officer F. W. Miller, of the Charity Board, has received two handsome donations towards assisting the poor people of Peterborough. This morning he received the following letter, accompanied by a cheque for twenty-five dollars:—

Mr. F. W. Miller, City Relief Officer.

Dear Sir,—We beg to hand you our cheque for $25 for the relief fund. We trust it may in a small measure assist you in relieving the distress of some of the deserving poor of the city.

Yours truly,
J. C. TURNBULL Co.
Per F. J. Might.

Mr. Miller also gratefully acknowledges a cheque for ten dollars from Mr. R. C. Brand.

The thoughtfulness of these citizens in giving money to such a worthy cause is highly appreciated and especially at a time of year when funds are most needed. There is at present a great demand for assistance and the example set by the above persons is worthy of following.

REV. A. H. BRACE AND WORK DONE BY HIM

The Toronto Sunday World says; The sermon to-day, which is simple in its construction, and has the music of the Gospel bells in its tones, is by an old friend of the editor, Rev. A. H. Brace, at present pastor of Park street Baptist church, Peterborough. I knew him twenty-five years ago, when he was superintendent of the Fegan Boys' Home, on George street of this city. Occasionally, especially when a new batch would arrive from England, he used to bring them over to Agnes street church, where we would have them sing in their true English dialect gospel songs as only English boys can sing. The late William Gooderham, "whose works still follow him," was a great friend of Mr. Brace. In addition to a bequest of $10,000 to the Fegan Home, he kindly remembered Mr. Brace in his will in the following words. "To A. H. Brace, as a mark of my regard for him, $1000."

Mr. Brace is a Welshman, was born in Monmouth, Wales in 1845, came to Canada in 1885, and after serving the boys' home for a number of years in the capacity of principal and superintendent, was baptized in the Jarvis street Baptist church in 1889 by the Rev. Dr. Thomas, and offered himself to the Baptist ministry. He has had great success both as a financier and a pastor in the three charges—Cannington, Dunnville and Peterborough—that he has served so faithfully. His work in Dunnville stands as a monument to his zeal and devotion, while his pastorate in Peterborough will perpetuate his labor of love in the erection of a handsome new church edifice. May he continue to have what he is preaching for—"Souls for his hire and seals to his ministry."

CANDIDATES CHOSEN

Cobourg, Jan. 26.—At the largest attended convention in its history, West Northumberland Conservative Association on Saturday selected candidates for the legislature and parliament.

For the commons the nominations were; Eric Armour, Dr. H. C. Elliott, F. M. Field, K.C.; George Guillet, ex-M.p.; D. C. Matheson and Mayor Chas. A. Munson, who is also president of the association. Dr. Elliott and Mr. Field withdrew in favor of Mr. Munson, and on the ballot being taken he was the successful one.

For the legislature Mr. Field was defeated by F. D. Boggs, secretary of of the association, and asked that the nomination be made unanimous.

Both the candidates are old-time Conservatives, and are highly esteemed by all who know them as citizens. Mr. Munson has twice been mayor, the last time by acclamation. Mr. Boggs is a barrister. Both are popular and will make strong candidates.

Addresses were made by Mr. Munson, W. H. Bennett, M.P., W. K. Snider, Conservative organizer; Mr. Field and Mr. Boggs. The hall was crowded to the doors, and the cheering was frequent and hearty.

VALUABLE FIND ON INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY

While travelling on the I.C.R., Mr. Harvey W. Towers, residing at No. 7 St. Paul street, St. John, N.B., made a valuable discovery. Some one had left a small box of Zam-Buk, the great Skin Healer in the car and as Mr. Towers suffered with badly chapped hands, he applied same. To his surprise it healed him rapidly. He says; "It is an excellent remedy, the best I have ever used for chapped hands, cuts, sores or burns, and I would not be without it."

Mr. Towers is only one of many thousands who are glad they heard of Zam-Buk. There is no skin disease it will not relieve and cure. Zam-Buk is everywhere regarded as Nature's Great "First-aid." No traveller should be without it for it is a splendid preventive against Barber's Rash and other skin diseases they are so liable to contract. A little Zam-Buk rubbed regularly on the hands and face before retiring each night will keep the skin soft and free from disease.

Zam-Buk as a healer of skin diseases is without equal. It cures ulcers, festering sores, ringworm, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, boils, eczema, piles, rheumatism, etc.

Sold by all Druggists and stores at fifty cents a box, or post-paid from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Will Not Lower Price of Coal

No Reduction on April 1, as Formerly — Mining is More Expensive

New York, Jan. 27.—Anthracite coal interests according to the Times this morning are considering the maintenance of anthracite coal at present prices instead of following the custom of recent years and reducing the rates by 50 cents a ton on April 1. An official of one of the anthracite coal roads is quoted as saying that while the plan of reducing the price of coal on April 1, and advancing it ten cents per ton for five months following was intended to distribute the production and marketing of coal as nearly as possible over the entire year it has not had that effect.

Buyers it was said, hold back their orders after the first of the year and then enter the market with a rush on April 1.

"Moreover," the official is quoted as saying: "Quite apart from this consideration, it is true that the mining of coal is becoming more expensive from year to year and has reached a point where perhaps the coal roads would be justified in abandoning the reduction in price which has customarily been made on April 1, and in maintaining coal at one price throughout the year."

The Methodists of Mount Pleasant

Celebrated Their Anniversary—Other Notes From the Village

Mount Pleasant, Jan. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elliott, who have been visiting their friends here, left for their home in North Dakota last Monday.

The anniversary services of the Methodist Sabbath school, were held on the 19th inst. The Rev. Mr. Coon preached very acceptable sermons. On the Friday following an "At Home" was held in the Temperance hall, where refreshments were served and a programme given. Congratulations are due to all who furthered the excellent results of so pleasing a feature.

The home of Mr. Jas. H. Best was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, when his daughter, Miss Addie, was married to Mr. Everett Hayes, of Omemee. The happy young couple will reside in Omemee, accompanied by the sincerest good wishes of their many friends for a pleasant and prosperous future.

Master Percy Brown, of the Peterborough Business College, is home for a few days.

Another wedding took place on the 22nd inst. in our suburbs. The contracting parties were Miss Brown and Mr. Elmer Jones. We extend our wishes for much joy and congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

We regret to learn that Mr. Tom Boyd of Peterborough, an old Mount Pleasant boy, is dangerously indisposed. We fervently hope that he will soon be restored to his usual health.

Master Jim Fee is pursuing a course of study at the Omemee High school.

The country roads are in very fair condition and swamping is first class.

Thursday night Old Probs. almost punctured our frost proof cover! The drop was the lowest of the season and many thermometers were minus their mercury for a few hours. Houses and cellars supposed to be impregnable, were visited by the frost king. We can excuse a recurrence for the remainder of the season. Thanks, yes we've had sufficient!

Mercury Pretty Nearly Got Out at Bottom of Glass

Coldest Day of the Season Makes People Hustle to Work—Hard Weather on Coal.

Peterborough hustled to work this morning holding its ears and rubbing its hands. The city was up against the coldest day of the year, and furnaces were rushed with a heroic disregard for the high price of coal while furs were in great demand. It was a case of doing everything and anything to keep warm, and fairly successful were the resisters of Jack Frost, for while here and there a frost-nipped nose or ear cried out against the cruelty of the weather man no one was found frozen in his tracks or beside the hot air register.

It was easily the coldest day of the year, and anyone who failed to comment on this fact showed a sorry lack of habit and tradition.

The local government thermometer registered 13 degrees below zero last night, and this morning, just as the sun was trying to rouse itself east, the mercury went a notch lower and stood at fourteen. For the greater part of the morning the glass stood around ten, and at noon had managed to crawl up to eight and was located there when last seen.

GRAND OPERA POSTPONED

The management of the Grand Opera House regret to state that owing to unforseen circumstances the production by the Van Den Berg Opera Company which was to have been held on Saturday has had to be postponed until about the middle of February. The date will be announced later.

Committees for the Year; House of Refuge Report

County Council Gets Down to Business—Mr. Brown is Chairman of Roads and Bridges Committee—How House of Refuge is Being Conducted.

The County Council met in regular session this morning with Warden Thomson in the chair. The first business taken up was the reception of the report from the committee appointed to strike the standing committees for the year. It was presented by the chairman, Mr. C. R. D. Booth, and was as follows:—

Your committee recommends that the Standing Committees for the year 1908, be as follows:—

County Property.—Messrs. Porter, Breault, Moloney, Darling, Scott, Moore, Killen, Hales, and Brown, and that Mr. Porter be Chairman.

Appointments.—Messrs. Scott, Ingram, Hales, Darling, Coben, Booth, Fife and Graham, and that Mr. Scott be chairman.

Roads and Bridges.—All the members of the Council and that Mr. Brown be chairman.

Schools.—Messrs. Killen, Russell, Booth, Darling, Ingram, Hales, Graham and Oakman, and that Mr. Killen be chairman.

Petitions.—Messrs. Fife, Killen, Booth, Porter, Coben, Moore, Russell and Oakman, and that Mr. Fife be chairman.

Printing.—Messrs. Moloney, Fife, Coben, Ingram, Breault and Oakman, Brown, Scott and Graham, and that Mr. Moloney be chairman.

Finance.—All the members of the Council, and that Mr. Breault be chairman.

Equalization and Assessment.—All the members of the Council, and that Mr. Moore be chairman.

Joint Committee.—Messrs. Darling, Brown, Porter, Scott, Moore, Breault, Moloney and Russel, and that Mr. Darling be chairman.

The report was adopted on motion and the committee for the year will therefore be as indicated above.

HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Councillor Scott presented the first annual report of the Board of Management of the House of Refuge for 1907. It was as follows:—

We the Board of Management of the House of Refuge for the year 1907, submit to you this first annual report:

There were admitted to the institution during 1907, twenty-eight inmates from the following municipalities:—Otonabee, 6; Smith, 4; Dummer, 4; Belmont, 4; Harvey, 2; Lakefield, 2; Norwood, 2; Ennismore, 1; Chandos, 1; Galway, 1; Douro, 1. Total, 28. The number of females was 12 and males 16.

The causes assigned for indigence are various, and not necessary to classify, all being in the estimation of the Board, worthy of protection, and care in the said institution.

In accordance with the provisions of the rules and regulations of the institution we checked the inventry of the personal property belonging to the institution, and valued the amount of the produce, etc., on hand. There is one inmate whom we are informed has some personal estate, and the county solicitor in accordance with the act is now looking into the matter.

The following is a statement of the capital expenditure and receipts from the inception of the movement;

Deb. issue $30,000, proceeds 1906	$29,214.00
Deb. issue $2,000, proceeds, 1907	1,950.00
Government grant	4,000.00
Rent from dairy 10 mos, 1906	166.65
Current money used for 1907	991.75
	$36,323.40

EXPENDITURE.

Expended in 1906	$23,812.38
Expended in 1907	11,218.32
Expended in 1907 out of current money	508.71
Liability provided for 1907	692.99
	$36,323.40

An abstract statement for the year 1907 will be read to you from the treasurer's financial statement, which is not necessary to bring in here.

This being the initial year, is not a year to draw inference of the annual cost of institution from, the fact that feed and stock, etc., had to be purchased, together with other expenses, the amount, of course, is somewhat abnormal.

We have always advised and urged that God's old poor be kindly treated and properly cared for and in so far as we have been able to see such is the case.

We would recommend that a stock book and furnishing book be provided, so that the superintendent and matron could keep correct records in the respective departments.

R. N. SCOTT,
Chairman.
P. McNULTY.

The report was adopted on motion. After hearing the reports of the school inspectors, the council went into committee.

PROBABILITIES

Health of Canadian Women

A Subject Much Discussed At Women's Clubs—The Future of a Country Depends on the Health of Its Women.

Miss Helena Mc Kinnon
Mrs. Anna McKay

At the New York State Assembly of Mothers a prominent New York doctor told the 500 women present that healthy women were so rare as to be almost extinct.

This seems to be a sweeping statement of the condition of women. Yet how many do you know who are perfectly well and do not have some trouble arising from a derangement of the female organism which manifests itself in headaches, backaches, nervousness, that bearing-down feeling, painful or irregular periods, pelvic catarrh, displacement of the female organs, indigestion or sleeplessness? There is a tried and true remedy for all these ailments. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored more Canadian women to health than all other remedies in the world. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been curing the worst forms of female complaints.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing.

Mrs. Anna McKay of 326 Spadina Avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Being a mother of five children, I had had experience with the general troubles of my sex. I was lacerated when one of my children was born, and from that hour I date all of my afflictions. I found that within a few months my health was impaired, I had female weakness and serious inflammation. I became weak and dizzy, but kept on my feet, dragging through my work without life or pleasure. A neighbor who had been helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound insisted that I take at least one bottle. I did so and felt so much better that I kept on the treatment and it made me a strong and well woman. The few dollars I spent for the medicine cannot begin to pay what it was worth to me."

Miss Helena McKinnon of Sand Bay, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the best medicine in the world for a woman sick and weak from exhaustion, irregularities and overwork. I have found from personal experience that it is all and more than it is recommended to be. I only wish that every sick woman would try it, for it cured me of suppressed periods and irregularity, and has cured many of my friends of the same difficulty, in fact all who have used it have nothing but good to say of its efficacy. Please accept a grateful woman's thanks for all it has accomplished in my case."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, pelvic catarrh, displacements, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating, (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. No other medicine in the world has received such unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds where Others Fail.

Flaw in the Japan Treaty; Discussion in the Commons

Canada Gives Right to Regulate That Should Be Ours.

Control of Immigration—No Provision Was Inserted In British Treaty—Leader of the Opposition Shows That Liberal Government Has Failed to Protect Canada's Interest Against Influx of Orientals.

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—In a lengthy contribution to the discussion on the Oriental immigration question, R. L. Borden yesterday afternoon declared that the Government had absolutely disregarded the warnings of the Secretary of the British colonies to secure a protocol to the British Japanese treaty on the lines of Queensland, which would retain the control of the immigration of laborers from Japan.

Mr. Borden said: The Postmaster-General, in giving an account of his mission to Japan, had taken occasion to justify the good faith of that Government, and with his remarks in that regard he was bound to concur. The Government of Japan was not asked to accompany the treaty with any stipulation which would leave the control of the immigration in the hands of the Government of the Dominion. The Government of Canada asked Japan to conclude that convention without reserve, giving full liberty to citizens of Japan to enter and travel in this country.

Mr. Lemieux had spoken of assurances given by the Government of Japan regarding the prohibition of emigration, and had declared that the tacit understanding on that point had been absolutely and freely carried out in good faith by that Government. Having regard to the events of the past year, Mr. Borden declared that in justifying that action of Japan Mr. Lemieux had condemned the Government.

Had it not been for whole-hearted support of the British Government and British ambassador at Tokio continued Mr. Borden, the mission of Mr. Lemieux would have been an absolute failure. This circumstances was rather an amusing commentary upon the gentlemen who occupied the treasury benches, who had boasted that there had been a departure in respect to negotiations of treaties by the Government of Canada alone. The course of the Postmaster-General was the correct one. Having got this country into a serious difficulty he was compelled to invoke the assistance of the British Government in getting out of it, and any success which attended his mission was due in a large measure to the Home authorities.

United States' Wise Policy.

The United States had reserved the right to control emigration to her shores. The British treaty, however, contained no such stipulation, because the same difficulty which confronted the United States in respect to the unrestricted immigration of Japanese was not present in respect to Great Britain.

Mr. Borden referred to the correspondence with respect to the ratification to treaty, and showed that Canada had been warned by the British authorities of the necessity of Canada restricting, suspending or prohibiting the immigration of Japanese. It was urged that there should be a protocol inserted retaining control over the immigration, similar to that inserted in the United States treaty.

Mr. Borden proceeded to show that in 1894 treaties were negotiated by Japan with various countries, including Great Britain. That treaty did not bind the self-governing colonies, but by article 19 it was competent for any of them to accede to it, and to be bound by its terms. The United States reserved to itself the right to control the emigration of laborers from Japan, but the British treaty contained no such provision, because the possible danger which confronted the United States did not confront Great Britain.

Mr. Borden referred to an order-in-council passed by the Conservative Government of that day (on Aug. 3, 1895), which stated the desire of the Canadian Government to insert a stipulation with regard to immigration similar to that inserted in the United States treaty and a further definition of word laborer by adding the words "including artisans."

On Feb. 7, 1896, the Japanese Government acceded to that request, except so far as the word artisans was concerned, and a draft protocol was then agreed upon between Britain and Japan, embodying terms to which Japan would give consent.

The Colonial Secretary, continued Mr. Borden, had before him the attitude of this Government in 1895, that the Canadian Government would restrict Japanese immigration to Canada, and he had the consent of Japan to the insertion of a protocol containing an express provision restricting immigrations, and he addressed a despatch to the Governor-General on July 14, 1905, pressing upon this.

On July 15, 1896, after the change of Government, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain asked the Canadian Government if it was willing to adhere to a treaty on the terms agreed to by Japan, and Sir Richard Cartwright reported to council against adhesion on the grounds that there would be complications in respect to the question of the favored-nation treatment.

On Sept. 18, 1896, Mr. Chamberlain informed the Government that Queensland had refused to adhere except with limitations in regard to laborers and artisans, and in October, 1897, the British ambassador at Tokio reported to the British Government that Japan agreed to the terms stipulated by Queensland.

Assurance Not Great.

Coming to the letter of Foreign Minister Hayashi written to Mr. Lemieux at Tokio on Dec. 23, Mr. Borden observed that while it was a polite and courteous letter, it gave no great assurance to Canada. Why should "special conditions in Canada," which should be the case of the Parliament of Canada, be subject to appeal from this Government to the Government of Japan? asked Mr. Borden. Yet that was the position to which the affairs of this country had been brought by the acceptance of the treaty without the proviso.

Japan also undertook to give "careful consideration to local conditions in Canada," which rather should be the function of the Canadian Government. So, too, Japan retained control of emigration to Canada, and the only remedy outside of denunciation of the treaty would be an appeal to Japan by the Canadian Government. There might be a new Government in Japan at any time, which would sweep all present regulations. Japan's previous assurances had proved of no avail to prevent an influx of her people.

Mr. Borden was willing, as Mr. Lemieux had suggested, to give the arrangement a fair trial, and he hoped that the assurances given by Japan would result as satisfactorily as Mr. Lemieux had hoped it would. That, however, did not alter the situation, nor did it affect the principle involved, the principle for which we ought to stand, namely, that Canada should not enter into any treaty engagement which would prevent our control of immigration to the country.

Mr. Borden concluded by movng his amendment.

B. C. Wants Restriction.

Mr. Gallagher (Liberal, Kootenay) impressed upon the House the necessity of British Columbia being maintained as a white man's country. Without minimizing the importance of the commercial advantages of the treaty with Japan, the flooding of British Columbia with Orientals would be too great a price to pay for those advantages. The closer the restriction of the immigration the better pleased would the people be.

Edmund Bristol (Con., Toronto) pointed to the spectacle of the British Columbia members trying to square themselves with the Government that sacrificed the rights of the people of that province and of all Canada, namely, the right to control immigration. He would like to know what reason existed in 1897 that did not exist in 1907, why Japan would agree to our restricting immigration. Not only had the Government the record of negotiations of 1907, and in 1900 the people of British Columbia had protested against the influx of Japanese, yet disregarding the warnings, the Government neglected to include in the new treaty stipulations to which Japan had already expressed her willingness to agree. It was patent, therefore, that the Government was derelict in its duty, not only to the people of British Columbia, but to the people of the whole of Canada.

W. F. Cockshutt (Brantford) gave credit to Mr. Kennedy (New Westminster) for warning Parliament of the danger of ratifying the treaty. He was willing to assume his share of responsibility for the action of Parliament. The treaty was not worth the small amount of trade we get from Japan. He believed that if we could improve conditions of the past few months we should go the length of giving notice of abrogation.

The Prime Minister.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier followed. He said he welcomed both the speech and resolution of Mr. Borden's, because they drew distinctly the line of cleavage between the policies of the two parties. There was no difference between the parties as to the object sought. The difference lay in the method. The Opposition would accomplish the object by hostile legislation and with a friendly power; the Government would secure it by the friendly action of the Japanese themselves. Sir Wilfrid then went on to speak of the inherent race antagonism between the Caucasian and Mongolian and the well-grounded apprehension of British Columbia that an influx of Asiatics might upset the balance of power. This problem had been before a succession of Governments ever since British Columbia came into Confederation, and the difficulty of the problem had been tenfold intensified by the sudden rise of Japan to the position of a first-class power.

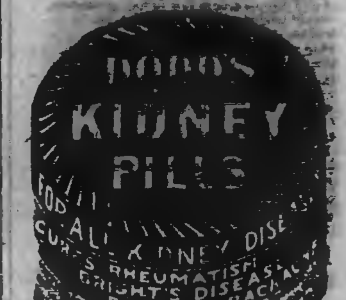
The offensive and defensive treaty between England and Japan followed under that treaty it was possible, should unfortunately a war occur, the British and Japanese fleets might be seen acting in concert in the North Pacific, indeed the spectacle might be presented of a Japanese fleet weighing anchor in Vancouver harbor to go to the defence of the British interest owing to this alliance.

The Dominion Government had refused to assent to the Natal Act passed by British Columbia, recognizing that it would be a slap in the face to Japan. Instead the Government negotiated with Mr. Nosse, consul-general of Japan at Ottawa, to secure restriction of Japanese immigration by the Government at Tokio, with the result that between 1903 and 1906 there was scarcely any immigration from Japan to British Columbia.

Canada, without a restriction clause in the treaty with Japan, was in a better position than the United States with such a clause in their treaty.

At midnight Hon. Sydney Fisher continued the debate. Dr. Sproule, Armand Lavergne and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Mr. Herron and Mr. Sloan also spoke.

The Borden amendment was defeated by straight party vote of 109 to 35.



Dogs Her Mourners.

Florence, Jan. 29.—The funeral of "Ouida" was a most pitiful epilogue to her pitiful end. She died amid squalor and poverty and her body was followed to the grave only by a dozen dogs she had starved herself to feed, and her faithful maid, to whom she left her last manuscripts. The body was buried in the English cemetery at Bagni Di Lucca, and the spot is marked only by a wooden cross.

YOUTH'S BRUTAL CRIME

Canadian Lad Killed Aged Woman in Detroit.

Percy Boyne Confesses Murder to the Police—Kicked His Victim to Death—Dragged the Body In Bedroom—Stole Her Jewelery and Ransacked the House—Afterwards Escaped to Buffalo.

Detroit, Jan. 29.—Percy Boyne, a youth of Woodville, Ont., last night confessed to murdering Mrs. Cornelia Welch, who was found dead in her home in this city on Jan. 7. Boyne was arrested in Woodville on Jan. 17, and brought to Detroit, where he was locked up. Since then the police have been giving him sessions in the sweatbox daily, but it was not until yesterday afternoon, that he showed any signs of weakening.

Boyne says he beat Mrs. Welch with his fist until she was unconscious, and then he kicked her on the face and head until she was dead. Then he dragged her body into her bedroom and tied her hands and feet, tore her diamond earrings out of her ears, ransacked the house, stole $14 in money and escaped.

He went to Buaflo, where he sold the earrings, and then went to his home in Woodville, where he was arrested.

Although Mrs Welch was murdered, according to Boyne's confession, on Jan. 3, her body was not found until Jan. 7.

HUGE MASTIFF ATTACKS BOY.

Bit Off His Hand and Inflicted Other Serious Wounds.

Quebec, Jan. 29.—In full view of perhaps a dozen spectators, a 10-year-old boy named Ernest Larose was attacked and fearfully lacerated by a huge mastiff at the Palais in this city about 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The unfortunate youth is in a very critical state, and at noon was still insensible. That he was not killed outright was due to the owner of the enraged canine rushing to the rescue himself and battering the brute's head with a stick of wood, which he took from a sleigh in which he was driving, until the dog was rendered unconscious. It was ultimately slain.

The boy, who lay bleeding from several serious wounds, one of his hands having been completely bitten off, was removed to the hospital, where the physicians set to work upon him.

The owner of the dog, who is a farmer from one of the lower parishes, claimed that the boy made a kick at the brute while he was passing, and that this provoked the attack.

Loss of the Baden-Powell.

London, Jan. 29.—Nineteen Nova Scotia sealers from the schooner Baden-Powell landed at Liverpool. They left Nova Scotia Sept. 6, 1907, for the South Shetlands, where they were wrecked. The crew rowed to Peeble Island, 70 miles, where they remained three weeks, enduring great privation, then they were observed by a schooner, which conveyed them to the Falklands, thence they went to Montevideo. Four men married and settled down in the Falklands.

Prof. Osler has been appointed to the council of the National Association for the Prevention of Consumption.

Mrs. Parish May Die.

Glencoe, Jan. 29.—Mrs. Solomon Parish, the lady so seriously injured while in company with her husband, who was killed while crossing the track at the Kingscourt branch of the G. T. R., lies in a very serious condition. Yesterday morning she was unconscious, and only regained consciousness sufficiently long to speak a few words, and again relapsed. Very little hope is entertained for her recovery. It has been decided to hold an inquest—presumably at Glencoe.

British Premier's Health.

London, Jan. 29.—The condition of the Premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, was improved yesterday, and he was able to preside at a meeting of the Cabinet council. He gave a banquet last night to his followers, as is customary on the eve of the reassembling of Parliament, but he did not risk attending the reception given by Lady Beauchamp in his behalf. He will still observe all precautions, but it is expected that he will be present at the state opening of Parliament.

Tokio Hears the News.

Tokio, Jan. 29.—(C. A. P.)—Count Hayashi announced yesterday that the Canadian immigration question had been definitely settled, Japan agreeing to emigration restricted within reasonable limits, which he defined in the memorandum. They, however, conceded no treaty rights and their prestige has not suffered.

Foundered at Sea.

Honolulu, Jan. 29.—The American ship Eclipse, laden with coal, Capt. G. B. Larsen, and bound from Newcastle, Australia, for San Francisco, foundered on Jan. 11 in latitude 36 north and longitude 155 west. All the members of the crew took to the boats. Three men died of exhaustion before reaching land.

A Confession of Murder.

Detroit, Jan. 29.—Captain of Detectives McDonell says that Percy Boyne, the 18-year-old boy brought back to Detroit from Woodville, Ont., has made statements, yesterday, which the police believe are a practical confession of the murder by him of Mrs. Welch.

Chicago's Coxey Freed.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Dr. Benjamin L. Reitman, who led the march of the "unemployed" last Thursday, was yesterday acquitted of the charge of disorderly conduct preferred against him by the police.

Scarcity of Teachers Proves Drawback to County Schools

Inspector Lees and Brown Present Their Reports to County Council—Schools Have Been Greatly Improved During Year—Norwood Model School Should be Maintained.

The reports of County School Inspectors Lees and Brown were presented at this morning's session of County Council. Both reports showed considerable progress in the schools of the county during the past year, although the inspectors state that there is room for much more improvement. The reports were received, on motion. Mr. Lees' report is published today, and Mr. Brown's will appear tomorrow;

To the Warden and Council of the County of Peterborough;

Gentlemen,—I beg to present my report for the fall term of 1907. During that term I visited the schools of the eastern division of the county, making seventy visits, including three to the County Model School at Norwood. Four schools I found closed on account of inability to get teachers. These were Nos. 10 and 11, Methuen, 14, Belmont and the south school in No. 2, Anstruther. No. 10 Methuen, and 2, Anstruther, subsequently secured teachers.

Of the 51 teachers employed in the rural schools, nine held second class, 15 third class, 5 extended third, 8 district, and 10 temporary certificates. Of these 51 teachers, only 17 were in the same positions at the time of my visit a year previous, and of these four have since changed.

Under such circumstances, it is unnecessary for me to say that the schools are not in a satisfactory condition. Frequent changes of teachers, and irregularity of attendance on the part of the pupils are the most serious obstacles to satisfactory progress that we have to contend with.

Great difficulty was experienced in getting teachers, especially at midsummer. At the time of the opening of the fall term, there were 13 schools in the county without teachers, some of which remained vacant for the whole term. The graduation of a large class from the model school relieved the situation, at the beginning of this year, but there is likely to be a similar scarcity next summer, so that trustees requiring teachers then, would do well to take action early.

For last year, a change was introduced in the mode of distribution of the legislative and county grants, and the former was greatly increased. The grants received by the county for the past two years are as follows;

	1906.
General grant	$ 2095.00
Special grant	1062.00
Continuation schools	322.50
Libraries	20.00
Assisted schools	940.00
	$ 4439.50

	1907.
General grant	$ 6330.80
Special grant	1100.86
Continuation schools	500.00
Libraries	129.24
Assisted schools	405.00
	$8465.90

The grants to the village schools are paid directly to the treasurers of school boards, and are not included in this, except the grant for continuation work.

The general grant was based on the salary and qualification of the teacher. The special grant, which was about equal to half the total grant previous to 1906, was distributed on the basis of accommodation and equipment. To this grant the county pays an equivalent, making it equal to the whole of the old grant.

The sums received from this by the different schools varied very much. The highest sum paid to a one roomed school was 84.90, which went to No. 1, Asphodel, Westwood, and the lowest was $11.55. I understand that it is the intention of the Government to materially increase this grant for the present year, if the funds at the disposal of the Department of Education will permit.

The payment of the grants for 1907 was made conditional on the fulfilment of certain requirements in regard to equipment. Some of the schools have been slow in meeting these conditions, chiefly owing to an imperfect understanding of the matter. However, at the present time, there are only six of the ninety-seven sections in the county, that have not conformed to the regulations, and some of these have the matter under consideration, and will fall into line as soon as they have things a little more fully explained.

During the past season a great deal was done in the way of improving school premises. In a number of sections, the grounds have been enlarged, new out-buildings have been erected, or old ones repaired. Several schools have been more or less thoroughly repaired and cleaned up. Of these special mention must be made of No. 1 Asphodel, where the work was most thoroughly done, and an efficient ventilating system installed. The building there is now comfortable and healthy for the children and a credit to the section. While much has been done in this line, there is yet room for improvement, and I have no doubt but the coming season will see further progress in this direction.

The beautiful new school in section No. 6 Asphodel, was opened in December, and is fully up to the expectations of the people there, who are justly proud of it. An addition has been built to No. 2 North Monaghan. The new building is modern in design, well built and will prove an exceedingly bright and comfortable class room. A number of other sections are contemplating building, and the probability is that during the next few years several schools will abandon their old buildings for new ones of more modern type.

Great progress was made during the year in the matter of equipment. About $1,500 was spent in the purchase of libraries. There are only five schools in the county that have not made a beginning in the establishment of a school library. The books have been chosen with a view to their educational value, and will prove of much benefit to the schools. The best and most progressive teachers all over the county, report that they are in constant use and are a great help.

The continuation schools still continue to do excellent work. The attendance has largely increased at Havelock and Ennismore, and both schools have been raised to the rank of Grade A. Much credit is due to the School Board of Havelock for the enterprise they have shown in this matter under the circumstances in which they were placed as regards school accommodation.

During the fall term, I had the honor of addressing several public meetings of ratepayers and others, on the new regulations and other educational questions. I think these meetings resulted in benefit both to those who attended and myself. The only regrettable thing about them is that so few of those who might attend, and who ought to be interested, think it worth while to attend any meeting which is concerned with the schools. It is my intention to continue these meetings during the present half year as opportunity offers.

A class of 39 students attended the Model school, all of whom were successful at the final examination. There will not be another session of the Model schools as at present constituted, but a number of them will be retained in a recognized form. There will be one for the district of which Peterborough constitutes an important part. A deputation waited on the Minister of Education on January 3rd, with a view to having that school located at Norwood. The deputation were given a cordial reception and a patient hearing, and were assured that when the question came to be decided, the claims of Norwood and the County of Peterborough, would receive full consideration. I commend this matter to your consideration, with the assurance that anything that you can do, individually or as a body, to secure the continuance of the Model school at Norwood, will be in the interests of educational progress in the county.

I have the honor to be,
Your Obedient Servant,
RICHARD LEES.

"A Trip to Coontown"

A festival of fun and color was provided at the street railway company's carnival at the rink at Jackson Park last night, when two hundred people attended the attraction there. There were costumes innumerable, costumes indescribable, costumes beautiful, costumes ridiculous. In spite of the inclement weather there were in the neighborhood of 2,500 people present, and the gay spectacle afforded splendid entertainment for the large concourse of spectators. The scene presented as the merry skaters encircled the ice, which was in perfect condition, was a dazzling one, and the variety of garb and character representations surpassed that presented at a mammoth circus. A portion of the 57th Regimental band was on hand, and lively strains of music lent impetus to the skaters and also gave an added charm to the carnival from the standpoint of the big audience. A huge fire lighted in the park about a hundred yards from the rink added an almost unnecessary illumination, and though somewhat distant, had a cheerful effect on those who had assembled to watch the carnival.

About every character imaginable was represented, coons, jockeys, Indians, fairies, queens, etc., all doing the giddy whirl in a bewildering galaxy of the beautiful and ludicrous. The judges for the occasion, His Worship Mayor Rush and Mrs. Rush, certainly had a difficult task in selecting those worthy of the awards, but their selections were unanimously regarded by the spectators as most happy. It was only after watching the "entries" for a great length of time, however, that they felt justified in making their decisions. Owing to the lack of facilities for securing the names of those who competed for the prizes, the Review is unfortunately unable to publish those of any except the prize winners. A partial list was secured, but it was deemed inadvisable to print them on account of the full list not being obtained.

Although not a part of the prearranged programme it would hardly be in keeping with the general tone of amusement not to mention a permanent feature of the street railway's amusement resort — the toboggan slide. The slide is always liberally patronized, but last night it did a record breaking business. Hundreds who seemed to have no particular interest in the event of the evening flocked there with their toboggans or else rented them at the park congregated to enjoy the exhilirating sport of tobogganing. There was a veritable congestion at the top of the slide as the tobogganists awaited their turn to go down the icy slopes. The devotees of this pastime that has taken such a strong hold in Peterborough, made their circuitous routes until late in the evening.

THE STREET CAR SERVICE.

There were seven cars on a six-minute service run to the park last night and they were crowded to overflowing both coming and going. It was a motley throng of carnival characters and plain citizens that filled the cars and while the time made by the trolleys was not as fast as that made under ordinary circumstances, the service nevertheless was prompt and satisfactory and the officials of the company and their employees deserve credit for the satisfactory way in which they handled the throngs who boarded the cars.

WEATHER FAVORABLE.

Despite the fact that it had been snowing all day the weather conditions were most favorable for the carnival and the ice was in splendid shape. A gang of men had been employed to shovel the snow off and thanks to their industrious efforts a clean sheet greeted the skaters when they stepped on the rink. Owing to the long grind it naturally became a little cut up towards the end of the carnival, but was in a condition that made the evening a pleasant one for the skaters.

Conserving Trent Waters Pleases Board of Trade

The Board of Trade of the City of Peterborough is well satisfied with the work the Dominion Government is doing in conserving the waters of the Trent Canal and rivers and lakes in connection therewith. At the meeting of the Board last night a resolution expressing this satisfaction was passed. The resolution also expresses the hope that the Government may continue the good work along this line.

The resolution was as follows:— Moved by Mr. D. W. Dumble, seconded by Mr. W. H. Moore,—That the members of the Board of Trade in the City of Peterborough desires to place on record their sincere appreciation of the manner in which the water in the Trent Canal above Peterborough, has been regulated and conserved under the direction of the capable Deputy Minister and Chief Engineer, Mr. M. J. Butler, C.E., affording as it has a regular flow at all times during the year, thereby enabling the various companies to supply electrical energy to the manufacturers in such a satisfactory manner as to enable them to operate their factories and mills without interruption for want of power.

We also approve of the policy of the Department in building new dams and reserving old dams on the Gull river, Burnt river, Mississauga creek, and other tributary waters recently taken over from the Ontario Government by the Dominion Government, and we hope that it may be the determination of the Government to continue this satisfactory policy on conserving the waters.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

Messrs. D. W. Dumble, W. H. Moore and J. Coyle Brown spoke briefly in connection with the motion, expressing strong favor of it.

Hopeful at "Hazel Brae" That Improvements Will be Made

"Ups and Downs" Has Interesting Article on Present Situation in Peterborough—Some Changes of Recent Happening.

The January quarterly number of "Ups and Downs," which is published under the auspices of Dr. Barnardo's Canadian Homes, contains the following from the Girl's Department:

Rumors, reports, fears and expectations, notwithstanding, we are still in Hazel Brae, and, as far as we can foresee, there to stay. The much desired — indeed, urgently necessary — alterations and improvements are still to be made, but we have good reason to believe that arrangements will shortly be arrived at by which the present difficulties will be met. In the meantime it has been a very great gratification to us—indeed, we must acknowledge, a very agreeable surprise—to find to what an extent our work has won the interest and esteem of the citizens of Peterborough. We confess that we had altogether under-rated the kindly feeling with which the institution is regarded, and which the announcement of our possible withdrawal served to call forth. We can scarcely claim, that commercially, we are an important asset to the town, and probably a factory erected on the site of "Hazel Brae" would result in a larger expenditure of money. Nevertheless, from the Mayor down, we have found most kind and active allies, and the desire that we should remain at Peterborough has been expressed with no uncertain sound. Mayor McWilliams, Dr. Morrison, the president of the Board of Trade, several of the principal merchants, the editors of the leading papers have interested themselves in our behalf, and if we had been obliged to leave we should have had the satisfaction of knowing that it would be with the regret of almost all of those amongst whom the work has grown up. Incidentally we have also learned what we were not previously aware of, that the establishment of "Hazel Brae" as a receiving and distributing home was the direct outcome of a little meeting for consultation and prayer over the needs of orphaned and neglected children, between the late Mrs. George A. Cox, Mrs. General Haultain and a few other friends of like spirit. It was shortly after, and as a result of this meeting, that Mr. George A. Cox, now Senator, purchased "Hazel Brae," and gave the lease of it to Dr. Barnardo, for the purposes of his work. When we recall the thousands to whom "Hazel Brae" has been the gateway of happy, useful lives and bright prospects in Canada, we can truly say that those prayers have been answered in the past, and, we can believe, will be past, and, we can believe, will be still more abundantly answered in the future.

We are sure that all who knew her in any capacity will be sorry to hear that, after nearly forty years' connection with Dr. Barnardo's work, Mrs. Charles Owen has been compelled by advancing years to relinquish her post. We shall miss her greatly, and are all much the poorer for the loss to the work of her remarkable spiritual, intellectual and physical activity. She has taken to her well earned retirement the affectionate and grateful esteem of all who have been associated with her in the past.

Our new visitor, Mrs. Bayley, is the sister of Mrs. Moore, formerly matron of Leopold House. Mrs. Bayley is thus no stranger to the work, while as ship matron to the boys on one or two exceptionally "dirty" passages we have given her a breaking in that should have taught her to think lightly of any of the discomforts of the "road." It will be, at any rate, no figure of speech to Mrs. Bayley, in whatever hardships or privations she may have to encounter on land, to be told that there are "worse things at sea." So far, we have every reason to believe, that she is possessed of the happy combination of judgment, power of observation and kindly sympathy that the visiting work demands from those engaged in it. We hope our girls will make friends with Mrs. Bayley whenever they meet her, and let her be a friend to them.

mary duty in preventing a dual membership of the two Boards, occurred some years ago. The result was not at all satisfactory, and will serve to make plain how injudicious it would be to permit it again. I therefore humbly suggest that provision be made to meet this desirable situation, as the law is silent on the subject.

It will be noticed that in this paper most attention has been devoted to home affairs, accounted for by the fact that the writer is more conversant with them, and because of the extreme difficulty of procuring information on the special subject under consideration, as applied to larger affairs, of which little experience has yet been had, or practical wisdom gained. The subject is debated at intervals, and occasionally with just cause when ratepayers are in a grumbling mood, often from interested motives, or want of knowledge of the real or fancied neglect, extravagance, imprudence, or whatever it may be, or seem to be, that is charged against Councils. At such periods there comes the assertion that the existing order of things must be ended or mended. Confident prediction may, notwithstanding, be safely made, that the abolishment of municipal Councils, elected by popular voice, will not occur in this era. Agitations, when conducted with moderation, will ever be productive of good. Public discussion of events is always profitable, and when persisted in intelligently, remedy is sure to be found for existing grievances. Without changing the mode of electing Councils, it is humanly certain that at no distant date there will be discovered a means of making them more adequate to the large responsibilities cast upon them. For the prevailing complaints as to the composition of Councils, the people at large are alone answerable, yet this body has never been wholly bad, as it will never be wholly good, in all its parts, the predominating quality, being, however, almost always representative of the people, and this year's occupy that desirable position. The members of our Council may err, that is human, but if they do, they err honestly. Ratepayers should be deeply grateful that twelve good men can be found who are willing to give such practical proof of worthy citizenship as to serve without reward in the interests of 16,000 fellow citizens.

Experience gained in performance of duty is vital to wise execution of office, and continuity of purpose and design in the carrying out of public works can only be assured by a lengthening of the term of service for aldermen. The relation of mayor and aldermen to the ratepayers corresponds most strikingly to that of manager and directors of an incorporated company to the shareholders. These directors are invariably compensated for their labour, and no person can advance one valid reason why aldermen should not be indemnified in their sacrifice of time, for the general good, to say nothing of unjust censure they have to bear, too frequently indulged in, and proceeding mostly from those who refuse to accept office or serve the city in any capacity.

Three reforms are urgently needed and should be demanded from the Legislature: First, the number of aldermen reduced; second, the term of office lengthened to three years (the same as Water Commissioners) to assure a continuance of policy, free from the oscillation that has too frequently marked and marred the conduct of Councils in the past; and third, reasonable remuneration for services. Agitation must be continued for amendment of the law in these respects, and when they are attained, as attained they will be, the labours of municipal bodies will be attended with vastly improved results.

SOME DISCUSSION.

The reading of the paper was followed by an interesting and profitable discussion. Mr. D. W. Dumble said the present system of municipal government in Peterborough could be improved. He saw no reason why the city's business should not be conducted on the same basis as that of a private business man or company. Mr. Moore's paper, he said, opened up in many avenues of thought.

Rev. Canon Davidson said he believed an improvement could be effected in the municipal government of corporations by the council employing a municipal expert who would be paid a good salary and held responsible for the work.

City Clerk Armstrong said that perhaps the best solution of the problem of civic government would be to have a council and a commission, the former to look after the legislative and the latter the administrative part of the city's business.

Ald. Johnston said that the aldermen at present got mighty little thanks for the work they did. This was not very encouraging or likely to make a man more zealous in the city's interests.

Among others who delivered short and excellent speeches on the subject under discussion were, Rev. J. R. Webb, Rev. J. G. Potter, F. R. Yokome, H. R. H. Kenner, J. C. Brown, and A. Stevenson. Mr. Yokome brought in the resolution regarding the Board of Works, and Mr. Dumble the motion regarding fewer councillors and a two-year term of office.

Major Langford wanted to know of what use was the City Trust Commission when Peterborough was unable to sell its debentures any better than other towns and cities in the Province.

Mr. Moore and Mr. Dumble gave explanations that were considered satisfactory by the meeting although Mr. Langford did not seem to be deeply impressed.

The two resolutions carried unanimously and adjournment took place, it being decided to leave over the library question until the next meeting.

The brick work of the new Normal school has all been completed, and arrangements are being made to put in the [illegible].

Work has also been suspended on the interior, owing to lack of heat. The large boiler which will be used for the purpose of warming the building has not yet been installed, and the plastering has been suspended the past six weeks. The electric light fixtures have all been placed in readiness for the plastering work. Contractor Whitham hopes to have everything complete in readiness for the opening by the end of June.

Old Peterborough Boy Visits Here

Mr. Thomas Sherlock, of Escanaba, Mich., Returns After Long Absence

Mr. Thos. Sherlock, manager of the C. Reiss Coal Co. of Escanaba, Mich., is in the city visiting his sister, Mrs. Thompson, Stewart St. Mr. Sherlock is an old Peterborough boy but has only been home once in the past thirteen years, and then it was only for two or three days. He enjoyed a drive around the city on Monday, and was agreeably surprised at the rapid advancement made in all lines. It was his first visit to the liftlock, and he was astonished at the mammoth structure. He has met several of his old Peterborough friends, but most of them who were here when he was, have either moved to other places, or have passed away.

Mr. Sherlock holds a lucrative position in Escanaba. The Reiss Coal Company is a large concern and has its headquarters at Sheboygan, Wis.

Mr. Sherlock and son, Charles, who has also been visiting here, will return to Escanaba tomorrow.

King Edward Refers to Conditions of Peace That Have Been Maintained

Special to the Review.

London, Jan. 29. — The most rare event of a London winter, a clear, sunny day, favored the royal procession today to Westminster, where King Edward opened Parliament with the same ceremonies that have been observed for centuries.

His Majesty in his speech, referred to the visit of the German Emperor, which, he said, could not fail to confirm the friendly relations existing between the two countries; to the death of King Oscar of Sweden, and to the conclusion of the Russian agreement, acting in the spirit of the complications in Persia, the two governments had maintained a policy of peace.

Lakefield Citizens Tendered Banquet to Mr. F. A. Kilbourn

On Occasion of His Departure for Montreal—House Warming at Mr. Wm. Graham's—Former Resident Married—Other Notes of Interest.

Lakefield, Jan. 29.—Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Driscoll, both of Campbellford, were in Lakefield last week, paying a visit to Mrs. McKee's sister, Miss McKibbon.

Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald returned on Friday last from an extended visit to friends in New York and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy and family of North Smith, are welcome newcomers to the village, having taken up their residence here last week in the house lately occupied by Mr. W. F. Trude, who has retired to the country to engage in farming.

A very successful meeting in connection with the formation of a Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, was held at St. John's Rectory on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Thomas, travelling secretary of the Brotherhood, gave a very inspiring address on the objects of the Brotherhood. The result of his address was seen in the formation of a chapter, having as its officers Rev. W. J. Creighton as director, pro tem, and Mr. DelaFosse, as secretary. Another meeting takes place on Tuesday night at the rectory, for the purpose of completing arrangements for the proper working of the Chapter.

Mr. Thomas Oakley, of Marysville, Kan., and Miss Lila Webber, of Peterborough, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Graham on Sunday last.

We are sorry to learn that since Mrs. Lillicrap's arrival in the west, Mrs. Lillicrap has been laid up with a very sharp attack of bronchitis. Miss Stuart, is, we are glad to hear, progressing rapidly towards recovery.

Tenders are requested by the Village Council for the office of constable and assessor. More than one has been received, and the Council will adjudicate on the matter at the regular meeting on Feb. 10th.

A new rink is being mooted in the village, and it seems as though there is a possibility of something at any rate, being done towards obtaining a suitable site for our local curlers for next season.

The Flavelle banquet to Mr. F. A. Kilbourn, who leaves in a day or two for Montreal to assume charge of the cement works in that city, was a most successful affair.

TENDERED BANQUET.

The banquet to Mr. F. A. Kilbourn tendered to him on his approaching departure for Montreal, was held at the Lakefield House on Monday, Jan. 27th, and was a decided success in every respect. About 65 gentlemen were present to do honor to the guest of the evening.

The chair was occupied by Rev. W. J. Creighton and the vice-chair by Mr. F. J. Moore, reeve of the village. After a most substantial repast, provided by our worthy caterer, Mr. Frank Gray, speeches were in order, in the course of which Mr. Kilbourn was presented with a case of pipes as a token of the esteem in which he is held by his many friends in the village. After a few words from Mr. Kilbourn, in appreciation of the gift, the party adjourned to the reception parlors where cards and other amusements were indulged in.

The community will suffer a severe loss by the departure of Mr. Kilbourn, who, apart from his personal popularity, has shown himself to be an enterprising and progressive citizen.

OTHER NOTES.

Miss Ray entertained a large party of her friends at her house on Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. William Graham gave a large housewarming on Tuesday night at their residence. About sixty invitations were issued. A most enjoyable time was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Watson returned last week from two or three weeks' visit to friends in Peterborough and Smith township.

Mrs. Clarke, of Montreal, is present in the village on a visit to her sister, Mrs. J. R. Fraser.

Mrs. Andrews, a former resident of this village, is paying a visit to Mrs. Z. White.

The marriage took place recently in Montreal, of Mr. J. A. W. Walker, formerly of Lakefield, but now of Winnipeg, to Miss Reiffenstein, of Montreal.

HOCKEY MATCHES.

Two junior hockey matches took place on Saturday last between teams from the Public school on one hand and the Peterborough and Grove hockey teams on the other.

The match between the Public school and Peterborough resulted in a score of 7—2 in favor of Lakefield. That between the village boys and the Grove also resulted in favor of Lakefield, the score being 6—8.

Tore Marriage Lines From the Wall and Threw Holy Book Into the Fire

Sad Case Aired in Police Court To-day—C. Losey Charged With Non Support of His Wife—Made Threat to Shoot Her—His Worship Ordered That They Live as Strangers in the Future.

The eager crowd of the unemployed who daily listen to the troubles and trials of poor unfortunates, who come under the eye of the Justices of the Peace, were furnished with what they evidently enjoyed, evidence of a spicy nature this morning, when Colborne Losey was charged with vagrancy and the non-support of his wife. It was a sad case of domestic infelicity, with apparent incompatibility on both sides. Henceforth man and wife will live as strangers, and have each vowed to have nothing more to do with each other. His Worship ordered that as each were willing to live apart in the future, Losey was to have nothing whatever to do with his wife.

Mrs. Marguerite Losey, wife of the prisoner, was called. "We have been married seven years," she said, "and we have two children. I have been in Peterborough for the past six weeks, but previous to that we resided in Toronto. At present we are living with my father. I don't want my husband to support me, if he would only leave me alone. I left him in Toronto because I was afraid of him. He threatened to shoot me, and bought a revolver to carry out his intentions. He supported me in Toronto, but hasn't since coming to this city. On coming here, he sold all the furniture. The day before I left Toronto he choked me, and I intended to prosecute him, but he begged me not to, and he promised to live a better life."

Mr Robert Hamilton, father of Mrs. Losey, was next called. He said that his daughter and children had living with him for the past six weeks. Mrs. Losey works out and earns the living for her family. Witness said that the prisoner was a good worker, but he drank and was quarrelsome.

"When did you see me drunk?" asked the prisoner of the witness.

"I saw you drunk several times," said Mr. Hamilton. "How about the time you tore the marriage lines from the wall and threw the Holy Bible into the fire?"

The prisoner went into the box and swore that he did once threaten to shoot her because she kept company with other men. She separated one man and his wife on College street, and one day I went home, another fellow was sitting with his arms around her."

"That is false; it's a lie," exclaimed Mrs. Losey.

Losey said that he was willing to keep his own child, but would not support those that did not belong to him.

His Worship ordered that the two live apart in the future.

"That is good. I'll never speak to her or have anything to do with her whatever," said Losey. "Just as you are talking, Mr. Dumble, I want to make out papers against my wife's brother for using abusive language to me."

"No, you had better let that drop," said His Worship.

"Then I will settle with him myself," reiterated Losey as he left the room, greatly excited.

INSURANCE BILL.

The insurance bill of the government passed its second reading, and will now go to a committee to pass upon its various clauses, assisted, no doubt, by all available expert advice. In this connection, an important letter from Mr. Wm. C. Johnson, will be found valuable by our lawmakers and our readers. Mr. Johnson is an expert in insurance matters, and, being in the United States, he is in the position of the looker-on who is popularly credited with "seeing most of the game," or in other words, of being impartial. Mr Johnson's opinion about investments and other matters to be discussed and passed upon will therefore be of general interest at this time. — Montreal Witness.

SPORTING NEWS

The Best Game This Winter Norwood Versus Lakefield

Strathconas and Knockers Meet in Exhibition Match—'Second Game Arousing Great Interest and Will be Superb Contest—The Result Simply a Guess.

This city league is becoming more popular with every game. The quality of hockey that has been displayed in this league this winter has been much better than even the most enthusiastic fans had looked for at the beginning of the season. The attendances have been large, and the teams have received deservedly good support.

To-night's games will be between the Strathconas, who are the headliners in the standing and the Knockers, a very fast local seven, and Norwood and Lakefield will clash in the 9 o'clock contest.

The first match will be an exhibition [illegible] this season will [illegible] one. Although the Strathconas are ahead in the league standing, the Knockers are practically an unknown quantity, and may spring a surprise.

The quintessence of interest is centred in the Norwood-Lakefield game. Both teams play lightning hockey, and on the former shown by them it's simply a toss up as to which team is the better. A battle worth while is sure to result, and the biggest crowd of the season should be in attendance to witness it. Mr. George Lynch, the official who has so capably refereed all of the city [illegible], and should [illegible] as usual be there with the bell.

The ice is in perfect condition for the games.

CURLING AT TORONTO WAS VERY EXCITING

Locals Lost to Caledonians After Close Finish

The Peterborough curlers who competed in the Ontario Tankard games at Toronto, returned home this morning. They were defeated in the first round after an exciting struggle with the Caledonians. A Toronto despatch says;

In the first round Queen City beat Parkdale 32 to 31, Scarboro' Maple Leafs defeated Oshawa 38 to 22. Caledonians trimmed Peterborough 31 to 28, and the Aberdeens took Brampton into camp 33 to 26. The Caledonians had a battle royal with Peterborough, only winning after playing an extra end by three shots. It was a magnificent struggle between skilled curlers. In the final end both Caledonian skips scored, T. Rennie getting two shots, and R. Rennie one. When the regulation number of ends had been played T. Rennie was one up and R. Rennie was one down.

Peterborough in the Finals

Local Curlers Doing Well in District Cup Games at Lindsay

The Peterborough curlers are doing well in the district cup competition at Lindsay. Last night they defeated Beaverton by four shots and this morning they defeated Keene by three shots. To-night they play in the finals against Orillia. The two Peterborough rinks are composed of the following players:—H. F. Foote, J. Montgomery, A. Regan, Wm. Lang, D. Hall, R. Hicks, C. E. Frost and A. Rose.

Hockey

SOMETHING DOING.

Mr. Pugh, of Keene, paid a visit to his brother Mr. E. J. Pugh, to-day at the Dominion Bank. This ought to result to something startling in the line of hockey, as both are great hockey enthusiasts. These men were both the official timekeepers at the last game between the Rough Riders and Keene.

Sporting Comment

The hockey season in Peterborough this winter has been a peculiarly unsuccessful one, and for the reason that the team was gotten together too late. There is no doubt about it the seven that journeyed to Lindsay on Friday night, and were defeated by the intermediate seven of that town by 11—8, proved easily the best septette playing the game in this district. To go to a strange town, on a strange rink and before a strange crowd give a team that has played together four years such a run is a remarkable performance. The team that represented Peterborough in Lindsay, never played together before and had particularly no practice prior to the game. With a week's solid rehearsal they could handily trim any team in the district on any ice. It is too bad they didn't get together earlier in the season, for while it's impossible to predict what they could have accomplished outside the district, the district could have easily been their's.

LITTLE GIRL INJURED AT THE SLIDE

Workmen Will Hold "At Home"

At the regular meeting of Peterborough Lodge No. 135, held last night the newly installed officers were all in their places. After the business of the evening Bro. A. H. Brace gave an interesting address.

It was decided to hold an open meeting and social toward the latter end of February, when a cordial welcome will be extended to the grand organizer.

The Conviction Was Quashed by Judge Weller

Appeal Against Magistrate's Decision Was Allowed Yesterday

The conviction made by Police Magistrate Dumble against Mr. Walter Head, of the firm of A. Elliott & Co., who was fined $50 and costs a short time ago, on the charge of selling liquor to an Indian, was quashed yesterday by Judge Weller, and the appeal against it sustained. Mr. Daniel O'Connell, of O'Connell & Gordon, appeared for the appellant.

MANY PARTIES WILL COME OUT

Dr. Bernardo's Home Will Send 1000 Children to Canada This Year

"Ups and Downs," the organ of Dr. Barnardo's home, says:

The programme for the coming season has, we are pleased to announce, been definitely settled as far as sailing dates are concerned. The first party, that we are in hopes will be not less than three hundred in number, is booked to sail on the 12th of March. The second, which is to be a mixed party, will follow on the 21 of May; and the third and fourth parties, that will also comprise both girls and boys, are to leave, respectively, on the 30 of July and 8 of October. Far in advance as it is, we have already received a goodly number of applications for the March party, and every day is adding to the list. We are looking forward to a busy season, and anticipating that at least another thousand (we wish it might be a great many more) will be added to our family in the course of the next twelve months.

NARROW ESCAPE OF TOBOGGANIST

At the toboggan slide last night what might have resulted in a serious accident was averted. A young lady fell off a toboggan when about half way down the centre chute and rolled to the foot of the slide. A party of toboggganists just ready to start noticed her and waited until she was out of danger. She was, fortunately, not injured.

THE EYE EXCLUSIVELY

We do not profess to know all about the eye; Who does? but we have devoted about fifteen years exclusively to the study, inspection and teaching of eye examinations for eye glasses and the fitting of Artificial Eyes.

We believe we can, and do, make this experience valuable to all who consult us, and while we appreciate the liberal patronage of Peterborough, we shall ever aim to increasingly merit the confidence of our citizens.

GUESTS WERE AROUSED WITH CRY OF FIRE

Unpleasant Experience of Local Man in Cobourg Last Evening—Disastrous Fire There

Aroused from sleep at midnight and informed that there was a fire next door, was the rather unpleasant experience of Mr. J. J. Turner, sr., who was in Cobourg last evening installing the officers of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Mr. Turner was stopping at the British Hotel. All the guests had retired for the night and it was just a few minutes after twelve when the manager awakened the household with the above startling information. With the thermometer fifteen degrees below zero, the people were not altogether taken with the situation. The close proximity of the hotel to the store caused considerable alarm as it was feared that this popular hostelry would also be swept away. The adjoining building was a shoe store and it was completely destroyed. However, about two o'clock the guests were again able to go to bed. The fire had been extinguished and all danger had been dispelled.

WEDDING BELLS

CAVANAGH–McMARTIN

This morning at nine o'clock, at St. Peter's Cathedral, a quiet wedding was solemnized, the contracting parties being Miss Margaret Mary McMartin, daughter of Mr. Patrick McMartin, of Otonabee, and Mr. Patrick Cavanagh, of Douro. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary G. Faux, and Mr. Maurice O'Leary was groomsman. Rev. Father O'Leary officiated.

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

New York, Jan. 29.— The market opened firm, but trading soon developed decided irregularity in prices. The Steel stocks advanced a little of short covering following the quarterly report, but there did not seem to be any demand for the stock except from those who were short of it, and the latter tendency was downward.

Professional trading was about all the business there was, although London was a buyer of about 15,000 shares on balance. The main influence that brought about the reactionary tendency was apprehension over the effect of the President's special message to Congress in reference to labor laws recently declared unconstitutional in the courts.

A very severe arraignment is expected to be made in this message of the Standard Oil Co., and indirectly on stock exchange interests. While the President will come out strongly in favor of labor, he is expected to make it plain that he does not regard himself as at all responsible for the bringing on of the panic, but that on the other hand all the blame should rest on the capitalistic interests.

Railroad earnings are still exerting a depressing influence and in this connection the weekly statistics of the freight car movement during December, especially in the State of Pennsylvania, is referred to as making it certain that the report of operations for that month of the Pennsylvania R.R., which is due next Monday will be poor. The closing was heavy at about the low for the day.

Mount Royal Passengers Passed Through the City On the C. P. R. Yesterday

Yesterday morning the C.P.R. from Montreal to Toronto, that passed through here at seven o'clock contained six very interesting persons. They were none other than passengers from the steamer Mount Royal, over which so much anxiety was felt during her recent tribulations off the coast of Ireland, and which practically was thought to have been lost with all her precious cargo of 600 human souls. The train that carried the half dozen from Mount Royal, was scheduled to reach here at 5.15 a.m., but owing to the blocked condition of the railroad did not make Peterborough until two hours later than scheduled time.

Owing to the fact that a reporter was not on hand as the arrival of such unusual passengers were unexpected the names of all could not be learned. They are all believed to live in Toronto, and the names and addresses of two of them were found out. They are Beril Resnik, 46 Alice street, Toronto, and Clara Gelberg, 20 Draper street, and also of the same city.

A local man who happened to be present at the time the train arrived, learning that among those on board were some passengers from the Mount Royal, was enterprising and thoughtful enough to make enquiries concerning the experiences of those who had been on the steamer. One of the men entered into a short conversation with him, and described his experiences as being terrible. He said there was a great panic among the passengers. Many imagined the boat was lost and were afraid they would never strike land. There was the greatest joy among the passengers when Queenston Harbor was at last reached.

Party of British Dairymen Likely to Visit Peterborough

About Sixty Agriculturists From Over the Sea Coming to Canada Next Summer—Board of Trade Takes Action in Connection With the Matter.

A party of British dairymen will in all probability visit Peterborough during the coming summer. It is expected that there will be about sixty in the party, and they are coming to Canada to see how dairying and other agricultural pursuits are carried on here.

Mr. W. S. Dodd, local C. P. R. agent, received a letter from the head office of the C.P.R. a few days ago asking what Peterborough would do in the way of providing entertainment and instruction for the party of British dairymen, who were to visit Canada this summer. Mr. Dodd communicated the matter to the resident of the Board of Trade and the officers of the Peterborough Cheese Board and at the meeting of the Board of Trade last night, a resolution was passed that the Board co-operate with the City Council, County Council and Peterborough Cheese Board in extending a hearty invitation to the British Dairymen to visit Peterborough and to take such steps as may be necessary to provide for their entertainmetn while in the city.

Mr. D. W. Dumble spoke in favor of having the dairymen visit Peterborough and Mr. Dodd explained his connection with the matter. Both gentlemen referred to the desirability of having the visitors from over the sea come to Peterborough and hearty applause greeted the expression of these sentiments.

The Happenings at Indian River

Indian River, Jan. 28.—Mr. Henry Elmhirst, of Westwood, shipped a car of farm necessities and household goods, via the C.P.R. for British Columbia last week. Mr. and Mrs Elmhirst and family left for there on Saturday, with the best wishes of our citizens for success and prosperity.

A very interesting lecture was given in Bethel church last Friday by Mr. Crews, of Toronto, the subject being "The Sunny Side of Life." It was largely attended and much appreciated.

The Bachelors' Club will likely hold a meeting next week to appoint a few new officers, as the club is growing. One of the officers has departed to another field, to whom they presented a very handsome present. It is not known who will succeed him as yet.

Owing to the storm last Monday there was no school held here. The roads were nearly all blocked.

Miss E Paterson entertained several friends last Monday night.

Mr J. Collins, who is attending the Collegiate in Peterborough, spent Sunday at home.

The Daily Review

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 29

THE NEW WARDEN

This Review congratulates Mr. James Thompson, reeve of Havelock, on his election to the honorable and responsible position of Warden of the county. The choice is a good one, and the new occupant of the chair will bring to bear in the discharge of his duties a thorough municipal experience, sound judgment and progressive ideas. Mr. Thompson is a man who has been successful in managing his own business, and should be equally efficient in method and work when looking after the affairs of the county. He has been seven years in municipal life, serving three as councillor and four as reeve. He is an honorable and exemplary citizen, a level-headed and energetic business man, and enjoys the confidence and esteem of all in the community. Havelock has never had a resident who has been honored with the Wardenship, and the eastern village will naturally feel proud of the distinction which one of its most respected residents has brought to it.

APPROVED SCHOOLS

The Education Department has recently issued a circular regarding "Approved Schools." These consist of those Collegiate Institute, High schools, Public and Separate schools doing High school work, where the nature of the teaching and equipment are satisfactory to the departmental inspectors.

In these schools there will hereafter be no written examinations in writing, spelling, arithmetic, English grammar, geography, bookkeeping, art and biology, for those candidates pursuing the teachers' courses of studies.

This change will relieve the examination stress in the High schools and give the teachers there more freedom and will increase the importance of the teacher's personality, and, in this way, will allow the formation of character to become the main function of the schools.

To ensure thoroughness of work in these subjects in which there are to be no written examinations, the inspectors will examine very carefully into the work done in the schools throughout the year, and where the work is not satisfactory the school will not be placed upon the "approved" list.

In addition to this a thorough academic course is now provided in the Normal schools and no candidate will be allowed to pass the final examinations of these schools without a competent knowledge of all the subjects he will have to teach in the Public schools, including, geography, English grammar, and arithmetic.

Pupils attending schools not on the "approved" list will have to pass an examination in these subjects before entering the Normal schools or Faculties of Education at Queen's or Toronto.

The Toronto Globe in a recent editorial commends the Education Department for this change.

The concluding sentence of the circular sets forth the minister's aim; —"The examination holds an important place in any well-ordered system of education; but a system which depends mainly upon the stimulus of examinations conducted by outsiders and dwarfs the teacher's sense of responsibility cannot build up the character of our youth or prepare them for the diverse duties of life."

WORK OF COMMISSIONS

It is hoped that the discussion at the Board of Trade meeting last night will fructify. Too often, after resolutions of a public body have been passed, they are pigeonholed or receive no further attention. The excellent work done by the waterworks commission and the city trust commission was referred to in highly complimentary and appreciative terms. It is generally conceded that a commission appointed for a term of years does better work with less fireworks that a council elected for only a year where the tendency is frequently to do spectacular things or gratify private interests or ambition. In order to give more permanency and stability to the expenditure on the streets, walks, etc., and remove the defects of short-sightedness, wastefulness and patch work, a resolution was carried without a dissentient voice, that the principal of government by commission should be extended to the point of entrusting the functions performed by the Board of Works to a commission of three members, to hold office for three years, one commissioner retiring each year. There are two ways of establishing this commission—one is to have the members elected by the ratepayers the same as the water commissioners at present are; the other is to have the city council make the appointment, and the latter body held directly responsible for the wisdom of the choice and the character of the work which the commission would carry out, in much the same way a government appointed commission is responsible to the administration. The feeling expressed at the gathering was that commissions should in municipal government do the administrative work, relieving the city council of this burden so that only legislative proceedings would be dealt with by the aldermen. The scheme of having the functions of a Board of Works entrusted to a commission is certainly worth an experiment. The result could not be any worse than under the present system, while the prospects are that there would be a decided improvement

Another feature emphasized by the gathering was that councils, as at present constituted, are too large and unwieldy, while the term of office is too short and uncertain. It is felt that more satisfactory results would accrue if the term was extended to two years, one half of the representatives retiring each year, the same as on the Board of Education. Then, too, six or eight men should be a sufficiently large body to direct and control the affairs of Peterborough. It is believed by many that municipal service should be remunerated, but this feature may be considered more fully later on.

The paper read by Mr. Moore certainly showed much thought, study and research, and was one of the most timely contributions on "Municipal Government by Commission" that it has ever been the pleasure of the citizens to listen to.

PROBLEM OF FARM HELP

The Weekly Sun does not take kindly to the suggestion that farmers build cottages in which married laborers may settle down as part of the permanent farm equipment.

The Sun says: "Have those who make this suggestion thought of all that is involved in it? If a man marries while still a farm laborer it is reasonably certain that he will remain a farm laborer all his lifelong. His earnings in such a capacity will barely suffice to maintain his establishment, and nothing will be left from which to accumulate the capital needed to start him even on a rented place. If this plan of solving the labor problem on the farm is generally adopted we shall have in all rural communities a very considerable proportion of the electorate composed for men who work for hire and whose horizon will be limited by a daily round of toil, with no hope of bettering their outlook. Would not men so restricted to their interests, and accustomed in their regular avocation to the submission of their wills to those of others be an undesirable addition to the voting population of an agricultural constituency? Would not such an element be under the constant pressure due to want on the one side and a dominant will on the other, and in voting, be swayed by influences other than individual judgment? Would such a vote, in short, be a free vote? The difficulties in maintaining a really democratic government with large city and town population in which the overwhelming majority are hired men, are great enough, but conditions would be infinitely worse if, instead of a rural electorate, made up of independent freeholders, the agricultural constituencies were composed in half of farm laborers with no expectation of ever rising beyond that stage?

PEN POINTS

Remember the Conservative convention this evening.

Every delegate to the convention should be on hand at Bradburn's opera house this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The Board of Trade meeting last night was most representative in character and the discussion on "Municipal Government by Commission" was very instructive.

Every student of civic government should read the admirable paper presented by Mr. W. H. Moore last evening before the Board of Trade. A full report of Mr. Moore's excellent and thoughtful contribution appears in another column.

There is an agitation in progress in Ontario county, which has for its object a system of good roads. It is proposed to take advantage of the Provincial fund for that purpose, but the project will not be carried out without stiff opposition. The Cannington Gleaner says; What does a perfect road from Oshawa or Whitby to Orillia mean? It means just a good road for the Toronto automobilists, and are the people of the County of Ontario to build an automobile road for the multi-millionaires of Ontario. We hope not, and more, we hope the present County Councillors see that such is not the case or allowed. Kill the 1907 Good Roads bylaw at once.

WEDDING BELLS

MORGAN—RUTHERFORD

An exceedingly pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, at 25 Union street, when two of Peterborough's most popular young people plighted their troth. It was the marriage of Miss Sadie Naomi Rutherford, youngest daughter of Mr. Thomas Rutherford to Mr. Harry Powell Morgan, only son of Mrs. A. P. Morgan, Reid street, and vice-president of the Peterborough Hardware Co. The ceremony was performed in the drawing room, beneath an arch of evergreens, which was arranged with a number of electric lamps of variegated hues. The effect was beautiful, and the pretty illumination lent an additional attractiveness to the room.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Pearson, of George Street Methodist church.

Punctually at 2.30, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by the bride's sister, Mrs. Geo. Hardill, of Hamilton, the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away, entered the room and took her place beneath the arch. She was attired in a pretty gown of white mulle, and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. She was assisted by her cousin, Miss Mamie Anderson, of this city, who was prettily dressed in cream crepe de chene, and carried pink roses. Little Miss Norma Cox, niece of the groom, acted as flower girl, and looked very charming in pale blue mulle. She carried a basket of lilies of the valley and forget-me-nots. The groom was ably supported by Mr. R. M. Glover. While the register was being signed, Mrs. E. A. Fogarty, of Port Hope, sang, "O. Fair, O, Sweet, O, Holy."

After the ceremony had been performed, and hearty congratulations bestowed upon the bride and groom, a sumptuous repast was partaken of.

The presents received by the bride and groom were exceedingly beautiful, and testify to the high esteem in which they are held by a host of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan left on the 4.48 C.P.R. train for New York city, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Mrs Morgan travelled in a suit of navy blue, with hat to match. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will take up their residence on Reid street.

HAYES—FITZGERALD

The wedding took place this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral at 6 o'clock, of Miss Annie Maud Hayes, daughter of Mr. Bartholomew Hayes, of Otonabee, to Mr. David Herbert Fitzgerald, of this city. Mr. Thos. Fitzgerald acted as best man, and Miss Mary Corkery was bridesmaid. Rev. Dr. O'Brien performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald will take up their residence in Peterborough.

Peterboro' Man Highly Honored

Mr. John Dixon Elected a Governor of Saskatchewan University

The Maple Creek, Saskatchewan, Signal, of January 16th, has the following reference to a former well-known resident and business man of Peterborough:—

"At the convention of the Saskatchewan University held by the Senate of Regina on Thursday, January 9th, our worthy and esteemed townsman, Mr. John Dickson, was chosen by that honorable body as a member of the first Board of Governors.

Mr John Dixon has always taken a deep interest in the educational affairs of the three prairie provinces and well deserves the honorable position now conferred upon him. This portion of the province is to be congratulated by having so capable a representative on the Board of Governors. We feel that the best interests of the Saskatchewan University will be promoted by having such men as Mr. John Dixon at its head."

Mr. Dixon was at one time in the dry goods business in Peterborough, occupying the store now held by the J. C. Turnbull Co. He is a brother of Mr A. E. Dixon, barrister, of this city, and left Peterborough about a quarter of a century ago for the West. He is now a member of Dixon Bros, the leading dry goods house of Maple Creek.

Charitable Work of the Girls' Guild

The George street Girls' Guild met last evening at the Parsonage and had a most successful evening. A bale of fine brown flannel has been given to the Guild by the Campbellford Woollen Mills, and this is being made up into warm underwear by the members. There is so much charitable work to be done this winter in the city that the the Guild find that there is a use for all the clothing they can make or collect. There was a large attendance of the members and the evening was much enjoyed. The next meeting of the Guild will be held on next Monday evening at home of Miss Laura Bellegham, Hunter street

Died Suddenly in Havelock

William Montgomery Was Found Dead in Bed

Mr Wm. Montgomery, who resided in Havelock, was found dead in bed at the Armstrong House in that village a few minutes after ten o'clock last night. Early in the evening Mr. Montgomery complained of feeling unwell, and Dr. Crawford was sent for. He examined the patient and gave him a hypo-dermic injection. This was between seven and eight o'clock. Two hours later he was discovered dead in bed. Dr. Crawford notified Dr. Gray, coroner, of Peterborough, and the latter, after inquiring fully into the circumstances, told Dr. Crawford to issue a burial permit as death was evidently due to natural causes.

The deceased was about 35 years old. He was a widower and leaves one child. The remains will be interred in Havelock.

Elderly Folks Should Try it

Simple Home Mixture Relieves Kidneys and Bladder and Rheumatism

The great majority of men and women at the age of 60 years begin to feel the first signs of advancing age in some form of kidney trouble and bladder weakness. Few are entirely free from that torturous disease, rheumatism, which is not a disease in itself, but a symptom of deranged function of the kidneys which have become clogged and sluggish, failing in their duty of sifting and straining the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, permitting it to remain and decompose, settling about the joints and muscles, causing intense pain and suffering.

The bladder, however, causes the old folks the most annoyance, especially at night and early morning.

A noted authority in a recent article stated that he has wonderful success with the old-time "vegetable treatment. He states: "Of sixteen cases of bladder troubles and rheumatism which have been treated with this treatment only one very complicated case failed to fully yield to its remarkable influence. It is the most harmless treatment I have ever found to clean the system of rheumatic poisons; remove irritation of the bladder and relieve urinary difficultes of the old people. It is a true vitalizing tonic to the entire kidney and urinary structure, reinvigorating the entire system."

What he terms "old vegetable treatment" consists of the following simple prescription, the ingredients which can be obtained from any good pharmacy at small cost: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce. Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and upon going to bed, also drink plenty of water. This prescription, though simple, is always effective in the diseases and afflictions of the kidneys and bladder.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Waldron Visited Several Points Across the Border

Mr. James S. Waldron and wife have just returned from a six weeks trip to the United States points. They also visited many friends and acquaintances. Mr. Waldron stopped at Buffalo where he was looking after the interests of the Big Dipper Mining Company. They next went to North Clarke, Pennsylvania, where they were the guests of Mr. L. Sopher, an uncle of Mrs. Waldron, for a day. Mr. Waldron also looked after some business with the Mercer Company. They then journeyed on to Franklin, where they spent their Christmas holidays, with Mr. Waldron's parents, who are well up in years and were much pleased to have him home. He spent a very pleasant three weeks at the place of his boyhood. Mrs. Waldron was visiting her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sopher, who live at Santa Lake. The train on which Mr. Waldron had made arrangements to go to his home, but later decided to visit longer in North Clark, had a rear end collision with a double header. The two engines were smashed to pieces, and one man killed. Mr. H. W. Eaton of Baltimore, New York, will arrive in town to-morrow, and spend a few days with Mr. Waldron, looking after the interests of the Big Dipper Company.

Young Man Learns Lesson on Toboggan Slide—Was Too Slow in Getting Away

The toboggan slide is often the means of teaching the people to act and think quickly. Last night a young man who is more or less "dopey" by nature, took a lightning trip down the slopes, accompanied by three young ladies. As he was not familiar with the fine points of the art he sat on the toboggan after the journey had been completed with apparently no thought that many other toboggans were following him. As a result he received a jolt in the back that made him think some one had playfully tossed a sawlog at him. He recognized his assailants when he had recovered himself and told them he had thought at the time of the disaster that they were friends of his. They explained it was simply an accident, but he vows he will never do the speedy stunt again. This morning he is somewhat sore both physically and constitutionally, and arrived at his work an hour and a quarter behind schedule time. This latter act is more in keeping with his disposition than anything requiring the quick employment of either his bodily or mental powers.

Extension of Commission System is Favored by Peterboro' Board of Trade

Splendid Paper on "Municipal Government by Commission" by Mr. W. H. Moore, K. C. Leads to Passing of Two Important Resolutions

Would Give Work of Board of Works to Paid Commission and Have Fewer Alderman Elected for a Two Year Term —Mr. Moore's Paper in Full

TO REPLACE BOARD OF WORKS

Moved by Mr. F. R. Yokome, seconded by Mr. W. H. Moore,

That this Board of Trade declares its approval of the extended application of the principal of government by commissioners to the point of entrusting the functions performed by the Board of Works to a commission of three members elected by the people to hold office for three years, subject to retirement in the same order, or the Water Commissioners, or that this appointment be made in a manner similar to that of the City Trust Commissioners."

LONGER TERMS FOR COUNCILLORS

Moved by Mr. D. W. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Arthur Stevenson,

That the Board of Trade of Peterborough approve of an amendment to the municipal laws to permit municipalities to elect a smaller number of councillors than at present, such councillors to hold office for two years, one half to retire each year.

The above resolutions grew out of the meeting of the Board of Trade held last night, for the purpose of listening to a paper by Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., on "Municipal Government by Commission." The opinion was unanimously expressed that government by commission was preferable to the present system, but considerable diversity prevailed as to the best manner of carrying the idea into effect. The meeting was in entire sympathy with the two resolutions given above. That the duties of the Board of Works could be better performed by a paid commission, composed of three men than by the present system, was given expression to by many speakers, and the opinion that fewer aldermen elected for a longer term than at present seemed to prevail generally. That the aldermen should be paid was also the opinion of many of those present.

About thirty representative citizens were present at the meeting, which was pronounced one of the most interesting held by the Board of Trade for several years.

President Dr. M. A. Morrison presided, and Secretary T. J. Quartermaine was also in attendance.

Mr. Moore's paper dealt with the subject of "Municipal Government by Commission," in an interesting and thorough manner, and was listened to with great profit. Those interested in the problems of municipal government should give it careful perusal.

After some other matters of business had been dealt with, Dr. Morrison referred to the deep interest that existed at the present time regarding government by commission, and it was on this account, accentuated by some observations of his own, regarding the constant changing in the City Council, that had prompted him to ask Mr. Moore to prepare a paper on this subject. This Mr. Morrison had kindly consented to do.

MR. MOORE'S PAPER.

Mr. Moore, after a few introductory remarks presented the following paper;—

The existence of a ruling power of some character in political society, that existed for a period beyond the records of history. For ages it has been taken for granted that in every collective body of persons there is a determinative body, whether consisting of one individual or a few or many individuals, whose command the rest of those having common interests, obey. The origin of government arose from what is called social compact, for the protection of person and property. All societies of men, however low they may be in the scale of humanity, exhibit the germs of government, the primitive type of ruler being King, Judge, Priest and General. Of the forms of government, past and present, the chief have been and are, unlimited and limited monarchy and republics. All good or bad is not centered in any one of the forms. Each has points of advantage or the opposite not possessed by the others. The unlimited form sometimes called despotic, and which some persons of eminence have pronounced the best (emphasis on last two words) is frequently deformed by the apparent necessity of conducting its affairs under commissions, commonly called bureaus, with their irresistible temptations and inevitable corruption; the Republican, claimed to be wholly of and for the people, but marred by a want of continuity of office and action, and in many other desirable essentials, generally provided in a limited monarchy with representative institutions. The latter form, as illustrated in Great Britain, is conceded as pre-eminent to every other form of government, the world has known. In this case, by reason of the Chief Magistrate holding office for life, there is given a more uninterrupted sequel of governmental and administrative action. The combined governing body in Great Britain, King, Lords and Commons, known to the world as Parliament and the mother of parliaments, is uncontrolled by a written constitution, conservative in conduct, flexible in all parts, with freedom broadening down from precedent to precedent. Yet there exists a democratic spirit in the constitution, to a degree unknown in the Republic of North America, in this that the people through their representatives can make their opinions, more readily felt in Parliament, than can electors in the Republic. The party in power in Great Britain only remains in office, so long as it reflects the people's sentiment, but in the United States it continues four years certain, and no matter to what extent the Executive opposes its views to the view of the country, it is supreme and can defy public opinion. The government of Canada is founded on and corresponds in great measure, to that of Great Britain, but, by reason of its having a written constitution, is too rigid and not always ready to fit into the varied and growing problems and exigencies of the government of a great community. At the present day in all advanced civilized societies of the human race, government largely, if not wholly, emanates from the people and "their submission to the executive authority of government, which they themselves have created, is a simple compliance with the laws which they themselves have enacted." In matters merely supplementary in character, government by commission may with advantage be admitted and applied, but in relation to the main problems of political or municipal import, and in a free country, the body of persons composing the state or the city, and possessed of civil rights and suffrages will, I believe, never shear themselves of the privilege of selecting those who are to represent them and make or administer their laws. It is unlikely in the extreme, that municipal bodies with their vast and various powers will ever be dissolved. Home rule that has at times and in certain localities inspired distrust, without reality, is something to which the whole body of people of this country will in local affairs as in the larger interests, cling with increasing tenacity.

A municipality in Ontario is a combination for the self government of a city, town, etc., by means of a corporation empowered to maintain order and manage its affairs. It consists of a mayor, warden, etc., with aldermen or councillors. It acts as a person by its common seal, has perpetual succession, and may hold lands to a limited extent without permission of Parliament. Every such body has power to make bylaws, provided they are not unjust or unreasonable, or inconsistent with the Municipal Act, and to enforce them by penalties.

In England, until recently, franchises were granted to cities and towns, only by special charter from the reigning monarch, under which common council were elected to perform functions as such, but very restricted in their powers as compared with what we possess. In Ontario a municipal act of any value, was first passed about seventy years ago. It then occupied less than thirty pages of the statute book. To-day it requires four hundred pages to contain it, and has become a law far-reaching, manifold and useful, yet so obscure and involved in many of its 759 sections, with a great number of sub-sections, that many a solicitor and layman, most patient and reverent in searching for the meaning, has been known to declare that forbearance had ceased to be a virtue, and an emphatic interjection become excusable. It often places the enquirer in the condition of the lady who declared the sermon, she had heard, was indeed very fine, but she had not the presumption to understand it.

It took a long time to bring the English and the Canadian Constitution, into their present superb form and comprehension, and it is the hope that the law, relating to our local institutions, may be resolved in its provisions to the ready understanding of all, and that tinkering by the Legislature may cease, at least for a year or two thereafter.

Probably the most distinguished commission government in the proper acceptance of the term, of a municipality or district, is that of the District of Columbia with a population of over 250,000, and an assessed value of $250,000,000, seventy square miles in extent, in which is situate the capital of the United States. This district is governed by three commissioners, appointed by the President of the United States. They perform the executive duties, the various departments of the civic government being apportioned amongst them. Legislation is enacted by Congress. The district has courts of its own, the judges being appointed by the President. The people have no votes in the management of affairs. Thus is presented the singular condition of the capital of a great republic, governed by an absolute ruler. Still more singular perhaps, is the fact that it is believed to United States, probably in the world. The debt of the city is about $24,000,000, and the rate of taxation 15 mills in the dollar. One-half of the interest on the debt, and one-half of the current expenses of management, etc. of the city is borne by the Government. This district has an excellent Common School system, managed by a board of trustees, appointed by the Commissioners. If autocratic conduct for good has ever been exercised, to excel this, I have not discovered it; and those who have contended that despotic government by an honest, capable head, is the very best of governments, will refer to the example of Washington in proof of their theory.

Galveston, in the State of Texas, with a population of about 50,000, is a city often referred to as being under government by a board of commissioners. Having heard of this fact I last September wrote the Mayor, for information, on the subject. On the 4th of October I received a copy of the city's charter, empowering it to adopt this so-called form of government in place of the ordinary Council, and a very full and interesting letter from the Mayor-President, which for the words of wisdom it contains, deserves and will repay the careful perusal of it all.

This is what he says;

Dear Sir:—

The Galveston commission government is the result of conditions forced upon her by distress and calamity.

After the disastrous storm of September 8th, 1900, had cleared away, our people realized that the then existing city government was totally unequal to the occasion. Previous to this our city government had been conducted not unlike that of hunderds of other cities in the United States, in an unsatisfactory manner, expenditures exceeding receipts and the corporation getting the worst in many of its transactions.

However, such conditions are well known and understood by every one who has given municipal government and thought, hence I will touch briefly on the changes and results of our new government, which has been for better, though in other places and conditions it might have been a failure.

No particular form of government in itself guarantees satisfactory results, and the same thing may be accomplished under any form or system, when the municipal officers and employees are all united in an honest, efficient effort for the public good.

I believe satisfactory results are more likely to be obtained under our present form of government, where the duties and responsibilities are placed directly at the door of each officer and employee.

Our city government was inaugurated and called a commission government, because originally a majority of its officers were appointed and commissioned by the Governor of our State. How that particular feature of our character has been repealed, it having been held unconstitutional by one of our state courts, on the ground that the voter was wrongfully deprived of his franchise, though otherwise our city government remains unchanged, and our Commissioners are elected by popular vote.

Efficient administration, especially County and Municipal, must emanate from, and be supported by, the people. Matters would be very much simplified if the old adage of letting "the office see kthe man rather than the man seek the office," could be carried out. Every community has its quota of citizens who will sacrifice as part of their time and talent for the public good, but unless they have a majority of the voters at the polls on election day, to assist them, their efforts and labor, in inducing goon and capable men to run for and accept office will be lost, hence the responsibility of good government reverts back and rests with the ordinary citizen at the polls on election day.

The voters have not failed to do their duty in Galveston since the commission was inaugurated, and results have been highly satisfactory. It has been clearly demonstrated that a municipal government can be operated and conducted upon a strictly business basis, and that harmony can replace political bickerings, which is to often exist in its councils. Good government does not come by accident in the present day and time, when the place hunter and demagogue is abroad in the land, but can be accomplished only by the earnest effort of every citizen who loves and takes a pride in the welfare and good government of his own town and home.

Municipal government comes nearer home and affects more directly the interest of the people than that of any other, yet in many localities it is the most neglected. The question is asked; What has your reform government accomplished? The result can be more briefly stated by reviewing and comparing conditions. On taking charge in September, 1901, the Commissioners found the City government

Practically without credit.

A large floating debt in the shape of scrip or due bills given in settlement of services and labor performed, and supplies bought, at prices largely above their market value.

Refusal of many good citizens to pay their taxes on account of want of confidence.

No permanent public improvement under construction or contemplated.

Under a harmonious business business administration the exact opposite of the above conditions prevails today in our city government, and all has been accomplished without borrowing one dollar, or issuing a bond, although our resources were curtailed by decreased taxable values of over twenty-five per cent, caused by storm losses.

Our tax levy in 1900 was 1.57, while for the present year it is 1.60. During the life of the commission, the tax levy has not exceeded the present amount, except by a few points, and besides paying current expenses, the City has paid off over $190,000.00 of floating indebtedness in shape of scrip, judgments and interest, and paid cash for all permanent improve-amounting to over $400,000.00.

Our city government has undergone no change since its organization, the same Commissioners being elected for the third time, except the Mayor-President who died not quite two years since.

I have endeavoured to give you, as per your request, a few outlines of our city government.

Yours very truly,
H. A. LAUDES,
Mayor-President."

It will be observed that when this commission was installed in 1900, Galveston was suffering from distress and a terrible calamity, and its affairs were being very badly managed.

Desperate diseases are said to require extreme remedies, which probably accounts for the citizens having seemingly given up control to five members, for ti will be noticed after all it was more a form and name, than a reality, which they parted with. From the charter I find the government of the city is vested in a Mayor and four Commissioners who are elected by the popular vote, and hold office for two years; that they have, exercise and enjoy all the rights, powers and duties of Mayor and Aldermen in cities of the State. Each Commissioner receives a salary of $1,200, and the Mayor $2,000; and each must qualify to the extent of $5,000. Some special features are that city property of every kind is vested in the Commissioners, and is exempt from execution for debt, which means that if debt should arise for which funds are not in hand, the debt will be provided for by special rate; and that the funds of the city cannot be garnished. No demand for payment of taxes is necessary, but all ratepayers must attend the collector's office and pay their taxes. No Commissioner must be interested in any contract in relation to the city. Eight hours shall constitute a day's labour, and not less than $2.00 per day shall be paid for public work done either by the day or on contract let by the city. The city's charter is a very extensive and complicated document, but I have given some of its features. It is yet too early to form an opinion that would justify other municipalities in adopting the experiment of Galveston, and I think it might be plausibly and indeed well argued, that in the end, the provisions of this charter are not materially different from our own, were our Aldermen elected for more than one year; and I also think the provisions of our Municipal Act are generally otherwise equal or superior to those of this charter. The Mayor's remark that "no particular form of government in itself guarantees satisfactory results, and the same thing may be accomplished under any form or system, when the municipal officers and employees are all united in an honest, efficient effort for the public good" touches the true chord.

It may safely be asserted that up to the present it has not been shown that government by commission (an expression not by any means well defined) has established itself of that successful use, as to replace City Councils with Commissioners for special purposes, notwithstanding the facts in relation to Washington, which is scarcely a fair illustration. But where it has been applied as an accessory to the chief municipal body, the members of which have been elected to office by the free choice of the people I am, confident it may be used with unquestionable advantage. Two local examples are well known, the Water Commissioners and the City Trust. The former, elected for three years, have control and management of the water system of the city, and all the plant in connection therewith, also the providing of all extensions that may be called for from time to time. They may spend in each year $10,000 in mains, without the assent of the ratepayers, and they can fix such rates for the use of water as are in their judgment proper and reasonable, out of such rates providing the sinking fund and interest of all debentures issued for water works. By the passage of the Commissioners' by-law, at the late election, they may assess frontage rates on vacant property adjoining a main, which will enable them to make a substantial increase of discount to water users. They also can make by-laws and rules for their own government, and for the government of all water takers. Their conduct since entering upon office has been generally approved, and it is conceded that this department can be better managed by Commission than if retained by the City Council.

The City Trust was created by Act of Parliament passed in 1861, It consists of five members, the first members having been appointed under the Act. They were Charles Bradfield, Samuel Dickson, James Stevenson, Edmund Chamberlen and William Hall, all men of probity, and undoubted character. Since that date, vacancies that have from time to time occurred, have been filled by the City Council, under the powers given by the Act. It is an institution unique in this, that in no other municipality in Ontario, does such a body exist. In it is vested the real estate of the city, charged with the letting, care, management and maintenance of such real estate, the net revenue derived, being applied by the Commissioners, towards payment of the sinking funds, and interest of the city debenture liability. But the chief reason, for the creation of the body, was the determination of the wise citizens of forty-seven years ago that there should be a continuing authority, in one respect, superior to the Council, which latter, it was recognized was of a yearly changing complexion, and did not always perform those acts which preserved the safety and security of debenture holders, and therefore the credit of the city in its highest form. By the sixth section of the Act, the Commissioners are required in each year to deliver to the Council a statement of receipts and expenditures, and a demand to provide by special rate, and pay to them, a sum sufficient to meet the necessary interest of all debentures of the city, also the necessary yearly sinking funds, which are invested and re-invested by the Commissioners during the period the debentures have to run, so that there shall, as debentures mature, be present in Bank, to their credit, a sum sufficient to pay every debenture.

It is regrettable to remark that today a large proportion of the cities and towns of Ontario neglect their duty in relation to sinking funds, and some are applying to the next session of the Legislature, for relief, because of their imprudence, that will place them in the discredited list, and whose debentures will be looked at unfavourably by the investing public. By exercise of their past yearly demands, the Commissioners have at present the funds and securities deposited in Bank, which, with those to accrue, will be sufficient to meet every outstanding debenture of the city, and a substantial sum in excess, such excess arising by reason of their investments having earned, and likely to earn, more than anticipated by the Council. On the 30th of June, next, debentures, totalling $20,000, will be due, and the Commissioners have in Bank, the full required amount to redeem them on presentation.

For the reasons given, it is clearly essential to the continuance of the highest order of credit for the City, that the City Trust be made as efficient as possible, and that the latter body on their part, keep the Council in full possession of their transactions. To obtain this efficiency, the membership of the Trust and the Council, should be kept wholly separate and apart from each other. A conflict of interest and duty may otherwise arise. The appearance, or possibility, of evil, is only a little better than evil itself. The correctness of this doctrine of separation was recognized in relation to the School Board and the Water Commissioners, and there are obvious and greater reasons why it should be observed here. The City Auditors audit the City Trust accounts, the same as they do the accounts of the city council, so the latter body has official knowledge of the Trust's proceedings. Neglect to observe this pri-

PE-RU-NA CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDED FOR COLDS AND CATARRH.

A Prominent Canadian Gives His Experience With the World-Famous Remedy For Catarrh.

Chronic Catarrh Always Begins With An Ordinary Cold.

So Says Dr. Hartman, the Greatest Living Authority On Catarrhal Diseases.

THE first effect of a cold is a thickening of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat.

This gives rise to a discharge, or at least a stuffiness of the nasal passages.

Sometimes fever accompanies the first attack, also a feeling of languor, dullness and aching of the bones.

If no attention is paid to it, the mucous congestion is liable to spread down into the larynx, producing hoarseness and into the bronchial tubes, producing a cough.

Even when this occurs, many people pay no attention to it.

Under such circumstances, the congestion is liable to become chronic, producing a condition of the mucous membranes known as catarrh. Catarrh lasts an indefinite time. Catarrh is essentially a chronic condition and does not leave except something is done to relieve it.

CURE COLDS—PREVENT CATARRH.

What should be done when a person catches cold is to take a few doses of Peruna.

Taken at the onset, Peruna would break up the cold and prevent all the train of symptoms which usually follow.

But, even in cases where the cold has been neglected and hoarseness or a cough has developed, Peruna can be relied upon to give prompt and permanent relief.

The frequency of coughs and colds in the winter makes Peruna a popular remedy for these ailments.

A number of the best people of various countries have given testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases.

Followed Dr. Hartman's Advice—Restored to Health.

Mrs. Samuelle Vigneau, Avre au Berd, Isle de La Magdaline, Canada, writes:

"I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book and it restored my health."

C. H. Parker, Ex-Warden of Compton Co., Quebec, has been mayor of Scotstown for a number of years. He is an influential resident in Scotstown and widely known.

He writes concerning Peruna. Read his letter below:

C. H. PARKER.

"I had several attacks of colds from time to time and finally a severe attack developed into catarrh.

"I was advised to use your celebrated catarrh remedy, and after taking three bottles I find myself completely cured, and I no longer suffer from catarrh or colds.

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna for colds and catarrh."

If Peruna had no other medicinal value than the promptness with which it relieves common colds, it would be well worth while for any family to keep it in the house constantly.

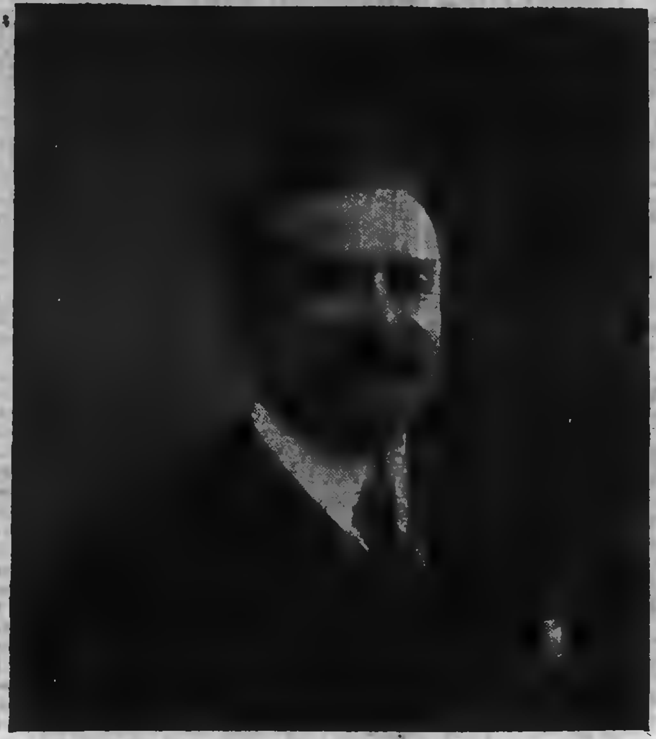
BURNHAM AND BRADBURN STANDARD BEARERS

Chosen to Contest Riding of West Peterborough at Forthcoming Dominion and Provincial Elections.

Large and Enthusiastic Convention of the Liberal-Conservatives of City and County Shows the Grand Old Party to be Ready for the Fray---Mr. Bradburn the Unanimous Choice for the Legislature---Mr. Kendry Given the Federal Nomination, But Withdrew.

Resolutions Passed Expressing Confidence in Leadership of Hon. J. P. Whitney and Mr. R. L. Borden.

On First Ballot Vote Stood, Burnham 69, Garvin 66 and Phelan 34---The Second Ballot Resulted in Mr. Burnham Receiving 96 and Mr. Garvin 72, Mr. Phelan Having Dropped Out---Delegates Came From Far and Near to Attend the Great Conservative Gathering.



MR. J. H. BURNHAM
The Conservative Standard Bearer in West Peterborough for the House of Commons.

Messrs. J. H. Burnham and T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., are the men to fight for at the coming Dominion and Provincial elections. They are the men the Conservative party in West Peterborough, should get behind, every man in it, and elect to represent the riding.

Mr. Burnham has been chosen as the candidate for the Federal House and Mr. Bradburn, M.P.P., is the unanimous choice for the Legislature at Toronto. Incidentally it may be stated that Mr. Burnham's choice was also made unanimous.

Messrs. Burnham and Bradburn were selected as the candidates at the big convention of the Liberal-Conservatives of West Peterborough, held in Bradburn's opera house, George street, last night. A hundred and sixty-nine delegates were in attendance and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. Every polling subdivision in the riding, with the exception of one or two in the extreme north, had its delegates present, and when it is considered that the roads in some places were almost impassable and that the thermometer registered around fifteen below zero, it is plainly evident that the Conservative party in West Peterborough, is in dead earnest and is permeated with the spirit and zeal that make for victory. Some of the delegates had to drive over twenty miles to attend the convention, and to drive that distance with the kind of weather prevailing yesterday, was no pleasant task.

All arrangements had been made for the convention and everything passed off much more harmoniously than is generally the case at a political convention. The convention was called for 7.30, and by that time the hall was well filled with delegates and others interested. A section of seats was marked out for the delegates, from each polling sub-division and the proceedings were carried out without confusion or delay. The total number of delegates in attendance was 169.

There was only one nomination for the Legislature. Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., was again chosen to carry the standard when Mr. Whitney appeals to the people of the Province for the new lease of power which he will surely be granted.

For the Federal House, the nominees were; Messrs. Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P.; Col. J. W. Miller, J. H. Burnham, Ald. Harry Phelan, and J. W. Garvin. Mr. Kendry was the unanimous choice, but was unable to accept the nomination. Col. Miller also withdrew, and the fight narrowed down to Messrs. Burnham, Garvin, and Phelan.

The first ballot taken, resulted as follows;

Mr. Burnham	69
Mr. Garvin	66
Ald. Phelan	34

Ald. Phelan then dropped out and the second ballot resulted in Mr. Burnham's selection, the vote being as follows;

Mr. Burnham	96
Mr. Garvin	72

One delegate did not vote when the second ballot was taken.

MR. J. W. GARVIN
One of the aspirants for the Conservative Nomination for the Commons for West Peterborough.

MR. JAS. KENDRY.
President of the Lib-Con. Association of West Peterborough, Who Presided Last Night.

THE MEETING OPENED.

A few minutes before eight o'clock Mr. Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P., took the chair and the meeting was called to order.

Mr. Kendry thanked the delegates for their attendance, especially those from the northern part of the county, who had come at great inconvenience owing to the badly blockaded roads and unfavorable weather. The delegates knew the purpose for which they had assembled. Candidates were to be selected for the Federal House and Provincial Legislature and it was their duty to choose the two best men.

Mr. Kendry announced that Messrs. Jas. Edgar, J. G. M. Wilson and E. A. Peck had been appointed a committee on credentials. The chairman stated that he had appointed Mr. Edgar and Mr. Wilson scrutineers. Mr. W. H. Moore said that it would be advisable to have three scrutineers and nominated Mr. Peck for the third man. The nomination was seconded by Mr. Max Poussette and carried unanimously.

The chairman then announced that nominations would first be held for the Provincial Legislature and afterwards for the Dominion House.

Mr. A. P. Poussette arose and objected to this arrangement. It was for the delegates to decide what rule should prevail.

Mr. Kendry said the executive of the Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough had delegated to the chairman of the meeting the power to say what should be done and he was exercising that right.

Apparently ther shad been a misunderstanding and it was some time before the matter was satisfactorily arranged. Finally a vote of the delegates was taken and the ruling of the chair was sustained.

Mr. Kendry said he was sorry that the little trouble had occurred, but he was sure that no harm would be done.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Nominations for the Legislature were then taken.

Mr. W. H. Moore said he had come before the meeting to nominate a gentleman who was not only popular with all the residents of the city but in all parts of the county. He had reference to Thomas Evans Bradburn. He did not pretend to say that he was the only man in the riding who could carry it for the Legislature, but there was no other who represented West Peterborough more worthily.

Mr. Moore spoke highly of the personality of the present member at Toronto and alluded to the splendid work he had done in the Legislature during his three years there.

The nomination was seconded by Rev. Jas. Ingram of Harvey township, amid loud applause. Mr. Ingram referred briefly to Mr. Bradburn's splendid personality and qualification.

Mr. A. P. Poussette said he was in accord with the remarks of the gentlemen who had nominated Mr. Bradburn. There were very few members of the Legislature who were closer to the heart of the Premier than Mr. Bradburn. He had rendered splendid service to West Peterborough and should be the unanimous choice of the party.

"If there is no other nomination before the chair I declare Mr. Bradburn the nominee of the Liberal-Conservative party of West Peterborough," said Mr. Kendry.

Loud cheers greeted this announcement and Mr. Bradburn was requested to take a seat on the platform. There was more applause when he had taken his seat beside the chairman. Mr. Bradburn thanked the delegates for the honor they had done him. It was a great honor to be chosen as the nominee of the party without opposition. When he said it was a great honor he meant it. In his work in the Legislature he had endeavored to serve West Peterborough first with a regard, however, for the interests of the whole province. In the future as in the past, if elected, his sole purpose would be to serve West Peterborough to the best of his ability.

The chairman called for three cheers for Mr. Bradburn and they were given with great enthusiasm.

THE FEDERAL HOUSE.

The chairman said that nominations for the Federal House were in order and Mr. Poussette arose and nominated Mr. Jas. Kendry as a fit and proper person to represent the Conservative party of West Peterborough at the coming general elections. This announcement was greeted with great applause. Mr. Kendry, continued Mr. Poussette, had been the chief stay of the Conservative party in years gone by and many times had carried the flag to victory.

"I move that the nomination be made unanimous," said Ald. Harry Phelan, and the applause was deafening.

When the enthusiasm had somewhat subsided Mr. Kendry arose and announced that it would be impossible for him to accept the nomination. He was deeply grateful for the honor that had been done him. Were it possible it would be a pleasure for him to stand for election, but he had business engagements that prevented him from being a candidate. He had been the candidate of the party at the last election, and had gone down to defeat, but was not humiliated.

"You were robbed, you were never defeated," came a voice from the hall.

If it were possible he would like nothing better than to be the candidate, but it was out of the question.

OTHER NOMINATIONS.

Mr. Kendry then called for further nominations for the Dominion House and Mr. J. W. Garvin moved that Col. J. W. Miller be the candidate of the party, and in doing so referred to Col. Miller's excellent service to the great Conservative cause.

Mr. James Lynch seconded the motion.

Mayor Rush arose and nominated Ald. Harry Phelan, and Reeve John Brown of North Monaghan, seconded the motion.

Mr. R. E. Layfield nominated Mr. J. H. Burnham. He had known him for years, and he would make a splendid member. Mr. Wm. Gibbs seconded the motion.

Mr. John Nugent nominated Mr. J. W. Garvin as the nominee of the party, and Mr. John A. Davidson seconded the motion.

It was decided to give each candidate five minutes to speak before proceeding to take a ballot. Col. Miller announced that he was not in the field, and the three remaining nominees were asked to come forward, and take chairs on the platform. As they did so great enthusiasm prevailed as each one of the three mounted the platform.

MR. GARVIN.

Mr. Kendry called upon Mr. Garvin to speak first, he having been the last nominated. He was greeted with loud cheers on arising.

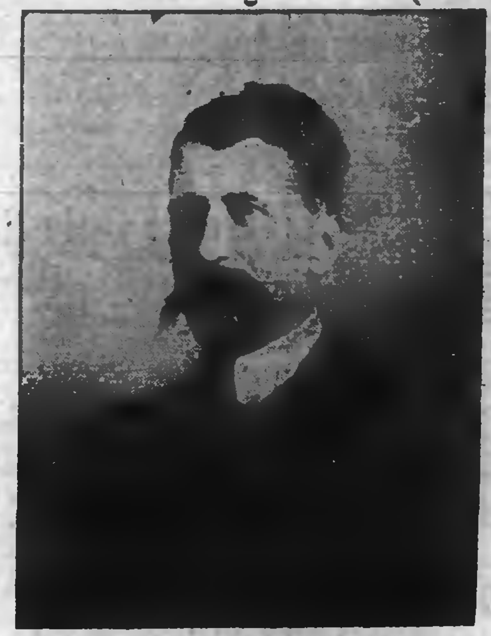
He said he had lived in the riding for fifteen years. It was now ten years since he had appeared on a platform in West Peterborough to discuss political matters. At one time he was the candidate of the Liberal Conservative party of this great riding for the Ontario Legislature. He had been defeated, but had not been humiliated. He had fought a clean election, and was not ashamed to look back upon the Conservative party's record in that contest.

Mr. Garvin referred to the corrupt methods of the Liberal party at that election, and as a warning pointed to the fate of the Liberal Administration at Toronto, who had been smote by the avenging hand of a wrathful electorate. Many incidents in Canadian politics showed the truth of the adage learned at mother's knee that "Honesty is the best policy." We have seen this demonstrated in a remarkable way by the Whitney Administration. Mr. Whitney had shown to Ontario what an honest politician can do. Mr. Garvin referred to the honesty and ability of the leader of the Opposition at Ottawa, Mr. R. L. Borden. If Mr. Borden was elected Premier, he would demonstrate to the people of Canada that he is possessed of great ability as a statesman and a leader.

Mr. Garvin dwelt for a short time on the history of the Conservative party in Canada, but the time limit prevented him from going anyway fully into various questions.

MR. BURNHAM.

Mr. J. H. Burnham said he agreed with some things Mr. Garvin had said but not with others. Honesty should not be made a policy of. A party should be honest, because it was right to be honest, but in politics it was necessary to have something else for a policy. He did not believe in a candidate making a long speech until he had been selected as the standard-bearer.



MR. T. E. BRADBURN, M. P. P.
Who Will Again be the Conservative Candidate for the Ontario Legislature.

ALD. PHELAN.

Ald. Phelan received a very flattering ovation on arising to speak.

He thanked Mayor Rush and Mr. Brown who had nominated him, and the delegates for their reception. He deeply appreciated the honor. His first election, Mr. Phelan said, was in 1873, when he was elected a scrutineer in the township of Ennismore. Since that he had gone on and it was well known that no matter who the candidate of the party was, he always had Harry Phelan's support. He had been asked to be the standard bearer of the party several months ago when no one else was willing to come forward and he left the matter in the hands of the delegates.

RESOLUTIONS.

Previous to the ballot being taken the following resolutions were passed;

It was moved by Col. J. W. Miller, seconded by Mr. David Weir of Harvey; Resolved that; The Liberal Conservatives of West Peterborough, in convention assembled, place on record an expression of their continued confidence in Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of His Majesty's opposition in the Commons of Canada, with assurance of their earnest, cordial and loyal support of the broad statesmanlike platform he has so brilliantly set forth in recent public utterances, particularly those features, which insist on the honest appropriation and expenditure of public moneys, the appointment of public officials upon consideration of capacity and character, the conduct of elections, free from corruption, bribery and fraud, and the dishonest and shameless political methods of the party in power, whose removal from office the Liberal Conservatives of West Peterborough, pledge themselves to use every lawful means.—Carried amid applause.

Mr. Wm. Butler moved, seconded by Mr. Winch, the following resolution; Resolved that; The Liberal Conservatives assembled in general convention, take this opportunity of recording their unshaken confidence in the administration of the Honorable J. P. Whitney, Prime Minister of Ontario, whose striking and intelligent attitude in relation to the public domain, and preservation of the resources of the Province, has been in so remarkable contrast to the wasteful and unpatriotic conduct of his predecessors in office; whose course of action in relation to power and other corporations and general measures of public advantage, prove him a statesman, who has had the courage and honesty to keep pre-election pledges, and who has administered public affairs free from scandal and with a clean and progressive policy; and resolved; that the Liberal Conservatives of West Peterborough use all just and lawful means to secure the continuance in power of the Hon. J. P. Whitney and his Cabinet, at the next general elections.

ALD. HARRY PHELAN
Who was an Aspirant for the Dominion House Nomination for the Riding.

ORGANIZERS SPEAK.

While the ballots were being counted, Mr. W. K. Snider of Toronto, Provincial Conservative organizer, delivered a short address. He said that he had attended many meetings this month and he certainly must congratulate all present on the character of this gathering. In appointed members, enthusiasm, and unanimity it was everything that could be desired. This was the distinguishing feature of every meeting that he had been present at of late, standing room being generally at a premium. It was all explained from the cause that the people of this Province were grateful to Mr. Whitney because he had redeemed every election pledge made, and used every effort to conserve our mines, timber and other possessions which the Ross Government intended to hand over to friends and party workers. Mr. Whitney had introduced much advanced legislation, especially that of Hydro-Electric - Power Commission. He

Jerome Only Sneers at the Plea of Opposing Lawyer

Thaw's Counsel Attacks Attitude of District Attorney at Trial.

Littleton Puts Up Strong Appeal to Save Thaw From Death — Argues For Prisoner's Insanity—Refers to Hummel as Vermin—Scores Jerome For His Treatment of the Young Wife, Evelyn.

New York, Jan. 30.—Martin W. Littleton, chief counsel in the defence of Harry K. Thaw, yesterday asked for the acquittal of his client upon the ground of insanity, declaring he could not conceive how, in the face of the evidence, the jury could render any other verdict. The serious and sincere evidence of the defence, tending to establish the insanity of the defendant. Mr. Littleton declared that he has been answered only by the sneers and insinuations of District Attorney Jerome. These sneers and insinuations, the advocate asserted, were not the competent proof that the law required the prosecuting authorities to produce once the insanity of the accused person was brought into dispute. He repeatedly urged upon the jury to remember that in a case of this kind the burden of proof is wholly upon the State to prove the sanity of the defendant beyond all reasonable doubt.

Mr. Littleton warmly defended Evelyn Nesbit Thaw against the attacks of District Attorney Jerome. He said he could not understand what she had done, what crime she had committed, considered in the light of all she had confessed herself to be, that the prosecutor should transcend all the rules of propriety and decency and attempt to destroy her, when in the next breath he was ready to coddle and hug and vouch for the testimony of such a scoundrel as Abraham Hummel—the very vermin of the New York bar.

The address of the defending attorney occupied all the day's session, and District Attorney Jerome is expected to reply to-day. If he should conclude at the morning session, Justice Dowling will charge the jury during the afternoon. If Mr. Jerome's address should extend well into the afternoon, however, the case will not go to the jury until to-morrow morning. Mr. Littleton urged that there should be no compromise. He asserted that if any doubt existed in the minds of the jurors they should resolve it in favor of the defendant and acquit him. He begged that they be not misled by the district attorney into voting for a verdict of conviction in some lesser degree than that of primary murder.

Any verdict of not guilty in the case, it is said, will carry with it the assumption that it was rendered on the ground of the insanity of the defendant, whether or not the insanity clause is added. The plea of not guilty entered in the case and carried with it the specification that the defendant was insane at the time the crime was committed.

Forciful and Impressive.

Mr. Littleton's argument was forceful and impressive. He refrained from appealing to the passions of the jurymen and devoted himself to a logical, earnest and serious consideration of the facts as adduced in evidence. He attempted to place no crown of glory upon the brow of Harry Thaw, and said he asked for him no more consideration than the average American boy had a right to demand of the average American jury. The speech was crisp in epigram, and the short sentences were filled with the pith of logic and the quality of appeal. The jury followed it with interest, and it was generally conceded that Mr. Littleton had left District Attorney Jerome a difficult task.

"I confess to you, gentlemen," he said, "that I do not know what the district attorney had meant in this case. I cannot fathom how he feels he has discharged his burden under the law, and I am waiting with much impatience to hear what facts, what evidence, what circumstances he will suggest to you as having been presented by him to show you that this defendant is sane beyond all reasonable doubt.

A Word For Evelyn.

Mr. Littleton, in speaking of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, said:

"I do not know what the judgment of you gentlemen may be as to her morals or as to any reprehensibility of conduct either with Stanford White or Mr. Thaw, but the district attorney's manner towards her, in my judgment, exceeded anything she deserved. It amounted to unofficial antipathy—an antipathy which I believe exceeded by far the necessities or duties of his office. There always were the notes of savagery and bitterness in his examination of her, and in his comments upon her before this jury, which were not justified by the facts of this case. I don't know how you gentlemen feel about it, but it generally has been understood that a woman when she takes the witness stand in this court is at least entitled to have her testimony elicited with as much gentility, care, tenderness and regard for the ordinary proprieties as ordinarily governs the intercourse of men and women.

No Word Against White.

"I have no word to offer against Stanford White. If all his works and charities were set up here, I would be the last to tear them down; but the fact that he joined hands with Abe Hummel gave this girl no chance to protect herself. Over Hummel's office should have hung the sign, 'All hope abandon ye, who enter here.' This Hummel affidavit is all they have against her. Yet they make her the eternal mark for all the savagery all the bitterness and antipathy they can heap upon her.

Mr. Littleton finished at 4.45 p.m. and adjournment was taken.

WITH STATE CEREMONY

King Edward and Queen Open British Parliament.

Brilliant Scene In House of Lords—His Majesty Reads the Speech—Suffragists Try to Approach Royal Carriage — Police Take Stringent Measures to Prevent Trouble—The Premier Was Absent.

London, Jan. 30.—That most rare event of a London winter, a clear and sunny day, favored the royal procession to Westminster yesterday, where King Edward opened Parliament, with the same ceremonies that have been observed for centuries.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra rode from Buckingham Palace to the Houses of Parliament in a gilded coach of state, drawn by eight white horses. They were attended by the officials of their households in other state carriages and on horseback. The procession was brilliant and beautiful; only the lord mayor's show rivals this royal parade as a spectacle. St. James' Park and White Hall were unusually crowded, and the soldiers who guarded the way had their hands full in keeping the people back.

A thousand officials, including peers, members of the House of Commons, bishops and diplomats, all attired, wherever possible, in robes of state, filled the Chamber of the Lords when a fanfare of trumpets at two o'clock announced the entry of the state procession.

King Edward read the speech from the throne. Queen Alexandra was seated on a chair of state at his right, the Prince and Princess of Wales were on His Majesty's left, and he was surrounded by a group of state officers.

The menace of an outbreak on the part of the woman suffragists of England gave an unusual interest to the formal proceedings. While it was not anticipated that the women would disturb the King, they threatened to make things most interesting for the members of the House of Parliament, particularly if there was no mention of suffrage in the speech from the throne. Greater precautions could not have been taken if an anarchist uprising had been feared.

The only ladies admitted to the galleries of Parliament was those who members vouched for in writing as their wives or relatives, and the police who were on duty around Westminster and throughout the Houses of Parliament were instructed to keep special watch over all women.

Premier Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, whose health is still feeble, was the only Cabinet Minister absent when King Edward ascended the throne.

His Majesty in his speech referred to the visit of the German Emperor, which, he said, could not fail to confirm the friendly relations existing between the two powers; to the death of King Oscar of Sweden, and to the conclusion of the Russian agreement. Acting in the spirit of this agreement, in spite of the complications in Persia, the two Governments had maintained a policy of peace.

"My Government have joined with the Governments of France, Germany and Russia in a treaty for the preservation of the integrity of the Kingdom of Norway. The text of this treaty will be published in due course."

"Negotiations are being conducted with the Government of the United States for an agreement to refer to the international court of arbitration at The Hague, the questions pending between the two Governments which relate to the Newfoundland fisheries. It is hoped that by this friendly procedure a long-standing source of difficulty may be satisfactorily removed.

"The difficulty which had arisen respecting Japanese immigration into Canada have been settled on terms agreed upon between the respective Governments."

His Majesty made reference to the famine in India, and said the stricken people and the British officers there were facing the situation with courage and hope.

In the supplementary speech to the House of Commons, His Majesty announced the bills that are to be brought in. These are the Licensing and Education Acts of England and Wales, a bill regulating the hours of labor in the coal mines, a bill for the housing of the working classes, a bill to amend the system of the valuation of property for taxation in England and Wales, the Irish university bill, and the Irish land purchase bill, and the Scottish land bill which failed at the last session of Parliament.

When the royal procession was returning to Buckingham Palace three well-dressed women suffragists broke through the military cordon and made their way to within a few yards of the King's coach. They were waving strips of paper bearing the words: "Votes for women." These papers were immediately taken from their hands by the police. One of the women fainted, and the other two were removed by force.

Irish Members Active.

After a short adjournment the House of Commons resumed its sitting and proceeded to deal with the business of the session.

The Nationalists were given an early opportunity to show their activity. The presentation to the House of the notification from the judge who sentenced Laurence Ginnell, Nationalist member for the north division of Westmeath, to six months' imprisonment for contempt of court at a hearing in connection with the cattle driving trials, was received with cries of "Shame" from the Irish members, and brought John E. Redmond, the Irish leader, to his feet. Mr. Redmond moved the appointment of a committee to see if this case demanded further attention from the House. The Speaker, however, ruled the motion out of order.

A Stranger In the House.

Considerable sensation was caused in the House of Lords just prior to the arrival of His Majesty. A man who appeared to be a peer, being duly robed in scarlet and ermine, had his title challenged by the House officials. He had taken a seat on one of the front benches at an early hour. When he was challenged he produced documents and gave the name of Lord DeMorley, who claims to be a peer of the realm.

The officials seemingly were not satisfied, for he was escorted from the House.

The claims of Lord Curzon of Kedleston to be a peer to sit and vote on the part of Ireland in the House of Lords was admitted, and he took the oath and his seat in the House.

PREMIER PETERS DEAD.

Widespread Regret Felt Throughout Island Province.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Jan. 30.—Premier Peters died here last night. He took ill six weeks ago, developing Bright's disease. Widespread regret is felt throughout the province, where the Premier was very popular on account of his genial, warm-hearted disposition.

His loss on the eve of the last session of the local Legislature preceding a general campaign will be felt by the Liberal party, which he led with signal ability. He has been Premier and Attorney-General since Dec. 20, 1901, and he won the general election by a big majority in 1904.

During his regime the Prohibition Act was put into operation, also a new Road Act, an important amendment to the Assessment Act, the Income Tax Act, and many other acts. Agriculture and education received his strong support, and arrangements were made with Sir William Macdonald whereby the Prince of Wales College was enlarged to give better facilities for the improvement of agriculture and education. He was a forceful debater, a good campaigner and an effective platform speaker.

Thrown From Horse.

Smith's Falls, Jan. 30.—Calvin Shaw, a resident of Newboro, met with serious, if not fatal injury a few days ago. He was riding through the fields near his home when his horse stumbled and threw him. He fell beneath it and sustained a fracture of the spine, from which it is thought he cannot recover.

Eat Cats and Dogs.

Stockholm, Jan. 30.—Serious famine conditions are prevalent in the iron mining district of Northern Lapland. According to a despatch to Dagens Nyheter from Kiruna the inhabitants in the parish of Velpelmina have gone to the extreme of slaughtering dogs and cats for food to prevent starving to death.

Found Frozen to Death.

Rochester, Jan. 30.—Michael McElroy, a fireman at the plant of the Leroy Hydraulic Electric Co., was found frozen to death yesterday by two boys.

Peterboro' Party Will Enjoy Balmy Breezes of the South

Will Visit Egypt, Algiers, Morocco, Spain, Italy, Malta, Palestine and Other Far Away Countries—Will Leave Peterboro' on Tuesday Next.

A Peterborough party, composed of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Miss Laura Davidson, Misses Bella and Emma Morrow will depart on a four months' trip to many far away countries and historical points in ancient lands.

The party will leave on Tuesday for New York, from which port they will sail on Feb. 6th. Many friends will unite in wishing them a pleasant holiday, a joyous outing and a safe voyage.

Speaking of the trip, the Toronto World says;—

To those who would like to change Canada's wintry weather for the balmy climate of Spain, Egypt, Italy and the Orient, the tenth annual cruise of the specially chartered steamship Arabic, which starts for the Mediterranean February 6th, will be alluring. Among the many places to be visited are Madeira, Cadiz, Seville, Granada and the Alhambra, and Jerusalem, Alexandria, Cairo, the Nile, Naples, Pompeii, Rome, Nice and Monte Carlo. The cruise will consume 70 days.

The Arabic is one of the finest and steadiest steamships afloat, and is admirably adapted for a cruise of this sort, where the steamship is practically the home of the passengers for several weeks.

These cruises have appealed strongly to discriminating travellers, as is evidenced by the number and character of the patrons. The advantages offered by the cruise are not to be found in any other direction.

LEAHY—GARVEY

On Tuesday morning in St. Joseph's church, Douro, a pretty wedding took place when Mr. Ed. Leahy son of Mr. James Leahy, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Miss Katherine Garvey, daughter of Mr. Michael Garvey. Rev. Father Kielty celebrated the nuptial mass. Many invited guests were in attendance at the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was attired in white satin with an overdress of marquisette, with filet of pruise lace and bands of satin, and wearing a veil and carrying a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Agnes, who was attired in a dainty dress of pink crepe de chine with white hat. The groom was supported by his brother, Michael.

A reception was afterwards held at the residence of the bride's father, where about one hundred guests assembled. The bride, who is one of Douro's most popular young ladies, received about one hundred dollars in cash besides a large number of useful presents. A most enjoyable afternoon and evening was spent, and all join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Leahy a long and happy wedded life.

First Annual Meeting of Knox Church Congregation

Past Twelve Months Have Been Marked by Activity, Progress and Earnest Work—What the Different Reports Reveal—Large Increase in Membership—Finances in Good Shape.

The first annual congregational meeting of Knox church last night was well attended, showing the wide interest which is taken in the work of that church.

The gathering opened with devotional exercises, after which Mr. Andrew McKenzie was elected chairman.

The reports presented were most hopeful in tone, and evidenced a year of progress and prosperity. The congregation and its energetic pastor, Rev. H. J. Keith, certainly have much to be grateful for. There has been a highly creditable increase in membership, and the finances are in splendid shape.

REPORT OF SESSION.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, after which a report of the session was read by Mr. J. W. Buyers for the year 1907. It was as follows;

It is with gratitude to the great head of the church that the session presents this report for the year 1907, being the first since Knox became an independent organization.

During the three months' vacancy at the beginning of the regular services were maintained, and acceptable preachers were heard by the congregation, which became happily settled in April, with Rev. H. J. Keith, M.A., B.D., as its pastor.

Marked improvements in attendance began at this time, and from month to month a notable increase became evident.

The membership at the beginning of the year stood at seventy-eight, after deducting fourteen names of members who had died or removed. During the year 82 were added to the roll, so that at the close of the year the total membership stood at one hundred and sixty. Present membership is 196.

The session recognizes the valuable assistance to the church services rendered by the choir, and expresses its gratitude to the members as individuals who necessarily must sacrifice something to so diligently attend the weekly practices and church services. Before the close of the year Miss W. Anderson, who had presided at the organ for some four or five years, resigned, and the leadership was put in the hands of Miss Robson, with Miss Sisson as organist. The session warmly appreciates the services, rendered in the past by Miss Anderson and Mr. Duncan Campbell.

Owing to the removal of Mr. Wm. Shea, one of the elders, to the Northwest, and the continued growth of the congregation, the session requested the congregation to increase the number of elders by four, and the following gentlemen were duly elected and ordained: Messrs. Jonathan Smith, Richard Chiles, Robert Clifford and William T. Carruthers.

The session notes with pleasure the organization of the Young Peoples Society and the Boys' Club. The Sabbath school, under the superintendence of Sheriff Hall, has made rapid progress during the year, and it is pleasing to learn that the Sheriff had been induced by the teachers to retain his post for another year.

Parents are urged to exercise a prayerful interest in the work of the school, especially the recitation work of the pupils. The average attendance at the mid-week meeting has been about forty. This could be doubled if the men would attend in the same proportion as the women.

The session look forward to largely increased contributions to the cause of missions during the coming year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. W. BENNET,
Session Clerk.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORT.

The next report which was read by Mr. J. F. Morrison, was that of the Sunday School.

The past year has been one of considerable progress and of much encouragement. The attendance of scholars has been constantly increasing, the order and attendance remarkably good and the teachers have been faithful in their attendance and take great interest in their work.

The additional accommodation provided in the new gallery and class rooms has added greatly to the efficiency of this school, and is much appreciated by the teachers, supplying as it does a much felt need, especially in the primary departments, the attendance in which is rapidly increasing.

The usual picnic was held at Stony Lake, and was much enjoyed by the school.

A very considerable addition has been made to the library, which consists of over 100 volumes.

The average attendance of scholars during the year was 107, as compared with 77 in 1906, the largest number present on any one Sunday being 133.

The amount contributed by the scholars was $128.39, as against $87.37 for the previous year.

There has been considerable change in the teaching staff, which now consists of 15 teachers, besides four other officers.

HOME MISSION SOCIETY.

A report of the Home Mission Society was read showing a prosperous year's work among the needy in our own country. Mr. Keith suggested that the Woman's Missionary Society take up foreign missionary work.

THE FINANCES.

Mr. Robert Mulligan read the financial standing of the church as follows;—

The receipts were as follows;

Envelope collections ...	$830.08
Open collections ...	302.80
Grant from Ladies' Aid Society	16.07
Thank offering collection ...	36.00
Interest on Nicholls' donation	159.20
Total ...	$1,404.15

The expenditure during the year was $1,390.05, leaving a balance of $14.10 on hand.

CLOSING BUSINESS.

A few business matters were dealt with, after which followed the election of officers. The large gain in membership during the past year necessitated an increase in the membership of the Board of Managers from six to nine members. This matter was thoroughly discussed by those present, and they deemed it necessary to take such a step. Messrs. Edward Carr and Walter Patton were elected auditors for the year 1908. Messrs. D. Campbell and G. H. Savigny were re-elected from last year, and Andrew McKenzie, H. J. McCannon and Robt. Mulligan were new members elected to the Board of Managers. After the meeting the ladies of the congregation served lunch and hot coffee.

YOUNG PEOPLE.

The next report read was that of the Young People's Guild.

The Young People's Guild was organized on Oct. 25th, when the following officers were elected; Hon. Pres., Rev. Mr. Keith; Pres., Mr. D. Campbell; Vice-Pres., Miss Menzies; Miss Carr, Mr. Carruthers, and Mr. Wilkie; Rec.-Sec., Miss J. Buyers; Cor.-Sec., Miss F. Thompson; Treas. Mr. McCann. The Guild has held thirteen meetings and meets every Monday evening, every one being an active member. The work is carried on under four heads, viz., Devotional, social, missionary and literary. All the meetings are conducted by the young people and addresses have been given by resident ministers. The social evenings are spent in recitation and song, and is a popular night, the programme being given almost always by our own young people. Missionary night is also a profitable evening, and much has been done to create a mission spirit among the young people and it is expected that in a short time the Guild will be engaged in definite missionary work. Literary night spent in taking up the lives of great writers, are also held which are helpful in bringing out the young people and fitting them for useful work in the church and Sunday school. The Guild has done excellent work and is now a strong organization and has done much in making strangers welcome and in so doing, bringing them into connection with the church. We have much to be thankful for and it is hoped the young people will do all in their power to make the coming year the best in our history.

The financial report shows an expenditure of $4.00, and a receipt of $7.65, leaving a balance of $3.65.

THE BOYS' CLUB.

This report was presented by Bob. Thompson. This club was organized in September last, and has since held meetings weekly. There are now 49 on the roll, with an average attendance of 24.

The objects of our society are first to induce the boys to attend our meetings, by means of wholesome attractions, and then by means of Christian surroundings and influences to win them for Christ.

The society is divided into four departments, consisting of social, literary, missionary and religious committees, each of which endeavor to make the meetings as interesting as possible.

The meetings are opened with devotional exercises and closed with prayers.

The average attendance at this club was 44 for the past year, and shows the club to be very popular. Words of appreciation were spoken by Messrs. Smith, Campbell, and Morrison, all of whom lauded the good work which was being done at the club meetings.

LADIES' AID.

Mrs. L. Pollock presented the Ladies Aid Society report, which was an encouraging one. The average attendance at the meetings was fourteen. Reference was made to the removal of Mrs. Stitt, an active worker, to the West, and a list of the officers which was published some time ago was given.

The finances are in a good condition. Mr. Hamilton, Mr. J. F. Morrison, and Mr. Chiles spoke highly of the Ladies' Aid work and stated that they were the soul of the church work.

MANAGERS' REPORT.

Mr. J. W. Buyers, secretary of the Board of Managers, presented the following report;

This, the first report of the Board is full of encouragement for the young congregation. When it is remembered that the settlement of our first pastor took place in April last after a vacancy of three months. It is with thankfulness that the Board presented a balance sheet showing the receipts to be $1,404.15, the payments being $1,390.05, leaving a surplus of $14.10 in the treasury. In 1906 the collections amounted to 554.24, and in 1907 the collections (not including donations) amounted to $1,168.88, an increase of $614.64 over the preceding year. Early in this year the Sabbath school showed such marked increase in attendance it was determined at a congregational meeting that a gallery be erected at the west side of the building for the accommodation of the Infant and Bible classes. The lowest tender procurable was $510.00, which was accepted and the work was carried to completion during the fall.

The report of the secretary-treasurer of the gallery fund shows a balance of $30.00 due the contractors, and the work of subscribing going forward. Probably the most important event in connection with the church during the past year was the gift by St. Paul's congregation to Knox congregation of the church property absolutely free of encumberance. At a congregational meeting a very grateful resolution of appreciation was passed by a standing vote and forwarded to the mother church. The following gentlemen were duly elected the first wardens of Knox church to hold the property; Messrs. Jonathan Smith, Andrew McKenzie, W. T. Carruthers, Herbert McCannon and Robert Mulligan.

Messrs. D. Campbell and G. H. Savigny are the retiring managers, but are eligible for re-election, and auditors for the year 1908 should be appointed. Envelopes for current expenses have been procured, and supplies of them will be furnished to the members on application to any of the managers, and it is hoped that this system of contributing will be generally adopted. This report would not be considered complete without expressing the appreciation and gratitude of the Board to the Ladies' Aid Society for their substantial donations to the gallery fund and the current expenses.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. W. BUYERS,
Secretary.

MISSION BAND.

The Mission Band reported a very successful year and those present were surprised at the amount and extent of the work being done by this society.

On account of the cold and stormy weather the concert held by Misses Bell, Bryce and Harrison in the town hall Monday evening was not as well attended as would otherwise have been the case. Those who did attend however, were all repaid for braving the storm. Dr. W. T. Harrison acted as chairman. Messrs. David Moore and F. M. Dean assisted with a couple of coon songs.

The storms of the last few days have put the roads in a very bad condition and travel on many of the side lines is barely possible.

A LETTER OF CONGRATULATION

Mr. N. A. Howard-Moore's Article on Monarchial System Recognized by Well Known Poetess

Mr. N. A. Howard Moore yesterday received a pleasing letter of congratulation from Miss Janet Carnochan, the well-known Canadian poetess who resides at Niagara-on-the-Lake, in which she complimented him on the article by him on "The Monarchial System," which appeared in the Review of the 18th of January. Mr. Moore, needless to remark, was delighted to receive such a recognition of his work from one of our leading literateurs. He has pleasant recollections of his studies several years ago with Miss Carnochan as his tutor.

He Charged Up The Chocolates

Young Fellow Uses His Nerve in Purchasing Some Sweets

A young lad, who, with newspaper reporters and others, is an undesirable loiterer around a certain well known place in the city, did a rather bold thing yesterday. He went to a local confectioner and, without any authority purchased a 50 cent box of chocolates, charging them up to the young lady who is employed at the place in question.

The act of the little vagabond is inexcusable, and prosecution may follow.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—It is reported on good authority that a certain church, not two hundred miles from Peterborough, has been making overtures to one of our most promising young ministers, who has been in our city less than a year. While we cannot but admire the church as well as the individual who covets earnestly the best gifts, et it is questionable whether the ethics of such an overture would stand critical examination. No man should be considered moveable who has been so short a time in a place and on the other hand, no church should be blind to the fact that others may desire what they enjoy, and that that they are in some cases prepared to sacrifice for the possession more than the present possessors are willing to do. No man is proof against the temptations to move, unless he is convinced that the people are doing all that is possible for them to do to make him comfortable.

Yours, etc.,

Alleged Buckhorn Robber Was Committed for Trial

Miss Purser Positively Identified Chas. Burke as the Man Who Robbed Her Brother's Store on November 5th—Other Witnesses Not Certain in the Matter of Identification—No Defence Offered.

Chas. Burke charged with robbing the store of Mr. John Purser, Buckhorn, on November, appeared before County Police Magistrate Edmison this morning. He did not plead or elect, and when the evidence was all in, was committed for trial. He will be tried by his Honor Judge Weller.

This morning Miss Eliza Purser, sister of Mr. John Purser, the proprietor of the store that was robbed, was the first witness. She said she lived in Buckhorn. She is employed in Mr. John Purser's store. Was in the store the 6th of November. Miss Higgins was there with her. Prisoner came in and asked for a plug of tobacco. Was behind counter and paid for it. He went towards the door, and witness thought he had gone out and left the store for a moment. Miss Higgins called her back, saying that someone was robbing the till. She came back and Burke was just closing the till. He went to the door and witness followed him. He pulled a revolver and pointed it at her, said she saw robber in the gaol and identified him as th eman who was in the prisoner's box. Witness did not get her money back. Between $25 and $35 was taken.

Cross-examined by Mr. Gordon, witness and Miss Higgins, Mr. Ed. Conroy and his wife, his younger brother, Constable Cochrane and herself went to the gaol. She said she thought the prisoner was the man who robbed the store. There were several other men in the gaol at the time. Mr. Gordon asked if she told anyone she wouldn't be certain Burke was the robber or not. She said she supposed she did. The robbery took place at eight o'clock at night, the store being well illuminated. Witness did not take particular note of the color of his eyes or his height.

"What height was he," asked Mr. Gordon.

"The height of th eprisoner," was the reply.

The robbery took place about 8.30 at night, and the prisoner flashed a revolver in her face. She was shown Burke's photograph by Mr. Cochrane, but didn't remember whether or not she told him she could identify Burke by the photo. Came to gaol when prisoner was brought down from Toronto. Were about eight or ten in the room at the time.

"Have you told anyone since you saw the prisoner in gaol that you weren't sure that he was the man?"

"I don't think so."

Miss Lucretia Higgins, a resident of the city, was visiting Miss Purser on November 5th of last fall. Saw robber in store on above date. Miss Purser went into house and he went behind the counter. She asked him what he wanted and he pointed a revolver at her head. She left the store and when she got back heard Miss Purser at the door. He held revolver to Miss Purser's head. She had visited the gaol and saw prisoner there, she believed him to b eth eman. She saw the same prisoner before her in the dock.

To Mr. Gordon the witness said her attention was attracted when the man did not leave the store. Went behind the counter and saw him in the act of taking the money. There were some goods piled up in the store that obstructed her view of the man until she went behind the counter. Went into house which adjoins the store and told Miss Purser there was somebody at the till. She telephoned Mr. John Eastwood, Buckhorn. A girl answered the 'phone. Witness told her to tell Mr. Eastwood to come down. Had seen a photo of Burke. Was not sure from photo whether original was the man who committed the offence, but thought he was. Saw original later in gaol. Mr. Gordon questioned her as to what description of the robber she had furnished Mr. Cochrane. When she saw Burke in gaol he closely resembled the man as far as she could tell. The man she saw in the gaol (Burke) looked to be about the same build and height as the robber.

"Did the prisoner have a finger off?"

"I didn't notice." She reported the robbery at first to Mr. Frank Conroy, as well as to Mr. Eastwood.

Mrs. Ed. Conroy was at Buckhorn on Nov. 5th doing some amateur photography. Didn't remember seeing prisoner. Saw a man who appeared to be avoiding her on account of having the kodak. To Mr. Gordon the witness said that she knew that the prisoner was not the man. The man who tried to avoid her was four or five feet away from her. He was a man of medium build and wore a long black overcoat.

George Taylor, of Chemong Indian Village, was near Buckhorn on Nov. 5th. Saw a man near Buckhorn between four and five. Thought prisoner was the man, but he didn't have a beard on then. It was at the fingerboard about five miles from Buckhorn. Asked man to have a ride, but he said he would rather walk. Didn't know he was going to be a witness until last night at 8 o'clock. No one had ever told him what kind of looking man had robbed the store. The man he asked to have a ride said he'd rather walk and this surprised him owing to the heavy condition of the roads.

"That's the case," said the Crown.

"I have no witnesses," said Mr. Gordon.

The prisoner was then committed for trial.

Coldest Night of the Year; 'Twas 29 Degrees Below Zero

Twenty-nine degrees below zero last night.

This is what the Government thermometer registered in Peterborough last night.

It was the coldest night in several years, and to-day the frigidity of the atmosphere is keenly felt, the mercury standing at 12 degrees below—drop of 17 degrees since last night. The cold weather will continue throughout the day, but the Probs say there will be a slight moderation to-morrow, and then the very chilly weather will terminate in a snow storm.

The coldest night on record in Peterborough, was on February 17th, 1896, when the mercury stood at 38 degrees below. Last night as stated it was 29 degrees, and came very nearly surpassing the figure of that memorable night twelve years ago.

Mr. Sam Jordan, florist, stated that it was the hardest fight they had had since they had been in the business for the past six years. They were working most of the night. They labored two hours with the furnaces going full blast, and only succeeded in raising the temperature in the greenhouses two degrees.

Marshall, upon examination of the thumb, found it necessary to amputate it.

Eko Camp Dance Enjoyable Event

Many Spent Jolly Time at Foresters' Hall Last Night

Eko Camp dance last night was the most successful ever held under the auspices of that popular organization, and one of the most enjoyable in the city in years. It took place in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, and about one hundred and fifty were in attendance. The sitting room in connection with the hall was prettily decorated, the club colors being much in evidence. A refreshment stand was arranged in one corner of the room, and was prettily embellished with bunting and flags. Excellent music was furnished by Maiorani's orchestra of Toronto, and the floor could not have been in better condition. The programme of dances was well arranged and varied and was finished shortly after 2 o'clock. Dainty refreshments were served at midnight by Mr. Jas. Welsh.

Mr. L. B. Rahmbad was honorary secretary of the committee in charge, who deserve great credit for the excellent arrangements made.

The Cold is a Terrible Hardship for City's Poor

These are hard days for the city's poor. They are also hard days for the city relief officer, who is kept perpetually busy supplying the wants of his numerous callers, and meeting out the "charitabilities" to the best of his discretion.

There is a crying need for food and provisions for the poverty stricken of Peterborough, of whom there are fully twenty-five per cent. more than there were at this time last year. Wood is one of the main requisitions and it may be imagined what a hard time those depending on charity have to keep themselves warm when even the most prosperous are kept busy piling on the coal to wage war against the ravages of Jack Frost. Those who wish to make any contributions in the way of money or provisions may leave them with Mr. Miller at his place of business on Water street.

He wishes to gratefully acknowledge the following donations to-day.

Rolled oats and corn meal, from Mr. C. N. Brown.

BANKS NOT SPOONFED

Canada's Monetary Institutions Defended in Commons.

Mr. Foster's Motion Leads to Spirited Debate—Help to Farmers For Removing Crops — Mr. Pringle Denounces System—Interest In Postoffice Savings Banks Should Be Raised—Questions Answered.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Canadian banks and Canada's banking law came in for an animated overhauling in the House yesterday. The discussion arose on a motion by Mr. Foster for the correspondence relating to the proposal of the Government last autumn to help the banks financially to facilitate the movement of the western grain crop. The introduction of the banking system as a topic of discussion was quite incidental. Mr. Sproule criticized the extreme conservatism of the chartered banks in the matter of accommodating the farming community. Dr. Barr not only enforced this contention, but attacked the banking system as unsatisfactory. George Taylor quoted official returns in disproof of the argument that the Canadian banks drained the country of its cash for investment abroad. Then came Mr. Pringle of Cornwall with a denunciation of the banks and the banking system of the country, a theme which he would doubtless elaborate when his resolution calling for amendments to the Banking Act comes up for consideration.

Mr. Foster, speaking to the motion for the return of correspondence, alluded to the abnormal crop conditions in the west and the trouble experienced in the marketing last year in the west of grain of the lower quality. He observed that at that time it was said the Government was asked to relieve the situation by temporary financial aid. It was a delicate matter for the Government to interfere in the carrying on of business affairs, and it was doubtful, moreover, whether much good really resulted from the temporary and artificial interference by the Government in matters of this kind. Evidently the Finance Minister had acted, but it was to be regretted he had not taken the House into his confidence in regard to his action and to the medium through which relief was granted. It had been said that prominent political friends of the Government were very active in soliciting this assistance, but it would be deplorable were any financial assistance for the general good to be given through the hands of favorites.

No Party Considerations.

Mr. Fielding had no fault to find with anything Mr. Foster had said, except in reference to possible political favoritism. In this connection he could assure the House there had been no party interest or party consideration in the matter in any shape or form. At a time of financial stringency he had felt it unwise to precipitate discussion of a question associated with the conditions of the banks; therefore, he had refrained from making explanations, and was beholden to honorable gentlemen opposite for their forbearance in this connection. However, a measure would be brought down shortly dealing with the subject, and full explanations would then be fully coming. Dr. Sproule took the opportunity to complain of the extreme vigor of the banks in dealing with the public. The banks, he said, which had been given large powers and privileges were not performing their functions in refusing accommodation at reasonable rates, and on reasonable security. Hence the usefulness of the private bank. The chartered banks were gathering up the people's savings throughout the country and forwarding them to Toronto and Montreal to be invested largely in loans on Wall street. At the time of the financial stringency last year the Canadian banks had $43,000,000 loaned on call in New York, but when it was needed the American banks could not get the cash. The Finance Minister had made a great mistake in reducing the rate of interest in the Postoffice Savings Banks from 3 1-2 to 3 per cent., yet Mr. Fielding had to borrow at 4 1-2 per cent. Mr. Fielding explained that Canadian overdrafts in London bore interest at Bank of England rates, but when the rate went up to 7 per cent. for a few days last year the Government arranged to pay a maximum of only 6 per cent. The rate was now 4 1-2 per cent.

Dr. Sproule criticized the extravagance of the Government and advocated amendments to the Bank Act.

Defended the Banks.

Mr. Schell of Glengarry defended the banks from the charge of hardheartedness. Mr. Taylor declared that the people of the country had faith in the banks. They did not need to be spoonfed nor was it doing any good for the Finance Minister to pretend that he had come to the assistance of the banks to enable them to move the crops. What assistance could the Government give? They had no money to lend, for not only had they spent the enormous taxes gathered from the people, but the sixty-three millions of the people's savings as well. The Government was to that extent responsible for the hard times.

Mr. Taylor said that it was when the banks last year saw the extravagant rate at which the Government was spending money that they sent out the warning to "shorten sail." They knew hard times must result when Canada was buying abroad some fifty millions more than she was exporting.

This brought the Minister of Customs to his feet to explain that the returns showing the total exports and imports required analysis before a correct conclusion could be reached as to the actual showing. For instance, there should be deducted from the imports nine million dollars' worth of settlers' effects, which really represented so much wealth brought into the country. Mr. Paterson intimated that he didn't take much stock in the "balance of trade" showing.

"When the hon. Minister sat on the Opposition side of the House and there happened to be an adverse balance of trade, didn't he whoop her up?" asked Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Paterson couldn't recall just all he had said in Opposition, but he would say that the Liberals never attacked an adverse balance of trade without analyzing the returns.

Serve All Alike.

Dr. Barr of Dufferin gave some attention to the proposal of the Government to furnish seed grain to settlers in the Northwest, pointing out that it was the duty of the Government to see that all were served alike in proportion to their needs. He urged that the necessary grain be purchased in Manitoba when there was an abundance available, rather than purchase abroad after having been exported from Manitoba.

Mr. Pringle of Cornwall criticized the silence of the Government upon the negotiations of the Finance Minister with the banks in reference to assisting the grain movement in the west. He thought the Government should have increased the rate of interest in the Postoffice Savings Banks to 4 per cent.

Questions Answered.

A number of questions were answered in the House yesterday.

In reply to Claude Macdonell, the Minister of Militia said a board of officers to enquire into the pay of the militia met at Petawawa in August last. A large number of officers and men were heard, and other meetings would be held in militia centres.

To Mr. Lavergne, the Minister of Customs said the duties on French books amounted to 10 per cent. Under the French treaty this will be cut in two.

Sir Frederick Borden informed Dr. Barr that the Home Guards who did service in the Northwest Territories in 1885 did not have the right to scrip.

Mr. Oliver said, replying to Mr. Lavergne, that the Government had no knowledge that a Japanese syndicate intended acquiring land in Alberta to settle colonists there.

SPORTING NEWS

Big Game To-morrow Night; Strathconas and Cobourg

One of the biggest crowds of the season should be on hand to see the final O.H.A. game here this season, when Cobourg and Strathconas will [illegible] at Brock Street rink. Since their last game in Cobourg, when they were beaten 6—1, the Straths have improved greatly, and the game to-morrow night should be one of the closest of the season. With the teams and ice in the best of condition, a splendid contest is assured.

The locals will make a big attempt to win, as they don't want to close the season with all the entries on the debit side. They showed by the way they played in Lindsay that they have a team worth while, and will make the lakeside boys go the limit when the two teams meet.

Bell Telephone Won the Game

With C.P.R. Septette Last Night—The Score Was 4-2 and 2-2 at Half Time

The Bell Telephone seven defeated the C.P.R. team last night by 4—2. The half-time score was a tie 2—2.

Mr. Harvey Staunton made a satisfactory referee.

The teams:—

Bell Telephone — Bremner, goal; Bruce, point; L. Thompson, cover; S. Wade, rover; N. Thompson, centre; A. Wade, left wing; Johnson, right wing.

C. P. R.—Cannon, goal; Crier, point; Turnbull, cover; Harrison, rover; McGregor, centre; O'Shea, left wing; Davidson, right wing.

Referee—Harvey Staunton.

STRATHCONAS WON EASILY

Their Game With Knockers Resulted in a Victory by Score of 5 to 1

At the conclusion of the Lakefield-Norwood game last night the Strathconas' City League team and Knockers played a practice game of 22 minutes, resulting in an easy win for the Strathconas, who landed five goals to the Knockers one, the winners securing the initial tally.

The game was arranged to have played in two twenty minute halves, but only two minutes of the second half had been played when the teams had to leave the ice to make way for the Bell Telephone-C.P.R. game.

HOCKEY

The Karnots and Rough Riders play to-night from 7 to 8.

St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild and Bible class meet in a hockey match at the Brock street rink to-night between ten and eleven o'clock. Harry Clarke will referee.

KARNOTS CHALLENGE

The Karnots challenge any local team outside the City League and are willing to arrange games with Beats, the Pill Pounders, Oresmans or others.

WHITE PLAYED WELL

Harold White, of last year's Strathconas, played a splendid game in the [illegible] junior O. H. A. game the night before last, scoring one of the two goals credited by Parkdale. Commenting his showing, the News says: "For Parkdale, White played a very strong game."

Norwood Proved a Big Surprise

Defeated Lakefield in One of the Fastest Games of the Season

Norwood sprung quite a surprise on the fans last night, when they defeated Lakefield by a score of 6—2. Doherty, the star rover of the winners, had his arm broken in the Norwood-Keene game in Keene on Saturday, and his absence made a great difference in the playing strength of the team. Probably the forward line was weakened fifty per cent. by his inability to play. His brilliant rushes were always a telling factor in the games in which he figured, and his combination work with Kempt has helped Norwood a long way in their games this season. In this latter respect it was easily seen last night that Kempt was considerably hampered by his absence. Lakefield was there in full force, however, but found it impossible to get away from the Norwood seven, who had it on their opponents in the matter of combination and in shooting, and banging in on the nets. Outside of comparatively minor offences the game was not a rough one. Referee Wasson promptly penalized all infractions of the rules, and officiated in a strict and impartial manner. The Norwood men were the greatest offenders, Lakefield having only two players on the fence all night.

The ice was in good shape, in fact, for owing to its extreme hardness some of the players found it difficult to remain steady when checked hard.

Although the contest never lagged, it was not as fast as some in which both teams have taken part this year, so really no scintillating work was done during the game, Kempt being the star of either aggregation.

Huycke in goal was largely responsible for keeping down the Lakefield end of the score, and did really magnificent work in the nets. Nicholl at point and Scott and Hendren on the line, also rendered good service.

The Lakefield forwards were closely checked, and did not show up as well as usual. Quinn once in a while unearthed one of his sensational rushes. Murdoff [illegible] never played a useful game.

THE PLAY.

Scott scored Lakefield's first goal in 3 minutes. 1—0.

Quinn then found the nets for Lakefield. 1—1. 1 min.

Quinn was penalized a minute for slashing.

Kempt scored. 4 min. 2—1.

Scott did the necessary in 4 min. 3—1.

Kempt repeated the trick 12 minutes later. 4—1.

Hendren was punished 2 min. for tripping.

SECOND HALF.

Hendren was sent to the boards 1 minute for a trip; Pearce was given a minute for a cross check. Hendren tallied in six minutes. 5—1.

Pearce was given 3 minutes for hooking. Pearce was allowed a 3-minute respite on the bench. Kempt was penalized for a minute, and Pearce scored on a pass from Scott. 12 min. 6—1.

Hendren was again put away for a minute for tripping. Nicholl did the same time for slashing. Hendren received for a minute for getting [illegible]. Pearce tripped and five minutes on the fence was the referee's judgment. Kempt had to take a minute for loafing. On a pass from Quinn, Sahlino scored the last goal of the game. 7 min. 6—2.

BURNHAM AND BRADBURN

had done his best for the Province and looked to the people to support him. At the next election the electorate would go to the polls and show their appreciation of what had been done for them. From Sarnia to Ottawa the Conservative party was united: there was no discord in the ranks. At the last election Mr. Whitney had polled many Liberal votes of men who were tired fo the graft and corruption that had for years prevailed at Toronto. These men were compelled to admit that the administration of Mr. Whitney was admirable and progressive. At a convention recently attended by the speaker, five or six Liberals were present to support the Conservative candidate for the Legislature. Mr. Snider congratulated the Young Conservative Club of Peterborough on its good work. It was worthy of the cause and the cause was worthy of the club. Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.L.A., had been a faithful and energetic representative of the riding, and it would be pleasing news to Mr. Whitney to learn that he had received the unanimous endorsation of this great gathering as a candidate of the party for West Peterborough. Mr. Snider said that his office in Toronto was in the Crown Life Building, and he would be pleased to have any visitors from Peterborough call on him when in the city.

Mr. J. Stewart Carstairs, of Toronto, secretary of the Dominion Liberal Conservative Association for Ontario, was glad to be present. Like Mr. Snider, he was received with hearty applause and delivered a neat speech. There was little doubt but what both East and West Peterborough would send representatives to Ottawa to support Mr. Borden. He referred to excellent showing made by the Conservatives in the recent bye-elections. The Conservative party was now on the rise of the wave, and, if the story of misgovernment at Ottawa could be placed before the country as effectively as Mr. Whitney had brought home the awful record of the Ross Government in the last election, the Conservatives would sweep the country.

"Victory crowned the efforts of the Conservative party in Ontario in 1905," continued Mr. Carstairs, "and it rests with men like you to encourage your candidates in your own riding and carry them to success. I have visited Peterborough so often that I feel quite at home here. You have treated me kindly, and if you back up your men I believe you can carry two Peterboroughs in the next Federal contest. See that every possible vote is polled. I thank you for your hearing and trust that, when any of you come to Toronto you will give me a call."

Ald. Wm. Bullen, president of the Young Conservative Club, invited all the outside delegates to visit the rooms while in the city. They would be made welcome. He would like to see every member of the party join the club. The fee was only $1 a year and the rooms were bright and comfortable.

THE BALOTING.

It was decided that the lowest man in the balloting should drop out. To be the choice of the convention it was also declared necessary that the candidates should receive a majority of the votes cast. It was further agreed by resolution that all the aspirants and delegates should support the choice of the gathering and make the selection unanimous.

On the first ballot the vote stood

Mr. Burnham—69.

Mr. Garvin—66.

Mr. Phelan—34.

None of the aspirants having received a majority of the 169 votes cast, a second ballot was necessary. Mr. Phelan being the lowest in the count dropped out.

The second ballot stood;—

Mr. Burnham—96.

Mr. Garvin—72.

MADE UNANIMOUS.

The resolution was received with cheering, and Mr. Burnham as he made his way to the platform, was generously applauded.

Mr. Garvin promptly moved that the choice of Mr. Burnham be made unanimous. He congratulated Mr. Burnham on his success, and would do all in his power to ensure his election at the polls. Mr. Garvin paid a neat compliment to Mr. Burnham, and eulogized his ability and the strenuous work he had done for the party for many years.

Mr. Phelan remarked; "It gives me very much pleasure to second Mr. Garvin's motion, and to make the choice unanimous.

Three cheers were then given with enthusiasm for the candidate.

MR. BURNHAM SPEAKS

Mr. G. H. Burnham, the successful candidate, said they would all believe him when he proclaimed that this was the proudest moment of his life. He highly valued the confidence and regard of his fellowmen and would never forget their kindness. He had been charged by some with not being a good fellow, of being unsociable, etc., but he was not half so bad as all that (Laughter.) He was greatly obliged to all for their support, and he warmly thanked Mr. Garvin and Mr. Phelan for their appreciative words, and graceful references to himself. He impressed upon all the necessity of earnest, active and united work. He had taken part in thirteen strenuous campaigns in this riding, and had supported Mr. Stevenson, Mr. Kendry, Mr. Garvin, Col. Miller and others. He had labored hard, and had delivered many addresses, besides driving night and day to attend meetings. He was certain that all the members of the grand old party would be in the fighting line at the next contest. He had been encouraged by assurances from all sides. Mr. Burham made a brief reference to the incapacity, extravagance and scandalous record of the Laurier Government, and believed that the fair-minded, independent electors of Canada would soon end all this, and place in power Mr. Borden, whose general policy had been warmly approved in all parts of the Dominion. There were so many points on which the Laurier Administration could be attacked, that he would not, at this late hour, enter into any discussion or criticism of them. He had been residing in Toronto for a few months, but had returned to Peterborough to live, and would be found in the thick of the fray and ready for the combat when it came.

Mr. Burnham in closing, again warmly thanked all for their support, approval and esteem.

The gathering then dispersed, after giving three cheers for the King, Mr. Borden, Mr. Whitney, Mr. Burnham and Mr. Bradburn.

CONVENTION NOTES.

Nearly every polling subdivision in the riding was represented. The attendance was most gratifying, considering the exceptionally cold weather and the impassable state of the roads.

Mr. William Croft and Mr. Charles Stapleton, both old war horses of the Liberal-Conservative party, were each cheered loudly last night, as they voted for their respective candidates.

The following municipalities constitute the West Riding—North and South Monaghan, Peterborough, Smith, Lakefield, Harvey and Galway.

Some of the delegates from the northern part of the constituency, drove over 20 miles in order to be in attendance. They had to break roads in several places shovel snow, cross fields and let down fences. But they got here just the same.

The number of delegates selected was about 200—five from each polling sub-division in the constituency. Out of this number 169 filed an appearance—a most creditable representative.

On the first ballot 169 votes were cast and in the second 168. Mr. Phelan dropping out after the first ballot. Of the 34 votes which he received, six went to Mr. Garvin, and 28 to Mr. Burnham.

Mr. Bradburn, M.L.A., secured an ovation when tendered the unanimous nomination for the Ontario House. Several of the members referred to him and his work in most eulogistic terms. Mr. Burnham, the nominee for the Federal Parliament, is not only an old campaigner and admirable speaker, but also a former president of the Young Conservative Club. He will make a strong candidate. Mr. Garvin made a splendid run, and the promptness and alacrity with which he and Mr. Phelan moved that the choice be made unanimous, evidenced the fact that they will warmly support the nominee of the party.

Mr. R. M. Waddell was the efficient secretary of the meeting. He was kept on the move but was equal to the task.

Among those on the platform at the Conservative convention last night were Messrs. J. S. Carstairs, Toronto, secretary of the Liberal-Conservative Association of Ontario, and W. K. Snider, of Toronto, Provincial Conservative organizer.

SAVED FROM HERSELF.

Masson, Que.—Just two years ago, the residents of this pretty village viewed, with alarm, the change that crept over Florence, the daughter of Mr. Jamison. From a bright, carefree child, she emerged into young womanhood, worn and wasted. It became a "nine-days wonder." There was no radical trouble and yet her health perceptibly failed. Finally, physicians were consulted. They prescribed—failed to do any good—and were discharged. All at once, Florence began to improve. Her eyes brightened, the color returned, and today, there is not a brighter, happier, healthier girl in Canada.

"I was a martyr to constipation," writes Miss Jamison. "I had every symptom of kidney irritation and had been told by physicians that my kidneys were affected. I consulted a number of physicians and took various remedies, but received very little benefit. Then I was advised to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' After I had taken half a box, the constipation was relieved—headaches left me—pain in the back was better—and I could sleep."

"Fruit-a-tives" always cure kidney trouble, because they cure the cause. They stimulate the liver and kidneys to increased action. Get a box—take them properly—and cure yourself to stay cured. Made of fruit juices and tonics. 50c a box; 6 for $2.50. At druggists or sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

CONSERVATIVE NOMINEES

The Conservative convention last night was large in numbers, enthusiastic in spirit, and representative in character. All parts of the riding were well represented. The speeches were lively and full of vim and business characterized the proceedings from start to finish. The results were highly satisfactory, and the partisans of the party in West Peterborough received the cordial and unanimous support and endorsation of all assembled. In Mr. Bradburn for the Legislature and Mr. Burnham for the Commons, the party has two strong, stalwart and popular standard bearers, and, supported by the workers, with an effective organization, the prospects are exceptionally bright. The party is in splendid fighting trim, and now that the candidates are in the field, they are fully prepared for the fray. When the sound of the bugle is heard calling the political forces of the country into action, the grand old party in West Peterborough will not be found sleeping at its post.

It was, indeed, a flattering compliment to Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.L.A., to receive the unopposed endorsation of every delegate as a candidate for the Ontario Legislature, and a supporter of the clean, progressive and advanced administration of Mr. Whitney. Mr. Bradburn has during the past three years proved himself to be an industrious and untiring laborer on behalf of his constituency and his constituents. He has been a worker, rather than a talker, and has never failed to uphold the interests of Peterborough at all times. The fact that his was the only name placed before the gathering is the best and most striking testimony possible to the confidence and esteem which the Conservative party place in Mr. Bradburn.

For the House of Commons, Mr. Kendry, the veteran war horse, and respected president of the association, was tendered the nomination, which was made unanimous. Mr. Kendry frankly explained that, while deeply grateful to his friends, and while nothing would please him better than to be a candidate, still his business engagements would not permit of his entering the contest.

When nominations were then received, four were presented, Lieut.-Col. Miller, an indefatigable worker in the party's interest, retiring. Messrs. Burnham, Garvin and Phelan were the remaining aspirants, all three being good, representative men and staunch life long Conservatives, any one of whom would have proved an aggressive candidate. On the second ballot Mr. Burnham led by a substantial majority over Mr. Garvin, who, along with Mr. Phelan, immediately moved that the choice be made a unanimous one. They also also announced their willingness to take off their coats and labor unceasingly for the success of the nominee and the party. These remarks were received with great acclaim, and Mr. Burnham was tendered a reception which was cordial in the extreme. In him the Liberal-Conservatives of West Peterborough have an aggressive but fair fighter, a gentleman of scholarship, culture and great literary ability, an effective and forcible speaker, a keen, incisive debater—a man animated by public spirit, and high ideals of citizenship, with the courage to lead. He is one of the foremost and diligent workers in the service of the party. He has participated in many a hard fought contest, and has ever stood by the party during times of adversity as well as in periods of prosperity. He is a past president and one of the founders of the Young Conservative Club, an organization which is among the most active and well managed of any in the province. Mr. Burnham will conduct a vigorous campaign, and his host of friends are today offering their warm congratulations with assurances of their earnest support and heartiest co-operation. With Mr. Burnham as the candidate, with a good cause, a splendid leader, and a progressive, broad-minded and statesmanlike platform, such as was laid down by Mr. Borden a few months ago—and which has been generally endorsed from one end of Canada to the other, West Peterborough should be redeemed at the next election, and the reign of incapacity, extravagance, fraud and scandal at Ottawa, receive its just condemnation.

In Mr. Bradburn and Mr. Burnham the Liberal-Conservatives of West Peterborough have men that they can honestly cheer for, work for and return at the head of the polls.

BIGAMIST SENTENCED.

Alleged to Have Hypnotized Toronto Girl Into Marriage.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Joseph E. Leslie, an alleged hypnotist and bigamist, was convicted in Judge Kersten's court of bigamy and was sentenced to a term in Joliet penitentiary of from one to five years. Miss Nina Wright, wife No. 2, testified. She said:

"I was chambermaid in a Toronto house where Leslie was attending bar. He made love to me by those horrid eyes, and I could not resist him. He threatened my life several times." The couple had met at Grimsby.

Prosecuting Attorney Short produced the duplicate of a marriage license to Bessie Cronin, the first wife.

Leslie said: "I never marred that woman in Canada, but I admit that the two children are mine. I have provided for them up to ten years ago. Nina was such a pretty girl and good singer that I could not refrain from marrying her."

Mrs. Kestners, sister of the first wife, said, pointing her finger at the defendant, who quivered: "You legally married my sister, and how dare you defame her name and the name of the children? You told me you were married to her the day of the ceremony, Dec. 19, 1889."

Leslie's attorney was appointed by the court, as he is penniless. The defence based its case on the statement of Leslie that there was no first marriage. They admit he legally married Nina Wright.

Policeman as Burglar.

New York, Jan. 30.—Patrolman Geo. Dawkins, attached to the Adams Street Police Station, Brooklyn, was arrested yesterday when he reported for duty by Capt. Max Steinbruck on a charge of robbery. His case will come before the grand jury and sensational developments are expected.

Scott Ryan, a confessed thief, is the man who told the story upon which Dawkins was arrested, charging that he was privy and a confederate to at least one robbery, and declaring that Dawkins was concerned in a hold-up a year ago, for which he was brought to trial but discharged for lack of evidence.

Von Buelow to Retire.

Berlin, Jan. 30.—It is current gossip among officials and diplomats here that Chancellor von Buelow will soon retire from office. He has held his post seven years despite the machinations of a strong party at court composed of disappointed office-seekers and men and women of the old nobility, whose lax principles he has censured. Without a following among his own class and constantly menaced by court intrigue, he has now aroused a fury of hatred among the Socialists, who hold him responsible for all their wrongs.

Arm Drawn Into Chopper.

Smith's Falls, Jan. 30.—William Gorlough, a young farmer residing near Cornwall, was operating a fodder chopper a few days ago at the farm of W. Woods, when by some means his arm was drawn into the machine and was severed at the elbow. Garlough has been particularly unfortunate. Two years ago he was badly scalded in the mill of the Toronto Paper Co.

Disorders in Lisbon.

Lisbon, Jan. 30.—There was an outbreak of political rioting in the streets of this city yesterday afternoon, in which shots were fired and some people wounded. The disorders, however, were brief.

Shocked to Death.

Encouraging Reports Were Presented at St. Paul's Church

Annual Meeting and Congregational Tea Held Last Night—Large Number in Attendance—Most Satisfactory Progress all Along the Line.

The meeting and congregational tea of St. Paul's Presbyterian church was held last evening, when a large number of the congregation were present.

Tea was served in the Sunday school room from six to eight o'clock and many partook of the recherche repast provided by the ladies.

At eight o'clock the gathering was called to order, and the pastor, Rev. Robert A. Pogue, opened the proceedings with devotional exercises. Sheriff Hall was then voted to be chairman, and the regular routine of business was commenced. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read, and upon motion, were adopted.

REPORT OF SESSION.

Mr. J. C. Shook presented the report of the Session. The Session desires to express their high esteem and regard for the admirable qualities possessed by the former pastor, Rev. Dr. E. F. Torrance, whose resignation marked such an important period in the history of St. Paul's church. The members and office bearers were very fortunate in securing the efficient services of Rev. Dr. Talling until the pastor had taken charge.

Some time ago the system of contributing by envelope was instituted both for current expenses and the the schemes of the church, and we find that a very considerable number have not as yet adopted the system, there being for current expenses only 340 out of a membership of 770 using envelopes, and for the schemes of the church only 149. It was also recommended that an organized effort be adopted by the congregation in the interests of Home Missions on account of the ever increasing demand for help.

The membership at the close of 1906 was 780. The loss by certificate and death, 38, leaving 742. Received by certificate, 19, and by professional of faith 9 making a total membership at the close of 1907, 740.

FINANCIAL REPORT.

The financial report of St. Paul's Missionary Association was read by Mr. Robert Harrison, treasurer.

The contributions to the schemes of the church were as follows;—

Weekly offerings by envelope...	$1,538 95
Stewart's Settlement, Otonabee...	4 00
	$1542 95

The following sum has been expended as follows

Printing envelopes...	$ 12 00
Weekly collection on books.....	4 10
Express postage, stationery and salary...	102 92
Transfers to current expense account...	22 05
Remitted to Rev. Mr. Sommerville, Toronto...	400 00
In bank required for postage	1 88
	$1542 95

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The financial statement of the church was reported in these columns some weeks ago, and was very satisfactory.

MANAGERS' REPORT.

Your Board of Managers beg to submit their annual statement of receipts and expenditures for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1907, which have been audited and certified.

The revenue for current expenses shows a reduction from that of previous year, due doubtless to the recent disorganized state of the congregation, and also the disturbance caused by repairs to the church.

As authorized by the congregation your Board have obtained a loan of $5,000, secured by mortgage upon the church property, which has provided the necessary funds for the renovation of the church, the wiping out of the floating indebtedness, as well as payment of the balance on $1,000 owing upon the former mortgage.

Through the kindness of warm friends of the church, the interior decorations were amplified so that the general effect is more artistic and pleasing.

In like manner, the organ has been rebuilt through a donation from Mr. Richard Hall, trustee of the estate of Mrs. Nicholls, and now we have an instrument thoroughly modern in every respect and in tone quality and volume surpassing many larger instruments.

The Ladies' Aid Society, with their usual enthusiasm, have carpeted the church anew, which adds to the general effect.

Your Board feel that the congregation have reason to be proud of their church and its equipments at the present time. It is at once inviting and comfortable, and if each member of the congregation will do his or her part, we feel a great future is in store for St. Paul's.

The question of raising sufficient funds for carrying on the ordinances of the church has for some time been the subject of considerable thought and anxiety on the part of the Board, who feel that as representatives of a congregation like St. Paul's they should be called upon to face deficits year after year, and to devise ways and means to meet the congregation's obligations.

Recently, with a view to obtain the best possible results, your Board, after due consideration, decided to cancel the entire pew allotment of the church, and then asked for new applications from all desiring sittings together with an indication of the amounts they would contribute towards the current expenses of the church. Your Board regret to report that, while a number have increased their subscriptions and are doing a fair share towards the support of the work, a large number have failed to realize their obligations and duty in the matter, with the result that the entire amount promised will not provide more than two-thirds of what is required to support the church under a conservative estimate of expense.

Under the circumstances your Board feel it their duty to lay these facts before the congregation and ask for definite instructions as to future procedure.

The present expenses of the church are not excessive when compared with that of other churches, but the general average of contributions by its members not flattering to their loyalty to the cause.

WM. G. FERGUSON,
Chairman.
R. E. WOOD,
Secretary.

Considerable discussion followed the reading of the manager's report as to what plan could be ensued in order that the finances might be met and that there be no deficit at the end of the year. Several expressed their views on this matter and it was the general opinion that if everyone contributed according to his or her earnings and systematically the required funds could easily be raised. However, no definite action was taken last night in reference to the matter.

SABBATH SCHOOL REPORRT.

Mr. Wm. Madill, superintendent of the Sunday school, presented a detailed report of the work being done. It has been previously published at the time of the annual meeting of the school, which was held on Monday night.

FAITHFUL WORKERS.

This report was presented by Miss Aletha Davidson and showed an increase in membership, attendance and contributions. Meetings were held regularly, except in July and August. A bail was sent to the North-west. Two lectures were held, one given by Rev. Mr. Pedley and another by Rev. Keith. The proceeds amounted to $72.90. The contributions at the thank-offering meeting amounted to $37.37. The number on roll is 33 with an average attendance of 18.

FRASER MISSION BAND.

This report was presented by Miss A. M. Thompson. The average attendance for the year was 16. The band took up the study of the Islands of the Pacific.

The band undertook to cloth a little girl in the west. There is at present $84.40 in the treasury.

WOMEN'S FOREIGN MISSION SOCIETY.

This report was presented by Miss Martha Dickson. It has previously been published at the time of the annual meeting of the Society in December.

LADIES' AID REPORT.

This report was read by Mr. W. F. Nelson on behalf of Mrs. A. Gibson. During the year ten regular meetings were held. The monthly collections amounted to $114.70, and $400 has already been paid on account for the new carpet for the church. At the Thanksgiving prayer meeting a collection for the poor was taken up amounting to $36.50. The receipts for the year were $702.34 and the expenditure $586.58, leaving a balance of $116.11.

YOUNG MEN'S GUILD.

Mr. A. P. MacLean reported for the Young Men's Guild. The year had been one of progress and prosperity. The membership is about 100 and the meetings have been held regularly each month. At the last meeting over 200 men were present, when Rev. Mr. Pogue gave a stirring and impressive address on "John Wannamaker." The Guild attend to the ushering in the church and the taking of collection. This society look forward to a very prosperous future.

BOARD OF MANAGERS.

Mr. H. Gillespie was appointed to the Board of Managers to take the place made vacant by the death of Mr. Wm. Pringle. Messrs. C. Brown, W. F. Nelson, A. P. MacLean and R. E. Wood were also elected to the Board.

Messrs. W. H. Hall and Wm. Madill were reappointed representatives to the Nicholls Hospital Board.

The meeting then adjourned with the singing of the doxology and the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. Mr. Pogue.

Improvements to Cobourg Harbor

We learn from a reliable source that plans for the improvement of the Cobourg harbor are at present being prepared in the Public Works Department at Ottawa, and that it is quite possible that work will be commenced early in the spring. The east pier is to be extended, and the west pier will also have an addition placed at the entrance running southeast to within three hundred feet of the east pier, thence south forming a bottle shaped entrance to the harbor. It is expected that when completed the Cobourg harbor will be the best on Lake Ontario, with a depth of water that will allow the deepest draught boats on the lake to enter without danger of grounding. With the proposed improvements completed, it is quite possible that the Grand Trunk will construct a much larger boat than Ontario No. 1 to ferry coal across the lake to supply the rapidly increasing demand.

We have since learned that the east pier will be extended five hundred feet this coming summer.—Cobourg Post.

Hon. Sydney Fisher was banqueted at Montreal last night by the Montreal Reform Club.

Port Dover has voted to give T. A. Ivey & Sons, [illegible], a fixed assessment for ten years.

ROSS RIFLE ENQUIRY.

No Part of Weapon Entirely Made in Canada.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Major Pym, the Imperial officer who has been acting as inspector of small arms for the Militia Department, was examined by the public accounts committee yesterday. He denied that he had any feelings against the Ross Rifle Co. because he was an Englishman, or for any other reason. He had declined to sign certificates as to 75 per cent. of the cost of the rifles on which payments are advanced by the Government because he could not tell accurately what the labor and material had cost.

Major Pym said that no part of the Ross rifle was made entirely in Canada, but admitted that the British Government imported wood for its rifles, and it also imports its bayonets from abroad.

Hauled Many Miles to Doctor.

Lakefield, Jan. 30.—Jack McFadden, a young man of 18 years, whose home is at Young's Point, was stuck on the head by a falling tree, while at work in a lumber camp about two miles from Mount Julian, in Burleigh Township, and very seriously injured, his face and head being badly cut.

He was carried in a semi-conscious condition to the camp, and then muffled up as warm as his companions could make him, was drawn on a small sleigh for two miles over the frozen snow to Mount Julian. The blood began to flow from his nose and ears before he reached the place. He was then driven fifteen miles to Young's Point, where medical aid was first procured.

Will Marry Anyway.

Montreal, Jan. 30.—All efforts to get Archbishop Bruchesi to give a dispensation and allow a mixed marriage between a Catholic lady and a Protestant gentleman, both of whom are very prominent in Montreal society have failed, and a decision has been reached to go out to one of the neighboring dioceses in order that the ceremony may be performed by a priest. Under ordinary circumstances, a dispensation would also be required for this, but the lady's father is the owner of some property in the neighboring diocese and this gives him the right to have the marriage take place.

A Warning to Natal.

Pretoria, Jan. 30.—Gen. Smuts, the Colonial Secretary, in a speech on the Asiatic question, warned the Natal Government that if the continued immigration of Indians is permitted the rest of South Africa will have to take firm action and proffer advice to Natal in the strongest terms.

Otherwise, he said, the immigration of Asiatics would soon overrun the whole of South Africa.

Gave His Life For a Woman.

Montreal, Jan. 30.—Walter J. Scott, a G.T.R. brakeman, sacrificed his life to save that of a woman passenger.

A woman got off the train on the wrong side of the car. Scott knew that the Ottawa express was due, and jumped to the rescue, succeeding in throwing her to one side of the tracks but too late to make good his own escape.

An Atrocious Murder.

Bayonne, N. J., Jan. 30.—With a rope around his neck and both hands tied behind his back with a strap, the body of a man was found hanging today from the limb of a tree in an isolated spot on West 39th street, near the Newark River. The body has not yet been identified. The manner in which his hands were tied makes it appear that he was the victim of a particularly atrocious murder. The man was about 45 years of age and apparently was a laborer.

Young Woman Disappears.

St. Catharines, Jan. 30.—Martha Thompson, a domestic employed at the home of Mrs. A. S. Woodruff, Ontario street, disappeared two weeks ago, and diligent search has failed to reveal her whereabouts. The girl was of a quiet nature and her mother is greatly distracted over the mystery of her disappearance.

New Attorney-General.

London, Jan. 30.—Sir W. S. Robson, the solicitor-general, has been appointed attorney-general, to succeed Sir John Lawson Walton, who died recently.

Samuel Thomas Evans, member of the House of Commons for Glamorganshire, has been appointed solicitor-general.

$500,000 Fire.

Indianapolis, Jan. 30.—Fire Tuesday night destroyed Coburn warehouse, the largest of its kind in the middle west, at a loss of $500,000.

ARTHUR H. SYDERE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Tornto, 15th Jan'y, 1908.

New Legislation Is Now in Sight

Law Makers Believe Business Has Been Over-Reformed

Albany, Jan. 29.—The attitude of the legislature has changed, apparently, this year to a feeling that the life insurance business may have been over-reformed, and that now the law should be calmly reviewed and such amendments adopted as experience has shown to be necessary, to permit the companies to successfully conduct their business.

Without doubt, after the illumination thrown on the subject by financial conditions during 1907, the provision limiting the surplus fund to 5 per cent. of the assets, will be repealed or amended while there is almost certain to be a change in the section restricting the expense of new business, and limiting the compensation of agents.

Many of the legislators were none too enthusiastic over the expense provision when originally adopted, and the large falling off in the amount of new business produced by the New York companies since it took effect, so great in every case as to lead to a reduction in the total amount of insurance outstanding, together with the complaint of agents from far and near that they cannot handle their business efficiently.

The New Warden Of the County

MR. JAMES THOMPSON
Of Havelock, the Newly Elected Warden of Peterborough County

KINGSTON IS MUCH EXERCISED OVER THE CADET LANCASTER CASE

Citizens are Divided into Two Parties in Regard to Course of Commandant.

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 28.—The topic uppermost in this city for the past month has been the Cadet Lancaster case, and its relation to the personal character of the Commandant and his future. The proceedings in Parliament in reference to the affair were printed from Hansard in one of the local papers, and both the Whig and the News have treated the subject editorially. The Royal Military College and its population occupy considerable prominence in social life here. Indeed it is the social centre around which all families and individuals of the social set revolve.

The feeling towards the Commandant is not so one-sided as it seems to have been in the Commons. There it was nearly all against him. People recall the condition of the College before the advent of Lieut.-Col. Taylor to take charge of it. They admit that it was then an institution where young men were rather more demoralized than educated. That in the matter of drunkenness among the cadets, the local cab drivers did a considerable business in taking young men in their cabs from the city to the College, when they were too intoxicated to walk. In those days, too, the discipline was lax. Now all is changed. The young men must be in their rooms by a fixed hour in the evening, and no cab is permitted to convey them. In other respects the discipline has been brought up to the requirements of military life. They put the result briefly, in saying that "Lieut.-Col. Taylor has made the college a safe place for fathers to send their sons to."

But while there is this section there is another, and perhaps larger, who are in full accord with those who voiced their sentiments in the Commons on the Commandant's relation to Cadet Lancaster. They say that his treatment of the Cadet was only the culmination of a spirit of harshness and unfairness manifest by the Commandant since his advent. He prohibited citizens visiting the grounds of the college, the city boys going bathing from the shores, the local papers entering the college, and drew the lines around its social functions so as to evince the class spirit, while he himself was the most difficult of approach.

The demand made by Lieut.-Col. Taylor for an investigation, if really made, as it is said on good authority to be made, can hardly fail to clear up matters, for a competent tribunal would probably reveal to the public the system of the Commandant generally, and let the public so far behind the scenes in relation to the college life that a fairly accurate judgment could be formed of the character of the dominant influences there. This is what is needed, for the college itself has fallen under suspicion.

Handsome Gift From Employees

Mr. T. F. Matthews Presented With Pair of Marine Glasses

A pleasant event took place at the establishment of the George Matthews Co., at noon today, when the employees gathered together and presented Mr. Matthews with a pair of marine glasses, expressing the hope that his trip abroad might be a most enjoyable one. The address was read by Mr. A. P. MacLean, and the presentation was made by Mr. Fred Board, foreman. The address was as follows.

Mr. T. F. Matthews, city;

Dear Sir,—We, your employees, representing the different departments—office staff, travellers, retail stores, and factory, desire on the eve of your departure on a prolonged tour in the East to wish you and Mrs. Matthews, a pleasant outing and a safe return. To emphasize this sentiment and to add possibly in a small degree to the better enjoyment of the trip, we desire you to accept at our hands this pair of marine glasses, selected with a view to their usefulness to Mrs. Matthews and yourself. The occasion also affords us an opportunity of acknowledging your many acts of kindness to us as employees and our deep sensibility of your many courtesies. Again wishing you both bon voyage and safe return.

A. P. MacLean, J. A. Harper, C. E. Anderson, B. Quinn, W. Nicholls, H. Moncrief, V. McCallum, L. Pollock, J. Hettenhausen, W. R. Duffin, A. J. Message, H. Dafoe, J. Harvey, J. Howland, E. L. Mr. Matthews, who leaves on Monday on an extended trip to the east, made a happy response. He thanked his employes for their tangible expression of good-will and hoped they would all be on hand when he returned. Incidentally he touched on the growth of the business of the Matthews Co. in this city and attributed a considerable portion of it to the faithful work of the employes.

CANNOT SECURE CLASSICAL MASTER

Port Hope High School Board is Having Some Trouble

Port Hope, Jan. 31.—The High School Board is having considerable trouble in securing a classical master, and the latest disappointment comes from Mr. Geo. E. Maybee, of Arnprior. Mr. Mabee applied for the position and his application was accepted. This morning, however, a message was received from stating that he would be unable to take the position.

A special meeting is called for this afternoon at 4.15, when the matter will be discussed.

OXFORD STUDENT SENT TO PRISON

Pays for the Fun He Was Having in Ontario

Bowmanville, Ont., Jan. 31.—A young student from Eton and Oxford, who belongs to a wealthy family near London, England, ran away from home and came to Canada last September, on account of parental objection to his marrying a certain young woman, and since has been living on remittances from home. He gives his name as Ernest Hale, and his age as 18. While in Cobourg he appropriated the hat and coat of a farmer, with whom he had been stopping. He went to Port Hope, left the coat at an hotel and borrowed a horse and buggy from Arthur Scott and drove to Newtonville. There he deserted this outfit and got another from a livery. He repeated this performance, four times, deserting the outfit in every case. He was finally arrested at Uxbridge on the charge of stealing the coat, and was sent to gaol for two months. His term expired on Sunday and he was re-arrested and sentenced to twelve months on each charge of hiring the rigs and failing to return them, the sentences to run concurrently.

GRAVE DISEASES, DUE TO STANDING

Facts About Miss Merkley's Dangerous Illness and Complete Cure.

Have you ever thought why so many women or girls rather walk an hour than stand still for ten minutes?

Miss Margret Merkley

It is because most women suffer from some derangement of their delicate organism, the discomfort of which is less trying when they are in motion than when standing.

In some states laws compel employers to provide resting places for their female employees.

But no amount of law can regulate the hard tasks of these women. They must get the strength which this work demands or run the risk of serious diseases and the surgeon's knife.

Read about the experience of Miss Margret Merkley, 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Gradual loss of strength, nervousness, bearing-down pains and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said I had diseased organs and ulceration, and advised an operation if I wanted to get well. I objected to this and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I soon found that all the good things said about this great medicine were true. The ulceration soon healed, backache, headache and nervousness disappeared, and in a short time I was strong, vigorous and perfectly well. I wish every working girl who suffers would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a vegetable tonic which invigorates and strengthens the entire female organism, and will produce the same beneficial results in the cases of other sick women as with Miss Merkley.

BOWINS PLEADS GUILTY.

But Says He Did Not Kill the Woman Wilfully.

Detroit, Jan. 31.—Percy Bowins or Boyne, as he is otherwise called, when charged in the police court yesterday with the murder of Mrs. Cornelia Welch, pleaded guilty to the crime. "I did not kill her wilfully," he said in reply to the question of the clerk, "but I was the cause of her death."

There is no capital punishment in Michigan.

Attorney Kennedy, pointed by the court to defend young Bowins, decided to ask the recorders court to set aside Bowins' plea of guilty, so that Bowins may have the benefit of a new trial. Bowins will appear again on Thursday.

It seems that when he was located at Woodville, Ont., by a Detroit detective, the latter said he wanted Bowins as a witness to assist in tracing the murderer, and the boy willingly accompanied the officer under the delusion that some one else was under suspicion.

PLAYED WITH POISON.

Severe Lesson Is Given Boy Who Joked With Death.

St. Catharines, Jan. 31.—James L. Karr, the Beamsville boy convicted of administering poison in candy as a joke, to a young companion, Russell, was sentenced to three months' in Central Prison. The father of the boy accompanied him to jail, and endeavored to have the sentence revoked, but was told nothing could be done, beyond appeal to the Minister of Justice, which course will be adopted.

Request was made by Karr that no proceedings be taken against the other boys, as all had learned a lesson. It is unlikely any new prosecutions will be begun.

Sell Liquor Through Dispensaries.

Edmonton, Alta., Jan. 31.—C. D. Hiebert, member for the Rosebud district, moved yesterday in the local Legislature "The Liquor Dispensary Act," which in general confines the selling of intoxicating liquors to regularly licensed dispensaries. A board of three commissioners shall be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-council, the duties of which will be to establish wholesale and retail dispensaries, as provided by the act, and to engage dispensers.

Censured Chief of Police.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—The coroner's jury to enquire into the death of James Callighan, in the county jail last Saturday night, returned a verdict censuring the chief of police. The result is remarkable, as no blame was attached to the chief in any way, nor did the man receive anything but kindness in the police station previous to being sent to the county jail.

An Evening for Benefit For Peterborough's Pride

Hartley Benefit Concert a Delightful Entertainment—57th Regimental Band Was at its Best and Played Splendid Programme—Mr. Schriver Heard in Finely Rendered Solos—Hartley Eulogized by Chairman.

The audience that assembled last night to do honor to Peterborough's pedestrian hero was not as large a one as could have been desired, but a great many who bought tickets did not attend, owing to the fact that the night was cold and being of the opinion that the market hall with its somewhat limited seating facilities would not be up to the standard in the matter of providing adequate warmth for the occasion.

The entertainment provided was an admirable one and highly pleased the listeners. It was unfortunate, however, that Miss Choate, the brilliant young violinist, whose name was on the programme for a selection, was not able to be present. However, the band played splendidly and Mr. Schriver's songs were thoroughly appreciated.

About 8.15 Mr. F. D. Kerr, who acted as chairman, made the opening address in which he said many deserved words of praise for the magnificent little athlete who has surprised all Canada by his remarkable feats of pedestrianism.

"I am glad to see those here who have come to the honor of Mr. David Hartley, who has done so much for the credit of Peterborough" he said at the beginning of his address. The speaker said he knew it was only on account of the severe weather that the hall was not filled to overflowing. A great many citizens, however, who were unable to be present, had bought tickets. He referred to the great distinction that had been given Hartley by his being invited to compete in one of the biggest walking events of the continent—the six-day match to be held in Kansas City.

Peterborough's celebrated walker had made marvellous time in his former walks and he was sure that he would do all in his power to bring glory to the good old town of Peterborough. And he thought and was of the opinion that everybody in the town also thought that Hartley would come home with the laurels. This latter statement was greeted with loud applause. He spoke of the good programme to be presented and regretted that Miss Choate was unable to play owing to the fact that the train she was to have come on was three hours late.

THE PROGRAMME.

The programme was opened with a rousing rendition of the 57th Regimental Band's march "Lass O' Gowrie." The next number the band played was "High Pride" and this stirring and tuneful march was excellently given. The real musical treat, however, on the part of the band was the overture, "Zampa." This grand composition called for a tasteful and sympathetic interpretation and received musicianly treatment from the superb organization under Conductor Glidden's baton. The number that followed, "Creole Queen," caught the popular fancy and had to be given.

Bandmaster Hughes played a solo on the cornet of arrangement of Ernest R. Ball's greatest popular classical song "Love Me and the World is Mine," was a master piece of technique and fine tone production and was listened to by the audience with great attentiveness. He was heartily encored at the conclusion of the solo. The accompaniment by the band was delightful.

"The Whistler and his Dog" was spontaneously catchy and is really a light selection that was novel and very pleasing. By way of encore the piece was again repeated.

Mr. J. H. Schriver, the vocalist of the evening, was then heard. He possesses a tenor voice that is full and clear and although the acoustics at the hall are not the best owing to its great depth and height, he was heard to splendid advantage. "Island of Dreams," a beautiful solo of semi-reminiscent quality in lyrics and music was his first number and was vociferously applauded. He responded with "Love Me and the World is Mine." This solo was well adapted to display his splendid powers of vocalism and he sang it unusually well. Mr. H. Nicol, leader at the opera orchestra, was the excellent accompanist.

Following this the band gave two selections "Mumblin' Mose," and that gem of English descriptive numbers, "A Hunting Scene." The playing of God Save the King brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

Mr. Glidden and his splendid band, Schriver, the vocalist; Mr. H. Nicol, accompanist, and the committee who so ably made arrangements, deserve the warmest praise for the creditable way in which everything in connection with the entertainment was conducted.

District Attorney Jerome Now Changes His Tone

Says Murder Was Outcome of Degenerates' Quarrel.

District Attorney's Address to Jury Along New Lines—Denounces Thaw and White and Sympathizes With the Woman—Urges That No Insanity Was Revealed When Deed Was Done.

New York, Jan. 31.—William Travers Jerome, representative of the people, made a masterly plea yesterday that justice be done in the case of Harry Kendall Thaw. Vindictiveness, sneers, insinuations, all were lacking; logic, analysis and a calm consideration of the facts were their substitutes. It was no blind appeal for the vengeance of the law that Mr. Jerome addressed to the jury, but ever and always there was a note of fairness, even at times of mercy.

Denounces Both.

The climax came, however, when Mr. Jerome denounced both Thaw and White in one breath and classed them as "two degenerates" quarreling over a woman! And the woman, the prosecutor declared, knew no more—had been taught no more by the world—than to play one against the other, until in jealous rage, in blindest hatred, in vengeance of "an undeniable gross wrong done to his wife," Harry Thaw shot and killed the architect.

The case goes to the jury to-day, and Thaw may know his fate before the setting of another sun.

Justice Dowling will begin his charge as soon as court convenes at 10.30 o'clock. He postponed the reading of his instructions until to-day in order that the jury might have all the day for consideration of the evidence before being locked up in the stuffy little jury room at the court-house for the night.

Emphasizes Thaw's Insanity.

District Attorney Jerome turned a willing ear to the testimony of insanity placed before the jury and emphasized it in a number of instances.

He admitted that Thaw had always been physical weak and that at times his mind had been unstrung. And while at no point was there the direct offer of compromise in the prosecutor's speech, there was notably an indication that he would not feel that justice had been misdirected if a verdict of some lesser guilt than murder in the first degree should be the culmination of the jury's deliberation. Mr. Jerome carefully explained the elements that enter into a verdict of primary murder, the penalty of which is death, and then he pointed the way to two other findings, which he declared were possible under the circumstances.

Mr. Jerome said he could not see how under their oaths as jurors the twelve men in the box could go outside of these three verdicts.

Thaw's Shame.

Coming to the conclusion of his long address, Mr. Jerome denounced Harry Thaw in bitterest terms as "a coward skulking beneath the petticoats of his wife, attempting to shield and save his worthless life behind her shame."

"Twice in his sanity," declared the prosecutor, "he has sat in this court room and had her—bare her shame, in all its pitiful nakedness, to all the world. Is such a man worthy of even the slightest consideration at your hands."

Objection is Raised to the Palatial Hotel at Ottawa

House Debates Site Allotted to Grand Trunk Building.

Opposition Members Strongly Averse to Intrusion on Major's Hill Park at Ottawa—Describe the Deal as Unconstitutional—Laurier Replies Justifying the Sale—Western Timber Limits Discussed.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—The sale of a portion of Major's Hill Park to the Grand Trunk for a hotel was vigorously attacked by the Opposition yesterday afternoon. Major's Hill Park is a part of the general scheme for the beautification of Ottawa, and it is one of the scenic wonders of the capital. A portion was sold to the Grand Trunk for $100,000. Mr. Pugsley moved to confirm the sale, but the property is now vested in the railway, so that after all Parliament has no say.

The main point of attack was the unwisdom of alienating a desirable park for a hotel. When the Government itself bought the property for departmental business in order to preserve the beauty of the spot.

Mr. Pugsley explained before he became Minister of Public Works that negotiations had been concluded between the Prime Minister and Grand Trunk on the sale and transfer of a part of Major's Hill Park to the company for the purpose of erecting a large modern and up-to-date hotel. The agreement was embodied in an order-in-council passed on Sept. 26 last. The property contained 25,328 square feet. The price was $100,000, and the money was to be given to the Ottawa Improvement Commission to be applied to park improvements, subject to the approval of the Government.

"Members of the House are aware," said the Prime Minister, "that for a long time the City of Ottawa has been in need of a modern hotel, and that all classes of the citizens of Ottawa have been giving their attention to this matter. They are aware also of course that the City Council of Ottawa has been in negotiation with the Grand Trunk Railway Co. since that company acquired the Canada Atlantic Railway for construction of the station on the site of the present temporary Canada-Atlantic station.

"The plan at first was to have a hotel and station on the same ground, but after giving the matter the best consideration possible they thought there was not more than enough room to afford proper accommodation for the hotel alone, and so the railway had to look elsewhere for a site for a hotel. Then they approached the Government and asked for a site. The Government offered to give them a site on Nepean Point and to give it gratuitously, the only condition being that they should erect a hotel. But the authorities of the Grand Trunk came to the conclusion that Nepean Point was too far from the business centre. They asked the privilege of building in Major's Hill Park. After giving our best attention to the matter we came to the conclusion that it might be done. But instead of giving a site free of charge we exacted what might be fair compensation, fixing the price at $100,000."

Sir Wilfrid explained that the monument to soldiers who fell at Cut Knife in 1885 was not included in the hotel site, and that there would be an entrance to the park of 120 feet. It was proposed that the loss of part of the park to be alienated should be more than made up by taking in land on Nepean Point and extending the park to the Ottawa River. That is, it is proposed, that the $100,000 the G.T.R. Co. is to pay the Government for their land should be handed to the Ottawa Improvement Commission in view to extending the park as proposed.

"Of course I am sorry that we are to loose even an inch of the park," said Sir Wilfrid, "but on the other hand we shall be more than compensated, I think, by the extension of the park that is proposed. On the whole I think the proposition is a good one."

R. L. Borden followed. To make this bargain without consulting Parliament was treating Parliament with that contempt which was so characteristic of a great many actions of the Government. "I am sorry for a great many reasons," continued Mr. Borden, "that they have done so in this case. I have no doubt the G.T.R. Co. will build a hotel there which will be a fine modern building and will supply the city with what it needs in that respect. I am not objecting to it because the hotel is not necessary. The hotel is necessary. I am not objecting to it because the G. T. R. propose to build it, because I have no doubt they will put up a good hotel and run it in a credible manner. But I object to it because that hotel will be intruded into the grounds of this park, and as I have said you might as well place it on one of the lawns in front of this Parlament building. There are other good sites not very far away when that station will be located as to which suggestions might have been made. I think the Government has acted with great unwisdom and unnecessary precipitancy, and I believe it will be a matter of regret to us and to those who come after us that the Government should have seen fit to adopt this course."

The administration of the Interior and the alienation of valuable timber lands in the Northwest formed the topic of discussion in the House last night, when the Opposition made a demand for an investigation. It was shown that large tracts of timber lands were allowed to pass into the hands of speculators, and that the method of advertising for tenders was such as to further this evil.

The answer of the Government side was that the late Government had given away many large tracts of timber land to their friends.

FROZEN TO LADDERS.

Firemen Suffer From Intense Cold at Montreal Blaze.

Montreal, Jan. 31.—With the mercury 20 degrees below zero, causing intense suffering among the fire laddies, a severe blaze took place early yesterday morning in the wholesale district.

The fire started in the wholesale paint and oil house of P. D. Dods & Co., 162 McGill street, and spread both north and south. The firms involved are: Hermann, Wolfe & Co., wholesale woollens, damaged by smoke; Frost & Wood, machinery, wagons, etc., and E. F. Walter & Co., wholesale hardware. The total loss is in the neighborhood of $100,000. The insurance amounts to about $80,000. Firemen after playing upon the flames from the ladders found themselves frozen fast and their comrades were oblized to cut them out before they could move from their positions.

Frozen ears, hands and feet were of common occurrence, and many will nurse sore members for many a day to come.

St. Catharines Shivered.

St. Catharines, Jan. 31.—A good many hundreds of people suffered from cold in their homes Wednesday night, the coldest of the winter. With the thermometer registering 6 below zero, the natural gas failed entirely, leaving hundreds of houses unheated all night and morning. Water pipes froze up, and there being no gas, many families had to eat cold breakfasts.

Mayor Campbell wired to the Minister of the Interior protesting against the export of natural gas to Buffalo, when Canadian people are suffering dire hardship by reason of the fact.

Cuts Throat With Glass.

Detroit, Jan. 31—William Headford, aged 35, of London, Ont., who formerly worked as a carriage trimmer in the Welch factory in Pontiac, Mich., took his life in the Hotel Hodges in that city by breaking an ice pitcher and cutting his throat with a jagged piece. He was found dead in his room yesterday morning. Headford had been out of work.

Pinned Down; Froze to Death.

Montreal, Jan. 31.—A Grand Trunk fireman met a horrible death Wednesday at St. Martin's Junction. He was at work on an engine on a siding when something went wrong, and he got down to fix under the engine. The engine moved, and pinned him down, and though he was not seriously hurt he froze to death.

County Schools Should Have Continuation Classes

Recommended by School Inspector Brown in His Annual Report to the County Council—Frequent Changing of Teachers Greatly Hampers Work—Schools Show Improvement During Past Year.

At Tuesday morning's session of the county council, County School Inspector Brown, presented his annual report, which reports progress in many directions. It strongly recommends that there be continuation classes in the country schools that pupils might get a good general and business education without leaving their homes. The report was received on motion, and is as follows:

To the Warden and Members of the Council of the County of Peterborough;

Gentlemen,—I have the honor to report on the Public Schools of the county for the year 1907, as follows;

Of rural schools, I inspected 98, all the schools in the county except one in Chandos, which was not in operation the week of my inspection in that neighborhood. In these schools on the dates of my visits there were 56 pupils in the fifth class or above; 840 in the Fourth Class; 430 in the Third Class; 451 in the Second Class; 265 in the second part of the First Book, and 475 in the first part of the First Book. In not a few cases there were pupils in classes for which they were not fit. They had been promoted prematurely. Now, there are few things more likely to retard the real progress of a school than premature promotion.

On account of the frequent change of teachers and the inexperience of most of them, the introduction of uniform promotion examination would be a great improvement. I hope you will pass a resolution in its favor at this session, so that a uniform promotion examination may be held in June next.

During this year much was done in the way of improved accommodations and equipment. About 90 per cent. of the schools have taken considerable steps to comply with the requirements of the Education Department in this regard, and many may be said to have complied fully. My colleague, Mr. Lees, deserves much credit in this matter. He took great pains to bring this subject fully before trustees and others, and, I think, was very successful. When the accommodation and equipment are ample, we may look for very much better teaching and more satisfactory general results than hitherto.

The headings under which apportionment of grants for equipment and accommodation were made were, as follows;

1. Value of equipment.
2. Closets.
3. Water supply.
4. Grounds.
5. Buildings.
6. Class rooms.
7. Cap rooms.
8. Private rooms.
9. Desks.
10. Blackboards.
11. Lighting.
12. Heating.
13. Ventilation.

Amounts received by township:

Asphodel No. 7	$ 189.46
Belmont No. 14	298.86
Burleigh No. 6	166.50
Chandos No. 8	144.22
Douro No. 10	280.00
Dummer No. 8	158.90
Ennismore No. 4	99.29
Galway No. 5	70.05
Harvey No. 8	157.45
N. Monaghan No. 3	80.95
Otonabee No. 14	357.96
Smith No. 12	349.66
Outside counties	27.65
	$2207.72

Half of the above amounts were legislative grants, the other half county equivalents.

Perhaps the greatest opposition to complying with equipment requirements was manifested regarding libraries. The use of these was not fully understood and appreciated. In some cases they were regarded as an injury. The ordinary school books were considered quite sufficient for reading purposes. When the effect of school libraries become apparent, I have no doubt opposition to them will cease. Under the head of equipment is embraced globes, maps, gazetteer or atlas, Standard Dictionary, numeral frame, set of mensuration surface forms and geometrical solids, blackboard set, pair of scales, with weights, set of measures of capacity, square of surface and cubic measures, a library and a suitable case for all these that need such. Ten per cent of the value of this equipment yearly is promised by the Education Department to every school.

If proper care be taken of the various parts much of it will last for a generation, bringing to the section 10 per cent of its value yearly. The teacher should be responsible for its careful use and keeping. A teacher in a school where this equipment is not provided is handicapped. Such a teacher is not able to do his work as well or as easily as one who is in a school where all these are at his hand.

The village schools are those of Havelock, Lakefield and Norwood. As to Havelock, the lack of accommodation is badly felt. The school building is not sufficiently large, but is considered by many too valuable to be discarded, considering the financial position of the village. The site is not such that proper playgrounds can be obtained. This leads to divided opinion as to what ought to be done. Some desire a new site and a new building. Others are in favor of enlarging the present building. The school suffers much from the frequent change of teachers. A teacher has recently been employed to do continuation work only. In a village such as Havelock there should be a sufficient number of pupils beyond the ordinary public school course to occupy fully the time of one or more teachers. The young people of the village and neighborhood should have an opportunity of getting a good general and business education without leaving their homes.

As to Lakefield the building is good and the grounds fair. There is a continuation class, but the teacher's time is not devoted to it exclusively. He has the entrance class as well. Some changes ought to be made and the equipment largely increased. My colleague and myself intend having a conference with the trustees at their next meeting, with a view of putting the school in a proper position to do more effective work. Here as at Havelock, there should be a large continuation class. At Norwood a continuation class is unnecessary, as after passing the Entrance examinations pupils have the High School to attend without leaving the village. In the school here not a little in the way of equipment is needed. There is a willingness, I understand, to provide whatever is required. Doubtless that will be done before long. This school has had one great advantage over those of the two other villages. The assistants on its staff have been rarely changed for many years. At the Norwood Model School there were 39 students during the late session. Three others wrote for extensions. All passed the examinations, most of them with very considerable margins. Whether the Model School will be continued at Norwood or not, is not known. It has done good work in the past. The schools of the county and neighborhood could scarcely have been supplied with teachers without it. It appears the Government intends to continue some of the Model Schools to assist in supplying teachers for the back country and an effort is being made to have the one at Norwood so continued.

Perhaps the greatest drawback to our schools is the frequent change of teachers. For this I see no immediate remedy. Young women will, of course, get married when favorable opportunities offer, and young men will not stay in the profession because the salaries are too low.

I am your obedient servant,

J. COYLE BROWN.

Warm Rejoinder From Mr. Conroy

Built Keene and Evans Bridges According to Plans

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—My attention has been directed to some anonymous letters in the local papers, apparently written by some residents of Douro, who are using the press to get at each other in reference to the conduct of local representatives in the County Council, and intimating that the contractor for the construction of the Keene and Evans' bridges, by the favor of the county engineer, were not required to build the wing-dams to these bridges, and so profited to the extent of $1600. I am the contractor for these bridges; the insinuation made is a slander. I built the bridges according to the plans and specifications. If I did not build any wing-dams, it was because none were called for. Had they been required I would gladly have built them, but the county would have certainly paid for them.

If these gentlemen will fight out their personal matters without impugning the honor of respectable men, it will be more to their credit, and may save their bank accounts, if they have any.

Yours truly,

D. CONROY.

Want Amendment to Present Act

Temperance People Will Ask for Abolition of Three-Fifths Clause

Toronto, Jan. 29.—Temperance people, through the Dominion Alliance, are endeavoring to arrange for a monster deputation to interview the Ontario Government during the meeting of the Alliance here in February.

Temperance people take the ground that the three-fifths clause is not necessary for the permanency of local option, and want a simple majority substituted for the 60 per cent vote.

They point out that in 1905 only eight of 82 municipalities made any effort to have local option repealed, and in only one of these was the attempt successful.

Last year local option existed in 54 municipalities, and seven of these attempted repeal. One was successful.

This fact was noted by the government. No change of any importance will be made to the License Act this session.

The most important legislation of the session will likely be that concerning jurisdiction and control of railways within the province.

Liquor Interests Will Make Appeal

Will Ask Legislature to Curtail Powers of Municipal Councils

Toronto, Jan. 31.—As a result of the action of the council in cutting off 40 licenses the liquor interests of the province will make a united appeal to the Ontario Legislature to amend the Liquor Act so as to curtail the powers of municipal councils in cutting off licenses. So far as the legality of the action is concerned, no objection has been raised, but in the case of the Legislature not taking the desired action, an appeal for compensation will be made. This, however, is information from a ministerial source is correct, will not receive any serious consideration from the Whitney Government, as the Government takes the stand that if the people of Toronto do not want the reduction, their representatives in council should not have taken this action.

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

New York, Jan. 31.—The stock market today opened considerably stronger than might have been expected, and fair gains were recorded throughout the list. Trading at no time was above the proportions recently prevailing, and the advance was brought about under the leadership of Reading, and Union Pacific. The Steel stocks were firm, while in the late trading a sharp advance occurred in these issues, although the supply of stocks at the high point was considerable. The buying was based on the more optimistic views expressed at the recent conference of Steel officials.

Following the publication of the President's message the market was strong and advanced to the highest point of the day on support extended from banking quarters and a fair amount of short covering. The shorts counted on this message to bring about a lower range of prices, and when the market failed to develop weakness the bears displayed considerable nervousness, and ran to cover.

In our opinion no great attempt is being made to advance the market, at present, although there is good supporting orders at hand. The general market should move in an irregular manner for a time, and we would not advise taking a permanent position on the long side, but feel that profits should be secured on the rallies as there will be ample opportunity to rebuy stocks.

THE EYE EXCLUSIVELY

We do not profess to know all about the eye; Who does? but we have devoted about fifteen years exclusively to the study, inspection and teaching of eye examinations for eye glasses' and the filling of Artificial Eyes.

We believe we can, and do, make this experience valuable to all who consult us, and while we appreciate the liberal patronage of Peterborough, we shall ever aim to increasingly merit the confidence of our citizens.

SPORTING NEWS

To-night's Game Will be Fastest of the Season

The Peterborough team for their big match against Cobourg tonight will be picked from the following players; Derocher, Glover, Meagher, McWilliams, Parnell, Rose, McMillan, and Long.

A strong seven can be picked from the above and they should be able to put it over the visitors. Cobourg is bringing up a fast, aggressive team, and intend pulling out a victory. Wm. McCord of Toronto, will referee. The match should be the fastest of the season. The ice was never in better condition and it will be ding-dong from beginning to end.

This match will be the last appearance of the Strathconas.

Athletic Movement at George Street Methodist Church

An athletic department is being organized in connection with the George street Methodist church. The young men of the congregation have entered enthusiastically into the proposition and the movement promises to be very successful. The work of organization is now going on, and everything will be ready for activity in the spring. It is proposed to have a baseball team next summer, or likely several baseball teams, one for the seniors, one for the juniors etc. Other branches of sport will also be entered into and a most successful season is anticipated. The movement has the warm endorsation of the pastor and the church officers generally and should be a stimulant in rousing the interest of the young men in church work.

HOCKEY

EDMONTON WINS AGAIN

Edmonton defeated Battleford on Friday of last week, 10—8, at Edmonton. Whitcroft and Crowley starred for the winners. The Journal, of Edmonton, says;

"For the Edmonton team, Whitcroft let himself out a few and by stunts he did not bother about in other events, scoring four of the first five goals, and doing it after a fashion that opened the eyes of even his most ardent admirers. He had speed to burn, and when he got away there was nothing to it.

"Crowley was a stone wall and when he loomed in the immediate vicinity there was haste on the part of the possessor of the puck to dispose of it to one supposedly out of the danger line."

PORT HOPE BEAT BELLEVILLE.

Form III of the Collegiate Institute proved too much for Form II. in their game at Brock street rink last night. One of the players kindly left in a report of the match with the Review today, but although he gave the line-up and other particulars, failed to mention the score, which is understood to have been 6—2.

HIGH LICENSE IN HAVELOCK

Villagers to Vote on By-law to Raise Fee to $750

Havelock, Jan. 30.—A special meeting of the town council was held on Friday night, when a petition was presented to the council, signed by R. J. Graham and 99 others, asking that the license fee for hotels in Havelock be increased to $750.00.

This petition resulted in considerable discussion. Coun. Campney thought that his duty was to meet the wishes of the people by submitting a bybylaw.

Councillor Knox was of the opinion that they should consider carefully whether the amount was too high or too low, as the case may be, to affect the passing of the bylaw, personally he thought it was too high.

Councillor Wood felt that the wishes of the people on the petition should be met, and on motion of Campney, seconded by Wood, the council decided to submit a bylaw to be voted on Monday, Feb. 24th, raising the license fee to $750 per year.

Hastings Revels in a Snow Plow

The purchase of a snow plough was at least one good move of the 1912 council. Where we used to have about two feet of snow to tramp in the mornings, we can now get down street and not be completely tired out when we get there. Of course we have to pay for the ploughing, but it's worth it.—Hastings Star.

Doing Good Work in Hospitals

An interesting meeting was held in St. Andrew's lecture hall on Wednesday night, when special reference was made to the excellent work done by the Woman's Home Missionary Society in the hospitals in Sifton, Atlin, Dauphin, Vegreville, Alta.; Wakaw, Sask., and Teulon, Man. At the hospital in Teulon Dr. Hunter is medical superintendent, and Miss Elizabeth Bell, formerly of St. Andrew's Manse, Peterborough, is the efficient head nurse.

The oldest voter in Newmarket municipal elections was Mrs. Jane Taylor, aged 90.

A petition in favor of license reduction has been presented to the Belleville city council.

The trial of the alleged grocers' guild combine will be heard some time in June in Toronto.

Bank Manager Highly Honored

Reception Tendered Mr. Parker at Tweed—Peterborough People Present

The Tweed News says; Little did those in control of the Sovereign Bank dream that the demise of that institution would bring to Tweed a most interesting social event, but once again the old adage about ill wind blowing good, has been verified, because the "at-home" given in honor of Mr. W. A. Parker, the manager of the Tweed branch of the late Sovereign, was one of the most happy events of its kind that has ever been given in Tweed.

When word was received that Mr. Parker might shortly leave Tweed, the local bachelors and benedicts decided to show their appreciation of his worth, by giving a reception. Invitations were at once sent to the many friends of Mr. Parker, announcing an "at home" in his honor in Murphy's Opera House on Friday last.

On Friday night the bachelors, benedicts and their lady friends assembled in the opera house, and the social evening spent with dancing and cards, will be remembered long by those who were in attendance.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. Armstrong and Dr. and Mrs. Burrows of Marlbank, the Misses McWilliams, Mrs. Fred Blenker and Mr. Edward Gladney of Marmora, Miss Sherry of Norwood, Mrs. McDowell of Kingston, Mr. P. O. Dumble and Mr. L. Bowes of Peterborough.

Mr. Parker is a brother of Mrs. W. C. Ackerman of Peterborough.

WEDDING BELLS

HURL—SANDERSON

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. David Sanderson, Caroline street, Lakefield, was the scene of a pretty wedding at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when the marriage was solemnized of their eldest daughter, Miss Annie to Mr. Wesley Lawrence Hurl, son of Mr. E. Hurl. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S Sutherland Burns, B.A., pastor of the Lakefield Presbyterian church, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, who was brought in and given away by her father, was prettily attired in a blue cloth dress white net waist over silk, with lace trimmings. She carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations. Miss Annie Tucker of Peterborough, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. Mr. Wesley Leonard ably assisted the groom. After the ceremony and congratulations and good wishes had been given, the guests sat down to a delicious wedding supper in the dining room, made festive with decorations for the occasion. Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Hurl left amid showers of rice for Peterborough to take the late train for Toronto, and thence to Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a blue suit with white hat. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hurl will reside in Lakefield. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful drawing room suite. It was only necessary to look at the array of numerous beautiful and costly presents to conclude that the youthful bride and groom hold a very high place in the love and esteem of many friends and if a bright day and good wishes are harbingers of a happy married life Mr. and Mrs. Hurl will be so favored.

Conservation of Waters is Approved by Commissioners

At the meeting of the Water Commissioners yesterday afternoon, the chairman, Mr. T. F. Matthews, was given four months leave of absence in order to take a trip abroad. Mr. W. H. Hill was appointed chairman for the time Mr. Matthews is absent.

The following motion expressing approval of the regulating and conserving of the waters of the Trent Canal above Peterborough, was passed:—

Moved by Messrs. Hill and Moore, —That the Water Commissioners of the city of Peterborough desire to place on record their sincerest appreciation of the manner in which the water in the Trent Canal above Peterborough has been regulated and conserved under the direction of the capable Deputy Minister and chief engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Mr. M. J. Butler, C.E., affording as it has a regular flow at all times during the year, thereby enabling the Waterworks Department to operate their pumping station throughout the year without interruption for want of power and not even necessitating the changing of a stoplog in the waterworks dam during that time.

We also approve of the policy of the department in building new dams and renewing old dams on the Gull river, Burnt river, Mississagua creek and other tributary waters recently taken over from the Ontario Government by the Dominion Government, and we hope it may be the determination of the department to continue this satisfactory policy of conserving the waters.—Carried.

Private Frank Doucette, of the Permanent Medical Corps, Kingston, has retired from the ranks of the army, and is at present the guest of his parents in this city. Mr. Doucette arrived home a few days ago, having decided to abandon the service, and not having served his full term, he was obliged to buy his discharge, which cost him between seventy and eighty dollars. However, Mr. Doucette was wearied of the daily monotony of the training and drilling of the soldier's life, and decided to return to his occupation which he worked at before entering the service.

A PROPOSED APPEAL

The proposed appeal to the Ontario Government by the license interests of Toronto raises a rather extraordinary point in municipal law. The deputation will seek to have the government limit the City Council's power to cut off licenses. This would be impossible. It would be muzzling public opinion. Whatever the people as a whole want, they must have. That is the basis of modern government whether it is right or wrong. The law must remain as it is. If the people of Toronto or of any municipality since the principle applies to all, wish a curtailment or an increase of the number of licenses they can get their wish in the usual way—at the municipal polls. Interference with municipal liberty by drastic measures of limitation are not only not wise, they are out of the question.

A WISE REFORM

The Senate is not the bed of indolence and repose so frequently pictured by the "funny" writers of the humorous press. For once the Hon. G. W. Ross is right. He believes in the necessity of a brake on the fast wheels of our national train. All constitutional writers believe in it too. There is such a thing as the most wise and deliberate making undue haste occasionally and why should the House of Commons be exempt from this failing. Moreover, beyond serving as a brake the Senate can do but little. However that little is frequently of great use and benefit. The present instance is a good example. Notice has been given by a senator to amend the Railway Act so as to protect employees from those who do not know better than to induce a man on duty to take a drink. The proposed amendment with its penalty of a heavy fine or imprisonment will not only protect the man on duty from his friends, and indirectly perhaps his wife and family, but the lives of the hurrying thousands who travel by train and who rely upon the constant watchfulness of the railway's employees for protection from death or injury.

THE JAPANESE QUESTION

The Opposition at Ottawa, deserves the thanks of the whole Dominion of Canada for coming to the rescue in the recent threatened invasion of Orientals. No one of course has any desire to be cruel or exclusive as such but the deluge of Asiatics permitted by the new Canadian treaty with Japan practically opened the gates of Canada in the west to all and sundry from the east, without limitation. This is one of the more extraordinary features of the Laurier Government's action. In the case of the British Isles we have the right to exclude undesirables and to deport them if necessary. No such privilege remains to us in the case of Japan. Laurier surrendered unconditionally. Why? The report of his own commissioner, Mr. King, shows why. The G.T.P. wanted laborers at a reduced rate. That was the cause of the plot against Canada. We were to be sacrificed to those who wished to make money even at the expense of Canada's remaining a white man's country. The situation though intolerable was maintained almost to the point of a final battle between Mr. Laurier and Mr. Borden. But Mr. Borden relied upon the public opinion of Canadians as voiced in the Canadian press. It soon came to his aid. The Government in the end capitulated but with its weapons stained with shame.

Loyalty to the interests of Britain it had repeatedly declared, as its reason for refusing to "denounce" its own treaty. Then the real exposure came. The Home Government had actually advised Canada at the time to pass the Natal Act, in order to protect itself, and this wise and considerate counsel was ignored. It would have had the effect of excluding undesirables, and these are the cheapest in the labor market.

PEN POINTS

'Twas a great convention.

Burnham and Bradburn—they are a winning pair.

It was a great night for the B's—Burnham and Bradburn.

The most representative conention ever held in the history of the riding was the general verdict.

Twenty-nine degrees below zero is fairly comfortable, and no one was heard singing "A hot time in the old town tonight."

West Peterborough Conservatives are prepared for the fray. East Peterborough will also be in line after Feb. 26th.

The Board of Trade wants the flow of water on the Trent Canal regulated, while local optionists desire more rigid regulations regarding the license law and the flow of the brimming bowl.

Every column in a newspaper contains from 10,000 to 20,000 distinct pieces of metal, the displacement of any of which causes a blunder or typographical error. Yet some people lay claim to a phenomenally brilliant mind if they can discover an error in a newspaper.

Mr. E. R. Wood, formerly of Peterborough, vice-president of the Dominion Securities Company, in his address at the annual meeting of the corporation, reviewed the bond situation in detail, and incidentally passed the criticism given below on municipal bond issues. His words were;

"The weakest feature of the municipal situation is the willingness, especially for undertakings of a general public service nature. Such debt is assumed without recognition of the fact that its swelling total must lead to increasing interest rates to compensate for the increased risk of the bonds as investments. The present large rise in interest rates obscures this inevitable result. It will appear when interest reaches a level again."

Popular Speaker To Speak at Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Thomas McGillicuddy, of Toronto Will Lecture on "The Four Johns"

Mr. Thomas McGillicuddy, the well known and popular lecturer, will once again be heard in the Y.M.C.A., Peterborough. Mr. McGillicuddy will give an entirely new lecture, entitled "The Four Johns." He has been secured for Saturday, February 15th, and will speak to boys on Sunday afternoon, the 16th, in the association building.

Peterboro' Man Captured Prize

Montreal Despatch Pays Tribute to Mr. J. C. Edwards of This City

Montreal, Jan. 31.—The Semi-ready Company offered their agents throughout Canada prizes of $200 for the best advertisement inserted by them during the year, setting forth the advantages and superiority of Semi-ready clothing.

A great deal of interest was taken in the campaign, and, incidentally, it led to the promotion of one of the contestants to a splendid position in his own town. Charlie Wilson was the advertising writer for Fred. J. Mitchell, who owns the Semi-ready store in Fort William, and he entered into the contest with such spirit that it led to the managing director of the Fort William Times-Journal securing him as advertising manager.

Fred. J. Mitchell's advertisement won the second prize, and the medal, and he wrote, "I want you to give Mr. Charles A. Wilson credit for his production."

A. W. Creasman, of Peterborough, won the second prize, and his advertisement was written by J. C. Edwards, another clever young man who will some day make his mark.

The third prize was won by J. A. Vachon, of Prince Albert.

The fourth prize was awarded to Robert Wright & Co., of Brockville.

Logie & Mackenzie, of Vernon, B.C., won the fifth and last prize. The collection of advertisements received was most creditable.

S. M. Lowrie, of the Gazette, who acted as judge for the Semi-ready Company, said that the advertisements all showed a high order of talent.

REV. JAS. CAMPBELL WILL ADMINISTER THE ESTATE

After the death of Dr. Robert Campbell of Buffalo, last fall, considerable trouble arose over the administration of estate, which, it is understood, amounts to several thousand dollars. Dr. Ed. N. Pfohl, of Buffalo, claimed to have the right to administer the estate and the claim was opposed by Rev. Jas. Campbell, brother of the deceased. These two gentlemen have been fighting the matter for several months, and information has been received in the city that Rev. Mr. Campbell, who is now in Virginia, has been successful and will administer the estate. Mrs. S. W. Lowry, who is a niece of the late Dr. Campbell, has been notified to this effect.

Dr. Campbell died without leaving a will and there has been an interesting fight as to who should administer the estate.

St. Andrew's Church Ends Year With Substantial Surplus

Annual Meeting Held Last Evening—Encouraging Reports Were Presented—Every Organization Flourishing and Doing Good Work—New Board of Managers Elected.

The reports presented at the annual meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church last evening were most encouraging and show the different organizations and finances to be in a flourishing condition. They were most hopeful in tone, and evidenced a year of progress and prosperity. The congregation certainly have much to be grateful for. The finances show a creditable balance on hand.

The gathering last evening was fairly large, and much interest was manifested. It opened with devotional exercises, and the pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter, acted as chairman.

SESSION REPORT.

Mr. Richard Lees read this report. The session desires on behalf of the congregation to express its gratitude to God for His continued guidance and blessing during the year that has passed. The work in the various departments of church life have been maintained in a most efficient manner, and with the various phases of the church's activities recognized, St. Andrew's church can feel that it is seeking to keep pace with the growing needs of the community and of the world wide need for the Gospel. The communion services have been well attended, and the prayer meetings, while not engaging the attention of our people as they should, have been the source of spiritual strength and blessing to the church. We cannot commend too highly the faithful work of our Sabbath School teachers and officers, and would commend this department of our church life to the practical consideration of the people.

There are 503 communicants on the roll, 57 having been added during the year. Twenty-eight have been added by certificate and twenty-nine by profession of faith. The session is unanimous in favor of increasing the seating capacity of the church. The excellent services of Mr. Freeland as choirmaster were also recognized.

The session and relief fund receipts amounted to $21.20, the expenditure $15.40, leaving a balance of $5.80.

LADIES' AID.

Mrs. Harper read the report of the Ladies' Aid. This past year had been a most successful one in the history of the society. The receipts for the year were $274.30, and the expenditures were $268.48, leaving a balance of $5.82.

W.F.M. REPORT.

This report was presented by Miss Edna R. Sills, secretary of the society. The society has taken up an energetic study of the progress of the Gospel in the foreign field. There is a total membership of 42, with an average attendance of thirty. The subscription list to "Tidings" has increased from 150 to 200. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $146

MISSION BAND.

Miss E. Smith, in presenting this report, referred to the good work being done by the society. Regular meetings were held on the 2nd Tuesday of each month. The average attendance was 15. The society provides clothing for an Indian girl each year. The band has a substantial balance in the bank.

YOUNG MEN'S GUILD

Mr. T. Hutchinson presented this report. The meetings have been held regularly on the 3rd Tuesday of each month, except July and August, and the attendance was good. Interesting programmes were arranged for each meeting. During the coming months the "History of Presbyterianism" will be taken up and will form an interesting feature of the season's work.

SABBATH SCHOOL REPORT.

Mr. F. Kerr presented this very encouraging report. The average attendance in the school was 167 and in the Bible class 15. The receipts were $342.26, and expenditures were $269.41, leaving a balance in the treasury of $72.85. The work of the Sabbath School is conducted in four departments, namely, Bible class, senior school, primary and kindergarten.

WILLING WORKERS

Mrs. J. P. Potter made a short report regarding the work of this society. They meet fortnightly, one meeting being a sewing one, while the other is a devotional gathering. There is at present $11.36 in the treasury.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR REPORT.

This report was read by Miss E. Mathieson, and showed an average attendance of 30. The members have reorganized during the year, and have held regular meetings since. The missionary committee raised during the year $37.00 for missions, and the treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $4.61.

JUNIOR GUILD REPORT.

Rev. Mr. Potter read this report, which showed that the boys were meeting with excellent success. The work was conducted through different committees, devotional, social, educational and athletic. The guild has paid the sum of $25.00 to the Ladies' Aid Society.

DAUGHTERS OF ERIN.

This report was read by Miss E. Martin, and it showed that endeavors were being made to furnish a Pointe Aux Trembles school at a cost of $35. This society also contributed $50 to the support of a pupil in this school.

To the members and adherents of St. Andrew's church:—

By this report which has been placed in your hands you will see that by careful management we were able to repair the organ at considerable expense and to provide for all the needs of the church and yet to report a surplus over all expenses.

We desire to thank the people for their unvarying courtesy and for their helpful co-operation by which alone we were able to report so successfully.

We beg to recommend to the people that they make a special effort to provide for the ordinary expenses of the church by the ordinary revenues, so that the entire receipts from the property could be set aside for the mission and other benevolent enterprises of the church.

Last July we received from the Nicholl's estate, the sum of three thousand dollars, to be used for permanent improvements only.

We made careful enquiry regarding the cost of a gallery, plans have been prepared and the cost thereof calculated, we found that it would cost about five thousand dollars.

We thought it wise not to ask the congregation to spend the three thousand dollars and incur an additional debt of two thousand dollars at this time.

Wishing you continued and increasing success.

We are your most obedient servants,

THE MANAGERS.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The receipts for the year were $3,527.30 and the expenditures were $3,480.27, leaving a balance of $47.03. The property account showed a net revenue of $801.35.

BOARD OF MANAGERS.

Messrs. E. B. Fowler Hunter, T. C. Elliott, F. Pakenham and J. C. Anderson were the retiring members this year, leaving Messrs. G. Evans and G. Mathers of the old Board.

Messrs. J. A. Fair, Ald. Geo. Gillespie and J. S. Ferguson were elected for a term of three years. Messrs. Thos. Petrie and Jas. Saunders were elected to the Board for a term of one year.

Rev. J. G. Potter and Mr. John McClelland were appointed to the Nicholls Hospital Board.

Mr. Wm. Fowler was re-elected representative on the Charity Board.

OTHER BUSINESS.

The matter of the proposed new gallery for the church was left over for the new Board of Managers to decide and if they thought that a gallery was necessary a congregational meeting could be called at a later date and have the matter thoroughly discussed. Upon motion of Mr. Richard Lees seconded by Mr. Wm. Fowler, the matter was left in the hands of the Board of Managers.

It was moved by Mr. McFarlane, seconded by Mr. Kerr, that the congregation make a special effort to provide for the ordinary expenses of the church by the ordinary revenues, so that the entire receipts from the property could be set aside for the mission and other benevolent enterprises of the church.—Carried.

A vote of thanks was unanimously passed to the ladies of the church for their good work during the year.

It was moved by Miss King, seconded by Mr. Andrew McFarlane, that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered the old managers for their very efficient services during the past year.

The meeting then adjourned, after which a social time was spent and refreshments were served.

KNOWN EVERYWHERE

Simple Home-Made Treatment to Overcome Rheumatism.

When an eminent authority announced the fact that he had found a new way to treat that dread American disease, Rheumatism, with just common, every day drugs, found in any drug store, the physicians were slow, indeed, to attach much importance to his claims. This was only a few months ago. Today nearly every newspaper in the country is announcing it, and the splendid results achieved. It is so simple that anyone can prepare it at home at small cost. It is made up as follows: Get from any good prescription pharmacy Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. These are all simple ingredients, making an absolutely harmless home remedy at little cost.

Rheumatism, as everyone knows, is a symptom of deranged kidneys. It is a condition produced by the failure of the kidneys to properly filter or strain from the blood the uric acid and other matter which, if not eradicated, either in the urine or through the skin pores, remains in the blood, decomposes and forms about the joints and muscles, causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing, cleansing and invigorating tonic to the kidneys, and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and backache.

1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. (Rev.) Keith.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Miss A. McKenzie.

Fell From Sleigh and Was Injured

Little Girl Victim of Painful Accident To-day at Noon

The little daughter of Mr. F. C. [illegible], [illegible] street, was the victim of a painful accident today at noon, while returning from school. On getting off a sleigh on which she was riding home, she fell. The sleigh passed over one of her limbs, and as a result she was unable to walk. The accident occurred near the George St. Methodist church, and the little girl was carried to her home. She was not seriously injured, and it is expected that she will be able to be around again in a few days.

MARRY IN SPITE OF ARCHBISHOP

Roman Catholic Lady Will Go Outside Montreal to Wed Protestant

Montreal, Jan. 31.—All efforts to get Archbishop Bruchesi to give a dispensation and allow a mixed marriage between a Catholic lady and a Protestant gentleman, both of whom are very prominent in Montreal society, have failed, and a decision has been reached to go out to one of the neighboring dioceses in order that the ceremony may be performed by a priest. Under ordinary circumstances, a dispensation would also be required for this, but the lady's father is the owner of some property in this neighboring diocese, and this gives him the right to have the marriage take place.

Special efforts were made to get Archbishop Bruchesi to make an exception, but he insisted there should be one law for rich and poor alike. While no date has been fixed, the marriage will take place during the latter part of February.

TUBERCULOSIS CONFERENCE

Call for a Meeting in March to be Presided Over by His Excellency Earl Grey.

The National Sanitarium Association have issued invitations for a conference with representatives from all parts of Ontario, to discuss how more effective provision can be made for the relief of those who are suffering from, and for the prevention of the spread of, tuberculosis.

The conference will be held in the City of Toronto, on Wednesday, March 4, 1908, in the Royal Alexandra Theatre, and will be opened by his Excellency Earl Grey, honorary president of the association.

In order to make this conference thoroughly representative, invitations have been sent to the wardens and county councils, also to the mayors of each city and town.

Special arrangements have been made with the railroads, enabling the delegates to the conference to return at one-third the regular rates.

An interesting programme is in course of preparation, and it is expected that a very large and representative gathering will come together to discuss the question that has now become of such vital importance to the province at large.

IT'S A HANGER THAT HANGS

Splendid Device That is Now Employed at the Oriental

One of the cleverest and most serviceable devices in its line, Dyer's coat and hat hanger, is now in use at the Oriental. When a coat or hat is hung on one of the hooks it becomes locked immediately; the check, the number of which corresponds with the number on the hanger, is withdrawn from the slot into which it fits at the top. The check is a very neat and nicely nickleplated and convenient to slip into a purse or vest pocket. It also serves to unlock the hanger and while the owner of the coat or hat has it with him his property is as secure as money in a safe.

The innovation will be sure to meet with the approval of the guests at the hotel and will do away with all the worry that may have been experienced for fear that some other fellow may by accident have taken the wrong coat or hat.

Beat Ennismore at "Eorty-fives"

About thirty young people drove to the city from Ennismore last evening, and spent a social evening with the local T.A.S. members. A number of songs were sung, and speeches made after which several games of forty-fives were played, and the city folk won out. After a fine supper, which was served by the lady members, the visitors left for home.

The Great Work of Hon. W. J. Hanna

What the New Provincial Secretary Has Accomplished

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, in an address before the Borden Club at the St. Charles Hotel, last night, gave an interesting account of what had been done in starting in better modes of life the inmates of the Mercer Refuge for Girls, since the accession of the Whitney Administration to power. Shortly after the present Cabinet was formed, Mr. Hanna went to the institution, where he ascertained that some 75 or 80 girls from 15 to 12 years of age, from all parts of the province, were serving sentences of from one to four years. On the whole, the young women were fine looking being endowed in most cases with the "fatal gift" of beauty, which was mainly the causes of their lapses from duty and of their incarceration. It occurred to him that what had been done by the Children's Aid Society in providing the incorrigible boys and girls with better homes than they had before could perhaps be done for the girls. After talking over his project with Mr. Kelso, who expressed delight with, 25 of the inmates were selected and placed in homes in various parts of the province, homes that were removed as far as possible from those the girls formerly knew. These girls had been confined behind bars subjected to gaze of occasional visitors, and were losing all opportunities of reform.

GOOD RESULTS FOLLOWED.

Continuing, Mr. Hanna said that he did not have to wait long for good results from his departure in this line. Letters came in day by day saying that the girls found themselves in good homes and now had fathers and mothers. Word was also received from the persons who adopted them, declaring their pride in having the girls in their charge. So in three months more another party of 25 girls were sent out. The new girls who were coming in were first sent to a little home in connection with the Children's Aid Society where their habits and character could be studied and whence they were distributed to foster parents without seeing the refuge. When the number in the Mercer was reduced to 26, the six or seven employees there, fearful of losing their positions through the disuse of the institution, protested to Mr. Hanna about sending away the girls. But soon only four or five girls remained, and one night owing to the carelessness of those in charge, the girls escaped. But these young women telephoned to Mr. Kelso, asking for a chance like the others. In three or four weeks they were also found places, and from that day to this, no more girls have been sent to the Mercer, which has been renovated and attached to the Asylum, and the employees have been distributed among other Government institutions.

For years before, said Mr. Hanna, the average number of girls in the refuge was from 75 to 80. Six or seven of those sent out were now married, and the Government kept track of them all at a cost of 8 per head. These women, he said, now filled decent positions in society. Out of 130 sent out, 11 or 12 had not done well, being mentally weak, and they had to be taken care of.

The statement of the moneys that go to David Hartley, by reason of the benefit concert tendered him last night, has not yet been completed, owing to the fact that all the accounts have not yet been handed in to Mr. R. M. Glover, the secretary of the committee. It will be published tomorrow, however, in the local papers.

NEW LEGISLATION IN SIGHT

Law Makers Believe Business Has Been Over-Reformed.

Albany, Jan. 29.—The attitude of the Legislature has changed apparently this year to a feeling that the life insurance business may have been over-reformed, and that now the law should be calmly reviewed and such amendments adopted as experience has shown to be necessary to permit the companies to successfully conduct their business.

Without doubt, after the illumination thrown on the subject by financial conditions during 1907, the provision limiting the surplus fund to 5 per cent of the assets, will be repealed or amended, while there is almost certain to be a change in the section restricting the expense of new business and limiting the compensation of agents.

Many of the legislators were none too enthusiastic over this expense provision when originally adopted, and the large falling off in the amount of new business produced by the New York companies since it took effect, so great in every case as to lead to a reduction in the total amount of insurance outstanding, together with the complaint of agents from far and near that they cannot handle their business efficiently.

Ferrymen between Brockville and Morristown are making their trips afoot.

THE HUMAN SACRIFICE

Part of the Rites of the West Indian Cult of Obeah.

WORSHIP OF THE SNAKE GOD.

That Is the Root Idea of the Peculiar Religion of the Negro Natives. Dread of the Obeahman and the Superstition of the Snake Stick.

Readers of the late Sir Walter Besant's novel "The World Went Very Well Then" may remember the sinister old medicine man, Mr. Brinjes, and the snake stick, by means of which he compelled every negro he met to do his bidding. If Mr. Brinjes were alive today and living in the West Indies he would be a very great obeah man—the prophet, priest and king of our colored brethren.

During five years spent in Jamaica, Haiti and other West Indian islands I found that Obeah and Vaudoux—both derivations of the west African fetichism brought over generations ago in the slave ships—are the real beliefs of the great majority of the blacks, veneered by Christianity or even grafted on to that faith. In a Jamaican village the dirty, one eyed, diseased obeah man has usually more power than the parson. I saw this proved once in a very striking manner. It was on a Sunday morning, and the people were trooping out of chapel with their colored minister. The local obeah man was passing by and mocked them. The parson nervously attempted to rebuke him, but he threw his snake stick on the ground and cried defiantly:

"You no go fe b'lieve Obeah, yah! Den pick up me stick. I say him turn into snake if you touch him."

The stick was left lying on the ground. Not even the colored minister dared to touch it. He had been educated in a theological college, but he had not quite outgrown the superstitions that were inculcated in his youth.

The root idea of Obeahism and Vaudoux is the worship and propitiation of the snake god Obi, a west African word typifying the spirit of evil. Vaudoux is the more extreme form of Obeah practiced in Haiti, Santo Domingo and the French West Indies. Its rites are always accompanied by the sacrifice of fowls and goats and in only too many cases by the offering up of the "goat without horns"—the human sacrifice, usually a young girl or boy. Several cases were officially proved when I was in Haiti. How many more never came to light can only be guessed. The lonely groves and mountain caves where the devotees of Vaudoux enjoy the orgies of a Walpurgis night seldom give up their secrets.

There are two sects of Vaudoux, the white and the red. The former, which only believes in the sacrifice of white fowls and goats, is tolerated by the laws of Haiti, and its rites are as commonly practiced as those of the church. But even the red sect, which openly stands for human sacrifice, is seldom interfered with. The authorities dare not suppress it, for their own policemen and soldiers stand in awe of the "papaloi" and "mamaloi"—the priest and priestess of the snake god.

More than that, there have been presidents of Haiti in recent years who believe in Vaudoux. Hippolyte was even a "papaloi" himself. He beat the black goatskin drum in the streets of the capital to call the faithful together to see him kill the sen-sel fowl. Another president, Geffrard, tried to do his duty and stamp out the cult. A terrible revenge was taken upon him. His young daughter, Cora, was shot dead as she knelt in prayer before the altar of a church in Port au Prince. Today there is a temple of the red sect in the Haitian capital, near by a triumphal arch which is inscribed with the unctuous words, "Liberty — Education — Progress."

Under British government Obeahism perforce takes forms less dangerous to the social order than it does in Haiti, but it is none the less a constant public peril in Jamaica and the other British West Indian islands. It is the bitter foe of religion, education and social advancement. In olden days it worked by means of wholesale poisoning, and in quite recent days there have been not a few cases of obeah men seeking to do murder in the old way.

When I lived in Jamaica, an old villain made an offer to a black man, whom he thought I had offended, to poison me by mixing ground glass with my food. Unfortunately for him, the negro gave him away, and he got twelve months' hard labor and a sound flogging. Not long before an entire family at Montego Bay was poisoned by the same method. Another favorite trick of the obeah man, both in Jamaica and Haiti, is to mix the infinitesimal hairs of the bamboo in the food of persons who refuse to bow the knee to them. This finally sets up malignant dysentery. If the afflicted one remains contumacious, he dies; if he makes his peace with the obeah man and gives him a handsome present, the slow process of poisoning ceases, and he lives.

In all crises and troubles of life the negro flies to the obeah man. If the has to appear at the police court to answer for his sins, he pays the obeah man to go there also and "fix de eye" of the magistrate so that he will be discharged. Perhaps he has been turned out of his office of deacon in the Baptist chapel for immorality by a white minister. In that case the obeah man will arrange for a choice collection of the most powerful spells—such as dried lizards, fowls' bones and graveyard earth—to be placed in the minister's Bible for him to stare upon when he looks up the text of his sermon. Then, if the Obeah works properly, the erring deacon will be received back to office without abandoning his career as the village Don Juan.

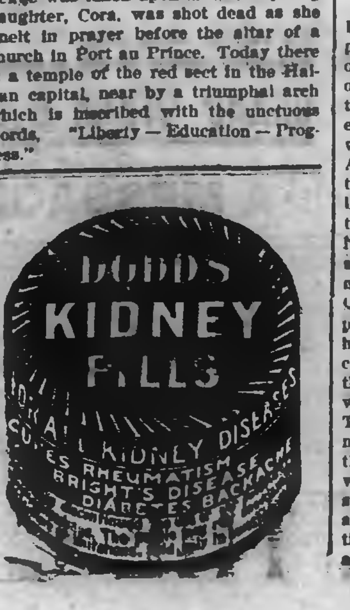
Does chocolate colored Romeo want a love philter to make dusky Juliet kind? The obeah man will oblige him. Has a man a quarrel with his neighbor? He can buy a vial of some filthy mixture, and if he sprinkles but a few drops of it on his enemy's banana "piece" or yam patch the crop will wither and shrivel up. If you have to discharge a colored servant, beware of Obeah! He probably will not try to poison you, but it is certainly annoying to find dried cockroaches and lizards in your whisky and a miniature coffin placed prominently on your pillow when you go to bed at night.

Even colored men of education and official position are often tainted with Obeahism. They often make use of it for profit and to increase their power over the ignorant negroes. The mulatto chairman of a parochial board—the Jamaican equivalent of our county council—was sent to jail for practicing Obeah only a few years ago. A prominent member of the Kingston city council was the leading obeah man in the island, the pontiff of the cult. He was so clever that the police could never catch him, although he was supposed to make over £3,000 a year by his nefarious practices. Once some detectives raided his place, but he received timely warning and fled, leaving his harem of strapping negresses to deal with the intruders. They beat them within an inch of their lives and then flung them into a slimy pond.

Obeahism is kept in check as sternly as possible in the British West Indies. If it were not those colonies would soon revert to the condition of Haiti—essential savagery ornamented by gold lace.—London Globe.

The Story of a Bust.

Among the busts at the Pincio, says Paolo Picca in the Vita, is one of the poet Vincenzo Monti, which has a curious history. The portrait bust was originally that of Vittorio Alfieri, a contemporary of Monti's and his sworn enemy. Alfieri had gained fame as a writer of tragedies. Shortly after the Alfieri bust had been placed in position the writer gave offense to the Vatican by one of his works, and the bust was taken down and put in the cellar. In its place came a bust of the poet Alessandro Berri. But Pincio honors were not lasting, and it was only a short time before the composer Bellini replaced Berri. The bust in the cellar had not been forgotten, and when Vincenzo Monti was named for the honor the old marble was brought forth, and with file and chisel it was made over. The normal nose was converted into a most peculiar organ, which still shows the scars of the operation; the hair was cropped, the bushy eyebrows were shorn, and the cheeks were rounded, and so Alfieri became and still is Monti—a proof that monumental marble and bronze are not always truthful.



DIDN'T FEAR BULLETS

A Sheriff Who Was as Brave as He Was Tender Hearted.

HOW HE COLLECTED A DEBT.

The Man Who Owed the Money Was Well Able to Pay, and the Grim, Determined Old Sheriff Made Him Realize That It Was Time to Pay.

There is a spot in the memory of Greene county, Pa., sacred to Jim Cosgray, one time sheriff, whose heart was as tender as his courage was stout. As he came down the steps of the courthouse one day in Waynesburg a white haired old man near at hand who had been waiting for him fired at him three times from a revolver. Cosgray quickly walked over to him, took his gun away and said:

"Now, look here, daddy, if you do that again I'll prosecute you."

It had fallen to Cosgray in the line of duty to serve an execution on the old man, who, worried by financial difficulties, had got lopsided mentally and conceived the idea that Cosgray was personally responsible for his troubles. The late Judge A. B. Wilson of Uniontown was at that time holding court in Waynesburg and had witnessed the shooting from the window of his hotel. Many others had seen it too.

"Now," remarked the judge to his stenographer, L. L. Minor, at his side, "when that shooting comes up for investigation in court we'll learn how many different stories the witnesses will tell about it."

The judge knew from long experience how many viewpoints there are to such episodes, but this case never came up to trial.

In 1876 a Greene county man who had become bankrupt—at least to the extent of inability or unwillingness to pay his debts in Greene county—went to Philadelphia, where he secured a valuable concession in connection with the Centennial exposition. Reports were brought back to Waynesburg during the summer by visitors that he was making barrels of money. Cosgray listened with much interest, but without comment, to all these stories, because this man had left Greene county owing him $5,000. Finally Cosgray one day packed his grip and left town. Next day he turned up in Philadelphia at the hotel where his prosperous debtor was stopping and was shown by request to the latter's room. His reception was noisily hilarious.

"Why, hello, Jim! Glad to see you, old boy. What in the world brings you to the city?" He shook Jim's hand with every external appearance of great joy. But the sentiment was all one way.

"I come to git that $5,000 ye owe me." Jim's eyes reflected no feelings of esteem. He was simply out for his stuff.

"Sorry, Jim, very sorry, indeed I am, but I haven't got it and therefore can't pay ye. I would if I could."

"Well, I rather guess ye'll have to git it somehow or other. I came here from Waynesburg especially fer what ye owe me, and I'm not goin' back without it."

Cosgray got up, walked to the door, locked it and put the key in his pocket. Then he said:

"It's just this way, my friend, Waynesburg people have been coming home from Philadelphia all summer telling how much money you've been makin' here, and I think they've been tellin' the truth, for I've been very careful in my inquiries about you. Now, I want that money."

Here he took a revolver from his pocket and ominously tapped on the table with the muzzle.

"I'm an old man, with but a few more years to live, and I'm not a bit partickler whether I live 'em at all or not. That $5,000 'll make 'em pass a sight easier. I don't intend to live without the money, and I don't intend you shall live with it."

The man knew Cosgray meant every word he said. He fenced and fumed, threatened and sputtered, but there sat the silent, grim old ex-sheriff, gun in hand, ready to touch it off any instant. His determination never wavered. He was a man of few words, and the outcome was exactly as he had resolved it should be. The man went to a corner of his room, opened a satchel and counted out $5,000 to Cosgray. The sheriff returned to Waynesburg and put it in the bank, and no one ever knew how he came by it until the victim himself finally disburdened his heart of its weight of woe.—Uniontown Cor. Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

Diamond Versus Paste.

"It's curious how little vanities keep some men keyed up to a point where they are on good terms with themselves," was the philosophic comment of a private detective who is a figure in the daily life of the Wall street district.

"What I mean is this, for example: it's my business to know a good many men, high and low, down here. Now, you can take it from me that four out of five of those you see dashing along the street or in and out of big buildings with worried expressions or faces which suggest that their owners are bearers of stupendous business cares and responsibilities are really underlings whose work is routine and who would be staggered if they had to risk personally a thousand dollars while the real burden bearers more often than not appear with unruffled brow and without undue precipitation. It's a part of the game.

DUBLIN JEWEL ROBBERY.

Report to Parliament—Sir Arthur Vicars Suspended.

London, Feb. 1.—The report of the commission which has been investigating the disappearance last summer from Dublin Castle of jewels valued at $250,000, belonging to the regalia of the Order of St. Patrick, was presented to Parliament yesterday. It finds that the safe from which the jewels were taken must have been opened by a key and concludes with these words: "We cannot acquit Sir Arthur Edward Vicars of want of proper care in his custody of the keys of the safe."

Sir Arthur is Ulster king-at-arms, and he was custodian of the jewels. It is reported in Dublin that the chief secretary for Ireland, Augustine Birrell, has given directions that Sir Arthur be suspended from office.

Successor Appointed.

Dublin, Feb. 1.—The Gazette yesterday announces the appointment of Capt. Neville Wilkinson to succeed Sir Arthur Edward Vicars as Ulster king-of-arms. Sir Arthur has issued an appeal to all Irishmen to support his demand for a public enquiry into all of the circumstances attending the loss of the regalia jewels.

Tokio, Feb. 1.—It is reported here that the French steamer Charles Tiberghien was wrecked Dec. 16, near the Island of Hainan, on the Chinese coast.

The steamer Charles Tiberghien was built at Rouen in [illegible]. She was 2,400 net register, and owned by C. Tiberghien of Dunkirk. She left New York Oct. 17 for the far east, by way of Cape Town.

Foreshadows Intervention.

Brussels, Feb. 1.—It is believed here that the reference made yesterday by King Edward of England to the Congo Independent State in his speech from the throne at the opening of Parliament foreshadows British intervention in the Congo if the present project for the annexation of the State of Belgium should fall through.

Stormy weather still continues.

SPORTING NEWS

Hartley Will Go Even if He Has to Walk Returning

Mr. David Hartley has practically decided to go to Kansas City to be a competitor in the big six-day walking contest, which opens on February 24th. Although the financial result of the benefit concert was not as satisfactory as might have been the case, it is expected that Mr. Hartley will be able to finance the trip to the Missouri capital as a well-known gentleman is interesting himself in the matter and will likely carry it to a successful completion.

Mr. Hartley received another letter yesterday from Mr. W. D. Scoville, the secretary of the association, under whose auspices the walking contest is being held, stating that he hoped he would be able to come and be in good condition for the event so that he might finish up well among the winners.

It is hoped that if Mr. Hartley needs financial assistance to make the trip to Kansas City, it will be readily supplied by the citizens of Peterborough, as there is no doubt but that Hartley will make a creditable showing in the big race and bring honor to the city. He will leave for Kansas City within the next two weeks in order to get accustomed to the climatic conditions there.

"I'm going to take the trip even though I have to walk back," said Mr. Hartley to the Review, and he is just the kind of fellow that would do it if necessary.

Cobourg Defeated Strathconas In Last Intermediate Game

Lakeside Bunch Led by 2-0 at Half Time and Won Out by 5-3—Straths Showed Burst of Speed Towards End of Match But Were Too Late in Getting Going—Not an Exciting Contest.

Although in the latter stages of the game they looked pretty nearly good to win, the Strathconas could not overcome the lead that Cobourg secured in the earlier stages of the match with that aggregation last night and the visitors won the contest by a score of 5—3.

With the score 4—1 against them the Straths took a brace and ran in two in quick succession, affording the only really exciting portion of the play. However Cobourg scored another with only a couple of minutes to play and the game was theirs.

Neither team showed very good form and the contest was not an interesting one from the spectators standpoint.

Cobourg took the lead in the first half and had the Straths blanked at the conclusion of the initial period, the tally standing 2—0. For a long time it looked as though the locals chances were good and for the first ten minutes the play was mostly in Cobourg's territory. After sixteen minutes playing the Lakeside septette notched the first goal and landed three more before the Straths found the nets for their first tally.

The game was by no means a tame exhibition in the matter of strenuous play owing to some extent to the fact that Referee Wilson of Cobourg, found it impossible to control the players. The task of looking after the men proved rather too heavy a one for him, and his work was not up to the standard.

HOW THEY WERE SCORED.

O'Rourke secured the first for Cobourg, 16 mins., 1—0.

Rorbeck got the next in 3 mins. 2—0.

McCallum and Parnell were each benched a minute for slashing.

Moffatt used the gad too freely and was handed a minute penalty.

Parnell, McCallum and Moffat each given a minute in order named for rough play.

SECOND HALF.

McCallum got first blood for Cobourg in this period, 3—0. 5 min.

Rorabeck scored in 20 mins., 4—0,

Rose got Peterborough's first, 1 min. 4—1.

Rorabeck was hurt as the result of a check from Rose, and with a couple of minutes left to play was retired from the game.

McWilliams scored on a neat wrist shot, 2 1-2 mins., 4—2.

Long secured the local's last goal on a shot from close to the nets. 1 min. 4—3.

O'Rourke tallied the last one in 1 1-2 mins. 5—3.

Parnell and Moffatt roughed it, and both were boarded for a minute.

THE PLAYERS.

For the winners Patton did magnificent work in goal, and stopped and relieved in splendid style. O'Rourke and E. Moffatt played fast games on the forward line. Derocher, McWilliams and Long were most conspicuous for the Strathconas.

Park St. Baptist Team Outscores Grafters in the Last Period —Won by 4-2

Park Baptist church hockeyists and Grafters clashed in an exciting contest between ten and eleven at the Brock street rink last night, the Baptists winning by 4—2. The Grafters were in the lead at half-time, the score standing 2—1 in their favor. In the second half the Baptist seven pulled away from their opponents and scored three straights, the Grafters being unable to find the nets. Both teams showed up well and played good hockey.

Killingbeck in goal and Loomis and Johnston on the forward line were the pick of the winner's lineup. Staunton and Hurd played well for the Grafters.

Leo Derocher made a satisfactory referee.

CHIEFTAINS DEFEATED LAKEFIELD

Manager Jack Turnbeck's Chieftians got back at the Lakefield junior team to-day for the defeat they administered them last Saturday in Lakefield when the locals were defeated by 7—3. This afternoon at the Brock street rink the Chieftians put it over their opponents to the tune of 13—3, the half-time score being 7—1. Joe Sabatino played a phenomenally good game for the losers while every member of the Chieftians played exceptionally well. The winners showed up well both in the matter of individual and combination play.

Two Basketball Games at Y. M. C. A. To-night

Two fast games of basketball will be played tonight at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, when the Tongolas of Toronto, will play the Senior Harriers. An exciting contest is assured and lovers of this popular pastime will do well to see it. This game will be preceded with a match between the first and second teams of the Collegiate Institute. During intermission, Mr. Ed. Daly will give an exhibition of tumbling. A good evening's sport will be provided, and a large crowd is expected.

Sporting Comment

Fred Whitcroft's Edmonton team again defeated Battleford on Saturday night, the score being 8—3, and the game played at Edmonton. Whitcroft scored four of the goals, for his team. Crowley also shone.

HOCKEY

WHITCROFT'S TEAM.

Edmonton appears to have the best team in the league and unless there is a material strengthening by Battleford and Strathconas they will walk away with the honors in easy style. It is up to Strathconas tonight to redeem their defeats in Battleford. —Edmonton Journal.

The Young Men's Guild of St. Andrews' challenge Knox senior team to a game of hockey to be played as soon as the ice can be arranged for.

In last night's issue of the Review it was stated that the Bible Class of St. Andrew's defeated the Young Men's Guild by 6—2. It was a case of the transposition of the score figures, the Guild winning by the the above score.

SEASONED WOOD.

Remarkable Gain In Strength as Dryness Is Attained.

The effect of water in softening organic tissue, as in wetting a piece of paper or a sponge, is well known, and so is the stiffening effect of drying. The same law applies to wood. By different methods of seasoning to pieces of the same stick may be given very different degrees of strength.

Wood in its green state contains moisture in the pores of the cells, like honey in a comb, and also in the substance of the cell walls. As seasoning begins the moisture in the pores is first evaporated. This lessens the weight of the wood, but does not affect its strength. It is not until the moisture in the substance of the cell walls is drawn upon that the strength of the wood begins to increase. Scientifically this point is known as the fiber saturation point. From this condition to absolute dryness the gain in the strength of wood is somewhat remarkable. In the case of spruce the strength is multiplied four times. Indeed, spruce in small sizes thoroughly dried in an oven is as strong, weight for weight, as steel. Even after the reabsorption of moisture when the wood is again exposed to the air the strength of the sticks is still from 50 to 150 per cent greater than when it was green. When in drying the fiber saturation point is passed the strength of wood increases as drying progresses in accordance with a definite law, and this law can be used to calculate from the strength of a stick at one degree of moisture what its strength will be at any other degree.

Manufacturers, engineers and builders need to know not only the strength, but the weakness, of the materials they use, and for this reason they are quite as much interested in knowing how timbers are affected by moisture as they are in knowing how they are weakened by knots, checks, cross grain and other defects. It is obvious that where timbers are certain to be weakened by excessive moisture they will have to be used in larger sizes for safety. So far engineers of timber tests, while showing that small pieces gained greatly in strength, do not advise counting on the same results in the seasoning of large timbers, owing to the fact that the large timbers usually found in the market have defects which are sure to counterbalance the gain from seasoning.

The forest service has issued a publication entitled "The Strength of Wood as Influenced by Moisture," in which are shown the strength of representative woods in all the degrees of moisture, from the green state to absolute dryness, and the effects of resoaking.—Washington Star.

Army Desertions.

Published records of desertions from the United States army in the last year would seem to show that the cavalry arm is responsible for most of them. The coast artillery corps and the infantry are next in order, with the field artillery showing a smaller proportion. The engineer corps reports a few isolated cases of "French leave," and the signal corps is happily free from the evil. Of course the men in the two last named branches of the service are not so numerous as in the three principal arms, but proportionately they stand as above. The number of desertions from the four negro regiments in the army is less than that from white regiments.

Gambling House Profits.

The statement is published of the profits realized by the gaming tables at watering and seaside resorts during the past season. The total sum which passed from the pockets of the gamblers into the croupiers' tills was £405,000 odd, 15 per cent of which is to be claimed by the state. Vichy heads the list with a profit of £87,000, and Aix-les-Bains comes next with £64,000. Trouville netted over £47,000, Dieppe £27,000, Boulogne a little less and Dinard nearly £9,000. Even Calais, which one had never looked upon as a wild gambling resort, made upward of £4,000 out of visitors.—London Telegraph.

Tilted the Earth.

In a bulletin printed in Japan Professor Omori reports a singular phenomenon which attended the passage of a cyclone near Tokyo. There was a tilting of the earth's surface in one direction as the storm approached and in the other direction after it had gone. Both movements, registered at the professor's seismological observatory, indicated a sinking of the earth where the atmospheric pressure was lowest. The expert accounts for it by supposing that suction at the storm center raised the level of the adjacent sea, and thus imposed an abnormal burden on the bottom of the ocean.

Word That Means Volumes.

Italians who can speak very little English when questioned through the court interpreter (or, as he is more familiarly called in the criminal courts building, the court interrupter) almost always say "sure" instead of "yes" in answering in the affirmative. A person interested enough to make some inquiries discovered that the first word that an east side immigrant learns is "sure." It seems to answer the purpose of more words than any other one in our language and is equally adapted to trade and social communications. —New York Press.

The trial of the alleged grocers' guild combine will be heard some time in June in Toronto.

COOLED THE ADMIRAL.

An Answer For Which the High Official Was Unprepared.

Going into a port where the water was very deep—Rio Janeiro, I believe—relates Captain A. T. Mahan, the chain cables "got away," as the expression is, control was lost, and shackle after shackle tore out of the hawse holes, leaping and thumping, rattling and roaring. The admiral was on deck at the moment, and when the chain had been at last stopped and secured he said to the captain: "Alfred, send for the young man in charge of those chains and give him a good setting down. Ask him what he means by letting such things happen." The officer was sent for, and soon his questioning blue eyes appeared over the hatch coaming. Alfred was a mild person and clearly did not like his job. He could not have come up to the admiral's standard. The latter saw it and intervened: "Perhaps you had better leave it to me. I'll settle him." Fixing his eyes on the offender, he said sternly: "What do you mean by this, sir? Why in blazes did you not stop that chain?" The culprit, looking quietly at him, replied simply, "How in blazes could I?" This was a shift of wind for which the admiral was unprepared. He was taken flat back. After a moment's hesitation he turned to the captain and said meekly, yet with evident consciousness of a checkmate: "That's true, Alfred. How the blazes could he?"

OBSERVANCE OF EASTER.

Discrepancy In Computing the Date Not Corrected Until 1752.

The observance of Easter dates back to about the year 68, at which time there was much contention among the eastern and western churches as to what day the festival should be observed. It was finally ordained at the council of Nice in the year 325 that it must be observed throughout the Christian world on the same day. This decision settled that Easter should be kept upon the Sunday first after the fourteenth day of the first Jewish month, but no general conclusion was arrived at as to the cycle by which the festival was to be regulated, and some churches adopted one rule and some another. This diversity of usage was put an end to, and the Roman rule making Easter the first Sunday after the fourteenth day of the calendar moon was established in England in 669. After nine centuries a discrepancy in the keeping of Easter was caused by the authorities of the English church declining to adopt the reformation of the Gregorian calendar in 1582. The difference was settled in 1752 by the adoption of the rule which makes Easter day always the first Sunday after the full moon which appears on or next after the twenty-first day of March. If the full moon happens upon a Sunday, Easter is the Sunday after.

Queer Names.

"We Chinese," said the law student, "give our children queer names. Our girls, for instance, are not called Mabel, Jenny or Matilda, but Cloudy Moon, Celestial Happiness, Spring Peach or Casket of Perfumes.

"Our boys get less delicious names. Boys are made for work and wisdom rather than for dancing and pleasure, and their names show this, as Practical Industry, Ancestral Knowledge, Complete Virtue, Ancestral Piety, Discreet Valor.

"To our slaves we give still another set of names. Yes, those dear, pathetic little slaves of ours, some girls, some boys, who do a hundred various little tasks about the house, these lowly creatures have names like Not For Me, Joy to Serve, Your Happiness and Humble Devotion."

A petition in favor of license reduction has been presented to the Belleville city council.

Will Lose Money to Gain Money

Dolly Varden Seek a Wider Acquaintance.

For One Month These Famous Shoes Will be Sold in Canada at Less Than Cost to Make Ten Thousand New Friends.

Dolly Varden Shoes have been sold in Canada for two years. The sales have been large, exceeding the best hopes of the Dolly Varden Shoe Company.

But the wish to widen the acquaintance of the ladies of Canada is father to the thought of a great month's sales—when for once—and for once and only once—the standard price of the Shoe will be sacrificed in order to make ten thousand new friends in as short a time as possible.

Every Dolly Varden Shoe has the price labelled on it—and it is worth that price just as sure as the mint-mark on the gold coin.

When a lady can see that price, and can know just how much she is actually saving, there is a real sense of satisfaction and surety.

For one month every buyer of Dolly Varden Shoes will get a dollar returned to them on every purchase.

In the Montreal Dolly Varden Stores $10,000 will be returned to the customers next month, for there will be ten thousand bargains in the store.

The sale begins on Monday next. There is no need to herald the Dolly Varden Shoes; their class is known. It will be the first, last and only sale—for it's an introduction sale in the true sense of the word.

Fuller particulars will be published by the Dolly Varden Shoe Store from day to day. Some of the rare and fine styles will be shown, and some exceptionally fine bargains on odds and ends in broken lines are promised. There is not a shoe, style or model in the store which will be held back for the month of February—the full twenty-five shopping days of the shortest month in the year.

The Dolly Varden Shoe Store already enjoys a high-class trade. They want to prove to everybody that a fine, classy $5 Shoe is the cheapest shoe to wear. And they are going to pay a dollar to every customer, who seeks an introduction to the Dolly Varden Shoes, but this was thought to be unfair to the thousands who do know. In this case it is like buying $4 and $5 gold pieces right from the new Canadian Mint for $3 and $4.

Exhibition of Pictures Will Be Event of Much Interest

Citizens of Peterborough Will Have Opportunity of Seeing Notable Works of Art—Something About the Exhibition Which Opens on Monday.

There will be shown under the auspices of the Peterborough branch of the Women's Art Association of Canada, in the old Bank of Montreal building, a fine collection of water colors by the well known painters of the School of the Netherlands, which ranks as the greatest of present day art. No exhibition, whether local, national or international, is complete nowadays without a room devoted to the "Dutch." In the galleries of the picture dealers in Paris, London, The Hague, and New York, a large proportion of the chef d'oeuvres offered for the inspection of the connoisseur are Dutch pictures by collectors, Josef Israel, W. M. Mesdag, B. J. Bloomers, Z. Tromp, A. Bosboom, Chattel, Van Masten-Broech, Van der Windt, Van Wriesten, Westerbeek, Gerlan, Gelding and others, who by their fidelity to nature, their great grasp of the principles of art so well known to the artists of the Italian and German rennaissance, and re-discovered by the Dutch painters of to-day.

This is the first exhibition of the work of the greatest living masters ever shown in the city of Peterborough, and the enterprise and energy of the Woman's Art Association should be well rewarded by a large attendance and interest. The raison d'etre of the foreign exhibitions which are brought out to Canada each year by the head association in Toronto is to create interest and through an aroused interest to have intelligent appreciation of the value of art, in a new country like Canada, with no art traditions, museums, or means of arousing artistic instinct.

Every artist when he shows his pictures is familiar with the person, who says: "Of course, I don't know anything, and can't criticise, but I know what I like." If we wish to be successful in our intercourse with pictures, as with men, we must accept them as they are. We must get our minds into a receptive state, so that we can enjoy the many painters of other lands, take what each offers when good of its kind, and cultivate an interest for which such an exhibition as this is an invaluable aid.

PROGRESS IN ART.

The most distinctive achievement of the art of the latter part of the century was the development of Aquarelle painting. A wave of enthusiasm passed over the modern art world, and painters of note investigated for themselves the possibilities of water color painting. Many societies were organized and many methods formulated, until gradually it was realized that the artist could produce in water-color the same phase of art as in oils. The eminent suitability of the medium for easel pictures for the home aided its development and popularity. In 1892, at the World's Fair in Chicago, the aquarelles shown by the Netherland painters brought them into great prominence on this continent. The renowned Frenchmen, Corot, Diaz, Millet, Rosseau and Daubigny, of the Barbizon school, had passed away. But there was another group of painters ready to take their place. There was another great movement in the art of the Netherlands, where like the Barbizon painters, not so much the grandeur of the subject represented was insisted upon, as the grandeur of the work done upon those subjects. There was no tendency towards sensationalism as in the modern French schools in the works of Josf, Israels, Johannes, Bosboom, Anton, Nacve, W. H. Mesdag, and their followers, but there is an indisputable dignity in the way they render the everyday life of their people and of their country. Twenty years before the Dutch artists had exhibited in a group in the Glas Palast, Munich and since their works have been eagerly sought for by art lovers in Germany, England, Scotland and America. Honors have been heaped upon the Dutch artists by all civilized countries. Gradually they began to paint more and more in water-color until they created a distinct school in which water-color triumphed; there being no effect of quality attained in any medium which was not possible to them.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

A study of the pictures in the exhibition will be readily convincing and an opportunity is afforded for the exercise and cultivation of artistic appreciation and sensibility never before presented in so complete a manner to this community. No one whose knowledge entitles him to an opinion will deny the importance of this exhibition in the development in Peterborough of art and the appreciation of it.

Another exhibition is united with the picture exhibition. The Home Industries of Canadian Women as developed and encouraged by the head association throughout Canada. Laces will be shown in needle and bobbin styles such as duchess, maltese, clones, Limerick, etc. Habitant homespun linens and dress materials. Persian, Russian embroideries, tufted convenvenures, Afghans, etc., all the home handwork of women in different parts of Canada. The exhibition will open on Monday evening at eight and remain open until Friday.

No More Stone Will be Broken

Plan Not Working Out Very Satisfactorily

After the present supply of stone has been broken it is not likely that the city will secure any more to provide work for the unemployed. It is said that the plan is not working out very satisfactorily and that the work can be done at less cost in the regular way. The statement is made that some of those who were given stone to break have not been as industrious as they might have been and continue to do a little at the job in order to get charity from the Relief Officer. Some of those working at the stone pile, however, have labored hard and have been able to make fair wages. One of them made $7 in five days whereas others did not make that much in two weeks, apparently not wishing to exert themselves.

RELIEF STATIONS IN PETERBORO'

A Good and Opportune Suggestion by the Secretary of the Children's Aid Society—Horrors of Want

The suggestion of Mr. Goodwill, the Secretary of The Children's Aid Society that stations be established in Peterborough for the relief of the poor is a good one. Perhaps at first it might be doubted if the foremost of the younger cities of Canada needed "soup kitchens." However this has been found to be the case or it would not have been suggested. In Toronto, no less than one hundred little ones were found to have been the victims of starvation since New Year's. When we think how their mothers must have fought for the lives of these children, we can get some idea of the appalling character of the poverty existing. Peterborough is exceptionally generous in all such cases. Our citizens are warm-hearted and sympathetic. It will be a project therefore, that will receive generous support in an effort to tide over the cold season.

The Concert Was Enjoyable Event

The Girls' Auxiliary of St. John's church held a concert last evening. The programme for the event was short and more attention was paid to other features of the evening. Miss Rush served tea after the programme. Candies were sold in the Sunday school during the supper. An excellent supper was provided by the girls.

Next Monday night the A.Y.P.A. will hold a literary programme which promises to be interesting. Those who wish to join the society, and also others are cordially invited to attend.

Thrown Out of Cutter in Runaway

Serious Accident Narrowly Averted at Charlotte and Park Sts

A horrible accident was narrowly averted yesterday evening at the corner of Park and Charlotte streets when a horse became frightened at the street car and started to run away. The spirited animal was attached to a cutter in which was driving a gentleman and two ladies. When it started off the sleigh upset and the occupants were thrown to the ground, receiving some nasty bruises in striking the hard frozen ground. The runaway beast did not go far before it was caught. A young man bravely ran out and stopped. No serious damage was incurred by the mishap, either to the vehicle or to the people, save that they were shaken up considerably.

Had Thrilling Experience With Big Bear in Back Country

Mr. Edward Greer Returns From Northern Ontario—Wolves are Roaming the Forest in Large Herds.

While returning from church a few Sundays ago in the lumbering wilds of North Ontario, near Nairn Centre, Mr. Edward Greer of the Greaves & Bigwood Lumbering Co., had a thrilling experience which he will not soon forget. Mr. Greer has just returned from the woods and has an interesting tale to relate regarding an encounter with a big bruin. Mr. Greer was trudging along the road when suddenly he turned and was surprised to see that a vicious and ravenous looking beast was following in his tracks, and making straight for him. Not being armed with any means of defence whatever, Mr. Greer decided to climb a tree. This Mr. Bruin apparently was unable to do, and the brown beast stood at the foot of the tree, snarling and strenuously pawing away, in an endeavor to get its victim and tearing and devouring him.

By reaching down and kicking the animal several blows in the head, bruin finally grew weary and after considerable scrambling ran off to its den and Mr. Greer proceeded to his camp.

The wolves are also very plentiful in this part of the country, and the lumbermen going to their work daily meet them.

Williamsons Promise to Leave City

Mary Williamson Dismissed on Charge of Attempted Suicide

Mary Williamson, who attempted to commit suicide while in a state of intoxication at midnight in a cell at the police station on Friday night, January 24th, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning on two charges, the first, a rather serious one, that of attempting to commit suicide and the other for being drunk and disorderly. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the prisoner and explained that the Williamsons were willing to leave the city and not give the authorities any future trouble.

His Worship gave both husband and wife some good advice, urging them to leave liquor alone and turn over a new leaf, and henceforth to lead better lives.

With tears rolling down her cheeks Mrs. Williamson told how that for five years she and her husband had not touched a drop of strong drink, but her husband commenced again last August and since then they have been drinking and carousing considerably.

His Worship said that he did not want to send her to gaol but would like to see them start anew. Husband and wife left the court room with many thanks to His Worship for his kind judgment.

DON'T SUFFER ALL WINTER

Read This Evidence and Begin To-day to Cure Yourself With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Sciatica is neuralgia of the sciatic nerve. Its origin is generally rheumatism and is the direct result of taking cold. For this reason the disease is commonly known as "sciatic rheumatism."

There is only one thing more painful than sciatica and that is the treatment of it, as practiced. The sickening burning of the flesh is only one of the forms of cruelty employed by the old school doctors, and all too often this is entirely vain for the relief gained is but temporary.

It is a scientific fact that the majority of sciatica cases result from exposure to cold when the patient is in an anaemic or bloodless condition, in which the nerve is literally starved. It needs no argument to show any reasonable person that a starved nerve cannot be fed by the application of a heat from to the outer flesh. It may deaden the sciatic pain for a time but it will not cure sciatica.

Absolute rest is the best aid to proper medical treatment. Rest and Dr. Williams Pink Pills, which actually make new blood, and thus feed the starved nerve, will cure most cases.

Mr. H. W. Awalt is one of the leading merchants of Hemford, N.S. A few years ago he was a great sufferer from this excruciating trouble. He says:—"The attack was so severe that I had been off work for some time. The cords of my legs were all drawn up and I could only limp along with the aid of a stick. The pain I suffered was terrible. I was in misery both day and night. Every movement caused me such pain as only those who have been tortured with sciatica know. I was treated by several doctors, but they did not help me a bit. In fact I almost began to think my condition was hopeless, when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were brought to my notice. I got a half dozen boxes. I had used the entire quantity before I found any benefit. But I was encouraged and got a second half dozen boxes, and before these were all gone every vestige of the trouble had disappeared. Not only this, but I was improved in health in every way, as it will be readily understood that the long siege of pain I had suffered had left me badly run down. I can't speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I can't recommend them too strongly to other sufferers."

Sciatica is stubborn in resisting treatment and the patient often suffers for years. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not simply relieve the pain. They cure the disease caused by poor watery blood. They actually make new blood and have therefore a direct and powerful curative effect on such diseases as rheumatism, anaemia, general debility and after effects of the grip. As the nerves depend upon the blood for nourishment, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unequalled for the treatment of even the most severe nervous disorders, such as neuralgia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance and locomotor ataxia. As a tonic for the blood and nerves they are used everywhere with the greatest success, building up wasted bodies, and bringing the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DR. THOS. MILLER HAS PASSED AWAY

Former Keene Physician Died in Medford Wisconsin

Special to the Review.

Keene, Jan. 31.—A telegram was received this morning by Mr. William Campbell, stating that the death had occurred last night of Dr. Thomas Miller of Medford, Wisconsin. The deceased was a native of Otonabee, a son of the late James Miller, and was well known in this vicinity. After graduating he practised medicine for some years in the village, removing about twenty-six years ago to Medford, Wisconsin, where he has since resided.

The funeral arrangements have not as yet been made, but it is probable that the remains will be brought to Peterborough for interment.

THE CARE OF LAMPS.

Absolute Cleanliness as to Burner, Wick and Chimney.

Few people understand the proper care of lamps and find them rather a tax to care for, but if a lamp is properly looked after it will give a good clear light without odor if there is absolute cleanliness as to burner, wick and chimney. Do not leave the care of the lamps until they are needed at night, for this is dangerous, and never clean lamps on a table where food is prepared, but have a special place for the work. Spread several newspapers over the table or shelf and upon these set the various parts. Some housekeepers think it better to wipe off the burned portions of the wick instead of cutting it. The main thing is to remove it evenly. Any pieces of wick dropped on the burner will cause an odor when the lamp is lighted. About once a month the wick should be removed and the wick boiled in hot soapsuds or a solution of washing soda. Wipe the inside of smoky chimneys with tissue paper before washing them. Care should be taken that they are thoroughly dry or they will break easily when heated. When first lighting a lamp keep the wick low to allow the chimney to heat gradually and do not leave it immediately after lighting it. Many a ceiling has been ruined by a smoky lamp.

Each day clean every portion of the burner with a piece of chamois. Lift the top of the burner and see that the small air holes in the burner are not stopped up with dust or charred wick. This is often the cause of a dim light and an ill smelling lamp.

Do not allow a lamp to burn after the oil is exhausted nor temporise by turning it down. Both burner and wick will be saved by putting the lamp out. When cleaning the lamp rub off the charred portion of the wick with the finger or a match stick; never use scissors. In renewing the wick screw it up almost out of its socket and immerse for five minutes in oil; then lower the wick to proper height and screw the burner on firmly. If the lamp has been allowed to burn dry, a similar treatment is advisable.

If a lamp is constantly used, it should be filled every day, the wick trimmed and the burner wiped off; the chimney and shade also being looked after.

AMERICAN GIRLS.

Their Importance In Society Out of Proportion to Their Achievements.

An editorial in the December Century on "Trying to Spoil the American Girl" says that "the importance of the young woman in American society is out of all proportion to her achievements, and naturally where such importance is the rule the social tone, however 'gay,' is unintellectual and devoid of the mellowness which makes the formal intercourse of human beings an institution. Instead of being taught in childhood that her business is to serve and that her only chance of happiness is in service, she is virtually taught that everything must be done for her. The rewards of a woman's existence—love, respect, deference—are thus placed at the wrong end of life. To begin with, the sense of values is lost by the profusion of Christmas, Easter and birthday presents showered upon her every year. As Whately said of literary style, 'He who accentuates everything accentuates nothing.'

"In such extravagance the beauty of simplicity disappears, and beside the luxury of such a girlhood the gifts of nature and of common human life lose their preciousness. A glorious sunset, the nightly miracle of stars, the treasures of noble poetry—the heritage of humankind—what are these to most debutantes compared with a spectacle of colored lights at the theater? Space fails to follow up the theme—to speak, for instance, of the approximation of the life of girls to that of their elders in dress and entertainments, which is but a part of the lavish and unappreciated idolatry that attends from cradle to altar—none the less a monstrous folly that it is committed in the name of parental love."

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Lemon juice and sugar will clear the voice. Singers often eat an apple just before singing, as this helps also to clear the voice.

Buttermilk used as a wash or made into paste with talcum powder will both prevent and cure sunburn, and hot water comes into play here also, as it must be used when cold water would only set the burn.

Next to water perhaps the best fluid complexion maker is lemon juice. Taken internally, alone or with hot water, it is generally beneficial, and externally, cut in half and the lemon, rind and all, rubbed over the face, it remedies sunburn and light freckles.

If people would eat more onions the population would be a great deal healthier, says a writer. Why are we bilious? Because we don't eat onions. You never saw a dyspeptic man eating onions. He thinks they are poison. But in fact they are the medicine that he most needs. Whenever you see an onion eater you see a whole souled, open hearted, jolly good fellow who knows what he ought to eat to keep him good humored. Talk about the staff of life! Why, bread is only a crutch. There is more nourishment in an onion than there is in a roll.

Cayenne pepper is excellent as a means of ridding a cupboard of mice. The floor should be gone over carefully and each hole stopped up with a piece of rag dipped in water and then in cayenne pepper.

THE SHOE RASP.

Once Familiar, It Took Its Departure With the Pegged Shoe.

"How many of the familiarly used things of the present day that we now consider as indispensable," said the middle aged man, "will in due time be supplanted by still better means, just as so many once familiar things of the past have been?

"You take, for instance, the shoe rasp. There was a time when no shoe store could have got along without a shoe rasp. But in what shoe store would you find a shoe rasp in use now?

"The shoe rasp was commonly attached to one end of a short counter that in most shoe stores stood at the front end of the store, the counter upon which shoes were done up. It was cast in the form of an insole of a shoe, slightly curved and having the rasp grooves cut on its convex side. Attached to this rasp on its concave side was a stout steel rod about a foot in length which was set upright in a stout wooden block firmly attached to the counter.

"So here we had a stoutly anchored rasp in a nearly horizontal position and with its cutting face up, a rasp over which you could draw a shoe in such a manner as to bring the inside of the sole in contact with it and with which you could rasp thoroughly every part of the inside of the sole of the shoe.

"But what did you want to rasp the inside of the shoe for? Why, to clear it of pegs that might be and probably were sticking up there, for in those days practically all the shoes made were pegged. The soles were pegged on to the uppers with wooden pegs which were of about the shape and size of oats, except that the shoe peg was pointed at only one end.

"In those days sewed shoes, which were then all sewed by hand, were rather expensive, and they were considered as more or less of a luxury to be worn only by people of very comfortable means or for best or Sunday wear.

"In the pegged shoes there were always more or less pegs sticking up inside, and the use of the shoe rasp was to file these off so that the shoe would be comfortable to wear.

"A father would come in with his young son to buy a pair of shoes for him, and perhaps the boy was too young to be able to tell exactly where the pegs were. And when a pair of shoes had been selected for him the father was always certain to say to the shoe dealer, 'You'll be sure to get out all the pegs, won't you?' and the shoe dealer would say: 'Certainly. Sure.' And in whatever case always the last thing done by the shoe man before he wrapped up a pair of shoes would be to get out the pegs."

Motormen Sentenced.

New York, Feb. 1.—Paul Kelly, a motorman on a Ninth avenue Elevated Railroad train, which was wrecked in September, 1905, killing 14 persons, yesterday was sentenced to not more than two years and six months, and not less than one year and six months in prison. He had been found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree. Thomas McDermott, motorman on a surface car which ran over and killed Louis Koeneman, also was found guilty and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

ATTENDANCE ON MARKET WAS SMALL

Storm Interferes With Business on the Square To-day.

Today's market was unusually small, owing to the heavy snowstorm which prevailed. All the farm products were scarce and were bought up with alacrity. Good prices were realised on nearly everything which was sold. There was no hay or wood for sale.

On the market square a small quantity of beef and pork was for sale, the beef bringing from 5 and 6 cents for fronts, and for hinds 5 1-2 to 6 1-2 cents. The pork was good quality and sold for 9 cents and 10 cents. On the market tables chickens were selling for 40 cents, 45 cents and 50 cents a piece. Butter and eggs were hard to find and many buyers were waiting around for the farm products. Butter sold for 30 cents and 29 cents, crock butter selling for 29 cents. Eggs were selling for 33 cents and 35 cents per dozen.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" SAVED HIS LIFE

Mr. Dingwall was Superintendent of St. Andrews Sunday School in Williamstown for nine years and License Commissioner for Glengarry — and Tax Collector for Charlottenburg—for fourteen years continuously. Read how strongly Mr. Dingwall comes out in favor of "Fruit-a-tives."

Williamstown, Ont., April 5th., 1907.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the almost marvellous benefit I have derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives." I was a life long sufferer from Chronic Constipation and the only medicine I ever secured to do me any real good was "Fruit-a-tives." This medicine cured me when everything else failed. Also, last spring, I had a severe attack of bladder trouble with kidney trouble, and "Fruit-a-tives" cured these complaints for me, when the physician attending me had practically given me up. I am now over eighty years of age and I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives" for Chronic Constipation and bladder and kidney trouble. This medicine is mild like fruit, is easy to take, but most effective in action. 147

"Fruit-a-tives" — or "Fruit Liver Tablets" are sold by dealers at 50c a box 6 for $2.50—or will be sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The Daily Review

SATURDAY, FEB. 1, 1908

THE END OF IT ALL

This refusal of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to bring down original documents for inspection by Parliament, astonished people of every political persuasion without exception. It was certainly not according to practice. In fact, it was in violation of all practice and precedent whatever. The country waited anxiously for the outcome. The Opposition demanded in louder tones than ever that they be permitted to see the records of departments. How else could the business of the nation be inspected? In what other way was it possible to keep an eye out for wrong-doing. Then Sir Wilfrid relented or appeared to do so. He acceded to the Opposition leader's demand. But it was only for a moment. Immediately after he receded from this position, and gave a blank refusal.

Once more, however, Mr. Borden and his men returned to the charge, this time with better results.

Public opinion was, of course, all against the suppression of public documents. Sir Wilfrid found his position untenable, and yielded at last. The result is what all expected. The great West has been found to be the scene of further wholesale land robberies by Government favorites. The public domain in the care and custody of the Ottawa Government for the benefit of the people of Canada has been parcelled out in defiance of all decency for a mere song to the relatives of a few Grit officials. How much will go into the pockets of these officials and perhaps indeed, even into those of ministers themselves, it cannot with certainty be paid. But suspicion is stronger even than certainty in such a case. Why was it all done? Why were grants made and registered to these men, of immense areas for a few dollars. The subsequent profits will be [illegible] great, and no one can say who will not hasten to the feast. This last great chapter in the tragic history of the Laurier Government in recent years, is the worst of all. It is impossible to suppose that this Government can on any pretence be returned again to power.

WHAT WE MAY EXPECT

The next session of the Legislature of Ontario, promises to be a busy one. What it will bring forth, we are not yet in a position to foretell. If however, we may judge by the past there is something of general and permanent benefit in store for us. Mr. Bradburn, M.P.P., has been again chosen to carry the Conservative standard to victory. His reception by the delegates and by the public on his re-appearance before them at the convention must have warmed his heart. He has been faithful, quiet and persistent in the performance of his duties. With it all he has been clean and conscientious. Crookedness has ceased to characterise the administration of provincial business in this riding. Mr. Bradburn is not too ambitious, and is therefore sensitive and scrupulous. No better representative could have been chosen. What would have happened had the late Government at Toronto been in power, on the further opening up of New Ontario, and the discovery of mineral, we shudder to contemplate. Men must be judged by their records and the record of the Ross Government ably aerated by Mr. Gamey, furnished Mr. Whitney and his able associates with the means of removing them from a position which they had long since ceased to deserve. It must be remembered, however, that no party is alone supreme. The Ross Government could not have been pulled down from power, and smashed into a thousand fragments if it had not been for the Liberal party. An angry party like an angry woman never forgives and it will be so in this case. To have been a member of the late Ross Government is like a sentence of political death. The offender never returns to the political scene. His party sternly forbids it.

A WELL MANAGED COMPANY

In another column of to-day's Review will be found the report of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, which held its annual meeting at the head office in Peterborough on Thursday last.

The figures presented are worthy of careful perusal, as they demonstrate that the past twelve months have been characterized by progress and prosperity, while there has been a gratifying evidence of increasing stability and strength. The company has been twenty-three years in existence and its record is a most satisfactory one. It is conservatively managed and has attained its present proud position by the exercise of sound judgment, splendid business ability, and excellent foresight. The directors and the managing director, Mr. W. G. Morrow, are to be heartily congratulated on the most favorable showing.

The gross earnings of the company during the year were $203,045.73, and the net profit $108,985.48. The regular dividend of six per cent. has been paid and $40,000 added to the reserve fund, while $35,725.18 has been carried forward to profit and loss. The reserve fund now totals $620,000, making it now 62 per cent. of the paid-up capital which is $1,000,000. The total assets of the company are $3,039,847.52. The report points out that all payments maturing during the year have been most satisfactorily met and the rentals from the property owned by the company have also been promptly paid. The Toronto Savings and Loan Company is a well managed, prosperous and flourishing organization.

UNSYMPATHETIC

Whatever the merits or demerits of the old age pension scheme, it is certainly worthy of better consideration than the following quotation would show it to have received at the hands of Sir Wilfrid Laurier:—

"In the matter of old-age pensions Sir Wilfrid Laurier said if such a scheme were established, they would have all the paupers and criminals of the United States coming to qualify with a twenty years' residence. The scheme was certainly ahead of the times for Canada, and although Sir Wilfrid was open to convictions as to its necessity, he would like to see the man who could convince him."

Germany has tried this plan with great success, and Germany is neither a socialistic nor a pauperized country. The scheme has draw-backs, it is true, but is worthy of careful consideration. Without consideration, the germ of a better scheme, which it may contain, would be ignored, and cast aside, perhaps to the detriment of many a good man whom circumstances had not otherwise provided for. The same objection may be made in other ways to all plans of insurance. The old-age pension is merely insurance applied nationally, just as post-office savings-banks are banking applied nationally. Is Sir Wilfrid more mindful of the corporations than of the community? Why does he not raise the rate of interest in the government savings banks? Sir Wilfrid will have to be careful or he may fall under suspicion.

THE TRADERS BANK

An examination of the financial statement and twenty-third annual report of the Traders' Bank, appearing in another column of today's Review, reveals the fact that the past twelve months have been characterized by continued expansion and advancement. The administration of its affairs has resulted in most gratifying evidence that the Traders' Bank is an institution sound, stable and healthy. The bank has kept pace with the times and its management has been strong, active and capable. The record is one that can be reviewed with pride and satisfaction. The net profits during the year were $522,822.81. There was transferred to rest account $100,000, and among the other appropriations were $5,000 for pension fund; $5,000 for officers' guarantee fund, as well as $25,264.30 placed at the credit of profit and loss. The paid up capital is $4,352,310, and the rest account $2,000,000, there being as already stated, $100,000 added during 1907. The total assets are $33,716,640.16. There was distributed to shareholders in the form of dividends the substantial sum of $304,388.29. Another gratifying feature is that the savings bank deposits increased $1,700,000 during the year. The Traders' Bank owns no less than seventeen substantial and commodious bank buildings, and has obtained a fair return upon the amount invested, as well as having excellent accommodation for the patrons.

The outcome of the year's operations has been most satisfactory, and the showing is certainly a most substantial one. The rest account, it might also be mentioned, is about 46 per cent of the paid up capital. Every department appears to have been efficiently managed, and the annual statement must be particularly pleasing to the president, Mr. C. D. Warren; the vice-president, Hon. J. R. Stratton, the board of directors, the shareholders, which number about 1,800, and the large and constantly growing clientele.

COMMON SENSE PREVAILS

"The New South Wales Labor Conference has rejected a resolution in favor of socializing the means of production, distribution and exchange. The vote stood 118 to 27. The result was received with cheers and shouts of 'common sense' prevails.'"

Socialism is the opposite of Capitalism. One is just as dangerous to the world as the other. By capitalism is not meant the proper employment of capital far from it. It is upon the proper use of Capital that the material prosperity of the world largely depends. But Capitalism as a speculation in money only, is distinctly dangerous. It is just as bad for the employer as for the employed. It is the same as cornering the necessities of life in times of scarcity.

It destroys the hope of the employee for with money at a high premium employers cannot promote industry and without work the workingman is soon on his beam-ends.

Socialism again, aims to suppress the individual. It would destroy freedom of action and freedom of conscience. What would be the good of a conscience to a man who could not use it? All that we have striven for in this life would be gathered into the great national pot and boiled down. It is impossible. On the other hand, Public Ownership or Public Supervision, which Mr. Borden advocates is the sure cure for Socialism and Capitalism both. It has Socialism's protective qualities without being suppressive and tyrannical. It prevents Capitalistic monopoly. The New South Wales' resolution is as unexpected as welcome since the Antipodes has hitherto gone to Socialistic extremes.

PEN POINTS

A great work is that of the Hon. W. J. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary in Mr Whitney's Cabinet, and of which an account will be found in another column. This, not politics, but the true function of government, most people will think.

The recent meeting of Provincial and Dominion Ministers regarding the settlement of their several jurisdictions in railway matters will clear up a hitherto unsatisfactory state of affairs. The Dominion has certain rights which the Province has not. For example, while the crossing question is one for the Privy Council's Railway Committee, ordinary contracts are enforceable by the Province only. The settlement will improve matters considerably.

An alleged "Ennismore Boy," in a letter in last night's Examiner, intimates that the Review has left Ennismore out of the constituency of West Peterborough. If "Ennismore Boy" would take the time and trouble to cast his eye over the names of the delegates, which appeared in the Review, he will find Ennismore well represented. No less than eleven staunch stalwart Conservative delegates from that township were in attendance at the convention. "Ennismore Boy" is evidently sadly suffering from the chilly weather, and had his capt pulled down too far over his head to either think or see clearly. The township, instead of being left off the list, will do its share in the next election to put Mr Hall on the list of Grit M.P.'s, left at home by the electors.

Some clergymen are broad-minded. They do not believe that everything worldly is bad. Among those who can see good in an institution often roundly denounced is Rev. Dr. Lyle, of Hamilton, who speaking in Central Presbyterian church in that city on "The Theatre," said:—

The theatre, by its very nature, was the highest form of amusement. Through its ideas for architecture and dress were formed, and it developed literature. The man who had studied literature would find that the drama contained man's best and grandest thoughts on life and all things connected with it. The drama had been the great teacher of history and portrayer of biography, and had taught men about men by holding the mirror up to nature. This led to the question: "Was the existence of the theatre justified; or rather, was the church justified in taking an attitude of hostility to the theatre? Was that the attitude that would bring the best results? He did not think so. The Scriptures and especially Christ had nothing to say about the drama. Revelation had not one word of attack on the theatre or the drama, but it lashed every vice vigorously. Where was the man that was fair-minded and honorable who would say that Christ condemned the theatre? Slavery was condemned frequently in the new testament, and if the theatre in Christ's day was so bad as some would try to make up believe, would not Christ have left some words of condemnation of it?

Conservative Club Will Put up Prizes

A Fine Addition to the Winter Programme of Entertainment

The winter season of 1908 in the Young Conservative Club promises to be under the energetic leadership of Mr. Wm. Buller, one of entertainment and enjoyment. He has secured the promise of good and useful trophies for team play in pedro or euchre tournaments to be organized at once. The prizes will probably take the form of something useful and really worth having. They will be put on exhibition in the club rooms as soon as the worthy president chooses them. Early in February a member of the local house and our local candidates will be the guests of the club at one of its weekly evenings.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOYED DRIVE

St. Luke's A. Y. P. A. Entertained by Mr. and Mrs. George Curtis

About fifty members of the A. Y. P. A. of St. Luke's church were entertained to a sleigh drive last evening by the gentlemen members of the association. After driving about the city a visit was paid to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Curtis where social intercourse and games were enjoyed. A hearty vote was tendered the host and hostess for their hospitality, on motion of Mr. Harry Potter, president; and Miss Clara Adams, secretary of the association.

The lady members furnished refreshments and a jolly evening was spent.

Deputation Waited Upon the County Council

Horticultural Society Asked for Grant to Assist in Care of Victoria Park

A deputation from the Horticultural Society, waited upon the County Council yesterday afternoon, asking for a grant to assist in the building of new steps leading up to the Court House in Victoria Park, and also in improving the beauty of the park in general. The committee who addressed the council were, Messrs. Col. H. C. Rogers, D. W. Dumble and H. L. Beal.

Mr. Dumble, in laying the requests before the county officials referred to the magnificence of the grounds fronting the Court House. It was a most beautiful spot, and an attractive one for excursions. It was a very profitable advertisement for the city. The county has a twenty-five year lease on the park but had not received the necessary papers. Mr. Dumble was of the opinion that the council should contribute towards the expenses of keeping the park in repair and would ask that a favorable grant be made the society in order that this work may be carried out effectively.

Mr. Harry Beal, secretary of the Horticultural Society, stated that $475.00 had been expended on flowers, bulbs and other accessories for the beautifying of Victoria Park. Fifty dollars had been spent on repairs to the walk. Next season the society was desirous of replacing the present walk with a concrete one, at a cost of about four hundred dollars.

Upon motion of Councillor Brown and seconded by Councillors Scott of Smith, the matter was referred to the property committee to deal with, and the delegates were assured that the matter would be given due consideration.

Is There all by Himself

Lone Black Bird Has Been in Vicinity of Jordan's Greenhouse all Winter

Everytime a robin is seen surprise is expressed at the eccentricity of Mr. Redbreast at staying here in such severe weather. But this time it is a blackbird that has been acting differently from his more social fellow birds. A solitary blackbird who hovers around like a lone sentinel has been in the vicinity of Jordan's greenhouse all this winter perching from tree to tree. He probably stays there with the forlorn hope that he may eventually find his paradise among the flowers and in the tropical heat of the greenhouse. At any rate there he remains and makes quite a sombre figure in his solitude.

"Not Guilty" is Verdict of The Jury in the Thaw Case

Harry K. Thaw Acquitted on the Grounds That He Was Insane When He Killed Stanford White—Will Likely be Sent to Asylum.

(Special to The Review.)

New York, Feb. 1.—The jury in the Thaw case has reported a verdict of "not guilty." The jury acquits Thaw on the ground that he was insane when he killed Stanford White. The result of the verdict is that Thaw will probably be sent to an asylum, at least for the present.

An earlier despatch from New York today was as follows;

New York, Feb. 1.—After waiting for nearly 12 hours for the jury in the Thaw case to report, Justice Dowling shortly after 11 o'clock last night ordered the doors of the jury room locked for the night and adjourned court until 11.30 today when he will hear any reports they have to make. The rumor persisted throughout the evening that the jury was hopelessly divided eight to four.

One Relief Restaurant Will Be Ready on Monday Next

Soup Will be Given Out at 24 Stewart St. From 11 to 12 O'clock Each During February and March—Another Will be Instituted at the Children's Shelter in a Few Days.

The enterprise of the Children's Aid Society is highly commendable, in providing eating stations throughout the city where the poor people may procure such victuals as will keep them from starving and bring them through the severe weather.

One place has already been provided. Mr. Geo. Cochrane was particularly busy yesterday, and now has a relief restaurant ready to start handing out eatables on Monday. All the utensils have been provided, and everything is in readiness. There is a large number of poor families in the south end and the house at 24 Stewart street, near the Shovel factory will be the distributing centre for this portion of city. Commencing Monday and continuing throughout February and March, soup will be delivered to all persons calling at the above address from eleven to twelve o'clock each day. Tickets can be procured from Mr. E. L. Goodwill, secretary of the society, and they will have to be presented before soup will be given out. Later in the week bread may also be given away, and another restaurant will be opened at the Shelter for persons in the north end of the city.

The officers of the society have been untiring in their labors in looking to the needs of the poorer classes and they are deserving of the hearty support of the people.

Fire Smouldered in Walls At Weaving Company's Plant

Great Difficult Was Experienced in Getting Early Morning Blaze Under Control—Damage Was Not Extensive—Storm Made it Unpleasant for the Fire Fighters.

Early this morning fire broke out at the plant of the Colonial Weaving Company at Auburn and before it was extinguished considerable damage was done. The fire brigade was summoned about 4.30 and their good work prevented the blaze from spreading.

The fire started in the building containing the boiler and engine which was located just east of the main building and connected with it. The night watchman, Mr. Sullivan, noticed smoke issuing from the boiler house shortly after three o'clock and as soon as he became aware that the premises were in danger sent in an alarm. The brigade arrived as quick ly as possible but experienced great difficulty in getting the fire under control. It got in between the walls of the main building and it was almost impossible to make certain that it was completely extinguished. The walls are constructed of brick, with a sheeting of steel on the outside. The fire destroyed the wooden work between the brick and steel and was only got under control with great difficulty.

The machinery or stock were not damaged and the loss all told will be about $500. It was covered by insurance. Everything is running as usual at the factory to-day

The exceedingly stormy weather made the run an exceedingly unpleasant one for the firemen but they responded quickly and did excellent work.

Boys' Banquet Held at Y.M.C.A. Was Highly Enjoyable Event

A successful boys' banquet was held at the Y.M.C.A. last night. The junior members of the "Y" who succeeded in bringing in a new member during the last two weeks, the new members, and some of the Boys' Committee to the number of 25 were present at a banquet given by the Ladies' Auxiliary. After the bounteous repast, served by Caterers Coleman Bros., had had full justice done to it, Mr. J. M. Laing, the chairman, said a few words in regard to the Boys' work. It was hoped to secure 25 new members in two weeks, but this had not been accomplished. The Boys were told they were expected to bring in the remainder soon and the money was to be used in getting new games and fixing up the Boys' department. Mr. Laing then called on the President of the Association, Mr. J. O. Shook, Rev. H. W. Wright, of Goderich, Mr. W. Thompson, of Lindsay Y.M.C.A., Rev. E. A. Pearson the general Secretary, Mr. H. C. Wright, who all made a few remarks in regard to the work. Mr. Herbert Johnston, President of the Boys' Executive, very ably replied on behalf of the Boys.

The meeting closed by all singing "God Save the King."

The Saturday night Bible Club will meet as usual at 8 p.m. tonight.

The Membership Committee will meet at 8.300 p.m. The Committee is composed of Messrs. W. McLaren, G. Martin, W. Shine, W. Coleman, B. A. Lillie, and N. Greenhalgh.

To-day is New Year's Day

"Quong he son tin !"

That's what is heard in the Chinese restaurants and laundries throughout the city to-day. This is the Chinese New Year's Day. Every Chinaman is celebrating this festive occasion in some way and thus keeping the illustrious reign of Quong Soon, Emperor of all the Chinese. At daybreak today the business of settling all debts was begun. The deepest disgrace and humiliation a Chinaman can know is to owe money after twelve o'clock on New Year's Day.

Three Little Boys Taken Under Protecting Care of Children's Aid Society

Authorities Pay Visit to Home on George Street and Take Them in Charge

Mother Said to Have Neglected Them—Information Will be Sworn Out Against Her and She Will Appear in Court.

Another pathetic case of neglect or alleged neglect of children has come to light in the city. The authoities of the Children's Aid Society with their usual vigilance and philanthropic enterprise have taken a hand in the matter and last night between six and seven o'clock, took three little boys, aged 9, 5 and 3 years respectively from their mother.

The family moved here from Campbellford a short time ago, but nothing of their previous history is known. It is said that the woman's name is Mrs. McKenzie, though a couple of other names have been suggested as the proper ones. Whether she has a husband or not, the officials do not know.

TAKING THE CHILDREN

Last night about 7.15 Mr. George Cochrane, the agent of the Children's Aid Society, P. C. Adams and Mr. Tom Mitchell, who lives opposite the shelter, drove to the residence of Mrs. McKenzie who lives in a flat near near the corner of King and George Streets, the entrance being one door north of the Chinese restaurant, at the corner.

Mr. Mitchell has in his employ, a sister of the children. Mrs. McKenzie or whatever her correct name may be was loath to give up the little ones, but Mr. Cochrane told her that resistance was of no avail and said he had to carry out his instructions. She wept some at learning this, but finally saw that Mr. Cochrane intended to carry out his mission. The children were carried downstairs to the cab and being so young, naturally did not comprehend the significance of the sudden visit. They were quite quiet as they were being carried down stairs and sank back into the cushions on the seats with a satisfied air. The mother did not come downstairs. A lady occupying adjoining apartments assisted the officials in the carrying out of their duty.

WOMAN COMPLAINED

Mr. Cochrane today stated that two complaints regarding the conduct of the mother of the children had reached the Society and from the nature of them it was thought advisable to take them away from her. An information charging her with neglecting to properly look after the children will be sworn out and she will be brought before the police magistrate on the charge.

CHILDREN HAPPY

The children who are good looking and bright and intelligent in appearance, seem quite contented at their new home at the shelter. Mr. Henry, who is in charge of the shelter, said they were well and happy today.

As no charge has yet been laid against the mother, it is not known when the case against her will be brought up in court.

TRAIN WERE DELAYED BY SNOWSTORM

On Both Railways, Traffic Greatly Hindered by Heavy Snowstorm

This has been a week of delayed trains on both the G.T.R. and C.P.R.

Againtoday all the trains were late, the delay being due to the heavy snow storm, the roads having been blocked in many places. The early morning trains on the C.P.R. were about an hour behind scheduled time, while the express from the West, due here at 11.16, did not pull into the depot until 1.30 o'clock. It was a double header.

On the G.T.R. the Belleville train from the east, due here at 8.30, did not get into the depot until 10.30 o'clock. The Port Hope train was also a couple of hours behind. The other trains were pretty well on scheduled time.

WILL THE BEAR SEE HIS SHADOW?

Tomorrow will be Candlemas Day and the momentous question is, will the bear see his shadow?

The old tradition is that bruin, after hibernating several months, comes out tomorrow. If he sees his shadow silhouetted on the snow, it is reported that he goes back to sleep six weeks longer as there will be considerable duration of cold weather If the bear does not espy his shadow ,he stays out and spring is believed to be near at hand.

REV. MR. POTTER GAVE TALK ON LOCAL OPTION

Churches Will be Asked to Hold Temperance Prayer Meetings

The Peterborough branch of the W.C.T.U., will ask each of the churches of the city to hold a temperance prayer meeting in the near future. This was decided on at a meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon, when a large number were in attendance. The feature of the meeting was an address on "Local option," by Rev. J. G. Potter, With the aid of a map he showed the growth of the local option movement during the past two or three years. The movement was one that deserved earnest support and that was certain to exert a great influence on the country.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Potter for his address, and afterwards it was decided to ask each of the city churches to devote a prayer meeting in the near future given over to the subject of temperance, with a view to aiding the movement in Peterborough.

SAID GOOD-BYE TO MR. MATTHEWS

At the regular meeting of Moore Preceptory No. 13, held last night, the members said good-bye to Sir Knight T. F. Matthews, who leaves next week on an extended trip to the East. Several speeches were made, and wishes for an enjoyable trip and safe return were showered upon Sir Knight Matthews.

HARD WORK TO COLLECT THE POLL TAX

Young Men are Backward in Making Payments.

Tax Collector Green is having troubles of his own in collecting the poll tax. There are about 300 men in the city, most of them young, who are assessed a dollar each, but of this number scarcely a hundred have paid up. The tax collector does not wish to take legal action against the delinquents but unless they pay up soon this will have to be done. The total sum due the city from the poll tax is considerable. Every year the same difficulty is experienced in collecting this portion of the taxes.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN COMPANY

PROCEEDINGS OF THE TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

The adjourned annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, was held at the head office of the company, No. 437 George street, Peterborough, on Thursday, the 30th day of January, 1908, at three o'clock p.m.

The President, Hon. Geo. A. Cox having taken the chair, the managing director, Mr. W. G. Morrow, was requested to act as secretary to the meeting.

After reading the notice convening the meeting, the secretary read the twenty-third annual report, and the accompanying financial statement.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The directors submit herewith their twenty-third annual report showing the result of the business for the past year, accompanied by the balance sheet to the 31st December, 1907.

The gross earnings for the year amounted to $203,045.73, and, after the payment of interest on deposits and debentures, and all expenses of management, there remained a net profit of $108,985.48. To this amount has been added $26,739.70, the balance carried forward from last year, which makes a total sum for distribution of $135,725.18.

The amount has been disposed of in the following manner:—

(1) By payment of four quarterly dividends of 1 1-2 per cent. each, equal to 6 per cent for the year, amounting to...... ....$60,000.00
(2) By addition to the reserve fund........ .... 40,000.00
(3) By amount carried forward to profit and loss account 35,725.18

The above addition to the reserve fund increases that account to $620,000.00, making it now 62 per cent of the present paid-up capital of $1,000,000.00.

All payments maturing during the year on the company's investments have been most satisfactorily met, and the rentals from the property owned by the company have also been promptly paid. The books, accounts and securities of the company have been carefully examined by the auditors, and their report is attached to the financial statement.

TO RAISE $100,000 FOR NOVITIATE

To Train Young Men for Teachers in Separate Schools

In several of the Catholic churches Sunday announcement was made that on Tuesday evening a meeting of the Catholic citizens of Toronto will be held at the De La Salle Institute to devise ways and means of erecting a Novitiate for the training of young men to the Christian Brotherhood.

By the older residents of the city it will be remembered that quite a number of years ago a preparatory Novitiate was held at the De La Salle Institute, which was then a boarding as well as a day school. Owing to force of circumstances, however, the Novitiate was abandoned, those desiring t ojoin the Brotherhood going direct to the Mother House at Montreal.

The present agitation, it is said, is the outcome of the Education Department's recent regulations requiring all teachers in Ontario to pass the departmental examinations. As a result, when a young man becomes a Brother and is sent to this Province he has to undergo the examinations as they cannot be passed while he is in Montreal, and the rules of the order will not permit him to leave the House to try them.

If a Novitiate is established here the novices will be able to write on the examinations, so that by the time they take their final vows they will be duly qualified to teach.

The plan for the Novitiate has been under discussion for some time, and is practically assured. It means, so The Star was informed to-day, the raising of a fund of $100,000, or thereabouts.

Whether a new building will be erected immediately has yet to be decided upon, though it seems probable that one will not be needed for some time to come. The fund of $100,000 is understood to cover the cost of such a building. For the present, however, the De La Salle Institute will be used, as there is ample room there to give accommodation to whatever novice from this Province are at present at the Order's houses in Montreal.

In addition, it is expected that the installing of a Novitiate here will bring a larger number of recruits to the Brotherhood. The houses at Montreal are conducted under the strict French regime as laid down by Monsieur La Salle, and it is known to be not the most agreeable possible to English-speaking novices. — Toronto Star.

AMUSEMENTS

"A MESSAGE FROM MARS"

That delightful comedy drama, "A Message From Mars," is the offering at the Grand Opera House next Thursday evening. The reputation this play has acquired in London and New York City, by its long and phenomenal runs, together with its popularity in all of the cities where it has been seen, was sufficient to cause very general interest upon the part of theatregoers to see it when it came here. The play "made good" in every particular, yet there were, of course, a great many who did not see it. It received high praise and commendation from all sources after its presentation here. It is clean cut, and beautiful in its simplicity. Its humor is of a refined quality, always pleasing, dignified, yet excruciatingly funny. It is conceded to be logical in its conclusion, and at no point are either its characters or situations overdrawn. They are all in the line of becoming modesty, all tending to reflect upon the genius, originality cleverness of its author.

The introduction of an inhabitant from the planet Mars is conceded to be something out of the ordinary. It provides a subject for the most thoughtful consideration by those who see this play, touching upon conditions that we know exist on earth and what we believe may exist in Mars, although upon the latter subject nothing more than scientific deductions are forthcoming.

Newspaper Man Quits the Grind

Jos. B. Hay Gives up Sporting Editorship in Favor of Business Career

Mr Joe Hay, the popular sporting editor of the News, has resigned from the staff of that journal, and will enter business life. "Joe" is widely known and well liked, and has many friends in this city.

The following is from last night's News:

Mr. Joseph B. Hay, who for the past fifteen years has been associated with the staff of the News, and for the past two years has been the sporting editor of this paper, has resigned his position to enter business life.

"Joe," as he was popularly known, has been a prominent and active figure in all athletic circles for some years, and has occupied the position of secretary of the Ontario Football Union since 1903.

On the occasion of his departure, his fellow members on the News' staff, as a token of their affection and esteem, presented him with a handsome travelling bag, the presentation being made by Mr. J. S. Willison, the editor-in-chief, who bespoke for the recipient the good will and best wishes of all his colleagues. Mr. Hay, in a brief response, declared the News would ever remain his "newspaper home."

Historical Events for February; Noted Happenings in the World

(By Chic)

Among the lesser events in this month are the institution of the Order of St. Patrick on 5th Feb., 1873. This Order has been brought into prominene lately by the robbery of the jewels of the Order from the keepers of the Dublin Castle. These jewels are valuable ones and consist of a collar of gold, composed of roses, alternating with harps, tied together with a knot of gold, the roses being alternately white within red, and red within white, and in the centre is an Imperial Crown, surmounting a harp of gold, from which the badge is suspended. The badge, or jewel, is of gold, and oval; surrounding it is a wreath of shamrock proper on a gold field; within this is a band of sky, blue enamel, charged with the motto of the Order: Quis Separabit M.D.C.C.L.X.X.X.I.I.I.," in gold letters and within this band saltire griak (the cross of St. Patrick) surmounted by a shamrock or trefoil slipped vert, having on each of its leaves an Imperial crown. The field of the cross is either argent (silver) or purced and left open.

A sky blue ribbon worn over the right shoulder sustains the badge when the collar is not worn. The Star, worn on the left side, differs from the badge only in being circular in place of oval, and in substituting for the exterior wreath of Shamrock eight rays of silver, four of which are larger than the other four. The mantle is of rich sky blue, tabinet, lined with white silk and fastened by a cordon of blue silk and gold with tassels. On the right shoulder is the hood, of the same material as the mantle. The Order is vindicated by the initials, K.P.

The angel of death was busy this month with prominent Britains. Sir Morell Mackenzie died 3rd February, 1783. Baron Rothschilds, a member of the great Hebrew house of financiers, established by his grandfather, Meyer Anslem Rothschild, in the latter part of the 18th century, died on the 7th, 1874..

Cardinal Wiseman died on the 15th, 1865, in his 65th year. He was really the Roman Catholic prelate who was the means of bringing about the good feeling which now exists between the Anglican and Roman faiths in England, and the first Archepiscopal prelate having jurisdiction over all England in the Roman Church after the passing of the Catholic Emancipation Act. Besides being a distinguished orator, he became to be recognized as a talented literateur, eminent linguist, a well informed scholar, a graceful and vigorous writer and an accomplished critic and connoisseur of art.

Luther, the great Protestant reformer although not a Briton, who did so much which was afterwards recognised in England, died on the 17th, 1546.

Sir Wm. Napier was one of "Wellington's Colonels" in the Peninsular war, died on the 12th, 1860.

Sir Wm. Allan, painter, died 22nd, 1850.

Sir Joshua Reynolds, P.R.A., the foremost portrait painter of English art, died 1792.

Sir Christopher Wren, the great architect of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, and a number of the greatest buildings of the world's metropolis, died Feb 25th, 1840.

Thomas Moore, poet and author of "The Penny Post" and "Irish Melodies," died 25th, 1852.

Royalty was not free from violence and public notice during this month. Queen Anne was born on 6th, 1665, the year of the first plague in London.

Charles II died 6th February, on the 20th, 1867.

Queen Victoria was married to Prince Albert, Prince of Saxe-Cobourg-Gotha, in St. James' Palace, 1840.

Charles MM died 6th February, 1585

The execution of Mary Stewart, Queen of Scots, took lace on the 8th inst., 1587, for a crime which no British court could truthfully lay against her. She led a very unhappy life from the day of her birth, Dec. 8, 1542, to the day of her death. She was the victim of conspiracy, intrigue and rebellion of her Scot ish subjects, which in a measure was her own fault. She was married three times. first to the Dauphin, afterwards to Francis II., King of France, who died less than two years afterwards. She married Henry Stewart, Lord Dornley, great grandson of King Henry VII., of England—on the 29th July, 1565. He was assassinated while dying of smallpox, by the house where he slept being blown up by gunpowder, shortly after midnight on Feb. 9, 1567. She married only three months afterwards (15th May) the man whom everyone regarded as her late husband's murderer, James Hepburn, the Earl Bothwell, whom she created Lord of Orkney, on May 12th. She was immediately afterwards forced to abdicate in favor of her son, afterwards King James VI., a son by her second marriage.

The 13th is the anniversary of the accession of King William III., and Queen Mary II., which happened in 1688.

James the First, of Scotland, was assassinated on the 21st, 1437.

Events in private life are briefly; Charles Dickens born 7th Feb. 1812. Bishop Hooper was condemned as a heretic in Mary's reign, and burnt at the stake on the 9th, 1555.

Lord Dudedly and Lady Jane Gray, who reigned as King and Queen of England, the title treacherously obtained, for only ten days, were both executed on 12th February, 1554. In receiving her sentence she said, "I only consented to the thing I was forced into."

Captain James Cook, one of England's greatest navigators, met his death at the hands of the savages on the Island of Hawaii, on the 14th, 1779, but not before he had added to the Colonial possessions of Great Britain by discovery and also valuable additions to our geographical knowledge of the coasts of America and Asia in the region of Behring Straits.

On the 12th Warren Hastings, the first Governor-General of India, 1773-1785, was impeached before the House of Lords, but after a trial, which languished for about seven years, finally this trial terminated by the acquittal of Hastings on the 23rd of April, 1795. The trial lasted 149 days, and out of 400 peers only 29 voted against him.

John Keats, poet, died at Rome on the 23rd February, 1821. His body was brought to England, and buried in the Poet's Corner, alongside of Shelley's.

On the 26th, 1665, Capt. Gordon was executed.

Henry Sacheverell, D.D., was tried before the House of Lords on the 27th, 1710, for a virulent attack on the Whig Government, for their passage of the Act of Toleration.

Thomas Carlyle, the great English author, died on the 5th, 1881.

The Art Union of London was founded on the 14th, 1837, for the purpose of fostering art in Britain.

The war spirit of England is represented in several wars, which commenced in this month.

War was declared on Feb. 18th, 1793, against Great Britain and Holland, by France. The war between the Zulus, under Cetewayo, broke out on 2nd, 1879. Stephen, King of England, was taken prisoner by the Earl of Gloucester, on the 2nd of February, 1141, after fighting a war with David I of Scotland, and his own nobles, which lasted for nearly five years. The memorable siege of Gibraltar, and the last, which lasted 4 years. The memorable siege of Bibto an end on the 2nd of February, 1783 Martinique taken by British, 8th 1762. The Island Kingdom of Tipu Sahib, Seringpatam, India, was captured Feb. 6, 1792. In 1461, on the 17th Feb., the brave wife of King Henry VI., Margaret of Anjou, set at liberty her husband who had been imprisoned the year previous at the battle of St. Albans. The 14th is the anniversary of the naval battle, in 1797, between the British and Spanish fleets off Cape St. Vincent.

It was in this month that General Wolfe started for Canada, on the 17th, 1759—and Gen. Gordon (Chinese) arrived at Khartoum on the 18th, 1884. The British troops were routed at Tanjore in 1782 on the 18th Feb.

On the 19th, 1821, Florida was ceded to the United States.

The last event in British history which is worthy to be mentioned, and not with pride by Englishmen, is the massacre of Glencoe on the 13th of Feb., 1691.

Items on interest to Canadians in British history are briefly as follows;

1st—Houses of Parliament burnt at Quebec, 1854.

Cobourg, Jan. 30.—Over one hundred citizens of Cobourg, Alderville, Gore's Landing, Harwood, Roseneath, Plainville, Hiawatha, Keene and other places, attended an organization meeting, held at Harwood, at which an association to be known as the Rice Lake Fish and Game Club in affiliation with the Ontario Fish Game Association, was formed. Mr. J. D. Hayden, Cobourg, who was largely instrumental in arranging for it, stated the object of the meeting. The following officers were elected;—Hon. President, J. D. Hayden; President, Alex. Dixon, Vice-President, Frank Herald Secretary, Alex. Skeen; treasurer, W. J. Edmison. Committees were appointed to report in a month's time as to preservation of fish, restocking, etc., also game.

WHAT A K. C. IS

Since the announcement last week of the appointment of 188 new King's Counsel, by the Whitney Government, there has been considerable speculation as to what privileges or distinctions carried by the letters "K.C." after a lawyer's name.

The distinction appears to be almost purely honorary. In gatherings of members of the bar, a K.C. has precedence over ordinary members and in application to a court, a K.C., takes precedence in getting certain matters heard.

A K.C. is privileged to wear silk gown, which costs from $50 to $75, while an ordinary lawyer contents himself with a less costly gown. The K.C must pay a fee of $25 or $50 to the Attorney-General's Department, so the honor does not come free of all cost.

There are now in Ontario 377 Kings Counsel, out of a total number of practing barristers of 1,650. The proportion of the King's Counsel to the rest of the profession is, therefore, one in five. In England and Wales there are 260 King's Councel to 9,000 lawyers, so there is a proportion of one to thirty-five. There are 117 more silk robed counsel in Ontario, with a population of less than three million, than there are in England and Wales, with a population of over 39 millions.

In England a King's Counsel was formerly not allowed to plead in a case against the Crown without a special license. He was then paid a nominal retainer. This distinction was afterwards removed. After the Confederation of the Canadian provinces, the question of whether the question of whether the provinces might appoint K.C.'s was unsettled for some time. It was finally ruled by the Court of Appeal that the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council had the authority to appoint King's Counsel and give them such privileges as they thought proper in provincial courts

DESTITUTE AT KINGSTON.

Pitiful Stories From Canada's Underworld.

Kingston, Jan. 31.—The extent of destitution in this city at present may be realized from two recent cases. One is that of two young girls who left their homes Wednesday morning in the western part of the city to go to the cotton mill in the east end without breakfast, and, moreover, took nothing with them for a lunch at noon, because there was no food in the home to take.

The second case is that of a young English officer who drifted to South Africa at the time of the Boer war, and at its close came to Canada. He has a wife and four children. They live in miserable quarters, and a lady hearing of their need made up a basket of sandwiches and cake, took it to the house Wednesday, saying, as she entered, that it was for the children, not wishing to hurt the mother's feelings. The children seized the food like hungry wolves, and the mother exclaimed: "Oh, forgive them. They are very hungry, and I must have some too," and hurriedly helped herself, putting aside some for her husband, who, she explained, had just gone with their last 18 cents to get a little coal.

RAILWAY MEN AT OTTAWA.

Prime Minister Does Not Hold Out Much Encouragement.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—Harvey Hall, legislative representative of the railway employes, introduced a delegation of railway men to the Premier and Minister of Labor yesterday. There were about 80 in all. They represented the engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and telegraphers. The delegation asked that the penalty section 415, of the Railway Act be amended by striking out the words "or negligently" violates any of the bylaws, rules or regulations of the company or its directors." The railway employes feel that the two words "or negligently" are now too literally interpreted, with the result that unreasonable and unjust prosecution followed in a number of cases. If the clause was amended it would conform to sections 283 and 284 of the criminal code.

Sir Wilfrd Laurer did not feel that the request should be granted, although he recognized that the railway men had a grievance, and he would ask the Minister of Justice and the Minister of Railways to look into the matter. The protection of the public had to be safeguarded.

Mr. Lemieux spoke in a similar strain.

SUFFRAGETTES' NEW MOVE.

Storm the Residences of British Cabinet Ministers.

London, Jan. 31.—Having failed to reach King Edward Wednesday during the ceremenies of the opening of Parliament, and as the House of Commons is effectively barred against them, the woman suffragists of England yesterday adopted a new method of protesting against the fact that His Majesty, in his speech from the throne, made no mention of their demands to be permitted to vote.

The militant members of the organization formed themselves into several committees, which at the same hour, visited the homes of the various members of the Cabinet for the purpose of asking them to use their influence to have the question of women's suffrage settled at this session. As none of the Ministers would see them the women demonstrated by ringing door bells and delivering addresses from door steps.

The police were unprepared for this course of action, and noisy scenes were witnessed on several of the fashionable thoroughfares of London. The women eventually were dispersed after seven arrests had been made.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS IN EAST.

Winnipeg Express Left Rails—Engineer Leach Injured.

Smith's Falls, Jan. 31.—The C.P.R. Winnipeg express, eastbound, jumped the track at Almonte Wednesday, but no one was injured, and the damage to railway stock was slight.

An accident occurred to the Ottawa-Brockville express Wednesday, in which Engineer Samuel Leach had a marvelous escape. The train was being hauled by two engines, and the driving rod of the first one broke, when a short distance out from the station here. Engineer Leach was leaning out of the cab window at the time and was hurled through it and into a field a distance of twenty feet. He landed in a snowbank and thus escaped serious injury, though his leg got a bad wrench.

The auxiliary went from here.

Eleven Men Entombed.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 31.—A dust explosion occurred yesterday in the New River Valley mine near Hawk's Nest. Only twelve men were employed in the mine. One man, Superintendent Coles, was taken out seriously burned. The fate of the other eleven men is not known. All the dynamite and powder in the mine was ignited by the explosion, destroying the shaft.

Alice Thaw's Divorce Suit.

London, Jan. 31.—Sir Gorell Barnes, president of the Divorce Court, yesterday fixed the hearing of the suit brought by the Countess of Yarmouth, who was Alice Thaw of Pittsburg, against her husband for the annulment of her marriage for next Wednesday afternoon.

South Africa Solves Problem.

Johannesburg, Jan. 31.—The Asiatic difficulty has been settled, the Government deciding to accept the signatures instead of the finger prints in the registration of Indians coming into the country. Those arrested in contravention of the law will be liberated.

Mr. Todd Talks on Christian Science

Relates Recent Interview With Rev. And. Allan Scottish Evangelist

Dear Sir,—In last Tuesday's issue of a local paper appeared an article "Christian Science on the Defence." In connection with this letter I feel that I should say a few words, in behalf of the Christian Science Church, as well as the Presbyterian which we respect so highly for the good it has done and is still doing. First, I wish to say the appeal for fair treatment is not from a member of our church, although we appreciate the kindness very much, and endorse what the writer says about the teaching of Christian Science. We were informed that our esteemed Bro. Pogue at St. Paul's, had indulged in condemnation, we did not intend referring to it. He no doubt thought he was doing God's service.

We try to think of our brethren as being honest, and hold our peace, when being denounced.

However, this case seems like a verification of our Master's words, "If these were to hold their peace the very stones would cry out." Secondly, I am pleased to know that our ministers of the (so-called) orthodox faith are not all of the narrow-minded type; some of them at least, have been made free, "by the law of the spirit of life in Jesus Christ." Paul As a proof that some are being set free from the bondage of creeds and dogmas, I will repeat the following very agreeable experience. After reading the announcement of the celebrated Scotch evangelist, Rev. Andrew Allen of Glasgow, holding services in St. Andrew's church here, I went to hear him, praying as best I knew how that God would use him and speak through him, to this people. I am glad to say I found in him, what many others have expressed who heard him, a man full of the spirit of truth and love; with a Divine message for his fellow man.

He was told that I had attended the meeting. He called on me, I know not why, it may have been to win me from this dreaded heresy, However, in his private life, as in the pulpit he showed the spirit of Christ within the heart and life. He at once set to work to question me concerning our doctrine and the results in the individual life. Suffice it to say after spending nearly two half days, investigating, examining our "Tenets" reading our text book "Science and Health with Key to the Scripture, by Mary B. G. Eddy," and went over our lesson sermon for Last Sunday, subject, "Truth," what was his concluding remarks? Even the following in substance he said, (and you could easily see and feel with a heart overflowing with Divine love, and sympathy for his brother man); "Bro. Todd what I have got from you is of God, no one need say it is of the devil, and wherever I go I shall meet and accept Christian Scientists as a friend and co-worker in the great cause of the evangelization of the world." I do not in any sense intimate that Rev. Allan accepted Christian Science as his religion, but recognized it as of God and a helper in his great mission work. And while his mission here has been a blessing to myself, and I believe to others, I trust that he has not lost anything by coming to Peterborough, but that he may become a greater power for good in the church with which he is identified.

In conclusion I wish to tender our thanks to your correspondent for his sympathy and kind expressions. And to those who do not see eye-to-eye us, that our text book says; "If ecclesiastical sects or medical schools turn a deaf ear to the teachings of Christian Science, then part from these opponents as did Abraham when he parted from Lot, and say in thy heart; "Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen, for we are brethren." Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary B. G. Eddy, page 444. Thanking you in advance.

Yours sincerely,
R. J. TODD.

SWEET REVENGE

Helen and I, riding side by side, dashed through brush, between trees, over rocks, runnels, rotting trunks of trees, our only thought to put space between us and our enemies. She was riding on a man's saddle, sidewise, luckily supported by a high pommel and holster, keeping her balance as if bred to the "ring." I reached out my hand. She gave me hers to press, and a lover's look, intensified by our danger, shot between us. It was only for an instant, for so rough was the ground, so numerous the obstructions, that we were obliged to keep our eyes constantly fixed ahead. There had been exciting moments since my first abduction, but nothing like the wild exhilaration that thrilled me now. I forgot the barrier that was still between us, thinking only that if this one ride were successful years of happiness might be in store for us.

Wondering if we were followed, I drew rein and listened. We could distinctly hear the brush breaking in our rear. Again we pushed forward.

It occurred to me that we were going directly from our camp and that the greater chance for safety, both immediate and ultimate, would be in hiding, with a view to inducing the guerrillas to pass us, thus affording an opportunity to return and join forces with our friends. Approaching a clump of wood skirted by open ground, a plan flashed through my brain to utilize both in order to elude our pursuers.

"Your bonnet!" I cried to Helen.

She tossed it to me.

"Now ride straight for that thicket."

Spurring my horse to the utmost, I made a circuit, dropping the bonnet and a trifle farther on my hat. Helen entered the wood, and I, wheeling, dashed in on the farther side and rejoined her. Jerking off my coat, I wrapped it about my horse's ears and eyes to prevent his neighing to those approaching, and Helen, divining my intention, did the same to her own mount with her jacket. Then we stood waiting, not a sound escaping from either us or our horses, even their panting deadened by the covering. It was either life or death, with the chances in favor of death. We stood, hand in hand, looking straight into each other's eyes. In that moment of supreme suspense it was as if but one being waited for the result.

An exclamation—they have seen the bonnet! A shout—they have come upon the hat! They clatter on. Wait. A man in the rear is coming. He, too, passes, his horse's hoof beats dying in the distance.

Leaving the thicket, we made straight for the camp and in a few minutes dashed in upon our companions.

CHAPTER XIX.

BUCK'S INDISCRETION.

CAPTAIN BEAUMONT had arrived but a few minutes before us and when we appeared was attempting to reassure Jack, who had completely collapsed at finding that both Helen and I had disappeared. He went to Helen and politely offered to assist her to alight.

"We must move out of this at once," I said. "All depends upon our getting down the mountain and into some town, where these villains will not dare follow us. All stay here while I reconnoiter."

I had not dismounted, and spurred my horse a few hundred yards westward, where I paused on the verge of the plateau. The sun was rising at my back and was pouring a flood of light on the lowlands a thousand feet below. I swept my eye over the rolling fields and woodland dotted with towns, villages, hamlets and many a fair plantation, with its manor house surrounded by the huts of the field hands. Far in the distance was a snakelike line in the road, moving forward, it seemed, as a reptile crawls—the cavalry that we had so nearly caught the day before, now on their way back to join the main force. I longed for a speaking trumpet sonorous enough to reach them, but there was no hope for us now in them, and I brushed away disappointment and made a survey of the ground directly before me—nothing but steep incline, so thickly wooded that the character of the ground was completely hidden. On either hand was a mountain spur, between which ran a creek. I hesitated between taking one of these spurs and following the bed of the creek. On the spurs we might be seen; by the creek we would be concealed under the trees. I decided in favor of the latter. Returning to camp, I informed the party of my decision.

"Will you join us, Captain Beaumont?" I asked.

"I've been hunting fo' yo' all fo' days," replied the captain, looking at Jack. "Now I've found yo', I'm not likely to part with yo'! Together we can whip the guerrillas."

"Not a dozen of them. Besides, we've had enough of that."

"What are you going to do with the horses?" asked Helen.

"Mount the ladies," suggested the captain.

"Thank yo'," observed Jack, "but I don't care to ride on a horse with his nose pointing to China and his tail at the stars."

"No one could ride a horse over such a route," said I. "I'll take care of the stock."

I tethered them in the little pocket we were leaving, knowing that they were less likely to betray our whereabouts to our enemies there than if I turned them loose.

"They'll starve," Jack remonstrated.

"I can't help it."

"They shall not!"

"Come, we have no time to lose."

But Jack set about collecting what little grass was to be had and piling it before them. The captain, seeing her determination, was soon on his knees gathering grass and throwing it in her apron.

"I hope the delay will not cost us our lives," I grumbled. "Now, Ginger, I want you to go off to the right just as far as you can and still keep me in sight. Buck, you go to the left and do the same, but keep close, for it won't do for us to call to each other."

"Jack can make all sorts o' noises—cats, an owls an birds—so yo' can't tell 'em," Buck volunteered.

"Good! We may have occasion to use her. You girls keep behind about the same distance as our flankers. When we get to the creek, Ginger is to work down it on the right bank, Buck on the left, while I keep as near the creek as possible. Captain Beaumont, will you act as rear guard?"

"With pleasure, sir."

"He'll go to sleep," remarked Jack, "and be left behind."

"Not with you in front," said the captain, looking at her reproachfully.

I gave the order to move. Making as little noise as possible, keeping each other in sight, except occasionally when the trees and underbrush were too thick, we proceeded to the brow of the plateau. Descending, we soon struck the creek and, under cover of the trees, proceeded downward in open order, walking rapidly, keeping a sharp lookout ahead and on the flanks. We had not gone far before an owl hooted behind me, and so natural was the cry that, had I not been expecting it, I should never have suspected it to have come from the throat of Jaqueline. Turning, I saw both girls pointing upward. On the very edge of the declivity and not far from where we had begun our descent a man was looking down from the plateau. We were so protected that he could not see us, for, besides being among the trees, we were in comparative shadow, while the man above stood out boldly in the light. He did not look like a guerrilla, but we hurried on.

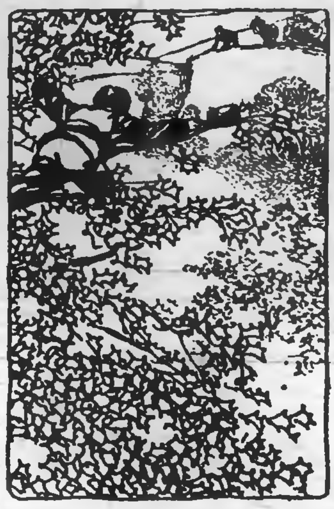
Discovering a great advantage in Jack's signals, I called in the flankers and the rearguard and arranged with them that Jack was to travel with me as trumpeter. The hoot of an owl would mean "hide," a woodpecker's rapping "rally on the center," the notes of a thrush "take a back track," a hen's cackling "push forward in haste." These signals being perfectly understood, we opened again and advanced like a central sun and satellites.

We had made the principal part of the descent, when, coming to a convenient spot, I ordered a halt for rest, feeling a confidence that I had not felt since my abduction—a confidence I should not have yielded to, for we were yet far from safety. The place of our halt was a delightful angle in the stream we were following. Jack strolled away in search of wild flowers and was soon joined by Captain Beaumont, whose infatuation prevented him from thinking of aught else, even our common danger. Buck stretched himself under a short mountain oak, clasped his hands under his head, threw one leg over the bent knee of the other and looked straight up into the branches. Helen and I were thus left alone. We sat down on the bank of the creek in view of the bubbling stream. Taking a slender stick in her hand, Helen began to thrash the water. I saw that she was troubled, and I knew the cause. The barrier between us, which in a moment of intense excitement had faded out of sight, now loomed up again as ominously as ever. We sat without speaking. Jack and the captain were chatting briskly, every now and again speaking loud enough for us to hear some word that told of the captain's enthrallment. The silence between Helen and myself grew painful. I could say nothing to break the spell. I could but mutely express what I felt. Reaching out, I took her hand and drew her to me.

A shot!

Looking upward to the plateau, I saw a horseman dashing off to the spur north of us, whose ridge led to the level ground we were approaching. It was plain that we had been discovered, that the shot was a signal and the horseman was going to head us off.

The trouble had all come from Buck. I have no doubt we should have given the guerrillas the slip had it not been for his folly. There are certain idiosyncrasies in boys that are as natural to them as for a duck to swim or a robin to fly. Unfortunately, at a critical moment Buck encountered an incident that called out one of these idiosyncrasies. Gazing into the branches of the tree under which he lay, he espied a bird's nest. Unluckily, he noticed that a rock which admitted of a gradual ascent stood directly under the tree. Climbing the rock, he made his way among the branches and, leaning far out where the bright sun could shine directly on him, grasped for the treasure. Our enemy, who was at the time watching from the plateau, discovered him.



Our enemy, watching from the plateau, discovered him.

Calling the party together, I gave the order to push forward; not that there seemed to be any object in doing so, for we must expect to meet our pursuers, but we could not go back and could not stay where we were. Besides, motion would tend to pull together the faculties of the party, every one of whom was appalled at this relapse into the frightful dangers they had so long endured, though Captain Beaumont showed only irritation at having his tete-a-tete with Jack interrupted.

We had not gone far before we struck a path running parallel with the creek, which led us to a hamlet on a road leading north and south. There were but half a dozen houses in the place, including a small country store and a blacksmith shop. Before entering the town we consulted as to what we should do.

"Get horses," I proposed, "if there is time."

"Or a horse and wagon," said Helen.

"I reckon we better hide," was Buck's proposition.

"Let's get clothes," suggested Jack, "and dress up like village people."

I looked at Helen. Jack's proposition appeared to strike her with the same force it struck me. Of all things the guerrillas would expect us to do, disguising ourselves and going about the town as if we belonged there would be the last.

"Done!" I said as we entered the place. "Scatter. Tell the people the guerrillas are after us, and they'll help us. We'll have from 10 to 15 minutes to prepare."

CHAPTER XX.

A MASQUERADE.

WHAT became of the others I did not attempt to discover. I made straight for the blacksmith shop and found a smith at his forge.

"My good man," I said, "I'm followed by guerrillas. They'll be in the town in a few minutes. Can't you give me your clothes and let me take your place at the forge?"

He stood with his hand on the handle of the bellows looking at me while what I said was slowly making its way through his skull.

"Weel, noo," he said at last.

"Scotch—I knew it. I'll be taken before I can make him understand." Then to him, "Do you want to save me from death by guerrillas?"

"Certain, mon."

"Then take off that apron and give it to me at once. Not a moment to lose."

At this juncture the desperate position I was in entered his brain, and he worked quickly enough once he realized what was wanted. I saw a woolen shirt, well begrimed, hanging on a nail and, seizing it, put it on. Then I took the smith's apron, rolled up my sleeves, smeared my arms with cinders and looked into a bit of broken mirror resting against the wooden wall to observe the effect. I was disappointed to see that my face belied my calling.

"Your razor!" I exclaimed to the blacksmith.

He went through a door leading from the shop to his dwelling and returned with a razor, soap and hot water. In five minutes I had shorn my beard, leaving a dark stubble; then, seizing a handful of coke, rubbed out every refined lineament. Taking another look at myself, I was pleased to see that my own mother would not know me. Seizing the handle of the bellows, I began to blow vigorously.

"Weel, weel," laughed the blacksmith, "ye mak' a better lo'kin smith than geentlemon."

"Play your own part well," I replied, "and I have something nice for you at the end of the performance."

It was fully 15 minutes after we reached the hamlet before there were any signs of the guerrillas, and then three or four rode into the town and asked for our party. Had they seen us? Which way had we gone? and other questions, which the few people they met responded to with a grunt or a shake of the head. I put my head out to see and, recognizing one of them, drew back and began to blow my bellows as if my life depended on it. And it did. Presently one of the outlaws rode up to the shop.

"Hello, thar!" he shouted.

"Waal," I replied, still blowing and keeping my face turned from him.

"Seen a man, two women, a boy an a nigger go through the town?"

"Hain't seen no one."

"Sho'?"

"Sho' nuff."

He rode off, but I knew the storm had not yet blown over. I went on working the bellows, and it was well I did so, for presently more of the band rode into town, and one of the horses having lost a shoe, its rider dismounted in front of the shop and told me to put it on.

This was something I had not counted on. I knew no more about horseshoeing than about knitting, but I put a bold face on the matter and went to work.

"What the —— yo' doin?" yelled the man. "Air yo' goin ter put that shoe on with nary trimmin?"

"Don't yo' s'pose I know my business?" I cried, bristling. "I was only fittin it."

With that I seized a knife and began to cut. But I was too excited to pare the hoof even if I had been an expert, and in another moment the man yelled again, "Ef yo' cut that critter's hoof off, I'll brain yo'!"

"Here, Sandy," I cried to the blacksmith within, "come shoe this man's critter. He thinks he knows more'n I do about shoein."

The blacksmith finished the job, while I, pretending to be greatly irritated, was glad to escape into his dwelling house. Going to a front window and dropping a curtain so that I could look into the road without being seen, I took a view of the situation. The guerrillas were scattered about the town, some riding around the houses hunting for us, others sitting on their horses, questioning the inhabitants as to our whereabouts. Captain Ringold was in command. A negro boy was playing "hopscotch" on the sidewalk. The captain called to him:

"Yo' boy thar, didn't yo' see anybody go this way awhile ago?"

"Two women an a boy 'bout big 's me?"

"Yes."

"An a white man an a colored man?"

"Yes. Which way did they go?"

"Dey's gwine right 'long dar." And he pointed to a path leading across the road westward.

"Here, you," cried the captain to two men who were watering their horses at a wooden trough in front of the shop, "strike out on that path."

The men darted away, leaving the captain alone in the road. A little old woman came out of a house opposite and began to guy him in a cracked voice, poking fun at him for not being able to catch a party of women. She talked so familiarly with him that I began to suspect she knew him. I trembled for fear she would betray us.

"You uns ain't wo'th a persimmon," she said. "With them critters' legs under yer, yer orter ketch wimmen folks easy."

"We'll catch 'em easy enough. They've gone along thar," pointing to the path his men were just dashing into.

"Th' didn't go that a-way."

"They didn't? Which way did they go?"

"D' yer s'pose I give fac's fo' nothin?"

A cold chill ran down my back. She was going to tell for pay.

"What do yo' want?"

"Gimme 'nuff fo' a caliker dress, an I'll put yer on th' right track."

"Sho'?"

"Sart'in."

"This 'll git it as easy." He drew a revolver and put it to her face. She drew back. But this man, who was above his calling, never could persist in ill treating a woman, and, lowering his weapon, he put his hand in his pocket and pulled out a bill.

"That's the stuff ter git fac's with," said the woman. "Now, you uns git right 'long thar," and she pointed up the road northward.

"That won't do," said the captain. "We just came from up thar."

There was a pause, at the end of which I heard the woman say in a low tone:

"Captain!"

The voice was familiar. I saw the man start, then exclaim, "Great God!"

The old woman went over to him and, taking hold of his bridle rein, began to whisper to him earnestly. Presently I heard the captain say:

"I can't do it."

There was more whispering, and by the woman's attitude I knew she was pleading. Was she pleading for us? If so, who could this good friend be to take so much interest in us?

"I'd do it fo' yo' an yo' friend, but not the other one."

She fumbled with the rein, she stroked his horse's neck, she laid her hand on his, all the while talking earnestly and looking up into his eyes. I fancied beseechingly, though I could not see her face, for her back was toward me, while the man's head was drooping lower and lower. Her bonnet fell back on her neck, and I knew the old woman was Jaqueline.

"Can yo' refuse when I ask it?" she said loud enough for me to hear.

The man was silent. The struggle within him was plain in every line of his face. At last he said:

"Fo' yo' sake, little one, I'll do it."

She took his rough brown hand in her little white one and bent her head down upon it, then looking up through tears: "I can give yo' only a trifle in reward, captain, dear. Kiss me."

Bending from his saddle, he reverently touched his lips to her forehead.

Lost in wonder at the strange sight, I was nevertheless congratulating myself that she had secured the man's promise to draw off his force when the whole advantage was spoiled through the insane jealousy of Captain Beaumont. It seems that the captain had disdained to hide with the rest. Indeed he had no occasion to hide. The guerrillas did not know that he was with our party, and he was in no more danger from them than any other man would be. He had, however, yielded to Jack's persuasion to go into a house and keep out of sight. When the guerrillas rode into town, he was sitting by a window sipping a glass of Tennessee whisky, and at the moment Ringold imprinted the kiss on Jack's forehead, as ill luck would have it, he happened to look out of the window. In another moment he was in the road discharging his revolver at the guerrilla, who, drawing his own weapon, returned the fire. A fusillade followed, Ringold receiving a wound that put him hors de combat. Swaying in his saddle, he fell fainting to the ground.

Jaqueline turned upon Beaumont like a fury. I have seen little Jack in many a towering passion, but never anything like this. Her face was livid, her eyes flaming. She tried to speak, but her ire choked her. At last one word expressive of her pent up feelings came out like a pistol shot:

"Pig!"

Having thus relieved herself to Captain Beaumont, she turned to the prostrate Ringold, knelt beside him, crooning over him as if he had been dearer to her than all the world beside.

At this moment a guerrilla, who had doubtless been attracted by the firing, dashed down the road. Beaumont caught sight of him just as Jack had hurled her opprobrious epithet. With an expression indicating that he would prefer death to another such word from the girl who had enthralled him, he started to meet the invader. Shots were exchanged, and the guerrilla fell from the saddle. He was followed by another, who shared the same fate, while a third, perhaps fancying that he had struck a troop of Confederate soldiers, turned and fled. All this happened so quickly that no one but Beaumont and the three bandits had an opportunity to take a hand in the fight. When there were no more guerrillas for the captain to kill, he went shyly back to Jack, who had witnessed his feat, looking like a schoolboy who had done penance for a fault and wanted forgiveness. But Jack turned her back on him.

When the firing began, with one bound, disguised and begrimed as I was, I cleared my window. When Ringold fell, I was joined by the other members of our party from the houses. Buck had blackened himself for a negro, and it was he who had answered Ringold's questions. Helen and Ginger had hidden without disguise. The people of the town, one man and eight women, besides children, rushed into the road. I knew well that the absence of the guerrillas was but temporary; that they would soon come down on us in a body.

"We have no time to lose," I cried. "We must get away at once."

"Where?"

"Anywhere."

Turning to the townspeople, I asked if they could furnish a conveyance.

"I've a horse and wagon in my shed," said the smith.

"Out with it, quick!"

Every one of us took a hand in harnessing the team, and in three minutes by the clock we had finished. Then we all tumbled in, except Jack, who declared she would never leave her friend, Captain Ringold. There was no time to bandy words, so I took her up and tossed her into the wagon, where she fell in a heap. Rising on her knees, she shook her clinched fist at me and cried to the wounded guerrilla that she would come back to him as soon as she could get away. Meanwhile the blacksmith was driving us down the road, belaboring his horse with the stump of an old whip.

CHAPTER XXI.

A STRAIGHT road lay before us to Decherd, a few miles distant. The place was of too great importance for the guerrillas to dare enter, and if we could reach it before they could catch us we should be safe.

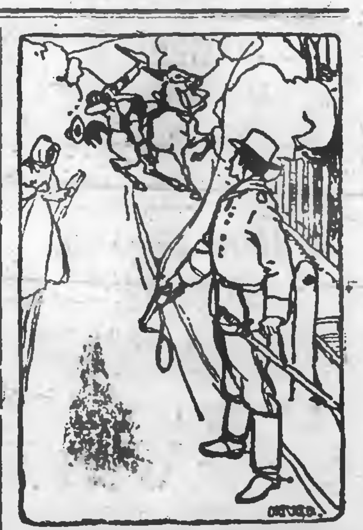
"How much is your horse worth?" I asked the blacksmith.

"A matter o' saxty dollars."

"If you kill him by hard driving, I'll give you a hundred, and if you get us to Decherd before the outlaws can catch us I'll make it a hundred more."

"Weel, noo, I don't want to be hard on a mon flyin for his life and wimmen folk too. I'll do the best I can and ask no money."

With that he belabored the poor horse's flanks with the stump of his whip and sent him galloping onward. There were no springs to the wagon, but we valued our lives too well to draw rein at rut or stone. At one part of the road I feared that if we did not check our pace we would break a wheel and be left with no means to get on save our legs. I cautioned the driver to slacken his pace; but, hearing or fancying he heard the clattering of horses' hoofs behind, without a word from me he applied the lash. Now we bounded into the air and now we were tossed together like dice in a box.



Swaying in his saddle, he fell fainting to the ground.

"Git oop, ye critter!" cried the blacksmith, mingling Scotch and Tennessee. "Don't ye know ye're graggin bonny leddies flyin for their lives?" And down came the butt of the whip. It was harrowing to see a horse forced to give his life to save ours, but our situation was too critical to warrant any slackening of speed. Jack, who of all our force was usually most frightened at danger ahead and would fight it most vigorously when face to face with it, for once acted in reverse at seeing the poor brute making leaps that were killing him.

"Stop beating that horse, you brute," she cried, "or I'll beat you!" And she sprang forward to seize the whip. I caught her in my arms. She looked up into my face and burst into tears. Whether it was wholly sympathy or overstrained nerves I did not know; probably both. At any rate, I protected her from the jolting by keeping her in my arms, while she hid her face so that she could not see the suffering horse.

"Jack," said Buck, "you're nothin but a baby."

"Shut up, yo' little nigger!" she cried.

I could not repress a smile at the retort, seeing which, Jack realized the absurdity of it all and broke into a laugh, while the tears continued to run down her cheeks.

"Won't yo' let me support yo' against the jolting?" asked Captain Beaumont ruefully.

"Yo'?" Do yo' suppose I'd let yo' touch me? Yo' shot my best friend."

"Do yo' dislike me fo' shooting—a robber?" asked her admirer sadly.

"I hate yo'."

Beaumont settled down in a corner of the wagon in despondency. After awhile Jack slid down beside him, whereupon he suddenly lighted up and took as much interest in our flight as any one of the party.

We were a wild looking load to the few people who passed us. Whenever we saw a farm wagon coming or going we would shout to its driver to get out of the way. They must have supposed our horse to be a runaway, for every one quickly turned aside. There are pictures of that ride which I can see today, so vividly were they stamped on my memory. An old man with his hands on the handle of his plow gaped through iron rimmed spectacles, a woman in a check gown and sunbonnet stopped trimming plants in her garden and stood with the shears in her hand to gape at us as if we were a party of witches who had lit on the earth from the moon and were making ready to take to the sky again. Negroes, children, country lads, faced the road as we passed and stood wonder stricken till we were out of sight.

Coming to a rise in the ground where we could look to our rear for perhaps a mile, we were terror stricken to see a man shoot around a bend in the road at a gallop. In a moment another followed. We could not see if there were any more, for we passed over the summit. Not far below a milestone told us that it was one mile to Decherd.

"One mile to their two. Can we not do it, driver?" I asked quickly.

How the Government Has Helped Its Party Friends

Timber Lands Worth Millions At But Given Away.

Favorites Get Empires For a Mere Song—Charges Against the Laurier Government—Opposition Demand an Investigation—Tenders Are Suspicious—Mr. Pringle Explains His Remarks About the Banks.

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—The debate on Mr. Lake's motion for an investigation into the alienation of public lands since 1896 was continued in the House yesterday.

Mr. Perley (Conservative, Argenteuil) commented upon the silence of the Ministers. He congratulated the Government upon having accepted the advice of Conservatives for the improvement of timber limit regulations. The Opposition had last year urged a longer notice before limits were put up for sale, as well as more knowledge of the value of the timber. During the last Christmas holidays, regulations had been improved in this respect, but they were capable of still further improvement. The upset price should not be advertised, but, as in Ontario, the reserve should be in an envelope and handed to the auctioneer at the time of the sale. No timber limits in the Northwest should be put up for sale until the timber was needed. There should be no permission to select from large areas, and all offerings should be advertised in The Canada Gazette.

Mr. Perley next dealt with a sacrifice of large timber limits near the Paso, on the Saskatchewan. The Government put up the whole 125 square miles there at once, offering it in the dead of winter, and giving only thirty-eight days for exploration—an utter impossibility. The limit fell into the hands of the Saskatchewan Lumber Co. for $13,165, and the company held it now at $375,000.

Vast Areas For a Trifle.

But a still worse case was the gobbling up of 500 square miles in the country beyond Prince Albert, where for years saw mills had been doing good work. In January, 1903, the Government offered the selection of 500 miles out of an area of 60,000 square miles, giving only thirty-eight days in which to explore and estimate that immense tract, and that in the dead of winter. Nobody could make an intelligent bid under such conditions, unless he had previous knowledge. The very terms of the advertisement itself cast suspicion upon the transaction. A man could not travel from Ottawa to the confines of the district and back in thirty-eight days. The first choice of 250 square miles went to the Big River Lumber Co. for $5,000; the second choice went to a Winnipeg lawyer (whether he was connected or not with the Big River Co. did not appear) for $1,000, or $6,000 for 500 square milts that was now said to be worth $500,000. Nor was this all, the purchasers were given five years in which to make selection and survey, thus locking up the whole 60,000 square miles for that period of time Surely there was some sinister influence at work that caused the Government to offer such immense tracts so many years in advance of requirements. It was also to be borne in mind that the timber in that country mostly grew in clumps, thus giving the person having the privilege of selection to pick out all the best timber in the country.

Awarded to the Bidders.

Continuing, Mr. Perley quoted Mr. Sifton's explanation of regulations in the session of 1906, when the Minister said that the advertisement was inserted once in a paper in the locality, and printed slips distributed, that tenders were opened in the Interior Department by the commissioner of lands, generally alone, but sometimes in the presence of another official, and then awarded the limit to the highest bidder.

"Who," asked Mr. Lalor, "was the Dominion lands commissioner at that time?"

"The present member for East Assiniboia (Mr. Turriff)," replied Mr. Perley.

"Surely," said the member for Argenteuil, "the transactions carried on under such a system demand investigation by a committee of the House."

Mr. Turriff had been going up and down the country saying that Liberals had disposed of timber limits by open competition. That had an honest sound, but could hardly be applied to these transactions.

Busy After 1896.

In his speech on Thursday, Mr. Turriff had not attempted to justify the methods of the Department in dealing with timber limits. Quoting from an answer of Mr. Oliver, the speaker said of 367 licenses for limits in force in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta only fifty-six were in force prior to 1896.

"The Ames papers," declared Mr. Perley, "pointed to something crooked in the Department and to clear their names they should grant the investigation asked for."

Dr. McIntyre (Liberal, Strathcona) cited the case of a lumberman in his district, who had paid $31 for a limit of six square miles and had, after proving it, come back to the Department and asked for his money back, saying he would not give $31 for it. He discussed the Ames original documents and claimed that there was nothing wrong about a solicitor putting in half a dozen tenders. Using the technic argument, if present Government pilfered, Conservatives pilfered more. Dr. McIntyre would support an investigation if Mr. Lake would make a definite charge.

Hon. John Haggart said he had heard no defence of the scandalous transactions of the present Government. "If we did wrong," said Mr. Haggart, "it is no justification for the action of the present Government. What ought to be applied are business principles. The most contemptible thing in the world is a political flesh fly dying on the House."

Up Jim Conmee's Way

Mr. Conmee declared that Conservatives parceled up three million square miles in fifty square miles apiece, and "every Conservative up our way" got one. Mr. Haggart himself got one.

Mr. Haggart denied this.

"Then the only reason why they did not get them," was Conmee's rejoinder, "was because the Premier of Ontario stepped in and drove the hon. gentleman and his gang off."

Mr. Pringle on the Banks.

Rising to a question of privileges in the House yesterday Mr. Pringle said it had been represented in a portion of the press that he had made an attack on banks and the banking system during his speech on Wednesday. He thought he had handled the banks with kid gloves and was careful not to say anything which in any way would disparage the banking systems of the country. Mr. Pringle believed the banks were in a stronger position than ever, and there was no reason why people should lose confidence in them. What he did say was that there should be a law restricting contractual rate of interest to borrowers, He had, however, been told that there was no use bringing in any amendments to the banking account, as he would have the majority in the House and the press against him.

Dr. Sproule also had a grievance. Some of the papers had charged his speech as an improper attack on the banks. He denied this.

Mr. Bennett declared that some original papers brought down in the House accounts committee were not there now for inspection, and Mr. Pugsley promised to locate them.

Reign of Timber Barons.

After recess Mr. McCarthy (Calgary) resumed the debate. He dealt with the peculiar circumstances under which timber limits had been acquired in 1902-4, which he termed the "reign of the timber barons." A committee of the House of Commons last session found that a lumber combine existed in Alberta, with the result that after a delay of six months local authorities entered prosecutions against those whom they considered responsible for the combine. Much of documentary evidence was honored. Nevertheless, one of the defendants was fined $500.

Mr. McCarthy said the previous Government had been punished for its misdeeds and it was no argument to say now that they had done wrong. But as evidence of the way the Mackenzie Government dealt with the public domain, Mr. McCarthy mentioned a berth of 900 square miles, spread all over the Saskatchewan Valley, and the purchasers had three years to make their selection. Mr. McCarthy defended previous Governments for doing everything possible to encourage the manufacture of lumber by sacrificing limits at the time the mills were cut off from the supplies of British Columbia.

STERN REPRESSION.

Instigators of Recent Abortive Uprising to be Expelled.

Lisbon, Feb. 1.—The Minister of Justice left here yesterday for Villa Vicosa to secure the signature of King Carlos to a decree authorizing the adoption of the most severe measures of repression. Such steps are considered necessary by the Cabinet for the preservation of public order.

One of the Government organs published in Lisbon calls for the sternest measures and now admits that numerous arrests have been made and that depots of revolvers, poignards, rifles and bombs have been discovered in different parts of the city. Continuing, this paper says that the instigators of the recent abortive attempt at an uprising will be sent to the frontier and expelled.

Newspapers Must Quit.

Lisbon, Feb. 1.—The Government has ordered suspended the publication of three more newspapers for printing seditious articles.

Frost Snapped Rail.

Havelock, Feb. 1.—A C.P.R. locomotive and six freight cars were derailed and piled in a heap yesterday morning 20 miles east of here. The accident was caused by a broken rail, snapped by the frost. The crew escaped with minor injuries. The loss in freight and rolling stock will be heavy.

The same cause is given for several accidents lately.

Gould Residence Burned.

Lakewood, N. J., Feb. 1.—King's Court, one of the show places of Lakewood, a residence built some years ago by George Gould for his son, Kingdom, was destroyed by fire on Thursday night. The building was valued at $500,000. It is supposed that a defective electric fuse caused the fire.

BEGGED BOWL OF SOUP

John Burns Denounces Indiscriminate Charity.

Says It Is Usually Diverted to Wrong Persons—British Cabinet Minister's Experience — Joined Unemployed on Thames Embankment—Was In Court Dress But Got Free Meal—Pension Scheme.

London, Feb. 1.—Participating in the debate in the House of Commons Thursday night on the question of the unemployed, John Burns, president of the Local Government Board and Labor leader in the House, denounced the unscientific distribution of religious, philanthropic and private charity, which he declared was usually misapplied and diverted to the wrong persons. He told one of his own experiences recently when, after an official function, he joined 2,000 of the unemployed at the Victoria Embankment.

"I was in my court dress," he said, "but pulled my bowler hat over my eyes and looked miserable, and I got my bowl of soup and hunch of bread."

Mr. Burns admitted that pauperism in London is on the increase, and said it would continue to grow as long as indiscriminate charity prevailed.

An incidental remark made by Mr. Burns during his speech, that the scheme of Herbert H. Asquith, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, for old-age pensions would provide for a million people, attracted much attention afterwards. Nothing hitherto had leaked out with reference to the intentions of the Government, but it was generally assumed that it would propose a pension of 5s. weekly in certain cases. If so, Mr. Asquith's scheme would entail the annual expenditure of $65,000,000.

UPRISING AT TABRIZ.

Bands of Insurgents Marching Through the Streets.

Odessa, Feb. 1.—A despatch has been received here from Julfa, on the Russo-Persian frontier, saying that the situation at Tabriz is extremely critical. The revolutionaries are in possession of the town, and their numbers are constantly increasing. Bands of insurgents march through the streets of Tabriz, looting and terrifying the people. The Government has no control of the situation. The European residents have barricaded themselves in their houses and have appealed to the Russian consul for Cossacks. The viceroy of the Caucasus has ordered Russian troops to Julfa to be in readiness for any emergency.

IRISH CHILDREN GET CRAZE.

Infected With Violent Form of Boycotting Fever.

Dublin, Feb. 1.—The children of members of the United Irish League of the west of Ireland, who are carrying on an anti-grazing campaign, are rapidly becoming infected with a violent form of the boycotting fever and are threatening to close up the national schools if the children of the hated occupants of grazing lands are permitted to attend the schools.

As an earnest of their determination to do this, 60 pupils atending a national school near Boyle, County Roscommon, yesterday walked out in a body because the teachers refused to dismiss four small sons and daughters of men who have been boycotted.

Shipbuilding Lockout.

Newcastle-on-Tyne, Feb. 1.—Lockout notices will be issued to-day announcing the closing of all the shipbuilding yards on the northeast coast, unless the strikers, who left their work here Jan. 22, after refusing to accept a reduction in wages, do not return to work meantime.

The employers, when the strike occurred, declared that the reduction was necessary owing to the depression in the industry. It was stated then that the shipbuilding plants on the northeast coast also were affected.

Should the lockout notices be posted, between 30,000 and 40,000 workmen will be affected.

Druce "Fraud" Exposed.

London, Feb. 1.—The Daily Chronicle prints an article yesterday, three columns in length, purporting to be an exposure of the Druce bubble and alleging that it had in its possession proofs that when George H. Druce originally made claims for the title and estates of the late Duke of Portland, and organized a company to support these claims, he was aware that a descendant of an elder branch, with prior claims to his own, was actually living, and that he entered upon an agreement with this person, who was to keep in the background

Dr. Jameson Resigns.

Cape Town, Cape Colony, Feb. 1.—Dr. Leander Starr Jameson, Premier and Secretary for Native Affairs of Cape Colony, has resigned. He assumed these offices in February, 1904.

The resignation comes as a result of the defeat of his party in the Cape Colony Parliamentary elections, which are now in progress.

Dr. Jameson probably will be succeeded by J. I. Merriman, leader of the African Bund.

Shanahan, wife of a contractor on the extension of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, 45 miles south of Birmingham, Thursday night shot and killed her mother, Mrs. Raphael McKillam of Canada, who was here on a visit. OLD COLONY'S RESENTMENT.

Resolution to Cancel Modus Vivendi and Imperial Order.

St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 1.—The Government has introduced resolutions expressing disappointment with the response of Lord Elgin to the address of last session re the modus vivendi; also surprise and regret at the renewal of the modus and the issue of the order-in-council, and also approving of the action of the Government in declining to become consenting parties to either the order or modus, for the enforcement of the law constitutes a vital part of the political existence of the colony, and rests on the same solid foundation as the constitution itself. The resolutions urge the cancelling of both the modus and order.

Sir Edward Morris urged delay till Tuesday because the question was a constitutional one.

Premier Bond refused, and the matter came before the House yesterday afternoon. A unanimous vote is not improbable, but the public is quite indifferent regarding the matter as academic and unprofitable.

PASSING OF DR. TORRANCE.

Former Moderator of Presbyterian General Assembly Dies at Guelph.

Guelph, Feb. 1.—One of the foremost Presbyterian divines of Canada, in the person of Rev. Robert Torrance, D.D., died suddenly at his home on Queen street here at noon hour yesterday, at the age of 86 years. He was born in Armagh County, Ireland, in 1822 and graduated in arts and theology from universities at Belfast and Edinburgh. He was licensed to preach when 22 years of age, and upon arriving in Canada he declined a call to a Toronto congregation, and entered actively into missionary work among the early settlers, traveling through Western Ontario from Toronto to Goderich on horseback, holding services in the log cabins of the settlers.

Clerk a Baronet.

Montreal, Feb. 1.—Edward Gordon Johnson, a clerk in the auditor of agencies' office of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has succeeded to the baronetcy of an uncle, the late Sir William Gordon Johnson.

The first baronetcy was conferred on William Johnson of Johnson Hall, on the Mohawk River, who received the title for his fight against the Indians of early Amerian history. The new baronet was born in 1867, and married Miss Violet Evelyn Hayes of Dublin.

As no estates go with the baronetcy, Sir Edward will not likely change his present position for the present.

Storm Cost His Life.

Montreal, Feb. 1.—The verdict of the coroner's jury, which enquired into the death of W. J. Scott, a G.T.R. brakesman at Strathmore, found that the engineer of the International Limited was in fault in disobeying the rules by running past the local on the opposite track at full speed, but he was excused owing to the claim that he could not see the train on account of the storm which prevailed at the time.

Scott was the man who saved a woman passenger's life and lost his own in the effort.

THAW JURY WAS LOCKED UP FOR SEVERAL HOURS

After Twelve Hours Are Locked Up by Judge's Order.

Disagreement Now Looked For—Justice Dowling's Summing Up Was Slightly In Favor of Insanity Plea—Prisoner Sat Up Late and Was Disconsolate—Jury Have Choice of Four Verdicts.

New York, Feb. 1.—After waiting for nearly 12 hours for the jury in the Thaw case to report, Justice Dowling shortly after 11 o'clock last night ordered the doors of the jury room locked for the night and adjourned court until 10.30 a. m. to-day, when he will hear any report they have to make.

The rumor persisted throughout the evening that the jurors were hopelessly divided—eight to four. Mr. Littleton of the defence expressed the belief that the majority favored a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity and when he left for his home was still hopeful that a decision eventually would be reached.

District Attorney Jerome said: "Nobody can tell what a jury will do, so what is the use of speculating."

Thaw Disconsolate.

Thaw retired disconsolately to his cell in the Tombs. He expressed the fear that a third trial would be necessary. This was the general opinion held by the court attaches. The attorneys in the case all were deeply disappointed by the trend of affairs as everyone had hoped that some definite conclusion might this time be reached.

Mr. Jerome would not discuss the probability of a third trial, but said if there was one it might be in some other jurisdiction of the state than New York County.

After the jury went silently to dinner and returned, the guards at the doors heard no sounds of arguments from the jury room. The jury called for all the exhibits in the case before it retired, and is evidently determined to reach its verdict without asking for information or further instructions from the court.

Prisoner Sat Up Late.

Harry Thaw sat up late in his cell in the Tombs, hoping to hear some encouraging word, but his attorneys could offer him no hope of anything better than another disagreement. Martin W. Littleton, the chief counsel for the defence, insisted late last night that he was still of the opinion that a favorable verdict would be reached, but his associates were sure there would be no decision.

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw remained at the criminal courts building waiting for the jury to come in, but Mrs. William Thaw, the mother, and Mrs. Carnegie, the sister of the defendant, went home at noon, after having listened to Justice Dowling's charge. A large crowd remained in the court-house corridors, anxious to witness the closing scenes of the noted trial.

Justice Opens the Charge.

In opening his charge, Justice Dowling impressed upon the jury the responsibility which was theirs, telling them that they should bear in mind that upon their verdict depended the life or liberty of the prisoner.

"Your verdict must not be influenced by any matter outside the record," said he. "Neither passion nor sympathy should sway you in your deliberations. You must not speculate or guess as to matters in evidence here, but must decide the issue solely upon your calm, dispassionate judgment as to the weight, credibility and meaning of the testimony. Nor are you concerned with the punishment which may follow a verdict of guilty at your hands. Your sole function is to determine if any crime has been committed, its grades, and leave the question of penalty to those responsible for its imposition."

The district attorney must prove every material element in his case. It was for the jurors themselves to judge of the credibility of witnesses, and Justice Dowling referred to the so-called Hummel affidavit. If a witness had been convicted of crime they might consider that fact in weighing his testimony.

Degrees of Insanity.

The various degrees of homicide were defined.

"A sane man, a voluntary agent acting upon motives, must be presumed to contemplate and intend the necessary, natural and probable consequences of his own acts," he continued. "If, therefore, one voluntarily or wilfully does an act which has a direct tendency to destroy another's life, the natural and necessary conclusion is that he intended to destroy life. You are not to be prejudiced by any testimony which reflects upon the character of the defendant The general bad character of a person slain can neither tend to show that the party is not guilty of homicide or in any sense mitigate the taking of human life. In the eye of the law, to murder the vilest and most abject of the human race is as great a crime as to murder its greatest benefactor."

Possible Verdicts.

(1) Murder in the first degree; penalty, death.

(2) Murder in the second degree; penalty, life imprisonment.

(3) Manslaughter in the first degree; penalty, not to exceed twenty years' imprisonment.

(4) Not guilty on the ground of insanity at the time the crime was committed; probably commitment to Matteawan Asylum.

Back to the Land.

London, Jan. 31.—(C.A.P.)—The Standard says, editorially: "There must always be a large proportion of unskilled labor employed in a manufacturing country like England. Why then, cannot able bodied workmen be drafted to Canada, where any number of laborers are required on the land. There is really no difficulty in it. Initiative only is wanting."

The Standard thinks this is the only solution of the unemployed problem.

The Telegraph also thinks emigration should be encouraged as the solution of the unemployed question.

TERRORISM IN IRELAND

British Government Accused of Cowardice in the Lords.

Ex-Viceroy Makes Startling Statements — Cattle-Raiding In Ten Counties—Judges Paralyzed—Trial by Jury a Farce—Country Worse Than In Dark Days of the Early Eighties.

London, Jan. 31.—Heated charges of cowardice in turning a blind eye to the "reign of terrorism" in Ireland, in order to keep the Nationalists in good temper and assure a continuance of their support in the Commons, were launched against the Government in the House of Lords yesterday. The Marquis of Londonderry, who was viceroy of Ireland in 1886-9, led in the attack, and so infectious were his sentiments that even Lord Langford, who has been a representative peer of Ireland since 1884, broke his silence of 24 years and devoted his maiden speech to a recital of his personal experiences with cattle-driving outside his own gates.

The Marquis of Londonderry declared that the present state of Ireland is worse than in the dark days of the early eighties, when murder and outrage were rampant, and he attributed the conditions entirely to the cowardice of the Government. The law-breakers, he asserted, had the audacity to declare that they had at their backs members of the Government, and it was even reported that the constabulary had been ordered not to come into actual contact with them.

He pointed out that when the Right Hon. James Bryce vacated the chief secretaryship, Mr. Bryce reported that the condition of Ireland was reassuring, but shortly after Mr. Birrell's advent, cattle-raiding was inaugurated and it had now spread to ten counties. The judges were paralyzed in the sections subject to coercion by the Irish League and trial by jury was a farce, out of 237 prisoners tried only eight being convicted. Even the Government's own Irish Attorney-General had declared that if the present conditions continued anarchy would result.

The Marquis of Londonderry concluded by charging the Government with cowardice and with being terrorized by the Nationalists into permitting a state of things disgraceful to any civilised Government.

Lord Beauchamp, replying in behalf of the Government complained of the exaggerated pessimism of the Unionist peers, and resented Lord Lansdowne's comparison between Ireland and Macedonia. He admitted that cattle-driving had increased during the past year, but said that this was the sole sign of agrarian conditions becoming worse. The Government deplored the cattle raids, but he declared, the country was no more lawless than during certain periods of Premier Balfour's administration, and, following Gerald Balfour's precedent when he was Chief Secretary for Ireland in 1895-1900, the Government had no intention of reviving the Crimes Act, as suggested.

Gave Life For Boy.

New York, Jan. 29.—John Gladys, a machinist, lost his life at Great Kills, S. I., yesterday, in saving that of his 11-year-old son. Seeing the peril in which the boy had placed himself Gladys pushed him out of danger, but slipped on the icy track.

DEBATE IN THE SENATE.

Hon. G. W. Ross Pleads For Appointment of Under Secretaries.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—The resolution of Senator G. W. Ross, declaring that the time had arrived for supplementing the executive Government of Canada by the appointment of under secretaries to the more important Departments of the public service, with duties and privileges as near as may be similar to those of the corresponding officers in the Parliament of Great Britain, was discussed in the Upper House yesterday afternoon. Senator Ross said he had lively recollection of the time a Minister had to give to detail work. It was the duty of political leaders to watch the trend of events and to make use of his experience and capacity to lead the people in the way they should go.

With six months Parliament and heavy Departmental duties, the Canadian Ministers could not find the leisure for this higher leadership. A wide outlook was required for the treatment of large things. To-day a man could gain more votes by the judicious filling of a postoffice than by moving men's minds on a great question like the French and Japanese treaties, the national transcontinental railway, the Georgian Bay Canal or the all-red route project.

That was not the case in England, where large questions engaged the attention of electors during a contest. This should not be the case in Canada. The consideration of large questions could be promoted among the people, both by the press and the Government.

Senator Ross said the entire burden of the Finance Department in Canada devolved upon one man. In England there were eight men, Ministers and under secretaries, with the Lord Chancellor at their head to look after this department of the country's business. The business of the Justice Department in Canada was looked after by two men—the Minister of Justice and the Solicitor-General. In England there were nine men, and, in consequence, the English acts were among the finest pieces of legal literature in the world. Canada, with six million people, he declared, was no longer a small country.

The State Department had large questions brought to its attention. Canada had made a treaty with France and canceled one with Germany; and might make one with the United States. There were boundary, water questions, relations with Newfoundland and many other great questions, and the head of the State Department should have freedom from detail to study.

Senator Ross would have an under secretary for the Public Works Department, for Railways and Canals, for Interior, for Agriculture, Labor, Justice and Marine and Fisheries.

Provincial Governments Help.

Secretary of State Scott observed that he had failed to notice that idea had elicited any enthusiasm on the part of the press. The comparison of the duties of British and Canadian Ministers could hardly be compared. Senator Ross had pointed to the multifarious duties of Canadian Ministers, and the many aids in the way of under secretaries provided for the British Ministers. He had, however, neglected to call attention to the fact that there were nine provincial and legislative Governments in Canada, which took care of a large proportion of the affairs which, in the Motherland, had to be looked after by the Ministers and the Parliament. Then while Canada had a growing relation with other states it was absurd to intimate that it could be compared with the British foreign interests and that Canada's affairs required any such study or attention.

Election by the People.

Hon. Mr. Scott said that more than once with Minister absent from Ottawa he had alone looked after the business of the Government, and his opinion was that the affairs of the Departments were so organized that they could run smoothly in most cases without Ministerial scrutiny of details. He declared his belief that if the Senate would have an important status it must be elected by the people. There was a very desirable simplicity in the Canadian system of Government, the Ministers were closely in touch with the people, as was shown by the fact that if Governments give reasonably good administration the people will continue to keep them in power. This was shown by the eighteen years of Conservative tenure, and the thirty-two years of existence of the Ontario Government, of which Senator Ross had been a member. Hon. Mr. Scott said he would be sorry to see any part of the American system copied by Canada. No one who observed the arbitrary power exercised by the American President and Senate could say that it was a modern or desirable system.

In conclusion he said that if the Senate was ever to have more importance its members must be elected by the people.

Went Over Embankment.

Woodstock, Jan. 31.—Early yesterday morning a G. T. R. freight train started out from Woodstock station west with three flat cars directly behind the engine, followed by some heavily loaded box cars. When considerable speed had been attained the brakes were suddenly applied. The momentum of the heavy box cars shoved them up against the flat cars with so much force that it raised them up and toppled them down a 50-foot embankment, where they were smashed to kindling wood. No person was injured.

TRAIN WRECK INQUEST.

Cause of Fatal Collision Is Considered Mysterious.

St. Catharines, Jan. 29.—The cause of the fatality on the Grand Trunk at Merritton Monday night seems to be rather mysterious. At the inquest by Coroner Merritt evidence was given by two of the crew of the wrecked train, A. E. Von Buswick, brakeman, and L. S. Ward, conductor. The train left for Fort Erie at 4.15, with orders to run to Merritton. Near the station the train stopped and the witnesses left the caboose to find several cars overturned and stretched across the main line with a fast train approaching from the Falls.

Von Buswick hurried to flag the train, which was running 15 to 20 miles an hour, but the engineer could not possibly have stopped the train and avoid disaster.

What happened to the deceased man, Harvey Campbell, is not known. He was last seen alive standing on top of coal cars near those which overturned, and when the wreck was partially cleared the dead body was found beneath a box-car. Ward said he personally examined every car before leaving Welland and could not explain why the mishap had occurred, unless there was a flaw in one of the castings. In order to secure evidence of the crew of the other train, the enquiry adjourned till Thursday. Last night the coroner gave a permit for the burial and the body of deceased was taken to Camlachie by Brakeman Von Buswick.

CRUSH ON BIG BRIDGE.

Several Women Injured During Rush Hours at Brooklyn.

New York, Jan. 29.—The new "through to Manhattan" service on the Brooklyn bridge went into morning and evening rush-hour operation for the first time.

Two hundred and fifty thousand persons were squeezed from Brooklyn to Manhattan and back in about seven and one-half total hours. It was admitted by officials of the B. R. T., and by Bridge Commissioner Stevenson, that nothing like such a crush has ever been seen.

Hundreds of women fainted and were trampled where they fell, hundreds of others were picked up and passed bodily over the heads of the crowds to fresh air, and still other hundreds were revived by heel prods and rib kicks, and were able to struggle to their feet and get to platforms and on trains somehow.

Hats, cravats, pieces of fur and breadths of skirts were lost in the melee, and after the tumult platform men cleaned up thousands of rubber overshoes that had been torn off.

At no time during the rush hours were there cars on hand to receive the passengers on the crowded platforms.

DEADLY DYNAMITE.

Two Fatal Accidents on Railway Construction—Bodies Badly Mangled.

Kenora, Jan. 29.—Two distressing dynamite accidents occurred Monday causing loss of life, the first at the railway gravel pit at Arwood, where an Italian, Cesseli, employed as powder man thawing sticks, was blown to pieces. The trunk of the body was found a hundred yards away among the bushes. An inquest is being held.

The second accident happened to a Norwegian named Johnson at McDougall's Camp, Hawk. He was tamping a hot hole when the explosion followed. The body was frightfully mangled, the heart being blown out, and the head and limbs torn off. The remains are awaiting the inquest.

An old western pioneer named William Major was found dead in bed Monday. He was 24 years a resident of Kenora, and formerly employed by the railway as foreman.

Bryce to Resign?

New York, Jan. 29.—The Berlin correspondent of The Herald cables:

"I hear that for a cause which I am unable to ascertain Mr. James Bryce has the intention of resigning his position as ambassador. A diplomate whom I saw yesterday and who knows the conditions at Washington, prophesied that in the event of Mr. Bryce going Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, the British Minister to Persia, would surely be his successor; that is to say if President Roosevelt's inclinations are in any way consulted."

Will Sustain Moroccan Policy.

Paris, Jan. 29.—The debate on the interpellation regarding Morocco was concluded in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

The discussion was devoid of interest, save for M. Jaures' insistence that a rapprochement between France and Germany was necessary for the peace of Europe.

The majority in favor of sustaining the policy of the Government in Morocco was 336, the vote being 429 to 92.

Japan Should Protect Citizens.

Tokio, Jan. 29.—Replying to interpellations in the lower House of the Diet, Foreign Minister Viscount Hayashi said it was the duty of the central Government to conserve the interests of Japanese subjects resident in other countries by preventing a further exodus of their countrymen, which might be prejudical to those already residing abroad, and the restrictions therefore would be extremely rigid.

Archbishop of Paris Dies.

Paris, Jan. 29.—Francois Marie Benjamin Richard, cardinal priest of the Holy Roman Church, and Archbishop of Paris, died here yesterday of congestion of the lungs after a short illness.

Cardinal Richard was born at Nantes, March 1, 1819, and he was made cardinal in 1889. He was the oldest of the College of Cardinals.

Violin For the King.

Brockton, Mass., Jan. 29.—A violin, which is to be the property of King Edward of England, has just been completed by Archibald McIntosh, a violin maker. The instrument is made of curly maple, the wood having been taken from an ancient table once the property of the Duke of Kent.

Uxbridge is the home of Miss Broddy, superintendent of the new hospital at Hattisville, Miss.

STUART STRATHY,
General Manager.

The secretary having read the foregoing report, the president addressed the meeting as follows:

In presenting the twenty-third annual general statement of the Traders Bank of Canada, for the year ending 31st of December, 1907, your Directors desire to congratulate the Shareholders upon the continued prosperity and advancement it discloses. It is a pleasure to be able to remark that the financial stringency, that has prevailed with varying degrees of intensity the past year, with its consequent unrest and relaxation of business enterprise, has not prevented the conservative methods of administration and management of the Bank from achieving gratifying results, and closing the year with all its interests in a sound and satisfactory condition.

The net profits for the twelve months, after making ample allowances for all bad and doubtful debts, and after allowing for any possible depreciation in the value of Dominion and Provincial Government Bonds and Municipal Bonds held by the Bank, amount to $522,822.81, which, with the sum carried from profit and loss account, and the premium on new stock, makes a total of $569,692.68 available for distribution. This has been disposed of as follows: The Rest Account has been strengthened by the addition of $100,000, bringing it up to the gratifying figure of $2,000,000. The sum of $100,000 was written off Bank premises, and $30,000 off Bank furniture and safes. The Pension Fund and the Officers' Guarantee Fund were increased by $5,000 each. The substantial sum of $304,328.29 was distributed to the Shareholders in the form of dividends, leaving $25,364.29 to be placed at the credit of Profit and Loss new account; on the whole a substantially excellent record on the year's operations.

From the statement it will be observed that the relation of assets to liabilities gives the Bank a most substantial standing. The assets are all of an excellent character.

It is a subject for additional congratulation that the Savings Bank deposits increased during the year by $1,700,000. Owing, however, to the conditions of restricted credit, current accounts or non-interest bearing balances are less than last year, which is the natural result in all financial institutions when money is in active demand at high rates of interest.

It is also gratifying to be able to refer to the condition of our Bank Premises account, as being very satisfactory from a revenue producing standpoint. In our magnificent new building and in our new building at the corner of Yonge and Bloor streets all the available space is leased, and for long terms, thus guaranteeing a substantial income for the next eight or ten years. This, taken in conjunction with the fact that the rental income yields a very fair profit, and the situation of these buildings in the best parts of the City makes them also an asset, the value of which is bound to increase with the prospective rapid growth of the city; a circumstance, which taken in conjunction with their recognized rental value, well justifies the expenditure involved in their erection. It must also be borne in mind that the Bank owns fifteen other Bank buildings, at the principal centres occupied by the Bank, besides those referred to above, making seventeen Bank buildings in all. Your Directors consider that we have good value for the property owned by the Bank as it stands in our books. In acquiring any property for Bank premises, this Bank has made it a rule to buy the same, holding the property in the name of the Bank. The Bank obtains a very fair return upon the amount invested, besides having suitable accommodation for its growing business.

An important change in the management of the Bank took place during the year. Mr. H. S. Strathy retired from the position of General Manager and was succeeded by Mr. Stuart Strathy, who in turn was succeeded as Assistant General Manager by Mr. Norman Hillary. Mr. H. S. Strathy had devoted, and with a large measure of success, many years to the promotion of the interests of the Bank. He began as the founder of the Bank twenty-two years ago, and continued to perform the duties of General Manager with great vigor and success. By his energy and ability, he overcame many formidable obstacles, and on his retirement, he has the satisfaction of feeling that he leaves as a legacy to the Shareholders a sound and stable Banking Institution. In his successor, Mr. Stuart Strathy, we have a Banker of sound judgment, a careful investor, and a Manager of large experience in one of the most important Branches of the Bank, that at Hamilton, where he built up an excellent and extensive business. He brings experience and sound and conservative business methods to his new position of responsibility. He will doubtless discharge his onerous duties to the advantage of all the interests concerned.

Mr. Hillary, who becomes Assistant General Manager to Mr. Strathy, has had a large and valuable experience, is shrewd and careful, and has an excellent record as Manager, and, for a time, as Directors' Auditor.

Mr. Willis, who succeeds Mr. Hillary as Directors' Auditor, has had many years of experience as Manager, and, for a time, as Bank Inspector, and brings to the important duties of his position qualities which especially fit him for their effective discharge. In this capacity, Mr. Willis is an official of the Directors and Shareholders, and entirely free from the control of the Executive Management. His duties include investigation into all matters affecting the business or interests of the Bank, under the direction, and for the information of the Board.

There will be submitted at this meeting for your consideration a By-law to increase the number of the Board from six to seven, in order to retain as Director the services of the retiring General Manager, who has been made a Member of the Board.

I have much pleasure in moving the adoption of the report.

The Vice-President said:

In seconding the motion for the adoption of the Report of the Directors of the Bank, with its accompanying Statement, it gives me much pleasure to endorse the remarks of the President in regard to the satisfactory outcome of the operations of the past year, as the results of careful administration and business-like management.

I may be permitted to add a few observations, to emphasize what has been said.

It must be gratifying to note that prosperous as have been the conditions of the past few years, the profits for the year just closed have been the largest in the life of the Bank. The net profits for the year, with all the usual deductions made, amount to the satisfactory sum of $522,822.81. These earnings have permitted of the payment of four quarterly dividends of, in round numbers, $76,000 each, representing a rate of seven per cent. per annum. Besides, the Rest has been strengthened by the addition of $100,000, bringing this account to a total sum of $2,000,000, which, it may be remarked, is about 46 per cent. of the paid-up capital stock of $4,352,310.

The Statement submitted shows the liquid assets of the Bank to be in a satisfactory healthy condition, there being a substantial increase over the amount reported last year.

It is also gratifying to observe that the amount of the notes of the Bank in circulation has been much in excess of that of any other year in the history of the institution, indicating the excellent condition of its general business. It is also worthy of note that the stock of the Bank is well held, being distributed among some 1,800 shareholders.

In a word, a careful perusal of the statement will reveal an advance in practically every account, every department of the operations, and in every interest of the Bank, of such generally good character as to make the Annual Statement very satisfactory.

The changes in the personnel of important officers of the Bank will not impair the effectiveness of management. Mr. H. S. Strathy, after many years of faithful service, retired from the position of general manager, and took a place on the Board of Directors. The filling of the vacancy thus created by the appointment of Mr. Stuart Strathy, with an excellent record as manager and assistant general manager, the appointment of Mr. N. Hillary as assistant general manager, and of Mr. Willis as directors' auditor, have already been referred to, and their appointment will without doubt be in the best interests of the Bank. They have the full confidence of the Directorate, and the respect and confidence of all in financial circles who have knowledge of their experience and qualifications.

As intimated to the shareholders last year, an official known as directors' auditor was appointed, whose duty it is to co-operate with and assist the Board in the investigation of every transaction, the examination of every account, record or document in connection with the business of the bank, and to take any course of inspectorial action, under the direction of the Board, or on his own initiative, which they or he may consider advisable or necessary to protect or promote the interests of the bank and the shareholders. To this end, and for these purposes, he has practically unlimited authority and liberty of access to all departments of every office of the bank, from the head office to the humblest branch, and, in the discharge of his duties, is subject to no restraint on the part of any official, in any capacity, being responsible only to the directors, whose officer he is, and to whom he must directly make his report, upon every incident and condition that in any way affects the interests of the bank.

Your Board of Directors, with the directors' auditor, have thoroughly examined and checked in detail the entire assets of the bank at the head office, as comprehended in the annual statement, and they have personally and collectively satisfied themselves by individual examination, count and comparison, that these assets correspond with the statement. Your Board, together with their Auditor, further examined the reports and statements from every Branch, and the Inspectors have carefully inspected and examined with the greatest care these Branch accounts, and report them to be as represented, and most satisfactory.

Thus, with a strong and capable official equipment; with all the interests of the Institution in a sound, stable, and healthy condition; with a fairly justified expectation that the somewhat relaxed conditions of prosperity, commercial, industrial and financial, will be only temporary, it is not unreasonable to anticipate for the Traders Bank a continuation of prosperity, and a repetition in the record of the year to come, of the many gratifying features of the excellent report now submitted for adoption.

The Report was adopted unanimously, and a by-law was passed increasing the number of Directors to seven, and another authorizing the Directors to make provision for the retiring General Manager.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. C. D. Warren and Mr. J. R. Stratton were elected President and Vice-President respectively.

Storm Played High Jinks With Trains at Havelock

Interesting Story of the Blizzard From the Busy Railroad Town—Live Stock in Transportation Suffering Terribly—Report That Pigs are Frozen to Death.

Special to The Review.

Havelock, Feb. 7th—The weather in this part of the country, has been very severe, hanging around 14 below most of the time and on Thursday the mercury registered 36 below the duck egg mark at seven o'clock in the morning.

It is causing considerable damage on the C.P.R. and causing delays in both passenger and freight trains. The severe frost on Friday caused the derailment of a freight car at Kennebec about 50 miles east of here, thus tying up the road.

A broken truck caused the derailment of a car on an east bound freight at Peterson, near Ivanhoe, and it was considerable time before the track was cleared. The Ottawa and Montreal morning express trains were delayed and ran about four hours late. Havelock auxiliary was called out for the Peterson wreck and had just returned when it had to go east again to Kennebec.

The C.P.R. are making some reductions in the staff in several departments at this point and the employees feel it keenly just at a time when they need work most. The employees think that the company are doing themselves harm for if a severe snow storm comes, it may tie up the road because of the lack of men to operate trains.

The weather has been very severe on the C.P.R employees during the past week, especially the sectionmen and snow shovellers, for when you stay out for four hours at a time with a shovel in your hand and the weather so cold that you can't see any mercury in the bulb, you are indeed ready for to spend a few minutes beside the stove.

The trainmen did some tall kicking last Sunday as they had to make up their own trains as the yard engine was taken off for the day. Generally, all they have to do is to put their engine on the train which is all ready for them and start.

Feb 3rd—The driving snow on Saturday and Sunday caused much damage and delay on the C.P.R. and the road is nearly tied, only the passenger trains running.

On Saturday morning the snowplough was started out but the track soon filled up again. The freight trains on Saturday morning were cancelled while the early morning trains ran several hours late. Both the four o'clock and noon trains were a couple of hours late, thus delaying the mails. The local train that runs from Tweed to Toronto which is due here at 8.36 pulled in about 11.35 with the foremost engine a mass of snow and not unlike an iceberg.

The Sunday morning trains from Ottawa and Montreal got through, reaching here about 10.30 a.m. although due at 4.00 a.m. One section of the midnight train reached here at 3.15 although due at 11.07 a.m. Although the Havelock snowplough went west on Sunday morning, the trainmen said that at noon you would not have thought it could have run for two or three days.

The midnight train which arrived here at 3.52 on Sunday afternoon, had to act as a snowplough. The front of the engine carried several ton of snow packed hard and the side board were completely covered. When coming into Havelock, it was thought to be the snowplough throwing the snow into the air and piling it up on both sides of the track.

All passenger trains have to run double headers or they cannot get through.

Some freight trains that were sent out got stalled in the deep snow and the snowplough had to go to the rescue.

All the men available were set to work shovelling snow on Saturday morning, many of them sticking to the work until mid night and then starting again in the morning.

It takes them, most of the time, keeping the switches cleaned and they cannot get time to start at the main line.

The snowplough went west on Sunday morning taking a large number of men to Myrtle and other places west where it is said to be drifting the worse.

The passengers on the express trains were nearly starved when they arrived in town and made a raid on the hotels during the 10 minute stop here.

Cattle and live stock that are on the road are suffering terribly. Word has been received from Smith's Falls that a whole carload of pigs, about 1000 in number have been frozen to death at that point.

Several cars of live stock are on their way from Toronto and several tons of hay have been ordered for them and something will be done to keep them from freezing when they reach here.

Coal has run out at the coal shutes and engines have to be filled from the dump, where it is frozen together and it took eleven men all Sunday morning to coal one engine. The C.P.R. have certainly found out that the reduction in the staff is not altogether the best thing.

6 p.m. Sunday — Toronto snowplough has reached here and is setting out on its return journey and taking a number of men to help fight the snow drifts near Manvers and Myrtle.

A stock train will arrive from the west about 7 p.m. and the cattle will be fed and watered here.

Dastardly Assassins Murder King Carlos of Portugal

Crown Prince Also Assassinated in Streets of Lisbon.

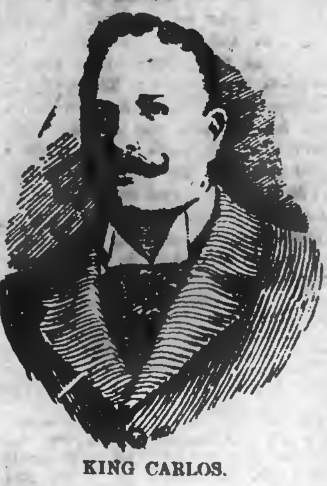
Queen Amelie Has Miraculous Escape—Prince Manuel Also Severely Wounded—Royal Carriage Raked by Fusilade of Bullets—Six Shots Took Effect—City Panic-Stricken—Several of the Assassins Slain.

Lisbon, Feb. 3.—King Carlos of Portugal and the Crown Prince Luis Phillippe, were assassinated on Saturday afternoon, and the city is in a state of uproar.

The King's second son, the infant Manuel, was slightly wounded, but Queen Amelie, who strove to save the crown prince's life by throwing herself upon him, was unhurt.

A band of men, waiting at the corner of the Praco do Commercio and the Rua do Arsenal, suddenly sprang towards the open carriage, in which the royal family were driving to the palace, and leveling carbines, which they had concealed upon them, fired.

The King and crown prince, upon whom the attack was directed, were each shot three times and they lived only long enough to be carried to the marine arsenal nearby, where they expired.



KING CARLOS.

Almost at the first shot the King fell back on the cushions dying, and at the same moment the crown prince was seen to half rise and then sink back on the seat.

Queen Amelie jumped up and threw herself toward the crown prince in an apparent effort to save his life at the cost of her own, but the prince already had received his death wound.

The police guard fired upon the assassins and killed two of them. A third committed suicide.

Spot Well Chosen

The royal family were returning from Villa Vicosa, where they had been sojourning, and were on their way from the railroad station to the palace.

A strong guard was in attendance because of the recent uprising in the city and the discovery of a plot to assassinate Premier Franco and overthrow the monarchy.

But the band of murderers had selected the most advantageous spot for the commission of their deed, where they were concealed from the eyes of the police until the carriage had wheeled into the Praco do Commercio, a large square.

Before any of the guard were aware of what was happening, the assassins leaped towards the carriage, and instantly a fusilade of shots rang out. In a moment all was terrible confusion, the King and crown prince being shot down without the slightest chance to save themselves.

Police guards sprang upon the regicides, the number of whom is somewhat uncertain, and killed three of them and captured three others.

One of these committed suicide after being placed in prison.

It is charged that one of the murderers was a Spaniard named Cordova.

The bodies of the King and crown prince were removed from the marine arsenal in two closed carriages to the royal palace, the Praco das Necessidades, the late residence of the King, and escorted by municipal guards, mounted.

City Panic-Stricken.

The news of the assassination swept through the city like fire through dry grass, and by night half of the populace was panic-stricken, not knowing where the next blow might fall.

There is the greatest dread for the future of the country, which seems on the verge of being plunged into the awful throes of a revolution, with all the attendant horrors and bloodshed.

Throughout the city consternation reigns, and all the houses and business places are barricaded.

An examination of the wounds of the King, who was already dead when he reached the arsenal, showed that three bullets had found their mark. One wound was situated at the nape of the neck, a second in the shoulder, and the third which was the fatal wound, severed the carotid artery.

The crown prince, who was still breathing, but who died almost immediately after admission to the arsenal, had suffered three wounds, in the head and chest.

Two bullets struck Prince Manuel, one on the lower jaw and the other in the arm.

Queen Marie Pia, the mother of King Carlos; the Duke of Oporto, his brother; a number of the Ministers and court officials hastened at once to the arsenal, when the news reached them of the attack upon the royal family.

Route Had Been Published.

The details of the murders show that they were cunningly arranged. The fact that the royal family were returning from Villa Vicosa had been made public in advance, and the authorities had arranged what they considered an effective guard along the route which the royal carriage was to take.

The trip from Villa Vicosa was without incident. The King and his family returned at the end of a day of the greatest excitement to the city on account of the wholesale arrests and the continual discovery of new depots of arms and bombs. A great throng were grouped about the Barriere Station and in the neighboring streets when the members of the royal family disembarked, for the purpose of driving across the Tagus in reaching the actual limits of Lisbon.

The court carriers awaited them before the landing stage, and the King and Queen and the two princes entered the leading carriage, which started immediately, wheeling into the Praco do Commercio.

The Assassination.

Suddenly the sharp crack of a carbine startled the assemblage. Then the air was filled with a succession of sharp reports, and the King was seen to jump up and reach for his throat, then drop back on the cushions.

The crown prince almost simultaneously was seen to collapse and fall towards the side of the carriage, while the Queen, driven to frenzy, was seeking to save the crown prince and the infant Manuel by shielding them with her body.

A great hush fell on the crowd, which for the moment did not comprehend that a swift tragedy had befallen the nation. Then loud cries of anger burst forth, interrupted with the shrieks of women and screams of frightened children, and the commotion and the roar of the populace suddenly thrown into rage and fear.

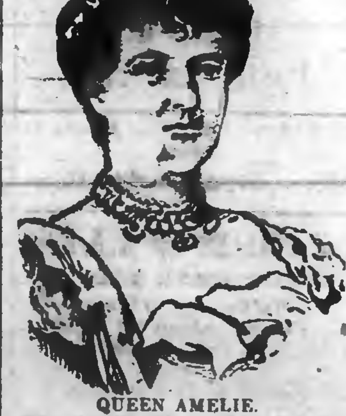
Waiting for the royal carriage, the group of men had quietly awaited the approach. Then, at an uttered word from one of them, they swiftly drew back their cloaks across their shoulders and raised the carbines, which the cloaks had concealed, and quickly fired in the direction of the royal carriage.

It seemed as though a score of shots were fired, and all in an instant, and before the startled onlookers could move, the men had turned and were madly fighting their way through the crowd in an endeavor to reach open space and make their escape.

Meanwhile an unhappy scene was in progress at the royal carriage, where King Carlos lay dead, the prince unconscious and breathing his last, and the infant Manuel, with blood streaming from his mouth, leaning over the bodies of his father and his dying brother.

The Queen, who had miraculously escaped unhurt from the veritable raid of bullets, was kneeling beside her husband and son. The excitement in the vicinity of the tragedy threatened to become serious, and the soldiers quickly surrounded the carriage, which was driven to the marine arsenal, nearby.

The King and crown prince were tenderly carried into the building, where a surgeon, one of the spectators, hastily did everything possible to save their lives. But his efforts were without avail. The King was dead and the prince expired within a few moments.



QUEEN AMELIE.

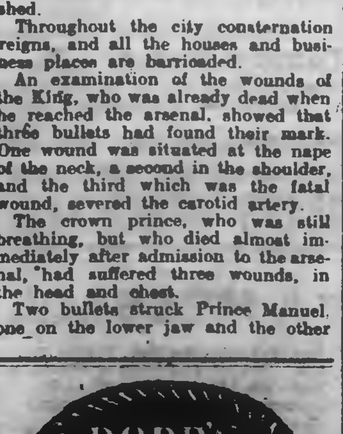
Murderers Slain.

Francesso Figuera, an orderly who was walking near the royal carriage at the time of the outrage, drew his revolver and killed one of the regicides, and the police sprang at the others. They turned rapidly and fled, the police pursuing them and killing one of them near the town hall.

Both bodies were carried into the town hall, but have not yet been identified. It is believed, however, that one of the men is a Spaniard and the other a Frenchman. The weapons that they used were repeating carbines of five chambers.

Carlos, I. was born Sept. 28, 1863, the son of King Luis I., and his Queen Maria Pia. He married Marie Amelia, daughter of Philippe, Duc d'Orleans, on May 23, 1886. He succeeded to the throne Oct. 19, 1889.

The crown prince, Luiz Philippe, Duke of Braganza, was born March 21, 1887.



William Fife Injured.

Glasgow, Feb. 3.—Wm. Fife, the yacht designer, was seriously injured at his shipyard at Fairlie Saturday. While superintending the construction of Sir Thomas Lipton's new racing yacht Mr. Fife fell from the deck into the hold. He struck his head and was rendered unconscious. He was carried to his home, where he is still unconscious.

VERDICT NOT GUILTY

Jury Find Thaw Was Insane at Time of Murder.

Verdict After Being Out 25 Hours—Justice Dowling Committed Prisoner to Asylum — Thaw Greeted With Cheers on Leaving For Matteawan—Commission Now Likely—Result Generally Approved.

New York, Feb. 3.—Adjudged not guilty of the murder of Stanford White by reason of insanity at the time of the fatal shots were fired, Harry Kendall Thaw on Saturday was held by the court to be a dangerous lunatic and was whirled away to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan.

It was a quick transition from the dingy little cell in the Tombs which had been the young man's home for more than eighteen months, to the white bedded wards of the big asylum, tucked away on the snow-covered sloping banks of the Hudson River, fifty miles above the city.

The verdict came after twenty-five hours of waiting, and when every one connected with the case had abandoned all hope of agreement ever being reached in this or any other trial.

Four hours after the foreman's lips had framed the words "not guilty," with the accompanying insanity clause, Thaw, protesting he was sane, was on his way to Matteawan. A little after nightfall he had been received in the institution under commitment papers which directed his detention "until discharged by due course of law."

The first thrill of the words of acquittal brought Thaw to his feet in the court room and with that lack of grace of action which always has characterized his movement, awkwardly, almost hurriedly bowed his acknowledgments to the twelve jurymen as they were discharged by the court.

A smile played about his pallid features and there was every reason to believe that he was entirely pleased with the outcome. It was after he had heard the words of Justice Dowling committing him to Matteawan on the ground that his release, in the opinion of the court, would endanger the public safety, and after the elation of the verdict had died away, Thaw rebelled.

He commanded his attorneys immediately to sue out a writ of habeas corpus to have his sanity tested before he was sent away to the up-state institution, where the insane of criminal tendencies were confined.

Mrs. Wm. Thaw, from her hotel, where she had received over the telephone the news of the trial's end, joined in the demand of her son.

Martin W. Littleton, whose conduct of the case as chief counsel for the defence had won so much favorable comment, finally prevailed against the wishes of the mother, indicating to her that he believed it would be better for the present to obey the mandate of the court.

Under promise that some action speedily would be taken looking to the appointment of a commission to enquire into his present sanity, or for his transfer to a private institution, where his wife and other members of his family might reside with him, Thaw consented to go without further protest.

On his way to Matteawan, Thaw dictated the following authorized statement to the representatives of the Associated Press:

"I am perfectly sane now, but I am going to Matteawan on the advice of my counsel, who thought it unwise to sue for a writ of habeas corpus at this time. Counsel will proceed in the matter of my release just as soon as they can get together the proofs they will present, that I am at present sane. I am confident that my stay at Matteawan will be for a short period of time only."

Mr. Littleton is understood to have talked very plainly to Thaw while the subject of suing out a writ of habeas corpus was under discussion. Upon an exception filed by Mr. Littleton, Judge Dowling had granted a delay until 3 o'clock in the execution of the commitment papers, so that counsel might consult with the defendant. Mr. Littleton informed Thaw, it was stated, that "there is such a thing as public sentiment in New York."

Thaw was cheered by a crowd of several hundred persons as he was whirled away from the Tombs in his wife's automobile. If he heard, he paid no heed. The machine was so filled with deputies and members of counsel that neither Thaw nor his wife was visible to the waiting throngs. It was at first planned to have Thaw enter the automobile from the criminal courts building, but the crowd in White street became so dense the chauffeur was directed to drive into the Tombs yard.

From the moment that word came from the jury-room, at 12.40 p. m., that a report was about to be made, the closing events of the famous case moved with almost cyclonic rapidity. For a day and a night there had been absolute silence on the part of the jury. Not a suggestion or request of any sort had come to the court, and when Justice Dowling came down to his chambers late in the morning he announced that he would not send for the jury until they sent for him.

The report of Friday night, that the jury stood eight to four for acquittal on the ground of insanity persisted up to the very time they announced their intention of coming into court, and all concerned with the case had abandoned hope of a definite conclusion of the second trial.

All of the defendant's counsel were elated with the verdict, and declared it was just what they hoped for. District Attorney Jerome was almost as well pleased himself. He has contended from the first that Thaw was medically, if not legally, insane, and his efforts this year had plainly not been directed toward a verdict of murder in the first degree.

Mr. Jerome congratulated Mr. Littleton, and both counsel and jury joined in congratulating Justice Victor J. Dowling, who presided at the trial with so much satisfaction to both sides. The jurymen expressed their thanks to the judge for his kindly interest in all matters affecting their comfort, and declared it had been a pleasure to serve under such a fair-minded, just and considerate jurist. The proceedings in the courtroom were brief and business-like, and at no time was there the semblance of a dramatic effort.

So far as lies within his power, District Attorney Jerome will resist any effort to have Thaw liberated at any time in the near future. Neither will he willingly consent to his transfer to a sanitarium.

Matteawan, N.Y., Feb. 3.—Harry K. Thaw arrived here Saturday night and was immediately assigned to the observation ward of the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

When Dr. Robert B. Lamb, medical superintendent of the hospital, was told that Harry Thaw had been committed to the institution, he said the prisoner would be given no special privileges while here.

"The first thing we will do with him," said Dr. Lamb, "as with all patients, is to place him in the observation ward, there to remain for a week or two, or probably longer, until we note his mental condition. This is the customary plan, and it will be adhered to in his case. Then we can, after studying his mental derangement, assign him with some judgment to some particular ward in the hospital. He cannot have any special quarters, for all the patients here are treated alike.

INDIAN HOME RULE.

Urged in British House of Commons by Mr. Rutherford.

London, Feb. 3.—John Morley, Secretary of State for India, replied to the House of Commons Saturday to criticisms of the Indian Government. He said the great mass of perplexing problems in India must be regarded on a common sense plan and that it was not common sense to talk of Imperial dumas. But the Government was ready, when occasion offered, to consider the inclusion of India in the viceroy's council.

The debate arose on an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, proposed by Mr. Rutherford, Conservative, who declared that the present state of affairs in India demanded the serious attention of the Government, that the present proposals were inadequate to allay the existing and growing discontent, and that measures of reform in the direction of giving the Indians control of their own affairs were necessary.

A FIGHT FOR BREAD.

Serious Riots at West Seneca, New York.

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 3.—The police force at West Seneca has been trebled to cope with the possibilities of an outbreak of lawlessness among the hundreds of idle and hungry foreigners formerly employed in the steel mills. The number of needy in the town is variously estimated at from 500 to 3,000. A fierce bread riot occurred last night. A grocer had announced that he would give four hundred loaves of bread to the poor. The story spread and a large crowd gathered. The loaves did not come fast enough, and everybody wanted to grab the first food. In the struggle which ensued, the bread was shredded to crumbs and destroyed. A free soup house was opened by the poor master yesterday.

Roof of Rink Fell.

Picton, Feb. 3.—The lives of nearly forty young boys, skating in Boulter's Arena, were endangered at noon on Saturday. A very heavy snowstorm had passed over the county, and about two hundred tons of snow weighed down the roof, which, with scarce a moment's warning, caved in. No one was seriously injured, though Joseph Grooms had a particularly narrow escape, being caught and pinned under the falling roof. Mr. Grooms saw the collapse coming and rushed out on the ice and warned the children off. The loss on the arena is placed at $20,000.

E. Spencer, florist, suffers considerable loss, the storm completely destroying the roof of his new greenhouse.

Vancouver Man Shot.

Vancouver, Feb. 3.—B. Boyce, forty years of age, shot and killed J. C. Massender on Saturday night. Boyce was returning to his lodgings after 11 o'clock. He found a young man talking at the door to the landlady's daughter. Boyce ordered him away, threatening to shoot. He went into the house and reappeared with a gun. The young man ran, but Boyce shot and missed him. The bullet passed through the wall of the house, killing Massender, a married man, in his home at the corner of Barnard street and Jackson avenue.

Druce Sues Chronicle.

London, Feb. 3.—George Hollamby Druce, who was recently defeated in his efforts to make good his claim to the title and estates of the late Duke of Portland, has begun a libel suit against The Daily Chronicle for the publication on Saturday of a lengthy view of the case which contains certain reflections on himself.

Arrested Bank Cashier.

Boise, Idaho, Feb. 3.—Horace E. New, cashier of the Capital State Bank, which failed last week, was arrested Saturday night on a charge of forgery. It is stated that forged notes aggregating at least $50,000, have already been turned in, the first coming from Kansas City and Omaha banks.

SPORTING NEWS

Which Team Will Win the City League Championship?

Norwood and High Lifes are Booked for First Game, Which Will be the Feature Contest of the Evening —Lakefield Will Have a Great Lineup for Match With Straths—A Hockey Feast Wednesday Night.

On Wednesday night the games of the season will be played when Norwood and High Lifes and Strathconas and Lakefield will be the competing teams. The first contest promises to be a very fast one and more than usual interest is attached to it.

The Norwood-High Life game is the one that is attracting attention. Both teams have played great hockey all winter and the struggle should be one worth going a long way to see. Norwood seem to be getting stronger every game and by their defeat of the Lakefield team last Wednesday demonstrated they are one of the most dangerous septettes in the City League. The Strathconas have been the only ones to put it over either of the above teams and High Lifes gave them a mighty close run for their money in the opening match of the season, the score being 8—6 in favor of the Strathconas.

LAKEFEILD-STRATHCONAS.

Lakefield is coming here prepared to put up an argument worth while when they clash with the Strathconas. Their forward line will be strengthened by the addition of Simpson and Quigley, two of last year's stars who appeared with the Cement town puckchasers, should increase fifty per cent the playing strength of that aggregation. While they are out of the running, should they manage to defeat the Strathconas it will mean that the winners of the Norwood-High Life game will have a chance to clash with the wearers of the red and white for the league championship by reason of the lowering of the latter's standing. With their formidable lineup Lakefield should make the Strathconas travel some to hold their own. The best night in the City League hockey is assured no matter how the games pan out, and the biggest crowd of the season is expected to be on hand.

The standing of the various teams in the league now is:—

	W.	L.	To Play
Strathconas...	2	0	2
Norwood.............. ...	2	1	1
High Lifes	2	1	1
Lakefield	1	2	1
Bridgenorth	0	3	1

LINDSAY TO BE REPRESENTED

Flavelle and His Men Going to the Winnipeg Bonspiel

The Lindsay Post says:—As some of our readers know, Lindsay's famous skip has decided to return to the scene of former triumphs and engage in what will in all probability be his last trial of skill with the western curlers—that is on their own ice. It will be Mr. Flavelle's fifteenth appearance at Winnipeg bonspiel and if there is a curler in Canada who has shown a more sportsmanlike spirit or captured more leading trophies on foreign ice, we would like to be furnished with his name. Mr. Flavelle will take with him this year Mr. G. A. Little, his trusty lieutenant in many a hard-fought battle and glorious victory, Mr. L. V. O'Connor will play second stone, and Mr. W. E. Reesor will lead. "A strong and well-balanced quartette!" will be the verdict of brother curlers. They will leave for the west on Saturday next in order to have a couple of days' rest before the opening games on Feb. 11th.

THE TURF

LOOSE WORK CONDEMNED.

Uxbridge Journal.—Blackbird, the pacer that holds the Canadian—which is to say the world's—ice record, continues to start in races despite the deal in which he was fixed up at Ottawa last winter. The horse was allowed to enter and start last summer at Stratford and other places because the secretaries of the tracks said they were not obliged to take cognizance of irregularities committed on the ice circuit. The explanation was accepted, but now we find Blackbird a starter on the ice whence he and his owner were ruled off last winter. Moreover, we find the presumable reputable owners of other horses willing to start against him.

Sold His Nags and is Going to Leave Town

Jas. Williamson Again in Police Court—Once More D. & D.

Sad Case of a Local Boy Who Will be Sent to an Asylum

At the Police Court this morning Mr. James Williamson was before Magistrate Dumble charged with being drunk and with assaulting his wife. He pleaded "not guilty."

"Good morning, your Worship," said Williamson, "for God's sake give me the fine, I am going to Detroit right away, as I have sold my horses to W. Duncan, the horse-buyer, and I will be out of town by Wednesday."

Mrs. Williamson was called and said she was suffering from wounds and burns, which were the result of a quarrel on Saturday night, when the lamp was upset during the melee.

"Did your husband strike you?"

"Yes."

"Can you show the marks?"

The son, John Williamson, testified next. "For God's sake, John, tell the truth, my boy," said his mother. He said that his mother was also drunk and drank as much as his father. He also said that there was considerable trouble between the father and mother. The mother wanted to bring the girls down and have them testify. The prisoner once more asked to have the fine imposed and that he would not be back before his Worship again, as he had sold his horses, and he would take his boy and family to Detroit. He had everything packed.

"Alright sir, $10 and costs or twenty days in goal," said the Magistrate.

"Thank you kindly, your Worship, I will not come again," said Williamson as he was leaving the court-room.

Mrs. Williamson said she would not go with her husband to Detroit, and wished to be provided a home by the authorities who were in the court. So Mr. Williamson promised to give his wife half of the money he was getting for the horses, $155 in all.

AN INSANITY CASE.

A case of insanity was also dealt with, the unfortunate being a boy about twenty years old. It was shown that the attack comes on him every year for a short time, when he loses control of himself, and takes all getting very little sleep. At times he would imagine he was a fighter, and last night he imagined he was a detective, and threatened to hit his father and put him out of his home. All the time he was in court he was moaning or talking to himself. The Magistrate made out papers for his admittance to an asylum.

OVER TWENTY KILLED

Immense Damage Done by Cyclone in Mississippi.

Quarter of a Million Damage—Georgetown Entirely Wiped Out—Terrific Blizzard at Halifax, N. S.—Several Schooners Driven Ashore—Houses Blown Down and Wharves Destroyed—Asylum Struck by Lightning.

Haselhurst, Miss., Feb. 3.—More than a score of persons were killed and nearly twice that number were injured in Friday's tornado, according to latest reports. Relief parties were sent out yesterday. Among those hurt are Samuel Nichols and Robert Middleton, farmers. They were fatally hurt, and members of their families were also hurt. All streams are swollen, and the country roads are strewn with fallen trees.

A rough estimate of the property loss places the damage at about a quarter of a million. It was learned that Georgetown, where several buildings were last reported to have been wrecked, was entirely wiped off the map. No one at Georgetown is reported killed, but many were injured.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 3.—The worst storm in years swept over Halifax and other parts of Nova Scotia Saturday night. There was wholesale destruction along the water front, and telephone and telegraph lines were levelled so that communication along the coast and other parts of the province is cut off.

Several schooners in the harbor were driven ashore, and the Government quarantine steamer Argus was forced from her moorings and driven ashore on the Dartmouth side of the harbor.

The homeward bound mail steamer Grampian, with passengers, which was to have sailed, was forced to remain in port until yesterday morning. The wind blew 60 miles an hour, and was accompanied by a blizzard of snow. At midnight this turned to rain, which fell in torrents. Accompanying the snow, rain and wind was a terrific electrical storm.

Lightning struck the 125-foot chimney of the Nova Scotia Insane Hospital at two o'clock and tore out forty tons of bricks from its outer coverings. Some of the debris fell through a window into one of the rooms, and a seamstress was injured slightly.

The lightning disarranged the electric light service, and for hours the hospital was in darkness. Debris from the chimney crashed through the roof of the engine-house, badly injuring the engineer and machinery.

The Storm at St. John.

St. John, N. B., Feb. 3.—Enormous damage was done by a terrific storm which raged here Saturday night and yesterday morning. Reports received from Bay of Fundy ports indicate that shipping suffered to a great extent.

At St. Martins a large breakwater was badly damaged, and at Dipper Harbor, Highway Bridge was swept from its piers, the wharves destroyed and fishermen's houses blown down. Nets and traps were swept to sea, entailing a great loss to fishermen, many of whom are left in pitiable circumstances.

In St. John harbor, shipping had a strenuous night. Schooners were torn from their moorings and several wharves were badly damaged. The C. P. R. steamer Empress of Britain parted some lines and partly swung around in the stream. She was moored, however, before being damaged. Great uneasiness is felt here for coastal schooners bound for this port, some of which are overdue.

LANTERN LIGHT BLOWN OUT.

Train Crashed Into Light Engines—Two Men Killed.

Montreal, Feb. 3.—Two enginemen were killed in the Grand Trunk yards at Turcot Village, just outside the city limits, on Saturday evening.

The late Ottawa train, drawn by two locomotives, ran into two light engines couple together, standing on the main track in Turcot yard, the collision being caused by the red light carried by the flagman being extinguished by the wind just as the train came in sight through the blinding snowstorm, raging at the time.

The men killed were: A. Mills, engineer, and Robt. Smith, fireman of the leading engine of the Ottawa train. None of the passengers were injured.

Caught Picking Pockets.

St. Catharines, Feb. 3.—For some time past the members of the local Y. M. C. A. have missed various amounts of small change and a number of articles from pockets, and the facts were reported to the local secretary, who kept his eyes open, with the result that a young lad, Arthur Beyers, employed as pinsticker, was suspected and accused. He was caught stealing from a member's pocket. Two weeks ago the boy was arrested for stealing $10 from the till of Thomas' restaurant, but was let go on suspended sentence. He was taken before the magistrate Saturday when he pleaded guilty and was sent to the Victoria Industrial School at Mimico for five years.

Newfoundland Protests.

St. John, Nfld., Feb. 3.—The Legislature Saturday, by unanimous vote, adopted resolutions protesting against the action of the British Cabinet in overriding the Newfoundland laws and arranging a modus vivendi with the United States.

All political parties agree on the constitutional aspect of the question, but the vote of the opposition is not regarded as an endorsement of Premier Bond's policy in dealing with the American fishermen on the west coast during the past four years.

Premier Gouin Home.

$16,000 Worth of Tools Destroyed in Fire at Rapid Tool Co.'s Plant

Flames Broke Out About 5 40 O'clock Saturday Afternoon and Gutted Stock Room—Total Damage Not Known—Mr. Robt. Gilman Discovered Blaze and Gave Alarm—Chimney on Mr. G. W. Hatton's Residence Gives Brigade a Run—What a Broken Wire Did—A Busy Day for Firemen

Saturday was the most strenuous one in the history of the local fire brigade. It had calls to all four points of the compass. In the morning it was to extinguish a blaze at the Colonial Weaving Company's plant at the north, and in the evening was summoned to the Rapid Tool Company's manufactory in the east. Mr. George W. Hatton's residence in the west, and Mr. Haggart's property on Lansdowne street, in the south, and in spite of the long and wearing run, the call to the south and proved a false alarm.

An account of the conflagration at the Weaving Company's boiler house was published in Saturday's issue. The blaze at the Rapid Tool Co's building was the only other one that was in any way serious. It beings imply a case of a chimney on fire at Mr. Hatton's residence, but the wind was blowing so fiercely that it was found necessary to secure the services of the brigade. Mr. Hatton has a good fire-fighting equipment at his own house, having a stand-pipe on his own property attached to the city water service. He also has a good private hose service. His residence, "Walberfield," is a couple of hundred yards beyond the western limits of Charlotte street, the Monaghan boundary line running south and north at the south of the property.

RAPID TOOL'S HEAVY LOSS.

When Mr. Robert Gilman and a couple of friends of his were returning to their homes in East City about 5.40 Saturday afternoon, they noticed the blaze as they were walking across the bridge. Mr. Gilman sounded the alarm, while the two men who were with him rushed to the rear of the establishment, where Mr. Gus Hay and Mr. Jas. Faux, the watchman, were standing. They turned the hose on the flames, but the small stream was not effective enough to do any good work. The brigade, with its fire-fighting equipment, arrived on the scene in a very few minutes after the alarm was rung, and proceeded to wage war on the destructive element. They had two hose attachments and played the streams incessantly on the fire. The smoke arose in huge clouds and there was not proportionately as much flames as would be expected. The work of extinguishing the blaze was kept up for about two hours and a quarter, when it was finally mastered.

THE DAMAGE.

The damage done was very considerable, and besides the stock rooms, where the fire started, being completely gutted, the office was damaged by smoke and water, and the windows were broken and charred. The office is north of the storeroom and the filing room, which is immediately south, also suffered somewhat. The fitting up room also suffered by reason of the fire.

$16,000 LOSS IN STOCK.

There were $16,000 worth of finished tools in the stock room that were rendered absolutely useless by the blaze. They were all finished augur bits and were piled up awaiting shipment. Although the stock was insured, Mr. G. L. Hay, the secretary of the company, informed the Review to-day that he was not yet in a position to state whether or not the insurance covered the loss.

Some of the emery wheels used for polishing the tools were also made unfit for service, but the main portion of the building where the machinery plant is installed, fortunately escaped injury.

The brigade did excellent work and Chief Rutherford and his men are to be highly commended for the excellent way in which they battled with the flames.

25 MEN OUT OF WORK.

Repairs are now being made to the premises, and in the meantime the works will be closed down. This throws 25 men out of work, but it is expected the plant will again be in operation in a few days.

The loss on the building cannot be estimated until further investigation is made. It is covered by insurance.

AN UNEXPECTED CALL.

About twenty minutes to seven the alarm was sounded again, while the firemen were in the thick of the struggle with the conflagration. This time it was a call to the fire at Mr. George Hatton's residence, and five men and a team set away post haste for a run of a mile and a quarter through the storm and over heavy roads. Although as before stated Mr. Hatton has a good hose service at his house, he was afraid his small staff of volunteer firemen would be unable to cope with the situation should the flames spread, and so secured the services of the professionals who did good work and put out the fire in comparatively short time.

THE CALL OF THE SOUTH.

Just after returning from the fire at Mr. Hatton's the alarm system commenced operations with a vim and rapidity that made a noise like the relief of Ladysmith. Calls were coming into the fire station from all quarters, citizens making enquiries as to where the blaze was. As a matter of fact there was no fire anywhere. the ringing was due to a wire connecting with the alarm box on Park street, opposite Blade's greenhouse, being snapped by the violence of the storm. Every time the broken wire struck against the other piece attached to the pole the alarm was given; However, the source of the confusion was discovered in a short time and the circuit was plugged off. Foreman Pakenham of the fire department, assisted by a telephone construction man have made fixtures to the broken wire.

Besides the call to Lansdowne St., it was rumored that the residence of Mr. Robt. Sheridan, East City, was on fire and the brigade had almost made up their minds to go there. However there was nothing in the rumor. When the horses returned to the stables they were much fatigued after their several runs through the heavy roads.

"They were just the same as if they had come out of the lake," remarked a prominent member of the fire brigade, when discussing the matter with a Review reporter.

Fiercest Storm That Has Swept Country Since Record One of '04

Fall of Snow Was About Fourteen Inches—Saturday Night's Blizzard Tied up Traffic and Put Business at a Standstill—Trains Were Delayed Several Hours, Many Not Arriving Here Until Late Yesterday—Street Car Service Stood Storm Well—Church Services Cancelled in Country, Roads Impassable and Snow Piled Several Feet High.

Peterborough was in the grasp of another storm on Saturday night and Sunday. They have become weekly occurrences, being so regular, that it would almost be a disappointment if there was not the usual week end heavy snowfall.

Saturday's storm is the worst that has been since January of 1904 when Ontario was visited by one of the worst storms that had been experienced for many years. Traffic generally was tied up and everything was at a standstill.

As far as can be learned Saturday's storm was equally as bad in delaying traffic. It began to snow shortly after midnight on Friday and continued all day Saturday. The depth of the fall of snow is estimated at about fourteen inches on the level but in many places where it drifted it is several feet deep.

About six o'clock Saturday evening it stopped snowing and began to blow. A cold northwest wind that seemed to increase in severity as it continued, followed the snowfall, and caused considerable havoc in many places. The scene was one of the wildest that was ever witnessed in Peterborough. The cold, hissing wind, catching the snow like clouds of smoke, made it exceedingly blustery and was so blinding that it was almost impossible to see where one was going. So strong was the gale that it was difficult for one to keep on his feet.

ROADS IMPASSABLE

In the country the roads were rendered absolutely impassable and farmers who came to the city Saturday evening had a hard time, being obliged to get out and walk the greater part of the way. In one instance a farmer said that he was thrown out of his sleigh on two or three occasions when driving to town, and anticipated similar experiences on his return. The roads are terribly drifted and it would be hardly possible for to discern any signs of there ever having been a road. From all parts of the country, farmers who braved the rough elements of the weather and the extremely bad condition of the roads and came to town yesterday carried pinchers with them. They did this in order that they might loosen the wires holding the bars of the fences and drove through the fields. Much faster progress could be made in this way and without incurring any great risk of being upset.

TRAINS DELAYED.

The trains on both C.P.R. and G.T.R. were badly tied up on Saturday night and yesterday a G.T.R. official stated to a Review reporter that it was the worst that they had experienced in years. "There was a regular hold up," he added, "and we had to cancel one of the trains." They were all many hours behind schedule time and Saturday's trains were seen passing through the city at all hours yesterday.

ON THE C.P.R. LINE.

On the C.P.R. the 4.48 train from the East was four hours late while the local did not arrive at the depot until shortly before midnight. The midnight express was probably the worst of them all. It went through here at two o'clock yesterday afternoon and the engine resembled a huge mass of snow and ice, so completely was it covered. The road between here and Toronto is particularly bad, the cuts being filled up with immense barricades of snow. The early morning trains from the east were also late, the first one being about an hour behind, while the Ottawa train did not arrive here until noon. Last night and this morning the trains were making pretty good progress, some of them being on time while others were only an hour or two delayed.

ON THE G.T.R. LINES.

On the G.T.R. conditions were equally as bad, but the officials certainly deserve credit for the rapidity with which they had the road cleared. This morning all their trains were on time. However, they experienced a hard time Saturday night. The Toronto flyer arriving here at 10 o'clock had to be cancelled at Lindsay. The Belleville train due here at 8.40 o'clock arrived in the city at midnight while the nine o'clock Port Hope train did not get here until 1.30 o'clock. It had to remain here until five o'clock Sunday morning, waiting for a snowplough to take it through. While there were not a great many passengers on the trains, those who were unfortunate enough to be there had a rather unpleasant experience. Growing tired of the tedious waits, they fell asleep in their seats and enjoyed a peaceful repose in their somewhat uncomfortable quarters.

STREET CAR'S GOOD SERVICE

At no time was the street car service delayed. The cars were pretty regular in their trips, a fact which citizens appreciated very much on such a wild night as Saturday and especially those who had any distance to go. The sweeper was out several times yesterday keeping the tracks cleared and in good condition for traffic this morning.

Ex-Mayor Explains Trouble Regarding the Debentures

To the Editor of the Review,

Dear Sir,—I am informed that at the last meeting of the Board of Trade the statement was made in the course of discussion between Mr. Wm. Langford and Mr. W. H. Moore that the city debentures could have been sold last year at much better prices than have been realized lately, but that "the offer was promptly turned down by the Mayor." This statement was vigorously circulated in the late election for a purpose, but this is the first time that it has been made in a public manner, or by a reputable citizen, and I therefore wish to state the facts correctly.

Within two weeks of taking office the Finance Committee of 1907 took up the question of the sale of the debentures, and communicated with every solicitor in the city and with other parties having funds to invest. In previous years the sale of debentures had been looked after by the chairman of the Finance Committee, and the proceeding chairman, ex-Ald. Mason, had done excellent work in this respect. As Mayor I had no more to do with it than had any other of the five members of the Finance Committee; on the contrary, I recognized from the first, that Aldermen Bradburn and Morrow, particularly the former, had by reason of their private business special knowledge of such matters, and the chairman, Alderman Tovey, felt the same. Therefore, in April I moved, and the committee agreed, that the sale of the then existing debentures be delegated to Aldermen Morrow and Bradburn, and throughout the year the committee acted on their advice. It is not true that I ever turned down any offer. Only once was the offer first made to me, and that I at once communicated to the other members.

In fixing the responsibility for the failure to sell the debentures last year where it belongs, I do not mean to imply any blame to these members. The situation was a new and difficult one. The city had not for many years sold any debentures at more than 4 per cent., and the average of all the outstanding debentures was then less than 4 per cent. Consequently, we were all loath to sell the debentures above this figure, but we were forced to raise the rate to 4 1-2 per cent., and even then they could not be sold at par. How serious a matter this is may be seen from the fact that the $61,000 of debentures which have just been sold at 4 3-4 and 5 per cent., partly below par, mean an increase in the annual charge on the taxes of nearly five hundred dollars, which will continue for thirty years, and is equivalent to an addition to the cost of the schools of about ten thousand dollars. In the hope that conditions would improve and this enormous loss be saved, last year's committee held over the sale of these debentures. When a conference was held with the Finance Committee of the Board of Education with regard to the prices to be put on their debentures, their committee was even more strongly of the belief that conditions would so improve by December that it would be the wisest policy to hold back the sale. Further, the city was at that time paying only 4 1-2 per cent in the bank, so that it was much cheaper to carry than to sell the debentures.

Will you kindly give space to the above so that your readers may be acquainted with the facts in this much discussed matter.

Yours truly,

R. F. McWILLIAMS.

BOUGHT HORSE AND REFUSED TO PAY FOR IT

Woman Wins Case in Court That Animal Was Over Age.

Mrs. Robt. Carter, of Indian River, bought a horse from Stillman Bros., of Keene, agreeing to pay $135 for the animal. She paid one hundred dollars down and gave her note for the balance. In the Division Court this morning Stillman Bros. sought to recover the thirty-five dollars. However, Mrs. Carter refused to pay it, on the ground that the animal wasn't worth it. She claimed that she was told on buying it that it only seven years old, but she stated this morning that it was at least seventeen years old and might possibly have many more years to its age. She succeeded in proving her statements and won out. The plaintiffs had to pay the costs. Mr. Ozias LaPlante was counsel for the plaintiffs and Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared on behalf of the defendant.

Hamilton Council has appointed a special committee to consider the erection of a street lighting plant and the making of a power contract, and the members want to meet other Western Ontario municipalities.

Why a Meeting Was Not Held

Executive Has Been Unable to Secure Good Speaker

Members of the Peterborough Canadian Club have been wondering why a meeting of the club was not held during January. The explanation is simple. The executive have been unable to secure a speaker, although the secretary has been in communication with about a dozen prominent Canadians in various walks of life. None of them have been unable to come to Peterborough at the present, although several stated that they would be pleased to address the club at a later date. The officers of the club are desirious of securing a good man and are still trying hard to secure one.

Two meetings of the club will likely be held in February to make up for the absence of one in January.

Popular Dress Goods Man Has Left the City

Mr. Chas. Anderson of A. W. Cressman's Seeks His Future in Other Fields

Mr. Chas. Anderson, who has been the popular manager of the dress goods department of A. W. Cressman's for the past two years and who has made many warm friends, not only in the store, but among his acquaintances outside, is leaving the city this week with the intention of entering into another line of business in the near future. Mr. Anderson will visit his home in Oshawa for a few days.

Saturday evening the Cressman staff met after business in the Home Furnishing department and presented Mr. Anderson with some handsome remembrances and expressed their regret at his departure in the following address:

Dear Charlie,

It is with sincerest regrets that we, your fellow employees meet to bid you farewell, on this, the last Saturday evening of your sojourn amongst us. Many there are who come and go in our lives—many go and are forgotten soon, but not so in your case. You have been not only a most favored side companion during business hours, but you have been a brother and chum to us all. We have always found you ready and willing to take a hand in any sport we were inclined to indulge in and have spent many memorable occasions with you in this way.

Looking over the past two years we recall many pleasant hours when we have derived great pleasure in associating with you. You leave behind the natural friendship of the entire Cressman staff and take wherever you go our best wishes for a happy and prosperous future. We know that you will make as many staunch friends in the years to come as you have in the past and are now leaving behind in Peterborough.

To show our deep affection for you, we present and wish you to accept these slight tokens of remembrance; not that they will show to you the entirety of our regrets at your departure, but merely as a remembrance of our companionship together.

Signed—The Staff.

The gifts consisted of a handsome signet ring, a Waterman fountain pen and a pair of grey squirrel lined gloves, also other individual remembrances. The address was read by Mr. J. C. Edwards and the presentation made by Mr. John Titterson. Mr. Anderson will be missed materially on the Invincible Huckey seven. He was a stone wall, as some of the members of opposing teams termed him, and did but care to brush against him in chasing the puck. Mr. Anderson will be missed in both the social and business world of the city and has the hearty well wishes of all in his new pursuits.

Has Very Many Victims Here

Reports Many Cases of Rheumatism and Gives Home Recipe

Thousands of men and women who have felt the sting and torture of this dread disease, which is no respecter of age, persons, sex, color or rank, will be interested to know that, while for many years rheumatism was considered an incurable disease, now it is one of the easiest afflictions of the human body to conquer. Medical science has proven it not a disease in itself, but a system caused by inactive kidneys. Rheumatism is uric acid in the blood and other waste products of the system, which should be filtered and strained out in the form of urine. The function of the kidneys is to sift these poisons and acids out and keep the blood clean and pure. The kidneys, however, are of sponge-like substances, and holes or pores of which will sometimes, either from overwork, cold or exposure, become clogged and inactive, and failing in their function of eliminating these poisons from the blood, they remain in the veins, decompose and settling about the joints and muscles, cause the untold suffering and pain of rheumatism and backache, often producing complications of bladder and urinary disease, weakness, etc.

The following simple prescription is said to relieve the worst cases of rheumatism because of its direct action upon the bloods, relieving, too, the most severe forms of bladder and urinary troubles: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. The ingredients can be had from any good prescription pharmacy, and are absolutely harmless and safe to use at any time.

Famous Snowfall of 1870 is Recalled by Present Storm

Snow Fell for Three Days Almost Without intermission.

GREAT FLOODS IN THE SPRING

Large Part of City Was Covered With Water—Some Interesting Reminiscences

Taken altogether the fall of snow of the last three days is a record-breaker for many years. From North Bay and covering the country east of Toronto, as far as north of Kingston, the storm seems to have distributed its favors with a liberal hand. The high wind of Saturday night carried the snow with considerable force, piling it up in drifts and filling up yards, alleys and lanes. So severe was the storm that the incidents recall the famous storm and snow fall of 1870, probably the time of greatest depth of snow within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Traffic all over the country was practically suspended, the driving roads, as well as the Grand Trunk and branch lines, being completely blocked for many days.

The storm began on the night of the 15th of March, snow falling heavily. It continued to fall, almost without intermission, until the morning of the 18th, by which time over four feet in depth of snow had accumulated. During the 18th and a part of the 19th, the snow drifted, until in the country the roads were completely obliterated, and when traffic was resumed it was by way of the fields, and suebp artso f the roadsas were made passable. In town, when the snow had been shovelled from the sidewalks on the front streets and on Water street, as well as along the business portion, a man walking on one side of the street could not see anything on the opposite side, below the front floor windows. Some effort was made to remove the snow, but the labor and expense involved seemed so large that the attempt was abandoned.

Early in April the temperature became mild. The snow melted rapidly, and this state of affairs extended over all the country to the rear. Streams running out of the woods became swollen with the melting snow and poured into the lakes above. The water rose so rapidly that the flow could not be checked, as indeed very little provision had been made. A heavy rain aggravated matters, and the ice breaking loose in the lakes, came down the river with a rush. With very few exceptions, the dams on the river broke away, and at Bobcaygeon a serious break in the dam let the waters of Sturgeon Lake loose. Young's Point dam and that at Lakefield followed. Nassau dam was torn up by the roots, and the debris coming down, damaged Auburn dam, and burst out about fifty feet of the Dickson dam, crippling the mills for many months. The Rogers and Locks dam gave out, and the river reverted to old channels. In the river the water rose to a height unprecedented. So large was the volume that it could not escape by way of and over the wreck of the locks dam and the Little Lake was filled until the river flowed clear over Crescent street, flooding the lower section of the country down as far as where the street railway wharf now stands. The cemetery was an island, for communication by the locks bridge was cut off.

So serious was the rise of water on the river that lower George street was completed flooded as far up as Dalhousie street, the section now covered by the C.P.R. station and yard being under water. One could do, as many did, sail in a canoe over the land now covered by the Canadian General Electric Company, buildings, and a few venturesome ones reached, in a canoe, a point on King street, about opposite Joseph street. Very great damage was caused in the lower part of the town, which was not built up to anything like the extent that it now is. The lower Otonabee flooded the farm lands all the distance down to Rice Lake, which received the waters, augmented by the drainage between Peterborough and the lake, only to pour a torrent into the Trent river, to work further destruction along its course.

In this connection it is said that many years ago the Indian River was the outlet for the waters flowing into Stony Lake. Whether this be a fact or not, in 1870, so great was the accumulation in the lake that the flow resumed its ancient course, and, coming down the Indian River, carried consternation on all sides and doing serious damage to farm lands along the course of the stream, which had, in the interval, of many years, been choked with drift-wood and forest debris. It was fortunate that this outlet afforded some relief. Otherwise the damage done along the route of the Otonabee would have been much greater.

In the year mentioned (1870) the practice of running square timber down the river and lake to Trenton, was coming to an end. The breaking away of the dams made the handling of the rafts of timber especially very arduous, and many lives were lost as a result. The break at the Dickson dam was undoubtedly the most dangerous to navigate, many of the cribs being torn apart on the immense mass of debris and wreckage from the dam which had gathered a short distance below. River men, experienced by years of running the river, lost all knowledge of the currents and course to steer. The river from Lakefield to Peterborough was turned into a raging torrent by the immense volume of water in its impetuous flow by rapid fall between the two points.

Sensation in Orange Lodge Circles on Pacific Coast

C. W. Sawers, Formerly of Peterborough, Gives up Office in L.O.L., 1815, Over the Tupper Affair—Is Against Clique Running the Order.

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 1.—Dissension in the Orange Order in Vancouver as the result of the action of fifty Orangemen early in January waiting on Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, and requesting him to accept the Conservative nomination in Vancouver, reached a climax with the announcement of C. W. Sawers, Worshipful Master of Imperial L.O.L. No. 1.815, that he feels that he should resign that position.

Sawers headed the deputation which waited upon Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper. He stated that the meeting of his lodge on January 24, a resolution was passed on division, that he be asked to declare in the public press that he and those who accompanied him to see Sir Charles were not representing the Orange Order, but acting merely as private citizens. Sawers proceeds to relate events in Orange circles which led up to the Tupper delegation. He declares that the move was opposed by Past Grand Master Thomas Duke, on the ground that he had promised his support to George Cowan. In this connection he says:—

"He (Mr. Duke) also stated that if I got up a requisition for Sir Hibbert he would get a much larger number of Orangemen to sign for Cowan."

Sawers says in conclusion: "Owing to the fact that members of a certain well-known clique, who think they own and control the Orange Association and members thereof in Vancouver, having sown dissension for political purposes in my lodge, and not wishing to be Master wherein the utmost honesty and good fellowship does not exist, I feel that I should resign."

The Mr. Sawers referred to in the above despatch is a former resident of Peterborough, and a brother of ex-Ald John Sawers, and Mr. Gus Sawers of this city. He is well known here, having practiced law in the city until he went to the Coast a few years ago.

Bear Could See Shadow Yesterday

Bright Sunshine Prevailed During Greater Part of the Day

Yesterday was Candlemas day, and according to tradition the bear should have crawled out of the hollow log or cave in which he had been slumbering since the first of winter, and take a look around to see how everything is coming along. If the bear sees his shadow, the legend goes, he goes back into his cavern, and there remains six weeks during which time winter will reign unquestioned. If there is no sunshine and bruin makes no shadow he will remain out and an early spring can be expected.

If the bear was up to the mark yesterday and came forth as reported, he could not help seeing his shadow unless he was as blind as a Grit politician to the faults of his party. So six weeks more of winter can be expected, that is if you believe in the bear story.

HAVE SLIDE AT CHEMONG

Members of Reserve Enjoy One of the Greatest Winter Pastimes

The tobogganing fever is spreading this year and the latest place where it has taken hold is Chemong Indian Village. The young men of Chemong are responsible for a toboggan slide and it is built in the central portion of the village in a field just off the main road and opposite the residence of Mr. Dan Whetung. The resort is a popular one, toboggans and sleighs being used, and is liberally patronized by the youths and maidens of the reserve. On moonlight nights the crowds are particularly large. The slide was made from motives of comradeship and not of business and therefore no admission is charged.

AMUSEMENTS

"A MESSAGE FROM MARS."

The world is full of selfish men and selfish women. The author of "A Message from Mars" the splendid comedy that will be here at the Grand Opera House next Thursday, Feb. 6th, is evidently a thorough student of human nature. He built his plays upon humorous lines and so constructed it that it was made to point a moral of no uncertain force in opposition to the sin of selfishness, thus delivering a fine sermon, as it were, to selfish men and women exhorting them to get it out of their system. When the play was presented here on a previous occasion all who saw it were extremely well pleased. The promise is given out that this delightful comedy will be presented here in the same pleasing manner that characterized its presentation on the previous occasion.

AN UNCONSCIOUS TRIBUTE

"Borden's platform plays a very small part in the doings of the Opposition at Ottawa. For lack of any policy to place before the country, its whole energies appear to be devoted to unearth some scandal or shady transaction on the part of the Government."

The above clipping from the Hamilton Times shows how an argument or an observation may be made to, unintentionally, cut the cutter.

Even the most casual reader of newspapers knows that the Scandal Government at Ottawa, having forsaken statesmanship, must be followed by the Opposition, without fail or delay into the dark recesses of its wrong-doing. Never has Canada presented such opportunities for being robbed, and never has she been so completely stripped. A celebrated American is the author of the well-known phrase, "What is the good of a man's country if he cannot realize upon it," and this has been taken evidently as its motto by the Laurier administration. Sir Wilfrid has lost control of Canadian affairs. His men have been chosen unadvisedly. He will no doubt prefer to go down with the ship, but that's what it looks like at present.

THE THAW CASE

This painful exposure of the conditions of life in New York City can not unfortunately be relied upon to have done much good. On the contrary it has probably done much harm. Newspapers that should have been ashamed to descend into the sewer of human life for news, have exploited the Thaw trial to the last degree. There is nothing in the whole affair to profit by except perhaps the lesson of the desperately wicked condition of the human beast, which appears to have remained about the same as ever. It is true that the vicious lives of those who sometimes aspire to rule us will appear all the more dreadful in the glare of the Thaw and similar cases, and it is doubtful if the public will put up in future with men "that smell to heaven," in high places, or indeed in the ranks of ordinary citizenship. The world is after all improving. Not long ago even the most advanced and optimistic of our citizens were inclined to be cynical, but all is changed. Public opinion is becoming a mighty force for the betterment of mankind. It is public opinion that has made Great Britain great. We have appropriated her system of legislation, and in due time we are appropriating the real power that governs all great nations.

THE BRITISH PREFERENCE

The Toronto Globe is still of its old opinion evidently, viz., that it is better that Canada should fail in its endeavor to establish itself as a manufacturing country than that Great Britain should not have a trade preference in our markets, at least in name. The naive remark of the chief Liberal organ, that "His, (the British Commissioners) general conclusion is that the British manufacturer cannot depend wholly upon the Canadian preference to give him a satisfactory position in the Canadian market." is refreshing. What a pity. How nice it would be if the old conditions of approximate free trade were established again and the rest of our Canadian industries followed the Woollen Industry into the cold shades of decay. It is high time that our leading journals acknowledged that wages and the standard of living are altogether different in Canada and England. Moreover we do no charge Great Britain with disloyalty to Canada because she protects herself with the Cattle Embargo which she has decided to retain. What the preference so-called was ever designed for it would be hard to say unless to pave the way for the French Treaty, which is another sample of the same ill-advised legislation. Ice and sawdust are two articles on the free list of the present tariff and they fairly represent the magnanimity and astuteness of the present framers of our trade laws.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The ready removal of the "beautiful" from our walks this winter in a good old-fashioned and effective way is due to the energy and good sense of Ald. Phelan. We congratulate him.

(We used to be asked, "What shall we do with our girls?" This has been succeeded by, "What shall we do with our snow?" In both cases the difficulty is solved.

The Examiner's sense of humor is more amusing than it intends to be. It is an effort for our contemporary to be amusing, and we would recommend that it borrow its humor along with its other material.

The laymen's missionary movement is a striking example of the return of men's minds to more serious views of life. History is a continual ebbing and flowing of the tide of humanity. One movement is always recorded by the other.

The Hamilton Spectator says:—

"We recommend to the close consideration of our neighbor, the Times the Globe's opinion on Hon. Dr. Pyne's latest educational circular.

"On the whole, the new circular may be described as the precursor of a brighter educational day for the schools and the teachers of Ontario."

The Opposition at Toronto will shortly meet to see if there is no way of finding something to "kick" about at the next session of the Ontario Legislature. So far nothing has been found and unless an item or two of interest turns up soon parliamentary reports from Toronto will be dry reading. Ottawa, however, still continues to furnish sensations.

Eyes of old-timers brighten as signs of an old-fashioned winter multiply. Plenty of snow means plenty of ammonia for the land and good crops. The clearing of the forest has changed the time of our seasons. They come as they see fit nowadays. Formerly the January thaw came in January. But times have changed. Even hard times are now called stringency.

Private advices, as well as public appearances indicate the return of Mr. Borden to power at the next election. The two Peterboroughs will be in line. The extravagance of the present administration and the seriousness of the other issues engaging public attention will require an early appeal to the country. The mails too, are carrying the first batch of Government campaign literature. This is like the first crow an unmistakeable sign.

The Examiner's playful remark that Mr. Carstairs, the Dominion organizer, foresaw the victory of Conservatives at the next election—if enough seats were won—was re-inforced with an equally playful reference to the "sacrificial rites" of the late Conservative convention. With regard to Mr. Carstairs, we wish to say that he is correct in every particular and his forecast will be borne out by facts at the time specified. Regarding the reference to the convention we feel that an undue advantage has been taken of us by the Examiner. The Liberal managers have not yet sacrificed all competitors upon the altar of their choice and cannot therefore hold a convention it would have time and be equally successful in their eyes if none was held. Different customs prevail in the two parties.

Handsome Suit Case Presented

Mr. G. B. VanBlaricom Honored by Members of Review Staff

Mr. G. B. VanBlaricom, who has been editor of the Review for the past four years, was presented with a handsome suit case on Saturday afternoon by the employees of the establishment with which he has been connected. Mr. VanBlaricom left for Toronto this morning where he joins the staff of the McLean Publishing Company as editor of the Busy Man's Magazine. The presentation took place in the newsroom at five o'clock, the employees of the different departments having gathered for the pleasing event. The presentation was made by Capt. Hounsell and an address expressing regret at the departure of Mr. VanBlaricom and referring to the pleasant relations that had existed during the time he was connected with the Review, was read by Mr. D. B. MacRae. Mr. VanBlaricom made a suitable reply, expressing thanks for the good wishes extended and alluding to the regret he felt at leaving the Review and his Peterborough friends.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin, the managing director of the Review Company, supplemented the address by a few remarks referring to the loss the Review was sustaining in Mr. VanBlaricom's departure, and his own personal regret at losing him.

The suit case was an exceedingly handsome one and had the initials of the recipient on one side.

Peterboro' Citizens Unite in Cause of Temperance

Enthusiastic Gathering of Christian Workers Yesterday Afternoon in Charlotte St. Church—Interesting Address by Rev. J. G. Potter—Meeting to be Held on Thursday Night for Organization.

Judging from the enthusiasm and interest displayed at the temperance meeting yesterday afternoon at the Charlotte St. Methodist church, a determined effort will be made to wipe out the liquor traffic in this city. The hall yesterday was filled with a representative gathering from the different churches of the city. The outcome of the union meeting was the passing of a resolution that a temperance society be formed and that they commence at once to win men for the temperance cause.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy acted as chairman and the meeting was opened with the singing of a hymn and prayer by Rev. A. H. Brace. In a few brief remarks Mr. Kennedy explained the object of the gathering, that of the advancement of the temperance cause. He would like to see local option. The open bar was a detriment to the community. Too much couldn't be done and the people of Peterborough had done very little to help temperance.

After the singing of another hymn the chairman called upon Rev. J. G. Potter to give an address. Commencing, Mr. Potter said that in his mind there was no work deserving of such hearty support as that of temperance. While it is realized that many have been saved and that it is God's purpose that the whole world should be won for Christ, the speaker thought that it was the duty of every Christian to do something to save the drunkard. God is helping us and are we going to assist Him or are we going to work against Him! asked the speaker. Christians should not hold back but realizing their responsibility should rescue the persons who are in wretchedness and degradation and endeavor to fight that which is wiping out men who were made for eternal happiness. Mr. Potter referred to the firm hold temperance had taken throughout the country. Even men who are habitual drinkers are desirous to have local option. The only opposition is from those engaged in the liquor traffic. From a national standpoint, people who wish the country to prosper should take up the temperance cause. Magnificent work has been already done, largely due to the efforts of men who are not afraid to go forward and the earnest work of women who are carrying on the movement with much success.

There are many weak men who need assistance and the strong men are called upon to stand by them.

The drunkard is worth saving and as the agents of God, Christian people should think of the preciousness of the lives that are being crushed out and should pray and work for their salvation. Rev. Mr. Potter's address was made more interesting by the relating of several stories illustrative of his subject.

At the conclusion of the discourse, it was moved by Rev. A. H. Brace, and seconded by Rev. C. H. Coon, that a temperance union be organized in this city. This was unanimously carried upon motion of Mr. A. B. Cunningham, and seconded by Mr. A. L. Galbraith, it was moved that committees from each church be appointed by the pastors, meet on Thursday night next at the Y.M.C.A. hall.

The meeting then closed with a hymn and prayer.

Much interest has been aroused by the announcement that a Sunday School canvas of the city will be taken in the near future, the object being to ascertain what percentage of the population, especially the children, attend Sunday School. The canvas should result in some valuable information that will be of much benefit to the pastors of the different churches. Mr. Yellowlees, Secretary of the Ontario Sunday Shool Association will be here this week to make arrangements for the canvas and will give an address in St. Paul's church on Friday night. An outline will be given of the canvas and the preliminary arrangements made. There should be a large attendance.

ANNIVERSARY OF ST. ANDREW'S YOUNG PEOPLE

Public Service Last Evening Was Largely Attended—A Special Sermon

Yesterday was the anniversary of the organization of the Christian Endeavor Society of St. Andrew's church, and in the evening a public service was held when the pastor Rev. J. G. Potter, preached a special sermon for the occasion, taking as his subject, "The church that draws." The society was instituted about a quarter of a century ago by the Rev. Frances E. Clark, D.D., and it has since made very satisfactory progress. The chief element in the young people's movement was an organized effort to become partners with their parents in the church work.

The aims and principles of the society were explained by Mr. Potter. The members are pledged to attend the meetings regularly. They are pledged to read the Scriptures every day and to look after strangers and the sick. The object is to form a strong forceful society to further the interests of christianity.

Mr. Potter spoke from the text, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth will draw all men unto Me," found in John 12:32. These were the words of Christ, whose conception of the greatness of his mission was such as to inspire him to deeds of greatness. His world-wide conquests are enough to place Him high in our estimation, and the young people have done much to inspire the conception.

The truly noble man is not the one who lays down his life for a theory, but one who risks his own life for the saving of another. Men and women allow too many crocodile tears to fall down their cheeks at theatres at the exciting scene or in reading over cheap novels. When theatres and dancers come in conflict with the work of God we are not living up to the true conception of a christian life.

Special Service for Young People

A special young people's service was held at Knox church last evening. There was a large attendance and the service was a most interesting one. Several of the members of the Young People's Society took part in the service. Mr. Campbell read a paper tracing the growth of the Young People's movement and Mr. Keith gave an address on "The Young People and the Missionary Movement," showing the part the young people should take in mission work.

Has Charles Burke Any Chance of Acquittal?

Defence May Have Trump Card When Case Comes up for Trial Before Judge Weller Next Friday.

May attempt to Prove Alibi—New Development in Buckhorn Robbery Case Which Has Already Attracted great Attention,

Judge Weller fixed Friday next, the 7th, as the day on which he will try Chas. Burke. Burke was committed for trial by County Police Magistrate Edmison, on the charge of robbing Mr. John Purser's store at Buckhorn, on Nov. 5th, 1907. On Saturday afternoon in the judge's chambers, he elected through his counsel Mr. G. N. Gordon, to be tried by the judge without a jury.

Burke wanted the trial to take place at two o'clock in the afternoon owing to the fact that he expects a witness or witnesses for the defence from Toronto on the morning train on the day of the trial. Judge Weller however, decided upon 11 o'clock in the morning, and said the defence could present its case after the evidence of the Crown was in.

MAY PROVE ALIBI.

Although no defence was made in the preliminary hearing, the defence will, it is understood, endeavor to prove an alibi. The case against Burke looked very direct at the time of the hearing, and not one witness testified in behalf of the prisoner. An attempt to prove him not guilty will be made however at his trial on Friday next. This new move on the part of the defence has added decidedly more interest to the case than has been attached to it heretofore in spite of the seriousness of the charge.

Office of Publication is Transferred to This City

Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, Canadian Horticulturist and Canadian Florist Will be Pub- in Peterborough in Future.

The Canadian Dairyman, Farming World, Canadian Horticulturist and Canadian Florist, will henceforth be published in Peterborough. A joint stock company has been formed to control the above publications, and the office of publication is being transferred from Toronto to this city. Mr. H. B. Cowan is at the head head of the company, in which considerable Peterborough capital is invested, and the office will be in the new brick block on the south side of Simcoe street.

The Canadian Dairymen and Farming World are being amalgamated and will be issued in future as one publication. The different publications have large circulations and Peterborough is fortunate in securing them. A staff of fourteen will be brought from Toronto to Peterborborough, and the March number of the different papers will be issued from the Peterborough office.

The Board of Trade has been active in the arrangements towards bringing the head office of the company here and deserves credit for what has been accomplished.

Thirty-two Visitors to The Relief Restaurant

Came With Their Pails for the Pint of Nourishing Soup Allowed—Tickets May be Secured From Secretary Goodwill of Children's Aid Society—Mostly English People Who Applied.

"If well begun is half done," the Children's Aid restaurant should be a success. This morning eight families, about 34 persons altogether, came with their pails to the restaurant station, whi chopened at eleven o'clock tion, which opened at eleven o'clock twelve. As a result the big boiler in which the soup was made was relieved of 32 pints of good nourishing soup. The soup is of excellent quality, containing vegetables and beef.

Those who came to have their appetites appeased were very grateful and none were ungracious enough to ask, like Oliver Twist, for a second helping. Mr. George Cochrane was present, on behalf of the Children's Aid Society.

No one need go without sufficient with the restaurant established to meet the demands of those in need. Any one requiring tickets may secure them from Mr. Goodwill, the secretary of the Children's Aid Society, of the law firm of Roger, Bennet & Goodwill, Water street. In a few days theymay be had at other places, the names and location of which will be announced in a later issue of the Review.

Mr Cochrane, when asked today as to what he thought of the scheme, would not express any opinion one way or the other. He says it is yet an infant experiment. Practically all the callers at the restaurant this morning were members of immigrant families

YOU WILL BE GLAD OF

Two Thousand Shoe Bargains
TO-DAY AND ALL FEBRUARY

This is Leap Year—the month when February has one day more—and it is this Leap Year month which Dolly Varden has taken advantage of to widen her acquaintance—to gain more friends by a golden money—savingproposal.

On the purchase of any pair of Dolly Varden Shoes in the Dolly Varden Shoe Store, a dollar will be returned to the purchaser. This is a standard one price shoe of unvarying worth and value, and this distinctive difference makes the sale price a Bargain de facto. It is not a shoe marked up in order that it may be marked down. The Dolly Varden Shoe is price—marked at the factory by the manufacturers who guarantee its worth.

They were loth to allow us to inaugurate this sale, but our argument won out. If they can by donating $10,000 get 10,000 new customers we will profit in the long run by retaining their custom. All that we wish for is the first trial of a first pair of "Dolly Vardens."

There will be other Bargains in this store—price reductions that will seem greater by comparison—Bargains which we will give minute details of—but getting $5 gold value shoes for $4 is a real and fare Bargain. You have never known of it before.

Only ONE PAIR of Dolly Varden Shoes to each customer. Come to-day while we have sizes, widths and half-sizes in every desirable models.

Half has not been told of this sale—we don't exaggerate, but want you to come and see for yourself.

Here is the Dollar Certificate—and we show the styles of Shoes.—100 styles to choose from, it is well to save your dollar quickly.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Accepts Resolution For Careful Investigation.

Mr. Pringle's Motion Before the House—Three Millions For Relief of the Farmers In the West—Provided For In Supplementary Estimates—Extend I. C. R. to Ontario Centres—Some Questions Answered.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—Supplementary estimates were laid on the table yesterday afternoon by Finance Minister Fielding, amounting to nearly three million dollars, for the assistance of the farmers of Alberta and Saskatchewan, whose crops were damaged or destroyed by the early frosts of last fall. In the first place the Government proposes to purchase seed grain and distribute it among the homestead settlers of the two provinces, the cost to be repaid by them at 5 per cent. Then the Government will lend each of the two Provincial Governments sums for the purchase of seed grain for settlers whose patents have been taken out. The amounts are as follows:

To provide an amount to purchase seed grain for homestead settlers in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, the cost of said seed grain to be repaid by the settlers, with interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, and until repayment, to be a lien or charge upon the lands of the settlers held under homestead entry, $585,000.

To provide an amount to enable the Government of Canada to advance to the Government of Alberta by way of loan a sum for the purchase of seed grain for settlers, $440,000.

To provide an amount to enable the Government of Canada to advance to the Government of Saskatchewan by way of loan for the purchase of seed grain for settlers, $1,825,000. A total of $2,850,000.

Sir Wilfrid also told Mr. McCarthy that the Government had taken action to secure compensation from the United States for the seizure of the steamer Coquitlam. The Supreme Court of the United States declared the seizure illegal. "The Government has been and is continuing to press for settlement of all outstanding claims against the United States Government," said the Premier.

Mr. Marshall (Elgin) asked if the Government intended spending any money on Port Bruce harbor. Mr. Pugsley replied that $855 was placed in the estimates for that work.

Mr. Oliver told Mr. Marshall that the Government had no information on the subject of Gen. Booth's alleged statement that he had "wired the Government of Canada and had received a reply to the effect that of the 20,000 immigrants sent out by the army during the last two or three years, a hundred could not be found who were out of employment."

Mr. Bennett Attacks Globe.

Rising to a question of privilege, Mr. Bennett (Simcoe) complained of an editorial paragraph in The Globe, which charged that he (Bennett), in the public accounts committee the other day, had brought up the question of Matchedash and Penetanguishene dredging contracts "to get level" with Hon. A. G. MacKay, a political opponent. The paragraph went on to give an account of what transpired in the committee, which was absolutely devoid of truth.

Mr. Bennett congratulated "the petty paragrapher" on being able to "meet the wishes of the grafters who own The Globe." The account of the proceedings of the committee, on another page of the same paper, however, was written, said Mr. Bennett, by "a gentleman."

Mr. Foster asked the Minister of Public Works if the plans of the new departmental building would be laid before the House before the discussion on the proposed Grand Trunk hotel.

Mr. Pugsley replied that, though a prize was awarded for the best plans, the Government was not obliged to accept them.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier accepted a resolution of R. A. Pringle (Con., Stormont), asking for the appointment of a select committee of nine to consider a scheme of state aid for making provision for the aged and deserving poor.

Mr. Pringle referred to the several committees and the commission which had looked into the old age pension scheme in Great Britain, pointing out that it was the committee of Mr. Chaplin, which had evolved the scheme which was now regarded as the only practical proposal. In New Zealand the scheme of old age pensions had given every satisfaction, thanks to the efforts of Premier Seddon. Canada could well afford a pension scheme. He did not believe in the universal scheme, which provided that every man at the age of 65 should be pensioned, but rather in Chaplin's scheme, which proposed the pensioning of every British male subject of 60 years of age or over on from 5 to 7 shillings a week, provided the person to be pensioned had never been sentenced to prison without the option of a fine, had not received poor relief and was not in receipt of an income of 10 shillings a week and providing also that he could prove that he had made an honest effort to provide for his old age.

Mr. Pringle Congratulated.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier congratulated Mr. Pringle upon his persistency and upon the manner in which he had brought the subject to the attention of the House. He did not think a better presentment could have been made. The Government accepted the resolution. It was not convinced, but would approach the subject with another mind. Whatever view might be expressed Sir Wilfrid was of the opinion that the assistance suggested should not be given as a matter of charity, but as compensation. He did not favor pensions for millionaires, although the member for Nanaimo (Mr. Smith) did not think there should be any discrimination, and his views were entitled to respect. What Sir Wilfrid thought was that the law should come to the rescue of those persons who were not able to provide for their old age. Under present conditions it would be impossible for many to contribute a portion of their wages.

The view that there should be no contributions was wrong, as in Sir Wilfrid's opinion this would lead to slovenliness.

An Enquiry Granted.

Sir Wilfrid concluded by granting the enquiry. The Government in so doing was not committing itself to any scheme of old age pensions.

Mr. Lefurgey (Con., P. E. I.) also supported the pension scheme. Finance Minister Fielding, in closing the discussion, said it should be remembered that there are 270,000 people in Canada over 65 years of age. At $3 a week each the pension fund would amount to forty millions a year, which was two-thirds of the taxation at the present time. The resolution was adopted.

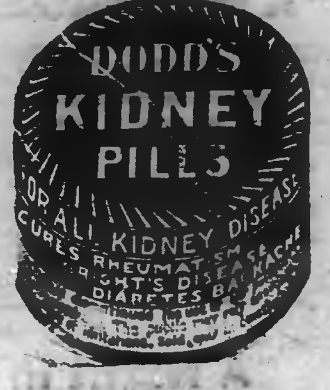
Hon. H. R. Emmerson spoke to the House last night, when he urged the extension of the Intercolonial Railway by the acquisition of branch lines that would serve as feeders, and the construction of the main line to industrial centres in Ontario and the West.

Mr. Emmerson said he admired the splendid optimism of Sir Charles Tupper, who had a prophetic vision of what the I. C. R. should be. "God hates a coward," cried Mr. Emmerson in a burst of enthusiasm. The Government should have courage to go forward. "We are here as leaders, not as time-servers and opportunists," the ex-Minister said.

Mr. Emmerson's Resolution.

He closed by moving this resolution:

"That in the opinion of this House it is desirable in furtherance of the transportation interests of this Dominion, that the sphere of influence of the Intercolonial Railway as a Government-operated railway should be widened and extended by securing by lease or otherwise such of the branch lines of railways now connecting with the Intercolonial, as will serve as direct and profitable feeders to the traffic of the said railway, and by providing for the extension of the Government operation of said railway to industrial "centres of Western Canada, and to a point or points on the great lakes of Canada."



Killed by a Fall.

Orillia, Feb. 3.—H. Miller of Milliken, near Unionville, aged 24, unmarried, a fireman on the southbound G. T. R. freight from Midland, was the victim of a fatal accident in the station yard here Saturday. He was standing on the tender of the engine pulling open the slide on a coal chute when he slipped and fell backwards, striking his head with such violence that he died within an hour, shortly after regaining consciousness. The coroner decided an inquest unnecessary, and the body will be taken to Unionville.

C.P.R. BUILDING BURNED

Enormous Quantity of Goods Destroyed at Montreal.

One Hundred Thousand Bags of Flour Burned—Loss Estimated at $150,000—Big Sawmill Wiped Out — High Tide Go' Into Lime — Newspaper Office Gutted at Cleveland, Ohio—Other Fires.

Montreal, Feb. 4.—Damage variously estimated up to $150,000 was caused yesterday by a fire which broke out in the Molson warehouse half an hour after noon. The portion in which the fire originated is that used as the Canadian Pacific Railway storage, in which was contained flour, the property of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. and the Oliver Milling Co.

In the portion of the building destroyed by fire there were stored 100,000 bags of flour, and it is estimated that the greater part, if, indeed, not all, will be a total loss, being either burned or wet to such an extent as being beyond all hope of salvage.

The burned portion is rather more than a third of the whole block, and the approximate loss is $25,000.

The buildings are more than a hundred years old, and were built by John H. R. Molson. The whole is covered by insurance.

High Tide Causes Fire.

St. John, N. B., Feb. 4.—The large sawmill in course of erection and nearly completed, at Jacquet River bridge, Gloucester County, was completely destroyed by fire on Sunday afternoon. The fire is thought to have originated from the high tide getting into a large quantity of lime in the basement. The mill was the property of the Lawson Lumber Company. The loss is heavy.

Plain Dealer Burned Out.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 4.—Fire yesterday destroyed the plant of The Plain Dealer Publishing Company, entailing a loss of nearly half a million. A fierce gale which was blowing swept the flames eastward, and for a time the city hall building was threatened. The fire burned all the afternoon and by nightfall was under control.

The fire started at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, supposedly from crossed electric wires. Although the firemen were early on the scene, the flames spread with great rapidity. In the early part of the afternoon the floors fell, carrying with them twenty-two linotype machines and other valuable machinery.

The Leader, News and Press made offers of assistance, and last night The Plain Dealer was published, partly from The Leader building.

BRITISH SHIP ON FIRE.

Fifteen of Crew Jumped Overboard and Were Drowned.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 4.—News just arrived in this city by wireless that the British steamer St. Cuthbert from Liverpool, Eng., for New York, is afire off Yarmouth, N.S. No particulars.

Later—Wireless says St. Cuthbert is burning off Cape Sable. Fifteen of the crew jumped overboard and were drowned. Thirty-five stayed on board and were rescued by White Star Liner Cymric, passing vicinity at the time.

Workmen Destroy Bridge.

New York, Feb. 4.—One of the great jaws of the new Eastchester bridge fell into the bay yesterday morning. It was 50 feet long and weighed 70 tons, and cost $25,000. Detectives, summoned by the American Bridge Co., yesterday, are sure the accident was due to dissatisfied workmen. They have turned the matter over to the Westchester and City Island police, and it was reported last night that a number of arrests would soon be made.

Eloped With Widow.

Berlin, Feb. 4.—Charles Frank, a well-known Berlin workman with a wife and family of little children, was arrested at Port Huron on Sunday along with Mrs. F. Potter, a widow, who has lived here many years. Her husband died a year or more ago. Mrs. Frank has laid a charge of wife desertion against her husband, and he will be brought back for trial.

Old Electrician Shocked to Death.

Buffalo, Feb. 4.—Josiah Davis, said to be a brother of State Electrician Davis, was electrocuted last night at the top of a 35-foot electric light pole, where he had climbed to adjust a lamp.

Davis had worked in the electrical business in Buffalo for 30 years and strung the first telephone wires in the city in 1876.

To Surrender the Kaid.

London, Feb. 4.—The Government has received a telegram from the British charge d'affaires at Tangier, Morocco, to the effect that Raisuli, the bandit chief, has promised to bring in Kaid Sir Harry MacLean this evening, exactly seven months to a day from the time he was made a prisoner by Raisuli.

Galt Woman Severely Injured.

Galt, Feb. 4. Mrs. Geo. Aitken, aged 79 years, a widow, met with an accident which may result fatally. She was placing an article on a shelf in the cellarway when she fell to the bottom. She sustained a broken arm, dislocated thumb, and concussion of the brain.

Twenty-One Soldiers Perish.

Ain Seafra, Algeria, Feb. 4.—Twenty-one men of the Twentieth Co. of the Foreign Legion, and possibly others of the same company, perished on Feb. 1 in a blinding snowstorm, which overtook the soldiers on their way to Fort Hasa.

600 Bogus Titles.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 4.—A revision of the College of Heraldry of Georgia, Transcaucasia, has resulted in the uncovering of monster forgeries of princely titles.

Adelard Bolduc, of Hull, fell while walking, and a pair of scissors in his pocket pierced his heart.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 1 were 1340 cattle, 336 sheep and lambs, 1167 hogs and 124 calves, while the offerings to-day for the local trade were 1070 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 1100 hogs and 25 calves. On account of the very stormy weather which prevailed during the latter part of last week, railway traffic was interrupted considerably, and in consequence fully 25 per cent. of the 1070 head of cattle did not arrive here until this morning, and, as a number of them had been on the road since last Thursday, holders would not offer them.

The attendance of local buyers was large, and, as they all wanted some beef, a fairly active trade was done. Choice beeves sold at 5¼c to 5½c; good at 4¾c to 5c; fair at 3¾c to 4½c; common at 3¼c to 3½c, and inferior at 2½c to 3c per lb. Cable advices from Liverpool on Saturday reported trade in cattle slow and prices easier, American steers being quoted at ½c per lb. lower, at 11¾c to 12½c, and Canadian bulls ½c lower, at 10c, but Canadian steers were unchanged, at 11½c to 13c; on account of small supplies.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for sheep and lambs. Receipts have fallen away to almost nothing owing to the severe cold weather of late, consequently trade is very quiet, but the undertone to the market is firm, and any lots coming forward meet with a ready sale at full prices. Choice lambs were quoted at 6¼c to 6½c; good at 5¾c to 6c, and common at 5¼c to 5½c per lb. A few choice sheep sold at 4c to 4¼c; good at 3½c to 3¾c, and culls at 3c to 3¼c per lb. In spite of the continued weak and discouraging cable advices from all the leading foreign markets on Canadian bacon last week, which noted a further decline in prices of 1s to 7s per cwt., a much firmer feeling developed in the local market for hogs to-day on account of the limited supply, and an advance in prices of 20c per 100 lbs. was paid in some instances for selected hogs. There was a good demand from local dealers, and sales were made at $6 to $6.20 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. A certain local dealer who was short of stock at the latter end of last week advised a leading Toronto packer to ship him a single deck of light selects, and, altho prices in that market the day previous were quoted by this packing concern at $5.40 per 100 lbs., the local dealer received a reply to his above message that they would ship him one single deck load at $6 per 100 lbs., f.o.b., which was refused.

CRESSMANS HAVE FIRST DEFEAT

Quaker Oats' Puck Chasers Beat Them Last Night by a Score of 3–1

The Quaker Oats' team and Cressmans' played this game from 6 to 7 at Brock street last night and the porridge septette won out by 3-1. At half time they led by 3-0. In the second half Cressmans' took a brace and played much better than they did in the earlier stages of the contest, scoring the only goal of the half.

Sturdee was the bright shining star of the evening while Darling was the pick of the losers. Donegan as referee gave good satisfaction. The defeat is the first one sustained by Cressman's this year.

General manager, captain and goal tender Titterson of Cressmans' was not so lucky as he sometimes is and let a couple of easy ones beat him out. The teams:

GAME GETTING VERY ROTTEN

Brutal Assault Upon "Newsy" Lalonde as Seen by the Toronto Star

Speaking of the disgraceful assault of McDonald, of Brantford, on Lalonde, of Toronto, in the pro. game in Toronto, on Saturday night, which the Queen City won by 10—7, last night's Star says;—

Overshadowing the game itself was a savage assault in the second half of the game upon "Newsy" Lalonde, the Toronto centre player, by "Cap" McDonald the cover point of the Brantford team. McDonald has a reputation as a rough, dirty player, and he lived up to it. He nearly put Lalonde out of the game in the first half, with a slash on the ankle, and handed it out freely to all who dared to go near him on their way up the ice. He also disgusted spectators by continually objecting to the referee and his decisions.

Early in the second half the affair came to a head. Lalonde tried to get even for what he had got in the first half from McDonald, and as he skated past slashed the Brantford man on the arm. McDonald immediately turned around and swung his stick savagely striking Lalonde across the face and knocking him senseless on the ice. The injured player had to be carried off in an unconscious condition, while the rabble hooted McDonald and decent people called for his arrest. The referee put him out of the game for 15 minutes, and he went off the ice and never came back. Lalonde's penalty was five minutes, but it was after the game before he recovered consciousness. The game finished short handed, which seemed to benefit the visitors, who were more dangerous when the ice was less densely populated.

Keene Trimmed Hastings Team

Special to The Review

Keene, Feb. 3—Hastings were defeated by Keene in Keene rink by a score of 10-4, Friday evening. The outcome of the game was never in doubt and it was quite evident from the start that the visitors were not in the same class with Keene.

Keene's line-up was as follows;

Goal—Dean.
Point—Speirs.
Cover—Quinn.
Rover—Newton.
Centre—McCarthy.
Right wing—Short.
Left wing—Walsh.

J. J. Dickson refereed the game, and his work was satisfactory to all concerned. Keene's next game will be with Norwood in Keene rink on February 21st.

DAVE HARTLEY'S FAME SPREADING

Vancouver World Has Item About Local Walker

Dave Hartley's fame is spreading from coast to coast. The following is taken from the Vancouver World of recent date;

Dave Hartley, the Peterborough, Ont., pedestrian has received an invitation from the Missouri Athletic Club of Kansas City to compete in a six-day walking race that will commence on February 24. It will be a twelve-hour a day heel and toe walking match and some of the best walkers in America have been asked to take part. Among them are Weston, of Chicago, and Henderson, of New York. Fifty per cent. of the gross gate receipts will be divided among the first seven men, and the offerings for the other places are as tempting. Hartley is the only Canadian who has been asked to compete and he is seriously considering the proposition.

KNOCKERS LOST TO LAKEFIELD

THE TURF

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Turf Club will be held in the parlors of the City Hotel, Thursday, Feb. 6th, 1908, at 2 p.m. Members act accordingly. By order, Dr. Johnston, President.

Sporting Comment

When the young ladies and the Rough Riders play hockey on Wednesday night a novel and interesting game should take place. The Rough Riders will be attired like Marie Cahill's famous long-skirted chorus in "Marrying Mary," and handicapped to this extent will have their work cut out for them. One of the largest crowds of the season is expected to be in attendance.

The assault by McDonald of Brantford, upon Lalonde of Toronto, in the pro. match in Toronto on Saturday, is entirely inexcusable if reports be true. Such deliberate and brutal work is not only a disgrace to the sport but to common decency as well. McDonald should have been arrested and sentenced to a term in gaol if particulars of the matter as published are true. It is not too late yet for the authorities to investigate with a view of prosecuting McDonald, if what is said concerning his conduct is correct.

Tonight the Tommy Burns-Gunner Moir 10-round championship fight and other interesting moving pictures will be at the Grand Opera house. The reproduction of the fight is said to be that on the real contest for the world's heavyweight honors as fought before the National Sporting Club, London, England. There was much interest in the mill shown by Peterborough fight followers, and doubtless a big audience will take advantage of the opportunity to see the pictures.

John L. Sullivan, on his recent visit to Toronto, gave utterance to some profound truths. He advised all young men to cut out the booze. John is a living witness of the advisability of so doing, for he is for a fatman as fine and gentlemanly a looking man as one would wish to see, and full of the heartiness and sincerity which characterized his conduct in the ring. His fine Bostonian accent, too, suits well his distinguished appearance. He evidently doesn't think that to be democratic necessarily means slovenliness in dress or speech. It was a great victory, his conquest by John Barleycorn, but he made his last charge on his old foe before it was too late, and now he is a model for all fighters in their old age.

HOCKEY

Lindsay plays at Brockville in the Intermediate O.H.A. series to-night. Lindsay's lineup will be:—

Goal—Newton.
Point—Koyl.
Cover-Point—Sullivan.
Left wing—Cotey.
Centre—Taylor.
Rover—Stoddard.
Spare—Lane.

CONSIDERING CHALLENGE.

The B.A.C. are considering the challenge of the Bell Telephone Company and will give their decision shortly.

The Collegiate seven defeated the Business College last night by 6-3.

RUNNING

Tom Longboat, who is scheduled to run a ten-mile exhibition at Boston at an amateur meet on February 13, has disappeared.

"He always does this before a big race," remarked Tom Flanagan. "Every race this summer has found him away, the Lord knows where. When he comes back he says nothing but is always ready for his race. I think he goes back to the reserve and feeds on some Indian running dope."

Claude Pearce, W. F. Cumming and Percy Sellen will pace the Indian who will go out against Alf. Shrubb's time, made on the same track.

CURLING

INVITATIONS RECEIVED.

Secretary R. M. Waddell of the Peterborough Curling Club, has received invitations from the clubs at Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls, to send rinks to these towns for friendly games. The two northern clubs express regret at the loss of the Peterborough rink by fire and urging that their invitations be accepted.

The receipts of Middlesex County for 1907 were $219,307.95, and expenditures, $208,76.2[illegible].

DICTATOR IS REMOVED

Portuguese Cabinet Has Been Entirely Reconstructed.

King Manuel Promises to Be Popular Monarch—Lisbon Is Excited But There Is No Disorder—British and Spanish Cruisers Sail For the Tagus —Arrangements For the Funerals of the King and His Son.

Lisbon, Feb. 4.—Portugal yesterday saw the establishment of a new regime. Premier Franco has resigned office, and within 48 hours of the assassination of King Carlos his dictatorship is at an end, at least for the present. Franco resigned for fear that his continuance in office would plunge the country into rebellion.

A new Cabinet has been formed under the presidency of Rear-Admiral Do Amaral, a member of the Progressive-Dissident party. Some of the new Ministers have been notably opposed to the rule of Franco, but on the whole the present Cabinet is Liberal, with monarchical tendencies.

The opening session of the new council was held yesterday, and King Manuel II. placed himself in the hands of his Ministers. He appeared before them and in a voice shaking with emotion said:

"I am without experience either in science or politics. I place myself entirely in your hands, needing and believing in your patriotism and wisdom."

Arrests are being made by the wholesale in Lisbon and all suspicious persons at liberty are under police surveillance.

Up to last evening there had been no recurrence of disorders. The Portuguese frontier is being closely guarded to prevent the escape of suspects.

The city is still in the throes of intense excitement and the authorities continue to follow unceasingly the details of the plot which culminated in the assassination of the King and heir.

It was established yesterday that Buice, one of the regicides, is a widower, with a daughter aged 7 and a son only a few months old.

The newspaper Noticias says one of the regicides who was killed was a Spaniard who was taken into custody recently in connection with the discovery of a depot of bombs, but was later released.

One of the men now under arrest is an Italian who played in the orchestra of a theatre in Lisbon. This man is in extreme condition of hysteria. His food in the prison is served him without knives or forks for fear that he will kill himself.

The principal regicide killed has been identified as Manuel Bulea, a sergeant in the Seventh Cavalry and a private tutor in this city. He is about 30 years old. The two other assassins who were killed are believed to be Portuguese.

London, Feb. 4.—It has been rumored for some time past that Great Britain proposed to interfere to restore quiet in Portugal. As a friend of Portugal, Great Britain has been using her moral influence to end the unsettled state of affairs in that country, and will continue to do so, but as for any interference in the internal affairs of Portugal, that is out of the question.

The Foreign Office has confidence that Portugal herself will be able to restore order. The British Atlantic fleet, which is now at Vigo, was to have visited Lisbon this week. To avoid the appearance that the British Government is attempting to interfere in Portuguese politics, only the British flagship, the battleship Exmouth, with Vice-Admiral Sir Ashton G. Curzon-Rowe on board, and one cruiser will go to the Tagus.

The tragedy had a depressing effect upon several national securities. Spanish and Russian shares weakening as well as Portuguese. Portuguese 3 per cents., which were quoted Saturday at 63, slumped yesterday to 60.

Madrid, Feb. 4.—The despatch of a cruiser to Lisbon is explained by the statement that the warship is to be put at the disposition of the Spanish Minister.

The Lisbon correspondent of The Imperial says that when the Dowager Maria Pia arrived at the arsenal the doctors were bathing the faces of the King and the crown prince. The Queen threw herself upon the body of her son, the King, and the doctors were obliged to remove her by force. When the Queen arose her robe was crimsoned with blood; then she swooned.

All travelers crossing the Portuguese frontier are being subjected to a rigorous examination.

On the evening of the assassination no bugles were sounded in the barracks of Lisbon, for fear that their notes would be taken as a signal that the Government had been overthrown.

Advices received here from Hueleva say that Portuguese families are taking refuge in great numbers on the islands of Christina and Ayamonte, a Spanish town on the Portuguese frontier.

Public opinion at Oporto holds Franco responsible for the assassinations.

Deliberately Planned.

The investigations of the police show that the murders were carefully planned. On Saturday the assassins met secretly in the back room of a cafe and there laid out every step of the plot which they were enabled to do, as all the details relating to the home-coming of the King had been made public. To each was assigned a post in the work of shooting down the members of the royal family, but lots were drawn for the selection of each particular victim. Those who drew Queen Amelie and Prince Manuel failed to carry out their bloody task.

The chamber in the palace where repose the bodies of King Carlos and the crown prince has been draped in mourning and arranged to represent a chapel. The biers are surrounded by lighted candles, and Queen Amelie, widow of the King and the Dowager Queen Maria Pia, his mother, watch continually at the side of their dead.

The body of the King is clad in the uniform of the commander of the army, while the prince wears a uniform of a captain of the Second Lancers. Several masses for the repose of the souls of the departed have been said in the mortuary chamber.

Funerals on Saturday.

The funerals will be held Feb. 8, and the bodies will lie in state probably beginning to-day. It is expected that the funerals will be attended by the Prince of Wales, Prince Charles of Bourbon, the Duke of Aosta, the cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, a special French embassy, and detachments of the foreign regiments of which the late King was honorary colonel. The condition of Queen Amelie, contrary to rumors, is relatively good.

NO IRISH COUNCIL BILL.

Earl of Dudley Creates Sensation In House of Lords.

London Feb. 4.—All doubt that the Government is planning the introduction looking to Home Rule for Ireland in the present session of Parliament was set at rest yesterday when Herbert H. Asquith, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared on behalf of the Premier that the Government had no intention of re-introducing the Irish Council Bill.

The Earl of Dudley, Conservative, who was Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland in Mr. Balfour's Ministry, 1902-05, created somewhat of a sensation among the Unionist benches of the House of Lords this evening by disassociating himself entirely with the policy of coercion in Ireland. He advocated opposition. The leaders of the present Liberal Government, the Earl of Dudley said, were not going far enough in their conciliatory methods to please him. The policy of coercion cut at the root of all true union between England and Ireland; it would mean war to the knife, and in the long run it would make the Government of Ireland impossible.

The only real solution of the Irish question, the speaker continued, was to be found in the prompt and consistent remedying of the admitted grievances, and such a policy would gain the adherence and support of a majority of the people. At the conclusion of his remarks the Earl of Dudley was cheered heartily by the supporters of the Government.

Referring to the same subject in the House of Commons, Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, refused definitely to put the Crimes Act into operation. He said he loathed boycotting, but, believing the disturbances in Ireland to be due to removable causes, the Government proposed to continue its policy of trying to gain the good will of the Irish people. The reason of the cattle raiding and other crimes was disappointed hopes, Mr. Birrell said, and he expressed the opinion that there never would be peace and contentment in Ireland until the untenanted lands had been divided among the people. The Government wanted compulsory powers to break up the untenanted lands, and as a matter of fact the landlords were tumbling over each other in their desire to sell, but they were holding out for unreasonably high prices.

INSANE HUSBAND'S CRIME.

Kills His Wife and Goes In Scant Attire to Tell Neighbors.

London, Ont., Feb. 4.—James Hartwick, of Cobblehill, ten miles north of here, was brought to the city last night charged with the murder of his wife.

The tragedy was enacted some time on Sunday, the alleged slayer being an old man who has resided in the district for some time and is considered weak mentally.

Some time on Sunday when the storm was at its height, the family of Mr. Day, a neighbor, were surprised to see Hartwick enter their yard and shortly after appear at their door. He was attired only in an undershirt, trousers and pair of ragged socks.

After he got warm he was urged to go home but refused, saying: "I cannot go to bed because there is blood in it."

No attention was paid to this, but later it was thought well to investigate, and Constable Fairclough of Thorndale went to the house and found Mrs. Hartwick dead on the bed, her body frightfully slashed.

Monaca, Pa., Feb. 4.—Three foreigners were killed and six others seriously injured yesterday when the boilers in the Welch Brick Plant exploded. It is supposed frozen water pipes caused the accident.

The Exhibition of Pictures At the Old Bank of Montreal

The exhibition of pictures under the auspices of the Peterborough branch of the Women's Art Association, now being held in the old Bank of Montreal, is exceptionally good. Many of the pictures are of a very high order of merit and the association is to be heartily thanked for its efforts to raise the standard of our local artistic taste. Chief amongst the colours are No. 55, which is a cabin scene by Briet; "Cooking Soup," by Johann Weiland, and "Autumn" by Westbeek. Of the pastelles "Dutch Courtship," by Slinton, "The Mother and Child," and "The Spinners," by the same are really beautiful. There are no oils. Etchings however, in considerable number and of an attractive character. Those by Israels are probably the best. He is one of the most celebrated of modern etchers. Two etchings by Veldheer are revivals of the famous school of Rembrandt. No. 1, by Banes, has an eastern subject and is of especial artistic value. Tea is served each afternoon at 4 o'clock. The exhibition is open from 10 to 12 each morning and from 2 to 4 p.m., and on Friday evening. Visitors however, are recommended to attend in the day time when the light is at its best. The monetary value of some of the numbers is considerable.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, who ably acted as chairman, made some graceful and appropriate remarks. He congratulated the local branch of the association in securing such a splendid exhibition. He had much pleasure in introducing Mrs. Digman, the speaker of the evening. She was a woman who was largely instrumental in developing a taste for art in Canada and as president of the association for Canada had done a noble work.

Mrs. Digman in her address spoke of the work of the Art Association and of the enterprise in bringing the pictures from Holland. They were easily the best of any ever brought out to this country. The Dutch are leaders in the art of painting. The Scotch are regarded as coming next, but the distinctive feature of Dutch art is the fact that all the pictures harmonize, there being no unharmonious contrast when they are displayed together.

Twenty-one years ago on a small scale the movement of starting the association was begun. Now flourishing branches are established in every province in Canada. The Dominion Association works in affiliation with those in England, Europe and the States.

In the course of her remarks Mrs. Digman brought many interesting out concerning the association and the work it was performing.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Montizambert, manager of the Bank of Montreal, for the use of the premises and also to Mrs. Digman, for her splendid address.

Will Peterborough Revert To Ward System of Election?

That the City of Peterborough will soon revert to the system of electing its aldermen by wards, was the statement made at last night's meeting of the City Council by Ald. Morgan. The discussion arose over the clause in the city's legislation to limit the number of aldermen to twelve. Ald. Morgan said that it might be advisable to have the clause read, "Twelve or less," as if the ward system was reverted twelve might not be found to be a suitable number. He believed that it would not be long before Peterborough went back to the ward system of electing its aldermen. The majority of the people were already in favor of it, and the opinion was growing that the old system was preferable to that now in force.

The matter was not taken up by the council owing to lack of time but there is little doubt but that the question will come to the fore prominently in the near future.

LIGHTS OUT SEVERAL HOURS THIS MORNING

People on Otonabee Power Were in Darkness

Those persons who were up very late last night, and who have their homes lighted by the Otonabee Power Co., were obliged to sit in darkness for several hours. The power was shut off from half-past twelve until after three o'clock. A reel was being raised at the power house, thus necessitating the closing down for a while. Fortunately it happened at a time when least inconvenience would be caused to users of the Otonabee light.

A similar incident occurred this morning, causing a slight delay to some patrons.

The Young People's Service at Park St.

Young People's service at the Park street Baptist church last night was well attended. In the absence of the president, Mr. H. Lincoln Brace took the chair. Miss Viola Booth read a very practical paper on the subject of the evening, "The Real Heart of Our Society."

The pastor took part and two other contributions made an enjoyable season.

"Roll call" with the usual responses, followed the monthly offering, and the "Maspah" Benediction brought the interesting meeting to a close.

Governor-General Will Not be Here

For First of July Demonstration—Committee Met Last Evening

The First of July demonstration committee of the Sons of England, met last evening in their hall, Hunter street, and transacted business. The advertising and programme committees were appointed and will commence at once to draw up the programme for the day. Nothing will be left undone to make the first of July celebration the best that has ever been seen in Peterborough. The Governor-General of Canada, who was invited to be present, has sent his regrets that he will be unable to be here. However, the Lieut.-Governor of Ontario, and several other prominent men, have signified their intention to be present on that day.

Word has also been received from the S.O.E. Societies of Deseronto, Belleville, Campbellford, Barrie, Orono, and other places that they will come here and participate in the celebration.

Another meeting of the committee will be held in a couple of weeks.

Mr. E. B. Stone Passes Away in California

Former Peterborough Lawyer's Death Will be Greatly Regretted

News was received in the city today of the death of Mr. E. B. Stone, a former well known lawyer, who practiced law here for about ten years. He left about five years ago. After leaving here he went to London, and from there to the West, where he went into ranching. About a year and a half ago his health failed and he went to Southern California. He died there last Thursday and his remains are expected here on Saturday for burial.

For many years Mr. Stone was prominent in both legal and political circles. He was a Liberal in politics and while here was the champion of the Equal Rights movement.

He had a large number of friends in Peterborough and his death will be greatly regretted.

'TWAS AS COLD AS ANY DAY YET

Government Thermometer Registered 29 Degrees Below This Morning

Oh, but 'twas cold!

Ears and nose were nipped by the frost as Peterborough people hurried to work this morning. The coldest day of the season was the impression of everyone, but the Government thermometer said nay. At least it was no colder than one day last week. The local weather man states that the mercury stood at 29 below this morning, which was also the point where it halted on its downward march on Thursday of last week. Yesterday was comparatively mild, but about midnight the mercury started to go down, and hustled along the glass shute until it reached the 29 point.

Driver Crowe of the Warsaw Stage Makes Slow Time Owing to Drifted Roads

For the first time since Friday the Warsaw stage passed through Douro on its way to Peterborough at noon today. Owing to the blockaded condition of the roads the stage has been unable to make the trip before.

Driver Crowe with his team and luggage left Warsaw at eight o'clock this morning and it took him four hours to make Douro. He had to shovel his way through, and this accounts for the slow time made. The distance from Warsaw to Douro is five miles.

Lumberman Meets With Bad Accident

Fingers Doubled Back Until Palm Burst Through Flesh

Mr. Ed. Robertson, foreman in one of Laking's camps, at Haliburton, met with an extremely painful accident on Friday afternoon last. While assisting the top loaders to put a log up to a higher position was caught unawares, but a sudden turn of the log coming back in such a way as to double all his fingers on his right hand backward over top of his wrist until two joints near the palm burst through flesh and skin leaving bones and sinews exposed and sticking out. Fortunately, Mr. Davis, manager, arrived at the camp a few minutes later, and drove the patient to the village where Drs. Giles and Scady replaced the fingers and dressed the wounds.

Mr. Robertson is improving favorably and unless blood-poisoning sets in he will be around again in a week or two. It is needless to say that he reports the pain almost unbearable.

Spent Night Under Sleigh

Belleville, Feb. 3.—Francis Weese, of Consecon, Prince Edward county, left Trenton with a sleigh and two horses on Friday night last to drive across the bay to his home. The night was a terrible one, with wind and snow. On Saturday morning one of the horses turned up at home and a rescur party went out. Weese was found under his sleigh in the middle of the bay. Snow was piled up all around the sleigh, and the unfortunate man was so badly frost-bitten that doctors say now he cannot live. He had unhitched the horses and then wrapped himself in robes and lay down. He is nearly 70 years old.

AMUSEMENTS

BIG SHAKESPEARIAN REVIVAL

Mr. Ernest Shipman, the well known New York theatrical manager, who at present is making a flying visit to Toronto, has just signed contracts with Laura Burt and Henry Stanford, two of his stars, who appeared last week at the Grand here, in "The Walls of Jerico," for a spring tour of Shakespearean repertoire. The plays selected are "Romeo and Juliet," "Taming of the Shrew," and "As You Like It," Miss Burt will be cast as Juliet, Katharine and Rosalind, in the respective plays, while Mr. Stanford, who has an enviable international reputation in Shakespearian roles, will play Romeo, Petruchio and Orlando.

The contracts were executed at the King Edward Hotel, where the parties are staying, last Friday evening. In an interview today Mr. Shipman stated that the itinerary would include the principle cities and towns and that no expense would be spared to make the production a metropolitan one.

Mr. Stanford and Miss Burt should do splendid work in Shakespearian repertoire. They made an excellent impression when seen here in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," and "The Walls of Jerico."

Mrs. Roberta Geddes-Harvey, whose oratorio, "Salvator"—believed to be the first written and published by a Canadian—we have great pleasure in reviewing, was born in the city of Hamilton. Her father was James Geddes, a brother of Dean Geddes who was rector of Christ Church Cathedral for many years. In 1902 an opera, "La Terre Bonne," the music of which was her work, achieved considerable success. Many other songs, duets, anthems and choruses by Mrs. Harvey, were published, but the crowning success has been reached in her oratorio, "Salvator." This work was given, before publication, in St. Georges' church, Guelph, and is to be given on December 3rd in Chalmers church, Toronto, under the direction of Edmund Hardy, Mus. Bac.

Mrs. Geddes-Harvey is a niece of Mrs. George A. Smith, of Bobcaygeon.

Many Visitors to Restaurant

More People Than Yesterday Apply for Soup at Relief Restaurant

There seems no doubt that Mr. E. L. Goodwill's plan of establishing a relief restaurant in the city is one that is certain to fill a want that has been long felt in Peterborough. Yesterday there were thirty-two peoples who were given soup at the restaurant, which is situated at 224 Stewart street, and today even greater numbers applied for and were given the nourishing and refreshing broth.

The poor in the city are very numerous at present, and it may be necessary to have another restaurant opened. If the demand is great enough such a step will be taken as soon as possible.

Funerals on Sunday Opposed

The Ministerial Association met in Y.M.C.A. parlors on Monday at ten a.m. The following were present; Revs. J. G. Potter, A. H. Brace, Dr. Langfeldt, T. A. Pearson, H. M. Manning, C. H. Coon, Robt. Pogue, Canon Davidson, J. R. Webb, and H. J. Keith. After devotional exercises by the president, communications from the W. C. T. U., were read, referring to a prayer meeting on behalf of temperance. A decision was arrived at to observe the third Wednesday evening in February for that purpose. A communication was also received from the local Children's Aid Society, thanking the association for their contribution of proceeds from the Week of Prayer. The subject of Sabbath funerals was thoroughly discussed. The following resolution regarding it was passed;

"That the Ministerial Association feel it necessary in the interests of religion to strongly discourage the holding of funerals on Sunday, except in cases of absolute necessity and to this end we unite the willing co-operation of citizens generally.

That notice is hereby given that the services of members of the association will not be available for the above purpose unless in the opinion of the president the circumstances of the case justify exceptional treatment."

This resolution is the result of a prolonged deliberation on the part of the different members of the association as well as a result of a conference with the Little Lake Cemetery Company.

DRIVEN MAD AT PUMPS.

Terrible Experience of Crew on Water-Logged Brig Aquila.

Georgetown, P.E.I., Feb. 4.—Capt. Basil Kelly of Summerside and three members of the crew of the shipwrecked brig Aquila arrived at their island homes yesterday from Naples.

The Aquila, lumber laden, left Shelburne, Nov. 30, for New York. She encountered a series of terrific gales one of which sent the Mount Temple on the rocks, and for a week was at the mercy of the winter seas. For five days the crew were exposed to terrible hardships, suffering from cold and hunger. The vessel sprung a leak, the sails were blown to pieces and she became a complete wreck and water-logged. The crew only wanted a favorable opportunity to abandon her. She was then 300 miles southeast of New York, being driven to eastward.

Two steamers passed by without responding to their signals of distress. On Dec. 8, the Italia, from New York to Naples, picked them up, taking them to the latter port. One of the men, exhausted by incessant labor at the pumps and exposure, became violently insane, but subsequently recovered. They sailed from Naples to London, thence to Halifax, arriving there on Friday last.

CHOKED HIS MOTHER.

Queer Crime at Syracuse—Son Says He Was Attacked.

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Early yesterday the police telephone rang and a man who said that he was William H. Gray, Jr., called: "Please come to 441 Burnet avenue. I have killed my mother."

Upon reaching the house the officers found Mrs. Clara Grey, 48 years old, dead from strangulation.

The son, 18 years old, said that he had been sitting reading when his mother called him downstairs. When he reached the lower floor he says his mother made a lunge at him with a razor, inflicting a deep wound on his right arm. In the struggle that followed he says that in attempting to restrain her he grabbed her throat and choked her.

The young man's story is believed by the members of his family and the neighbors, who say that Mrs. Grey was a high-strung woman, prone to hysteria, verging on insanity.

The police differ and regard the case as murder. Young Grey is a member of a prominent family. He is a stenographer and for a few weeks was employed at the City Hall, where he was regarded as erratic.

Undisputed Facts About
Zutoo

Zutoo tablets are now recognized as being without doubt or question, the best and only safe remedy on the market for headaches and colds.

They have practically displaced all other cures, and are now the only one used to any extent.

The reason is doubtless found in this further fact.

Zutoo tablets not only cure headache and colds but, unlike many other remedies, do not affect the heart, nerves or stomach.

45 YEARS SKIN TROUBLE BAFFLED THE DOCTORS

THE FIRST WHITE SETTLER IN PRINCE ALBERT

ZAM-BUK SUCCEEDED

Mr. James Isbester, Teacher, Stoney Reserve, Battleford, Sask., claims the honor of being the first White Settler in Prince Albert, and built the first shanty in June, 1863. This was 45 years ago, and all that time he has been suffering from a skin disease which baffled the doctors. He says: "Zam-Buk cured me of a skin disease of 45 years' standing which no doctor had been able to cure. When I heard of Zam-Buk I carefully followed the instructions, and applied Zam-Buk to my hands before going to bed. The next morning to my surprise my hands looked as if there had been nothing the matter with them. I continued the same treatment to my legs, and the end of the week found the same result. I could scarcely believe myself the cure was so rapid. I became so enthusiastic that I began using Zam-Buk on others, always with the same result. I am thoroughly convinced that no salve can be used on sores that will act as quickly and effectively as Zam-Buk, and, therefore, recommend it to everybody, and would not be without it."

Writing at a later date, he says: "I have tried Zam-Buk on many suffering from skin diseases and it has always proved successful. I have even used it on my "Sore-eyed Indians" and it cured every time."

Should the British House Of Lords be Abolished?

Philomathean Society in Interesting Debate Discussed the Question—Judges Decided in Favor of the Affirmative—Presentation to Miss May Grady—An Excellent Programme.

An interesting meeting of the Philomathean Society of the Collegiate Institute, was held last evening in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, when an exceedingly large number of the friends and relatives of the pupils of the school were in attendance. So large was the audience that many were unable to get a seat and were obliged to stand throughout the evening. Judging from the great interest manifested by the people in these open meetings of the society it is quite evident that a much larger hall will have to be provided to accomodate the immense throngs that gather to hear the pupils of the Collegiate acquit themselves as they always do, most creditably.

Last evening the feature of the programme was the debate, "Resolved that the House of Lords in the British Parliament should be abolished." This important question was dealt with on both sides, in an intelligent and able manner, showing careful preparation and evidencing the fact that the speakers were conversant with the subject under discussion. After the points of the different debaters had been closely considered by the judges, the decision was awarded to the affirmative.

The chairman of the evening was the president of the society, Mr. Michael O'Brien, who in his opening remarks extended a hearty welcome to those present and hoped that they would enjoy the programme to be presented. The object sought for in the Philomathean Society, was to train the pupils in public speaking.

The programme was as follows;

Instrumental Solo—Mr. R. Robertson.

Reading—Miss F. Stone.

Vocal Solo—Mr. Kenneth Shook,

Violin Solo—Miss K. Wattie.

Dialogue—"Bridget's investment," by Misses Mamie Armstrong, Margt. Edwards and Messrs. Merton Adams, Harold Brown and Garnet Rankin.

Selection—Mandolin Club.

Debate—"Resolved that the House of Lords be abolished," Miss Ada Mumms and Mr. Art. Rosboro were for the affirmative; while Miss L. Dean and Mr. C. Lees upheld the negative.

Vocal Duet—Misses Young and Smith.

Recitation—Miss K. Leary.

Reading—Miss Mabel Patterson.

Particular mention must be made of the excellent presentation of the dialogue. Miss Margt. Edwards as the Irish washerwoman played her part exceedingly well as did also the other participants.

During the evening, Mr. H. R. H. presented Miss May Grady with a handsome silver medal, the gift of the late Wm. Pringle, for obtaining the highest marks in penmanship.

The judges were Inspector A. Mowat, Dunlop and R. N. Merritt. Mr. Mowat on behalf of the judges gave the decision and in a few well chosen remarks congratulated the young people on their signal success as orators.

The meeting was then brought to a close with a selection by the Glee Club, and the singing of the National Anthem.

THE SMITH STREET BRIDGE SHOULD BE RE-BUILT AT ONCE

A report on the condition of the Smith street bridge from City Engineer Hay was received at last night's meeting of the City Council. In it the recommendation was made that action should be taken at once towards rebuilding the bridge and that in the meantime that certain repairs should be made. The report was as follows;

Gentlemen—As instructed I have examined Smith street bridge in company with Mr. Evans, street commissioner, and beg to report as follows. The peers appear to be in as good condition as they were last winter at which time they were very considerably strengthened. The east abuttably strengthened. The east abutment requires a new course of timber on top where the superstructure has sunk into it. The bottom chord on the north side of last span alshore end requires to be renewed as well as several main braces and guard rails. The west span shows the tendency to be out of plumb and I would recommend that two gallows frames across the span similar to those on the east span. The estimated cost of these repairs is $275.00, but they will however, require some further expenditure for flooring plank during the season. With careful watching and occasional repair this bridge can be retained for another season but action should be taken at once to provide for rebuilding and permanent material. In the meantime repairs should be made this winter.

T. A. S. HAY,
City Engineer.

The report was referred to the Board of Works.

"JAPAN" SUBJECT OF AN ADDRESS

At Knox Church by Young People's Society

The Young People's Guild of Knox church held a missionary meeting last evening when a large number were present. Mr. D. Campbell occupied the chair and the meeting was opened with devotional exercises. A well rendered vocal solo was given by Miss Ruby Carr, after which an interesting paper on the early history of Japan was read by Miss Hamilton. Miss Telford dealt with Japan's later history and its people as a ruling race. She referred to the splendid progress being made by missionaries in the country of the East.

Next Monday evening a concert and social will be held. A silver collection will be taken.

CONSERVING OF WATERS IS APPRECIATED

City Council Approves Work of Deputy Minister Butler—Importance of Canal

At the meeting of the City Council last night, the following resolution was passed;

It was moved by Ald. Elliott and seconded by Ald. Morgan.

"That the members of the Municipal Council of the City of Peterborough desire to place on record their sincerest appreciation of the manner in which the water in the Trent canal above Peterborough has been regulated and conserved under the direction of the capable Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, Mr. M. J. Butler, C.E., affording as it has, a regular flow at all times, during the year, thereby enabling the various power companies to supply electrical energy to the manufacturers in such a satisfactory manner as to enable them to operate their factories and mills without interruption for want of power.

We also approve of the policy of the department in building new dams and renewing old dams in the Gull river, Burnt river, Mississauga creek and other tributary waters recently taken over from the Ontario Government by the Dominion Government, and we hope that it may be the determination of the department to continue this satisfactory policy of conserving the waters.

We also desire to congratulate the Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals upon having established beyond a doubt that there is sufficient watershed for the Trent canal.

When the water therein is properly conserved, as it has been of late years to afford an ample flow of water during the open season for navigation purposes, and to warrant the Government in adopting the policy of making the Trent canal of sufficient draugh to enable vessels drawing 8 feet 4 inches to navigate thereon, thereby making it possible for barges in use on Lake Ontario to carry coal and other freight direct to the city of Peterborough. We now realize that when the Trent canal is finished through to Georgian Bay, it will prove an important factor in the grain carrying trade from the Northwest to the seaboard.

The resolution carried unanimously and a copy of it will be forwarded to the Department at Ottawa.

WHY NOT?

This question is being pretty freely asked "Why is it that the Liberals don't hold their convention." The answer is plain. No one wants the job. Mr. Whitney is unassailable except perhaps in some trifling respects and these may be said fairly to be matters of opinion but as for Sir Wilfrid, the prospect is enough to dismay the boldest. It is whispered also that there is a little of "that spirit of dissention which will not lay" in it too. The Liberal party, especially in Peterborough, has very many fine conscientious, capable men in it, but the more conscientious they are the less they care about the job."

A BAD CASE

The chief organ of the Liberal party has returned to the Japanese question and implores the people of Canada to consider it in its true light, viz:—A valiant attempt on the part of the Laurier administration to help out poor old England in her alliance with Japan. But a reading of the Anglo-Japanese treaty made in 1894 discloses a singular provision.

Japan and Great Britain are to be on terms of perfect equality in every way, commercial as well as racial. This provision was all very well for England, who in any event must be considered capable of attending to her own affairs. There was never at any time danger of immigration in large numbers of Orientals into England. A child could see that. But in the case of Canada it was different. So England expressly excepted Canada from the treaty unless she should ask voluntarily to come in. For several years Canada gave no sign of asking to be let in, when suddenly at or about the date of origin of the great G.T.P. private ownership scheme, Canada changes her mind and applies for admission. Then foreseeing the danger of such a request Great Britain deliberately warned Laurier to adopt some measure of protection such as the Natal Act, which would protect Canada without offending the Japanese. But no. Laurier did not want to exclude any Japanese. He wanted the ignorant Japanese laborer — the more ignorant the cheaper and the better. Therefore he ignored England's warning and Canada was admitted to treaty rights. Under what pretence can any paper assert then that it was loyalty to England that induced Laurier to do as he has done? It was loyalty to the millionaires who controlled the G.T.P., and now control Canada, that moved him to open our western gates to the oriental deluge.

But still another exposure awaited the infamous transaction. We had participated in a treaty with Japan that showed us more loyal to Japan than to England. Whilst we could exclude undesirables from Great Britain we could no longer do so from Japan. All might come and were welcomed—by Laurier and the G. T. P. Does any sane man believe Laurier was so stupid as not to see all this? The U. S. had protected itself and thoroughly. Canada alone of all the mighty host remained childlike and unprotected. Then the deluge began. Preston was in Japan and the eastern-ers turned up in thousands in British Columbia. But the conspirators against the well-being of our beloved country were met by the anger of an outraged people. In hot haste word was sent to Preston to hold back further cargoes. Senator Cox at Calgary protested, but Canadians had become aroused. The deluge suddenly ceased. The forty days were up. But Japan was offended. At what? We had broken our pledges. So we had. Then Lemieux was sent across the broad Pacific. One day word would come that all was well. He had succeeded in undoing what Laurier had done under a pretence of loyalty. The next day all was not so well and so it went until the end of the whole miserable humbug arrived and we find that Japan has agreed to moderate immigration so far as the dignity of Japan as a state and of her people as a great nation will permit. However in the meantime whatever may be in store for us in the future, we like our foot-ashamed are still a white nation and intend, the G.T.P. and Mr. Laurier, notwithstanding, to remain so. Since the G.T.P. contracts were signed wages had increased. This striking circumstance was the sole and only cause of the whole trouble.

THE CASE OF PORTUGAL

When Ontario found itself in the hands of the spoilers it proceeded quietly to "turn the rascals out." At one time it did look as if ballot-box stuffing, ballot-burning and the like would relieve the electorate of having any hand in the making of laws. The Portugese premier has tried the same high-handed methods. However he has some excuse for he apparently aims to do away with graft but the Ross Government had not even this pretence. The trouble in Portugal could have been settled by constitutional means. National troubles cannot be settled in any other way. It shows a poor knowledge of history on Franco's part that he should have fallen on such evil ways.

At Ottawa, we have the same general prevalence of graft as in Portugal and it is no doubt just as infuriating to the Canadian public who sees itself the victim of robbers and tricksters—enterprising men of business, they call themselves. In Turpin's day highwaymen were called road-agents, also. This difference between Portugal and Canada is, however, again apparent. Anarchy has pursued anarchy and the monarchy has come near to falling. Canadians, however, will bide their time relying upon Mr. Borden to unearth the frauds. But the end will come just as assuredly as in Portugal. It is a mistake even for Liberal politicans to be too liberal and at the same time so grasping.

THE PARK ST. DRAIN

Ald. Johnston is anxious that the Council of the Township of North Monaghan should meet the City Council with reference to the Park street drain, which has a habit of choking up at the mouth and throwing the drainage back. The Aylmer street drain north of McDonnel street needs a new covering, he thinks. No doubt these things will be attended to by Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works, in due time. The drains are not doing much this weather, anyhow. Drains, however, when acting badly, are likely to do damage both to health and property, if not promptly attended to. The Park street drain has been a source of trouble for many years. If anybody can straighten out the difficulty the chairman of the Board of Works can, but it is no easy task.

EDITORIAL NOTES

From the News—"Mr. T. C. Robinette says the Reform party has carried on a campaign of education. "In what?" may we ask, as we think for a moment of the London election case."

And so it is. The poet has said that "Great wit to madness is allied."

The City Council of 1908 impresses a stranger very favorably. There is a briskness and businesslike air about it that is refreshing and means well for the affairs of Peterborough during the coming year. Talk is at a discount and work as it should be at a premium. This Board of Trade is under Dr. Morrison fulfilling its true function of educating the people in municipal affairs. The water commissioners evidently understand their business also. This city is fortunate.

W. H. Moore, K.C., gave a very learned and thoughtful paper on municipal government by commission before the Board of Trade at its last meeting. As usual with Mr. Moore, it was a distinct contribution to the literature of the question. Although government by commission has much to recommend it we are not so sure but that it is good for citizens and therefore for the character and quality of our citizenship that the present system should continue to prevail. It is possible to reduce everything to business even religion, physically speaking, but there's the rub. What sort of a religious tone would there be in the world after a twelve-month of religion by commission.

Ald. Morgan took a decided stand at the City Council meeting last night against putting in the city's bill shortly to go before the House in Toronto, any reference to the Colonial Weaving Co's. proposed free site. He argued that since the company had done nothing on its part there was no obligation on the part of the city to do anything either. It was urged against this view chiefly by Ald. Neil and Ald. Tovey that it was better for the city to go on with its programme and then if necessary it could collect from the company in the event of the negotiations coming to nothing. There is merit in both contentions. While business concerns should be encouraged to the greatest extent possible if we are to grow and become a large city, yet the city must not be trifled with or no end of trouble and expense may ensue.

NEW WAY TO BE WELL

Healthfulness of Oranges.

The one lesson which most people never seem to learn is, how to guard their health.

We have been eating oranges since time immemorial, yet how many of us know that orange juice contains a medicinal principle which has a marked action on the stomach, bowels, kidneys and skin. Some physicians go so far as to say that they can cure the average case of Indigestion, Constipation, Billiousness and Dry Skin with orange juice and proper diet.

This can be easily proved to the satisfaction of any sufferer. Take the juice of one or two oranges every morning before breakfast, take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" every night at bed-time, exercise a reasonable care in diet, and the proof will be found in health.

The cure will be greatly assisted and hastened by taking "Fruit-a-tives" in conjunction with the orange juice. "Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in which the medicinal principle of oranges, apples, figs and prunes are many times increased by the special way in which they are combined. Then tonics are added and the whole made into tablets. "Fruit-a-tives" may be obtained at all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price—50c a box—6 for $2.50. "Fruit-a-tives," Limited, Ottawa.

CHAIRMEN ARE GIVEN FULL POWER BY MAYOR

The chairmen of the different civic committees are being given full swing this year. Mayor Rush made this clear at the meeting of the City Council last night, when he stated that he did not intend interfering with the work that fell to their lot.

"I'll help them with any advice it may be in my power to offer," said his Worship, "but I do not intend trying to dictate to them. I shall hold the chairmen responsible for the performance of their duties."

DEPUTATION HAS BEEN SELECTED

Will Present City's Legislation to the Ontario Legislature

Ald. Elliott, chairman of the Legal and Legislative Committee; Ald. Phelan, Mayor Rush and City Solicitor Hall will constitute the deputation to go to Toronto to present the city's legislation to the Ontario Legislature. They were selected at last night's meeting of the City Council, and will likely have to go to Toronto within the next two or three weeks. The deputation is composed of good men and should be able to get what the city is after.

AMUSEMENTS

A MESSAGE FROM MARS

Local theatregoers well remember the beautiful comedy "A Message From Mars," which was presented here some time ago when it made probably the most lasting impression of any comedy that had up to that time been seen in this city for several years. It will also be remembered that it was one of the most humorous comedies, likewise the brightest and most wholesome together with its serious side in dealing with a great moral problem—a kind of a cure—against the crime of extreme selfishness. This play will again be presented at the Grand Opera House next Thursday, Feb. 6th.

There are in the company that is soon to appear some of the same players who were here before, all of whom had been in the original London and New York productions. Many of them are English players and all recognized as competent and thorough. The seat sale is now open at the box office.

Application That Caused Merriment

Practical Joker Sends Unique Communication to the City Council

Some practical joker has been having some fun with the City Council. He has made application for the position of assessor and his application is certainly a unique one. It was signed by the name of a well-known citizen, but it is needless to add that the gentleman whose name was on the application knew nothing about it. The following was the application read at the meeting of the City Council last night. It was the cause of considerable merriment:—

Mr. S. R. Armstrong,
City Clerk.

Dear Sir,—I see by the papers you are advertising for an assessor and I therefore make formal application for the position. As you are aware, I have been a resident of the town for nigh unto two hundred years, and during that time I have paid thousands of dollars in taxes and Police Court fines. I am now out of a job and as I never got anything in return for this money, I hope you will give me the vacant bit. I am willing to carry my own books and ink bottle and do the work without bother of a helper, who would incur great danger of being run over by the street cars during our perambulations over the town. I am a hard shell Baptist but would be willing in order to secure the job, to join any other church. The salary is not so much my object but strenuous work and a chance to equalize the assessment which is like the rocky roads to Dublin, mighty uneven.

SUDDEN DEATH

A great shock was given to the residents of the town, and especially the C.P.R. employees, by the death of Mr. Wm. Montgomery, of Toronto, formerly a fitter in the C.P.R. shops here, who was found dead in his bed at the Armstrong House, on Tuesday night at ten o'clock.

The deceased, who was a son of Mr. Dan Montgomery, of Toronto Junction, was not feeling very well and retired to bed early. His father, who rooms next to him, went into his room about ten o'clock and found his son lying dead on the bed, evidently the result of heart failure.

Mr. Montgomery, during his sojourn here, formed many friends, who will greatly grieve over the death of this young man in the prime of life and who seemed to have a promising future in store for him.

The remains were taken to his home in Toronto by the four o'clock train, and the funeral will take place there on Friday.

Mr. Dan Montgomery has the sincere sympathy of his sons' many friends residing in this town, and who will attend in a body the funeral, to pay their last tribute to one whom they will always remember.

HAVELOCK TO TAKE VOTE ON FEBRUARY 24

On By-law to Increase Hotel License Fees From $250 to $750—Much Interest Aroused

Special to the Review.

Havelock, Feb. 4.—Havelock seemed to be sorry when they did not vote on local option at the municipal elections this year, while several of the surrounding municipalities, including Norwood, Asphodel and Campbellford voted on it, and got it.

On January 24th Mr. R. J. Graham, of town, presented a petition, signed by himself and 89 other ratepayers to the council, asking that body to submit a by-law to the electors to raise the fee for hotel licenses to $500 more than the present fee, or more. The present fee for hotel licenses is $250, so if the by-law carries it will be raised to $750.

The council could do nothing else but to submit to the wishes of the people, so, on motion of Messrs. Campney and Wood, it was decided to submit a bylaw to the ratepayers.

On January 25th the council met at the clerks' office and By-law No. 236, to raise the license, was read a first and second time.

Richard Philips was appointed deputy returning officer, and Fred. Bennett poll clerk for polling division No. 1, and in division No. 2 H. T. Andrews was appointed deputy returning officer, and C. H. Brewster poll clerk.

The by-law was published for the first time in the Standard on January 28th.

It was decided that a vote of the electors be taken on the by-law on Monday, Feb. 24th.

There are three hotels in town, the Armstrong House, Dineen House and McNicholl House. The licenses run out on May 1st, and if they want to secure them for the next year they must pay $750.

One of the hotelkeepers interested, when seen, said that he would not pay such a high license and that he would shut his house up if the by-law carried. Applications for licenses has to be made before April 1st.

If all the hotel keepers do what this one says he will do, Havelock will go dry on May 1st.

Drifts of Snow Extend for Miles

Mr. F. D. Kerr Tells Toronto Paper About the Storm at Peterboro'

The Star had a conversation yesterday morning with Mr. F. D. Kerr of the firm of Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr, of Peterborough, and learned of the antics the snow king has been playing east of Toronto.

"The drifts along the railway lines are awful," said Mr. Kerr. "Most of them are six feet deep or over, and extend for miles."

He then went on to give a sample of the way the railways have been hit.

"The C.P.R. train for Montreal that left Toronto at 10 o'clock Saturday night was passed at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon, twenty miles this side of Peterborough," he said.

"The train from Montreal that should have arrived in Toronto at 7 in the morning got in at 6 o'clock last night."

At Peterborough the passengers were given breakfast and dinner together at noon hour.

At five o'clock yesterday morning the passengers on the Montreal train were wakened up by the Pullman porter at Sharbot Lake.

"Better have some coffee," said the porter. "It's five o'clock, we're stuck in a drift and don't know when we will get out of it."

All the passengers, said Mr. Kerr, were warm in their praise of all the company did to help them while they were stranded.—Toronto Star.

Messrs. T. B. McGrath and R. F. McGregor Appointed Assessors

Former Has Been Assessor for Seventeen Years—Nine Applicants for the Two Positions.

Messrs. T. B. McGrath and R. F. McGregor have been appointed assessors for Peterborough for 1908. They were selected out of nine applicants at the meeting of the City Council last night. The appointment was made in committee of the whole, and afterwards confirmed in regular session.

Mr McGrath has been one of the assessors for the past seventeen years and his fitness for the position is unquestioned. Mr. McGregor is a new man for the assessorship, but he is well qualified for the duties. The two assessors will work together, instead of separately, as was the case last year.

The applicants for the assessorship were as follows;—Messrs. T. B. McGrath, R. F. McGregor, Dawson Kennedy, H Carveth, J. P. Bryson, W. A. Bell W. Aldridge, W. H. Thompson L D Letellier.

It was moved by Ald. Morgan, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the assessors be appointed by open vote.

Ald Johnston moved in amendment, that they be appointed by ballot. Ald Phelan seconded the motion.

The amendment carried after a short discussion as to the legality of appointing an official by ballot. It was pointed out that the Act on this point states that it is not legal for the council to appoint an official by ballot, but this did not apply to the council in committee of the whole.

The vote was then taken and resulted as follows;—McGrath 11, McGregor 7, Kennedy 1, Letellier 1, Bryson 1, Aldridge 1.

A POOR COMPLIMENT TO CANADIAN SOLDIERS

Under the above heading appears the following extract from the Canadian Military Gazette of Jan. 28th;—"The Weekly Times of December 6th contains the following order promulgated by the Army Council. 'The Army Council has decided that an officer or soldier of the Imperial Forces, regular or auxiliary, may not wear in uniform a badge or decoration authorized by a colonial government.'"

The Gazette observes that "This appears to be little less if at all less than an affront to the standing of the colonies and the intelligence of their people. By this order as we understand it, Imperial officers or soldiers will be prohibited from wearing the medals given for the Fenian Raid, the Red River Expedition and the Northwest Rebellion in Canada, and the Matabelle war, for example in South Africa. It seems more than hard that the recognition accorded in these troubles, troubles of surely Imperial as well as of colonial concern should be treated in this contemptuous manner while every little brush in the bush in west or east Africa, and in many other parts of the Empire, where self-government is unknown, should be recognized and rewarded."

These are strong words of the Gazette, and as it will be noticed that the date of the Times from which the extract is taken is that of Dec. 6th, plenty of time has been allowed for correction and reflection. We must suppose that the order has not been promulgated without some good reason although at first sight it looks pretty much as the Gazette was observed.

RETIRES AFTER MANY YEARS OF SERVICE

Mr. John Londry, G. T. R. Flag Man at Brock St. is Pensioned

After many years of service in the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway Company. Mr. John Londry, the genial gateman at the Brock street crossing, is retiring. Mr. Londry left his post of duty on Saturday night and will spend his remaining days in quiet retirement around the city. He has been a faithful official and was very popular with all the trainmen. He was always vigilant and never gave cause for complaint. Previous to his taking the position at Brock street, he had charge of a semphore in East City, where the G.T.R. and C.P.R. lines crossed.

When a G.T.R. employee reaches the age of sixty-five he is either pensioned or allowed to continue in the service for five years as flagman, or in some other such work. Mr. Londry has reached the advanced age of seventy years, and retires for a well earned rest. He receives a pension of two hundred dollars per annum.

Fire Broke Out in Powder Factory And Terriffic Explosion Followed

Thousands of Dollars Damage Done at Tweed This Morning and the Country Shaken for Miles Around—Plate Glass Broken in Windows in Town—Shock Was Felt in Towns Forty Miles Away—Employees Fled for Their Lives.

Special to The Review

Tweed, Feb. 4th—With a concussion that shook the country for miles around, hundreds of pounds of nitroglycerine stored at the plant of the Ontario Dynamite Company, about three quarters of a mile from the town, exploded this morning, causing thousands of dollars woth of damage. The factory of the company first caught fire and as the building was licked up the flames came in contact with the nitro-glycerine and powder and a terrific explosion followed. The country was shaken for miles around and in the town and the immediate district the earth trembled as if a violent earthquake was in progress.

No one was injured as the employees of the factory fled from the premises when the fire broke out, knowing what would follow when the fire reached the explosives.

The plant of the Powder Company is located about three quarters of a mile east of Tweed village and a short distance from the Canadian Pacific railway tracks. The fire broke out shortly after operations had been commenced in the morning. About thirty men were employed at the factory and once it was seen that the flames could not be checked they fled from the premises with all haste. They knew what was going to happen. They knew that in the building were stored hundreds of pounds of nitro-glyceirne and powder and that when the fire reached these explosives there would be little left for the fire to consume. About 7.45 o'clock the explosion came. It lasted fo nearly a minute but in that time the destruction was almost beyond comprehension. The building was blown to atoms and the ground was torn up and thrown high into the air. Huge bits of the debris were hurled long distances and big timbers were torn into matchwood.

When the explosion occurred the earth trembled violently and in the town of Tweed hundreds of panes of glass were boken in residences and places of business.

Over twenty plate-glasses were cracked or completely smashed by falling from the windows out on to the street. As soon as the fire broke out at the factory word had been sent to the town and the residents were somewhat prepared for the shock that followed. Consternation ruled for a time but the concussion was soon over and fortunately no one was injured.

HEARD MILES AWAY.

So tremendous was the explosion that the shock was felt in Napanee, Deseronto, and the towns along the lake-front fifty miles away. The shock in these places was like that of an earthquake.

The main building of the Powder Company's plant was 50 feetx24 feet and around it were several other smaller buildings used for storage purposes. These were completely wrecked. The head office of the company is at Kingston.

The loss is estimated at about $25,000.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

This afternoon the Review received the following G.N.W. telegraph despatch from the scene of the wreck:

Tweed, Ont., Feb. 4—The nitrator building of the Ontario Powder Company's plant here blew up at 7.30 this morning.

The building took fire and the men ran and therefore escaped before the explosion. The other buildings were badly shattered. The company's loss will reach over $25,000. Damage to the extent of $1,000 was done to plate and other glass in the town.

The glass in buildings five miles out in the country was broken and the shock was felt 25 miles away.

Tweed is on the C.P.R. 55 miles east of Peterborough.

Two Eminent Divines Will Preach Here

Rev. Prof. Bowles and Rev. J. W. Graham Coming to Peterborough on Sunday

Two of the leading ministers of the Methodist church in Canada will preach in Peterborough next Sunday. They are Rev. Prof. Bowles, of Victoria University, Toronto, and Rev. J. W. Graham, of Toronto, who succeeded Rev. Dr. Potts as secretary of the Education work of the Methodist Church for Ontario. Rev. Prof. Bowles and Rev. Mr. Graham stand high in the Methodist Church, and no doubt large congregations will hear them on Sunday. Their coming to Peterborough is in connection with the educational anniversaries of George and Charlotte street churches. Prof. Prof. Bowles will preach at George street in the morning, and at Charlotte street in the evening, and Rev. Mr. Graham at Charlotte street in the morning and at George street at night. Collections in aid of the missionary work of the church will be taken up.

1000 nights in London, England and 500 nights in New York is suffient evidence that "A Message from Mars" is a play worth seeing. Better see it to-morrow night at the "Grand." Have your seats Marked Early.

Had to Run Around Room to Keep Warm

Pupils of North Ward School Found it Very Cold To-day

The extremely cold weather of the past few days has been severely felt by the pupils of the North Ward school. The Review was informed today that yesterday and this morning the pupils had to keep their overcoats on and run around the room in order to keep warm. tI is also said that windows in the cloak room are broken and that it is like going out to go into it. This inconvenience should be remedied at once and steps taken to make the school more comfortable for its attendants.

The receipts of Wellington county for 1907 were $128,672.98, and expenditures $120,739.

New System of Geo. Street Ladies' Aid

At a meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of George street church yesterday afternoon, it was decided to divide the city into eleven districts for the work of the society and have two persons in charge of each district for the purpose of visiting, collecting fees, etc. It is felt that this system will be a big improvement and will greatly assist the work. The President, Mrs. Elliott, was in the chair.

A Play everyone should see "A Message from Mars."

BOOK REVIEWS

Sixty years in upper Canada, by Charles Clarke, late Clerk of the Legislative Assembly (Wm. Briggs). Mr. Clarke has succeeded in inspiring into 60 years' experience of Upper Canadian life a great deal of both the common and the interesting. How else can one learn at first hand of the political events of a lifetime except from behind the scenes and from one who was there to see them? Passing briefly over his political life in England prior to 1844, the date of his arrival in Canada, he remarks that the echoes of the rebellion of 1837 were still being heard. The sketch of Wm. Lyon Mackenzie is vivid. His chapter on William Macdougall and the clear Grit platform is worthy of perusal by all students of Canadian history. But it is with the striking parallel and the violent contrast of George Brown and John A. Macdonald that the serious reader will be most concerned. The growth of municipal institutions and indebtedness is most interesting, and, needless to say, valuable. The militia and the ballot are also dealt with. We recommend the the book to our readers as well-written and instructive.

Notice is hereby given that, in addition to the application of which notice has already been given, an application will be made on behalf of the City of Peterborough to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, at the present session thereof, for legislation to confirm a By-law to aid The William Hamilton Company (Limited) by a loan of $30,000 and a fixed assessment of $10,000 for 10 years, and other concessions.

Opposition is Anxious for Explanation of Timber Deals

Resolution For Enquiry Discussed in the House of Commons.

Mr. Oliver Defends System of Alienating Lands—Contends Their Policy is a Good One — Criticizes Mr. Lake's Statements — Collusion In Tendering For Limits—Supply of Seed Grain to West.

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—The debate on Mr. Lake's amendment to the motion to go into supply, asking for a committee to probe the lands branch of the Interior Department, was resumed by Mr. Boyce (Conservative, Algoma). He laid down three main principles.

(1) There should be an enquiry by the Department as to the value of the timber limit, the amount of timber thereon, and its present and future accessibility.

(2) The administration should decide first if it is necessary to dispose of timber at all.

(3) The administration should protect the country from collusion and dishonest tendering.

Mr. Boyce proceeded to give some instances of apparent collusion in tendering for limits. Many cases were mentioned to show that limits had been prematurely sold by tender, and that the successful tenderer was only slightly in excess of the second. It was no wonder, said Mr. Boyce, that the present Minister of the Interior had taken little interest in the present discussion.

Mr. Boyce, continuing, referred to the Ames' motion, which wrested the original papers in respect to the granting of timber limits from an unwilling Government. Mr. Turriff, who was land commissioner at the time the tenders were put in here, claimed that definite charges which Mr. Turriff had taken to heart. Mr. Turriff, the speaker went on, was the official who alone was responsible for the opening of the tenders.

It was charged that there was dishonesty in opening of tenders, that a spurious tender was put in, and that these tenders came under the supervision of Mr. Turriff when he was commissioner of Dominion lands, and when such grave reflections were cast upon him (Turriff) in Parliament all the reply he had to make was: "Stop making insinuations."

Did the fact that Mr. Turriff had a seat in Parliament now exonerate him from blame? Mr. Lake had made definite and distinct charges. No one who had seen papers brought down could fail to come to the same conclusion as Mr. Lake, namely, that one of the tenders was a spurious and improper one.

Did the man who opened tenders know it was a spurious tender? was asked.

"We say," continued Mr. Boyce, "that these documents contained on their face evidence of sufficient character to demand an investigation."

Mr. Turriff interrupted: "He's making insinuations again. I ask him to make charges." He went on to say that he had opened tenders that came to him, and it was not for him to question who wrote them. "I am not a detective. Any insinuation that I had anything to do with the filling in of tenders, or that there was any collusion, is entirely wrong."

Mr. Boyce replied that until Mr. Turriff gave explanations or the Premier granted an investigation he would continue to lie under suspicion. As an official of this Government, it was his first duty to be a detective, and if there was any suspicion it was his duty to refer tenders to the Minister.

Minister of the Interior.

The Minister of Interior followed. He declared that the discussion had been a farce. For twenty-five years past the policy of the Government had been to secure development of the lumbering industry, and not to secure a price for standing timber. A provision was inserted in the license requiring the erection of a mill within a year. The Conservatives never enforced the provision and the present Government changed it.

R. L. Borden said of the 29,000 square miles granted by the Conservative Government a large proportion was given up because of the enforcement of conscience. Probably Mr. Oliver would say what conditions were regarded as onerous.

Mr. Oliver did not know, but he continued that the Opposition must either admit their policy was one of development of timber resources, or there was on record one of the most outrageous pieces of jobbery the country ever saw. Mr. Oliver, however, did not charge any improper conduct, but both Governments had the same policy of development. The present administration had produced better results in a greater amount of lumber cut.

Referring to the speculative values of some of the timber areas, Mr. Oliver proceeded to show that they were no greater than when the Conservatives were in power. Timber limits were of no value until they have been cut into lumber, and no reliance could be put upon the speculative values of limits alienated by the present Government. There was nothing that the Government need be ashamed of in the administration of timber lands by the present Government.

Proceeding at the evening session, Mr. Oliver declared that there was no favoritism in the awarding of tenders. Many of the tenders showed a wide range, and in all cases the limits went to the highest bidder. In one case, in which the Opposition charged that there was a corrupt deal, the limit was granted to a Conservative. The main object of the Department was to get the timber in the hands of people who would work it. It was the fact, however, that a large number of limits under license were not being operated.

Inspection of Documents.

The Minister finally got to the question of inspection of original documents. Could the Opposition point to a single instance where members had done this. Several Opposition members gave instances.

Mr. Ames said a year ago he had no difficulty in gaining access.

"Because the privilege was accorded then, does the hon. gentlemen think he has the right?" asked Mr. Oliver.

The Minister said it was not in the interest of those holding titles that the original papers should be let out of custody of the Department. Mr. Oliver gave the explanation of Mr. Fraser, already published, in respect to the Moose Lake tenders. If the value put on the limits by Mr. Ames was a fair one, Mr. Fraser would have been in a position to secure them for himself by bidding slightly over his clients. "The policy of the late Government was right, but their administration was rotten," declared the Minister. In 1881 the Northwest was parcelled up among the friends of Conservatives without regard to revenue or to the conditions existing in the country. To grant 450 berths at that time was nothing less than an outrage. Mr. Oliver claimed there was nothing in Mr. Lake's resolution but insinuation.

Mr. Lake declared that he made nine specific statements upon which he based his resolution, one of which was alone sufficient to warrant the Government in granting an enquiry.

Mr. Oliver said the Opposition did not want an investigation, but merely the opportunity of maligning their fellow citizens.

There were cries of "Order!" and "Take it back!" and Mr. Oliver was called to task by Mr. Speaker. "If I have offended," said Mr. Oliver, "then I do not understand their position."

This did not satisfy Mr. Speaker, and the Minister made a proper retraction.

R. L. Borden spoke next. He said he did not know anybody who had been guilty of making insinuations to the extent of the Minister of Interior. Discussing Mr. Oliver's claim, that the present Government was continuing the policy of the Conservative administration, he asked did Mr. Whitney hand out timber limits to the first-comer just because his predecessors did so?

It was absurd for the Minister to say that he did not give a longer time for the survey of timber limits because the Government was not looking for revenue. Surely Mr. Oliver gave his case away when he argued that timber limits had only a speculative value for the reason that they cannot have an actual value for many years to come. That was the claim of the Opposition. The Province of Ontario derived an enormous revenue from its timber, because timber limits were held till they possessed a real value. It was not Alexander Mackenzie or Sir John Macdonald who were on trial, but the Government of this day, said Mr. Borden.

Saskatchewan Asked First.

A return of correspondence brought down yesterday in connection with the supplying of seed grain to the west shows that the first request came from Saskatchewan on Nov. 20. For some time Mr. Oliver held out, claiming that the matter was one for the provinces to deal with. Later he was led to a different view of the situation. The correspondence shows that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy has offered low rates on seed grain over the C. P. R., and the big milling companies, especially Ogilvies, have also promised their assistance.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) introduced his bill to amend the Passenger Ticket Act, requiring railway companies to issue 500 and 1,000 mile tickets at two cents a mile.

EVELYN HORRIFIED.

Overcome at Sight of Thaw's Asylum Companions.

Matteawan, N. Y., Feb. 5.—The horrors of the madhouse, coming close upon the nervous strain of the murder trial, overcame Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw. She had opened the door of the reception room and looked into the hall. At sight of a group of lunatics, gesticulating and chattering, she stepped quickly back into the reception room, sank on a sofa and became hysterical.

"This is no place for Harry, in with all those insane people," she sobbed. "He is as sane as you or I. But he will go crazy if they keep him locked here with these creatures for another 48 hours. I would go crazy myself here. Look at these gloomy painted walls. Hear the voices of those poor men and women. It's horrible—horrible."

Then she turned on Lawyer O'Reilly.

"Mr. O'Reilly," she demanded, "I don't care what any one else says—I tell you to get that writ of habeas corpus and save my husband from this terrible place. In his nervous state he will surely go mad here. You must get him out of here before it is too late."

FIREMEN BADLY HURT

Carried Down by Collapsing Floor at New York Blaze.

One Man Missing—Thought to Be Buried Under Ruins—Intense Cold Hinders Work—Water Frozen In Standpipes—Five Storey Building Gutted—Crowded Elevator Drops to the Basement.

New York, Feb. 5.—Caught between collapsing floors, seven firemen were injured last night while fighting a fire which destroyed a five storey structure, occupied by drygoods firms, at 43 Worth street, in the heart of the wholesale drygoods district. Fireman Frank Eglanton is missing, and is believed to be in the ruins. The monetary loss is estimated at $200,000.

The firemen fought the flames in the bitter cold which froze water in the standpipes and made the pressure inadequate to confine the fire to the third floor, where it started. The injured were found lying beneath the ruins in pools of fast freezing water.

The building was occupied by Baldwin, Woodward & Co.; Kibbe, Chaffee & Morehouse Co.; The Charles C Copeland Co., and P. R. Masterly & Co., all wholesalers.

The fire spread rapidly and the employes in the building had to make hurried exits. As they were escaping from the place the cable of an elevator parted and the car, jammed with frightened women and men, dropped to the basement. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt and to their descent they may owe their lives. Hardly had the passengers scrambled from the wreckage of the car, when, without warning, the third floor gave way and carried with it the second floor and 15 firemen, who were working within the walls. A moment later a score of firemen had reached into the burning wreckage, recklessly determined to rescue their comrades, whose cries could be heard above the noise of puffing engines.

Meantime the fire was burning briskly on the top floor, and streams of water thrown from adjoining buildings half drowned the imprisoned men, as well as those who chopped away valiantly wherever burning timbers held a captive. The temperature was well down toward zero, and the men suffered intensely. One by one the injured men were released with the exception of Eglanton, who could not be located. Though badly injured, it is believed that the rescued men will recover. The building had been ruined before the fire was controlled.

INSANE MOTHER KILLS BABE.

Overpowered After Desperate Struggle and Officer Called.

Montreal, Feb. 5.—While in a fit of insanity, Mrs. Thomas Doucette dashed out the brains of her two-year-old child and was in the act of killing another child when discovered by her family. The family consisted of father, mother and eight children. The father, who worked on the Intercolonial Railway, was confined to the house with a broken rib. Mrs. Doucette became violently insane at 4.30 yesterday morning and arose without awakening the other inmates of the house, and took the child from the cradle to the back door, and there smashed its head in, violently beating it against the ice. Returning, she took the three-year-old child, but in so doing she awakened her daughter, aged 18, who called her father. In a desperate struggle the mother was overpowered, and a policeman called.

At the inquest yesterday afternoon it was brought out that the woman had been insane several times. The mother said she killed the baby by taking it by the feet and beating its brains out on the side of the house.

The Moors, with intrepid bravery, charged right up to the mouths of the guns until their corpses lay in great piles on the ground.

Bulgarians Should Stay Home.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 5.—"Bulgarian immigration to the United States is a failure. Bulgarians had better stay in Bulgaria. They are better off there than in America."

That will be the substance of a semi-official report to be made to the Bulgarian Government by P. N. Dackaloff, editor of a leading newspaper of Sofia. About 90,000 Bulgarians have come to America in the last four years.

Insane Mother's Deed.

Later Details About the Big Explosion at Tweed

Nearly Every Window Shattered by Tremendous Detonation.

Powder Mills Wrecked—Shock Felt 25 Miles Away—Employes Had Few Minutes Warning and Escaped—Town Thrown Into Panic—Almost Eevery House Damaged — Roar Was Deafening.

Tweed, Ont., Feb. 5.—An explosion which broke nearly every window in town and caused scenes of excitement occurred a mile east from here shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning, when the powder mills of the Ontario Powder Co., comprising from 12 to 15 buildings, were destroyed.

The men in the works had only been at their occupation a few minutes when one of the big vats of nitric acid was observed to boil over. It ate its way into the floors and soon the wood caught fire. For the flames to reach the nitro-glycerine mixer took only a few minutes. A warning was shouted and the men ran for their lives. With an awful, deafening roar the buildings were torn from their foundations, lifted up high in the heavens, and completely demolished.

There was considerable of a panic in the town for a little while until some of the powder makers arrived on the run with the glad intelligence that all had been saved. As it is, there will be considerable inconvenience in town, if not suffering, as with all the windows broken and the thermometer much below zero it is impossible to keep the houses warm.

Much perishable foodstuff has been frozen in the stores, and rendered absolutely useless, the plate glass fronts having been smashed. Business is practically suspended, and will be for some days.

The churches of the town are also without windows, and as the glass is somewhat hard to replace, there will not likely be services next Sunday.

The factory of the Steel Trough & Machine Co., which is situated a short distance away from the powder mills, had its big chimney blown down, as well as the glass broken.

The shock was felt at Napanee, 25 miles away, and it is reported that glass was broken at Madoc, 16 miles distant. Much damage was done to windows at the village of Stoco, six miles across the lake.

The cause of the explosion is said to be the fact that the extreme cold weather congealed the nitro-glycerine and it entered the mixer and caused the nitric acid to boil and pour over the floor, thus setting the building on fire. The mixers, seeing the danger, ran through the works calling to the men to run for their lives. The men needed no second warning, but rushed to places of safety, and as the thermometer registered well below zero, many of them had ears and fingers frozen.

The loss on plate glass and other glass in the town is estimated at over $1,000. All the buildings owned by the powder company were badly shattered. The company's loss will reach $25,000.

SPORTING NEWS

Two Splendid City League Games to be Played To-night

The ice is in keen shape for the city league games tonight. They will be worthy of one of the largest largest crowds that has ever gathered at the Brock street rink. The first match will be between Norwood and High Lifes, and the point has been reached where the team that loses will be out of the running. Lakefield with the addition of Quigley and Simpson should have a good chance against the Strathconas, and if the latter are defeated the winners of the High Life-Norwood contest will have a chance with Strathconas to play off in the finals for the trophy.

The games will be easily the best of the season in the city league, and that is saying a good deal in view of some of the exciting exhibitions that have been seen here this season. There is much speculation concerning the outcome of the Norwood-High Life game and it is also simply a guess as to whether Lakefield or the Strathcs will win out.

GOOD VIEWS OF FIGHT

Burns-Moir Contest at Grand Opera House Last Night—An Interesting Programme

The moving pictures at the Grand Opera House last night provided good entertainment for those who attended. The feature of the evening was the reproduction of the Burns-Moir championship fight which was closely followed by those present. When either one of the contestants did any particularly clever work or landed a telling blow a hum of excitement or approval could be heard from different parts of the audience.

The pictures were very interesting and commenced with showing the fighters in their training quarters. The gunner who is a big tatooed man, looked the more formidable of the two, while working out, but when the scrappers got going in the ring Burns showed much better form, being shiftier and more aggressive and hitting oftener. Although Moir showed considerable skill at times his methods of fighting were a little monotonous and he did not show the resourcefulness of his opponent. For a big fellow Burns' footwork was a revelation and he displayed the nimbleness of a lightweight fighter.

The evening dress of all the spectators, even the newspaper writers, seemed a rather strange spectacle at the ringside. The referee did not enter the ring until the eighth round, when he was compelled to do so owing to the illicit methods of punching and scrapping in clinches that were being used by the fighters. In the tenth round when the knockout came, Burns had Moir at his mercy to such an extent that it seemed almost a shame to hit him. But he did, nevertheless and this is how Canada claims the world's champion pugilist.

Previous to the films of the fight being shown a number of beautiful colored moving pictures were put on. The subjects were novel and entertaining and varied from the gorgeous to the ludicrous. A couple of illustrated songs "Wont You Be My Honey," and "Fare Thee Well My Old Kentucky," were also sung.

PORTUGAL NOW TRANQUIL.

Premier Franco's Downfall Is Complete—Political Career Ended.

Lisbon, Feb. 5.—Lisbon is beginning to recover from the shock and horror of Saturday's bloody tragedy, but a strong undercurrent of popular and governmental nervousness remains.

The political tension is slackening, although the Progressists refuse to join in the construction of the Cabinet, which Admiral Ferreira de Amaral is forming from all the Monarchial groups because the Conservatives are in predominance. The hitch, however, is likely to be straightened out and a temporary union of all the Monarchial elements attained for the purpose of getting the country back on a constitutional basis, "ending agitation and restoring tranquility," as expressed by the leaders.

Senor Bernadino Machado, leader of the peaceful wing of the Republicans, agrees to a truce, provided that his friends now under arrest are liberated, freedom of the press restored and the elections ordered.

Admiral de Amaral, the devoted friend of the Queen, who assumes power, is committed to the reversal of the entire policy of the dictatorship, the abolition of repressive measures, and the restoration of "the old Liberal monarchy."

On Saturday, government by decree will be withdrawn, amnesty accorded political offenders not implicated in deeds of violence, and the embargo on the press raised.

Franco Down and Out.

Franco's downfall is complete. He recognized that it was impossible to saddle the youthful King at the outset of his reign with the stern program involving the immediate banishment and deportation of several hundred political offenders, to which he had committed himself, if he retained office. He told a friend that the assassination of the King ended his political career. He offered his services, however, but these were refused, both Queen Amelie and the Dowager Queen Maria Pia agreeing with the unanimous view of the council of state that the author of the dictatorship must be cast aside.

A high official said yesterday that Franco wanted to exercise even a more despotic power, and that at the interview with the new King he said it was quite impossible for him to join the coalition movement. It was with eyes filled with tears that King Manuel finally accepted Franco's resignation. The former Premier then hastily left the palace, and has not been seen since.

Queen Amelie herself issued orders to the military that the life of Franco should be carefully guarded.

SCORES GEN. STOESSEL.

Prosecutor Demands Death Penalty on Russian Officers.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 5.—The final session of the Stoessel court-martial was held yesterday. Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, together with Gen. Feck and Gen. Reiss, are being tried for the surrender of the Port Arthur fortress to the Japanese.

In his summing up, the judge advocate demanded that the court impose the death sentence upon Stoessel, Feck and Reiss—upon Stoessel as the responsible agent for the shameful surrender of the fortress and the cowardly ending of its glorious defence, and upon Feck and Reiss as the men who inspired and abetted him. Governor-General Smirnoff, who was declared guilty of not having taken measures to prevent the surrender, the judge advocate asked the severe punishment of imprisonment at forced labor for four years.

Gen. Guersky paid the highest tribute to the brave defenders of the fortress, several hundred of whom were seated in the crowded courtroom. He said it was necessary to draw a sharp distinction between them and their leaders, men who had covered their names with ineffacable shame. He reviewed history in vain for a precedent to show failure to punish the men responsible for such a surrender, and he declared that their undeserved decorations should be torn from the breasts of the uniforms they had disgraced. Continuing, the judge advocate pooh-poohed the idea of a massacre, which Gen. Stoessel had advanced in justification of the surrender, and said that even the civilians in Port Arthur had no fear of such an occurrence. The passions of the early days of the siege had given place, he said, to a quiet fulfillment of duty by Russians and Japanese alike.

Counsel for the defendants will make their answers to-day, M. Syrtlanoff speaking first on behalf of Gen. Stoessel.

Revolting Beyond Credence.

London, Feb. 5.—The murder of old Mrs. Hartwick at Cobblehill by her insane husband, James Hartwick, who is now in London jail, was revolting almost beyond credence. No weapon was used, but the unfortunate woman was disemboweled by her assailant's hand in a manner which cannot be stated in print.

The jury looked at the body yesterday. Dr. Ford of Thorndale was appointed to make the post-mortem, and the inquest was adjourned to meet at Thorndale on Thursday.

Japan Increases Duties.

Tokio, Feb. 5.—After a heated debate lasting five hours, an increase in the taxation bills on sugar, sake, alcohol, beer and kerosene was past yesterday in the Diet. The Government had a majority of 84 in every case except in that of kerosene, on which the majority vote was 24.

Druce Suit Dismissed.

London, Feb. 5.—Almost the largest prop was knocked from underneath the Druce myth when the master-in-chancery dismissed G. H. Druce's civil suit for the possession of the estate of the late Duke of Portland.

Russian Relief Fund.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 5.—A bill appropriating $3,663,000 for famine relief, in addition to the sum already voted by the Douma for this purpose, has been submitted to the Cabinet.

The oatmeal department will be open again on Saturday and the package department on Monday.

Took two Teams to Pull Stage

Apsley Stage Driver Had Hardest Time of His Life

The Apsley stage driver had the time of his life getting through to Lakefield last Saturday. As far as is known he was the only stage driver in the district to make the regular trip on Saturday, the others being unable to brave the elements. It took two teams of horses to bring the Apsley stage to Lakefield, and it arrived there four hours late. It was the hardest time the stage driver ever had and he does not care for a repetition of it.

Will Donate Medals for Penmanship

Gifts of Late Wm. Pringle to City School Pupils to be Replaced by Mr. Crane

It will be of interest to many citizens to know that the good work of the late Wm. Pringle in donating medals for penmanship in the Public and Separate schools of the city and in the Collegiate Institute will be continued. At last night's session of the Board of Education, Mr. John Crane signified his intention of giving the medals heretofore given by Mr. Wm. Pringle. Mr. Crane stated that he had always taken a deep interest in penmanship, and would like to see the pupils encouraged by the giving of prizes. The late Mr. Pringle had done much to bring penmanship to a high standard of efficiency, and the donating of these medals should not be stopped. Upon motion of Mr. D. W. Dumble, and seconded by Dr. Morrison, Mr. Crane's kind offer was gratefully accepted.

The Rural Deanery at Campbellford

Many Matters of Interest Discussed—Next Meeting at Grafton

Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt and Rev. Wm. Major returned yesterday from attending a meeting of the Rural Deanery, at Campbellford. The cold weather and blockaded roads interfered somewhat with the attendance but despite this the meeting was a most profitable one.

The sermon on Tuesday night was given by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, and the leading paper of the meeting, was by Rev. W. J. Creighton of Lakefield on "The so-called open pulpit Canon of the American church." The subject was handled in a very able manner and proved exceedingly interesting.

Several matters in connection with the Deanery were discussed and arrangements made for various work.

The next meeting of the Deanery will likely be held at Grafton in May.

Request an Investigation Into Decision Given in Liquor Case

Charlotte St. Methodist Church Board Request Government to Look Into an Alleged Miscarriage of Justice—Would Also Have Three-fifths Clause Removed—Important Meeting Held Last Evening.

An important meeting of the Quarterly official board of Charlotte St. Methodist church was held last evening when several matters of interest were dealt with. Rev. W. H. Manning was in the chair and the meeting opened with devotional exercises. The finances of the church were gone over and in every branch a decided improvement was shown as compared with last year.

It was decided to hold the annual congregational meeting and social early in March when reports of the different organizations of church work will be read.

The movement taken by the temperance committee of Charlotte St. church last night in the cause of temperance is especially important and of particular interest to all workers against the liquor traffic. The board have sent a request to the Ontario Legislature to remove the three-fifths clause in the act regarding local option. They ask this on the grounds that the requirements of the Government have been fulfilled, namely that wherever local option has been adopted it has been permanent.

A resolution of the appreciation of the board was also passed to the local License Inspector, Mr. Joseph Stewart, and the police authorities of the city for their vigilance in seeing that the liquor laws are kept.

The board will also request the Government to make an investigation into what they call a miscarriage of justice in regard to certain liquor cases of recent date.

The annual meeting of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance Convention will be held in Bod street church, Toronto, on Feb. 25th and 62th. Messrs. A. Brown and A. B. C. Cunningham were appointed last night to represent Charlotte street at this gathering.

Ontario Legislature Opened; The Speech From the Throne

Revenues of the Province are Largely in Excess of the Estimates and More Than Sufficient to Meet Public Expenditures During the Year.

Special to The Review.

Toronto, Feb. 5—The Ontario Legislature was opened this afternoon by the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Mortimer Clark with the usual ceremonies.

After expressing satisfaction that the Province had suffered comparatively little from the financial stringency which has been marked in other countries during the past few months the speech from the throne intimated that such progress had been made with the revision of the statutes that several acts will be presented for approval. It referred to the fact that the construction of the Temiscaming and Northern Railway has been nearly completed and that the earnings of the road continue to be satisfactory and largely in excess of the outlay incurred in operating the road.

Announcement was made that the report of the Commission which was sent to Great Britain and the continent to investigate modern methods of caring for and treating the insane will be presented at the session, also the report of the provincial secretary and other gentlemen who visited the United States to observe the system of prison labor in operation there.

The speech also stated that among other things a scheme of law reform a bill to arrange the constituencies of the province, increased appropriation for urban schools and amendment to the mining laws, the liquor license act, the free grant, railway and municipal act, the supplementary revenue act, and the Ontario shops regulation act would be presented and concluded by saying that the revenues of the province are largely in excess of the estimates and more than sufficient to meet the public expenditures during the year.

Astronomer Of Note in Peterboro'

Dr. King Tells About Work of His Department—Will Give Address To-night

Dr. King, L.L.D., of Ottawa, Chief Astronomer of Canada, is in the city today, and tonight will address the local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada on the work being done at the observatory at the Dominion capital, and what is intended to be done in the future. The observatory at Ottawa has been in operation about three years, and the efficient staff in charge is doing splendid work. Dr. King, who is at its head, is one of America's foremost astronomers. He has been a member of several international boundary commissions, among them the commission which settled the boundary between Alaska and Canada. The 141st meridian which is the boundary line is now being surveyed, the line being marked by bronze monuments, which are fitted in concrete foundations, or in the rock. It will take two or three years to complete this work. The locating and marking of the boundary line (the 49th parallel) between Canada and the United States, between the Pacific coast and the Rocky mountains is also being carried on at the present time under the direction of Dr. King's department. The marking of the boundary line between the two countries in the vicinity of the State of Vermont, is also in progress now. The boundary line at that point is the 41st parallel of latitude. It was originally marked over sixty years ago, but it has been found necessary to have the work done again as many of the original monuments have become obliterated.

Dr. King has been a member of the International Waterways Commission, which was instituted for the purpose of fixing the boundary line on the great lakes, but he resigned from that body last year owing to pressure of other duties. He was also a member of the expedition to Labrador in 1906, to secure observations of the total eclipse of the sun in August of that year. It will be remembered that this expedition was not a success owing to the sun being clouded on the morning of the eclipse.

Dr. King's address tonight at the Y.W.C.A., promises to be exceedingly interesting, and a large number should hear him. The opportunity of hearing Dr. King may not be had again.

LATEST NEWS FROM NORWOOD

Hockey Club to Hold Carnival—Coldest Weather in Years

Special to The Review.

Norwood, Feb. 5.—The annual meeting of the Board of Education will be held tomorrow evening at 7.30 o'clock. The Board of last year with one exception of Mr. Fred Anderson, who takes Mr. P. W. Stevenson's place, will be the Board of 1908. The speculation now is, "Who will be the chairman?"

The weather for the past few days has been the coldest in years. Last Wednesday night the mercury dropped to 37 degrees, and was pronounced by the oldest residents to have been the coldest for several years but last night was still colder. Early this morning the thermometer at the C.P.R. station registered 38 degrees below zero.

After the very severe snowstorm of last Saturday the council put a large force of men to work to clear the walks in the village. The snow plow drawn by two horses, was followed by an eager list of shovellers and by Monday afternoon huge banks of snow were piled up all along the walks, and pedestrians were enabled to get about with a fair degree of comfort.

The country roads in this vicinity are almost impassable. The Hastings stage was not able to get through until Monday afternoon after a gang of men and teams had broken through the drifts.

WILL HOLD CARNIVAL.

The Norwood Hockey Club are having a masquerade carnival in Mr. Fleming's open-air rink on Friday night of this week. Good prizes are being offered for the various comic and fancy costumes. Races will also be a feature, and a good time is expected.

The members of the W.M.S. of the Methodist church, assembled last Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. P. J. Leareight and presented Mrs. J. S. Fry with a beautiful life membership pin of the society. Mrs. Fry is justly proud of the gift.

PERSONAL.

Miss Nellie Davidson of Toronto, is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Davidson, Peterborough street.

Miss Roxie Mackelvene, spent a few days in town last week visiting friends.

Mr. O. Johnston of Tweed, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnston.

Miss Mary Johnston visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnston, one day last week.

Mr. Hugh Robb has finished the contract of filling the "Swift Ice House" in Havelock, and is at present filling a few contracts for people in the village and surrounding country.

The annual meeting of the Norwood Cheese factory, was held in the town hall on Friday of last week. The enterprising proprietor, Mr. D. Oakley, had procured the services of an expert cheese and butter maker to address the patrons and all who attended felt that they had spent a very profitable afternoon.

The painters are at present finishing the decorations in the Norwood new town hall, which when finished will be a credit to the village.

Mr. John Weir and family have moved from Havelock to the Rev. Mr. Peer's house on Queen street, Norwood.

Mr. Isaac Puffer has rented from Mr. W. J. Webster, his farm on the west of the village, and will take possession in the spring.

Broke His Wrist by Bad Fall

Mr. Ed. Hargrove Victim of Painful Accident To-day

While returning to work today at noon, Mr. Ed. Hargrave, who is employed with H. LeBrun & Co., had the misfortune to break his left wrist. The sidewalk being exceedingly slippery at the corner of Hunter and Reid streets, Mr. Hargrave slipped and fell to the pavement. In falling he put out his hand, his whole weight leaning on his wrist. Dr. Marshall set the fractured limb. It will be some days before Mr. Hargrave willbe able to return to his work.

If you have not yet seen "A Message from Mars" see it to-morrow night at the "Grand."

Suffered With the Severe Cold

So severe was the cold yesterday that several of the men engaged in shovelling snow on the city streets were badly frost-bitten and were obliged to quit work for a while. One man had his feet slightly frozen, while others hands suffered. Many of the employees are Old Country people and unaccustomed to the work or to the rather frigid climate of Canada.

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

New York, Feb. 5.—The dull opening was accompanied by irregular price changes, and in some instances the higher London quotations were reflected, St. Paul and Reading being particularly strong. During the early trading the market held fairly well, but Smelters was soon the subject of liquidation, and bear pressure, and went off rather sharply. The railroad list held up in the face of these developments, but in the afternoon floor traders had little difficulty in bringing about a reaction all around.

The Steel stock were weak with the rest of the list. London's part in our marekt was of scarcely any influence. There was nothing new in the way of developments to account for the weakness in Smelters, as the reported decision of independent mine operators to erect smelters of their own ha sbeen under consideration for some time, and it has been known for several weeks that the dividend was likely to be cut. The only point in this regard is to how deep the cut will be,

The decision of the Atchison road to take off a number of the important local passenger trains in Kansas, added to the bear arguments that the day brought forth, while the greater activity of the market on the decline was also depressing. Banking support seems to be withdrawn and the indications point to an irregular market with a somewhat lower level of prices.

Two Runaways This Afternoon

Storey & Lentry's team made a dash for liberty this afternoon and caused considerable excitement on Water and Brock streets. They started to run from the alley beside the store on Water street, and turning quickly to the north upset the sleigh and scattered the load of baled hay along the street. They ran up Water street and then went along Brock, being stopped before reaching Aylmer.

Another horse attached to a cutter started to runaway near the corner of Water and Hunter streets, but was stopped before doing any damage.

Trains Again Delayed by Big Storm

Noon G. T. R. Train Has Not Yet Arrived—Lakefield Train Was Cancelled

The storm is not over yet and the high wind today is causing trainmen further annoyance by delaying trains. Last night the 6.45 was over an hour late and up to the time of going to press the noon G.T.R. train due here at 11.45 had not arrived. Up at Stouffville a fierce storm is raging and all trains are blocked. The Toronto train is stalled there unable to proceed. A double-header with one passenger car left here at noon with the passengers for Port Hope and intervening points. It is expected that if the wind gets stronger, there will be no trains at all.

The train for Lakefield was cancelled and the passengers for the village were obliged to drive back.

Airriess Has Been Acquitted

Appeared for Trial in Cobourg To-day But Was Allowed to go

A telegram was received in the city this afternoon from Cobourg by Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr, to the effect that Jesse Airriess, who was being tried there to-day on a charge of theft, had been acquitted. It will be remembered that Airriess was arrested here on his return from Chicago. The offence was said to have been committed last summer, but there being not sufficient evidence against him eh was allowed to go.

Big Crowd at the Restaurant

There was another large crowd at the Children's Aid Society relief restaurant this morning. The poor in the city were evidently in need of the restaurant and it must be especially welcome to them during the weather when nourishing and warmth producing food is required.

What Was Transacted at Session of County Council

Uniform Promotion Examinations to be Instituted in Peterborough County—Deputations to Go to Ottawa and Toronto—Will Endeavor to Retain Model School at Norwood.

The County Council concluded its session on Saturday morning when the reports of the different committees were presented and adopted.

WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

Warden Thompson's inaugural address was as follows;—

Permit me to again recognize the confidence you have reposed in me in electing me Warden for the current year.

As we proceed with the work of the year and look into matters that will unavoidably have to be dealt with, we cannot help but realize the responsibility of our position.

The business is increasing from year to year, and the House of Refuge, now being established, involves an amount of work and attention, that necessitates an additional expense, as well as additional attention and work to the former duties assumed.

During the past year considerable bridge building has been done, but to deal in a manner of equity with all parts of the county, this great work of placing permanent structures throughout the county is an emergency that will have to be financed and carried into effect with no little responsibility to the Council.

It appears to me that crime is somewhat on the increase, no doubt due to the growth and popularity of the city, and perhaps somewhat due to the depression in the money market, thereby lessening employment and causing lack of employment.

With these facts staring us in the face, we may expect an increase in criminal justice expenditures.

It is very gratifying to receive a report from the Board of Management of the House of Refuge, so much in accordance with the spirit of the laws in devising such provision as protection for the old and poor.

I will not say anything more at present, it being customary for the Warden to read a general address in June.

Again thanking you for the honor and asking you for the same assistance accorded my predecessors.

I wish both you and the County a prosperous year.

THE DOMINION BANK

The annual report of the Dominion Bank published in another column will be gratifying to the general public, as it must be to the shareholders of that institution. It not only shows that notwithstanding the world-wide financial stringency prevailing in the latter part of 19007, this year's business was a very profitable one; but that the bank is in exceedingly sound financial condition. The net profits for the year, out of which twelve per cent dividend was paid, amounted to $635,235.51. The amount of $933,456.87 received as premium on new stock was transferred to the reserve fund, which now totals $4,833,456.87 upon a paid-up capital of $3,848,597.50. In accordance with a resolution passed at the previous annual meeting $1,000,000 of new capital stock was issued and of this during the year $983,700 was issued and $848,597.50 paid up.

The general statement shows that the Dominion Bank is well prepared for emergencies. Against total liabilities to the public of $39,268,351.52, it has assets amounting to $48,497,217.67, which include $51,683,053.77 in cash and the readily realisable assets figure up to $15,000,080.15 over forty per cent of the liabilities to the public. The management seems to have wisely carried out its announced policy of restricting advances without interfering with the proper requirements of customers and at the same time of giving the necessary assistance required for the marketing of the Western crops; while maintaining the strong cash reserves, rendered necessary for the abnormal financial conditions which have prevailed for some time past. The directors and Mr. C. A. Bogert, the general manager are to be heartily congratulated upon a good year's business and perhaps even more upon the strong position of the bank at the present time.

FRAUD.

Fraud and graft are in the air. The temper of the public mind is becoming warm. How can an administration expect to escape the imputation of dishonesty, when the relatives and friends of Cabinet Ministers get great slices of valuable land for a mere pittance. If in the city of Peterborough people found profitable contracts and fine building-sites being handed out to relatives and friends at a ridiculous figure by the Mayor and aldermen, what would they say? What sort of a figure would these latter gentlemen cut at the next election? Even the Examiner could tell us what would happen in such a case. There is no difference between the wrongdoing at Ottawa and that which we have supposed might exist under similar conditions in Peterborough. When will spoilers learn that the public will take measures to protect itself? We have a vast body of pious men and women laboring unselfishly for the improvement and moral salvation of their fellow men and women. But these great efforts to uplift are set at naught in the most contemptuous fashion by those who disregard the first principles of common honesty in their conduct of public affairs.

BY THE WAY

No one can fail to be impressed with the logic and good sense of Mayor Rush's announcement that he would not dictate to the various chairmen of committees, but would hold them responsible for whatever sins of omission or commission might fairly be chronicled against them. The attempt of a Mayor to be both Mayor and Council has proved a failure in Peterborough before this. Mayor Rush appreciates the abilities of the men around his council-board, and relies upon them accordingly. One thing we should like to recommend to the present council, "if we are not intruding," is the preservation, or rather, the improvement of the banks of the river Otonabee within the corporation limits. The river with a little care is capable of being made a source of pleasure to the citizens. We have had the stone, the bronze and the iron ages. This would seem to be the tin-can age. Wherever he goes the sanitary officer is confronted with cans. He has made a gallant struggle against them in the past, and we hope he may be even more successful in the future.

GETTING UNDER WEIGH

The Examiner has begun its campaign in West Peterborough against the Liberal-Conservative candidate for the House of Commons, by what it admits to be a "matter of street talk and a good deal more." We must allow the Examiner a monopoly of talk of the character mentioned. But there is other talk regarding the Liberal convention that is to be and we mistake if it will not eventuate in a way detrimental to the political interests and ambitions of some of the parties concerned. The Examiner fails to remind its readers in its remarks regarding Mr. Burnham that Mr. Garvin in the heartiest and most loyal manner possible and with words of kindly appreciation moved that Mr. Burnham's nomination be made unanimous. Ald. Phelan seconded the resolution and bespoke success for the party's nominee. The Examiner practically tells these gentlemen that they were hypocrites and untruthful. We may assure our contemporary that when the time comes it will find all those in favor of good government united against the spoilers at Ottawa, and whomsoever they may put up. In the meantime we advise it to rest in peace. We do not propose to be drawn into a discussion about nothing, even though it be a congenial theme to the Examiner.

IMPERTINENT

The Globe remarks that the "Yellow peril is held up to the German workmen as a warning against asking too much wages. (They cannot enjoy a high standard of living and spend hundreds of millions on building warships." This beautiful sentiment on the part of our distinguished contemporary shows just what we have thought all along, viz: That the Globe and for that matter the Liberal party organs generally, is sorry that the conspiracy of the G. T.P. and the Laurier Government did not come to maturity. Then the "high standard of living" in Canada would have got the set-back which the Globe apparently thinks it deserves and workingmen who aspire to live "like lords" will find that to conform to the truly Liberal standard of living they must live like Japs and Chinamen. Even with warships thrown in we will never sink to this level in Canada. What the Globe inserted such a warning paragraph for, the most casual reader, will probably be at a loss to surmise—if he has a political content in view. It looks very much like an insult or a lapse, whichever way it is to be regarded.

AN UNSPEAKABLE DOUK

Montreal Herald.

If there is truth in the stories told about Peter Veregin and his alleged benevolent assimilation of the proceeds of the money derived from the sale of the Doukhobors' live stock, Peter ought to be kindly but forcibly requested to stop this fooling. Driving a people to a diet of raw vegetables for the sake of the rake-off is something new in a land not a stranger to ingenious schemes. But most of these yarns are quite incredible as told.

The Herald (Liberal) must have smiled (editorially) at its own candour in observing that Canada is "a land not a stranger to ingenious schemes."

EDITORIAL NOTES

This continual reference by the Liberal press to Ottawa as the Washington of the North should be given up. One bad habit leads to another and now we have journals calling for a Roosevelt at Ottawa to make the similarity more complete. Let us turn to Great Britain and Ireland for our comparisons. The standard is higher and more instructive.

The proper topic of conversation just now is the thermometer. Tales of the bottom having dropped out of some of those little instruments of torture may be dismissed as "fairy tales." However, when it is very cold the air is dry and clear. The sun gets a chance. Except to the frail it is ideal weather. It is not desirable, of course, to have too much of even a good thing.

Chopped straw and sawdust are said to make an excellent breakfast food. We hope that this particular taste will not become a general fashion, for we are not in a position physically to give up our customary plateful for the stronger article. As sawdust is on the free list the Laurier Government will point to the freedom of the poor man's breakfast table with its usual assumption of pride.

The suggestion that church membership should be a necessary qualification for teachers is about on a par with the suggestion that one portion of the community should be debarred from teaching in Public schools altogether. Tyrannical methods are objectionable at all times. "Easy does it," is a familiar and lucid saying. Some people seem to think that history is made one day and written down the next. It is such people who have done more to hinder the progress of civilization than any other. Fighting may be excusable as a last resort, but not as a first one. We have enough hypocrisy without trying to encourage it farther. The Scriptures say that it is by their fruits Christians are known not by their paper certificates of membership.

HORSE DROPPED ON THE STREET

And Had to be Taken to Stables on a Sleigh

Last evening about 5.30 o'clock, a horse belonging to the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company collapsed on Hunter street at the end of Queen street. The animal was one of a team and when it fell the harness was taken off and blankets put on to ward off the intense cold. A veterinary surgeon was called to attend to the horse. It was taken to the Company's stable on a sleigh.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE

Passed by Board of Education to Widow of the Late W. H. Wrighton

At the Board of Education meeting last evening a resolution conveying the regret of the members at the death of the late W. H. Wrighton, who served for many years on the Board, was passed. Mr. Wrighton was a faithful and valued member of the Board for 25 years, taking a deep interest in all matters of education.

The resolution moved by Mr. Hill, seconded by Mr. Dumble,—That this Board has heard with regret of the death of Wm. H. Wrighton, who for 25 years was a valued member of this Board. He was elected in 1879 and held office continuously up to 1905. He was chairman of the Board during the years 1891 and 1892.

Mr. Wrighton during that time gave to the Board his best services. He was for many years chairman of the Property Committee and took a deep interest in all things pertaining to the welfare of the schools.

We enter our tribute to his worth upon our minutes, and direct the secretary to transmit a copy of this resolution to his bereaved widow, with an expression of our heartfelt sympathy in her great bereavement.

Fire Escapes for West Ward School

Board of Education Discussed the Matter Last Night—Left to Property Committee

The matter of placing fire escapes on the west ward school was taken up by the board of education last night and upon motion of Mr. D. W. Dumble and seconded by Mr. W. S. Robinson it was left in the hands of the property committee to take immediate action. This school is heated by large stoves thus incurring greater risk of there being a fire and as it is not provided with any means of escape save doors and windows, it was the opinion of the board that something should be done immediately. Mr. W. H. Hill, drew attention to the Quebec school disaster of a few months ago, in which several pupils lost their lives owing to the fact that the building was not properly equipped with fire fighting appliances. The school board, having this school in their charge, had to pay three hundred dollars for each life lost. The local board did not know when a fire might occur and Mr. Hill thought the matter should receive attention at once.

INFORMATION WANTED

To the Editor of The Review.

Sir,—Will you please explain for the benefit of a number of students what the following terms mean?

1 Higher criticism.
2 Low criticism.
3 Modernism.

and oblige,

Yours, &c.
INQUIRER.

We cannot undertake to explain these terms with any great degree of accuracy, but we will do the best we can. Higher criticism is that criticism which seems to regard the Bible as the Word of God, not as God wrote it but as written and compiled by men impelled thereto. This method is endorsed by many able men but lacks finality and is therefore in the meantime a little disturbing to "simple faith," which finds it hard to follow.

Low criticism is a term which we have never seen used before. It should be, we assume, Lower Criticism, and embraces the old-fashioned "textual faith."

Modernism in religion, to describe it in as few words as possible, is a disposition to treat everything from the independent point of view of the individual without regard to his fitness or otherwise for forming an opinion. It is best translated, we think, as "freedom of opinion." It contrasts itself with extraneous or external revelation, and relies upon the sufficiency of "light from within." It is we think fully embraced in the question —"Is every man his own instrument of God's revelation?"—Ed.

TALES TOLD HERE

Druggists Hear Much Praise for This Home-Made Mixture.

Some remarkable stories are being told of this simple home-made mixture curing Rheumatism and Kidney trouble, even after the most noted health resorts failed to give the slightest relief. Here is the recipe and directions for taking: Mix by shaking well in a bottle one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Take as a dose one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

No change need be made in your usual diet, but drink plenty of good water.

This mixture, writes one authority has a peculiar tonic effect upon the kidneys; cleansing the clogged-up pores of the eliminative tissues, forcing the kidneys to sift and strain from the blood the uric acid and other poisonous waste matter, and overcoming Rheumatism, bladder and urinary troubles in a short time.

A New York druggist who has had hundreds of calls for these ingredients since the first announcement in the newspapers, stated that the people who once try it "swear by it," especially those who have Urinary and Kidney trouble and suffer with Rheumatism.

Every prescription pharmacy can supply the ingredients, which are easily mixed at home. There is said to be no better blood-cleansing agent or system tonic known, and certainly none more harmless or simple to use.

T.A.S. Young Men Held Debate

Interesting Programme Presented Last Evening by Literary Society

An interesting meeting of the young men's literary society of the T.A.S., held last evening when a large number were present and thoroughly enjoyed the programme presented. A debate, "Resolved that a total abstinence society is better for the promotion of temperance than local option. Messrs Harry Quinlan and Cyril Giroux spoke for the affirmative while Messrs. Leo. Daroche and Vincent Corkery upheld the negative. Each speaker presented his points in an able and intelligent manner. Rev. Dr. O'Brien acted as critic and judge No decision was reached, both sides putting up a strong argument. Dr. O'Brien also congratulated the speakers on their signal success and predicted a great future for them as orators.

During the evening Mr. Russell Robertson contributed an instrumental solo and Messrs. Jas. O'Brien and W. Cahill vocal selections.

A very profitable evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Certificates of Standing to be Awarded

To Pupils on Leaving Collegiate Institute—Decided Upon by Board of Education

At the meeting of the Board of Education last evening, Mr. W. S. Robinson brought up the question of awarding certificates to pupils when leaving the Collegiate Institute. These were not necessary to be given when a pupil graduates as then they receive a diploma from the Department of Education. He thought a boy or girl when stopping school and probably only in the first form should receive a certificate of standing, in order that their employer would know how far they had studied. Just recently such a certificate was demanded of a boy employed in the C.G.E. office.

School Inspector Mowat stated that the Board of Education in other towns and cities gave out certificates to pupils and he thought that it should be done here.

Mr. Dumble was also greatly in favor that such a step should be taken. These certificates could be procured for very little, and would always be held by the pupil, and would assist scholars in getting positions.

Upon motion of Mr. W. S. Robinson and Mr. D. W. Dumble, the Supervision Committee was authorized to take up the matter and report at the next meeting.

Losing Faith in One of Our Long Cherished Institutions

Whose Thermometer are You Going to Believe These Days?—Every One, Like Grit Politicians, Tells a Different Story.

We are losing faith in one of our most cherished institutions, the great Canadian Thermometer.

And, please, why?

Because we have a large and varied assortment in the city, and each and all vary, and wobble up and down in a surprising and disconcerting manner. Plainly there is no truth in them, and is it not time to ask if the brand we are now using is equal to the exigencies of a Canadian winter. What this country needs is some of the old reliable with a spinal column of shining, glistening mercury instead of the colored whiskey that is to act as our guide, philosopher and friend.

However in divers places along the business blocks are thermometers of various sizes and ages, principally ages. Several have seen better days. Most of them bear the marks where folks have poked umbrellas and canes into the vitals at the bottom to stir 'em up, under the delusion that the operation of a thermometer is accelerated by a vigorous shaking. A number of the group are apparently of delicate constitution, for they are not left out of doors at night, and when the porter hangs it up on the door post in the morning, some of the fragrance and coloric of the store clings to it and perverts the record. Hence the erratic readings, differing in a block a matter of six or eight degrees. This is disconcerting to people who wish to write friends and brag about the big snow and deliciously low temperature we are enjoying and live and thrive on, because Peterborough people always tell the truth when they communicate with friends abroad—at least nearly always.

The attention of the chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee is directed to the public want of a reliable public thermometer, one well broken and kind and gentle to harness, so to speak. Something conspicuous, to which citizens may point with pride and cherish as they do the lift lock and King Edward school. If nailed to a post on the market, our friends from the country can have access to its readings, while all may share in the benefits.

North Monaghan Milkmen Complain to the Council

Do Not Think That Sanitary Inspector Has a Right to Inspect Dairies in That Township—Township Authorities Will Deal With the Matter.

It is learned that some of the milk dealers residing in North Monaghan township do not take kindly to the inspection of their daries by the Sanitary Inspector of the City of Peterborough. They have been discussing the matter for some time and in order to get a ruling on the question have brought it to the notice of the township council and township board of health.

The milkmen claim that the Peterborough Inspector has no right to inspect the dairies in that township as the township has an officer of its own to do this work and that if there is any inspecting to be done the township officer should do it. On the other hand, the North Monaghan milkmen are supplying milk to the city of Peterborough and the local Board of Health claims to have the right to inspect the dairies of all milkmen who have licenses to sell milk within the coproration.

The matter will be discussed at a joint meeting of the North Monaghan council and township Board of Health on Monday evening. Just what the outcome will be is not known, but the joint bodies will likely decide one way or the other in connection with the matter.

There seems to be considerable merit in the claims of both parties but it is hoped that the difficulty will be settled amicably.

Lakefield People Wondering When Money Will be Returned

Would Like to Hear From Peterboro' Youths Who Collected the Coin—Annual Meeting of Presbyterian Church—Personal Notes.

Lakefield, Feb. 4—Dr. J. R. Fraser, who was called away last week, to the funeral of his uncle, and who lived near Hawkesbury, returned on Friday last to Lakefield.

Mrs. F. Clarke, of New York, is at present in Lakefield on a visit to her father, Mr. R. C. Strickland.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hunt returned to Lakefield after a short trip to Toronto on Saturday last.

Miss Penny left on Monday for Peterborough to pay a few days visit to Mrs. Palmer, Weller street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Botterell leave on Thursday next for Smithville, Ont on a visit to Mrs. Botterell, sr.

Dr Brown, late of this village, but now of Toronto, was in the village on Friday last.

There will be a concert on Wednesday, February 12th, at Youngs' Point, in aid of the funds of St. Andrew's church. The affair is in capable hands and we have no doubt, will be a great success. The Youngs' Point talent will be reinforced from Lakefield.

We have been asked by one or two of the sufferers to make enquiry as to when the moneys collected by certain Peterborough youths for a fictitious purpose, from Lakefield merchants, is to be returned. The rumor that it was to be refunded last week raised hopes in certain breasts. Are these hopes going to be realized?

Messrs. W. Baptie and R. C. Strickland were in Peterborough on business on Monday last.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Presbyterian church was held on Friday last at the church, with Rev. S. S. Burns in the chair.

The first report presented was that of the session which proved that the congregation is increasing in numbers. During the past year, 39 members had been added to the church roll. There were five deaths, five marriages and twenty-two baptisms during the twelve months.

Mr. E. A. Turner treasurer, presented his annual financial report which showed a gratifying expansion in all branches.

Contributions amounting to $465 had been given during the year to various objects outside the local work of the church. The total sum received from all sources was close on $2500 and the expenditure was about the same.

The treasurer's report, was on motion, received and adopted;

The stipend of the pastor was raised $130 per annum. The election of officers to fill the vacancies caused by the retirement of Messrs. Robert Graham, J. H. McWilliams, and T. J. Cullen resulted in the return of Messrs. J. H. McWilliams, Thompson Bredon and Jas. Murdoch.

Messrs. E. A. Tanner and F. J. Burgess were appointed respectively treasurer and secretarry for the ensuing year.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Henderson of Toronto, arrived in the village on Monday last on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sherin.

A dance is in prospect at a near date at the Grove. The Grove gaities, owing to the genial hospitalty of the hostess are always looked forward to eagerly by their friends.

Miss Lightfoot of the Lakefield Portland Cement Company treated her friends to a refrreshing and exciting drive to Peterborough on Friday evening last. The merrymakers put in an excellent time, skating and tobogganing and after refreshments had an enjoyable dance.

Miss Lightfoot, who will be greatly missed by her many friends in Lakefield, leaves with the rest of the Cement Company's office staff for Montreal on Saturday next.

Miss Gordon of Toronto, who has been visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, returned home on Monday last.

Mrs. Gilbert Gordon and her young family, of Bobcaygeon, arrived in the village on Monday last on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon.

Will Revise Schedule of School Teachers' Salaries

Decided Upon by Board of Education in Order to Secure First Class Teachers—Regular Meeting Held Last Evening—Much Business Transacted—Vote of Thanks Passed to Mr. R. R. Hall for Gift of Pictures.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education, was held last evening when the following were present; Messrs. Robt. Fair (chairman), D. W. Dumble, B. F. Ackerman, Dr. Morrison, W. S. Robinson, L. M. Hayes, W. F. Nelson, John Crane, W. H. Hill and Inspector Mowat. The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was received from Inspector Mowat regarding the care of the sight and hearing of the children of the Public schools. He had communicated with the inspector of the Toronto Public schools regarding the subject and had learned that the movement is just being instituted in that city.

In Toronto the Board appointed the city medical health officer to train the teachers to test the eyesight and hearing and to examine or diagnose skin diseases. In American cities the care of children's teeth is also attended to. but in Toronto this feature has not yet been taken up.

A communication was received from Mr. Mowat regarding the present classification of the pupils in the Queen Alexandra school. Owing to some classes not being taught, pupils from the same locality have to attend two different schools. After midsummer this will be remedied by all classes being taught in the Queen Alexandra school.

From Mr. Richard Baker, caretaker of the Queen Alexandra school, asking that he should be paid for extra work done during the Christmas vacation, by cleaning the building and getting it ready for occupation. This communication was received and much discussion on the matter took place, but no action was taken.

SUPERVIISON COMMITTEE

Your committee has received from the Inspector a very full account of the reorganization in some of the schools rendered necessary by overcrowding, and with as little inconvenience as possible he has succeeded in arranging them as to produce the most effective results.

We have given the Inspector permission to purchase a number of books to supply supplementary reading principally in the junior grades the cost being about $35.00.

Miss Edna Rogers of the East City Kindergarten staff applied for leave of absence from January 31 to June to pursue her studies in Kindergarten work in Toronto. As this work in the East City Kindergarten is not sufficient at present for two teachers your committee has granted her request.

The question of the introduction of Domestic Science into the schools has been considered by your committee, but at the present time conditions do not seem favorable to its adoption and we recommend its further consideration after the opening of the new Collegiate.

The Inspector has reported that he has suspended a pupil recently attending the South Centre School, whose conduct was such that there was apparently no alternative, we recommend that the Inspector's action be confirmed.

The various suggestions in the High School Inspector's report referred to this committee have been duly noted and will be acted upon.

We recommend that a grant of $150 be made for the purpose of procuring mounted specimens used in the study of zoology. Several of our merchants have already donated mounted specimens and others have promised to do so.

We believe that a yearly grant of a similar amount or, say five years, will provide such an equipment as will increase the interest in nature study as well as increasing the afficiency of the teachers' work.

Respectfully submitted,
JOHN CRANE
Chairman.

METAL STRIPS FOR WINDOWS.

Mr. B. F. Ackerman, chairman of the King Edward school committee, stated that he had had metal strips placed on a window in the school to keep out the cold and the experiment worked wonderfully well, increasing the temperature considerably. Mr. Ackerman said that he would like to hear what the board had to say on the matter. Several expressed their views and it was the general opinion that these metal strips were a fuel saver, and would be a good thing to have. However, upon motion, the matter was left in the hands of the property committee.

WILL SUPPLY TOOLS

A matter of supplying the janitors o the different schools, with necessary articles to perform their duties was taken up last evening. It appears that o late, certain caretakers have complained of having to buy their own brooms, and other utensils to do the work. It was decided last night that they should be supplied with all the necessary articles required to carrry out their duties.

A VOTE OF THANKS

It was moved by Mr. John Crane and seconded by Mr. W. F. Nelson that the thanks of the Board be tendered Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P, for his kindness in getting three large pictures o the Intercolonial Railway for to be hung in what school the board decided upon. This motion was unanimously carried.

WILL REVISE CSHEDULE

Mr. W. H. Hill spoke in reference to the revising of the present schedule of salaries for the public school teachers of the city. This was reccesary in order to secure the best teachers. First class professional teachers could not be procured at the present low salaries. The board had experienced considerable difficulty in getting good persons on accoun of the poor pay held out to them. Upon motion this matter was left to the supervision committee to deal with as they saw fit.

The meeting then adjourned.

LORD KELVIN'S RELIGION

A correspondent of the Church Times, writing from Scotland, in the course of an eulogy of the deceased evidently written from personal and intimate knowledge, said; 'There is another side of Lord Kelvin's life which is in danger of being forgotten or ignored. He was a great Christian, a man of robust and simple faith, one of God's 'holy and humble men of heart.' His lot is among those of whom the Lord Christ utters His last Beatitude, 'Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed.' He lived and dies a devout, true-hearted Churchman, and a loyal member of our Scottish Episcopal Church. Here, in this Church of St. Mary, he worshipped God for more than a quarter of a century. Here together with us he recited the great Creed of Christendom, and knelt humbly at God's altar to receive the Blessed Sacrament, and joined with reverent devotion in the common worship of the Church. And the public confession of his faith in God, which he made within the walls of his church Sunday by Sunday for more than twenty-five years, he was always prepared to ratify and maintain in speech and writing before the face of this world. He was never ashamed of his religion, and never afraid to put his trust in God.'

Messrs. A. R. Boswell and W. G. Cassels were appointed scrutineers.

The Secretary read the report of the Directors to the Shareholders and submitted the Annual Statement of the affairs of the Bank, which is as follows:

To the Shareholders:

The Directors beg to present the following Statement of the result of the business of the Bank for the year ending 31st December, 1907:

Balance of Profit and Loss Account, 31st December, 1906		$ 28,798 33
Premium received on new Capital Stock		933,456 87
Profits for the year ending 31st December, 1907, after deducting charges of management, etc., and making provision for bad and doubtful debts		635,235 51

		1,362,350 10
Balance of Profit and Loss carried forward		$235,140 61

RESERVE FUND

Balance at credit of account, 31st December, 1906	$3,900,000 00
Transferred from Profit and Loss Account	933,456 87
	$4,833,456 87

In view of the financial stringency which prevailed throughout the world in 1907, and the unsettled monetary conditions existing in the United States, it has been necessary to exercise unusual caution and prudence in administrating the affairs of the Bank. Our policy has been to restrict advances without interfering with the proper requirements of the customers of the Bank and to assist in marketing the products of the country—more especially the crops of the North Westerndistricts—at the same time maintaining strong Cash Reserves.

Having reference to our announcement at the Annual Meeting that one million dollars of new Capital Stock would be offered to the Shareholders in 1907, we have to inform you that on December 31st $983,700 of this amount was subscribed for, and $848,597.50 paid up.

During the past year it was considered advisable to establish Branches of the Bank at the following points: In the Province of Ontario, at Berlin, Hamilton, Ottawa, and at the corner of Queen and Victoria streets, Toronto; in the Province of Quebec, at the corner of Bleury and St. Catherine streets, Montreal; in the Province of Alberta at Strathcona; and at Vancouver, British Columbia.

The opening of our Vancouver Office not only marks our entrance into British Columbia, but completes a chain of Branches at all important centres from Montreal to the Pacific Coast, including the Capitals of the Western Provinces. Results so far indicate that these extensions will be of great benefit to the Institution.

We have to record with regret the death in January last of Mr. Timothy Eaton, whose varied business knowledge and sound judgment made him a valued member of your Directorate. Mr. John C. Eaton, his son, was appointed to fill the vacancy on the Board.

The Directors, as is customary, have verified the Head Office Balance Sheet, as on the 31st of December, 1907, including therein the auditing of our foreign balances and the certification of all Cash Reserves, Securities and Investments.

The usual careful inspection of the various Branches of the Bank has been made during the past twelve months.

E. B. OSLER,
President.

The Report was adopted.

The thanks of the Shareholders were tendered to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their services during the year, and to the General Manager and other Officers of the Bank for the efficient performance of their respective duties.

The following gentlemen were elected Directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. A. W. Austin, W. R. Brock, James Carruthers, R. J. Christie, J. C. Eaton, J. J. Foy, K.C., M.L.A.,; Wilmot D. Matthews, A. M. Nanton and E. B. Osler, M.P.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors Mr. E. B. Osler, M. P., was elected President and Mr. W. D. Matthews Vice-President, for the ensuing term.

Winnipeg Sensation is Growing Much Greater

Fifteen Hundred Persons Were Summoned for Alleged Infraction of the Lord's Day Act—Courts Will be Blocked for Months if Cases are Proceeded With.

Montreal, Feb. 6—A Winnipeg despatch to the Gazette says,

A curious state of things has been caused by the sensational summoning of 1500 persons by the city police for alleged infractions of the Lord's Day Act. Goaded by the taunts of the Sabbatarians and worried by the announcement of the Attorney-General of Manitoba that the police of Winnipeg would not assist him in carrying out the laws of the land, Chief McRae and his sergeants did this thing on Sunday and now the courts will be blocked for months if the matter is proceeded with.

The vastness of the task has even staggered the Attorney-General, and he has made no definite announcement as to the furtherance of his plans beyond stating that no injustice will be done. The preacher, the undertaker, the milkman and the wretched reporter, are safe from jail for a day or two yet. In the meantime the proprietors of the newspapers have been driven to a fine frenzy by the persistent campaign of the Sabbatarians. They have loaded up the columns of the daily papers with manifestos, sensational sermons, letters to the editors, interviews, and so on, mostly emanating from the facile age Methodist clergyman . tongue of one Rochester a Rat Port

The arrests on Sunday turned the scale against the famous collection plate alliance. The desertion from their duties on Sunday of the newspaper men has at last exasperated the long-suffering editors, and a proposal is now on the tapis, that the Sabbath Day Alliance and with it all the churches of Winnipeg be entirely dropped from the columns of their papers. The vast number of free ads announcements, advertisements gratis, of church grab socials, frantic Lord Day's appeals, reports of sermons, etc. will be entirely dropped from the columns.

It is anticipated that this will give on ordinary days three more columns for real news and advertisements and save much work and wages. On the Saturday editions it will save a whole page, and the work and expense incurred thereby will be pure profit to the papers.

An anomalous phase of the affair was that the newspaper men were at the time writing "boost" sermons of the Alliance. The public seems to be in accord with the passive resistance proposition. The liberty of the subject was seriously endangered in Winnipeg on Sunday. In the meantime the churches of England and Rome and their flocks calmly and with mild surprise view the twentieth century version of driving the people to religious services at the point of the sword.

Agent Took Pictures But So Far Has Failed to Return Them

Mr. Chas. Cooke, Reid St., is mourning the loss of three very valuable photographs, which he gave to a picture agent for the purpose of enlarging and framing. He called at the police station this morning and inquired what mode of procedure he should take to recover them. He said that a man by the name of Shipley, and whose headquarters were in Toronto, called at his house last August and took the pictures, promising to return them in a couple of weeks. There was one of Mr. Cooke which he had had taken in India while serving in the British Army. The other two photos were those of Mrs Cook's parents. Mr. Cook prizes these photographs very highly and would be greatly pleased to have the original copies.

Mr. Cooke will at once write the Chief of Police at Toronto in an endeavor to find the agent who absconded with the pictures. Fortunately no cash deposit was made at the time.

Principal Falconer will Address Local Convention

It is learned that Principal Falconer, of Toronto University, has accepted an invitation to give an address bfore the Teachers' Association of Peterborough, at their convention next May. It is understood that a joint convention of the city and county associations will be held and that Principal Falconer's address will be the feature. It will be given at an open meeting in the evening, which will be held in some hall where a large number can be accommodated.

The local associations are indeed fortunate to secure Principal Falconer and he will no doubt be given a hearty reception on his first visit to this city.

The convention will be held just before the 24th of May and promises to be the most successful in the history of the associations.

GAINED 15 POUNDS.

Mr. H. A. Thurston, of 223 Vermont St. E., Indianapolis, Restored by Ferrozone.

"A year ago I took the grippe. I was as weak as a child. I was no longer able to eat. My blood was thin. My cheeks were white and hollow. Doctors gave me all kinds of medicine, but none of them brought me strength. My friends said I was wasting away with some slow disease, and I bade them good-bye. Then I heard of the wonderful Ferrozone. After three days it gave me an appetite. I gained strength and became cheerful. Under Ferrozone I improved steadily. I am well to-day. I weigh fifteen pounds heavier than ever before, and feel like a new man.

(Signed) "H. A. THURSTON."

The effect of Ferrozone is instant, yet permanent. For upbuilding and invigorating the listless and depressed it has no equal. MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION

Mr. W. H. Moore, K. C., Deals With Subject in Interesting Manner.

I have observed an article contributed by President Eliot, of Harvard University, near Boston, Mass. on the recent occasion of the election of aldermanic candidates, many of whom had been pledged to the creation of a Board of Control, to take charge of an important branch of city work, and which though set up by the council, still would be independent of it, in its action. After making reference to the cases of Galveston and Washington, and their success under commission government, he proceeds to say that this mode of procuring efficient transaction of municipal business, or portions thereof, resembles the ordinary mode of conducting great industrial, financial and like companies. All city business, like all private business, he points out, needs a management which is continuous, and so expected to exercise foresight and good judgment in discerning and meeting the needs of the future; that it is impossible to do city business well through bodies replaced each year, and that a small central board charged with a part or the whole of the city's affairs, ought to be elected by the people. They should have a considerable amount of power, and direct responsibility. Each man's term of office should be at least five years, so that he should have time to prove his quality. In that case each would look ahead, and make long plans and see them carried out. The board would feel they had a trust to execute, and the means in their own hands; and that wherever this method had been applied, either in whole or part of the city's operations, a superior class of men had appeared and the high quality of their work maintained.

Mr. Eliot is a person of such eminent position and repute that I quote his continuing words of wisdom,—

"No improvement in the form of city government can remedy the existing abuses and evils, unless the change of form be accompanied by the selection of a different sort of man to conduct the new government. What, then, are the reasons for thinking suitable men could be obtained to administer municipal affairs discreetly and honorably, if government by commission or selection should be adopted! The right men for the new sort of administration would be experienced business men who had already been successful in their several occupations, and who, therefore, had a large stake in the moral and material welfare of the community over which they were chosen to preside. At present, almost all the men who serve as aldermen and councilmen in the American cities are of small capacity, and have never succeeded in any business or serious undertaking. Over and over again lists of the aldermen and councilmen of American cities have been published which show most of them to have little or no property, and no describable means of support. In short, they are not persons who have given evidence of capacity to administer successfully any large affairs.

In Boston the quality of the various commissions and boards, among which the greater part of the city business has been parcelled out, has been good from the beginning, and still is, and the work of these commissions and boards is the best municipal work done in Massachusetts. Witness the farseeing plans of the Metropolitan Water Board and of the Metropolitan Park Commission. So soon as the Boston School Committee was reduced from twenty-four to five, it was found possible to get five competent men to do the work; and immediately the new committee commanded to a striking degree the confidence of teachers, parents and the public at large. If it be clearly understood that successful men of proved capacity are wanted for the city's service, able men will be attracted to the service just because the standard of the service is set high. There are always plenty of good candidates for office with which go power, responsibility, and public consideration. To an office which requires for the proper discharge of its duties a high degree of intelligence and public spirit, public-spirited men, young and old, will aspire. That aldermen and common councilmen have fallen into contempt is a grave misfortune; for, that very fact makes it extremely difficult to recruit those bodies with desirable citizens except indeed in an occasional and spasmodic way. Whenever an office is aggrandized the man of capacity who really fills the office will set a new standard of efficient work for the office. Larger functions in fewer hands will command the service of better men—of men honest, efficient and public-spirited."

There is a remark Mr. Elliott makes which surprises me, that the commission ought to be elected by the people unless the existing political conditions make it more prudent to have it appointed outside the city which sounds a little strange to us in Canada. I have elsewhere pointed out that it would be impossible to take from the people in their present temper, their free choice of representatives. They must continue to elect the legislative body, but this body could very properly be invested with statutory power to nominate commissioners or boards of control, for fixed and lengthy periods of office, paid with due compensation, to perform various functions of administrative action, uncontrolled by the Council, but within defined limits. The duties now conferred on the Board of Works Committee, of this city, suggests itself as applicable, and the City Trust illustrates the position. The Council in such case would be responsible for the composition of the Board, and the latter body answerable to the Council, and to the people; or such bodies might be constituted by the direct vote of the electors, as are the Water Commissioners. But as at present viewed, accountability to the Council as well as to the people would perhaps be the better method of assuring effective service.

It is generally confessed, that the performances of the various duties of Councils, under existing law, and as now applied, does not commend itself to the people at large, and consequently we find agitation going on all over the land, looking to the adoption of reforms, based more or less on the principles I have advocated; and it is, I believe, a safe prediction to make, that within the next decade, legislative sanction will be obtained to adopt them in the cities and towns of Ontario.

POSTMEN HAD FEW LETTERS

And Usual Hum of Activity Was Missing at the Post Office To-day

Owing to the non-arrival of the trains and the lack of mail from outside points, the postmen had a comparatively easy time this morning. One of them had nothing to deliver except some bills from the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and a few letters from local sources. It was the lightest morning's work that the postmen have had since the system was inaugurated here, and a similar state of affairs may not exist again for years.

At the post office, too, the usual hum of activity was missing. There were few letters to stamp and the clerks did not have to exert themselves. Not for years was there such a small amount of mail to be handled.

IMPROVING THE VIOLIN.

"G String Prop" Makes New Harmonies a Possibility.

An innovation in violin making that is attracting considerable attention has been brought about through the ingenuity of Lester L. Sargent of Washington, who has contrived a simple but distinctly useful "G string prop" to enable the violinist to play simultaneously on three strings of his instrument, whereas heretofore it has been possible for him to play sustained chords of two notes only at a time. Thus the dominion of the "king of instruments" will be extended into the realm of harmony as well as of melody.

The new device itself is a small wedge shaped piece of bridge wood inserted on the violin bridge under the G string. Its dimensions, while dependent to some extent on the height of the bridge on the particular violin on which it is to be used and the character of the music to be played, are ordinarily as follows: Thickness, three sixty-fourths of an inch; length, five-eighths of an inch; width, three-sixteenths of an inch or slightly less. The hypotenuse of the prop is curved to fit smoothly on the bridge of the violin, and a notch for the G string is also made. To erect the device on the violin is an easy matter, it being only necessary to turn down the G string about a tone, to insert the prop underneath and then to turn up the string with care. In effect it becomes a component part of the bridge itself, but it can always be easily removed.

This method of elevating the G just enough to be sounded simultaneously with the D and A strings takes away the mechanical obstacle that Ole Bull managed to overcome by means of a flat bridge and his remarkable tours de force, but which no other violinist has attempted to cope with.

That this method of playing is entirely novel is evidenced by the fact that all works on orchestration have stated that sustained chords on the violin are restricted to two notes and that three and four voiced chords must be played as arpeggios. But a new and beautiful effect is now placed at the command of the violinist, although it is true that there are few compositions in which use has been made of the possibilities of writing beautiful chords on the three lower strings of the violin. De Beriot has a notable passage in his Fifth Concerto, but it remains chiefly for future composers of music for the violin to enlarge the present excellent repertory of the violin with compositions containing violin harmony.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Wind Plucked Turkeys.

Six turkeys slain that morning revolved slowly on a kind of spit in a small room on the ground floor of a great poultry farm, and as they revolved they were miraculously plucked. Invisible hands stripped off their plumage. The air was gray with falling feathers.

"Wind plucked turkeys—it is an experiment," said the foreman. "Those birds are being plucked by cross currents of electrically driven air. But the feathers come off very slowly. The experiment is not a commercial success.

"For many years we have tried to invent a poultry plucking machine. We have not succeeded well. Air plucking seems to be the idea that offers most promise, but it still wants a lot of working out. Yet eventually I have no doubt these turkeys that now take a half hour and cost 10 cents apiece to pluck by air will be air plucked in a few seconds and at no more cost than 10 cents a thousand."—New York Press.

A Photograph of Mars.

Of the photographs taken of the canals on the planet Mars a writer says: "Professor Lowell was good enough to send me three of his wonderful direct photographs of Mars taken last July, which are only four millimeters (nearly one-sixth of an inch) in diameter, and most wonderful photos they are. They show the snow caps and the darker and lighter shading, but with normal sight I can see a number of most beautiful lines—the canals—and, with the aid of a very low power hand glass not strong enough to show the fiber of the paper, I can count thirty-six of these perfectly straight lines, one of them double."

A School For Nobles.

Evidence that China is moving along toward a constitutional government is contained in the following item from a Shanghai daily newspaper: "Pao Hsi, vice president of the ministry of education, has recommended to the throne the establishment of a peerage school for the study of political economy and civil laws. Only sons of princes and dukes and other nobles shall be admitted into this school, which is to prepare its students for membership in the future Chinese house of lords."

The Caspian Sink.

It appears from the careful measurements of level recently made by Lieutenant Colonel Parlisky along the line of the Transcaspian railway that the level of the Caspian sea is eighty-three feet below the level of the oceans. If the Caspian sea were filled with water up to ocean level the town of Krasnovodsk, which stands on its shore, would be submerged, for the mean elevation of that town is between sixty-three and sixty-four feet below ocean level.

Fencing a Continent.

After five years' work the great transcontinental rabbit proof fence has been completed in West Australia. Its length is 2,036 miles, and the cost of its erection has been very nearly $1,250,000. It is furnished at intervals of five miles with systems of traps in which hundreds of rabbits are captured and destroyed daily.—Lloyd's Weekly.

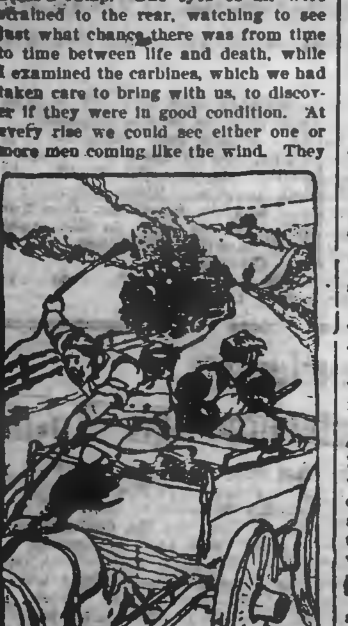
SWEET REVENGE

By
Captain F. A. MITCHEL,
Author of "Chattanooga," "Chickamauga," Etc.

Copyright, 1897, by Harper & Brothers.

The only answer was another "Git oop!" and renewed hammering on the horse's rump. The eyes of all were strained to the rear, watching to see just what chance there was from time to time between life and death, while I examined the carbines, which we had taken care to bring with us, to discover if they were in good condition. At every rise we could see either one or more men coming like the wind. They had evidently caught sight of us and were straining every nerve to catch us before we reached Decherd. I told the blacksmith to lay it on hard, well knowing that between us and our pursuers was only the life of his horse. He was raising his whip when the horse stumbled and fell, pitching most of us out of the wagon, fortunately on soft ground. Getting up and running to the prostrate animal, I found him stone dead.



We could see either one or more men coming like the wind.

We were still a quarter of a mile from the town, and the guerrillas would be on us in a jiffy. Calling to the others to help, I turned the wagon across the road and directed all to take position behind it. Distributing the guns, we waited the coming of the advance of our enemies. Three men, pretty near together, catching sight of us, drew rein and waited for their comrades. Others soon came up, and I counted seven men preparing to charge us. I was about to give an order as to the firing when I heard an exclamation from Ginger:

"Bress de Lawd!"

Turning, I saw a troop of cavalry carrying the stars and stripes riding leisurely from the town. I fired a shot to attract their attention. Suddenly they seemed to take in the situation. I heard the sharp word of command and saw them coming at a gallop. Glancing at the guerrillas, I saw them vanishing in the distance.

"Saved!" I cried.

"De bressed Lawd be t'anked!" shouted Ginger.

"Gol darn it," said Buck, "ef I'd 'a' had a shot I'd 'a' plunked one of 'em!"

"By Jove," remarked Beaumont, staring at the approaching troopers, "I'm a prisoner!"

There was a puff of smoke among the retreating guerrillas, the crack of a carbine, and Jack fell into Helen's arms.

Never was the pleasure of hard earned success more cruelly dashed at the moment of triumph. We had fought these fiends off for days, we had escaped from them to a coveted protection, and now, at the last moment, they had struck us severely. Jaqueline lay on the grass, her head and shoulders resting on Helen's arm, who stanched the blood which flowed from a wound in her side. I bent over her with a groan. Captain Beaumont for a moment seemed fired to chase the man who had shot her, then joined those about the wounded girl, muttering imprecations on the guerrillas and incoherently begging us to save his little Jaqueline.

"A surgeon!" I cried to the troopers, who were sitting on their horses looking on. "Some one go for a surgeon."

"Ride quick!" said the captain in command, turning to the man nearest him, "and bring a doctor and a conveyance from the town." Then to an officer: "Lieutenant, follow those men, and don't come back till you have captured every one of them. Take 20 men with the best horses. With fresh mounts you can run them all down."

A man dashed off toward the town and 20 more after the retreating guerrillas. Jack lay with her head on Helen's shoulder, her eyes closed, her face white as a cloth, we all about her, dreading every moment that the lifeblood would run out. Presently she opened her eyes, looked about her, then fainted away.

"Oh, my God!" cried Beaumont, "she's gone!"

"Keep off," cried Helen, "and give her air."

"Jack," cried Buck, terrified at her ghastly appearance, "wake up!"

I, with a soldier's knowledge of the thirst of a wounded person, dashed away in a hunt for water. I found a well in a yard on the outskirts of the town and, drawing the staple to the chain that held a tin cup, brought a plentiful supply. Helen was still supporting her cousin. Buck was striding about nervously, with his hands thrust down into his pockets, while Captain Beaumont was kneeling, his eyes peering into Jack's as though by his gaze he would hold the life that he dreaded was ebbing away. I sprinkled water in her face, and she opened her eyes, looking about her as if unable to understand her surroundings.

"What's the matter?"

Curiously enough, the words were the same as those I had first heard her utter when, wounded, I reclined on a sofa at her home.

"You're hurt, Jack," said Helen.

"Am I going to die?"

"Oh, no, dear. I hope not."

"Don't die," said Beaumont in a broken voice. "Don't leave me. I couldn't bear it."

She looked up into his face sadly. "I have been a bad girl to yo', captain. Forgive me."

"Forgive you? I love even your harsh words."

"Oh, Helen," she said, "I hope I won't die!"

"You won't, surely, Jack."

"Because if I do I can't dance any mo' fo' the colored people. Who'll look out fo' 'em, Helen? Papa's away, and no one else cares fo' 'em as he and I do."

"They'll have you with them for many a year, Jack."

An open wagon appeared in the road and drove up beside us. A doctor with a satchel in his hand got down and approached Jaqueline. Making a hasty examination of the wound, he bandaged it, then told us to lift her into the vehicle. The seats, except the front one, had been removed and their cushions placed on the bottom. Some of the cavalrymen tossed in their blankets, and I smoothed them over the cushions, making a comparatively comfortable bed. We placed little Jack upon it. Helen got in with her, and, the rest of us walking beside, the cavalry acting as escort, we bore her to the town and lodged her in a room in the main hotel of the place.

We found the town agog with news of the first day's battle at Pittsburg Landing, and I knew that my general would hold himself ready to co-operate. I determined to join my command at once. Having been assured that Jack's wound would not prove fatal, I arranged for the transportation of the party as soon as she could be moved, then gathered my little force in her room and announced my intended departure.

"I must now bid farewell," I said, "to my little army, every one of whom has become dearer to me than life."

"Like General George Washington," said Buck, "sayin farewell to his ossifers. There is a picture of it in my American school history."

"Goodby, Buck. Remember to get a book and pencil and break yourself of the habit of saying bad words."

"I will, by thunder!"

"Goodby, little girl," I said to Jack, bending down and kissing her on the forehead.

"Where yo' going?"

"I? Oh, I'm going away."

Helen's eyes were gleaming. "Where are you going?" she asked, repeating Jack's question, though in a different tone.

I had managed to keep my connection with the Union army thus far a secret. Now I knew there was no need to keep it longer.

"To the Federal army, where I belong."

The mute agony on Helen's face told what my disclosure had cost her. Extending my arms, I cried one word, "Sweetheart!"

"Renegade!" she hissed.

"Helen, dear love, hear me."

She turned her back upon me and swept out of the room.

"I like yo' ef yo' are a Yankee," Jack cried after me.

I left the hotel, my brain in a tumult. Coming up the road was a little knot of troopers surrounding the guerrillas whom they had run down and captured. A few hours ago I would have cried out with delight. Now they were no more to me than if I saw them in a dream.

CHAPTER XXII.

HUNTING BIG GAME.

It was the morning of the 11th of April, 1862. I was nearing the spot I occupied at the opening of my story, where the bushwhacker had sought to kill me, though then I was alone, while now I was with an advancing army. Five hundred cavalry, a division of infantry and several batteries of artillery were hurrying down the road toward the beautiful city of Huntsville, lying, tranquil and unsuspecting, a few miles below. The upper edge of the sun was peering above the horizon, gilding the crest of the foothills of the plateau on the east, the tree tops and the roofs of the neighboring houses. The flowers, which a fortnight before were opening, were now in full bloom. They looked innocently from the gardens beside the road, they leaned lovingly against the pillars of the verandas, and from vines trailing over casements they smiled at the rising sun, while the breath of morning was laden with their perfume.

It was the general's purpose to surprise the city, capture the railroad machine shops and the rolling stock concentrated there, then make up trains laden with troops, seize a hundred miles of the Memphis and Charleston railroad on either hand, thus opening communication with the army at Pittsburg Landing on the west and paving the way for future operations in east Tennessee on the east. The enemy must not be given time to move troops to protect the city, for even should we defeat them they would destroy the shops and run off the rolling stock. All depended on celerity and secrecy.

The evening before we had bivouacked ten miles north of the city. Our scouts permitted no one to go south of us, enfolding all they met in order that no news of our approach could reach the place we hoped to surprise. Two hours before dawn the command was aroused—not by the fife or the bugle, but by whispering officers—and the march was resumed with no sound save the tread of men and horses and the rumble of artillery. Within a few miles of the city detachments of mounted men, armed with telegraph cutting and track tearing implements, dashed to the left and to the right to prevent the enemy from sending for troops or running off the rolling stock. To another detachment which rode among the advance columns was assigned the duty of seizing the telegraph office.

Boom!

Hark, a gun! It comes from the eastward, not half a mile distant, where the railroad runs parallel with the pike. Artillery is driving back a locomotive. The iron monster shrieks like some wild beast that has met its death wound.

Boom!

More whistles all along the track far down to the south, varying in distinctness from a near, loud cry to a distant, faint moan. This is fine hunting—stalking locomotives with cannon. Did any South African sportsman ever strike such game or hunt with such guns?

Boom, boom, boom! Far and near the shotted guns speak; far and near the metal monsters cry out in terror.

Boom!

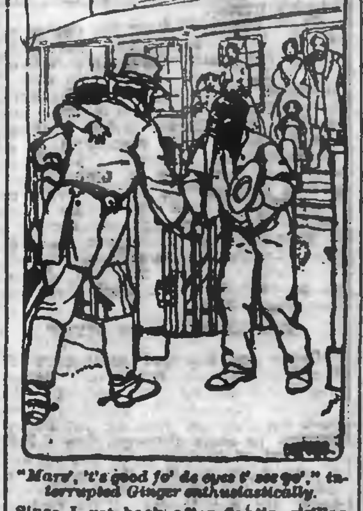
All are bagged, except one more daring than the rest, which runs the gauntlet of artillery and with a round shot flying through its cab speeds out of range.

Meanwhile sashes in the houses along the road are being raised, shutters flung open and heads put out to learn the cause of the commotion. As guns boom, whistles shriek and cavalry clatter along the road, followed by men rapidly marching and artillery horses briskly dragging the guns, many a citizen who the night before had gone to sleep not dreaming of a foe looks upon the passing armed throng, listens to the sound of the cannon and the shrieks of the engines and wonders if pandemonium has come.

I am drawing near the Stanforths'. There is the house, with its broad verandas and its peak roof. A knot of people are at the front gate, but I am yet too far to see who they are. Now I can distinguish the turbaned Lib. There is a boy perched on one of the gate posts. It is Buck. That girl, tall and slender, is surely Helen. As I draw nearer I can see Ginger, his broad mouth stretched in a grin of pleasure at sight of Yankee troops. A figure is sitting in a wicker chair on the veranda, dark eyes flashing in a pale face. It is Jaqueline.

Riding up to the gate, I am out of my saddle almost before my horse has stopped. Buck gives a cry and jumps into my arms. Ginger grasps my hand.

"By jingo, Mr. Brandystone," cried Buck, "I'm mighty glad to see you! Since I got back after fightin g'rillas like"—



"Mars', 't's good fo' de eyes t' see yo'," interrupted Ginger enthusiastically.

"Mars', 't's good fo' de eyes t' see yo'," interrupted Ginger enthusiastically.

"After fightin g'rillas like a man"—

"What! Mr. Branderstane, and in the uniform of a Federal officer!"

It was Mr. Stanforth. He looked at me, surprised, then put out his hand. But I always suspected the old man to be at heart a Unionist.

Buck kept on. "After fightin g'rillas like a man I come back"—

"Upon my word!"

Another of the family was expressing surprise to see a former guest with the Union troops. Mrs. Stanforth looked pained, but she had nursed me when I was suffering, and her motherly feelings got the better of her prejudices. I took her hand, and she did not withdraw it.

"I say, Mr. Brandystone," Buck now fairly shouted, "after fightin g'rillas like a man I come back hyar to be follered roun' by that doggone old Lib!"

It was out at last, and the boy looked relieved. I broke away and, advancing toward Helen, put out my hand.

She turned away from me with contempt.

Fortunately at that moment I espied little Ethel looking at me wistfully and, taking her up, hid my face and my anguish in her tresses. Then, looking up, I saw that Jack was waiting for me, and, going upon the veranda, I took both her hands in mine.

"Yo're the only Yankee in the world I want to see," she said enthusiastically.

"Golly!" cried Buck behind me. Turning, I saw what had surprised him—the guerrillas riding by as prisoners. They had been conducted to Shelbyville by the company of cavalry which had captured them and were now a part of the procession of men and horses hurrying by. Captain Ringold looked up at us with a melancholy stare. He caught sight of Jack, and I shall remember to my dying day the sad look in his eyes as they rested for a moment upon hers.

The advancing army moved rapidly on and was soon a mingled mass of guns and horses in the distance. The sun touched bayonets and flags flashed for an instant, then were lost in a turn in the road. The region which had so suddenly been enlivened relapsed into the quiet of the country.

Jaqueline begged me to go into the house. I declined. Mr. Stanforth added his invitation.

"Thank you, Mr. Stanforth, but I must rejoin my regiment at once. This is no time for me to be absent."

"You shall come in long enough to drink one glass of wine to show that you are our friend." I saw that he would be not only hurt, but, with his strong southern impulse, angered if I refused, and I reluctantly consented to spare a few minutes to pledge my former host.

I entered the house supporting Jack and was turning into the library, where I had passed my time while wounded, when Jack guided me into the parlor opposite. Helen left us and went into the library. Lib came in bearing a decanter and glasses. I drank to the host and the assembled company, promising that during the occupation by the Union forces I would use my influence to gain them every favor and protection. I had drained my glass and, setting it down, was about to go out to mount my horse when Helen came out of the library and crossed the hall, hand in hand with an officer in Confederate uniform. His forehead was bound with a handkerchief, he walked with difficulty and, I judged, had been severely wounded. Jack sprang forward and seized the other hand.

"Major Branderstane," said Helen, "my brother."

Great God! Before me stood—my enemy!

As at night by a flash of lightning one may see for an instant a landscape distinct in all its details, so I saw again the events of the night of the massacre. There were the flashing shotguns, the soldiers coming down the hill, a figure with garments streaming in the wind running to me for protection. And now before me stood the man with the smoking pistol. Involuntarily I put my hand to my revolver.

"I am your prisoner, sir," he said quickly. "You do not need your weapon."

Helen's eyes flashed. "Would you shoot an unarmed man?"

Jack, mute with terror, staggered to the gray clad figure and clung to it, her expressive eyes bent on me, a mingled flame of reproach and wrath.

My hand rested on my holster. I moved not, spoke not, but stood staring at the group that stared at me. This man, whom I had been hunting to kill, whom Helen had stimulated me to pursue, against whom she had even voluntarily pledged herself to aid me in my revenge, had now suddenly appeared as her brother.

"I was wounded," said the officer, "at Fort Donelson and was brought here to my father's house. I am unable to endure the fatigue of flight; therefore I am compelled to surrender."

"Captain Stanforth, I have been hunting for you for months."

"Me?"

"You."

"What for?"

A hush came over all, as if about to listen to a sentence of death.

"To kill you."

There was a brief murmur among those looking on, then they stood breathless, waiting for the next scene in what promised to be a tragedy. Only Helen knew what my words meant. I saw a spasmodic quiver pass over her as I had seen death touch a comrade who had been shot in battle. Then, gathering her forces, she stood still, her face denoting the smothered fires of a volcano.

"May I ask, sir," said the officer, pale but calm, "why you desire my death?"

"The wrong, the brutal wrong you did."

I know not why some demon of barbarism should have come to me at this critical moment when of all others I should have shown gentleness and magnanimity. Here was an opportunity to make a graceful acknowledgment of Helen Stanforth's service and sacrifice, perhaps to heal the breach between us. I threw it away. My abandoned purpose was rekindled—I was crazed by Helen's treatment. I drew my revolver and brought it to bear on my unarmed enemy.

"Coward!" cried Helen.

I turned to her scornfully. "Who bade me pursue this man to the bitter end?"

"I."

"Who promised to aid me?"

"I."

"Who now begs for her brother's life at the hands of a southern renegade?"

"I? Never!" She sprang between me and her brother. "Fire!"

Revolutionists Attack Oporto

Report of Flight of Ex-premier Franco is Confirmed

Will Retain Nine Hour Day for 1908

Bricklayers and Stonemasons Have Come to This Decision

At a meeting of the local union of bricklayers and stonemasons on Tuesday night it was decided to retain the nine-hour day for 1908. There had been some agitation in favor of an eight-hour day, but after the matter was fully discussed the decision was reached to work nine hours per day for the present year. The principal point in favor of the nine-hour day was that the contractors of the armoury and new Catholic church had taken the contracts on the nine-hour day basis for stone-cutters and bricklayers and it was felt that it would be unfair to them to adopt the eight-hour day. The stand of the union in this matter is most commendable.

Professor Fernow In the City To-day

He Remarks Upon the Vital Importance of Foresting.

Prof. Fernow, professor of Forestry, at the University of Toronto, is stalled up in the city. He is returning from having lectured in Montreal before the Natural History Club, there on Forestry. "I am more strongly convinced," he says, "than ever that the future of this country depends upon the conservation of our forests. Moreover if we are to preserve our water powers, we must look to the forests, for treeless land means an irregular precipitation of moisture and therefore an unreliable flow of water. At the present time Canada has the control of the wood supply of this continent which will continue only so long as she conserves it."

Storm Demoralizes Traffic on Railways

Only One Train Left Peterborough Since Last Evening at Six O'clock ==Two Trains From the East Stalled at C. P. R. Station

C. P. R. Track Blockaded Between Here and Toronto—Worst Tie-up in the History of Railroading Since 1884---Travellers Have Unpleasant Experiences.

Not for years in the history of railroading in this district has there been such a complete tie up as there was last night and to-day. On both C.P.R. and G.T.R. lines the same blocked conditions of the roads exist and traffic is at a standstill. The winter of 1908 will go down in history as the worst for snowstorms and blizzards. The railroads have had one long series of difficulties in getting trains through on schedule time, and of late travellers can easily count on their trains being several hours behind time.

All yesterday afternoon there was a heavy fall of snow which seemed to be general all over Ontario. About five o'clock a north-east wind arose and a blizzard that has been unsurpassed for some time in Peterborough for severity, carried and drifted the snow, piling and filling up all the roads in the country. So terrific was the gale that to face it one became almost blinded with the snow and it was with exceedingly great difficulty that pedestrians were able to walk. The wind whistling through the telegraph wires made one shiver to hear it, but people comfortably attirred enjoyed the bristling, exhilarating atmosphere of an ideal Canadian winter's night.

The snow that fell was of a heavy and compact nature, making it exceedingly laborous to shovel. The snow having been piled high alongside the tracks by the previous snow falls, made an excellent cavity for the snow to fill in. Being very deep, great hardship was experienced in an endeavor to keep the road clear. All efforts to prevent blockading were given up and the bold relentless storm held sway. At about midnight the weather moderated and the wind changed to the south-west, but the snow still blew in a whirling, dizzy movement.

G.T.R. TRAINS STALLED.

"This is the most treacherous storm we have had for twenty years," said Mr. Chas. Noyes, the popular G.T.R. gateman at Charlotte street today, who has had twenty-five years of experience in the railway business in Canada. Twenty-three years ago, he stated, was worse than last night. At that time there were three days in which trains were unable to make any progress whatever. In fact, Mr. Noyes said that he does not think there has been a worse tie-up since then until this winter.

There has only been the one train on the G.T.R. today. They have suffered even greater inconvenience than the C.P.R., and are completely stranded. Several of the trains have never started out, while others are stalled at different points along the route. A train consisting of a double-header and one passenger car, was made up at Lindsay and passed through the city en route to Port Hope at two o'clock this afternoon. A snow plough preceded it. A large number of passengers, many of them desiring to reach Toronto, took this train, hoping that they could make connections at Port Hope for the Queen City.

TRAINS STALLED HERE.

Over one hundred passengers off the Montreal and Ottawa early morning C.P.R. trains are spending the day in Peterborough, unable to proceed further and waiting for a snow plough to come through. The C.P.R. line east of here is well cleared, and a passenger on the Montreal train informed the Review, that while the train did not travel at its fastest, it made excellent progress, and pulled into here only two hours behind schedule time. The tourists are receiving excellent treatment at the hands of the C.P.R. officials and are being fed here at the different hotels of the city. They are spending the day very pleasantly, and seem to be enjoying the inconvenience.

The 4.48 train from the east that got here at six o'clock last night is stalled at Burketon while the local from the West is at Claremont. No other trains have been sent out and as yet there is little likelihood of there being any in here today. The roads between here and Toronto are in a terrible condition and it will be only with the combined work of snow shovellers that it can be cleared. The train snow plough is of little use in clearing the tracks as the snow is packed so closely that it requires manual labor to remove it.

THEATRICAL TROUPE HERE

The "Jerry from Kerry" troupe was to have played in Lindsay tonight but are unable to do so as they are obliged to remain here, owing to delayed trains and will present their show at the Grand Opera House. The "Message from Mars," was to have been given here this evening but will be unable to be here. A band with the "Jerry from Kerry" company furnished music at the corner of George and Hunter streets today at noon and attracted a large crowd by the excellent programme rendered.

STREET CARS BLOCKKED

For the first time this winter, the street cars experienced considerable difficulty in running last night and the service was very slow. It was impossible to run on scheduled time and it was fortunate that they were able to get through at all. Almost as soon as the lines were cleared they were again piled deep with snow and in some places progress was an impossibility. The car men had a hard time at the southern end of George St. The line below the exhibition grounds was terribly drifted and at the loop the snow was nearly as high as the street cars. This part of the road had to be cancelled. Between six and seven o'clock last evening one car ran into the snow bank and was not got out until this morning. The snow was piled so closely around the car that all efforts to get it on the track were of no avail. However, the sweeper was out before daylight this morning and had the road cleared in time for the service which has been excellent all day.

MAIL CARRIERS NOT BUSY.

The mail carriers are having an easy time of it today, there being no papers or letters brought to the city. About the only thing they were seen delivering were the electric light bills and a little other local correspondence. However, when the trains do get here they will be kept busy delivering the delayed mails.

It is expected that if another gale does not arise the trains will be again running all right tomorrow.

Shetland Ponies at C.P.R. Station

A carload of Shetland ponies, twenty in number, were delayed at the C.P.R. station, owing to the impassable condition of the railroad. The sight was interesting, as it is very rarely, that one sees such a large number together. Four of the ponies were brought direct from the Shetland Islands. The remainder of the number had been kept in England for about a year, and these were in splendid condition. The little horses had been brought direct from St. John's, in charge of a man who was taking them through to Wilmore, Kentucky. There they will bring the fancy prices of from $150 to $250 each.

PASSED AWAY IN TORONTO

Word was received in the city today of the death of Bartholomew Crowley, which occurred in Toronto this morning. The late Mr. Crowley is an old resident of Peterborough. Fuller particulars will be given tomorrow. The funeral will take place here.

Worst Tie-up in Railroad Traffic Since Year 1884

Parts of Province Completely Isolated as Far as Railway Communication is Concerned—The Situation at Toronto

Special to The Review

Toronto, Feb. 6—Promise of slowly rising temperatures for today offers the railway companies their first day of relief from the rigorous weather of the past few days. Not since 1884 have the roads in Ontario been so tied up. The train service out of Toronto is entirely crippled while cities and towns north and west of Orangeville have no service whatever. Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon four trains, two on the Grand Trunk and two on the Canadian Pacific have left Toronto. Three were for the east and the fourth for Hamilton.

Five trains came in this morning from Montreal, Hamilton, Buffalo and Chicago.

The Canadian Northern remains completely tied up.

Distinguished Gentlemen In Peterborough To-day

Peterborough is today honored by the presence of several distinguished gentlemen. And we have to thank the storm for their visit. Among those here are Hon. Senator G. W. Ross, late Premier of Ontario; Mr. W. F. McLean, M.P.P., proprietor of the Toronto World; Mr. Cockshutt, M.P., of Brantford, late president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and Prof. Fernow, Professor of Forestry in the University of Toronto. Hon. Mr. Ross, Mr McLean and Mr. Cockshutt were on their way from Ottawa to Toronto, and Prof. Fernow was on his way home Montreal. They were on the C.P.R. train which arrived here at noon, and is still stalled here. The gentlemen came up town and dined at one of the hotels.

Snow Blockade Was a Blessing

Over One Hundred Unemployed Men Given Work on C.P.R.

The blockading of the railroads proved a blessing to at least one hundred men of the city today. The C.P.R. asked for men to shovel snow and it was not long after that the required number was made up, and feeling highly pleased over the prospects of going to work, the gang left the local depot at two o'clock for Pontypool to work. The company is paying a dollar and forty cents per day and giving them their board. The old saying that it is an ill wind that blows no one some good is very true and applicable to the above incident.

OBITUARY

JOSEPH LUNDY.

There died at 340 Aylmer street at six o'clock last night one of the most lovable and endearing men in the history of Peterborough. Mr. Joseph Lundy, born in Ballyshannon, County Cavan, Ireland, came to Canada in the early days and settled in Peterborough. By dint of care he amassed in time a competence but not one dollar of it was tainted. What a lesson in this regard his life teaches to many who surpass him in the riches of this world but scarcely in those of the next. The characters of few men living or dead are really worth analysing but it is not so with Mr. Lundy. It has been said that the highest praise than can be bestowed on man is that he was at once lovable and strong. It is customary to write long obituaries of those who have done much frequently for evil in the world and to neglect those whose simple life has by that very fact kept them in retirement if not obscurity. Although Mr. Lundy was prominently connected with the municipal life of Peterborough from its earlier stages it is not in the mere list of his appointments that we find what is best and greatest in this man. Those who had the privilege of his friendship will long mourn an upright, honorable and estimable citizen.

Mr. Lundy was 77 years of age at the time of his death. He leaves a family consisting of four sons, Joseph and William, of Peterborough, and Richard and Frank, of Toronto. His wife predeceased him eight years ago. Mr. Lundy held the office of assessor and returning officer for a great many years. As a contractor he built the C.P.R. stations between Toronto and Indian River, except at Peterborough. The funeral will be at two o'clock on Friday from his late residence, 340 Aylmer street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

ELMER G. WOOD.

Much regret is felt at the death of Elmer G. Wood, who passed away on Wednesday, January twenty-ninth at the age of twenty years after a very distressing illness. The remains were borne to their last resting place in Little Lake cemetery Friday afternoon. Being of a loving and kind disposition the late Mr. Wood won many friends who deeply feel the great loss sustained by his death. He lived a quiet, Christian life, and was a member of Zion Methodist church. The funeral services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. T. Harrison, and was very largely attended. Deceased was born in the township of Seymour in the year 1880. Some time ago he removed with his parents to Otonabee township where he has since resided. In 1904 he was united in marriage to Miss Edith Kent, daughter of Mr. Andrew Kent, of Otonabee. She with two children survive. He also leaves to mourn his loss his father and mother, two brothers and one sister, he being the first of the family to pass away. The bereaved wife and family have the deep sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad affliction. The deceased was a member of Court Zion C.O.F. the members of which attended the services in a body and administered the last sacred rites of fraternity.

Great Game to be Played; Strathconas vs Norwood

Exhibition Game Between Fastest Teams in the City League—Norwood Has Chance to Meet Champions—Strathcona-Bridgenorth Game Declared Off.

Strathconas will play two exhibition games with Norwood in the near future. As it is just a question as to which is the best team of the two, the match should be a very fast one. Although earlier in the season the Straths defeated Norwood by 9—5, it is the opinion of many that the boys in green and white would give the champions the run of their lives when the two teams meet. When the Straths trimmed Norwood the latter were by no means in the shape they are now, and by their defeat of the High Lifes last night by 10—6, proved that they are a top notch aggregation of puck chasers. The Straths won from the High Lifes by 8—6, and from the scores it would seem that there is little to choose between them and Norwood. The record crowd of the season should be present to see the tussle, which will be the premier one of the season. Particulars as to the date will be given later.

The game between Bridgenorth and the Strathconas has been declared off.

Strathconas are Champions; Won by Acclamation From Lakefield Last Night

Norwood and High Lifes Give Great Exhibition of Hockey on Fast Sheet of Ice—Team From Eastern Town Defeated Locals in Spectacular Contest by Score of 10-6—Led by 5-0 at One Time—It Was Hockey Worth While—Strathconas 9, Lakefield 0.

Strathconas are winners of the City League Championship. By defeating Lakefield last night in a runaway they carried off the honors. It was really too easy for the Straths, who defeated the Cementville seven by a score of 9—0.

The first game of the regular City League evening was the one between Norwood and the High Lifes. The Norwood seven showed magnificent form and landed the victory, the score being 10—6. The winners ran in the first five and at half time led by 6—3. In the second half High Lifes did much better work than in the first and a very interesting article of hockey was furnished. Norwood secured four goals in this period and High Lifes three.

The match was a pretty strenuous one, and Referee Wasson had his hands full in keeping down the players, who were inclined to be somewhat too merry with the gad. There were eighteen penalties handed out during the progress of the match, and some of them for the five minute stretch. His decisions were given impartially and he kept the game well under control all the way through.

The crowd was a big one despite the coldness of the weather, and much enthusiasm was shown by the spectators.

Norwood undoubtedly played a game worthy of special mention. From the goal tender out the line-up was quick and clever, and the forward line was especially good. Kempt and Doherty, two of the fastest men seen on the ice this season, were right on last night, and figured in some dazzling plays. Both played such superb games it would be difficult to particularise as to which one did the best work. In fact there was little to choose between either of the above two, or Scott, who played on right wing. Scott has always done good service for the Norwood seven, and played the game of his life. Without exception there was not a more effective man on either team. When he once got away it was a mighty hard thing to stop him. Several of the goals secured by Norwood were directly responsible to passes from him from the wing. Kempt always plays a dashing and effective game. His rushing, skating and quick checking work were of the gilt edged variety, and he never let up for an instant. He made no mistakes and was of inestimable value to his team. On a couple of occasions when Doherty shot out it was simply a case of a dash and a score. His foot work and expert stick handling were almost perfect. Nichol, at cover, showed that he is one of the cleverest men in the league. All season he has played a fast and heady game, and last night played even better than usual. He had all kinds of speed and was right at home in breaking up rushes and relieving his territory. Whenever he was beat out it was because it was an impossible matter to get either the man or the puck. Huycke, in goal, played a strong and steady game.

The High Lifes were a little late in getting started, but when they did get going in the second half they gave the wearers of the red and green the battle of their lives. The whole team were in the best of form in the second half and played crisp and intelligent hockey. Quinn and Rose did great execution on the forward line, and Ferguson and Thornton played splendid games on the defence. "Fergy" worked hard all the time and did some remarkably good work in his position. His checking was hard and swift, and he carried the puck into the enemy's territory time and time again. Thornton in the nets guarded his post in a brilliant manner and did some excellent playing in the position.

Owing to the ice being hard and flinty, it was some time before the players thoroughly got their balance, but when they once got going a clip was set that had the majority of intermediate teams completely faded. This is particularly true of Norwood's showing in the first half, when they tore off some spectacular plays.

In the Strathcona-Lakefield game it was surprisingly easy for the Straths. Lakefield seemed tied up, and their famous Quinn didn't get away for a solitary tally. In fact there was no special brilliancy on the part of any of the northern lads, and they were completely played off their feet by their speedy and aggressive opponents. The Straths let themselves out to the full extent, and there was no possibility of stopping them. Every man played creditably. Wilson, in goal, had medals pinned all over him, and it was just like trying to beat out a stone wall to get the rubber by him. He was deaf to all the responses of Lakefield for a redemption from whitewash, and played easily the best game he has this winter. The other members of the defence, Meagher and Dusty, were always in the thick of the fight, while the whole forward line did noble work. Long, at centre, proved a great goal getter, while Weatherstone, on the wing line, did not show any sympathy with the Lakefield septette, and was instrumental to a great extent in running up the big score.

HIGH LIFES—NORWOOD

Play commenced with a rush on the High Life's goal and for a few minutes the puck was around the local nets.

Ferguson took the lead in the penalty procession, being rested for two minutes. Scott was put away for one minute for cross checking. On a pass from Pearce Doherty scored in 9 minutes. 1—0.

Ferguson became too unruly and was boarded for five minutes. Nichol was penalized for 2 minutes. Pearce was given one minute for loafing off-side. Smith was the next one to be chased and was benched for a minute, Kempt tallied for Norwood, breaking away in a rush from a short distance from the Norwood goal. 4 min. 2—0.

Doherty again did the trick for the eastern septette. 1 min. 3—0. For the next few minutes Thornton was kept very busy, the shots being rained in on him from all sides. He did some exceedingly clever work. Scott rushed well and passed to Kempt, who notched a goal. 1 1-2 minutes. 4—0.

Quinn got past the Norwood forwards, and through their defence and had a clear shot on goal. Huycke had his eye on the rubber, however, and made a splendid stop. Kempt found the nets on a neat pass from Scott.

Scott was penalized for a minute. Quinn got High Life's first in two minutes. 5—1. Nicholl made a brilliant individual rush, but was too closely checked to shoot hard. Foley was caught loafing and had to do a minute. Thornton got in the way of a red hot one from Doherty. Doherty made a sensational run and scored. 10 minutes. 6—1.

Huycke stopped a close one, but Foley got hold of the disc on the rebound and sent it through. 2 min. 6—2.

Quinn shot on goal, the puck hitting Huycke's stick and going in. 30 seconds. 6—3

SECOND HALF.

Rose was shifted to the wing in Foley's place in this half, the latter playing rover. The change proved a good one and strengthened the High Life's line.

The puck had hardly been faced before Kempt tallied for Norwood. 1 minute. 7—3.

Kempt was sojourned for a minute. Scott was given the same length of time for tripping. Doherty and Smith collided, the former having his eye painfully bruised, necessitating a short delay. He was on the ice only a short time when he secured the next goal for Norwood. 4 min. 8—3.

Kempt took the next on a pass from Scott. 3 1-2 minutes 9—3.

Foley was given a minute's penalty for slashing. Rose scored. 5 minutes. 9—4.

Rose was rested two minutes, followed by Ferguson, who was given 3. Nicholl sent a long one from cover, which beat out Thornton. 3 1-2 minutes. 10—4.

Umpire McKenty, of Norwood, seemed a little too excited behind the nets and, upon demand of the High Life's, he was told to find a seat among the vast gathering of ordinary observers. Rose evened things up a little by getting a goal for the High Lifes. 2 1-2 minutes. 10—5.

Rose went after Kempt in a more eager way than met with the referee's approval, and was sent to the fence for a minute. Ferguson and Kempt decorated the boards for a mutual misdemeanor. They were given three minutes. Rose got the last goal of the night. 4 minutes. 10—6. With eight minutes to play Smith and Nicholl were panalized for five minute each.

Although the line-up of the Strathconas as given above would seem to be a surety for a hard and evenly contested game, the wearers of the red and white played rings around the local option seven and won almost as they pleased.

The first goal was a long time coming, however, Dusty getting first blood on a pass from Long in 13 1-2 minutes. 1—0.

Dusty shot, Crawford stopped, Long whacked it into the nets. 1 1-2 minutes. 2—0.

Long was retired a minute for slashing. Dusty cross checked and was put off for two minutes. Weatherstone rushed down the boards and scored on a neat side shot. 9 min. 3—0.

SECOND HALF.

Meagher, after a pretty rush, shot on goal and Long wa atnere for the rebound. 6 minutes. 4—0.

M. Sabatino saved Lakefield from a penalty whitewash, being the only one of the cement town bunch to do time for rough play. He was given a minute. Dobson received a bad gash over the eye and was forced to quit the game. Moran went off with him to even up. Long did the necessary for the High Lifes on a rush started by Meagher. 1 minute. 7—0.

Long again put in another on a pass from Ray. 4 minutes. 8—0.

Dusty cross checked Crawford and was put out of the game for five minutes. Weatherstone made good on a clean shot. 3 minutes. 9—0.

Long was given a minute for tripping.

Final score:—

Interesting Game Between Two Picked Rinks Yesterday

A. Webb.	A. McIntosh
A. Moore.	J. B. Knapman

R. Neill, Sk.—15.	R. Hicks, Sk.—18

Another match between the same rinks is being played this afternoon for a hundred-weight of flour, to be given to the Children's Aid Society.

LOCALS WIN THE ONTARIO CUP

Good News From Peterborough Curlers at Toronto

Word was received from Toronto today that the Peterborough curlers had won the Ontario cup. The two local rinks played Orillia yesterday afternoon and won out after an exciting match. This morning they defeated the opposing rinks and captured the Ontario cup. It is not known who their opponents were to-day.

The curlers will be home to-night weather and trains permitting.

NO LICENSE REDUCTION AT LINDSAY

Town Council Votes Down Proposal to Introduce By-law to Reduce Licenses

Lindsay, Feb. 3.—Memory must revert to some notable occasion in the days of ward politics and rivalry of factions in order to match the crowd of citizens present at last night's meeting of the town fathers. The chamber was packed to the doors by advocates of temperance, hotel men and their supporters, the former largely predominating—perhaps because the word had gone forth that an imposing show of strength might help the cause on the particular occasion. A number of ladies appeared among the advocates of temperance, and in this respect the latter enjoyed an unique advantage, because no member of the fair sex lent gracious countenance to the cause of the liquor men. Fully 50 young men were marshalled into the chamber by Messrs. Cook and Thompson, of the Y.M.C.A., and Rev. Dr. Bishop, pastor of Cambridge street Methodist church, and Rev. G. R. Welch, of the Baptist congregation, were well to the fore.

Mayor Begg and all members were present. The minutes of last meeting were read by Clerk Knowlson, and on motion were confirmed.

After a deputation headed by Rev. Mr. Welch, had addressed the Council Ald. Smale, seconded by Ald. Calvert, moved that leave be given for the introduction of a by-law to reduce the number of tavern licenses.

A vote was then taken, the rule governing the case precluding any discussion. The show of hands was as follows:—

FOR BY-LAW.
Ald. Smale,
Deputy-Reeve Eyres,
Ald. Rea,
Ald. Campbell,
Ald. Calvert—5.

AGAINST BY-LAW.
Ald. Dobson,
Reeve G. Jordan,
Ald. W. Jordan,
Ald. McGeough,
Mayor Begg—5.

Mayor Begg—"I declare the motion lost."

The temperance people gasped, the hotel men smiled and looked tickled.

The American Hotel at Gananoque was damaged to the extent of $2,000 by fire last night.

Local Man Sprang One That Could Not be Beaten—The Storms in Those Days

The present storm is a comparatively insignificant one to those they had in days gone by. This morning four wayfayers from Western Ontario, who are stalled here, were talking with a local business man concerning the blockaded condition of the railway lines, and told of the almost unparalleled tie-up of the traffic.

The local gentleman in question blandly remarked, "Yes, it's rather bothersome, but as I was saying to my wife this morning, it used to be really exciting when the horses feet got tangled up in the telephone wires in the days when there were real storms. Of course"—but the rest of his remarks were lost in the blizzard.

GOOD WORK OF RESTAURANT

About sixty people are having their wants supplied at the Children's Aid relief restaurant. This number represents 15 families. Tickets have been issued and may be obtained from the secretary of the Children's Aid Society, Mr. Goodwill, at the law office of Roger, Bennett and Goodwill, Water street; Mr. P. Campbell, the treasurer, at the Bank of Toronto, or Mr. George Cochrane, the agent of the Society.

If any persons wishing to give clothing or food to the poor in the city will leave their addresses with either of the above mentioned three officials their contributions will be called for. Communications may be made either by 'phone or postal card.

Contributions are being received in generous quantities and the officers of the Society desire to express their sincere thanks for the same.

Arranging for Good Concert

Queen Alexandra Circle to Hold One in Near Future

The regular meeting of Queen Alexandra Circle, A.O.F., was held last night. In the absence of C. Companion, Mrs Head occupied the chair. One candidate was duly initiated into the Circle. The auditor's report was read, which showed the Circle to be in a flourishing condition. Queen Alexandra Circle, No. 136, will hold a concert on Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th, in the S.O.E. Hall. A committee is preparing a choice programme of vocal and instrumental music. To all those who attend a very enjoyable evening is assured.

SPORTING NEWS

Great Game to be Played; Strathconas vs Norwood

Exhibition Game Between Fastest Teams in the City League—Norwood Has Chance to Meet Champions—Strathcona-Bridgenorth Game Declared Off.

Strathconas will play two exhibition games with Norwood in the near future. As it is just a question as to which is the best team of the two, the match should be a very fast one. Although earlier in the season the Straths defeated Norwood by 9—5, it is the opinion of many that the boys in green and white would give the champions the run of their lives when the two teams meet. When the Straths trimmed Norwood the latter were by no means in the shape they are now, and by their defeat of the High Lifes last night by 10—6, proved that they are a top notch aggregation of puck chasers. The Straths won from the High Lifes by 8—6, and from the scores it would seem that there is little to choose between them and Norwood. The record crowd of the season should be present to see the tussle, which will be the premier one of the season. Particulars as to the date will be given later.

The game between Bridgenorth and the Strathconas has been declared off.

Curlers Played Through Storm

Interesting Game Between Two Picked Rinks Yesterday

It was beef, not blood, that the curlers were playing for yesterday. A rink skipped by R. Hicks, defeated a quartette skipped by R. Neill, the score being 18—15. The match was played for a quarter of beef, to be donated to the Children's Aid Society. The rinks were as follows;

A. Webb.	A. McIntosh
A. Moore.	J. B. Knapman
C. N. Brown.	T. Brightman
R. Neill, Sk.—15.	R. Hicks, Sk.—18

Another match between the same rinks is being played this afternoon for a hundred-weight of flour, to be given to the Children's Aid Society.

LOCALS WIN THE ONTARIO CUP

Good News From Peterborough Curlers at Toronto

Word was received from Toronto today that the Peterborough curlers had won the Ontario cup. The two local rinks played Orillia yesterday afternoon and won out after an exciting match. This morning they defeated the opposing rinks and captured the Ontario cup. It is not known who their opponents were to-day.

The curlers will be home to-night weather and trains permitting.

NO LICENSE REDUCTION AT LINDSAY

Town Council Votes Down Proposal to Introduce By-law to Reduce Licenses

Lindsay, Feb. 3.—Memory must revert to some notable occasion in the days of ward politics and rivalry of factions in order to match the crowd of citizens present at last night's meeting of the town fathers. The chamber was packed to the doors by advocates of temperance, hotel men and their supporters, the former largely predominating—perhaps because the word had gone forth that an imposing show of strength might help the cause on the particular occasion. A number of ladies appeared among the advocates of temperance, and in this respect the latter enjoyed an unique advantage, because no member of the fair sex lent gracious countenance to the cause of the liquor men. Fully 50 young men were marshalled into the chamber by Messrs. Cook and Thompson, of the Y.M.C.A., and Rev. Dr. Bishop, pastor of Cambridge street Methodist church, and Rev. G. R. Welch, of the Baptist congregation, were well to the fore.

Mayor Begg and all members were present. The minutes of last meeting were read by Clerk Knowlson, and on motion were confirmed.

After a deputation headed by Rev. Mr. Welch, had addressed the Council Ald. Smale, seconded by Ald. Calvert, moved that leave be given for the introduction of a by-law to reduce the number of tavern licenses.

A vote was then taken, the rule govering the case precluding any discussion. The show of hands was as follows;—

FOR BY-LAW.
Ald. Smale,
Deputy-Reeve Eyres,
Ald. Rea,
Ald. Campbell,
Ald. Calvert—5.

AGAINST BY-LAW.
Ald. Dobson,
Reeve G. Jordan,
Ald. W. Jordan,
Ald. McGeough,
Mayor Begg—5.

Mayor Begg—"I declare the motion lost."

The temperance people gasped, the hotel men smiled and looked tickled.

The American Hotel at Gananoque was damaged to the extent of $2,000 by fire last night.

Local Man Sprang One That Could Not be Beaten—The Storms in Those Days

The present storm is a comparatively insignificant one to those they had in days gone by. This morning four wayfarers from Western Ontario, who are stalled here, were talking with a local business man concerning the blockaded condition of the railway lines, and told of the almost unparalleled tie-up of the traffic.

The local gentleman in question blandly remarked, "Yes, it's rather bothersome, but as I was saying to my wife this morning, it used to be really exciting when the horses feet got tangled up in the telephone wires in the days when there were real storms. Of course"—but the rest of his remarks were lost in the blizzard.

GOOD WORK OF RESTAURANT

About sixty people are having their wants supplied at the Children's Aid relief restaurant. This number represents 15 families. Tickets have been issued and may be obtained from the secretary of the Children's Aid Society, Mr. Goodwill at the law office of Roger, Bennett and Goodwill, Water street; Mr. P. Campbell, the treasurer, at the Bank of Toronto, or Mr. George Cochrane, the agent of the Society.

If any persons wishing to give clothing or food to the poor in the city will leave their addresses with either of the above mentioned three officials their contributions will be called for. Communications may be made either by 'phone or postal card.

Contributions are being received in generou squantities and the officers of the Society desire to express their sincere thanks for the same.

Queen Alexandra Circle to Hold One in Near Future

The regular meeting of Queen Alexandra Circle, A.O.F., was held last night. In the absence of C. Companion, Mrs Head occupied the chair. One candidate was duly initiated into the Circle. The auditor's report was read, which showed the Circle to be in a flourishing condition. Queen Alexandra Circle, No. 136, will hold a concert on Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th, in the S.O.E. Hall. A committee is preparing a choice programme of vocal and instrumental music. To all those who attend a very enjoyable evening is assured.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" SAVED HIS LIFE

Mr. Dingwall was Superintendent of St. Andrews Sunday School in Williamstown for nine years and License Commissioner for Glengarry — and Tax Collector for Charlottenburg—for fourteen years continuously. Read how strongly Mr. Dingwall comes out in favor of "Fruit-a-tives."

Williamstown, Ont., April 5th., 1907.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the almost marvellous benefit I have derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives." I was a life long sufferer from Chronic Constipation and the only medicine I ever secured to do me any real good was "Fruit-a-tives." This medicine cured me when everything else failed. Also, last spring, I had a severe attack of bladder trouble with kidney trouble, and "Fruit-a-tives" cured these complaints for me, when the physician attending me had practically given me up. I am now over eighty years of age and I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives" for Chronic Constipation and bladder and kidney trouble. This medicine is mild like fruit, is easy to take, but most effective in action. 147

THE LICENSE LAW

"At the meeting of the Quarterly Official Board of Charlotte street Methodist church on Tuesday evening last a resolution of the appreciation of the Board was passed to the local Licence Inspector, Mr. Joseph Stewart, and to the police authorities for their vigilance in seeing that the liquor laws are kept."

This extract from our news column of yesterday is very gratifying but it is only what might be expected. Good work will always be appreciated. The Inspector, the police and the License Commissioners, Messrs. Morrison, chairman, H. Leboun and Jas. Kendry are all concerned in maintaining the supremacy of the license law and its impartial administration. A sense of security and confidence on this part of the community has succeeded the former dissatisfaction inspired by the methods employed under the late Ross government. Nothing has such a bad effect upon the moral fibre of a municipality as a careless, lax or improper enforcement of laws affecting public conduct.

A BAD BUSINESS

The returns for the Port of Montreal for the season of 1907 show a remarkable decrease in the number of packages of butter exported. Compared with 1906 there is a decrease of no less than 294,627 packages and compared with 1905 of not less than 506,678 packages. Had prices not increased abroad, which may of course be only temporary, our farmers would have received a most serious blow. As it is we can only wonder what is likely to happen. Canadian farmers have suffered a loss of over 10 millions of dollars in the last two years from this source alone. The business of the country both at home and abroad is being badly handled. The soup-kitchen period is returning. We can only pray that the gloom of 1878 will not follow.

WHY NOT?

In answer to a question put by the Review as to why the Liberal convention of West Peterborough, was not being called the Examiner exclaims or rather hints that the Liberal-Conservative convention lately assembled was characterized by "bribing delegates," and "knifing rivals." Both these statements are unfounded as of course everybody knows. But the joke of it all is that such a charge should be made by such a charger.

The details of such actions are apparently familiar to the Examiner and for well known reasons. However it does not specify and therefore will continue free to exercise its lurid imagination. As a matter of fact our contemporary knows perfectly well that its statements are not true but in politics especially it has always allowed itself a pretty free hand. That part of its comment which comprises "back-door" and "backstairs" references in it and is intended to be fatal will not scare anybody that has graduated from the ranks of childhood.

THE YOUNG CONSERVATIVE CLUB

The Young Conservative Club, of Peterborough, has the largest and most attractive quarters of any political club in Canada. This claim may not be allowable if the "rich" clubs of the cities are taken into consideration but it certainly is allowable if we compare the local quarters with any other club whose fee is so low or even approaching it. It is under the management of most capable men and ought to be patronized liberally by all who are interested in the Conservative cause. There is nothing stiff or formal about it and men from the country and strangers to the city are especially invited to its comfortable rooms, and are cordially welcomed at all times. The season of entertainments is now beginning and promises to be one of exceptional interest. The rooms are also the centre of political information and conversation especially now that an election is in sight. Join and attend.

THE BALANCE OF TRADE

In the past five years the balance of trade has gone against Canada to the tune of 291 millions of dollars. The Liberal press scouts the idea as usual of this being a bad thing for the country which is the same thing as to say that if a man spends 25 per cent more than his income he is doing well. On such a basis an extravagant wife is almost a necessity to a man. It is true that the household may revel in the joys of a grand piano that fine frocks may adorn the persons of the lady members of the family, that good wines may garnish the cellar. But what is all this without money to pay for it. In private life it means the bailiff. In national life it means hard times and much tribulation. Two hundred and ninety-one millions of cash disappearing from Canada, will with the fatuous policy of financing the G.T.P. just about ruin this unfortunate country. The increase of trade is so trifling in comparison with that of all other civilized countries in the whole world that New Zealand alone excepted, our rate of trade increase is the lowest anywhere.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Our esteemed contemporary of the Liberal persuasion declares that the Review is its "back-door contemporary" acting under "backstairs' inspiration. Doubtless this is witty, but is it kind? We have to make our living like other people but how are we to do it if we are to be annihilated (at regular intervals) in this way?

"Times change and we change with them," as the adage runs. Forty years ago at this season snow shoe races were held on Little Lake. A "carnival of sports," as it was called, was held lasting for several days, and ending in a jambouree. Jambouree, however in those days was a form of high class entertainments made up of readings, recitations, etc., in the town hall, with perhaps a little whiskey. Nowadays the same people would be "at home" from five to seven with refreshments. Formerly they were never at home. Life was a free-and-easy. But we have improved upon all that.

The Examiner charges us with "taffying" Ald. Phelan. We plead plead guilty to paying honor where it is due. 1907 was characterized by one attack after another by our contemporary on City Council, Board of Trade, School Board, Fire Brigade, and in fact every institution it could see to hit. At last it brought up against the town pump with a rush. We do not intend to follow the Examiner's example hence it attacks the Review also. We can stand it. Mosquitoes are never very troublesome in this latitude.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our deep gratitude and heartfelt appreciation to the many friends who so nobly and kindly ministered to our comfort during the severe sickness and last hours of the beloved husband, son, and brother, who by their unnumbered acts and words of sympathy, helped brighten the burden of our grief. We feel especially grateful to our beloved pastor Rev. W. T. Harrison and to all who so bravely helped to bare the strain in our hour of grief. We all wish in this way to personally thank you and pray that God's richest blessing may be granted to each one.

What is Being Accomplished By the Dominion Observatory

Interesting and Instructive Address by Dr. King of Ottawa, the Government Astronomer, Before the Local Branch of the Royal Astronomical Society Last Evening.

Only a fairly large number of people were present last evening in in the Y.W.C.A. hall to hear the astronomical lecture by Dr. King, L. L.D., of Ottawa. The stormy and extremely disagreeable night prevented many from attending who otherwise would have attended, but those who were fortunate enough to be present, heard a forceful and instructive address on the workings of and the observatory in general, at Ottawa. Dr. King kept his audience interested throughout his discourse and conveyed to them much valuable information on the science of astronomy.

The president of the local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society, Rev. Dr. Marsh, occupied the chair at last evening's gathering, and introduced the speaker, who, he was sure it afforded the society a great deal of pleasure to welcome. Dr. King was also honorary president of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, and as Dr. Marsh stated, the society were highly honored to have a visit from so distingued a gentleman.

Ald. Geo. Elliott, on behalf of Mayor Rush, who was unavoidably absent, welcomed Dr. King to Peterborough. The city was pleased to have a visit from the Government astronomer, and hoped that he would enjoy his stay here.

Dr. King on rising to speak, was given an ovation. Commencing he referred to the success of the local branch. He urged the Peterborough section to join with other branches and enter enthusiastically into the study of astronomy. Speaking of the observatory at Ottawa. Dr. King said that they had an extensive building built three years ago and fitted up with all modern apparatus It is an astronomical observatory and not meteorolgal. It has nothing to do with the weather. The principal instrument is the equatoriael telescope. It is an excellent instrument and every Saturday night, people are permitted to come and look through it. Astronomers are present who answer any questions persons desire to ask. Dr. King went on to explain the different attachments to this instrument and the several purposes it served. The sun is photographed each day in order to ascertain the number and area of sun spots.

Dr. King also spoke of the meridian circle, which had an object glass six inches in diameter for the determining of the right ascension and declination of stars. At some length, Dr. King spoke of the work done at the observatory. The building has a fine library, containing all the best works on science. There is also a workshop where instruments are made and a photographic establishment where all the photographs taken are developed.

Speaking of the surveying that has been done in the past and now being carried out by the Government, Dr. King said that he had been a member of several international boundary commissions, among them the commission which settled the boundary between Alaska and Canada. The 141st meredian which is the boundary line is now being surveyed, the line being marked by bronze monuments, which are fitted in concrete foundations or in the rock. It will take two or three years to complete this work. The locating and marking of the boundary line (the 49th parallel) between Canada and the United States, between the Pacific coast and the Rocky mountains is also being carried on at the present time under the direction of Dr. King's department. The marking of the boundary line between the two countries in the vicinity of the State of Vermont, is also in progress now. The boundary line at that point is the 41st parallel of latitude. It was originally marked over sixty years ago, but it has been found necessary to have the work done again as many of the original monuments have become obliterated.

After Dr. King's interesting address Sheriff Hall rose to move a vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening, and in doing so referred to the great pleasure with which he had listened to the lecture. He had learned a great deal and was sure that those who were not present had missed a great treat.

Col. Miller in a few well chosen remarks, seconded the motion, which was unanimously carried. Messrs. G. M. Roger and T. A. S. Hay also referred to the excellent address and expressed their appreciation of Dr. King's visit to Peterborough.

Dr. King acknowledged the vote of thanks and wished the society much success. The meeting then adjourned.

Labor Conditions in This City At the Close of Last Year

Report of Local Correspondent of the Labor Gazette —Wages of Lumbermen Were Reduced—Not Much Work for Unskilled Workmen.

The January number of the Labor Gazette contains the following report of conditions at Peterborough from the local correspondent, Ald. W. J. Johnston:—

Work in general for the past month has been fairly active, considering the season of the year and the large number of workpeople that have come to reside in the city during the past summer. A large number of families from Great Britain have recently taken up their residence here; they are principally labourers. Work for that class has been somewhat dull, and many of them are in reduced circumstances. The cordage works, after being shut down for general repairs has started again with one hundred hands; this number, in a few weeks' time, will be increased to about 200. The total value of the building permits issued during the year amounted to $767,546.00, divided as follows:—In April, $2,425; 132 in May, $538,635; 42 in June, $55,678; 21 in July, $26,790; 36 in August, $18,690; 53 in September, $422,370; 28 in October, $78,643; 8 in November, $8,325, and 4 in December, $1,990. Some of these structures will not be completed until next year. The Peterborough Canoe Company is making 100 toboggans and is also very busy on canoe work. Curtis Bros. closed the season after an output of 4,200,000 bricks, their largest output for any one season. Heavy shipments of live stock took place during the month, and local dealers were very busy. Work on the Collegiate Institute is being hurried, but work on the construction of the armouries, Normal School and Roman Catholic church is stopped until the spring. The Christmas trade was exceptionally good, and business of all kinds exceeded that of any former year. Activity prevailed in commercial circles, and wholesale and retail trade was never better. Wages remain unchanged.

CONDITION OF LOCAL INDUSTRIES

Agriculture. — Agricultural work was somewhat quiet, as is usual at this time of the year, farmers being employed in hauling produce to the market.

Fishing.—Dullness prevails.

Lumbering.—Activity was the rule. Lumber dealers have reduced wages from $35 to $26 per month. A large number of men have left the camps and will not work at the reduced rate. It is not anticipated that there will be any difficulty in replacing the men that left, as a great number are out of employment. All the men that remained in the camps will be paid at the rate of $30 to $28, per month and any new men going at the rate of $18 to $20 per month.

The Peterborough Lumber Company output for the season amounted to 7,000,000.

Manufacturing. — Industrial establishments were active.

Mining.—Dull conditions prevailed.

Railroad construction and employment.—Work was confined to general repairing and keeping the track and equipment in good order.

CONDITION OF PARTICULAR TRADES.

Building.—Carpenters and joiners, plasterers, painters and plumbers were active, but dullness prevailed with bricklayers, masons, lathers, gas and steam-fitters, stonecutters and builders' labourers.

Metal, engineering and shipbuilding. —Activity prevailed with iron moulders, iron workers and helpers, machinists and engineers, brassworkers, and blacksmiths, shipworkers, sheet metal workers and horseshoers, while electrical workers and jewellers were busy, and boilermakers found employment dull.

Printing.—December has been a good month; work during Christmas week was never better.

Clothing.—Journeymen tailors were active; garment and boot and shoe workers busy, and hat workers dull.

Food and tobacco preparation.—Bakers and confectioners, butchers and meatcutters were busy, cigarmakers, and tobacco workers active, and icehandlers dull.

Leather.—Harness and collar makers were active.

Miscellaneous.—These trades were busy.

Transport.—All branches of railway employment were exceedingly busy.

Steamboat men, carters, draymen and teamsters found employment dull, but active conditions prevailed with draymen and street railway employes.

Unskilled.—Employment for this class was scarce.

DISTRICT NOTES.

Work throughout the district consisted of chopping cordwood, threshing and hauling to market different kinds of produce, the price of which remains much the same, as stated in former report, while a slight reduction in the price of wheat, oats and barley. Cheese factory operations are suspended for the winter months. A profitable season was reported.

Nogey's Creek.—A new dam, eight feet high and 54 feet long, has been completed. It has a slide constructed specially for running logs.

Lindsay.—A new wheel factory has begun work, employing 17 hands and turning out twenty set of wheels per day.

Lakefield.—The Cavendish Lumber Company reported an output of 17,000,000 feet.

LOCAL OPTION

The Minden Echo says:—Local option dryness is becoming quite popular, and as it requires no irrigation, and saves to many a family more than the price of their flour each year, will probably reach our town by-and-by. It appears to be coming via Coboconk and Kinmount.

BOOK REVIEWS

Professor Watson, of Queen's University, Kingston, one of the great Kantian scholars of the world, has an article in the Quarterly for March upon "Christianity and History." It deals with, more particularly, the higher life. It marks, we think, a desire for a return to love rather than criticism as the goal of faith. From so authoritative a source an opinion such as this must have great weight. We have not space to describe the article as we would like. One quotation must, therefore suffice:—

"It is therefore with peculiar satisfaction that he (the educated man of to-day) hears a scholar of the first rank (Harnack) say that no matter what the results of Biblical criticism and historic investigation may be, or in what vagaries of speculation metaphysicians may indulge, Christianity, as essentially life in the Eternal cannot be affected by the changing fashions of the age." We can see what is in store for us therefore in Prof. Watson's new work, "the Philosophical Basis of Religion."

Municipal Control of Some Utilities

Subject Dealt With at Last Night's Meeting of the Mock Parliament

The municipal control of public utilities, which are monopolies, such as gas works, electric lighting systems, street railways and telephones, was the subject under discussion at last night's session of the Y.M.C.A. Mock Parliament.

The attendance was not as large as was expected on account of the unfavorable weather, but a most interesting and profitable meeting was held.

The entire evening was devoted to the second session of the Mock Parliament. The telephone bill which was to have been introduced by the Government at this session was withdrawn and in the absence of the Minister of Public Works, the following resolution was introduced in a very able and forcible manner by the leader of the Government;

"During the past year many petitions have been received by this House praying that extended powers be granted to municipalities. Be it resolved, that this parliament assembled do hereby affirm themselves in favor of extended powers of control being given to municipalities, provided that such extensions be limited to public utilities, which are natural monopolities, such as gas works, electric lighting systems, street railways and telephones.

"That legislation be introduced by the Government at an early date dealing with the matter."

Before this was considered by the House several important questions were asked by the opposition members and replied to by the different members of the Government.

In introducing the resolution the Premier dwelt in detail with the advantages derived from the municipal control of these utilities, and the success of municipal control in other countries, bringing out many strong and interesting points in support of his contention. The resolution was strongly opposed by the leader of the opposition and his colleagues who brought forward many facts and figures in support of individual control. The objection put forward by some of the opposition speakers did not meet with the approval of the Government who continued to pass comment and interrupt the speakers, and they had to be called to order by the Speaker.

Mr. Hodgson, critic of the society, in summing up the debate, said he was well pleased with the manner in which the question had been handled by the members and reviewed the speeches of the different speakers and complimented the society on its steady progress. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, February 19th, when the last session of the Mock Parliament will be given. A bill relating to the labor question will be brought in by the Government. All young men interested should be on hand and hear this important question dealt with. The Parliament will dissolve at the next meeting and the regular programme will be continued.

ZAM-BUK CURES PILES

NO RETURN OF TROUBLE

This distressing complaint is successfully dealt with by the Zam-Buk treatment. The agony of Piles is as excruciating as the disease itself is weakened and every sufferer should lose no time in giving Zam-Buk a thorough trial. Zam-Buk subdues the pain, allays the inflammation and enables rest and comfort to come to th worn-out sufferer.

Mrs. E. Boxall, of 75 Scott St., St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"I consider it my duty to write of the benefits derived from using Zam-Buk. For some months I was a constant sufferer from bleeding piles. I had used a great many ointments but got no relief until I had tried Zam-Buk. It cured me and I have had no return of the trouble. Since my cure I have advised others suffering with a similar complaint to use Zam-buk, and in each instance have heard satisfactory reports."

Zam-Buk also cures cuts, burns, scalds, ulcers, ringworm, itch, barber's rash, blood poison, bad leg, salt rheum, abrasions, abscesses and all skin injuries and diseases. Of all stores and druggists 50 cents box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, post-paid for price. 3 boxes for $1.25.

Stole Box of Finnan Haddie

From Front of Porter's Delicatassen—Man Across Road Noticed Theft

Sometime between a quarter to six and six o'clock last night, a box of finnan haddie was stolen from the front of Porter's Delicatassen. Mr. Porter saw the box of fish at a quarter to six, and went he went out again at six it was gone. A gentleman who was standing across the road in the doorway of one of the local stores, witnessed the act, but was not aware at the time that it was a theft. If the stolen property is returned no action will be taken, but in case either the fish or the money in payment of them are not forthcoming at once, Mr. Porter will be under the painful necessity of prosecuting the guilty person.

FOOLED THE BOOK AGENT

Young Man Saves Dental Friend From Further Trouble by Masterly Stroke

By a masterly stroke a local young man a few days ago saved one of his friends, who it may be stated, incidentally is a dentist, from the grasp of a book agent, who was making it rather uncomfortable for the man who wields the forceps. Entering the dentist's office on a friendly call the young man saw that his friend was endeavoring to ward off a book agent who with soft language and bindings of leather, softer than the language was endeavoring to effect a sale. Wishing to get his friend away from the clutches of the man with the sample bindings the caller, holding his hand to his cheek and moaning with pain, made his way into the dentist's chair. The professional man was startled for a moment at his friend's troubles, but quickly realized the situation and fell in with the plan. He bid the book agent a hasty good-day and proceeded to look after his patient. As soon as the agent's footsteps could no longer be heard, a hearty laugh followed and the dentist expressed his gratitude to his friend for the good turn he had done him.

Snow Ploughing Being Well Done

Better Than Previous Years Despite Numerous Storms

A prominent citizen this morning paid a compliment to those in charge of the snow ploughing on the streets. He said that the work was being better done this year than ever before although not for years had storms been so numerous or such a large quantity of snow to be handled. There have been few compliments and the ratepayers generally seem well satisfied. Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works, deserves credit for the efficient manner in which the work is being done.
